MRS. SMITH DEAD.

Death Comes to her After a Long Illness from Consumption.

Mrs. Ada L. Smith, wife of Daniel K. Smith of this city, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Peters, Newberry, died at the hotel Osawinnimakee at about ten o'clock on Saturday morning. Death was caused by consumption and illness extended over nearly three years. The funeral occurred Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the L. O. O. F. M. of which society she was an honored member. Some four weeks ago Mrs. Smith was brought to this city from Ann Arbor.

Deceased was well known in this city and county where she had resided most of her life. She was highly respected by all who knew her. In church work she was highly popular and worked diligently for the upbuilding of the church and its societies. She was a charter member of the L. O. O. F. M. and carried an insurance of $1,000 in it.

Ada L. (Peters) Smith was born in Brookfield township, Eaton county, lower Michigan, in 1871 and came to this city with her parents in 1887. In November, 1896, she was married to Daniel K. Smith of Detroit, then in the employ of D. M. & M. land partnership who took up their residence at Cottage for a time then moving to this city. To them two children were born, now aged about 12 years.

Some three years ago Mrs. Smith became ill and after treatment at home for a time local physicians advised her to go to Denver in hopes that the change in climate would benefit her. At Denver she remained under treatment for some two months and then went to Monterey, Mexico, for both treatment, remaining there six months. Her health was much improved in the south and a home trip was made but upon her return her health began to fail. After five weeks at her home she again returned to Monterey, this time remaining there for about four months. Then she was taken to Ann Arbor to try the Vaughn treatment. During the last six months she failed rapidly in spite of the treatment given her by the best physicians in the country. By her request she was brought to this city where death came as she desired.

The funeral occurred Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the L. O. O. F. M. The impressive and noble services of the society being held at the church. Funeral services were held at the M. E. church, of which deceased is a member for the session being presided by Rev. J. M. Shank of L'Anse, who until last fall was pastor of the church here. The floral tributes were many, showing the respect in which she was held.

Relatives from out of town present at the last of cities were Mrs. M. B. Peters, Newberry, mother of deceased, Mrs. Morgan of Minneapolis, Mrs. Bartlett of Grand City, and Mrs. Tinkler of Ann Arbor, sisters of deceased. Mr. Peters, father of deceased, was unable to reach here on account of a delayed South Shore train.

Arrangements for the funeral were made by Mrs. Smith's close friends and a letter giving all particulars, was opened after her death.

Daniel K. Smith, the husband, and two children, also the relatives, have the sympathy of this community in their loss.

heroin-ton, Nottidge.

Ceremony Occurred at L'Anse Last Evening.

Mr. Norman W. Fox, assistant superintendent of the C. L. Co. and Western Lumber Co. of this city and Misses L. E. Kerwin, until recently teacher in the W. L. Co. school, were work at L'Anse at 3:30 o'clock last evening. Rev. J. M. Shank, pastor of the M. E. church, officiating.

The wedding occurred at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Kerwin, and was only attended by the near relatives of the bride on account of the illness of the bride's father.

The contracting parties are well known and highly popular in this city and their union is sanctioned by all who take the pleasure of the acquaintance. The groom is looked upon as an ideal young gentleman and the bride well she is just beautiful in every sense of the word.

The many friends including the bride's father, in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fox a long and happy life.

They will arrive in this city over the M. & N. W. this evening and will stay at the Hotel Osawinnimakee where they will remain for a time. After the wedding residence, Oak Street, now occupied by Lee Howe, is vacated they will go to home-keeping.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

Republican Caucus for the Nomination of candidates to be held Monday.

On Monday next at the court house, will occur the Republican caucus for the nomination of candidates for township officers of Manistique.

So far, we learn of no opposition to Norman W. Fox, the well known and efficient supervisor, Robert C. McKesson, clerk and Gust Anderson, treasurer. The caucusmen, the present candidates spoken of being Carl Knuth, Hon. Col. and Henri Phelan, the former being the present officer.

For justice of the peace Angus McLeod and Amos L. Hill are spoken of and we learn that D. W. Thompson's name will be presented for the consideration of the voters.

J. S. Collins, Sunday School missionary of the Baptist church, of the peninsula, spent Tuesday and Wednesday of this week as a guest of Deacon and Mrs. M. H. Quirk. He was returning from the Society where he was in attendance at the dedication of the new Swedish Baptist church. The dedication and services being conducted with embroidery, lace, white goods, and handkerchiefs. Also the cats is suspended a dove. Gov. ROOSEVELT would be a most excellent running mate for President McKinley in 1909.
 Gov. PINCHER declares that 16 to 1 is a dead issue, and also that the Democrats have blended until there is really no Democratic party left.

received by its founder, Geo. W. Peck. The paper at one time had the largest circulation of any weekly in the west.

