★ Approximately one in four of the 158,000 lives lost each year in the United States from cancer could be saved if the knowledge already in existence could be made available to all—assuming that the knowledge is acted upon promptly. Here are the danger signals:

1. Any lump or thickening, especially of the breast.
2. Irregular bleeding or discharge from any of the body openings.
3. Any sore that does not heal.
4. Persistent indigestion.
5. Sudden changes in the form or growth of a mole or wart.
6. Hoarseness persisting for two or three weeks.
7. Regional pain.

Only in the early stages can cancer be successfully arrested. At the appearance of suspicious symptoms see your doctor at once. For prompt, expert prescription service, call on us.

This Week's Public Issue

(Editor's Note: Here are the pertinent facts on a public issue as prepared by the University of Michigan Department of Political Science. This material is designed to present both sides of the question to help you in your thinking on current issues. Your club or discussion group may also find this column useful.)

SHOULD THE MICHIGAN LEGISLATURE PASS THE GRIFFITHS-DOYLE "FAIR EMPLOYMENT PRACTICE" BILL?

Background
 "Fair Employment Practice" means employment without discrimination because of race, color, creed or national origin. The phrase came into use in World War II when the national emergency required the most efficient use of all available manpower. A Commission was established to carry out the terms of an executive order issued by President Roosevelt forbidding such discriminatory practice in defense industries or government employment. At the end of the war, however, the Federal Fair Employment Practice Commission (FEPC) ceased operations and this problem was left to the states to handle as they saw fit. Since 45 New York, Massachusetts and New Jersey have adopted FEPC acts.

In this state, the platforms of both major parties have had "Fair Employment Practice" planks. The Griffiths-Doyle Bill represents an effort by Democratic legislators to implement the promise of their party. Republican legislators are reported to be preparing a bill on this subject which will provide for a popular referendum. Under the Griffiths-Doyle Bill it would be unlawful: (1) for an employer to refuse to hire a person because of race, color, or national origin, or to discriminate on rate of pay or working conditions on such grounds; (2) for a labor organization to exclude or expel a person for such reasons; (3) for an employer or employment agency to print advertisements or use application forms discriminating on these grounds; and (4) to discharge, expel, or otherwise discriminate against a person objecting to discriminatory practices. A five-member commission would be established which would have the right to compel witnesses to testify about alleged violations of the Act. Where violations are discovered the Commission would first attempt to remedy the situation by conciliation. If that fails, public hearings would be held and the Commission could issue orders to cease and desist from unlawful employment practices. These orders could be appealed in the courts. Willful violations of the law could be punished by a fine of $500 or a year in prison.

Some of the chief points made in the discussion of this issue have been:

Yes
 1. Political democracy is meaningless if we do not also have economic democracy. Discrimination on grounds of race, color, religion or national origin is a relic of the dark ages. If we are to pose as champions of democracy and the common man we must not leave ourselves open to the Communist charge that we do not have genuine democracy in our own country.

2. An act substantially the same as the one proposed for Michigan has been in operation in New York for several years. On the whole it has worked very well and the possibility of fine or imprisonment has not been used.

3. While it is true that the problem is basically one of education, placing a law on the books is the quickest way to educate people. It also protects the progressive employer and trade union against chiseling by unscrupulous competitors.

No
 1. Employment is not a civil right. If any kind of rights are involved, it is not reasonable to choose his working associates as well as his social companions? The proposed act invades a new field when it undertakes to dictate who may be hired by a private employer or who is to be allowed to join a labor union.

2. If racial discrimination is to be eliminated, it will come about only by the slow process of education. It is useless to pass laws against tendencies ingrained in human nature, as we saw in the prohibition amendment failure.

3. This is an example of a bill forced on the attention of the legislature by representatives of organized minorities. If it is passed it could be used by agitators to stir up racial strife. Legislation should represent the genuine wishes of the majority of our citizens and not come from relatively small pressure groups.

News of 4-H CLUBS

Mrs. Elwyn Anderson, leader of the River Road Club, is getting her summer program under way. She says they are putting a lot of emphasis on flower culture, and handicrafting this year.

The Achievement Day program will feature an open house at the Lincoln Gym on the night of April 4; a double feature at the Oak Theater in the morning and the Style review and awards program in the afternoon on April 5.

We have just received a supply of booklets on sewing with cotton bags. It shows dresses, aprons, curtains, tablecloths, and a variety of novelty items all out of flour and feed sacks. They are available to anyone wishing them.

We also have a folder from Michigan State College with a variety of recipes for snack preparation. It tells how to fry, broil, pickle, bake, and prepare smelt in a dozen different ways.

The tractor meeting at Linderoth's was good. Frank Provo did an excellent job showing how to keep the farm tractor running well and Mr. Linderoth put on the final touch by serving ice cream, cakes, and cookies. We appreciate that kind of cooperation.

