THOMPSON BOY, 16, KILLED BY TAXICAB

Jerome Johnson Injured Fatally Tuesday Night On Highway Near Frankfort

Jerome Johnson, 16, of Thompson, was instantaneously killed about 11:30 p. m. Tuesday night on the highway between Frankfort and Elberta when he was struck by a taxicab as he was walking on the highway with a girl companion.

Young Johnson had gone to Frankfort to obtain employment on the Ann Arbor ferries and was to have reported for work on No. 6 Wednesday morning. Authorities who investigated the accident said that the boy and his companion were walking in the middle of the road and that the driver of the cab did not see them until too late to avoid hitting them. The girl, also injured, will recover. Johnson suffered a broken neck and other injuries.

The cab driver was absolved of any blame for the accident. Born Sept. 13, 1929, in Thompson, Jerome was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Archie Johnson and since the death of his parents had resided with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Johnson at Thompson. He had completed his freshman year in Manistique high school and was to have been a sophomore in the fall.

He was a member of St. Francis de Sales church. Survivors are two sisters, Gertrude and Doris Ann; one brother, Carroll, his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Johnson, all of Thompson; his grandfather, John Facetty, of Muskegon; and several other uncles and aunts and several other cousins.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Francis de Sales church, the Rev. H. J. P. Scheyers officiating. Prior to the services the body is lying in state at the Morton funeral home.

Brazilian Paint

In the Sao Paulo area in Brazil, drying oils for paint manufacture are obtained almost 100 per cent from domestic sources. Lined oil, the chief oil of this group, is obtained in adequate quantities from the southern Brazilian state of Rio Grande do Sul, where it is expressed from flaxseed produced in that region and imported from Argentina. Castor beans for the production of castor oil, which also is used in modern paint manufacture, are available in abundance in the state of Sao Paulo as well as throughout Brazil. Outlets oil is supplied by the northern Brazilian states. Adequate amounts of tung oil are obtained from plantations in the states of Parana and Rio Grande do Sul. Fish oil and soybean oil are little used in Brazil, although they are important materials for American paint, varnish and lacquer manufacturers.

Permission Given To C-C To Erect Information Sign

Permission to erect an information sign on Triangle Park was granted to the Manistique-Schoolcraft chamber of commerce at the meeting of the city council Tuesday night of last week.

The request was voiced by Fred Heltman who explained that while the chamber had not agreed to erect such a sign, the matter would be discussed by the chamber after city approval had been received.

The proposed sign would be of rustic construction. The general design and location of the sign must be approved by the city manager before work is undertaken, the council decided.

IS MEDICINE DESTROYING ITSELF?

★ Things dramatic capture the imagination, sometimes to the point of distorting the perspective. This is as true in medicine as in other fields. The sensational results with sulfa drugs and penicillin are examples.

Less dramatic, but responsible for saving uncounted lives, are the broader public health measures. Sewage disposal; swamp clearance; water, milk, and food inspection are but a few of these triumphs.

The physician and the pharmacist have always been leaders in the field of preventive medicine. This fact led James Brice to observe, "Medicine is the only profession that labors incessantly to destroy the reason for its own existence."

The fight, however, is far from won. Diagnosis and treatment of disease are still the primary functions of the physician. The accurate filling of prescriptions is our responsibility as pharmacists.

Appetizing Meal Sells

Appetite and eye appeal sell nutrition to the family. Fruits and vegetables offer varied textures, flavors and bright colors that make a meal interesting. For crisp texture and the most vitamin C, serve vegetables and fruits raw frequently. To keep colors bright, and to conserve vitamins, cook vegetables just till tender, and serve at once. Vegetables cooked in a dingy brown mush are ugly and retain little food value. In planning meals, try to work interesting contrasts, crisp cabbage slaw with baked beans, cranberry sauce with soup, chopped celery with peanut butter as a sandwich filling. Avoid serving all watery vegetables at a meal or more than one starchy vegetable. Garnishes give food eye appeal and flavor accent. Try parsley, watercress, green pepper, pickle, a dash of paprika. But color of foods themselves contribute, like the bright crimson of tomatoes on a cool bed of salad greens.

George Stephens, Ann Arbor superintendent, was named to report further on such a project at the chamber's next meeting.