The DEMOCRATIC party should arrange Mark Hunt at once as being the cause of the advance in prices. He has been blamed with nearly everything else.

The phenomenal character of the cold wave of February is shown by the fact that ice flows passed New Orleans and interfered with navigation, for the first time since steamboats appeared on the river. Never since the settlement of the Mississippi valley has the zero been so far South, as it did last month.

The Washington Post says: "The death of Joseph P. Merrill is the last of the old school journalists whose reputations were national." They paragon, but there is Henry Watterson. If he is not of the old school, and if his reputation is not national, what was the old school, and what is a national reputation?

It was nine years ago that President Harrison appointed a commission to investigate the project for an international railroad from the United States to some port in the Argentine Republic. The commission has just completed its labors. The project is pronounced feasible, and the cost of the line, for the rail, is figured at $175,000,000. The road will be built some time in the future, but it will not be very long.

James W. Tapp, the Salvation Army man who, the Democrats of Wichita, Kan., have nominated for the mayoralty, promises a reform if elected. Ten dollars fine for any girl wearing bloomers on the street. Any policeman heard swearing to be his largest, and all will be required to carry a Bible. Religious services to be held twice daily in the city building. Free street car service to all church pews. Sunday theaters and baseball games to be forbidden. Spitting on the sidewalks to be a punishable offense.

Brok. CLAUDIUS B. CRANT is a man whose very presence on the supreme Bench of Michigan reflects honor on the State. His knowledge of the law is profound. His reputation for delivering upright, conscientious and just decisions is beyond state-wide. His fame as a great orator and his character is unsurpassable and unassailable. The Supreme Court is a hallmark asuring to every man his rights, freedom from oppression and civil and religious liberty.

Is Baby Too Thin?

If so, there must be some trouble with its food. Well babies are plump; only the sick are thin. Are you sure the food is all right? Children can't help but grow; they must grow if their food nourishes them. Perhaps a mistake was made in the past and as a result the digestion is weakened. If that is so, don't give the baby a lot of medicine; just use your every-day common sense and help nature a little, and the way to do it is to add half a teaspoonful of to the baby's food three or four times a day. The gain will begin the very first day you give it. It seems to correct the digestion and gets the baby started right again. If the baby is nursing, the mother should take the emulsion. It will have a good effect both upon the mother and child. Twenty-five years prove this fact.

ARMING PRISONERS.

Some bright mind in the Missouri legislature has evolved a bill to enable prisoners to protect themselves against lynching. Whenever a prisoner is threatened with lynching, it shall be the duty of the sheriff whose custody he may be to provide him with effective firearms for self-defense. A sheriff failing to comply with the law shall be fined not more than $500 nor more than $1,000 and dismissed from office.

That bill shows how Missouri takes the idea of any man being married, even though he be an inmate of a jail or penitentiary. It is the privilege of a Missourian to carry a small arsenal of arms and ammunition wherever he goes. Even on the way to church it is considered prudent to carry a gun, battery as a precaution against footpads.

Perhaps it never has occurred to the author of the bill in question that prisoners are made all except those to the usual rule, and disarmed for the convenience of the jailors. Entering a den of lions would be necessary to have a watchful guard on each prisoner day or night, to prevent his opening fire on the jailors. A prisoner's friends might organize a mob with the payed-out purpose of hanging him, and then the sheriff would be obliged to give the prisoner weapons with which to fight his way out of jail. In order to avoid anything of that kind, the only remedy should be required to certify that it is acting in good faith. Dispatch.

NEW YEAR'S CONVENTION.

New York is really waking up. There are evidently some men of affairs there who have gotten over the primitive idea, harding down from the Dutch settlers of New Amsterdam, that the sun sets just beyond the line of the Allegheny Mountains, and that the United States is a wilderness westward of the Hackensack mountains.

There is actually a movement on foot in this city to secure the national all-conventions of the freight party next year. This is a laudable effort to obtain again the primary in politics, which slipped from New York years ago. The seat of power is no longer in the so-called Empire State, but in the great states of the Mississippi valley.

New York city, strange as it may seem, has never entertained but a national convention. That was the Democratic convention in 1858, which nominated Horatio Seymour for President. (Chicago was the first Western city to have a presidential convention, in 1840, the Democrats nominated Buchanan there. Lincoln was nominated at Chicago in 1860, and the majority of national conventions have been held in the West ever since.)

