Professors Baldwin & Carrow to Give Two Balloon Ascensions July 4.

Thrilling Drop From Among the Clouds with a Parachute.

Various Committees Appointed and Everything Moving Smoothly.

Reduced Rates on all Railroads and Large Attendance Expected.

The second of the preliminary meetings called to discuss matters pertaining to the proper observance of Independence Day was held at the court house Monday evening, with a good number of citizens in attendance.

J. H. MacNaughton was selected as chairman and E. F. Lyons, secretary.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read, M. L. Casper, chairman of the soliciting committee submitted a report showing a total amount collected of $333.50 and stating that from $20 to $50 more could yet be secured. The committee was continued in power until the work should be completed.

The committee of arrangements thought its chairman, N. W. Fox, reported that propositions had been received from two different firms who wished to give balloon ascensions here July 4th. After a discussion and an adjournment of the matter, Frank H. Peters moved that the sum of $150 be appropriated for two ascensions with parachute drops and that the committee of arrangements be instructed to close a contract with one of the parties bidding at once, which motion prevailed.

The meeting then adjourned until Thursday evening when a report from the committee on arrangements will be rendered.

The committee decided to accept the proposition of Baldwin & Carrow who offered to make one ascension for $120 or two for $150. Two ascensions are to be given, one in the forenoon and one in the evening.

Professors Baldwin & Carrow are members of the Consolidated Balloon & Parachute Co., of the United States, whose artists are giving exhibitions all over the world. These men are experts in their dangerous profession and in their contracts agree to do as advertised or no changes are made. In fact, they are just as much at home thousands of feet in the air as the trapeze performer in a circus. The air ship is 7274 feet in size and is sent up 5,000 feet from which height the daring aeronaut drops with his parachute to the earth. This is the first exhibition of the kind in this section of the country and is worth going many miles to see.

The selection of the various sub-committees was completed Wednesday. They are as follows:

- Committee on Parade: V. P. Chappel, N. W. Fox, W. C. Thomson
- Committee on Fireworks: Samuel Mice, W. L. Middlebrook
- Committee on Music: W. L. Middlebrook, Miller Ross, C. E. Rebo
- Committee on Sports: W. B. Thomas, W. F. Crane, J. Markertus
- Committee on Bicycle Races: Andrew Ekstrom, Will Crowe, Emuel Rose
- Committee on Printing: H. W. Calver, J. H. MacNaughton, E. F. Lyons
- Committee on Race Ball: Andrew Ekstrom, O. Howard, Ed. Ashford

The meeting which was to have been held last evening was postponed until tonight when the various sub-committees will organize and the two general committees submit reports. A general attendance is desired.

The industrial and mechanical display of the parade should be a banner this year. Merchants should make arrangements to prepare suitable floats at once. It is expected

Capt. Chas Adkins returned Sunday evening from his trip to Lansing where he went to confer with Adjutant General Irish regarding the acceptance of the local military company for service in the 85th Reg't. Owing to the uncertainty existing regarding the method to be employed in raising the regiment, he could secure but little satisfaction, but he was informed that the recruiting of the upper peninsula's quota would be in the hands of Hon. Cass & Osburn. It was also stated that Manistique would stand as good a show as any other peninsula town.

MANISTIQUE, MICHIGAN Letter than "Our country, right or wrong," is this sentiment for the hour: Our country, righting wrong.

Mr. Wasmaker doesn't expect to beat the Quay Republicans; but his proposed regiment will win such glory in Cuba that he will be as happy as a pig in a trough.

Modern medical practice will keep the soldiers a fit and well in Cuba as in any other section of the country that the exigencies of war might call for them. Cuba is overruled in its ability to do harm to the soldiers there are not given to exposing the least venereal case of their health, and even at that some good bodies say the climate is favorable and the general health good in the island.

The statistics compiled by the United States fish commission show that more people earn a livelihood from the industry along Lake Michigan and Green Bay than any of the other great lakes. 2,289 persons were employed in the business. There are seventy-five vessels engaged in the business on Lake Michigan, with a total valuation of $230,500. The total amount of money put into the business on Green Bay and Lake Michigan is $918,581.

