LIVING IN THE COUNTRY.

The Growing Tendency For Rural Life a Good Sign.
In The Ladies Home Journal Edward Bok, with much justification, uses the strong tendency to country living and believes that "it is one of the best signs of the times. Nothing in the world can keep a man or woman so young and fresh as to abide in its touch each day with the perpetual freshness and youth of nature. Suburban life means more out of door living, and that is what we Americans all need. We want more exercise, and suburban living makes that easier. We want our interests in things kept fresh, and that nature does for us nothing else can."
"The more they men use of nature's restful ways the more restful will they become. The closer we keep our children to the soil the healthier will they be physically and the stronger will they develop mentally. The more our girls breathe in the pure air which the cities pollute, the better women we shall have, the fewer worried mothers we shall see. The more our young men see out of door sports the more clearly will they realize the greatness of splendid physical health."
"The more the tired housewife sees of flowers and plants and trees the cheer will become her interest in all things natural and simple, and as she sees the simplicity with which nature works unobtrusively, will the less be forced upon her her own nature."
We all agree that there is no teacher like nature herself. Let us all, then, get as close to her as possible. "Whatever she teaches is wholesome to the mind and uplifting to the soul and strengthening to the body. In the very act of studying her wonderful ways there is health."

THE ALBATROSS.

A Bird of Mysterious Aerial Velocity and Insatiable Appetite.
Out of the blue void the albatross comes swooping on majestic pinions, yet at such speed that one moment a speck hardly discernible, then but your eyes away, and ere you can again look round he is gliding majestically overhead. Nothing in nature conveys to the mind so wonderful an idea of effortless velocity as does his calm appearance from vacancy. Like most of the true pelagic birds, he is a devourer of offal, the successful pursuit of fish being impossible to his majestic evolutions. His appetite is enormous, but his power of endurance are equally great, and often for days he goes without other nourishment than a drink of the bitter sea. At the Cape of Good Hope he will fly a carcass of a dead whale he will gorge himself until incapable of rising from the sea, yet still his angry serenity may be seen as if protesting against his inability to find room for more provision against hungry days soon to follow.
Despite his incomparable grace of flight when gliding through the air with his mighty wings outspread, when ashore or on deck he is clumsy and ill at ease. Even seated upon the sea, his pretensions appear somewhat magnificently, with his huge hooked beak seems too heavy to be upheld. On land he can barely balance himself, and the broad silvery web of his feet becomes lacerated. Thus his visits to the land and generally inaccessible rocks which are his breeding places are as brief as may be, since even on the water he is really a delicate and delicate creature, and clearly parched with hunger and pain full restraint. A true child of the air, land is hateful to him, and only on the wing does he appear to be really at home and at ease.—London Spectator.

Great Captain!
It would not occur to many people that a voyage in one of the swan boats which sail the little pond in the public garden of a New England city could be so interesting with its history. That idea was firmly fixed in the mind of a small maiden of 7 years.
"Would you like a ride in one of the swan boats, Margaret?" asked the little maid's aunt as they crossed the bridge over the pond one day.
"No, indeed," said Margaret, with smiling shrinking. "I couldn't bear to see them throw the babies in."
"The man says that's what he does," she asserted with rising excitement as her aunt looked much perplexed. "Hear him! He's saying it now."
Her aunt listened, and of a truth the man's statement, viewed from Margaret's standpoint, was far from reassuring.
"Take a ride in the swan boats," he called loudly from the landing. "Great folks, 10 cents; children, 5," and then, with a deceptive smile, he added, "It's bias thrown in."—Youth's Companion.

Napoleon in Evergreen.
The great Napoleon, come in evergreen, in the unique statue that stands in the garden of M. d'Agillieres, in the suburbs of Paris. The statue is a perfect model of the "hills country" in characteristic attitude, wearing a cocked hat and sword and sunbon in hand. The features are very lifelike.
"The greatest care is necessary in order to preserve the likeness, and the artist gardener spends considerable time in clipping off dead leaves and cutting away an occasional branch. The statue of Napoleon is reproduced at the foot of the statue in flowers.—Paris Letter.