Outing at Hunters

If you want to always have the pleasant company of a good shooting companion, the pleasure of shooting over his dogs and the knowledge of his favorite quail, grouse or pheasant covers, the sincere observance of a few simple rules of field etiquette will turn the trick.

Here are some of them: Don't try to handle your companion's dog and never criticize the dog's faults. Praise his good points; give the dog a chance to retrieve your bird. Look for it yourself only as a court of last resort.

Find out which side your companion prefers to shoot from and take the other side; never shoot at birds flying your companion's way; don't claim birds you are not absolutely sure you killed; give your companion all the breaks.

A never hunt in your friend's favorite spot which he has shown you, unless he is alone or you have his consent; alternate on single shots; above never take a chance. Observe all the rules of safety.

SIGLER WINS

In nominating Kim Sigler as Republican candidate for governor at Tuesday's primary election, the voters of Michigan apparently gave public expression to their belief that corruption has, and does, exist in state politics.

In winning the nomination Sigler defeated three able men, any one of whom would have made a good governor. Voters, therefore, must have been influenced not so much by the relative abilities of the four candidates as by the fact that Sigler has acquired for himself the reputation of being a ruthless foe of evil in state government.

As a "white knight" charging against grafters and bribe-takers, Sigler has some resemblance to Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, except that Dewey is quiet and unobtrusive while Sigler is colorful and dramatic.

In politics, drama is an important factor in getting votes, especially if it is tied to an issue such as Sigler had. Voters like high drama. They worship a showman who has a good case.

Information Is Received Here On Repatriation Of War Dead

Complete plans have been made for the repatriation of this country's 25,000 World War II military and naval personnel buried outside the continental United States, and the Army and Navy will soon write out instructions for dissemination of the bodies, according to information received here by E. M. Moore, commander of the Manistique post of the American Legion.

Under the law families will have the option of:

1. Having the remains returned to the U. S. for final interment in national cemetery near their home or at government expense.
 2. Returning the remains for burial by next of kin in a private cemetery. The government will bear all costs of shipping the body home and pay $50 toward the local burial expense.
 3. Burying the deceased in a permanent American military cemetery overseas.
- Require Current Address
- The War Department asks next of kin of men buried overseas who have changed their address since being notified of the death to write now and give their correct address.
- Caskets will be available this fall and the final shipment of war dead is expected at the end of the year. It is estimated that the bodies will arrive in the United States beginning next year at the initial rate of 1,200 a month, increasing to about 18,000 monthly by the end of 1947. The total cost is estimated at from 150 to 215 million dollars, or about $700 per man.
- Shipment of the deceased soldiers and sailors will be in special funeral vessels. They will be painted white with a wide purple band encircling the ship. Upon arrival the flag-draped seamless steel caskets will be transferred under military escort to 43 redistribution points in special funeral trains composed of converted hospital coaches. The bodies will then be forwarded to places of burial.
- Dr. Tucker Has Information
- Next of kin of Schoecraft county war dead desiring any further information on the government's plan of repatriating the war dead may consult Dr. A. R. Tucker, local American Legion service officer. Dr. Tucker has been furnished with full details of the whole project.

Jap General Dies at Dawn

VEN BULLETS CRACK from British rifles in the long shadows of early morning, and the hooded head of Lieutenant-General Fukuda Shempel slumps on his chest as he pays the price for his war crimes. The spot on Changi Beach, Singapore, where the Jap general died, was not far from where an Australian prisoner-of-war, sentenced to death with another Australian after trying to escape from Changi Jail, and twice shot in the arm, had, with a tank, butchered his life. Ten Australian servicemen were among the witnesses of Shempel's death at the hands of the British and heard his last words: "Barasai."

High Valuation Of Cut-Over Land May Prove Unwise Act

"The heavy cutting of virgin and second growth timber in northern Michigan may cause a serious wave of tax delinquency and an increase in public 'one-ships,' declares Paul A. Herbert, head of the forestry department of Michigan State college.

The large scale cutting of merchantable timber during the war and at this time should materially lower the assessed value of the land from which the timber was removed, the forestry head points out. This may seriously affect the tax base of some townships, unless other values appear to replace the timber. This usually cannot happen immediately, according to Herbert.

