A gunman who coolly walked into her apartment building at noon Friday while she was taking charge in the absence of her husband, Mrs. O. G. Oestreich, of Detroit, formerly Margaret English of this city, had few minutes before he fled with all the cash in his pocket.

Mrs. Oestreich, now here for a visit, is still jittery over the incident. She said the robber, a six-foot-five-inch man in a dark suit, appeared, jumped over the counter, gun in hand, and pushed her backward into an adjoining kitchen with the warning, "If you so much as turn your head, I'll shoot."

After taking several checks and some cash, he told her not to move for three minutes. "I don't know how long it's going to take me to get out of here," he said.

APPROVAL FOR LOCAL HOSPITAL PROJECT GIVEN

Bids To Be Advertised Next Week; Will Start Construction Soon

The district office of the United States Public Health Service has approved plans and specifications for the proposed Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital, according to information received this week by A. J. Cayin, chairman of the hospital board of trustees.

The plan of an approved subject only to corrections indicated as mandatory which are of a minor nature but which are required by reason of recommendations of the state fire marshals office and other public agencies.

Cayin said Thursday that these minor alterations are being made in the office of St. Clair Pardee, St. Johns architect, and plans and specifications will go out to contractors for bids not later than Monday, Aug. 23.

"It would seem reasonable that within a month after sending out the plans for bids that we will be in a position to decide on the successful bidder. If construction will then be submitted to the United States Public Health Service who have assured us that they will act upon part of the application very promptly," the hospital chairman said.

"The board of trustees fully expect that the construction work will be underway within two weeks after this approval is received, and we believe that the substructure work at least can be completed before cold weather sets in."

"Generally considered, we are making good progress on the difficult phases of obtaining federal approval, and if construction costs are anywhere within reason the project will be underway by early fall," he declared.

BEARS OF ESCANABA FORFEIT TO CARDS

Game Arranged With Red Birds Here Sunday; Red Birds Win, 4-1

The Manistique Cardinals collected a forfeit Sunday from the Escanaba Bears, who advised the locals at noon that they were unable to keep the engagement. A record score was on hand to witness the game, for which there had been considerable interest. The game was scheduled for Saturday week ago. It was too late to put out an announcement, so a game was hastily arranged between the Cards and the Red Birds, Manistique feeder team for the Cardinals. The Red Birds won, 4 to 1.

The Cards score was 1 and 0 in favor of the Cards when in the ninth inning the Red Birds put in a sprint which netted them four runs and the game.

Although Don Carlson, Red Birds hurler, was in frequent trouble with men on base, he was very effective in the clutch. Three times the Cards loaded the bases but failed to produce a run.

The Cardinals will play Trenchery here Sunday. The Red Birds are all through with their league competition, but plans are to schedule another game with the Cards and perhaps a few others before the season is over.

SPOOLS APFIELD

By Ted Ketting

The person who fishes or hunts travels in a notable company of topflight architects, miners, engineers, medical scientists, sailors, samurai-like artists and military engineers, reports Bill Wolf, outdoor writer and naturalist.

Some of these creatures, who have used anticipated many of our most modern skills, wear feathers, some are clad in fur, others possess scales of armor plate and some wear nothing much at all.

These outdoor technicians are all interesting to observe. There is no doubt that human beings learned from them and copied many of their mechanical and other devices.

For instance, watch that dragon fly closely. It is perfectly designed for its purpose in life. This insect anticipated the airplane, helicopter, submarine and jet propulsion.

Sometimes, when hunting in October or November, look to the sky and you probably will see some of the earth's first balloonists and parachutists.

Many of the military sciences actually owe their origin to imitation of nature. The latest model tanks were probably more efficiently "fire-trenned" because ordnance engineers studied the turtle. We are all acquainted with the skunk's military weapon, poison gas. Some contraptions discharge ink into the water to form a concealing smoke screen; and the bombardier beetle can fire four or five rounds of an acidic, reddish "smoke" at its pursuers.

Camouflage was highly developed in the last war, but we are familiar with the masters we encounter whenever we go fishing or hunting. For all its gaudy coloring, a cock pheasant can manage to look like a rusty red rock in a field. Geese and quail are invisible even when you know where they are squatting.

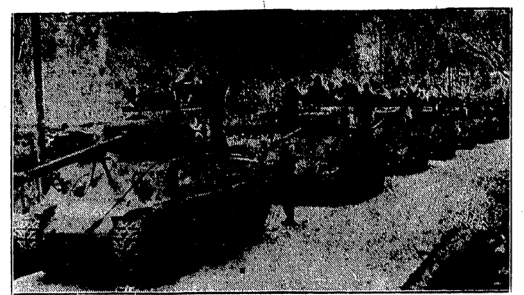

Next time look around you when outdoors. You will be surprised at how many ways wildlife has anticipated man. Fishes used these principles first—fins to act as rudders and stabilizers, a swim bladder to increase or decrease buoyancy, a teardrop shape to offer least resistance to water.