Chester may fall into the line of electric progress and go into the electric light and gas business for itself. The city council, at a recent meeting, instructed Mayor Harrison to name a committee of nine citizens, with his name as chairman ex officio, to agitate the question of municipal lighting. The project was presented in a long resolution offered by Ald. Higney. By the provisions of the resolution the committee is instructed fully to investigate the municipal ownership of lighting plants in other cities, and to work for such legislation as shall permit the city to go into the illuminating business.

Indians can be used in the state courts, in the case of a defendant in the Wisconsin supreme court in the case of W. H. Stacy against Thomas La Belle, a member of the Menominee tribe, who had contracted a debt with an Indian trader. It has always been accepted as law in Wisconsin that Indians could not be sued in the state courts for debts, and in this case the trial court so decided, and refused to give the judgment. The supreme court holds, however, that the provisions of the federal constitution do not give the federal government exclusive jurisdiction over business agreements between Indians and white men, and such contracts may be sued on in the state courts.

As compared with a year ago, the volume of money in circulation shows an increase of over $1,000,000. The aggregate amount of May 1 being $1,508,761,542. Gold coin alone showed an increase of over $32,700,000. Standard silver dollars in circulation increased by over $44,700,000. Gold certificates show a decline of over $4,000,000, while silver certificates show an increase of over $31,000,000. Treasury notes exhibit a gain of over $41,300,000. Currency certificates exhibit a decline of nearly $41,000,000 and national bank notes a decrease of a little over $800,000. The circulation per capita, calculated by the treasury experts at 74,355,000 on May 1, is a gain of $2.65. This represents an increase of 64 cents per head of population for the month and of $1.49 as compared with the corresponding date last year.

A Washington correspondent states that the large number of rejections of canteens has caused much comment in the army medical corps. However, the physicians who have conducted the examinations say that outside the ranks of cigarette smokers there are very few rejections than there usually are in the days of the civil war. Alcohol habit is about 99 per cent. Dr. Benjamin King of Philadelphia, who acted as an examining surgeon during 1861-62 in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, says that the average rejections during those years did not exceed 13 per cent. He attributes the large increase almost entirely to the cigarette habit, and says "I have been inspecting the papers in a number of cases under the present recruiting act, and I observe the men who failed to pass the medical examination have weak hearts or lack the vitality necessary to make good soldiers. I had expected that the percentage of rejections would be greater now than in 1861, but I did not dream it would be almost three times as great. I have talked with generally tall men who were rejected, and I observe the large number of young men applying for enlistment who have become victims of the cigarette habit."

It is reported from Washington that the war department is so overwhelmed by applications for appointment in the various arsenals that it has in contemplation a request to the president to place the arsenals under the civil service classification. If this be true no greater commendation could be paid to the merit system. Civil service law implies that only so many persons shall be given employment as are necessary; that they shall be competent to perform the duties assigned them; and that they shall faithfully and truly perform such duties.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL MERRITT

Military Ruler of the Philippines a Type of the Best Americanism—He Was at One Time a Farm Hand.

General Merritt, who goes to the Philippines as military governor of that island empire of the Pacific, is the second in command of our national army. He won fame and honor as Sheridan's chief officer in the great battles of the war. He was an unflinching warrior, once fighting nine battles in ten successive days. His military career is more or less on record, but of his private life little has been given to the public.

Gen. Wesley Merritt's father, John Willis Merritt, was a New York lawyer, having an office at No. 124 Nassau street when the boy was born, Dec. 1, 1832, at No. 67 North Moore street. He was one of eight brothers. Twenty months later the law office was at No. 8 Spruce street, the family having removed to Brooklyn.

When Wesley was four years old his father, having a large and increasing family, abandoned law for agriculture and bought a farm at "Looking Glass Prairie," near Belleville, Ill., not far from St. Louis. Young Merritt attended the school of the Christian Brothers, a Catholic institution, at Belleville. Later he worked on the farm for three years, helping his brothers raise corn and pork for which that section has always been famous.

