YOUTH BOUND OVER FOR CAR STEALING

Elmer Bradley, 17, admits thefts at arraignment in justice court.

Elmer Bradley, 17, of Manistique, was bound over to circuit court under bond of $1,000 on charges of stealing a car and a radio. He was arraigned Tuesday afternoon in justice court on a charge of local jurisdiction. Bond was not furnished.

Bradley was arrested by state police at 3 a. m. Tuesday morning on First street, where he had been driving a car belonging to Mrs. Helen J. DeCholovich which he had taken 45 minutes before.

Questioned by state police, Bradley admitted not only taking the DeCholovich car but also cars belonging to William Sellman and Emmett McNanara. The Sellman car was taken last week and McNanara's car was taken about 10 days ago and later found near the farm. Bradley admitted driving away another car but said he returned it after a brief "joy ride" without the owner knowing it was missing.

In all cases, police reported the auto owners had left their keys in the cars.

An arraignment made by Bradley to police was the finding of a purse last week belonging to Mrs. Harriet Nygard. The purse was found on Grand street, near the intersection of Grand and Second streets, and was valued at $1.50.

Babson Says Labor Troubles Responsible For Lowering In Volume Of Business In 1950

By Roger W. Babson

The total volume of business for 1950 will be less than that of 1949, due primarily to the unfortunate labor conflicts. Considering that the business community will be the chief sufferer and will be obliged to pay the bills, it seems too bad that labor troubles should upset the outlook.

A letter from National Commander George Craig to the Manistique post explains the purpose of the plan in this way: "American aid to Europe in its various forms has staved off economic chaos and political communism, but unfortunately that aid sometimes has been regarded as a cold-blooded government handout, and we still have a long way to go before the world of 1949 is only a memory to all the American people."

Emergency Appropriation For County's Polio Fund Sought; New Drive Starting Jan. 15

Many Infected With Polio And Never Know It

High costs incurred by three Schoolcraft county polio cases this year, two of which resulted in death, will completely exhaust the funds of the Schoolcraft county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, it was disclosed at a meeting of the chapter officers Monday.

Not only will the bank balance of the local chapter be wiped out but a deficit of approximately $1,500 will be incurred, it was revealed.

The three cases, all of which required hospitalization in Marquette, cost $2,494.47, including hospital and nursing care. To pay the bill of the county chapter has cost $1,217.95.

The officers voted at Monday's meeting to expand the full bank balance on the bills, and to petition the national office for an appropriation of $1,500 with which to defray the balance of the account.

Representative Here

Blake Ferris of Marquette, northern Michigan representative of the National Foundation, conferred with chapter officers Monday afternoon at which time an application was filed with him for the $1,500 appropriation.

This is the first time that the Schoolcraft county chapter has received such national assistance in the care and hospitalization of polio cases. During previous years all commitments were paid out of local funds.

The new drive for funds is scheduled to start January 15, under the direction of Earl Anderson, county campaign chairman. In view of the acute condition of local finances, and the pressing need for funds with which to treat local cases of infantile paralysis, Fred H. Hanne, chapter chairman, urges the full cooperation of the public when the 1950 campaign gets underway.

Dan VanEyck Broadcasts In Appeal For Campaign On TB

Lansing, Mich.—With youthful enthusiasm, six Michigan high school students this week plunged into the battle against tuberculosis, laying the blame for preventable deaths from the disease on the public disregard.

High school orators— from Plainville, Bay City, Petoskey and Manistique—had claimed top honors from the state Tuberculosis Association, sponsored by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, a national Women's Auxiliary to the Michigan State Medical Society. The girls started in a special half-hour show over college radio station WKAR. The six students represented 270 students in 72 high schools in the project.

Accompanied by Marvin Fredrickson, Manistique High School instructor, Dan Van Eyck, Manistique student, traveled to Lansing for the finale.

Ignorance Blamed

Labeling "public ignorance and public complacency" as the cause for intelligent cooperation on the part of Michigan's citizens to fight the disease effectively, Van Eyck, a student, said: "We have learned many times over that what may look simple is not always as simple as it appears. By carrying 'us' as citizens are duty bound to give our efforts to our communities, because the health and welfare of the state depends on the cooperation of the people of this state. You have helped show tuberculosis in its true light, as one of the most deadly and insidious diseases of our earth."