"If the assessor, in an effort to keep up his tax base so that the tax rate need not be raised, does not lower the value on land when the timber is cut, owners will find it difficult to pay future taxes," Professor Herbert declares.

The true value of most of the newly cut-over land in northern Michigan is not the inflated value at which single descriptions are selling for reversionary purposes, Herbert maintains. If an assessor persists in so evaluating the bulk of cut-over forest land, he will increase tax delinquency, actually reduce tax collections, and ultimately remove the land from the tax rolls entirely, he predicts.

"Careful administration of the tax law can head off the wave of tax delinquency that followed the last war, and prevent more land from going into public ownership because of the management of taxes," the forestry head concludes.

MOTHER NATURE KNOWS BEST

WHAT'S LAND SUITED FOR?

Nature has the answer. Sometimes man has ignored Nature, and has tried to use land in ways for which it is not suited. Sometimes, he has tried to grow cultivated crops on land best adapted for growing trees. Today, forests are reclaiming much of this land, growing our TREES FOR TOMORROW.

The farmer recognizes these differences. He produces annual crops on certain lands. His cattle graze in neighboring pastures. And he grows forest crops on woodland, which is less suited to other purposes.

Farm forests, properly managed, produce continual income as well as supplies of wood needed on the farm. They help reclaim overworked earth, prevent erosion and soil starvation. They are a major source of supply of timber needed for our expanding uses of wood.

You can help provide the trees for tomorrow, which, in turn, will provide your homes, paper, fabrics, plastics.

Follow these simple rules to help KEEP AMERICA GREEN:

RULE ONE: Watch that match! Break it in half before throwing it away.

RULE TWO: Watch that cigarette and cigar. Stamp them out into the earth. Bury your pipe ashes in the soil.

RULE THREE: Watch your campfires. Make sure they are out before you break camp.

Poorly Fitted Shoes Cause Foot Discomfort

Poorly fitted shoes cause a high percentage of foot discomfort, and individuals need instruction concerning the type of shoe which is both practical and good looking. Callouses that eventually develop into permanent corns, always show that tender places of the feet need protection. The cause is poorly fitted shoes, bad positions in standing, weak metatarsal arches, or rough shoe linings. The soft corn between toes crowded together is the result of too narrow shoes. The pain from pressure may be relieved by putting a tiny piece of cotton between the toes. To make a narrow shoe more comfortable, the shoemaker may put the shoe on a last overnight and stretch it at the place where it is too narrow. The next pair of shoes purchased, however, should be larger or have a slightly different last. The feet should be bathed daily and well dried between the toes. Cold salt water will help to relieve very tender, swollen feet. Do not quit until you feel them with an emery board. If the great toes are bent out of position, restore them to health by wearing shoes with a straight inner line. A suitable, well-fitting shoe permits the foot to retain its natural shape without any compression or distortion.

Find Eggshell Quality Inherited Characteristic

Breeding affects eggshell quality. Some hens lay strong-shelled, nonporous eggs that lose little weight on the way to market or in storage while other hens lay thin-shelled, porous eggs that lose weight quickly. Poultry researchers of the agricultural investigator in Beltsville, Md., have demonstrated that eggshell quality is an inherited characteristic. In seven years of breeding investigations they built up a stock of common origin two lines of chickens, one known as the poor-shell line and the other as the good-shell line. Egg-weight loss in the poor-shell line was 60 to 70 per cent greater than in the good-shell line. Eggshell measurements of the poor and good lines showed that shells of the poor line were thinner, more brittle and more porous than shells of the good line. As egg weight is lost the size of the air cell increases and the weight of the egg is lowered. Many poor-shelled eggs are produced in vain because they never reach the consumer.

"This publicity over the years has built up an expectancy on the part of vacation-minded people that is a challenge to the Upper Peninsula and should 'put us on our toes' to serve them," Bishop added. "We now have the opportunity to create a brand of hospitality in feeding and housing these guests which will cause them to return again and again." In spite of the lack of new camps and the restrictions that limit availability of food, millions of Americans will be away from home during the next three or four months on their first post-war vacation. However, travel conditions are ideal this year, with new bus routes in readiness to channel visitors northward. Bishop estimated that approximately 750,000 will visit Upper Michigan between now and the middle of September.
