Except for the annual equalization of real estate and personal property in the control of the townships and the City of Manistique, few important matters came before the county board of supervisors at their two-day equalization session Monday and Tuesday evening.

In addition to setting the county's assessed valuation, the supervisors according to the report of the auditing committee adopted several resolutions, gave permission to the local softball league to purchase house grounds, and on record regarding legislative matters now pending in Congress and state.

The board went on record as approving the Young-Bolt proposal designed to reduce one-sixth of the sales tax revenues to local units of government, adopted a resolution for control of the lamprey eel, a serious menace to lake fishing in this area, and named an election for the year 1946 before congress covering forest practices which they deem to be harmful.

now eyeing the approaching state convention in Detroit July 5 with nervous apprehensions and wonderment. "What next?" is the question.

The Sigler victory can be interpreted in many ways, for political factors were numerous and varied.

Frank Sparks, veteran editor of the Grand Rapids Herald, saw in the returns the fact that Brown "paid the penalty for being a member of an Administration in which there has been corruption in any of its departments."

Howard Nugent, speaker of the house who ran unsuccessfully for lieutenant governor, had a premonition of the voters' unrest. In a conversation with the writer of this column Nugent disclosed that he was gravely disturbed by the widespread impression, existing in the minds of voters everywhere, that conditions at Lansing were "rotten" and that a drastic cleanup was needed.

Richard Cook, editor of the Hastings Banner which championed the Sigler cause, saw in the returns that "the average voter is pretty much of an independent" and hence reacts what appears to be a machine attempt to put over one of its own members.

To quote: "The regular Republican party machine did everything possible to defeat Mr. Sigler. In fact, the people of the state in the closing days of the campaign were treated to the unusual spectacle of high elective officials of the state doing a sort of 'trained seal act' in favor of a candidate."

Cook warned, however, that Sigler has a "man-sized job to do."

Not to be overlooked is the return of Dr. Eugene C. Keyes to the state political picture. Keyes resembles Sigler in many ways. He is an idealist, a crusader, a reformer. He declined to play along with Governor Kelly in the first term when Kelly sought to make the highway commissioner an appointive office. Keyes forthrightly stood caught the public fancy, and the governor went down in defeat on this legislative issue.

This time, however, the actual figure was less—approximately $35,000 and by Keyes from his own pocket.

Governor Kelly's counsel took Keyes into his confidence during a legislative session. Thus indirectly snubbed by the governor, Keyes takes peculiar delight in the ballot tornado of June 18.

According to Lieut. Governor Brown his defeat was due in part to his dilemma of being caught between two grand juries. The grand jury indicted Ivan Johnson, former Macomb county prosecutor who led the state senate committee investigation of Sigler's expenditures at Lansing. This popularized Sigler in the voters' mind.

The other factor, according to Brown, was the "failure" of the Lansing grand jury to bring out the much anticipated bank indictment prior to the election.

Sigler was all ready and primed to receive these indictments in mid-January prior to the Frank M. Day trial. Saturday, January 12, was to have been the big day, the recess declaration, however, Sigler decided to wait until after the M-Day trial. Then came the Jean Johnson senatorial investigation, Sigler's ouster as prosecutor, and his hold declaration of candidacy which this column predicted prior to the formal entry.

As we pointed out last week, the primary returns left many deep scars in the Michigan Republican party. If the Sigler cleanup progresses with a second repudiation of the Kelly administration, the July 3 convention, temporary scars could develop into an open wound.

The changing picture at Lansing makes one thing sure, at least. Michigan is due to witness a cultural, intellectual, old-fashioned, old-fashioned fight next fall. It should be a honey.

For months we've been hoping to present each and every one of you with the new Packards you've ordered, and have been waiting for so patiently. Last fall, the outlook was good. Packard was confident it would double its pre-war output in 1946. (The factory is equipped to turn out far more than that.) Look what has happened! Then came material shortages. Parts shortages. For reasons completely beyond its own control, Packard was able to keep its assembly line moving only nine days in the first quarter of this year.