Citizens Have Duty

"In a democracy," he added, "we as citizens are duty bound to give our efforts to our communities, because the health and welfare of the state depends on the cooperation of the people of this state. You have helped show tuberculosis in its true light, as one of the most deadly and insidious diseases of our earth."

TWELFTH NIGHT PLANNED HERE ON JANUARY 6

After-Christmas Celebration Sponsored By Chamber Of Commerce

Plans for the observance of Twelfth Night in Manistique, a traditional European after-Christmas celebration, were made by the Manistique-Schoolcraft Chamber of Commerce Wednesday afternoon.

The observance will be held Friday evening, January 6, and will be featured by a tremendous bonfire in which all of the community's Christmas trees will be burned in a public square.

Members of the Manistique fire department will have charge of the burning, and city trucks will pick up the discarded Christmas trees in the afternoon. The program is designed partially as a safety measure, as Christmas trees after being taken up for two weeks or more constitute a bad fire hazard.

All residents of the community who have Christmas trees at their homes are asked to take them down and leave them at the curb on Friday, January 6. City trucks will come by to pick them up, and the loads will be taken to the burning site.

The burning is scheduled to take place about 9:30 o'clock, shortly after the stores close.

The place for the mammoth bonfire has not been selected yet, but will be announced in the next few days. Other details of the Twelfth Night program also have to be worked out during the next few days.

WELFARE CHISELER GIVEN JAIL TERM

Roy Salmons, 36, sentenced Wednesday; Authorities Issue Warning

The Schoolcraft county department of social welfare cracked down Wednesday on Roy Salmons, 35, of Doyle township, who recently misappropriated $22.50 in circumstances to obtain an emergency relief allowance.

Arraigned in justice court Wednesday afternoon, Salmons was sentenced to 10 days in jail.

Miss Maria Tracy, welfare director, reported that Salmons had taken $22.50 from the welfare office seeking assistance. Salmons, who came here from Ohio last October, has a wife and four children.

This is a sample of what the welfare department intends to do in the future to stop chiselers from obtaining relief orders, authorities report. Several days ago, Miss Tracy and Prosecuting Attorney William Sheehan issued a joint statement declaring that men falling to support their families, thus throwing the burden on the welfare department, are going to have to live by the law to contend with.

The first class was given to James Lloyd, Donald Brown, Gary Gierko, Chester Bryant, Gary Farley, Chester Young, Thomas Dufour, William Berger, Dale Peterson, Richard Swanson.

The program ended with a campfire song and the Scoutmaster's benediction. The program was conducted by John Hanson, chairman of the troop committee.

Perch Good Bait

For Ice Fishing

Winter anglers can use those tiny perch that peek away at their lines as bait to lure their more hefty relatives.

The conservation department's law enforcement division points out that formerly, fishermen could keep only one fish six inches or over—eliminating the legal use of small perch as bait.

Anglers can check other recent fishing regulation changes in the 1950 fish law digest, copies of which will be in the hands of license dealers by Christmas.

Cost of Common Cold

When the average person comes down with a cold, he stands a good chance of being away from his job for three days, recent surveys show. The cold will probably cost him $23 in lost earnings and medical expenses. On a national basis, that economic loss is estimated at two billion dollars. It includes one hundred million dollars spent annually for cold remedies and two hundred million dollars spent for vitamins. While $23 seems like a high price to pay, those who can return to work in three days are actually getting off easy. Many more pay a much higher price. Colds often leave resistance low and the door open for pneumonia, tuberculosis and other severe secondary infections.

A Tonic For The Missus

The missus came marching in with a new hat yesterday. She was as happy as a circus poster. I've learned one thing about the hats she buys. A hat is a tonic to her. If she's feeling blue, nothing gives her a lift like a new hat. Now, I could trade in my old grey fedora without raising my blood pressure a notch. But I'll admit that more than once I've bought a new brim pipe I didn't need—just because life was getting a little bit monotonous.