New York may get one of the conventions, but the chance is against her. She is at one side of the country, and a location somewhere in the Mississippi valley is much more convenient for the greater number of delegates. Besides this, the fact that the States of the great central section are the ones whose votes decide presidential contests nowadays, is a practical argument for a Western location for the greater presidential conventions. Toledo bludge.

THE MAN WHO MADE PINGREE. The man who found Pingree has been discovered. The genius who snatched the picturesque Michigan politician from obscurity and put potato patches and other original things in his head has come from his hiding place. His name is Wesselius, and the occasion of this sudden discovery of the government in the report by the late one of railroad commissioners. No one doubted for a moment that Pingree was discovered by some one. Such a man do not burst forth in meteoric splendor without some propelling force behind them. Pingree would never have reached the bursting point without some one to touch off the fuse.

But Wesselius claims that he not only discovered Pingree, but made him. This is different. It is a nosey matter, sometimes, to discover men, but when you have to make them after you have discovered them—when you have to take raw material and invest it with new, original and eccentric ideas—it requires constructive genius of a high order.

Wesselius took the raw and plastic Pingree and shaped him into a personality that now stands for something more than potato patches for the poor. He claims to have conceived the measures which have made the governor famous, "writing business-suggestions, high-falootin' letters. In fact, he is the real Pingree."

The public has been curious to know who made Pingree. Now that the architect of this unique personality has been found, it is not to be seen whether he is to be put under restraint that will prevent him from making another Pingree to be allowed to run at large. Chicago Times Herald.

DICK RODNEY; Or, The Adventures of An Eton Boy...

BY JAMES GRANT.

"What are you about?" asked Watson, angrily.
"Gazing the sting of the fore-ward, sir."
"Oh—I thought you were making hay, you are so slow about it. You have been staring ahead for the last twenty minutes, at least."
"Because I think I see something," said the seaman, annoyed by the nautical lingo.
"Something?" reiterated Watson. "What is it? A church or a windmill going before the wind?"
"Neither, sir—but a boat adrift."
"How does it bear, Ned?" asked Watson, starting into the rigging.
"On the starboard bow, about two miles off."

On hearing this the telescope was resorted to, and a confirmation plainly showing a white object, which the intervening waves, as they rose and fell, hid from us at times; and there was a great diversity of opinion as to the nature of the object. "For the sake of the crew maintained that it was a harbor buoy adrift."
"It must have drifted a long way to have come here," retorted Carlton, "and if you have your grandmother's spectacles about you, wipe them clean, put them on, and look again—for I can see plainly enough that it is a boat."
"Then we shall overhaul it," said Watson; "Hilop, prepare to lower our nets, and to lay the fore-ward aloft."
The Eugene's course was shaped toward it, and when within a quarter of a mile the telescope was laid to the mast, the brig hove in the wind, and the stern bow lowered; Hilop, Tom Lambourne, two other hands and I manned her and put out to inspect and report upon what we could discover. And so, with many surmises as to wrecks, boats getting adrift or being washed away from their davits, and so forth, we pulled swiftly toward her, all stripped to our shirt steers, for a hot West Indian sea was blazing in a cloudless sky, and the air seemed still and breathless.

CHAPTER XIV.
Antonio de Cuba, in his care, we were waded some of our men asserted that at times they could see a man's head above the gunwale. Others expressed their doubts of this, and in the midst of such discussions we steered alongside. Hilop caught the tow by the boat-hook, and while retaining his hold, fastened it to the mainmast being dashed against our bows.

In the bottom of the boat, which was evidently the clinker-built skiff of a merchant vessel, and was all painted yellow, as a protection from the sun in a warm climate, there lay under the thwart a man, either asleep or a stuper, or dead—at first we knew not which, but he was quite pale to have passed for the last.
By his tawny visage and coal-black hair, his long scarp cap and such, as well as the rings in his ears, we recognized him to be a Spanish seaman. He was a man naturally of a middle and powerful frame, but of reddish complexion, and had a certain strength, but wasted apparently by toil, by exposure and famine.
Dark and coagulated crust of something like blood appeared on his forehead and thick matted on his hair, and like the saline particles of the sea foam, dried by the tropical sun, clustered white as frost over on a bush in winter.
As we roused him he grasped his knife instinctively and repulively, but subsided, and then stared wildly at us, muttering in an incoherent tone.
"Aqua, agua, por amor de Dios—water, water, for the love of God," murmured he, in tones of agonizing pain.
"Here, Jack Spaniard," said a drop of water, it is real Jamaica," said Fatsoune, pouring between the parched lips of the Spaniard some rum, which likely had been put in the boat by the forward of Hilop.
The black eyes of the castaway dilated and flashed as the spirit revived, restoring his scattered energies, and bringing a hectic color to his cheeks.
"Deity now," said Tom; "you must tell us some of that water from the brig how you take more of this"
"Muchos gracias—many, many thanks," said the Spaniard, in tones of thankfulness.
"Though 't that—stow your slack of cotton on board if you can," said Watson, testily, as he had ugly recollections of our adventures at the dead Canary.
Retired by the mouthful of alcohol the Spaniard staggered up, but with difficulty; and then we perceived that a gush of blood, dried and encrusted by the sun, were on his person and on the inside of his boat, especially on the sides of the thwart.