You'll find it difficult to understand how man has been so slow in adopting methods and principles that have been right in front of him ever since he came out of the trees.

Fort On St. Ignace Site Built 258 Years Ago

A symbol of French might amid thousands of volatile Indians, Fort de Buade was constructed in 1690 at the present site of St. Ignace.

The outline of the fort's earthworks are still visible in "Old Fort Field" on a hill on Fort Street just back of Marquette Park, according to information in the Michigan Historical Collections at the University of Michigan.

Its strong ramparts were intended to swing the Redmen from British influence and impress upon them the benefits of one more paying allegiance to the French.

The fort was an effort by the new French governor of Canada, Louis de Buade Count Frontenac, to indicate that the French still were vitally interested in the region.

Frontenac previously had been governor and had held the Indians to French allegiance with a firm hand. But after his recall in 1682, a succession of weak governors had let the British gain some influence in the area. King Louis XIV had renamed Frontenac governor to once again assert French dominance.

When the fort was put up, the spot already was fairly well populated. Two Indian villages, a settlement of traders and a Catholic mission were there.

At that time the entire Straits region was known as Michilimackinac, and the new fort was called by the same name much of the time, Michigan Historical Collections material shows.

In 1694, the very able Antoine de la Mothe Cadillac became commandant at Fort de Buade. Michilimackinac then was the focus of vast Indian intrigue that existed throughout the west. It had also become the meeting place of several thousand Indians of various tribes, including the Chippewas, Ottawas and Hurons, who continually were threatening war upon one another and the French.

Seek Relatives Of Onetime Resident Of Upper Peninsula

Chicago, Illinois.—Possibly children or grandchildren but more likely the descendants of brothers or sisters of Mary Mosso Kinkaid, are being sought in northern Michigan to claim a $10,000 estate to which they are unknown to the heirs.

Walter C. Cox, probate generalist, 308 S. LaSalle, St. Charles, Mo., specializes in tracing missing relatives to settle estates, is directing the hunt.

"Mary Mosso Kinkaid is known to have been born somewhere in the upper Michigan peninsula in about 1875," Mr. Cox said. "It is not known whether she ever married, or if Kinkaid was her married or maiden name."

"If she did marry, then obviously her husband died or the couple separated many years ago. She is said to have been a school teacher in early life.

"Her descendants, if any, would have first claim to the estate. If she had none, then the children or grandchildren of her brothers or sisters, who are believed to be living in upper Michigan or on the peninsula, would succeed to claim."

CHAPLAINS WHO MADE SUPREME SACRIFICE—In the annals of the United States Army there is no record of greater personal heroism than that of the courage of four young chaplains who gave their lives to other men on a sinking troop transport and bravely went down with the ship. It was on February 3, 1945, when the USS Dorchester was torpedoed off the coast of Greenland. They have since been awarded posthumously the Distinguished Service Cross and a memorial postage stamp was issued in their honor. Above, left to right, they are George L. Fox, Methodist; John P. Washington, Roman Catholic; Alexander D. Goode, Jewish, and Clark V. Poling, Reformed Church.

Grayling—A "new look" has arrived at 75,000-acre Camp Grayling Training Center of the Michigan National Guard. Approximately 2,500 teen-age youths, most of them just out of high school, are getting their first experience in military training here.

When Congress resorted to compulsory military training (Selective Service) as the only effective way of manning the army and navy, the National Guard was given a preferred status. Youths who enlisted in State Troops were exempted from the draft.

Like having a gold rush on its hands, the Michigan National Guard recruited 2,500 teen-agers in 30 days. Total enrollment soared to 7,800, an all-time record. The troops arrived at Lake Marquette last week in more than 1,000 motor vehicles and 200 rail cars. They were reviewed last Saturday (Aug. 14) by Governor Kim Sigler and Major General Ralph A. Loveland and this Saturday (Aug. 21) following a week of overnight marches and field exercises, the troops will depart for home.

The "new look" at Camp Grayling is as fresh as today's newspaper headlines. Youth is getting its first year-long military training as a part of national security. The atmosphere is hardly that of a holiday although the traditional bluster and horse-play of army life is as noticeable as ever. The Berlin crisis and other world events have cast a shadow. War is still a serious business.

