Highways Key To Developing States' Tourist Industry

Highways are the key to the development of Michigan tourist industry according to "Highway Needs in Michigan," the engineering analysis of requirements to bring Michigan's roads and streets up to date.

The report, recently published by the Michigan Good Roads Federation Highway Study Committee, enumerates Michigan's natural and man-made recreational resources—2,000 miles of shoreline, 11,000 inland lakes, 36,000 miles of rivers and streams, five national forests, 315 million acres of state forests, parks, public fishing and hunting sites, and winter sports areas.

"Highways have opened up many of these resources to recreation seekers and have made possible the development of an industry which is second only to automobile manufacturing in economic importance to the state. Expenditures of tourists, vacationers, and sportsmen in Michigan have been estimated at over half a billion dollars a year," according to the report.

Data Assembled

The following data on recreational travel were revealed in the traffic analysis:

One out of every ten miles driven in Michigan is recreational travel—well over a billion and a half vehicle miles in 1947;

Three-fourths of this recreational mileage is driven by Michigan residents, one-fourth by people from outside the state;

Half of the out-of-state cars on Michigan roads are driven by recreation seekers;

One-fourth of the total travel for the year is rolled up in the vacation months of July and August.

Strait Barometer

Traffic across the Straits of Mackinac is a good barometer of the yearly traffic carried by the State Highway Department ferries across during the summer vacation period. One-fourth of the passenger cars making the crossing are from other states and almost another fourth come from Wayne county. Straits traffic in 1947 set a new high record for more than 500,000 vehicles.

The fact that Michigan issues more hunting and fishing licenses than any other state testifies to the extent and quality of the facilities it offers to sportsmen who spend an estimated $100,000,000 a year on lodging, food, transportation, equipment, and other items.

The number of people patronizing resort hotels and cottages, tourist homes, and roadside cabins runs into millions. Although there has been a sharp increase in the number of these establishments run close to supply. Vacationers maintain 54,000 summer homes in Michigan, and the number of these likewise is rapidly increasing. Over 100,000 children travel to 300 children's camps in the state every year.

Many Areas Underdeveloped

Despite the very considerable volume of recreational travel, Michigan has not taken full advantage of its recreational possibilities. Although some resort districts are crowded to the point of discouraging patronage, there are large areas which are almost wholly undeveloped. Road improvement to provide adequate access is the first requirement for development of these potential recreational resources according to Highway Needs in Michigan.

Graff, a former college tennis star, will again arrange practice periods and serve as advisor to the tennis program.

GILT EDGE BEER

It's the QUALITY FLAVOR that Wins You!

General Motors Corporation, a Michigan concern, has the reputation of being the best managed corporation in the world.

And so when GM announced a two-year contract with the 170 United Automobile Workers, granting an "annual improvement" of 3 cents an hour and 8 cents an hour tied to cost of living, many Michigan employers paid attention. Here was the pacesetter with a new formula for industrial peace.

In a two-day field trip in southern Michigan recently, we talked with a number of employers about costs and what their firms were doing to meet them. Invariably the employee attitude on profits was mentioned as a factor. Cost of living has been slipping upward since sales remain good, profits are declining. Many retailers are wondering what is ahead.

"I'd like to know the answer to this employee question," said one employer. "It does not seem possible for the worker to win better wages perpetually without also inflicting prices."
 "The employee demand for higher wages is stimulated, it now appears, by a belief that the average business is raking in high profits and that any increase can be granted out of profits alone. This is a fallacy, a misconception. I sometimes think the average American is illiterate when it comes to understanding economics."

His petulant remark prompted us to dig into the record.

We find that from January, 1941, to December, 1947, industrial wages went up 84 per cent, while the cost of living rose 69.1 per cent.
 Dividends to stockholders represented about 35 per cent of corporate earnings in 1948. The remainder—65 per cent—went to improve products and services through research and better machines, to replace old plant equipment, and to provide additional working capital sorely needed because of higher wage and material cost.

Did you know that 75 per cent of the nation's post-war plant expansion program was financed out of current and past earnings? Well, such is the case.

Charles F. Kettering, engineering consultant of GM, believes that the GM "annual wage improvement" could be offset by a 2 per cent annual increase in efficiency. Maybe GM can do it. Surely other firms, less well managed, will be unable to follow suit.

Summer H. Slichter, Harvard economist, points out that collective bargaining with its perennial demand for higher wages have resulted in a continual slow rise of prices.