"What is this blood?" asked Hilop, with an imperceptible shudder.
The Spaniard started and became, if possible, paler at the question, as he nervously clutched the tails of his tunic with both hands, and said, in accents of alarm:
"My dog, señores; killed a dog that was with me, because it had bit me in the hot sunshine, and being without."

"Why did you not throw it into the sea?"
"It would have bitten me, señor, and I was so thirsty."

"You are a physiognomist," I suggested.
"Don't know what kind of a mist I may be, Major Rodney, but I know—there is always something cunning and dangerous in a fellow who looks over your shoulder, as that Spaniard does, when he should look at your eyes."
Antonio had an excessive dislike for deck duty by night. He exhibited a strange dread of being left alone, and could scarcely be prevailed upon to look over the vessel's side, always shrinking back as if he expected to see something hideous rise out of the sea. Weston suggested that perhaps his recent suffering had unnerved and rendered him nervous, but the crew thought otherwise.

WARSHIPS LEAVE MANILA.

Germany Shows Friendliness to the United States.

ALARMING RUMORS DENIED.

No Possibility of International Trouble at Manila—Protection of German Subjects to be Left to American Authorities.

In the German reichstag Baron Bulo stated that the report of the French having attempted to land marines at Manila was a pure rumour, the French being at Hongkong. He said the Kaiserin Augusta was at Manila, where her presence was necessary in view of the numerous German merchants and residents there.

Substantial evidence of Germany's desire to maintain and improve the friendly relations existing between the Washington and Berlin governments has been furnished to our state department.

At the request of Germany the

J. MADISON WELLS, OF RETURNING BOARD NOTORIETY.

I could see the lights that glittered in the distant silences that studded the low but fertile peninsula of Batangas. All was still and quiet in the ship and hour. Soothed by the solemnity of the hour and the vast solitude of the sea, my heart was full, and many a memory brought before me loved faces and voices, places and scenes, that were far away in dear old England.
The brig was gilling through the water rapidly, but imperceptibly, and almost without a sound; the men of the watch were leaning over the bulwark to leeward, and the air, the sea and all aloft and below seemed to sleep in the moonlight; not a reef-pat pattered on the taut canvas, and scarce a waver rippled save in the dead water astern that mirrored the white wake of the Eugene.
Suddenly a shrill and piercing cry rang out upon the night, and Antonio the Cuban rushed out from the fore-castle with the wildest terror, expressed in his black eyes; his visage was pale and ghastly, and the perspiration glittered like lead drops on his forehead. With his bare feet he stumbled over the chain cable, which lay coiled up on the deck, for on that afternoon was had hailed. It up and sent it to the working anchor.

He came running aft in his shirt, brandishing a knife in his hand, and exclaiming in fierce and then imploring accents:
"Who says I did it! Who dares to say so?"
"Then, letting his arms drop as he slunk back to his bunk, we heard him groan out:
"El cuchillo—el cuchillo!" (the knife—)
Hence, under such circumstances, it may easily be supposed that the crew there floated strange and dark surmises as to the past life of Antonio de Cuba.

SHARKS AND DEAD WHALE.

All Anxious for a Bite of the Huge Carcass.

