Miss Jewett's Recital.

Miss Helen L. Jewett of Gladstone, assisted by Mrs. J. E. Hickey, an Anna May Melrose of Chicago, will give a concert at the star opera house Friday evening, April 23rd.

The following is taken from the Gladstone Telegram of Jan. 22d, '98:

"A large and appreciative audience assembled to listen to Miss Helen L. Jewett's recital in the opera house Tuesday evening. The program comprised such names as Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Liszt, Chopin, Palestrachi, Moszkowski and others. The twenty numbers were rendered in a faultless style, showing wonderful delivery of tone, brilliancy and power. It was a treat long to be remembered."

Mrs. Dieley was formerly well known in Manistique. She has been studying vocal music for some time both in Minneapolis and Chicago, and has a voice of much sweetness and power.

Interred at Grandland.

Nothing further has been learned here of the article of Thomas L. Baxter, which occurred at the Tremont House, Chicago on Wednesday last, only that some eight years ago he attempted suicide while in the employ of the Illinois Central Railway at Chicago. He was prevented from committing the deed by his companions in the office. The remains of deceased were interred on Saturday last at Grandland cemetery after services at Grandland chapel. Friends of deceased in this city, who intended going to Chicago to attend the funeral, were unable to do so for the reason that no information was sent here in regard to the time of the last sad rites.

Uniform Bank Election.

A meeting of Evergreen Division, No. 49, Uniform Rank K. of P., was held Tuesday night for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year. The following were elected officers: President, W. W. Walker, M. D.; vice president, A. D. McNair; secretary, M. L. Casper; treasurer, D. W. Thompson; and trustees, J. E. Orr.

The newly elected officers will be installed during the month and either Col. Joe Costant or Mr. O. V. Lincoln will be in to can in the installation ceremony.

Trouble at the Chemical Plant

Work was stopped on the spur track leading from the plant of the Barrill Chemical Co. to the Soo line yesterday morning by the Chicago lumbering Co. on the charge of trespass.

It appears that the Weston Fur Co. granted the chemical company the use of a specified amount of land in the construction of this spur track that they got over the line and on to the property of the C. L. Co.

The track had already been graded and the task had before it was discovered. Yesterday morning at 4 o'clock the company took possession of the land, erected a shanty and placed an officer on guard.

The chemical company will probably have the track already built over on their own property. Nels Olsen is the day and Alex Davidson the night officers in charge. A trespass notice was posted up in the afternoon forbidding further encroachments on the land.

Outs the Methodist Church

The Rev. H. W. Thompson, pastor of the First M. E. church, Janesville, Wis., has accepted a call from the People's Christian association of Fond du Lac and will preach his first sermon next Sunday. Mr. Thompson is chaplain of the First regiment, Wisconsin National guards, and is prominent in G. A. R. circles.

Rev. H. W. Thompson was pastor of the M. E. church in this city in the early days and has many friends in this vicinity.

Not the least important influence in bringing congress to action was the strong position taken by Gen. Fitzhugh Lee. He has been in Havana during the last two years of the Cuban war, and has probably a more accurate knowledge of the events of those two years in the island than any man now in this country and holding official position. His information is the result of long observation, guided by a cool judgment. His recommendations are the deliberate conclusions based on that knowledge. For two years while holding official relations with the Spanish government he has refrained from public comment, but now, when the rupture has occurred and he may speak unreservedly, by so, and boldly. And his opinion is one much to be noted in this peace or war.

Senator Tillman demands that Port Royal harbor shall be protected from foreign foes. What's the use? If war comes Tillman could easily run down there with his rifle.

The cause of labor ought to be indignation at the statement that only 1,500 out of 1,000,000 deaths are due to zot. No laborer can afford the luxury, their dying must be of diseases belonging to the plebeian variety.

If the dove of universal peace which a western evangelist preaches has been hovering in the air it is really at this time it is going to drop its olive branch and become very fired before it comes down. There is no country which isn't at war or talking war, and the conservative old Chinese Tientsin declaration actually began with the blowing up of the Maine and is now being prosecuted with such vigor that the bird is liable to be frightened to death.

The Illinois legislature, at its last session, passed a bill materially changing the school law as applied to expenses and assessments for building purposes. The old law allowed 2 per cent of the valuation for purpose of expenses and 3 per cent for building purposes. The change in the law allows 2 1/2 per cent for running expenses and the same amount for building purposes. This change will prove very acceptable to the school boards throughout the state, as many of them have been unable to meet current expenses on the 2 per cent. This latter fact was due to the very low assessments in the state.