Merritt a Farmer.

Young Merritt often drove the farm team seven miles to town, getting only fifteen cents a haul for his corn. Everything that a farmer produced in those days was cheap as dirt, and there was little money in circulation. Pastoral checks circulated between merchants and farmers in some localities, and their merchandise seemed high because it took so much corn and pork to pay for it. Being a lawyer and a man of literary turn of mind, the boy's father aspired to do something besides raising corn. He started a local evening newspaper at Belleville, calling the Advance and later a weekly of the same name at Lebanon. Both were Democratic organs, and, like most of the Democratic journals of that day, were for territorial expansion, the annexation of Texas, and the settlement of the vexed and formidable "Oregon question" by taking possession of the country clear to the Pacific ocean. Young Merritt helped his father and brothers publish this Democratic newspaper. He mastered the business of a Confederate officer and a desperate hand to stand content followed. He was ordered over the head, and would have been killed but for the soft felt hat which he wore, containing a big army pocket handkerchief. In this engagement he was surrounded and his troops nearly captured. He fought with a courage and desperation that won a great victory. The newspapers of the day were filled with his exploits in that particular engagement, and on the career recommendation of General Buford he was made a brigadier-general.

The Ride of His Life.

Perhaps the greatest ride of his life was his famous dash through the

MISS LAURA WILLIAMS. (The Chicago Girl Who Became the Bride of Gen. Merritt.)

Rocky mountains, when he rode night and day to the rescue of Major Thornburgh's command, hemmed in by the Ute Indians at the time of the White River massacre. The soldiers were surrounded and being slowly shot and started to death. A single man managed to crawl out one night and escape, and after incredible suffering reached Rawlins station on the Union Pacific running a country newspaper taking his turn-in looking after petty details, besides learning to set type and become an expert printer while but a boy. At the age of sixteen he went to read law in the office of Judge Haynes in St. Louis. He was making rapid progress when Gov. Russell, then a member of congress, secured him a cadetship for West Point.

Gen. Merritt has no family. His favorite nephew, Eaton Merritt, is in the editorial position of the Chicago Herald, with a view of sending him to West Point. Gen. Merritt was married in 1871, in Europe, to Miss Caroline Warren, of Cincinnati, who died in 1883. St. Paul, and was buried at West Point, where the general was superintendent for five years. The Merritts originally sprang from three brothers, who came to America from Ireland in 1600, their descendants settling in Winchester, and from that family, it is said, all the Merritts born in this country have descended. Of General Merritt's military history much has been written, and more to come as his battle, engagements and campaigns would fill columns. He had many narrow escapes from death—able ones at the battle of Beverly Ford in 1865, when he was attacked by the three commissioners to carry out the treaty of peace. And now in a brave and noble and conscientious manner of the people, who in his time was from lawyer, cadet, soldier and then a victor and always commanding officer in the great armies of the war. He is again his best horse that he has a high temperance and is recently fitted for action in civil or military affairs requiring wisdom and justice. He will be heard from again.

Woman's Hair Improving.

It is now said that woman's hair is becoming more beautiful in color every year, and is also growing thicker and longer. This is set to be due to the small, light bonnet that women wear. Certain it is that of olden times the hair, Sun bleaches the hair, and Van der Beun's hair ointment, made only from the hair of a woman who had been much exposed to the sun, and of course she could not be bleached, but she was a woman of color, and will bring her hair to its natural color.

Force and the X-Rays. The X-rays are showing us many interesting things, among them the difference in the qualities of pure and adulterated foods, and how to detect fraud in food products. The latest experiments are in the examination of flour. The ingredients ordinarily employed for its purpose are very fine sand, which is put in to make the weight, and chaff for the same purpose and to add to the bulk. The method of detecting the adulteration is interesting and ingenious. Any boxes with small compartments without bottom or top are placed on a floor, and filled with various kinds of flour, or more or less of each, and placed on the top. The X-rays pass through the flour, and the amount of foreign matter which each sample contains.

The San Jose State.