Military discipline is being tightened this year. And yet, according to top command, more emphasis is being put upon recreation than ever before. Soft ball games are held daily. Free motion pictures, latest from Hollywood, are ordered each evening. The 4th Infantry Division Band is kept busy playing for recreational reviews and special concerts. Church attendance is compulsory. Military police units patrol the streets in Grayling. The "big" is the last punishment. It is apparent that General Loveland and his staff are making every effort to provide a dose of military training for teen-agers that will be acceptable to fathers and mothers back home.

The atmosphere is a bit informal to an old-time army man, uniforms of officers are just about the same as those of the luck privates. The insignia of rank is unobtrusive. Saluting is maintained on a voluntary basis. There is less military snark.

All this reflects the "new look" of youth and a determination of the military command to make selective service a permanent part of our national defense policy, subject to approval of public opinion itself. Pride of National Guard units has deep roots in Michigan communities. Officers are watching with interest the congressional outcome of a move at Washington to put the National Guard under federal control. The feeling of opposition is running high here.

Col. Edward R. Roberts, Senior U. S. Army instructor on duty here, diplomatically pointed out that National Guard divisions were given "soft jobs" in World War II. The 45th Army Division (Oklahoma) suffered the second highest casualty in the war during its service in Italy and Europe. The 32nd Division (Michigan-Wisconsin) was first in action in the southwest Pacific, while the 24th Division (Maryland and Virginia) were among the first troops to land in Normandy.

The ground units at Grayling comprise the 40th Infantry Division. The air units are part of the 70th Air Force.

On the ground and in the air, Michigan is doing its part to be ready for whatever the future may bring. Camp Grayling is a symbol of this preparedness.

CHLORINE DIOXIDE USES ARE SOUGHT

University of Michigan Studies Effects On Water-Borne Disease Organisms

New use of an existing chemical compound now ride drinking water of disagreeable tastes and odors, according to Dr. Gerald M. Ridenour, associate professor of public health engineering at the University of Michigan School of Public Health.

Chlorine dioxide, a strong deodorizing agent with the chemical symbol of ClO₂, was first used about two years ago by industrial companies to rid water of tastes due to factory waste products, he said, but is now used widely in city water systems. Oxygen, given off by the compound, destroys odors and tastes due to organic and biologic pollution, leaving the water palatable and without a taste of chlorine.

Studies now being made at the laboratories of the School of Public Health indicate that the compound has disinfectant properties. Chlorine dioxide is found to be more effective than chlorine in its action on the more resistant forms of bacteria, such as spore producing organisms.

"We are continuing our studies of the effects of this chemical compound on specific types of disease organisms found in water, such as typhoid and dysentery," the sanitation expert reported.

He added that at present chlorine is still the main sanitation agent in water supply systems. It is used as a disinfectant after chlorine dioxide has been applied to rid the water of taste and odor. Dr. Ridenour pointed out that the characteristic chlorine taste in the water is lessened by this method because the chlorine dioxide renders the water purer, and pure water is less apt to retain the taste of chlorine.

Late Trout Season Providing Extra Planting Period

The latest trout season closing in many years—September 12, a week after the usual Labor Day ending—may give conservation department fisheries men the margin they need to plant a fall one million legal size trout.

The planting of one million brook, brown and rainbow trout by clipping the big dorsal fin, in seven inches long or larger has been the goal of the fish hatchery men for three years. Last season they came nearest reaching that test to show anglers when the pike, with the total stocking, of portion of wild hatchery fish in adult trout short of the mark by their catch bagan.

mere 20,000. Weather conditions permitted an earlier start in stocking operations this season. Trucks and boats that could not be obtained in the war years have helped speed the work this summer, and hatchery men believe that this time they may reach the million mark. Each kept-sized trout of this year's plant is marked, for the fisherman's information, by clipping of the adipose fin, the little fin on the back just ahead of the tail. The 1947 plant was marked brook, brown and rainbow trout by clipping the big dorsal fin. In seven inches long or larger has been the goal of the fish hatchery men for three years. Last season they came nearest reaching that test to show anglers when the pike, with the total stocking, of portion of wild hatchery fish in adult trout short of the mark by their catch bagan.

Good dental care for the child includes an early visit to the dentist at pre-school age and regular visits thereafter. Many three-year-olds have cavities but with adequate care first teeth can be replaced until the child is 11 or 12 years of age. All cavities should be filled when small, and all incisors which cannot be successfully treated or filled should be removed. Fluorine treatment to reduce decay may be recommended by the dentist. Good home care of the child's teeth includes furnishing him a good diet to promote normal body development, but keeping his diet low in sugar, desserts, candy and soft pop help control tooth decay. It wishes and our good time were also include establishing good brushing habits and helping the child to know his dentist as a friendly health counselor.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to thank our many friends for making our Golden Wedding anniversary celebration low in sugar, desserts, candy and soft pop help control tooth decay. It wishes and our good time were also include establishing good brushing habits and helping the child to know his dentist as a friendly health counselor.

