

SIXTY-FIFTH YEAR, No. 7

MANISTIQUE, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, JULY 25, 1946

FIVE CENTS A COPY

The fifth atomic bomb has been dropped with tremendous fury and force in the far reaches of the Pacific ocean.

After the first bomb was exploded at Bikini a few weeks ago and the atomic cloud rose high into the sky, a second test ship, someone was discussing it in front of a sailor who had served on the Pacific fleet.

What the sailor said reflects the attitude that should keep us from this new terror of man. Since the bomb was perfected, only five have been exploded, and an expert says that there are about 100 other bombs destroyed, two cities and a good chunk out of a quarter million people.

So don't belittle the concentration camp built in the atomic bomb. It is a pill of cosmic horror.

The Upper Peninsula convention of the American Legion, which was held last week end, was one of the best and most orderly ever held in the peninsula.

led by an imposing mill structure, many stories high, with a big clock in its tower. It was built about 1900 by the Belding Brothers Silk company and operated steadily until 1931 when it became a victim of the depression and remained idle for nearly nine years.

The Belding mill plant is the new home of a division of the Murray Corporation of American parts. Gibson has a stove factory also at Belding.

Belding is now back on the map. Things are booming.

North of Belding is another enterprising small city, Greenville, with plants making Gibson refrigerators and Federal Mogul trucks. Don Smith, newspaper publisher, reported that Greenville has a labor shortage that local industries hope to double payrolls in the next five years.

Central Sparta, the red flannel home, was selected recently for a branch of the Keeler Brass company of Grand Rapids. Its big industry is the interstate creamery which employs 80 persons, pays them $5,000 a week, and puts $10,000 into the bank accounts of dairy farmers every six days.

Through the courtesy of Cy Johnson, plant superintendent, we witnessed the assembly line production of sweetened condensed milk, of which 250,000 cans are being turned out daily for export overseas. Interstate recently opened up branches at Edmore and Reed City.

Sparta, also in Kent county, has a "million dollar peach belt" but it has several prosperous industries including a branch of the Muskegon Poston Ring company and a plant of the Carnation Milk company, only one of its kind in Michigan. Nearby at Kent City is the Larsen canning plant.

Grocers near Sparta are in clover this summer. Cherries are bringing $300 a ton, or around 23 cents a quart. Pickers earn $1 an hour, rounded up $1.50 a day pre-war. One Sparta grower, a graduate of Michigan State College, netted $2,000 an acre from strawberries on a three-and-one-half acre track.

Up in Newaygo county at Grand is an up-and-coming agricultural center. Nine new buildings are under construction in the business district, thanks to high prices for onions, celery and carrots.

Grand is proud of its fine county building, the gift of heirs of a leading West Michigan lumberman, the late D. W. Spier, who left property in 28 states.

The town of Newaygo on the Muskegon river is the home of a new industry, the Robey Twirle company, making fishing tackle and tennis shoes. It was started by L. L. Robey, former salesman for Skowhegan at Kalamazoo.

Newaygo also has the newly organized Post Frozen Products company and the Newaygo Milk Products company, both financed by Grand Rapids and Fremont people.

At White Cloud, county seat of Newaygo county, is a lumber company which is "going to town" with prefabricated houses. Three rooms and bath for $1,300, so we were told.

Settville is the home of the world's largest canning plant for string beans. It is operated by the Stokely company of Indianapolis. It was advertising for 2,000 women to work five or six weeks.

Traveling northward along the sandy west coast with its succession of lakes, most of them connected to Lake Michigan, we visited Manistowick, Frankfort, Boshart and Charlevoix Hotels and cottages are jammed; it looks like a bumper year for the tourist industry here.

Better wire ahead for reservations if you plan to stay any length of time. We found plenty of cabin facilities for overnight needs.

Conceived by the American Legion and legalized as a holiday by the state legislature with an official proclamation by Governor Harry, "Victory Day" will be celebrated in Michigan, August 14. A number of Michigan towns will hold rousing receptions for World War II veterans. State employees now have ten legal holidays with pay: "Victory Day" will be No. 11.

An eye-witness true story: Recently we were week end guests of Richard "Dick" Fletcher of Bay City at his Roscommon summer place. On a day's canoe trip down the South Branch, AuSable we went by four fishermen, each of whom was eager to get the daily limit of 15 trout. At the South

Through the inspiration of this project, she was led to dedicate her life to Christ. Miss Hayden is now training at Wheaton College (Illinois) for service in the Foreign Missions Field.

Playgrounds Rise from Bomb Havoc

GAUNT, SHATTERED BUILDINGS look down from the background on Coral-street Day Nursery, Lambeth, London, as children chatter and munch away at an open-air meal in summer sunshine. One of a number of such nurseries to rise on the cleared sites of tangled masses of bomb-wrecked rows of houses. It has nurses trained in mothercraft to look after very small Londoners from early morning to sunset. Mothers working a 38-hour week pay 20 cents for the three meals a day and the expert care their children receive. For one of the clothing coupons still necessary in Britain, toddlers under two are given a complete change of clothing every day. Swings, see-saws, rocking horses, dolls—things also still in short supply for Britons—although not available to all the children's lumes, bring laughter back to the home.