The latest novelty in the way of a dinner was given last week by Leonard Stewart, a New York swell. He invited twenty-five of his friends to dine at Martin's restaurant, where they found an elaborate and a la carte table decorated with white tulips, lilies of the valley and maiden-hair fern. When four courses had been served—oysters, soup and fish and entrée—the ladies resumed their wraps and took carriages furnished by their host to the Hoffman house, where a banquet of English mutton was served with Brussels sprouts and a grand display of violets. When this was eaten the party re-entered their carriages and drove to the Waldorf-Astoria, where they finished the dinner and a most gorgeous spread of nibbils. This progressive plan will no doubt be imitated by more than one society ago.

The senate committee on commerce is considering the arguments made by representatives of the National Business League and the National Board of Trade in the interest of the establishment of a new department of the government to be called the department of commerce and industries, and to be presided over by a cabinet officer. The arguments were generally made along the lines that the United States is the only country of importance which has not a department corresponding to the one proposed, and that the national industries and commerce could never have the supervision their importance demands without having separate supervision, and that it would not be satisfactory to place this work in charge of a bureau officer of the agricultural department for the reason that the department was already doing all this; could well be expected of it.

A Minnesota correspondent of the New York Sun states that in the past few years the quality of wheat grown in the northwest has deteriorated. Ten years ago No. 1 hard was the contract grade in terminal markets, and for several years considerably over half the wheat received at Duluth was the famous No. 1 hard. Later this grade became scarcer and the grain drier, so that contract grade was reduced from No. 1 hard to No. 1 northern. The crop of the last year has been amazingly short of even No. 1 northern, not 15 per cent of the wheat received at Minneapolis for months having come up to grade. The cause of this is supposed to be due more to a continuance of the same seed than to impoverishment of the soil, and a general effect is being made by the states to import seed. Scotch fine wheat from further north, Manitoba, and the valleys of the Saskatchewan and Peace rivers, will be sought, and it is hoped to so improve the strains of wheat in the states that for years No. 1 hard will again be common. It takes less of hard wheat to make a barrel of flour than of any other grade.

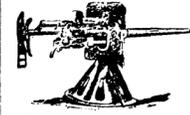

In a crowded church in Troughsboro recently the service had to be stopped while several fainting women were carried from the room. Investigation revealed that after the meeting the preceding Sunday the sexton had closed the church without airing it, and the violated atmosphere had been rebated for another meeting. It is as much a crime for housekeepers and landlords to furnish their families and guests with impure air, as it would be to set before them unwholesome food. Indeed, a man can live longer without food than without air.

A SHIP IN ACTION.

WHAT TAKES PLACE ON BOARD IN A FIGHT.

Striking scenes on Deck and Below—On the Call to Quarters Every Man Moves to His Post as by Clockwork—A Terrible Moment.

Few people outside the naval service know just how a war vessel goes into a fight. To put a battleship like the Iowa or Indiana in thorough readiness for action ordinarily requires about two hours, though, of course, it can be done in much less time in case of urgency. There is one thing that makes it a

MAXIN RAPID-FIRE RIFLE.

(The War Department has Just Ordered 1,000 of These Terrible Engines of Death and Destruction.) comparatively simple and orderly task. On board a fighting vessel every man has a certain assigned post and a certain task laid out for him with which he is perfectly familiar. This holds true from the captain himself down to the little coolies who wait on table for the different messes. When the signal is sounded it brings every man to his place, and long familiarity makes the work, so involved and complicated to the eyes of an outsider, a mere matter of routine.

If a ship engages an enemy unexpectedly, so that there is not the usual time for preparation, the call to quarters is sounded immediately and the men take their places in divisions. In this case each division attends to a part of the work of clearing the ship, but ordinarily the first signal is "Clear for action." At the boatswain's whistle and the verbal command the men move to their (in Command of Atlantic Squadron) positions, those whose places are on deck forming in squads under the direction of the different officers. The captain takes his place on the bridge. Later, when the battle begins, he will go into the protected conning tower. Through the narrow slit of which he can watch everything that takes place on deck and the movements of the enemy as well. But for the present, while the preparations are being made, he must decide the general plan of action, how the guns are to be used and the class and nature of projectile on which he will depend.