"With prices rising 2 or 3 per cent a year, who would wish to own savings accounts, government bonds or other securities paying 2 or 3 per cent a year?" he asks. Is the ultimate effect of this kind of collective bargaining going to be a gradual reduction in the purchasing power of workers' pensions, savings accounts, life insurance and bonds? Is this going to rob us of any incentive to save? Is there no hope for the widow's son?

 In England where there is a labor government today, unions have been asked by their own government to heed the following: "It is essential that there should be no further general increase in the level of personal incomes without at least a corresponding increase in the volume of production." (White Paper, Feb. 4, 1948.) The same policy could well be adopted over here.

SOCIETY

Engagement Announced

The engagement of Miss Sally Hughes, daughter of Mrs. Gordon W. Hughes and the late Mr. Hughes, to Clement J. Laurion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Laurion, was announced at a luncheon Saturday at the Hughes home on Range street. Mrs. Hughes also entertained a group of young people in the couple's honor at a garden supper party in the evening. Miss Hughes is a graduate of Manistique high school and the University of Michigan and for the past year has been a member of the Manistique high school faculty. Her fiancé, also a Manistique high school graduate, served in the navy for three years, two of them in the South Pacific, during the war. Until recently he has been owner and operator of the Manistique Transit company. Following a July wedding and a honeymoon trip to the west, the couple will live in East Lansing, where Mr. Laurion will enter Michigan State college in the fall.

Bethany Society

The Bethany society of the Zion Lutheran church met last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Carlton Stittall, Oak street, with Miss Evelyn Lofgren as assisting hostess. Featuring the program was a talk by Mrs. H. K. Bundy on the United Council of Church Women. A group of readings were given by Mrs. Elwood Taylor. Refreshments were served later. Guests at this meeting were Mrs. Bundy, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Nellie Peterson, Mrs. Renold Anderson, Mr. Kay Vaitokunas, and Miss Dagmar Thompson.

Bridge Club

Mrs. W. J. Bruley was hostess to members of her bridge club last Thursday evening at the Cayla home on Arbutus avenue. Honors for the evening were won by Mrs. Alvin Nelson, high, and Mrs. A. W. Cockran, second. Dessert was served later. Mrs. W. J. Sheehan was a guest at this meeting.

Bridge Club

Mrs. R. J. Fagan entertained members of her bridge club last Thursday evening following the club's annual dinner meeting at Arrowhead Inn. Honors went to Mrs. Carl Carlson, high, and Mrs. William Helman, second.

Honeymooning Here

Spending a two week honeymoon at the Frank Pavlet cottage, Mrs. Wood and Mr. Wood were seated at long tables decorated with spring flowers and tapers in silver candelabra which came from Germany. A wedding cake centered the table at which Mr. and Mrs. Wood were seated. Guests included Mrs. Wood's daughter, the former Marcella Hanson and Al Gall were toastmasters. Mr. and Mrs. Wood were married July 12 in England. Mrs. Wood is the former Doris Richardson of Durham, England.

Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Wood, who arrived here recently from Archambau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Archambau, of Cooks, became the bride of Gordon Marcella, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray O. Marcella of this city. The Rev. E. H. Berensson performed the marriage service.

The bride's twin sister, Mrs. Martin Goudreau, was her only attendant, and Mr. Goudreau was best man. The bride wore long-sleeved white broadcloth suit, with full skirt and train and light-fitting bodice with scalloped neckline. Her finger ring was fastened to a coronet. She wore a brilliant necklace and earrings to match the gift of the bridegroom, and carried an all-white bouquet. Mrs. Goudreau wore yellow, also full-skirted, and a hand of yellow roses in her hair. Her colonial bouquet was of pink carnations, sweet peas and roses. Mrs. Archambau wore teal blue with white, and Mrs. Martin pale blue with gray accessories. Their bouquets were of mixed flowers. Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner for 30 guests was served at the Martin home on Michigan avenue and a reception was held there from 2 to 4 o'clock. Yellow and white was the color scheme, a large white wedding cake with yellow roses and a miniature bride and groom on the top, papers and an arrangement of flowers predominately yellow and white featuring table decorations. The couple left later on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, New York City, and Washington, D. C., and on their return will reside in Milwaukee where Mr. Martin is employed by the Wisconsin Machine Shop. The bride is a graduate of Cooks high school, and has been employed at the Manistique Light and Power company office. Mr. Martin is a graduate of Manistique high school. They will visit here briefly following their return from the east before going to Milwaukee.

