

Polarization Of Power Current Important Factor In Political World Scene, Professor Says

University of Michigan Lecturer Predicts Continuation Of "Cold War"

Continuation of what Walter Lippman dubbed our "cold war" with Russia, perhaps for many months, was predicted in a talk by Professor Russell E. Wright of the University of Michigan's political science department, here Wednesday night. Fifield's lecture was the first of a six-week extension course to be conducted in Manistique and four other upper peninsula cities dealing with "Areas of Russian-American Conflict."

There is, however, a real danger that crisis after crisis in the "cold war" might well precipitate a "hot war," which would inevitably become World War III, the speaker said. Events of the past few months have indicated that neither the United States nor Russia is inclined to create one of these so-called "incidents" which might lead to a hot war. When Russia occupied territory to reach Berlin, this country introduced the now-famous air lift which supplied food, fuel and other necessities to the beleaguered city. Russia might well have attacked one of our planes, and her failure to do so indicates a reluctance on the part of the Soviet Union to precipitate a new World War.

If occasions were sought for either a break in diplomatic relations or for an opening in hostilities, they have been frequently provided in the Middle East, and Asia, Fifield pointed out. The resulting situation is a "cold war," a twilight of peace, an interlude of uncertainty along the frontiers from Stettin to Trieste in Europe and along the thirty-eight parallel in Korea.

Alternatives Peace or War "The implications of a two power world are at least sixfold," he went on. "In the first place, the world is faced with either global peace or global war. Since the interests of the two super powers are world-wide and as any conflict between them would involve the whole world, peace is truly indivisible."

"Closely related to the indivisibility of world peace and war is the extreme likelihood that neither the Soviet Union nor the United States will be a permanent ally before it is actually drawn into a conflagration once it breaks out. In the first World War, Russia was involved in the conflict."

Morrison of Grafton, Mich. will not come to Manistique to debate the matter of Michigan's one-man grand jury system in response to a request for a public hearing addressed to him by the Rev. John Safran, pastor of the First Methodist church here and arch-opponent of the one man grand jury. Safran: I received your letter of March 11th and took the copy in the Manistique Tribune. I am sorry to disappoint you, but I cannot accept your invitation to come to Manistique with me to discuss the one man grand jury. I must do so on the Ways and Means Committee, which must first advise me as to the One Man Grand Jury. I don't pretend to know much about it, and I would not be able to answer many questions. I have not read your letter, but I would not want to repeat this law, nor that I would vote for it, and I have said that if by some means I could be before the House, I would listen to both sides of the question and decide according to my best judgment. I believe that is what I have been sent here to do. You may say, "why don't you read these bills?" There have been 638 bills introduced this session and it is impossible to read them in its own right. Here is just one of the many cases we, here in our committee, have been trying to take care of. One of the bills is the bill of the Home for the Feeble Minded at Lapeer told of a woman who gave birth to a child with an enlarged head, and since there was no room for the child in the state institutions, she had to care for it herself, until she finally went insane. She was sent to a state hospital where, after a while, she recovered and was able to return home, where she again took care of this child until she again went insane. This matter is a state responsibility, but we have had room in our institutions for the child. This is just one of the problems that keeps us busy on Ways and Means. Very truly yours, David P. Morrison, State Representative.

To Our Depositors

The 1945 session of the Legislature amended the Intangible Tax Law. This differs materially from the original act in that tax on money on deposit is increased to forty cents per thousand without any deduction whatsoever. The banks of the State are held responsible for the collection and remittance of the tax. The banks are required to remit the tax to the State. They may either charge it to the depositor's account or assume it themselves. Some will choose the first method and others the second.

The Directors of the two banks in Schoolcraft County have decided to assume and pay the tax and have filed the notice with the State as required by statute. Therefore, when you file your Return, you need make no statement regarding money on deposit in Banks in this county.

The foregoing applies to the intangible tax of 1948, which is payable in 1949. We do not know what the law may be in subsequent years and therefore can make no statement now as to the course then to be followed.

Taxes levied and spent by the State of Michigan, cities and schools seems rather insignificant when compared with the $2,500,000,000 paid by Michigan taxpayers to the federal government last year. With a State population of more than six million, this figures out to about $1,000 for every person in Michigan.

Best immediate hope for lightening this huge tax burden will be found in the Hoover Commission task force reports now being issued from Washington at the rate of two or three a week. These reports analyze the operation of each Federal bureau, expose the red tape, and, more important, make recommendations for eliminating it. If these recommendations are followed an estimated $3,000,000,000 a year may be saved.