Her Maiden Aim.
How—So young Goldrod has taken a wife. What her maiden name was?—Her maiden aim seemed to have been to marry Goldrod, and she proved an unusually good shot for a woman.—Philadelphia Record.

A SUMMER RESORT.

One of the Beaver Islands Will Be Beautified and a Hotel Built.
Hon. James G. prominent of Buffalo, a capitalist and prominent wholesale fish dealer, was in the city last week. Mr. Donner is associated with eastern capitalists in the organization of the Frontenac Hotel Co.
This company owns Beaver Island just north of Deaths Door and will develop one of the finest summer resorts in the northwest. Mr. Donner is very enthusiastic over the project. The company will expend upwards of $25,000. A big summer hotel will be built this fall at a cost of nearly $50,000. Cottage grounds will be planted and a forty acre park laid out at the entrance of the harbor.

We are permitted to say that the Hart line people and other transportation companies have taken stock, and are much interested in the project. It is probable that the beautiful "Chateau Frontenac" and its surrounding chalets and cottages will next season offer a new attraction to the multitude of pleasure-seekers coming to our shores.
Nature has done everything for the locality; the architect will soon do the remainder. The site selected commands itself to those who appreciate the beautiful in landscape and the vicinity, and we prophesy for Point Frontenac a prosperous career. In good hands it will in time be a very active competitor for the increasing crowds of pleasure-seekers overrunning Northern Michigan. Memorandum.
The Beaver group are located about 20 miles south and east of this city.

Right and Wrong Way.
As there are many women; so there are many ways by which they lift their skirts.

Several two of them perform this seemingly simple manipulation of the dress, and not one in ten do it correctly, or so that it is at the same time graceful and sensible.

The fashion of the energetic woman who pulls her skirt to a rather higher altitude than seems necessary. She may be misguided, but her skirt at least clears the ground.

But the listless, indolent woman, who trails her skirts in the dust, and makes a mess through that mud mire, should not be tolerated. She probably thinks she is stylish and extravagant, if she thinks about it at all. Her fellow citizens think unbecomingly things, and delight in tramping the flowing drapery under foot whenever opportunity offers.

The correct way to lift a skirt is to gather it neatly with the right hand, about eight inches from the waist line in the back. Then lift it straight up to the level of the ground, by the side or four inches. This is the way to lift a skirt and the only way. Don't for anything lift it with both hands. It is unnecessary and pulls the skirt out of shape.

Don't lift it from the front. This method may be graceful, but it is inefficient. And don't abuse all things let your skirt drag. Remember that cleanliness is next to godliness, and the woman who drags her skirts cannot keep them as clean as she should, and is in danger of carrying home the germs of disease and death in her street-sweeping dirty shoes.—World.

WHITEHALE.

Mr. Teets brought a load of twenty people to the supper at Marblehead last Thursday evening. A large crowd was present, and not only the orders were engaged but a social time. Mr. Morsani, of Marblehead, outstayed the people by several selections from his gramophone, and Mrs. Sturge, of White-Hale, with two vocal solo readings.

The house of Maden's Hall was well attended. A good time reported by Miss Mabel Neveaux, spent Saturday night with the ladies in.

There must be a good reason why the coffee lovers of America buy millions of pounds of ARBUCKLES' COFFEE in preference to any other kind. The reason is found in its rich drinking qualities; in its permanent goodness. The quality never changes. Whether you buy it of a big coffee dealer or at a little grocery store around the corner, you get the same coffee, the same goodness, the same value for your money. You can't be deceived if you buy

ARBUCKLES' Roasted Coffee

It is prepared by an individual firm who value their reputation too highly to endanger it by lowering the standard of their coffee. It is hermetically sealed and put up in packages by people of many years experience and utmost reliability. It is not ground because ground coffee loses two-thirds of its flavor before reaching the consumer. It is not sold in bulk because of the possibilities of adulteration. It is not sold at a high price because it is better to sell millions of pounds of coffee at a small profit than hundreds of pounds at a large profit.