With Buck Howell it's something else again. When Buck is feeling low, he gets over it by blowing on a broken-down clarinet he hasn't mastered in twenty years. From where I sit, different people are always going to respond to different things in different ways. So let's keep a friendly understanding of what other folks get out of a new hat, an old clarinet, a chocolate soda or a temperate glass of sparkling beer or alo now and then.

Michigan Friends of Arthur E. Summerfield, the Phil, chairman of the Republican National Strategy Committee, are convinced that Michigan may yet rescue the national minority party from its current predicament of near total eclipse.

Since a Michigan-born man, Thomas H. Dewey, of Owosso, was on the losing end of the surprise election in November, 1948, the situation has more than casual interest.

It has been the belief of Mr. Summerfield, who is the Republican National Committeeman for Michigan, that voters are entitled to a clear-cut choice of issues in the two major parties. Governor Dewey, the Republican national nominee in 1944 and again in 1948, offered a "me-too" attitude with respect to many of Roosevelt's new deal reforms.

As chairman of the national strategy committee of the Republican party Mr. Summerfield has called for an end of agreement with the Democratic party in principle by saying that "we can do it better."

Under the direction of Mr. Summerfield and the state chairman, John A. Wagner of Battle Creek, the state GOP organization did a vigorous campaign in 1948, losing only the Governor's office by a majority of many voters to Governor Sigler than anything else. While Governor Dewey lost in other mid-west states, he did carry Michigan, his home state, by a respectable margin.

It is the thesis of Mr. Summerfield that an important difference has developed between the Roosevelt and Truman administrations. "With Roosevelt we were drifting towards socialism, but with Truman there is no drift—it's a headlong rush," said Summerfield at the strategy meeting in Chicago.

"The American people can only sense this, but the members of congress, the governors and the politicians everywhere know it. If the Democrats make any gains whatsoever in the house and senate in 1950, there is likely to be a pell-mell rush to get on the Socialist bandwagon."

The basic predicament of the Republican cause, as interpreted by many students is the fact that many wage-earners and farmers have associated the Republican party as the emblem of "selfish interests" as contrasted to the liberal position enjoyed by the Democrats.

In advocating more benefits for the masses President Roosevelt and his Democratic party successors have identified the Democratic party as the popular liberal cause of the hour. For a good generation there has been a steady movement towards centralization of power in government, both state and national. This trend has been accelerated by two World War experiences, climaxed by a ten-year depression between wars, and recently the historical epochal event of the atomic bomb. Paced everywhere with individual governmental movements, American citizens have sought to solve the problem of insecurity by going to Lansing and Washington increasingly for answers to these problems.

"The result has been that the trend towards centralization of power at Washington has been greatly accelerated in recent years and with new welfare spending programs already approved, together with others advocated, a strong state socialism appears to be in prospect, according to Mr. Summerfield.

In opposing state socialism under an economic planning-type of national administration, Summerfield would place the Republican party more on the side of liberalism in behalf of rights of the individuals. As contrasted to more and more centralized control at Washington, whereby the wants of the individual would be guaranteed by the government from cradle to the grave, the Republican cause would be closely identified with survival of the American free enterprise system as linked to opportunity of the individual.

Whether the Republican party can shed the shell of its reactionary label and assume the role of a liberal leader will be an interesting development in 1950 to appraise.

USDA Research Develops Chigger-Proof Clothing

Chigger-proof clothing that will stay that way for the life of the garment is a definite possibility as the result of U. S. department of agriculture research that has continued since the end of the war. Two organic compounds which can be used to impregnate cloth from which garments are made have remained deadly to chiggers after seven launderings. This would ordinarily cover most of the life of working clothes, hunting and outing garments and military uniforms for which chigger protection is most needed. The most promising compounds are listed as phenyl carbamate and x, x'-dichlorodiphenyl ether.