Michigan now has 102 administrative agencies, but there is a good chance that one of these may be eliminated. A Senate tax investigating committee has found that the State's Board of Tax Appeals last year reports more being issued than 100 cases over the people to realize that 60 cents out past seven years, working about two or three days a week.
 The board has been labeled a "burden the State cannot afford."

Robert F. Stedman, state controller, reports that "It will be a considerable surprise to many people to realize that 60 cents out of every dollar that it is anticipated the state will spend in 1949-'50 will be in the form of financial aid to or for local governments."

Serving lunch to Michigan school children is a big business. In the first four months of the school year, 1,561,150 meals were served in 1,508 schools in 766 participating school districts. Total cost for the year is about $100,000.

Welfare laws are being given rigorous scrutiny by members of a Senate investigating committee.
 Senator Colin Smith, (R, Big Rapids) says that standards will be revised to emphasize that public assistance is a privilege, not a right, and to safeguard the interest of taxpayers. Senator Smith also believes that greater stress should be placed on rehabilitation and that a well-planned program should be formulated to justify appropriations.

Another new tax idea has been suggested by Representative William Romano (D, Van Dyke). He wants to place a ten per cent tax on the gross sales of professional football, hockey and baseball tickets. He estimates that this tax would raise approximately $1 million a year for the state. Such a tax now is collected on boxing and wrestling matches.

Have trouble finding a place to park? Could be because 1948 Michigan motor vehicle registrations totaled 2,604,712, about 3.5 persons per car. This represented an increase of 181,111 vehicles over the 1947 level which is greater than the 125,000 population growth estimated by the U. S. Bureau of the Census for that period.

Are you surprised?
 Many of us would find our income tax load lightened considerably if a proposal made by William T. Guinan of the Builders Association of Metropolitan Detroit were adopted. He thinks every homeowner should have an income tax exemption of five per cent on his property for maintenance and depreciation. Many landlords, Guinan said, already have such an exemption and it is only fair to give this help to other owners.

More than 34,000 students are now enrolled in the University of Michigan, Michigan State College and Wayne University. These three institutions are said to be "cramped to the gills" though it is now 3 1/2 years since the end of the war. Officials who see no end to the enrollment boom, say more high school students feel it is necessary for them to go to college, junior colleges are funneling more students to the universities, many veterans are taking advanced courses and more students than ever before can afford to go to college.

Every session of the legislature there is much debate about adjusting workmen's compensation, unemployment compensation and old age assistance benefits to make them more equitable. Senator John B. Martin, Jr. (R, Grand Rapids) thinks the issue could be settled for some time to come if "escalator clauses" are adopted periodically after the General Motors-UAW contract. His immediate proposal is that workmen's compensation maximum benefits be established at $28 per week (as compared with the present $21) and that this figure should fluctuate every year based on a report by the State Labor Department of changes in the cost-of-living.

Go All-Electric for Efficiency and Economy — The More You Use, the Lower the Price

Manistique people and their rural neighbors are wisely turning more and more to the achievement of becoming COMPLETELY electrified. It's true... city homes and farm homes are using electricity not merely for lighting, for the radio, the electric toaster—but for the big TIME-AND-ENERGY consuming jobs like cooking and heating water, washing and ironing, refrigeration.

Electric... and the quality performance of modern electric appliances will cause you to look for NEW ways of putting electricity to work for you.

SEE YOUR APPLIANCE DEALER

Electricity does the job CHEAPER because it's a big time-saver, reducing the time required for most jobs from hours to minutes.

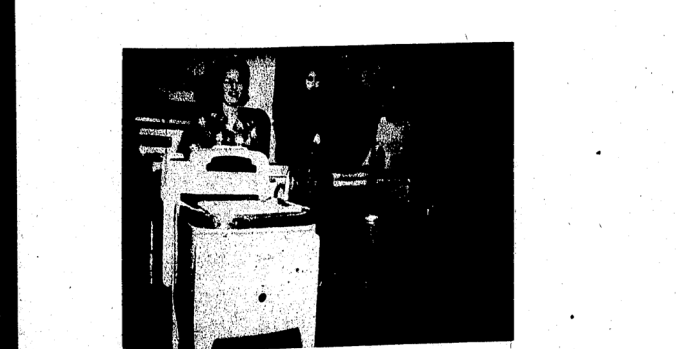

The cost of electricity is low—and it drops MUCH LOWER when you use electricity in quantity.