Artist August Klagstad Writes Reminiscences About Early Days Here

By August Klagstad
of the Klagstad-Halvorsen Family History

The Indians were of the Chipewyan tribe who lived across the river and some at Indian Lake. They were not wild. Long ago, in the 17th Century, Father Matt had been there and converted them to Christianity. But they still retained some of their Indian customs. The graves were protected with a top covering. On the graves, the Indians would place food as if by the spirits. They went to the "Happy Hunting Ground." In 1885, Father Bangs dedicated a chapel for the shores of Indian Lake which was still there in 1900. They took life with ease, living in houses with little furniture as possible. The men would work for the lumber company one day at a time, at the end of which they would be paid. They would come to work only when the food supply would be depleted. At other times they would hunt and fish. The women would pick berries, make baskets and moccasins and take them to town for sale. Whenever I wanted a box and arrow, I would go over to Indian town with a large apple which came from mother's apple barrel, and offered it as payment. Their chief was Seno Oseawinamakoos. He was a man of intelligence and of many talents. Before there was any doctor or midwife in the community, he would officiate at child births.

I worked for a while in the gunny store and learned the names of things the Indians would buy, so I became quite an Indian agent. One word, I will never forget. It was uttered like a great which meant "yes."

There are times when a simple word will change the course of a life. It was the cutting of my foot while helping father clear land on his homestead. I had cut down one tree and started on the second when I cut my foot. It was then decided that I should go to school the remainder of the winter. There, I discovered I was low on education. It was in a new school building on the site where the present High School now stands. A teacher who graduated from the State Normal School was the principal, Nellie Coleman who later became Mrs. John Mersereau. She introduced me to grammar, a study which I never had before. She was sympathetic and kind. Instead of putting me in the beginning class, she placed me in the advanced class. She spent no efforts to help me catch up with the class.

I then decided on a different course. Instead of a sawmill and lumberjack life, I wanted office work. But it required money to go to school. So we had a meeting—mother and I, and decided that the money I earned in the sawmill would go toward my school. I chose the school at Valparaiso, Ind., because it was the poorest man's college. One day in the fall of 1884, I left home for Valparaiso.

My reminiscences close with my leaving Manistique for Valparaiso. There were not many scenes in Manistique which would excite an artist, but one scene was there, one very fascinating. When I stood on a hill and looked over Lake Michigan, I saw beautiful colors on a clear day. The green of the lake with the blue of the sky united at the horizon and formed beautiful opalescent colors. I have often stood there and wondered what was beyond and in my boyhood fancy, would picture many scenes, usually of a beautiful city, white buildings with the roofs and streets of gold. These pictures would come from the east, upside down, toward island would also appear on the horizon. It was the effect of a mirage. Then later, the boats were right side up. The nearest anything else came to the senses of my boyhood dreams would be the "white city" at the lower end of Lake Michigan in Chicago—the Columbian Exposition of 1893. No World's fair has ever equaled it for beauty and splendor.

"How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood, When fond recollection presents them to view."

Manistique Army Office Announces Campaign For Airborne Unit Personnel

The War Department has directed local recruiting offices to make a special effort to obtain increased enlistments for airborne units. It was announced here this week.

The 82nd Airborne Division now stationed in the United States and the 11th Airborne Division in the Pacific are to be the chief receiving units for such enlistees, according to Captain Walter T. Meyers, commanding officer of the 1st Army Recruiting Station, located at the post office building in Manistique.

Enlistments for these units will be made for a three-year period only. However, anyone interested in joining the Airborne, but who does not desire to affiliate himself with either of these units for a three-year period may join for a lesser period "unassigned."

Captain Meyers further explained that prior to taking the oath of enlistment, the men would be informed that such enlistment does not constitute a guarantee of service for any definite period of time in the area in which the unit for which enlisted is now located. Further, continued assignment to any air-borne unit will be contingent upon the individuals maintaining the required proficiency of the air-borne soldier.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Peterson and two children, of Detroit, are visiting here with Mr. Peterson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson, and with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ray O. Martin.

Mrs. Nick Mincoff has left for Rochester, Minn., where she will receive medical treatment.

It isn't a new thing for General Electric to put more than money into pay envelopes for its employees.

"Job dividends"—these extras that G-E employees get in addition to wages—have a sound business reason. To be successful, a company must be efficient. A man with fewer worries can produce more efficiently, which makes further benefits possible.

Profit-sharing plans, relief and loan plans began over 10 years ago at General Electric. Life insurance for employees, cash for suggestions began over 20 years ago. Pension plans were started 33 years ago. And vacations with pay began 53 years ago.

Every employee has a stake in the future of General Electric. For out of its success—and only out of success—can come further advances in living standards. That is the aim of General Electric, not alone for its employees, but for the public, who gain by new and better products, continuously improved.

Forests are important to every state in the Union, because everybody needs things made of wood, or derived from wood. All our forest lands, in one place, would make a tree 387 miles wide, stretching almost from Atlantic to Pacific. To protect them from fire is a job for all Americans. It's one way to keep our forests perpetually producing the products we use . . . and the jobs we need.