At eight o'clock. Near the captain stands the navigator, who will have charge of the handling of the ship during the engagement, the signal officer and the various aids. First of all, the deck-hand working spaces are cleared. The spars, rigging and booms are secured. Everything movable will not be needed in charge of the little platform built up in the midmast, haul up arms and ammunition and make everything ready in their lofty quarters, even to filling the fire buckets with which to put out a blaze should one be started.

up aloft. The carpenter, under the direction of the lieutenant, sees to it during the engagement is firmly lashed into place where it will not interfere with the work. The topmasts, which are removed of sailing stations, hatch walls and every light object that is not essential to the management of the ship. The chronometers and other delicate instruments are carefully gathered up and laid away below to save them from destruction by concussion. The torpedo division gets out its apparatus for sending torpedoes, and spreads the interesting nets over the ship's sides, where they can be quickly lowered if need be.

Below the activity is equally great. The engine fires are started up, and steam is made as fast as possible, for a modern battleship is intended to go into action under a full head of steam. The steam and tillage pumps are rigged and the magazine stands to its post, but the magazines are not unlocked until the signal for action. The hoses, however, are delivered to the officers of the powder below, to save them from the first signal.

When the ship is cleared the call to quarters is given and the men take their places in divisions. The squads stand to their guns and make them ready for use. The hatches, except those that will be used, are covered with gratings and tarpaulins, the carpenter collects his men and with the armor stands ready to repair any damage that may be done by the enemy's fire or the recoil of the ship's cannon. A man with a lead line is placed at the well and during the fight will make frequent soundings to discover if the vessel is injured below the water line. The boat squad is placed in charge of the fire apparatus, ready for instant service. Chemical fire extinguishers are used on all the United States warships now, and hand grenades are placed in every quarter of the ship. Every precaution is taken to secure the instant response of the fire should it start in one of the magazines.

The "Bull Doctor." Down in the sick bay the head surgeon, or "bull doctor," has been directing the laying out of cots, instruments and bandages. One halfway, as near amputations as possible, is always left open for the passing down of wounded men. The surgeon may have no call on his services, but the rule in every quarter of a battleship is, "Be prepared for the worst, and hope for the best." When everything is ready the officers move to their stations. If the ship is a monitor or the battle-hatches are closed, and the men at last hear the final command for which they have been impatiently waiting "Action!" At that moment, the doors of the magazine are opened, and the men who form the fire-crew chains of a battery begin to pass the cartridges, a by a by, to the deck. The delivery of ammunition is in charge of the gunner. In modern naval fortunes the runner is not, as many landlubbers suppose, the man who fires the cannon. He is a warrant officer, and his position is the most responsible one in time of action, for he must see to the prompt and steady delivery of cartridge shells.

No Need to Hurry. A pleasant looking, stylishly dressed old lady was boarding a car in New York and the "conductor" conductor shouted in her ear: "Hurry up there! Step lively! Be quick!" He looked as though he would have been glad to push her back his seat, but she, to his great surprise, she stopped short, and, looking him full in the face, said: "Young man, it is not worth while to be in such a hurry. You'll get to hell soon enough."

Oriskany, one of the proprietors of two large ostrich farms in southern California, one at South Pasadena and one at Norwalk, has gone to San Antonio, Tex., for the purpose of establishing an ostrich farm in that place. The shorter a man is in his accounts the longer it takes to find him.

200 PEOPLE DROWNED.

The Raging Ohio River Through a Levee at Shawneetown, Ill.

Girard, Ill., reports a message from Shawneetown that the levee above the city broke and the city is inundated. The water backed up for five miles and the extent of the city like a tidal wave. After the message was received telephone and telegraph communication with Shawneetown was suddenly cut off. It is rumored that over 200 lives were lost.

THE BATTLESHIP MAINE.

(A Hill has been introduced into Congress authorizing the Building of a New Battleship to be Known as the Maine) magazine in wooden cases, which are painted black, with the size of callies and charge printed in large white letters on the side. They are passed out of the magazine to a man who sculpts them up to the lower deck. Then they are passed through a slit in the magazine screen a heavy canvas curtain which is intended to prevent the possibility of sparks reaching the powder stores. In this screen carriers take the boxes to the nearest powder gun-tube, where they are passed up to the gun deck and thence to the cannon themselves. For moving ammunition

German Friendly to Uncle Sam.