California has had a rather serious visitation of the San Jose state pest, and the loss sustained in consequence of its ravages has been considerable. One difficulty in dealing with infestations of this sort is the impossibility of knowing just what to do; therefore much of the mischief is done before the victims are well aware of the cause of the trouble. It is possible to keep this plague under good control and to maintain the health and vigor of the fruit trees against all such incursions. As a rule, stony, thirty trees are best, and are most easily cultivated. The rule holds good here as in the annual world. Vermis will soon kill delicate animals, while strong hardy ones resist almost everything in the way of insect pests. Cultivate the ground, spray the trees with lime wash, kerosene emulsion, or other well recommended applications, and let nature do the rest. There is a parasite that destroys the scale, and it might be introduced to advantage. Of all things do not cut down trees and remove them, as some extremists advise. It is much better to be careful that the most favorable conditions are observed and try to pull through with the pest, as compared with a short time. It takes many years to grow a handsome tree, and nothing but the direct necessity should excuse its destruction.

For Humidity's Good.

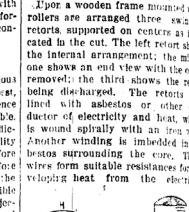

Does there exist a man who has never struggled with a refractory stove? His new invention will do more for the maintenance of peace and quiet than anything else. The illustration represents a device designed to facilitate securing a stovepipe in position, and holding it so that there will be no danger of its slipping through the joints into the room, says the Scientific American. The movement has been patented by Jerome Jones of Kansas. Upon the chimney held in the chimney wall and opening into the fire, is riveted an anchor-shaped metal bar, whose middle portion extends across the inner end of the chimney, and forms a support for the hook of a screw rod which is engaged by a cross-piece secured to the inside of a short pipe which loosely fits in the chimney and projects outwardly to the base of the stovepipe. The chimney is limited by a lead which holds against the inner edge of the anchor-shaped cross-piece, thereby forming a tight joint, and in the end, and at this section are pins on the base of the stovepipe, there being a screw or thumb-screw on the short section by which the latter may be conveniently turned to

A Suggestion for Electric Submarine. It is almost perfect now. The use of a pipe of metal as an electric conductor. It is to be inserted in a submergible, kept filled with water and through it to be pumped a freezing machine to circulate the water in the pipe, the only insulating brine could be used in supplying a pipe of metal. The simplicity of the device and complete dispensing with compressed air are very striking.

New Way of Working.

It is well known that the best way to do the best advantage is to drive off the water, which consists of these particles, which are of the same size. The machinery has been especially constructed for this purpose, but now M. P. J. has devised a method of accomplishing this result by means of electricity. For a wooden frame mounted on rollers are arranged three electric motors, supported on centers as indicated in the cut. The left motor shows the internal arrangement; the middle one shows an end view with the rollers removed; the third shows the rollers being driven. The rollers are lined with asbestos or other conductor of electricity and heat, which is wound spirally with an iron wire around a central core, and is imbedded in a mass of asbestos surrounding the wire. The wires form suitable resistance for a voltage heat from the electric traversing the conductors, it is then turned on which are connected to the ends. Vents are established in cases of stagnation, through which moisture and gas are permitted to escape. The top or part is suspended uniformly and thoroughly as soon as it is more exactly than by the method previously employed, thus saving the burning and insuring a saving in twenty minutes heating.

A Dry Niagara.

A few miles southeast of Syracuse, N. Y., in a cavity whose bottom is 75 feet below the surface of the adjacent plain, lies Jamesville Lake, a body of water 600 feet in diameter and 50 feet in depth. Eastward from the lake extends a gorge through which falls the Battenberg creek. Prof. Queen of Syracuse says that in former times the river flowed here and that Jamesville is the pool that was formed by a great waterfall. Some of the features of a dry Niagara are here enclosed in great detail.

Australian Sign Language.

Mr. W. R. Roth has recently published the results of his studies among the native inhabitants of the western part of central Queensland, Australia. His most interesting discovery is that of the existence of sign language, expressed by means of the hands, and capable of conveying a great variety of ideas. Roth gives illustrations of 200 manual signs employed in this region, which is used throughout the State. He says that preliminary studies of the Australian tribes.