Plan Food Patches For Game Birds On Area Near Casino

To furnish food that game birds of this region may once have obtained on high ranches now abandoned, a conservation department game men are planning several patches on the greatest scale yet tried—40 acres of ryegrass, hybrid corn and peas in four 10-acre fields. The plantings will be made near the department's wildlife experiment station at Casino, and they will be watched closely to see what use game birds make of them, and how significant the size of the plots is for game bird use. Meanwhile, old style food patches still are being planted also. Three of one-quarter acre to an acre have been planted to barley, millet and buckwheat so far this spring.

Fish Are Also Hurt By Forest Fires

Fresh fishermen have a big stake in preventing forest fires, reports L. A. Carter, forester at Michigan State college. He advises that fires require large amounts of oxygen for combustion. Rapidly burning fires sometimes exhaust the oxygen from small streams to such an extent that fish cannot survive. Fires also leave large amounts of ash that is washed into the streams with the first rain. The ash makes the stream so alkaline that fish are killed. Care in building fires, care in smoking, and watchfulness at all times, can help cut the tremendous loss from forest fires, Carter reports.

Vacation Accidents Injure, Kill Many Children, Health Department Office Warns

"Child in the freedom of school let out" and thoughtless in their care, not under with electric wiring or sockets. Do not take pills or medicines just for fun.

Watch For Cars

Watch for cars in your own or your neighbor's driveway. Don't play near sidewalks, or in or near excavations, or near building under construction. Never play with or near a gun or pistol and never point even a play gun at anyone. Give immediate attention to even minor blisters, burns, cuts and scratches.

Expose the skin to the sun at least a few days.

Even the best protected play areas of the state can offer hazards to the health and life of the overzealous youngster.

Michigan's myriad parks, summer camps, playgrounds and picnic areas are crowded each year with serious childhood accidents. Use playground equipment for the purpose for which it was intended; do not use it as a springboard; avoid rough play. Do not run with a pointed object in the hand or mouth. Do not play on or near railroad tracks. Do not touch strange animals and do not tease any animal. Report any animal bite, no matter how small, to your doctor at once. Do not stand under trees or in doorways or go in swimming or bathing in a lake or river. Do not climb on tall poles to which wires are attached or fly your kite near wires. Do not drink water from unknown casks or streams. Refuse all rides and gifts from strangers.

Learn to Swim

There are dangers as well as pleasures in Michigan's thousands of lakes and rivers. Learn to swim in shallow water only at guarded beaches during daylight hours. Never swim alone and never swim in swift water. Do not dive into water of unknown depth or into unfamiliar water which might have rocks or stumps on the bottom. Do not swim until exhausted and do not show off. Wait two hours after eating a heavy meal before you enter the water. Remain seated when aboard small boats. Do not go out in boats in swift current or when a storm threatens.

The vacationing child should have a schedule of rest, work and play, but not too strict a schedule. Don't let the child in on the family worries, or the family squabbles, or the child with a bothered or preoccupied mind, the same as they happen to adults under the same circumstances.

List Admonitions

Streets offer the greatest hazard to Michigan boys and girls. Do not play in or near the street. Watch carefully when you go into the street after a ball or runaway pet. Never run out from between cars or from behind a hedge or getting off buses or street cars. Cross only at intersections, preferably at traffic lights. Walk on the left side of the road and never cycle close to the right curb and have both front and rear lights for night cycling. Do not drive any other vehicle alone until you are thoroughly experienced in its operation and fully acquainted with traffic laws, and then do not race or show off. They all traffic laws, lights and officers. Do not ride with a foolhardy driver, nor with any driver who has been drinking.

The familiar things of home are almost as dangerous to children as the hazards of the streets. Falls, burns, poisonings, poison gas, guns, and cars in drives take the lives of children at their homes. Do not run up and down stairs, lean out of windows, sit on railings or slide down banisters. Keep your toys where you will not fall over them. Use a step-ladder if you must climb. Do not play with electrical appliances nor with electric or gas stoves or furnaces. Never play with matches, fireworks or fire. Do not tinker with electric wiring or sockets. Do not take pills or medicines just for fun.

State's First Flag Day Was In Honor Of French Emblem

Editor's Note: This is one in a series on historical events and historical information in the Michigan Historical Collections at the University of Michigan.

Amidst pageantry and lanterns, Michigan's first Flag Day was held at Sault Ste. Marie, June 14, 1871.

It was the French flag that was honored on that occasion. The Stars and Stripes of the United States which were honored on Flag Day Monday, June 14, did not come into existence until 106 years later on June 14, 1777.

According to the Michigan Historical Collections at the University of Michigan, the 1871 ceremony was held at Sault Ste. Marie. Since then, the honor has been given to the city of Sault Ste. Marie, which was the site of the first celebration.