Quantity rates enable you to economically "Go All-

Adequate wiring promotes even better electrical appliance efficiency for less money. So, protect your investment in electrical living by making sure your home is adequately wired with enough circuits of ample size... enough switches... and enough appliance outlets in every single room.

Puppet Show For Children Is Next Women's Program
A puppet show of the well-loved fairy tale, "Hansel and Gretel," has been arranged for the entertainment of children of Manistique Women's club members at the annual Children's Day program next Tuesday afternoon.
Mrs. Carl Anderson, program chairman, said Thursday that much time and care have been spent on making the puppets, whose heads and hands are hand carved. A committee composed of Mrs. and Mrs. Carl Makkel, Mr. and Mrs. William Moreau, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Thompson and Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Anderson made the puppets, painted and decorated them under the direction of R. J. Thompson.

Barney Johnson, Bud Malloy, B. J. Thompson and Mrs. William L. Norton constructed the stage, and Mrs. Sidney Howser and Mrs. Robert Schleming assisted in dressing the dolls.
The characters will be manipulated by Mrs. Norton, Mrs. Makkel, Mrs. Moreau and Mrs. Anderson.

This is the first time the Women's club has attempted a program of this kind, the program chairman said, and if there is enough interest it is planned to create a permanent collection of puppets for future entertainments.
Children of Women's club members from three years old through the sixth grade are invited to attend.

History Of Ann Arbor Ferry No. 4 Written By Longtime Employee Of Railroad Line

By A. C. FREDERICKSON

This narrative of Boat 4 is written in commemoration of the brave hearts within the seafaring folks, living, drowned or dead, that did so heroically endeavor to keep her afloat during times of stress when she herself put forth her every effort, particularly when she foundered on Feb. 14, 1923, 26 years ago this month.

As all log, time books, etc. are not available, I am in hopes any crewers old-timers should find, they will kindly correct through Box 272.

History Boat
She was built by the Globe Iron Workers at Cleveland, Ohio, November, 1906, 239 feet long, 52 feet beam and of 1884 gross tons.

Capt. Fred Robertson as Master, Tom Harkins, chief engineer, Charles Robertson, 1st mate, Fred Couch, 2nd mate, Anton (Sagva) Peterson Pilot and Tom Davis as quartermaster.

After all hands had eaten their Thanksgiving dinner they let go the lines and departed Cleveland piers at 1:30 p. m. November 28, 1906, bound for her home port of Frankfort, Michigan, on her maiden voyage.

She encountered heavy weather on her way up, being forced to that night in the hull of an old schooner that had come ashore some years ago. They caught Boat 4 at Manistiquette the next day, trip.

May 29, 1909 Boat 4 rolled over in the slip at Manistiquette.

This was caused by too much weight placed on one side while loading heavy cargo of iron ore. As she slowly listed over on her side, the water coming in the neglected open portholes, between decks, was discovered much too late.

The crew had sufficient time to gather some of their belongings and disembark.

Mrs. Wilson, the maid, who was in her bunk asleep, woke to find herself sitting on deck which was then at an angle that did badly inconvenience her hurried dressing.

Favorite in command of Capt. Cunningham with the assistance of the wrecking crew righted her on June 25, 1909, towing her to Frankfort the next day.

She arrived at Manistiquette harbor, this time off her starboard shaft and wheel.

Capt. O. B. Olson was on the bow at this time. He thinking they were nearing bad water, tightened his rope yard belt and sung out to the captain that she was too close.

Just then she struck and the captain answered, "I Know It Now!"

She went to the South Chicago shipyards and was back in service March 17, 1914.

While here the marine superintendent and the captain both retired.

October 14, 1911, enroute from Mononette to Manistiquette, just after passing through the once command of Boat 4.

Boats 1 and 4 were stuck in a big windrow of ice outside of Manistiquette from Feb. 26 to Mar. 5, 1910.

If Boat 1 could have foreseen her fate she without a doubt would willingly let set on ice here all winter. She burned to her waterline, a total loss at the North-western slip in Manistiquette, Wis., on her next trip, March 8, 1910.

Dec. 29, 1910, Wind southeast, fresh with snow at 6:00 a. m. Boat 4 ran on the beach of that notorious upper part of Door county.

Wiss, known as Death Door Pass, was on the beach of that notorious upper part of Door county.

On January 12, 1911 she hit the rocks close to the south breakwater when entering Manistiquette harbor. This tore off her starboard shaft and wheel.