Berlin dispatches state that Germany's attitude toward the United States is friendly in the war crisis. The newspapers now concede in the main in the justice of the American demand, acknowledging that Washington has acted with moderation, which many other governments would have shown under similar circumstances. U. S. Ambassador White says that the German government is in full accord with the instructions from Washington, but he has not formally inquired of the German government what its attitude would be in the event of a series of possible combinations of the powers having that end in view.

Naval Reserves Ordered to Be Ready.

The naval reserves of the several states on the Great Lakes are now under orders to answer the call of the President to turn out at a moment's notice, and they are awaiting orders from the secretary of the navy to go to the nearest. Gov. Phineas of Michigan, Gov. Bushnell of Ohio, and Gov. Tanner of Illinois, have received the following dispatches from the navy department: "The department requests that you will immediately proceed to put the naval militia of your state in thorough condition to meet any sudden call for their services by the President of the United States. The divisions should be recruited to their full strength and thoroughly drilled."

The Senate committee having under consideration the protest against seating Senator Preston reported that he could find no reason why he should not retain his place in the Senate, and he took his seat. Senator Gove ended his speech over his seat by resigning, evidently preferring his federal district attorney for western Michigan to the senatorship.

After having already twice killed a similar resolution the House, without a dissenting vote, passed a resolution introduced by Rep. Sawyer, of Washington, calling upon the governor to submit another special message widening the scope of the special session to allow citizens of corporations similar to railroads, such as street railways, gas, electric, and other public utilities, and also to include the total repeal of the Michigan Central and all other special railroad charters.

seventeen Years Old.

That old adage, "Large oaks from little acorns grow," can be very nicely compared to the phenomenal success attained by Messrs. Blumson Bros. of this city.

Just seventeen years ago the Blumson brothers came to our then very small burg with the object in view of locating here and engaging in the business of selling clothing, dry goods, etc. That their efforts have met with success is fully demonstrated by the fact that they now have done business with them during the preceding seventeen years, and from being at that time the smallest establishment, it stands today as a model of its kind to be seen in the north-west peninsula. Messrs. Blumson have since engaging in trade have always been to the front as energetic and enterprising business men, not forgetting the wants of their numerous customers. Keeping thoroughly posted on the different styles, and studying all the time what markets produce the best goods suitable for their trade and to the above they give their entire success. Mr. Isaac Blumson, the resident manager, has since his arrival here made many warm friends, who take delight in calling on him when they are ready for a new outfit merely a social visit.

The appointments.

The following are the appointments of the village president made at the meeting of the council held Monday night:

Village Attorney, Gary W. Danton. Alcohol, Frank Fisher. Health Officer, P. C. Dube. Street Crier, Hans Klagesdal. Clock, Phil Dyer, John Lake. Fire, Frank Fisher, Fred Haydon. (City) Supt. Victor Bern.

The appointments, as given above, made by President C. F. Danton Monday night and concurred in by the council, are quite satisfactory to the leading Republicans. Every appointee is a staunch Republican and all good workers for the party.

The first on the list is C. W. Danton, village attorney. There is no question but that the appointment is one of the best. He is a lawyer of the first class, and his knowledge and ability is beyond question.

There are none in the village who are not acquainted with Frank Fisher, appointed marshal. He has served on the police force for over twelve years and during a large portion of that time has been marshal. Marshal Fisher is a faithful and efficient in his duties to the satisfaction of our people.

Hans Klagesdal, the street commissioner, is a new officer but our people are satisfied that the duties of the position will be not only faithfully executed. He is well known and well liked by the people generally.

John Loose, appointed chief of the fire department has long been credited with being the best fire fighter in the city and with the appliances at hand can always be depended on to do efficient work when given half a chance. He has not only been identified with the department since its organization.

In the appointment of Hugh Haydon as policeman the president recognized a faithful officer and one who has the interests of law and order at heart. No villager or stranger is better acquainted with the duties expected of him as well as Hugh Haydon he will suit the best interests of the village.

Peter C. Dube, M. D., who steps into Dr. J. M. Suttler's shoes as health officer, is thoroughly acquainted with the duties required of him and will attend them ably. When he had to offer some three years ago he filled the position with credit. There is one thing about Dr. Dube, he will look after the duties expected of him to the letter.
