Protect the Future Homes of America

YOUR FUTURE "ROOF TREE" IS GROWING NOW!

Yes... actually... your home of tomorrow may still be a growing tree.

Our forest lands provide us with the trees which supply the lumber to build our homes. Most of us know that, and value our forests.

Yet we cause more than 20,000 forest fires a year from lighted matches, cigarettes and campfires.

Every 12 seconds around the clock our forests supply us with enough new wood to build a home. From them come our furniture, the many paper products we need, and literally thousands of other useful products.

Keep that wood growing by keeping faith with the forests. Break your matches in half.

Crush your cigarettes into the earth. Draw or completely smother your campfires.

KEEP YOUR "ROOF TREES" GROWING!

COUNTY RESIDENT 54 YEARS PASSES

Mrs. Joseph Tufnell, 71, Dies Sunday At Home Following Long Illness

Mrs. Joseph Tufnell, resident of Schoolcraft county since 1926, passed away at 4:25 a. m. Sunday at her home, 318 Schoolcraft avenue, following an illness of four months' duration. She was 71 years of age.

Mrs. Tufnell was born Elizabeth Boyd in Lisbon County, New York, on April 16, 1875, and came to Thompson 54 years ago from Wisconsin. She was married there to Joseph Tufnell on April 30, 1893, and the couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary three years ago.

She attended the Methodist church at Thompson.

Survivors are her husband; five daughters, Mrs. Ida Miller, Marquette; Mrs. Pearl Anderson, Mrs. Edith Herman, Mrs. Irene Anderson and Miss Merle Tufnell, of Manistique; and seven sons, William Tufnell, Gladstone, Porey, Vern, George, Earl, Elmer and Harvey, all of Manistique; 32 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren. Also surviving are four brothers, Dave Boyd, Lena; Wm. John, Calumet; George, Curtis and Thomas Boyd, of Manistique.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 8:30 o'clock at the Morton funeral home, the Rev. G. A. Herbert officiating. Burial was in Fairview cemetery.

Leaving seed trees helps provide new crops of timber for the future. Seeds from these trees can germinate and continue growing only if wild fires are kept out of the woods. Keep our woodlands green and productive.

SOME GOOD NEWS ABOUT CANCER

Approximately one in four of the 158,000 lives lost each year in the United States from cancer could be saved if the knowledge already in existence could be made available to all—assuming that the knowledge is acted upon promptly. Here are the danger signals:

1. Any lump or thickening, especially of the breast.
2. Irregular bleeding or discharge from any of the body openings.
3. Any sore that does not heal.
4. Persistent indigestion, especially of the breast.
5. Sudden changes in the feces or growth of a mole or wart.
6. Hoarseness persisting for two or three weeks.
7. Regional pain.

Only in the early stages can cancer be successfully arrested. At the appearance of suspicious symptoms see your doctor at once. For prompt, expert prescription service, call on us.

HUDSON VALLEY SEES ANOTHER HISTORIC FLIGHT—The Army Air Force P-86 Shooting Star, powered by an 149 G. E. jet motor, will trace the aerial route blazed along the Hudson River Valley by Glenn H. Curtiss 25 years ago. The flight was scheduled for the afternoon of June 21 at the opening of the General Electric Company's air research demonstration. Curtiss in his little biplane (above) made the trip from Albany to New York City in two hours and 51 minutes. His average speed was slightly over 50 miles an hour.

The Shooting Star (below), piloted by an AAF officer, covers the same distance in approximately 15 minutes. The route of the new jet plane is from above the City Hall in New York up the valley to the State House at Albany and thence in a two-minute dash to the Schenectady County Air Port. Flight operations of advanced type.

There was much fanfare in Curtiss' pioneering achievement in 1910. He was the $10,000 prize awarded by Joseph Pulitzer for the flight from Albany to New York under 24 hours and competition was made between his flying time and the historic voyages of Henrik Hudson and Robert Fulton over the same route. Hudson's time in his sailing vessel the "Half Moon" in 1609 was five days, while Fulton's run in the steamboat "Clermont" in 1807 was 32 hours.

Uncle Sam Says

None of us will ever celebrate D-Day in the spirit of a gay holiday. On the contrary, June 6 is forever enshrined as a day of sacrifice. Two years ago, on the beaches of Normandy, all our hopes for a peaceful happy future were in the balance of bloody invasion. The best assurance you can make of the first peace-time anniversary of D-Day is to make sure you are buying as many savings bonds as ever. You backed the attack—now back your own future.

CHAMBER TO SEEK MEMBERSHIPS

The Manistique-Schoolcraft chamber of commerce will soon commence its regular drive for 1946 memberships. The basic soundness of the chamber of commerce idea should now be so well realized in Manistique that little sales effort should be needed in inducing business firms, service organizations and industries to financially support the chamber banquet Tuesday night heard re-emphasized the vital functions a progressive chamber performs in community development, in developing new community income, in creating a better city or town in which to live.

While we would rather see the local chamber double with a full-time paid secretary and a part-time budget function very effectively during the past few years with a curbed expense account and a part-time secretary. It should be continued, even on a restricted basis, for there is much work to be done in the years ahead in building a bigger and better and more prosperous city and county.