Every package of Arbuckles' Roasted Coffee contains information about many valuable articles that the consumer is entitled to receive. Ask your grocer for Arbuckles' Roasted Coffee.

Robbed the Grave.
A startling incident, of which Mr. John Tipton of Philadelphia, was the subject is reported by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes swollen, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for two weeks and in a few days I was well again. I know they saved my life, and would the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. MANISTIQUE, MICHIGAN.

Usually the man of might is a man who was.

There are some men too stingy to give a tribute.

The troubles a man usually tries to drown are those he borrows.

A bachelor says a woman always means what she says while she is saying it.

Poor reputations would be scarce if all men were credited with their good intentions.

Absence makes the heart grow fonder of the bright-faced girl on the golden coil.

No man ever thinks he has attained his proper position in the world until he is able to look down on somebody.

Some men are so fond of an argument that they will dispute with a guide board about the distance to the next town.

The average woman would never be successful in running for office; she would have to stop often to see if her hat was on straight.

Representatives of Germany and the United States contemplate a joint excursion to the south pole. Assuredly this is going a long way in friendship.

An Illinois rural preacher rode over into an adjoining county on his bicycle to see an electric trolley. This isn't the first time Cupid has seized with the wheel.

Whomsoever, when once the acute stage has passed, can often be relieved by very simple means. The paroxysms of coughing are then chiefly nervous in character, and can often, like other nervous spasms, be relieved by anything which distracts the child's attention. One of the best ways of accomplishing this is to hold a bottle of ordinary smelling-salts under the child's nose, not suddenly, so as to cause fright, but quietly, with the assurance that it will help the cough.

W. K. Anderson, United States Consul at Haines, says that it remains generally admitted that the man best suited, when once it comes into competition with the Cuban product, must go to the wall. In fact, the industry from utter destruction, many plans have been proposed, but the most available seems to be to increase home consumption. It is suggested that the farmers are to ration to the soldiers and to encourage farmers to feed it to stock, especially to hogs. Of course, this will necessitate the closing of the article, and the only way this can be effectively accomplished is to abolish the taxes now paid on sugar consumed in Germany, and reduce or entirely discontinue sugar bonuses.

Columbus, Ohio, dispatches state that a company is being organized to build a rail road from Toledo to Middletown. The road is to rest upon a line of single iron pillars, which are to be set in concrete stone foundations. The cars will run upon a single traction rail upon a heavy iron base extending between the pillars and will be propelled forward through the agency of a single gear rail above. The complete structure will extend twenty-three feet above the ground. Experts pronounce the road to be one of the most practical and economical ever proposed. A locomotive requires four pounds of coal per horse power per hour, of which is obtained a speed of sixty miles, while these cars will run with a consumption of one and one-half pounds of coal per horse power per hour, with an average speed of 200 miles per hour.

The pardon of Capt. Dreyfus by the French government undoubtedly brings to a definite close, so far as judicial proceedings are concerned, all action on the part of the unfortunate Jew, or on the part of his friends. Neither is any more to be done in the way of a pardon, which will permit the taking of further sworn evidence touching the guilt or innocence of the accused man. He has been fully acquitted, and by the pardon he is morally pronounced not guilty. The "extraordinary circumstances" found by the court-martial, and the pardon, in the verdict of the court, for there can be no circumstances that extenuate treason. The government cannot be contradicted by pardon of the man. If he were guilty, his offense was so great that a pardon could not be merited. With a moral victory, therefore, must be content. The civilized world believes him innocent.

Presenting Admiral Dewey with a loving cup, in the name of the city of New York, Mayor Van Wreke called him "a man of destiny." He is "What ever honor the nation can bestow has been paid him and he deserves it all. But his unparalleled success and the people's united prayer have only awakened in the heart of the honest soldier a sense of deep humility. His "destiny" is to demonstrate the essential modesty of true greatness. Admiral Dewey's most abiding victory has been over himself.