Pearl Harbor was the signal for intensive research in chigger protection. The army had to prepare suits from the bite of an infected mite that is a close relative of the American chigger. Research got underway immediately at the Orlando, Fla., laboratory of the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine. By early 1944 Raymond C. Bushland, an officer in the military corps of the army, carried his findings in Orlando to New Guinea. There he showed soldiers how to make their uniforms chigger-proof by dipping them in a 4 per cent emulsion of dimethyl phthalate and hanging them to dry. This would protect a soldier from the mites for up to a month—or until the uniform was laundered.

Enemies of Stucco
Rain, snow, ice and sleet are natural enemies of stucco. In the winter, rain or snow settles in the cracks in the surface, freezes and enlarges the cracks. As this continues, sooner or later bits of the stucco are forced off and the house becomes unsightly. Proper painting with suitable colors and materials would keep the cracks sealed, the rain, snow and sleet out, and would give character to the house at one and the same time.

Pioneer Resident Succumbs Wednesday After Long Illness; Rites Friday

Thirteen students from Schoolcraft county are among the 23,840 students taking credit courses in the fall semester at the University of Michigan.
The enrollment figure as announced by Registrar Ira M. M. Smith indicates 21,605 students taking residence credit courses on the campus and 2,235 students taking Extension Service credit courses at various centers throughout the state.
In announcing enrollment figures for each of Michigan's 83 counties, Registrar Smith first broadened at two points regarding academic success at the University which seem to have become fairly well established throughout the state.
He branded as complete myths the beliefs that a large number of each freshman class at the University is "flunked out" and the belief that only students from the larger high schools can expect to make good records.
Freshman Losses Low
The registrar cited official reports from the deans and directors of the University's 14 schools and colleges. These show that the University's figures for losses in the freshman class are among the lowest in the country, he asserted. The reports show that approximately fifty five per cent of the freshmen is required to withdraw because of scholastic difficulties.
The exceptional success record is attributable in part to the University's system of counselling students in the housing of freshmen in University dormitories and to their previous success in high school, according to the registrar.
To refute the other belief, he cited a 20-year study of the academic records of freshmen students from Michigan high schools.
"This study shows so much variation in the accomplishments of individual students from schools of all sizes that there is no relationship between the size of the high school and academic success in the University," he declared.
Many Factors Enter In
Rather than the size of the high school, it is individual factors such as intellectual and social maturity, good work habits, adequate preparation for college studies and a certain minimum of financial resources which seem to indicate academic success at the University, he said.
Names of the students from Schoolcraft county taking credit courses on the campus at Ann Arbor are:
Cook: Lucille M. Savage, senior in public health; Harry S. Stralder, graduate.
Gulliver: Ralph J. Merwin, junior in literature.
Manistique: Georgia Bshladel, freshman in literature; Daniel R. Buckley, sophomore in literature; Hal K. Hundy, sophomore in architecture; Alfred J. Cayia, Jr., senior in engineering; John D. Giovannini, sophomore in literature; Alfred Kristoferson, graduate; Thomas K. Koffel, senior in engineering; Ann C. Peterson, senior in literature; Alan J. Robertson, senior in engineering; David H. Watson, sophomore in literature.

Overinflated Tires

When a tire is over inflated, the increased tension caused by excessive pressure prevents proper distribution of the sidewalls, and the tire loses its ability to absorb road shocks. Under this increased strain, the cords in the tread area eventually snap under impact, causing either the characteristic X-break or diagonal break, both of which frequently result in blow-outs.

Famed Indian Cave Temples Still Stand in Hyderabad
Hyderabad state, which yielded to the Indian Union after five days of military action, was virtually the last of 562 princely Indian states to hold out against accession by either of the two great dominions—India and Pakistan.
In area, population, material wealth, historical and religious importance, this largest state that survived almost completely across the Deccan plateau in south central India is outstanding. Glories of earlier civilizations, centered in the cave cathedra of Austeria and Ellora, make it one of the world's rich regions archaeologically, notes the National Geographic society.
Babel for 37 years, its present Nizam, Hyderabad comprises roughly in area and population to Pennsylvania and Ohio combined. Sixteenth of the 400 million population is Hindu, but the Nizam and his nobles are of the Moslem persuasion. Almost two-fifths of the land is owned by the small ruling group.
Despite this arrangement, which finds the ruler adding cash, bullion, jewels and other property to the state fund, the Nizam has a billionnaire, the lot of Hyderabad's masses has been improved through the Nizam's re-ign. Irrigation works have advanced, modern college work centers in Austeria have benefited from special training, and new industries have sprung up.