Gunsboats of Shallow Draft.

Gunsboats for service on the coast have been built at the Raleigh navy yards in Great Britain. They are propelled by a screw propeller, and turn in a sort of tunnel near the stern of the boat. The structure is so high that only half of it is in the water. But as the boat moves, the screw is completely immersed the boat is in motion.

The course of the blood vessels in dead animals or birds is now being studied with the X-rays. In order to make arteries, etc., as a photograph "radiograph," they are first impregnated with mercury. Very beautiful results have been thus attained.

All Druggists Keep It. A FITTING TRIBUTE. Rendered a Weston's Memory by Rev. J. M. Shank.

Before beginning his sermon last Sunday evening Rev. J. M. Shank spoke as follows:

I desire to take some of the time for this evening's service to speak in honor of the man who has been the central figure in upbuilding our town and developing the country adjacent.

Now that he is gone, let us pause to do his memory honor and to learn some useful lessons for our building on ward where his work ceases.

Five years ago this coming fall he became a citizen of Manistique. During that fall and winter I was constantly hearing and learning of Mr. Weston. He was very rarely spoken of as Mr. Weston, but by a more familiar name.

My first view of him was a surprise. He was passing from the platform into the "old mill." His quiet, plain, unassuming manner was a surprise to me.

A Brave Coward.

By Robert Louis Stevenson.

CHAPTER II.—(Continued.) My wife and I, a man and a woman, have often agreed to wonder how a person could be at the same time so handsome and so repulsive as Northmour.

CHAPTER III. For two days I skinned some of the best, producing by the uneven surface of the table. I became an adept in the necessary tricks.

CHAPTER IV. On the morning of the third day she waited alone for some time, and I appeared to my great concern, that she was more than once in tears.

My horse in my only companion, and on his poor heart, in his language to me, yes, then, you may count on me for allience.

"Mr. Northmour says you are an honorable man," she returned, "and I believe it when I see you. I will tell you so much, you are right; we are in a dreadful, dreadful danger, and you share it by remaining where you are."

"I have never had a character that was both explosive and respectful to the same degree," he admitted the vivacity of the woman who the sustained and gently lashed in the Northmour's lady.

"You and your father"—but she interrupted me almost with a gasp. "My father! how do you know that?" she cried.

STRONG STATEMENTS.

Three Women Relieved of Female Troubles by Mrs. Pinkham.

From Mrs. A. W. SMITH, 29 Summer St., Hallowell, Me.: "For several years I suffered with various diseases peculiar to my sex. I was troubled with a burning sensation across the small of my back. At last I decided to give your Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. The effect of the first bottle was magical.

From Mrs. MARISSA PHILLIPS, Lexington, Ind.: "I have been troubled for two years with that first fearful headache, backache, nervousness, and a painful condition of the system. I could not walk across the room. I have taken four bottles of the Vegetable Compound, one box of Liver Pills and one package of Sarsaparilla Wash, and now feel like a new woman, and am able to do my work."

From Mrs. MOLLIE E. HUBBARD, Powell Station, Tenn.: "For three years I suffered with such a weakness of the back, I could not perform my household duties. I had falling of the womb, terrible bearing-down pains and headache. I have taken two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now feel like a new woman. I recommend your medicine to every woman I know."

It is hoped that teachers and High School students will accompany the graduates and all citizens interested in our schools are cordially invited.
Miss Bowen will render a solo fitting to the occasion.