The presence of a very large quantity of easily obtainable food is always sufficient to attract the undivided attention of the shark tribe, says an Annual Review. When "cutting tin" whales at sea I have often been amazed at the incredible numbers of these creatures that gather in a short space of time, attracted by some mysterious means from heaven only knows what remote distances. It has often occurred to us, when whaling in the neighborhood of New Zealand, to get a sperm whale alongside, without a sign of a shark below or a bird above. Within an hour from the time of our securing the vast mass of flesh in the slip the whole area within at least an acre has been alive with a seething multitude of sharks, while from every quarter came drifting singly an insatiable host of sea birds, converting the blue surface of the sea into the resplendence of a plain of new fallen snow. The body of a whale before an incision is made is the blubber presents a smooth, rounded surface, almost as hard as India rubber, with naturally no spot where any daring rater could find foothold. But, oblivious of all else save that internal anguish of desire, the ravening sea creatures alight with their teeth in the gorges of their bodies for a place at the bounteous feast. Occasionally one pre-eminent among his fellows for enterprise would actually seize his lower jaw and dash it back, mangled, of the mighty carcass and, with a steady sinuous thrust of his little tail, rouge out therefrom a mass of a hundred-weight or so. If he managed to get away with it, the space left presented a curious corrugated hollow, where the serrated triangular teeth had worked their way through the tenacious substance, the glistening plainly what vigorous force must have been behind them. But it was seldom that we permitted such premature toll to be taken of our spoil. The harpooners and officers from their lofty position on scores by simply dropping their sea-crowded blubber spades upon the soft edges of the struggling, and the men and their sharks is vulnerable to instant death. The weapon sinks into the creature's brain, he gives a convulsive writhe or two, releases his hold, and, with a splash, followed in his descent by a knot of his immediate neighbors, all anxious to provide him with prompt sepulture within their own yearning jaws.

"Only the First Step is Difficult."

The first step in Spring should be to cleanse Nature's house from Winter's accumulations. Hood's Sarsaparilla does this work easily. It is America's Greatest Spring Medicine. It purifies the blood, as millions of people say.

It makes the weak strong, as nervous men and women eagerly testify. It cures all blood diseases, as thousands of cured volunteers tell. It is just the medicine for you, as you will gladly say after you have given it a fair trial.

Bad Blood—Although past 70 years of age I am thoroughly well. It was three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla that made me no longer spending over $50 in medical attendance. My troubles, a raw nose on my ankle! Mrs. Lotrus, 344 Broadway, New York, N.Y.

Running Sores—After suffering four months I gave my children Hood's Sarsaparilla and it cured them of running sores, Hood's Pills cured me of dyspepsia and constipation. Mrs. Kate E. Thomas, 31 Governor St., Annapolis, Md.

Consumptive Cough—Five years ago I had a consumptive cough which reduced me to a skeleton. Was advised to take Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did and in six months my cough was cured and I never since. Mrs. M. H. Williams, Cor. Pearl and Chestnut Sts., Jeffersonville, Ind.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Never Disappoints

Hood's Pills cure liver ills, the constipation and the only cathartic to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It isn't what a man gives, but the way he gives it that shows his true character. The liquor question slanders the temperate man more than any other. The man who has to struggle for a living acquires a superior character. Some men drop all their money trying to pick up more.

TESTS PATIENCE.

The Most Patient People Must Show Annoyance at Times.
Nothing spoils a good disposition quicker.
Nothing taxes a man's patience like my itchiness of the skin.
Itching pimples almost drive you crazy. All day it makes you miserable. All night it keeps you awake.
Felt, felt, felt. With an relief. Just the same with eczema.
Can hardly keep from scratching it. You would do so, but you know it makes you worse.
Such miseries are daily decreasing. People are learning they can be cured. Learning the merits of Doan's Ointment.
Plenty of proof that Doan's Ointment will cure piles, eczema, or any itchiness of the skin.
Read the testimony of a Hatfield Creek citizen.

Mr. A. G. Ayers, bookkeeper of 197 West Main street, Battle Creek, says: "My hands became sore from eczema that it was with difficulty I could bend my fingers. The skin cracked open, large scales formed, and it was impossible for me to do any work. I had the spots being tender they itched intolerably. I tried everything I could hear about or get hold of to stop the trouble but I was unable to do so until I procured Doan's Ointment. I had heard it spoken about by several people but as I thought it would not be like all the other preparations which I tried I waited some time until I was compelled from the condition of my hands to do something. Doan's Ointment cured me. Up to date, and this is some years ago, I have never stopped the treatment. I have had no indication of any return. Doan's Ointment for sale by all druggists at the price of 50 cents per tin. The Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute."

What some people don't know they are always talking about.

THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP Co. only, and we wish to impress upon also the importance of purchasing the genuine Syrup of Figs as manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP Co. Only a knowledge of this fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP Co. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, make this year in Iowa amount to more than $18,645,000.

Chicago Lost a Postoffice.
Burglars have open the safe in the East Syracuse, N. Y., postoffice and obtained nearly $1000 in postage stamps and money.