MICHIGAN Believes in Promoting Rural Health

Rural health is a great deal more than a discussion topic to the medical doctors of Michigan—it is a vital program that has their fullest support. This is evidenced in many ways, as will be brought out at the Michigan Rural Health Conference which is to be held at Michigan State College, September 16-17. Being one of the sponsors, Michigan doctors of medicine will utilize this Conference to search out the further avenues in which they can most practically enlarge their health services in Michigan's rural areas.

This concern of organized medicine, and many other health organizations, with the health improvement of all the people of the State is one of the reasons why Michigan leads the way in health progress.

Love and pathos intermingled with contagious humor, framed in a picture of rural simplicity, are the rudiments of the success of "Along the Kennebec," the newest New England play which will be the attraction at the Opera House, Monday night. No play written on this popular theme has proven more successful and it bids fair to rival in popularity the most attractive plays of modern times. Special care has been taken securing the company, and the scenic production is unsurpassed. The piece is full of good bright comedy and the funny duel scene causes screams of laughter. The company carry an unusually good band and orchestra this season.

Lists Dangers Of Forest Fires

A warning to Michigan campers and tourists concerning forest fires was given this week by L. A. Carter, forester at Michigan State college.

Already this year the state has suffered several disastrous fires. Carter points out that the toll taken by these fires is heavy. Even light burning fires cause this high mortality in the forest. Tests have shown that nearly 100 percent of small trees up to seven feet tall are killed by light burning fires and trees from one-fourth to four inches in diameter are also destroyed.

Larger trees suffer bark injuries that expose them to wood rotting fungi and insects.

Carter urges that persons who build fires in wooded areas take all precautions to prevent spread of fires.

COMPARE THE POPULARITY

You can identify the biggest sales in any list of products by picking out the one product which enjoys greatest popularity, year after year; and, of course, in the field of motor cars, that one product is Chevrolet—outstanding leader in popularity for the total 17-year period, 1931 to date!

Four Generations To Be At Rice Golden Wedding

Four generations will be present for the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Rice, of Woods District, which will be held Wednesday, August 26. It is expected that all of their nine children, 32 grandchildren, and three great grandchildren will be present for the event. The anniversary observance will start with a noon dinner for relatives, served at the Rice home. A reception for friends will be held from 2 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon and again from 7 o'clock on in the evening. This will be the second golden wedding celebration held in the Rice home. On June 13, 1917, Mr. Rice's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Rice, observed their eightieth wedding anniversary there. Both are now deceased. In this golden wedding event, seven of the Rice family, three of the Rice children, one of the Rice grandchildren, and one of the Rice great grandchildren, were present. The average American consumes nearly 27 years of milk in a year.

Flotsam And Jetsam

(Continued from page 11) about route, but a close study of map shows that it is not straightway as compared with rail service. Recent raises in freight rates make it likely that the water route possibilities offer a careful going-over. The routes would be more leisurely, course, but copper billets do spoil readily, and they are not affected by hot weather. With maximum would be seven to ten feet, and sizable tonnage to be handled at that draft.

Gonyeas Hold Golden Wedding Early So Sons Can Attend

The golden wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gonyea, moved ahead a few months so that their five sons could all be here, was held Sunday at Indian Lake state park. Approximately 140 relatives and friends attended. The affair featured an afternoon picnic dinner and an informal program which included talks by John Quinlan, of Newberry, Luce county judge of probate; Dan Martin, who was a guest at their wedding on Nov. 22, 1869; Miss Helen Havlicek, vacationing here from Hawaii where she has taught many years, and John Wood, local lumberman and neighbor of the Gonyeas. Floyd Gonyea, eldest son of the couple, was master of ceremonies. Also here for the celebration were the daughters-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Gonyea, and seven of their 10 grandchildren. A number of relatives and friends from the Fayette-Garden areas were among the guests.

was her attendant, and Felix Gonyea was best man. Both are now dead. Mr. Gonyea, now 79, had also come to the United States from the Province of Quebec, where he was born on June 29, 1839. He lived first in Bay City, but later came north to Thompson where he was employed as an overseer in sawmills operating there. He worked in the mills here, too, and was employed for many years by Matt Schneider, pioneer saloon keeper, on the city's westside. Mr. Gonyea, familiarly known as "Bat" from his middle name, Baptiste, ultimately went into the saloon business himself, and operated his establishment in a building adjoining John Schuster's meat market until the country went dry. For several years now he has been in demand as an odd-jobs worker, and is still active despite his years.