It would be an amendment to require a vote of the people before a tax could be levied. Bates says that he wants to give cities a new source of revenue "so that they won't have to come begging to the legislature for handouts." Opponents contend that cities could levy excessive taxes under present laws simply by amending their charters.
 In two and a half weeks the spring election will be held. Although there was much talk in the legislature, it was finally decided not to submit any proposals for amending the constitution. The people will choose a superintendent of public instruction, state highway commissioner, two supreme court justices, two regents of the University of Michigan, two members of the board of agriculture and a member of the state board of education plus various county, township and school board officials. The election is considered important by Republicans and Democrats because both the superintendent of public instruction and the highway commissioner automatically become members of the Administrative board that helps run the state when the legislature is not in session.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Never Too Late To Learn
 Cappy Miller's young son, Squint, is forever coming up with new ideas. Now they're not all world beaters, but Cappy is usually willing to give them a try.
 Squint found a new way to clear brush. They take two tractors, about thirty feet apart, and connect them with a heavy chain weighted down on the ground with old iron. First they both go parallel in one direction, then they go back over the same swath in the opposite direction and up comes the brush—roots and all. Worked fine and saved time.

Harry and John E. Spielmacher, Cooks; C. Francis Spielmacher, Milwaukee; and J. Leo Spielmacher, Providence.

Modern Theatre Trends Topic Of Review For Club

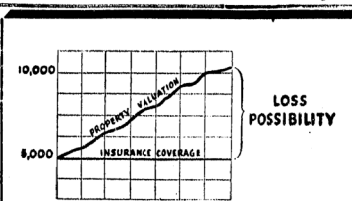

(By Katherine H. LeBrasseur)
 "The lights are low, the music starts. Can you not hear fast-beating hearts? What will the actors do and say? What will they sing and what will they play?"
 The answers to such questions, pertaining to current drama, were skillfully demonstrated to the Manistique Women's Club at their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon by the talented local reader of great repute, Mrs. Gordon Hughes. Mrs. Hughes, an ardent, avid student of the theatre, play-writing, stage settings and stage directing, enlightened, entertained and stimulated her audience with her expert interpretation and review of present season's plays and some work from several outstanding new playwrights.
 "Women like wholesome plays with a nostalgic charm. The worthwhile plays are sadder in tone. Tho' it has been said the stage holds a mirror up to life we dislike the idea that life may be as sordid as some of the current shows present it to be," the speaker said as she proceeded to describe Eugene O'Neill's "The Ice Man Cometh"; Tennessee Williams' "A Streetcar Named Desire"; and "Death of a Salesman" by Arthur Miller. Mrs. Hughes paid tribute to the direction of Ella Kazan and the stage settings by Jo Mielziner used to determine why industries have come to the state and left it since 1939.

One of the arguments being used against Governor Williams' proposal to levy a four per cent corporate income tax is that it will drive Michigan industry out of the state. The department of Economic Development is now preparing a study which may have an important bearing on this question. Data furnished by power companies is being used to determine why industries have come to the state and left it since 1939.

Mrs. Fred LeDuc, of Escanaba, spent Wednesday here with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. LeDuc, Indian Lake.

Rev. Safran Gives Sermon On Grand Jury In Michigan

The Rev. John Safran, pastor of the First Methodist church here, delivered a sermon on the theme "Only to God" at church service Sunday, March 6.
 The Rev. Mr. Safran told his congregation as he led the legislative committee, that he would give the power now vested in a one-man grand jury "only to God."

 Under the system, he declared, a person called before the judge conducting the grand jury is denied the right to be heard in the open and cannot be accompanied by counsel.
 Before entering the ministry, the Rev. Mr. Safran practiced law in Detroit.

Germak Notes
Ed Toevy lost a horse last week, more horses have died in the township this year than for many years, if there were ever as many before.
Would it not be a wise move to close our school here and give the children an opportunity to get well. We have had sickness more or less among the children since school opened in the fall and we have to believe that the sanitary conditions have much to do with it. The school is one half too small for so many children and can not be ventilated. Some of the cranks who oppose the new school, can't better sanitary conditions for their cattle than we do for our children.

Here's how you can celebrate Easter

What does Easter mean to you? Sunrise Services... new spring clothes, baskets of early colored eggs for the children!
It means that Easter Seal ring is here! To who not celebrate this Easter by giving more Easter Seals. Remember, the money you contribute by buying Easter Seals is used for this one important purpose... to provide handicapped children with adequate medical care... with wheel chairs and braces and a lot of other things they need. It's used to give these specialized vocational training... healthful recreation... a chance to go to camp in the summer... to swim and romp and play games like other kids.