BOERS CROSS NATAL BORDER

British Territory Invaded by the Transvaal Forces.

TRAIN PROPERTY SEIZED.

Free State Harbors Cape Province Railroad. Boer-Orange Power Seen in a Mood to Force Intervention—American Position.

War between Great Britain and the Transvaal Republic was formally declared by the Boers Oct. 10.

Hostilities in the Transvaal may be said to have begun. The Boer government sent an ultimatum to Great Britain Oct. 10, which was at once rejected. The ultimatum demanded the removal of British troops from the frontier, and declared that failure to assent to the terms of the ultimatum by 5 o'clock p. m. on Wednesday, Oct. 11, would be construed as a declaration of war.

Until the arrival of the army corps it is probable that the British will everywhere remain on the defensive.

The latest estimates of the Boer strength put the total at 21,000 men. The Orange Free State has 10,000 men in the field.

Close watch on the movements of the French diplomats tends to confirm the rumor that Moutourief, Russian foreign minister, is endeavoring to form a general European coalition against Great Britain.

The Paris Times, in a bitter editorial, attacked the attitude of the United States toward the Transvaal, intimating that President McKinley intended to favor the cause of the Boers, and that "God" would punish him for so doing.

It now appears established that Germany's attitude toward Great Britain will be one of benevolent neutrality. The other European powers are considering their position.

At a mass meeting at New York resolutions were adopted expressing the opinion "that Great Britain was not possess any right of intervention in the internal affairs of the South African republic, either by treaty or by international law."

A South Africa firm in London having a dispatch from Cape Town saying a revolution of the Dutch in Cape Colony is imminent.

The Boers are flying the Irish flag with the flags of the Transvaal and Orange Free State.

The British government is arranging for the removal of New Zealand fishermen in the next voyage.

The Dutch moderate liberals are urging direct intervention between Great Britain and the Transvaal.

President Snyen of the Orange Free State has issued a strong appeal to his subjects to make and resist his independence.

It is officially announced that the United States will in no way interfere in the war in South Africa. Preparation will be taken that neither our territory nor our citizens shall suffer any injury.

Friday, Oct. 13.

Sir George White's forces are reported to have had a battle with Boers near the Orange Free State and British border. The result of the fight is not known.

Re-arranged in Capt. Towa that Boers are being tracked by British.

A mounted train and two guns were captured by the Boers near Krainan. In the fight the British, it is reported, lost one killed and one wounded.

The Boers, with twelve guns, are said to be preparing to assault Mafeking. They are endeavoring to get into the town by a route between two lines.

A force from the Orange Free State is reported to be advancing through the Orange Free State and British border.

The Canadian cabinet has decided to send 1,000 officers and men to the Transvaal.

The United States Consul in Durban, Natal, has been instructed to host for British interests.

Another seizure of 25,000 ounces of gold has been made by the Transvaal government. Gold valued at $2,500,000 is said to have been seized in Johannesburg.

Marital law has been proclaimed in the Orange Free State and British border. Subjects have been warned to leave the country before 5 o'clock this evening.

The Transvaal government has issued a notice ordering the subjects of Great Britain to be deprived the republic of independence on account of the gold mines on the Rand.

Something for California Farmers. Farmers' Bureau will receive for such products of their orchards and vineyards as are canned or dried.

Fire at Makanda, Ill. A large proportion of the business houses of Makanda, Ill., was destroyed by fire. Seventeen business places were burned with a loss of $200,000.

Have Prevalent Thrombosis King. News comes from Sumatra that the natives have proclaimed Thrombosis as their deity, and that they will worship the United States, Germany and Great Britain to abolish that deity.

SPEAKS IN THE NORTHWEST.

President McKinley Warmly Welcomed in Many Cities.

President McKinley and his cabinet members completed their day's work Oct. 13 in Fargo, N. D. The president in his speech warmly praised the conduct of the troops in the Philippines.

