U.S. Citizens Should Preach In Fight Against Communism, Says Speaker

Former Elks Head Urges United Effort To Combat Subversive Forces

Americanism, as exemplified in the Elks ritual and in Grand Lodge activities, was extolled by Charles E. Broughton, of Sheboygan, Wis., past grand exalted ruler of Elks, at the annual upper peninsula fall Round-Up banquet here Saturday night.

The speaker said that Elks, as members of an organization dedicated to the better Americanism, should take a lead in combatting subversive forces which are seeking to undermine our republican form of government. It is not enough for citizens to live as good Americans, he insisted; they must go out now and preach the message of Americanism, if they expect to be successful in nullifying the violent propaganda of the Communists.

Mr. Broughton was introduced by Frank J. Duda, of Bessemer, Mich., past president of the association. A. J. Wickley, of Hancock, president of the Upper Peninsula Elks association, served as toastmaster.

The Round-Up sessions, opening Friday night with registration and a smorgasbord, were attended by a large number of Elks from the various upper peninsula lodges.

The Power that made Buick Famous

If you want to know what's "the newest thing" in automobile engines, look at the Buick engine pictured here, and you'll see the words "valve-in-head."

But it happens that this isn't new with Buick. As a matter of fact, the valve-in-head engine was invented back in 1902—U. S. Patent No. 771095—and immediately, Buick adopted the principle, which became the first in a long string of "Buick firms."

Not everyone went for the idea—then. In spite of the fact that this engine "breathes" more freely—gets fuel in and exhaust gases out more easily—others hung onto their pet ideas.

Then came the airplane, with its need for maximum power from every drop of fuel—and every maker of internal combustion airplane engines adopted the valve-in-head principle.

And more recently—with the hope that higher-octane fuels will become available—a lot of automotive engine designers are taking a new look at the valve-in-head idea.

But just for the record, we'd like to point out that Buick got there first.

And ever since, Buick has gone steadily ahead, building up a name as "valve-in-headquarters." Buick engineers reshaped pistons to put Fireball wallop in these engines. They stepped up compression ratios as fast as better fuels came along.

So perhaps you'll want to remember, when you hear the term "valve-in-head," that this is the type of power that made Buick famous.

If others want to climb on the bandwagon, we say "more power to them!"—and no pun is intended.

But Buick has been doing more with valve-in-head right from the start.

And—we might add—it stands for reason that Buick is not through making this type of engine better and better.

convincing could hardly be a political asset to the Republican nominee in a race against Governor Williams. It certainly would not add any luster to the record of Vandenberg as a statesman.

The resignation - appointment idea recalls the deal among Republican aspirants for governor and Lieutenant governor prior to the Republican primary in 1948. Running for governor were Sigler, Dr. Eugene C. Keyes and Judge Skillman. Candidates for Lieutenant governor included Secretary of State Fred M. Alger and Keyes. On the promise that Keyes would run for governor, Judge Skillman withdrew. Then Alger pulled out, leaving Keyes without opposition.

What happened in November, 48, is now political history. Dewey carried the state by 40,000 votes, while Sigler lost by 160,000. Evidently about 200,000 Republicans switched the ticket in protest against something. They elected G. Mennen Williams governor of Michigan, for one thing.

Speaking of rumors, this one is very persistent: Dr. Keyes of Dearborn has a carefully mapped program to capture the Republican primary nomination for governor in 1950. He is definitely out to win this time, come what may. He has financial backing already pledged for a vigorous state-wide contest. We picked up this information from a reliable source in the Thumb recently, and it tallies fully with Lansing knowledge. No pun is intended, but—watch Keyes!

Lansing newspaper correspondents seem to agree that Governor Williams' star has been ascending steadily in recent months. "Don't write off Soapy Williams in 1950" is their judgment, one year before the election. This change of straw-in-the-wind opinion is based on the governor's successful bouts recently with Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler and Effective publicists adhere to the theory that one good news story is worth two signed editorials. Hence the perpetual quest to present the client's side in the news. Some of the best propaganda stories, however, are purely accidental—just lucky breaks. An illustration of this overnight bounty was the news story from Tucson, Arizona, about bankruptcy proceedings on the El Sigo Apartments. It seems that the state administration board invested $671,000 of the state employees' retirement fund in this property. In order to save the mortgage, Attorney General Stephen Roth was trying to get a receiver appointed. Score another for Williams and Roth.

If you jump to the conclusion that this column has become partisan, then scan this item. Gov. Williams has changed strategy in his 1949 campaign for reelection. No longer does he try to put Republicans on the defensive for an anticipated $50,000,000 treasury deficit. Inflation's return to 1949 economy, plus a June 30 surplus of $24,357,130 in the state treasury, have combined to scale down the expected deficit. Treasurer D. Hale Brake has even asked the governor to "repudiate" the 4 per-

Frank Morris, Detroit Times Lansing correspondent, got an "exclusive" on this pipe-dream political conjecture. That Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg would like to make a deal with the Republican nominee for governor where Vandenberg would resign prior to expiration of his term in 1952 and his son, Arthur Vandenberg, Jr., would be appointed to succeed him.

The big "catch" in this: Michigan voters are notoriously critical of suspected political deals. Such

Contour Seeded Fields
Erode Less, Produce More
Contour-seeded wheat fields produce larger crops than those seeded up and down the slope, according to University of Illinois reports. Increases of two to three bushels an acre have been reported on contour-seeded wheat fields, college of agriculture farm account books show.

Besides producing bigger yields, contour-seeded wheat fields erode less, reports Ben F. Minkoff, agricultural extension service engineer.

As for extra work, once contour guide lines are located, he says, it takes little additional time or trouble to plow, disc and seed on the contour.

The natural draws in the field need extra protection because they are the natural exit troughs of the field. Melting snow water and the spring rains collect in the draws and will carry off previous topsoil being washed to a great distance. If gullying is permitted this winter, Minkoff offers two suggestions to protect natural draws. Proprietary seedling to a great distance, and seed heavily to insure a tough sod.

Deer Hunters Can Register For Messages

This year as in the past the Michigan state police and the state department of conservation will cooperate in making available a free registration service for all deer hunters who desire to be reached in camp in the event of an emergency at home. Officers of both organizations in and near Manistique are cooperating.

Hunters desiring to use this service should register at the state police post or conservation headquarters nearest their camp. They should also leave word at home of the station at which they will register.

If an emergency occurs those at home need only call their nearest state police post or conservation headquarters. The message will then be sent by radio to the proper registration station and will be delivered from there by an officer of either department.

The registration also makes it easier to inform persons at home if a hunter meets with an accident or is reported lost.

Only urgent messages will be handled and the service will not be offered where regular communication facilities can be used without delay.

Registration cards have been distributed to all state police posts and conservation headquarters. They will also be handed on state ferries and may be located at either department.