Artist August Klagstad Writes Reminiscences About Early Days Here

By August Klagstad
 that created excitement when aboard us in a large beam when we went to the shores of America. Everybody was saying to one another, "He's aboard! Have you seen him?" In my childish mind, I thought that God had come aboard the ship, but it proved to be the pilot who was to show us the way up the St. Lawrence river. The vessel docked at Quebec July 1st. From there, we were to board the train. I remember at the depot, we huddled around mother and while waiting for the train, we caught sight of something beautiful on the counter. It proved to be oranges, lemons, etc. The boys were made of white flour and to me they were like cubs, the taste of which I could remember for several years.

At last we arrived at our destination. Racine, Wisconsin, Fourth of July morning. We entered Racine by boat from Grand Haven early before dawn. We had to stay among the lumber piles until daylight. Then we thought we were among Indians, but it was heart shining of firecrackers. But these Indians were pale faced, celebrating the glorious Fourth. I asked if it were the boys, but it was not given a good whipping. At last, we were directed to the home of our father, Hans Olsen Nordstrand.

While in Racine, father heard that laborers were wanted in a lumber camp in Michigan, called Manistique and that free transportation would be given. Another sail-vegg trip on the "Express" brought us to Manistique, located in the Northern peninsula on the North end of Lake Michigan. Father or mother did not take into consideration the kind of town or city they were to live in, only a place where work was to be had. When the vessel docked, a man that could speak our language met us and to show us the way, he took us to a house on the dock on a sawdust road and saw only half dozen unpainted houses, a sawmill and store, mother said to our escort—"I presume the city itself is further up the river." No, he answered, "The city is right here." Floor mother, who had borne up cheerfully all the way from Norway, had to sit down and cry the rest of the day. We soon got over the disappointment and decided to make the best of the situation. There were no railroads in the Northern peninsula or North of Green Bay, at that time, no communication during the winter with the outside world except if one came down almost as a did, picked me up and took me to Lower Michigan. So we went down in this little boat to carve out a living as one of the pioneer families of Manistique, Michigan.

First Years Were Struggle

It was not an easy matter. Wages were low—about $1.50 per day of eleven hours. Cost of food was high. Flour was $16.00 per barrel. The luxuries were supplied by nature and when in season, you could go out and help yourself: hunting, fishing and trapping. In season, the Indians would come to our home to sell blueberries, raspberries, maple sugar and venison. What helped greatly was the lumber company's charging only four dollars per month for rent of the home.

The Company also carried only the necessities, but mother made our clothes, knitted mittens and stockings. She had not spinning wheel which she made possible of by changing wool into yarn. At the store, she would buy denim to make overalls and jackets for the boys. As soon as possible, a cow, pig and some chickens were bought. Thus we managed to live. The families who preceded us, as far as I can remember, were the Kirkgardes, Whitlans, McAffees, Brusses, Ritches and Iversens.

But there was something lacking which in my parents' minds, was really necessary. There was no school, church or even Sunday school when we came to Manistique. My parents were not highly educated, but in Norway, they were taught in the schools for four (four) and five (five) years. The only language mother knew at that time was Norwegian, so she taught us to read Norwegian in order to teach us the Catechism and Bible history. What little Norwegian I now know, I must thank her for. It was not until we got to the schools. It was the earnest desire of our parents that we should fear God and walk in the paths of righteousness. I have often thought: what wonderful women these pioneer mothers were.

A decided turn in the life of Manistique people occurred when the Chicago Lumber Co. was bought by eastern capitalists. Ahjak Weston, a lumberman from Central Park, was appointed chief investor and with others, organized, using the same name of the firm. Others came up from New York, namely: The Golwells, Quicks, Orrs, Bullers and others from the east and began improvements. They tore down the old mill and built a new one. New stores, new residences and a school house were built. These newcomers were called "Yorksters," and when dressed up, were distinguished by their white collars and stiff hats.

A Sunday School was started with a Baptist Superintendent, Martin Quick, who lived near the school house and carried the Melodion under his arm from his home whenever needed. My teacher was a Presbyterian, John Myrsetre, and the first church service held in Manistique was by a Methodist circuit-riding. Before the school house was built, the public school was started in the parlor of a residence. The man who hired teachers at that time could neither read nor write his own name. Such was the condition of school affairs until the coming of the "Yorksters."

PULPWOOD DEMAND STILL CONTINUES

Assurance Given Of High Prices In This Area, Local Committee Announces

Despite a gradual improvement in recent months in pulpwood production, forecasting an early end to wood shortages, the Schoolcraft Victory Pulpwood committee this week declared that farmers and independent wood suppliers would always be able to market their current output at high prices.

"The demands for paper, paper-board and other pulpwood products," the committee explained, "increase each year as American resourcefulness finds new uses for them."

"It has been predicted by authorities that pulpwood consumption in the U. S. may even reach a total of 20,000,000 cords annually within the next five years."

"This figure," the committee pointed out, "compares with an annual consumption in 1945 of slightly more than 17,000,000 cords."

The committee stressed the importance of pulpwood to farmers as "a dependable cash crop which can be grown on land that is not suitable for growing other types of produce."

"And with the need growing for all types of pulpwood products, from paper and paper board to rayon, staple fiber and plastics, there is always assurance of high prices and constant demand for the peeled spruce and balsam produced in this area," the committee added.