At Aberdeen, S. D., part of the returned South Dakota Volunteers took part in the demonstration.

President McKinley's greeting at Superior and Duluth came mostly from the school children. At both towns he spoke briefly. At Duluth, Minn., Stages and Wadsworth large crowds with flags were assembled, and the president addressed them at Brainerd.

Mrs. McKinley is in better health than at any time since leaving Washington.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF TRADE.

Don & Co. say Industrial Conditions Good Hardly Better.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

"Industrial conditions could hardly be better. After many months of such extraordinary buying that its continuance seemed impossible, even larger buying still crowds producing works, and the price of raw materials is falling. The latest estimates of the Boer strength put the total at 21,000 men. The Orange Free State has 10,000 men in the field.

TALMAGH'S SERMON.

THE HORNET'S MISSION LAST SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

Verse of Deuteronomy as Follows: "The Lord Thy God Will Send the Hornet."

(Copyright 189 by Louis Klopsch.)

It seems as if the insect world were determined to extirpate the human race. It bombards the grain fields and the orchards and the vineyards. The Colorado beetle, the locust, the grasshopper, the New Jersey locust, the universal potato-beetle, seem to carry on the work which was begun ages ago when the insects buzzed out of Noah's Ark as the door was opened.

In my text, the hornet flies out in its mission. It is a species of wasp, whose sting is very painful and annoying. Its touch is torture to man or beast. We have all seen the cattle run following under the cut of its legs. In my text we need to stand cautiously looking at the global net hung from the tree-trunk, and while we were looking at the wonder-working insect, we saw something that sent us shrieking away. The hornet goes in swarms. It has captives over hundreds, and twenty or more of them one man will produce certain death.

The Persians attempted to conquer Christian city, but the shepherds and the flocks on the Persian side were assaulted by the hornet, so that the whole army was broken up, and the besieged city was rescued. This lesson is a warning to us, for the Hittites and the Canaanites from their country. What gloaming swarms and chorons of war could not accomplish was done by the power of an insect. "The Lord sent the hornet."

My friends, when we are assaulted by the evils of this world, we get on the high-metalled steed of our course, and we make a cavalry charge at them, and if God be with us, we come out stronger and better than when we went in. But alas for those who are weak in faith—these few small to shoot these things without any antidotal woe!—the gnats and the midges and the flies and the wasps and the hornets in other words, it is the small stinging annoyances of our life which sting us out and use us up. In the best of our life, for some grand and glorious purpose God has sent the hornet.

It is the small annoyances of our life which sting us out and use us up. In the best of our life, for some grand and glorious purpose God has sent the hornet.

says, there was an invasion of rats, and these small creatures almost depopulated the town, and I threatened the lives of the population, and the story is that a piper came out one day and played a very sweet tune, and all the rats came forth and followed him to the banks of the Waver, and then he blew a blast and they dropped in and disappeared forever. Of course, this is a fable, but I could, on the sweet flute of the gospel, draw forth all the nibbling and burrowing annoyances of your life, and play them down in the same way. How many touches did Mr. Church give to his picture of "Cotopaxi," or his "Heart of the Andes"? I suppose about fifty thousand touches. I hear the canvas saying: "Why do you keep me trembling with that pencil so long? Why don't you put it on one dash?" "No," says Mr. Church, "I know how to make a painting; it will take fifty thousand of these touches." And I want you, my friends, to understand that it is these ten thousand annoyances which, unless we are making up the picture of your life, to be hung at last in the galleries of heaven, fit for angels to look at. God knows how to make a painting; it will take fifty thousand of these touches."

I go into a sculptor's studio and see him shaping a statue. He has a chisel in one hand and a mallet in the other, and he gives a gentle stroke, click, click, click! "Why don't you strike harder?" "Oh," he replies, "that would shatter the statue. I must give it a gentle touch, and a canopy of blessing. God is going to fulfill to you the blessings and the promises."