Redmen Participated

News of the coming ceremony was sent to the 41 Indian tribes in the region. On June 14, dressed in their savage mien, the Redmen gathered on a knoll near St. Mary's River falls to take part in the ceremony with the Frenchmen.

From the stacks of a Mission there, the Indians saw a white procession come towards them. The Frenchmen dressed in the blue and white uniforms and plumes carried from their hats. They waving the French flag of golden lilies on a field of white beneath in somber black robes, and French voyageurs with bright-colored sashes about their waists.

After exchanging greetings, the French proclamation was read and translated for the Indians. A large wooden cross was erected on the spot, and the little band of Frenchmen sang an ancient hymn. A cedar tree bearing the royal arms of France was planted next to the cross.

Raising his sword in his right hand, holding a piece of soil in his left, and speaking in a loud voice, Saint Lussou took possession for Louis XIV of the Great Lakes, Manitoulin Island and all of the other countries, rivers, lakes, and islands bounded on the one side by the Northern and Western seas and on the other side by the South Sea "including all its length and breadth."

The Indians approved and then the French saluted the flag and fired their muskets. The Indians, apparently impressed by such a celebration, whooped their approval. The ceremony ended following a great bonfire around which the French sang a Te Deum, "to thank God on behalf of these poor peoples, that they were now subjects of so great and powerful a monarch."

After the French left, the Indians ripped the coat of arms from the post, and as lead was always scarce, they used it to make bullets, according to Michigan Historical information.

A century later, the British by force of arms took the Great Lakes and the region east of the Mississippi from France, expecting to retain them as parts of their growing empire. But again the posses-ion won by blood and money was only temporary. For 20 years later, by the Treaty of Paris, the area became a part of the infant United States, although the U. S. didn't take it over until 1796.

CATTLE IN COUNTY TO GET TB TESTS

Testing Will Be Done In Upper Peninsula Counties In June, July

During June and July, Dr. C. F. Clark, state veterinarian of the Michigan department of agriculture, reports that testing cattle for tuberculosis will be started in the counties of Mackinac, Chippewa, Luce, Alger, Schoolcraft, Delta, Menominee, Gogebic, Houghton, and Keweenaw. As soon as the work is completed in these counties, other counties in the upper peninsula will be started.

In lower Michigan Dr. Clark states county-wide TB testing has been completed in Livingston and Huron counties. The work will soon be completed in Macomb, and it is expected that Kent county will be finished during the summer.

Michigan became a TB federalized state in 1930 by having less than one-half of 1% reactors on state-wide tests. To remain accredited, county-wide check-testing has been carried on continuously so that all of the state has been covered once every three years. In counties where testing has recently been completed, the percentage of infection has been less than one-half of 1%, thus assuring that the state will continue to be accredited.

Marker On Beaver Island Sponsored By Newspapers

The sole remaining building erected by "King" James J. Strang and his Mormon followers at Beaver Island, will be marked with a historical plaque sponsored by the Michigan Press Association, Inc., in behalf of the newspapers of Michigan and the Michigan Historical Commission in behalf of the state.

Dedication of the plaque will take place Sunday, June 27.

Leslie B. Merritt, of Howell, president of the newspaper group, and Chester Ellison and Dr. Lewis Beeson, president and secretary respectively of the historical commission, will participate in the program.

The building is known as the Old Mormon Printing House. Erected in 1850, it housed the first daily newspaper north of Grand Rapids, the "Northern Islander". The publication suspended following the assassination of King Strang. The sect then disbanded.

A native boulder, set in concrete, is being provided by the Michigan League of Home Dailies. Dr. George Arthur Buttrick, New York City pastor, will speak Friday evening. Kim Sigler has been invited to be a guest at a dinner-dance Saturday evening. Host publisher is Larry Towe, Charlevoix Courier.

Development Of Harmony On Local Levels Urged

Recognition of mutual interests and cooperation among states and communities of the United States is as badly needed today as is cooperation on the international level, Prof. William A. Paton, of the University of Michigan School of Business Administration, believes.

Writing in the May issue of the Michigan Almanac Quarterly Review, Prof. Paton comments that "there is today an unfortunate tendency to exaggerate cleavages, lines of separation. There is a lot of talk about class consciousness, racial cleavages, the farm bloc, clash of interests, the farm bloc, rural versus labor, and so on."

"Both experience and objective analysis show unmistakably that all these parts of our society are interdependent to a high degree," he said. "We must work together in one great enterprise. The problem is one of harmonizing and integrating our superficially different interests and activities."

In political areas, particularly, there is a pressing need for developing cooperative policies, Prof. Paton concludes.