Death of Mrs. Wm. Rose.
Mrs. Wm. Rose died at her home in this city Monday morning at nine o'clock of cancer.
She had been a sufferer from the dread disease for the past two months and about three weeks ago the physician in charge of the case informed the family that death was only a matter of short time.
Mrs. Rose was born in Columbia county, N. Y., Apr. 23d, 1837, her maiden name being Miss Sarah Miller. She was married to Wm. Rose at Oswego, N. Y., Aug. 7, 1856. Six children were born to the union, the second, eldest being an infant. These being Mrs. Dennis, of Corning, N. Y., Allen, of Thion, N. Y., and Miller, Emmet A. and Alice of this city, the oldest being 23 and the youngest 20 years of age. All were present at her death. The family resided at various points in New York, moving from Thion to this city in 1888. Two brothers and a sister of the deceased live at Watery, N. Y. Mrs. Adella Swartwood of Five Corners, N. Y., a sister of Mrs. Rose ever since her marriage to Wm. Rose.
Mrs. Rose was one of those home-loving women who are never so happy as when in the midst of their own family. She had been a kind mother and a loving wife and was highly esteemed by all who knew her. Her death comes as a heavy blow to the family, who have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in this hour of bereavement.
The funeral services were conducted from the home Tuesday at 2 p. m. Rev. Horton assisted by Rev. Rooney, officiating. Plans of services were numerous and a large number of friends followed the remains to their last resting place.
A dangerous business.
The tendency to "search" for the main streets of the village by a large number of our cyclists is going to lead to a serious accident if allowed to continue. It is getting to be a common sight in the crooked streets and along through the crowded streets and over crosswalks at a high rate of speed, endangering the lives of pedestrians, many of whom are children. We have already noted several narrow escapes from what might have been serious accidents and if the practice is not stopped, someone is going to be killed or crippled for life. There is an ordinance against it and it should be enforced. A pedestrian has rights which must be respected and in the event of injury from such source will have recourse against the cyclist. Every cyclist who sees through a crowded thoroughfare like Cedar street, with his head bent down to such an angle that it is utterly impossible for him to see more than ten feet in front of him should be summarily dealt with. In the event of one of them running a person down and killing him, the rider of the wheel would be guilty of manslaughter. It is criminal carelessness and should be put a stop to at once.

Along the docks.
The steamer Weston and consort are arrived in port Saturday.
The tug Elmer and Evans have recently been treated to a coat of paint.
The Fannie Hart took out forty-five tons of pig iron Tuesday, consigned to Lacy, DePere.
The schooner J. B. Newland of Carpio is enroute for Chicago with a cargo of lumber for the first of the week.
Dan Coffey, an old resident of this city, and for a time in command of the steamer Hunter, is now second mate on the Fannie C. Hart, making his first trip last week.
The steamer Bell lost her shoe while making the trip to the slips for her cargo last week. The large and expensive were towed to Detroit by the Weston, clearing Saturday. The Weston returned Tuesday evening.
The Goodrich Line steamer Georgia came into port Tuesday a few minutes before 11 p. m. on her second trip of the season and during the evening the beautiful craft was visited by several hundred people. No expense has been spared in making the Georgia a veritable palace and today the company possess in her the best passenger steamer on the north shore run. The cabins of the steamer are spacious and the ivory enamelled paint used in the wall decorations creates a pleasing effect. The dining room is finished in the same manner, contains six tables and seats 50 persons. Next to the dining room is the cafe and smoking room. The state rooms are all finished throughout in accordance with the saloon and dining rooms each one containing a fine light and heat. The promenade on the boat is spacious, in fact very few steamers the size of the Georgia is so well equipped in this feature. The cabin purfurs and four state rooms on this deck are a marvel of elegance. Even the wheel house has been fitted up with a view to the comfort of its occupants. A large searchlight is located on the hurricane deck and during the evening his power was exhibited for the very valuable to our captains on the north shore run. The large entry at night are narrow and dangerous for large vessels. An examination of the vessel is not complete without a visit to the engine room. The large fore-and-aft compound engine has power to drive the vessel through water as a speed of 14 miles per hour. During the evening the power of high force pump which occupies a portion of the engine room was exhibited. Two lines of three inch hose were used with a six-inch coupling and a hose of six inch and a stream of water hundred foot high thrown from a three-quarter nozzle. The boat is commanded by Capt. Ed. Caras, a veteran and whole-souled gentleman, who votes his whole time in looking after the safety and pleasure of his passengers. A good business is expected to be done this year and the fine steamer should prove a great drawing card. Every state room had been occupied when the boat reached here for the trip up bearing Chicago Saturday morning. The members of the crew are all first in the regular naval uniform.