Capt. O. B. Olson was on the bow at this time. He thinking they were nearing bad water, tightened his rope yard belt and sung out to the captain that she was too close.

Just then she struck and the captain answered, "I Know It Now!"

She went to the South Chicago shipyards and was back in service March 17, 1914.

While here the marine superintendent and the captain both retired.

October 14, 1911, enroute from Mononette to Manistiquette, just after passing through the once then all boats got stuck.

Feb. 19th, broke out all hands and spudded Boat 4 loose. She in turn broke out Boats 3 and 5. This fleet arrived in Frankfort at noon February 20th.

After taking aboard fuel, supplies, etc. Boat 4 left Frankfort at 6:00 a. m. on the 21st bound for Manistiquette.

At this time our prominent retired Capt. Alexander Larson, former Mayor of Frankfort, was Master of Boat 4. On this trip he and Ole Glarum layed off to attend the wedding of his brother, O. T. Larson, who at this time was in the Holland Canal trade.

He left Frankfort bound for Manistiquette, traveling together on account of the lake being full of heavy ice.

Outside of Manistiquette Boats 3 and 4 got stuck fast in a big windrow of ice about 600 ft. wide.

Boat 5 after several attempts to break through this windrow, backed out, changed her course, hauling to the westward and coming in behind it, near the town of Thompson.

She made good time and after entering Manistiquette, unloading and loading her cargo, she backed out to assist Boats 3 and 4 inside.

Boat 5 then layed outside waiting for Boats 3 and 4 to exchange their cargoes. After this was done they started back for home with Boat 5 in the lead at 9:00 a. m. Feb. 15th.

They followed the west shore down, arriving abreast of Pottawatomie on Boat Island at 5 p. m. on the 17th. Here they stopped for the night, close to, of course, so the crews could all visit. The next morning boats 3 and 4 were frozen fast, Boat 5 broke them loose.

America, Russia Now Dominant in Political Scene

[It] at the very beginning but in the second World War, the Soviet Union was not actually in the struggle until June, 1941. The United States was officially neutral in the war against the Kaiser's Reich until early 1917 and Hitler's Reich until late 1941. Since any major war in the future would inevitably involve the super powers and since the advantage of an atomic surprise attack against a major potential adversary might be sought, open warfare between the two major contestants can be expected at the very beginning. Moreover, the super powers are so closely bound to states within their political orbit that war involving any of these countries would have immediate ramifications in Moscow and Washington. The realization that the United States will not have a breathing spell in the future is a basic consideration in the introduction of the 1945 peacetime draft and in the present national defense program of the country.

Many Nations Weak
"A third implication of a two power world in which the super powers do not cooperate is the growing weakness in power and independence of third states. The old distribution of world power among a number of powers in different parts of the globe corresponding to the old concepts of neutrality are becoming obsolete with small states in particular feeling the effect of this development. Only a few small states were able to be officially neutral in the last war, and most of these were unable to maintain real neutrality. Portugal, for instance, was considered a neutral state but her part of the island of Timor in the Pacific was occupied by the Japanese and bases on the Azores in the Atlantic were utilized by the British and Americans. Sweden certainly cannot hope to remain neutral in a third world war.

"Another implication of a two power world led by Moscow and Washington is the loss in importance of Europe itself as the home base of world power. Since the United States is located in North America and the Soviet Union in Eurasia, Europe is without a single world power for the first time in centuries. This fact does not mean that Europe, the smallest of the continents and really a western projection of Asia, has lost its importance in world politics. Actually the most rivalry between the Soviet Union and the United States has centered in Europe, Germany, the focus of this rivalry, is still potentially the strongest state of Europe proper.

world is reduced to the taking of such measures of importance as meet the joint approval of the super powers. Actually, the veto in the Charter of the United Nations prevents any effective action against any one of the five permanent members of the Security Council. The success of the peace machinery depends upon the cooperation of the major states; the continued failure of the powers to cooperate may mean the eventual collapse of the United Nations.

Alliances Emerging
"Alliances will continue to be made among one group of states against another. The small countries east of the Iron Curtain are already allied with one another and with the Soviet Union. In the Western Hemisphere, the 21 republics now form a grand alliance against any potential aggressor. The North Atlantic Pact unites most of the nations of this area in a military alliance.

"The consequences of the present two power world offer little immediate hope for relief from crises. A state of power equilibrium may eventually be reached when both sides are content to keep what they have and not risk war to get what they want. The future of the world literally depends upon Washington and Moscow," he concluded.