In the meantime... Our friends have kept calling us up and asking, "Hey! Where's that new Packard I ordered weeks ago?" Many of these are old friends—Packard owners since 'ways back.

But to make life more complicated, everybody seems to want one of these grand new Packards. Over 65% of the people out to buy new Packards are now driving some other make.

Honest, it's gotten so we have to answer the telephone or look our friends in the face. But... Your patience will pay off! One of these days, the shortage of parts and materials is bound to ease up. And when it does, those twin-assembly lines at Packard will really roll.

Anyways, you can depend on this: As fast as the factory ships cars to us, we'll do everything we can to deliver yours at the earliest possible moment.

So, we hope you'll be patient a little longer. We're doing the best we can, and so are the folks at the factory!

For months we've been hoping to present each and every one of you with the new Packards you've ordered, and have been waiting for so patiently. Last fall, the outlook was good. Packard was confident it would double its pre-war output in 1946. (The factory is equipped to turn out far more than that.) Look what has happened! Then came material shortages. Parts shortages. For reasons completely beyond its own control, Packard was able to keep its assembly line moving only nine days in the first quarter of this year.

In the meantime... Our friends have kept calling us up and asking, "Hey! Where's that new Packard I ordered weeks ago?" Many of these are old friends—Packard owners since 'ways back.

But to make life more complicated, everybody seems to want one of these grand new Packards. Over 65% of the people out to buy new Packards are now driving some other make.

Honest, it's gotten so we have to answer the telephone or look our friends in the face. But... Your patience will pay off! One of these days, the shortage of parts and materials is bound to ease up. And when it does, those twin-assembly lines at Packard will really roll.

Anyways, you can depend on this: As fast as the factory ships cars to us, we'll do everything we can to deliver yours at the earliest possible moment.

So, we hope you'll be patient a little longer. We're doing the best we can, and so are the folks at the factory!

Checks Given To 145 Unemployed In This County

The Manistique Office of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission paid unemployment compensation benefits to 145 unemployed people in Schoolcraft county for the week ending June 23.

This figure includes 113 unemployed veterans paid readjustment allowances and 32 industrial claimants paid from the Michigan Unemployment Compensation trust fund. Included in the industrial claimants were four women.

The local office reveals that there were eight who filed initial claims for the week, a decrease of two since the previous week. All who filed were veterans.

The above figures do not include interstate claims filed against another state, nor do they include Servicemen's Readjustment Act benefits.

Many industrial claimants who exhausted their claims filed during the second quarter of 1945 are entitled to additional unemployment compensation benefits under a new benefit year beginning July 1. If their unemployment during the new benefit year claims will increase the total initial claims for the next few weeks, but should not be taken as an indication of further unemployment, it was explained.

The majority of claimants received checks during the week representing approximately half of the total number eligible for unemployment benefits, as such claimants are paid on a two weeks' basis in Michigan.

Veterans' readjustment allowances are paid from a separate fund established by the Federal Government. All industrial claims are paid from the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Trust Fund maintained through contributions of employers covered by the Act. Both funds, however, are administered by the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission through its local offices.

MENACE TO COMMERCIAL FISHING

Commercial fishing in the Great Lakes is seriously threatened by the influx of lamprey eels. Michigan already is filled with these murderous little eels and they also have appeared in Lake Superior.

Commercial fishermen are making frantic appeals to the federal government to do something about the lamprey eel before it is too late. It is difficult, however, to awaken official Washington to the threat facing one of the middle-west's great industries, although some progress has been made during the past few months.

What is needed is an immediate federal appropriation ample enough to finance the job, and the dispatching of experts to the Great Lakes to study and lick the lamprey eel problem. The welfare of thousands of good Americans—and the food supply of many more—is dependent on this action.

July 4th No. 170

This year we observe the 170th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Thomas Jefferson wrote it. Read it and you will see that those so-called "timers" had some pretty good ideas about government, freedom, and independence. . . . Ideas so good that men lay down their lives for them. As we observe Independence Day this year, let's be thankful for our birthright of freedom; let's renew our determination to live by the ideals of democracy.

This bank will transact no business on Thursday, July 4th, Independence Day.