Distort More Federal Power

"There is a distrust of the extension of federal power on the part of the states; there is a great deal of talk of inequalities between states," he explains. "The tendency of the local community to short-sighted in the attempt to protect its special economic interests, real or imaginary, is well known."

Especially serious, Prof. Paton believes, is a "developing mass of statutes and regulations which have their major effect the restriction and harassment of interstate lines." Even local communities are guilty of the same thing, he says, citing the example of a Michigan town which tried to justify an ordinance requiring trucks of certain sizes to stop at the city limits and change their loads to local trucks.

"Each community, each section, each state, has its special natural advantages and disadvantages," the economist points out. "Let us recognize wholeheartedly the basic principle of economic specialization, and develop community and state relationships that will foster and strengthen the advantages of each area."

No Oranges Here

"We don't want to waste our resources trying to raise oranges under glass in Michigan," he said. "We want to buy good oranges from other sections where the raising of such fruit is economically practicable. Meanwhile we hope Michigan will continue to develop its own community and state relationships that will foster and strengthen the advantages of each area."

In political areas, particularly, there is a pressing need for developing cooperative policies, Prof. Paton concludes.

Distort More Federal Power

"There is a distrust of the extension of federal power on the part of the states; there is a great deal of talk of inequalities between states," he explains. "The tendency of the local community to short-

Winkler — low pressure Oil Burner —Never before such carefree heating with so little oil!

Here are the technical reasons why the Winkler low pressure burner makes obsolete all previous standards of low-cost, dependable operations:

Greater combustion efficiency because of constant fuel-air ratio

In a high pressure burner, the amount of fuel entering the combustion chamber is governed by three things:

1. The nozzle size — 2. The pressure applied — 3. The viscosity of the fuel.

Now, in a high pressure burner, the tiny openings in the nozzle change in size because of dirt, carbon or other foreign matter. This changes the nozzle characteristics and accordingly alters the fuel-air ratio.

Oil viscosity changes with the seasons or varies with different grades of oil. Oil thickens as the temperatures become colder, which alters the fuel-air ratio. As a result, the high pressure burner is seldom operating under the conditions for which it was designed or adjusted.

In contrast, the design of the Winkler Low Pressure Burner assures a constant fuel-air ratio, and that is what determines combustion efficiency! The Winkler, therefore, offers definite operating economies and freedom from usual service difficulties.

Exclusive Winkler Nozzle Can't Clog

The holes in a Winkler Nozzle are large—so large that they cannot become clogged with dirt or other foreign matter and changes in oil viscosity have no effect. The rate of oil delivery to the combustion chamber is always the same. In addition, the mixture of oil and air effect a continuous cleansing process. As shown by tests described hereafter, the heaviest or dirtiest grades of fuel will not clog the Winkler Nozzle. There are no filters to change or fine screens to clean in the Winkler Low Pressure Burner.

Even more important, the Winkler burns with perfect efficiency the catalytic cracked oils. This is a great feature, because catalytic oils are high in heat content, and if possible to use them, assure a real operating economy.

MSC Historian To Have Article In American Mercury

"The Lying of the McDonald Boys" is the title of an article by Dr. Richard M. Dorson, associate professor of history at Michigan State college, due to appear in the June issue of the American Mercury.
The article details the story of a Michigan legend centered in Menominee and dating back to 1881. It tells of how the McDonalds were the victims of a particularly ghastly lynching after they had murdered a man, and of the curse placed on everyone who had anything to do with the lynching.

Why have Americans been neglecting thousands of miles of beautiful streams as a way of vacation travel asks Joe Atwell Small, well known outdoor writer. The wilderness beauty, the tranquility, the feel of river life is all vastly different from the cut and dried automobile vacation. Once you've traveled a lazy river route you'll want to use it in the future in preference to the crowded highways of concrete and steel.

To the Tribune: The Manistique Study club, being a literary group, has seldom participated actively in community affairs. The recent erratic, high-handed and apparently inexcusable action of majority members of the city council, has, however, prompted the organization to protest publicly in this manner of handling our city government. (Continued from page 1) and the city's voters ought to, at least, give a competent engineer a decent chance to do a job—and the members of the city council should be so instructed in understandable terms. Executive heads of local business firms and the managers of local industries have changed very little in the past 10 years. The city is big business, and they ought to be a little stability to the job of city manager. If we want any progress or success in the city government. The water is already over the dam, and nothing can be done to obliterate the record of Monday night. We can, however, do something to make sure a competent successor is hired—if we can catch him in a weak moment when he will agree to come here—and to see that he is not dragged to the chopping block two years hence when another change in council control is very possible.