GULLIVER SUMMER RESIDENT SUICIDE

Despondent Over Bride's Death, Robert Corbridge, 23 Takes Own Life

Funeral services were held in Rockford, Ill., Wednesday last week for Robert Oliver Corbridge, 23, whose grief over the loss of his bride, Joan, 18, in an auto accident on Black Cat curve in Florence county, Wis., last Memorial Day led to his recent suicide in Rockford.

The young man, son of a well-to-do paint manufacturer, O. D. Corbridge, who has a summer home at Gulliver Lake, and his bride of eight days had traveled 3,000 miles on their honeymoon and were bound in his Row convertible to their parents' summer home near here when the accident occurred.

The car collided with a car driven by Biagio Timpani, of Gastra. Mrs. Corbridge, who was reclining with her head in her husband's lap, was instantly killed, and Corbridge spent several weeks obtaining medical and dental treatment in Crystal Falls after the tragedy.

It was reported that he had recovered fairly well from his injuries but his spirits had been depressed since the accident.

He is survived by his parents.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Keating

There was a time when the entire future of America hinged on whether there were to be buffalo and no white people west of the Mississippi, or whether there were to be no buffalo and plenty of whites.

So if some misguided but kind-hearted humanitarian buttonholes you and tells you that wiping out the buffalo was a crime against humanitarian instincts, smile and say nothing. You know that it was either the buffalo or our necks.

As long as the buffalo abounded it was simply impossible to vanquish the Indians from the plains. They made monkeys of the U. S. Army as long as they had their food supply—plenty of buffalo.

The story of these buffalo days is one of the great sagas of America, and yet, according to historical writer Charles Roth, it is doubtful if any other subject so close to home is so much misunderstood.

Most of us have a mental picture of a man riding a horse and a sharp blast firing his rifle directly into the huge body. This running method was merely a show-off's way, and only amateur exhibitionists with horseflesh to spare used it.

The professional hunter used a much more prosaic system which made up for its lack of drama by being about 600 times more effective. It was known as "hunting from a stand," and was developed because some smart bird eradicated an interesting quirk in the psychology.

First was that far from mauling the plains in herd numbers millions, the buffalo came was an animal that ran in groups of 10 or 20 individuals, charge not of a following but of an old cow.

Second was that if you look one of these groups and find a leader under the lungs, you can make her bleed. The old wouldn't take flight, but would around until you could shoot every member of the gang. It was exciting, as showing a charge here in somebody's baggage.

The buffalo's disposition helped him preserve himself posterity either. He was the most stupid animal crowded into the ark. He had most no protective equipment, eyesight was poor, his hearing poorer, and his coat's color wasn't pungent; his instinct was to run. And such a low animal, I. Q. that didn't even think of running if his manna was shot. So he was doomed.

SHIPPING MAY BE DELAYED BY COLD

Ice Coverings Tightened Over Most of Upper Great Lakes Basin

The recent cold wave, still continuing over most of the Upper Great Lakes basin, has tightened ice covering on bays and channels and may delay the opening of the 1938 shipping season by several days.

The Department of Commerce shows that little deterioration has occurred during the past week because of low temperatures. Ice-breakers have been operating in "strategic channels" but northern harbors at Escanaba, Whitefish Bay, St. Mary's river, and the Straits of Mackinac were all ice-filled.

Green bay ice was reported 8 to 10 inches thick, smooth with numerous channels to beyond Sturgeon Bay, some being honey-combed and breaking loose from shores.

Both Little and Big Bay de Noc is little change in conditions with were ice covered 12 to 16 inches thick, with Little Bay very solid and Big Bay badly deteriorated.

A. W. Heitman, general superintendent of the Inland Line and Stone company, said Thursday that the first boat of the shipping season, the P. D. Block, is scheduled to load at Port Inland, the company's shipping point 28 miles east of Port Inland, next Monday. This is an earlier opening than usual at Port Inland. The P. D. Block, of the Inland fleet, will carry a stone cargo to the Inland Steel company's plant at Indiana Harbor.

Open water is reported 10 miles south of the Escanaba lighthouse, and the ice is broken outside Minneapolis Shoal light.

Ice in the Escanaba harbor was reported 12 to 14 inches thick but it could be easily broken. The harbor at Green Bay is open, while Sturgeon Bay ice is 4 to 6 inches.

On Lake Michigan Manistique harbor is open but Port Inland has ice 12 to 16 inches. Tankers and fish boats are operating freely in the southern two-thirds of the lake.

At the Straits of Mackinac there is little change in conditions with ice solid to beyond vision. The first passage there is estimated about April 1 if warm weather occurs, but later if the cold weather continues.

Lake Superior has broken ice. Manistique harbor ice is 10 to 12 inches, Marquette light ice, Duluth-Superior solid blue ice up to 27 inches. At Sault Ste. Marie locks the first ship passage is tentatively scheduled for March 27.