14. Farmers will continue to work to hold present subsidies. It is popular to criticize the vast amount of crops which the Government owns or is making loans on, but this surplus in storage may be a great blessing when the next crop failure or drought comes.

15. The Federal Reserve will be expected to raise the discount rate in 1950.

17. The long-term capital gains tax of 25% will remain unchanged. There will be many increases in local and state taxes, and more reaching for relief by "sales" taxes or other forms of raising needed funds.

18. Goods on counters will be of better grade in 1950 than they were in 1949.

19. Mark-down sales will continue during 1950 as consumer spending slackens due to a decline in employment and other factors.

20. The dollar value of all real estate in 1950 will be moderate. The value of the dollar will remain stable and the dollar will remain strong.

21. American interests will

22. Less will be spent on new building and equipment by stores and factories during 1950.

23. Our exports will be down during 1950 and our imports will be up during 1950—comparing both with 1949. This will partly be accounted for by the devaluation of the English Pound and other foreign currencies.

24. Foreign credits will continue to be granted during 1950, but some of these will be direct by American business firms and investors. If our Government will grant foreign governments to agree that such investments will be exempt from any new tax or other legislation by the foreign country in which the investments are made, considerable progress would be made along foreign trade channels.

25. American interests will have more competition from foreign producers of raw materials and of manufactured goods during 1950 than they had during 1949. This will benefit some American concerns, but be harmful to others.

26. Fear of war with Russia will continue during 1950. World War III will come sometime; but it will not start during 1950. Those in large vulnerable cities should use these years of peace to get some small farm or country home to which they can go in case of war. Such places will be almost unobtainable when war actually comes.

NO IMMUNITY FROM ONE POLIO ATTACK

Infection With One Kind Of Virus Does Not Remove Danger Of Disease

One attack of polio may not mean immunity for life, it was revealed this week by Fred H. Hahne, chairman of the Schoolcraft county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The chairman of the March of Dimes organization stated that a recent research report from national headquarters indicates there are at least three kinds of polio virus capable of producing the human disease and that infection with one does not result in resistance to either of the other two.

Prior to the knowledge that three kinds of polio virus exist, Hahne said, physicians had been puzzled by the numerous instances of polio occurring more than once in certain individuals. He recalled the case of a young girl in Texas during last summer's epidemic, who came down with an attack of polio just one week before she was sent to the hospital for surgery on a leg which had been paralyzed by polio two years previously.

More Cases Reported

"More of these cases," Hahne declared, "are being reported by physicians. Recognition of the three different polio viruses, now offers a sound scientific explanation for these tragic multiple attacks."

Hahne revealed that scientists believe there may be other polio viruses in addition to the three recently discovered. He added that last year $1,750,000 in March of Dimes funds were given to four leading universities to determine the actual number of polio viruses existing.

"If a possible preventive for polio such as a vaccine is to be made," he went on, "scientists must first know how many polio viruses are capable of causing the human disease."

The four universities engaged in this essential polio research, according to Hahne, are University of Southern California, University of Utah, University of Pittsburgh and University of Michigan. Hahne concluded with a statement that a deadline had been set for the completion of this study by the end of 1951.

Real Estate Outlook

The city real estate outlook is uncertain. It should continue to hold firm throughout 1950 due to less available rental space caused by pulling down old structures, save taxes and to provide parking spaces. Owing to high costs and the fear of World War III, there will be little inclination to build new city property. On the other hand, the continual movement out of our large cities—in the interest of decentralization—may cause prices to soften.

38. There will continue to be a fair demand during 1950 for suburban real estate with a shading of prices for large places; but this residential connection here should continue well into 1950.

40. The demand for large commercial farm acreage will be less during 1950; but small subdivisions, especially those located close to established communities, will hold up and, perhaps, increase in price.

41. There will be some decrease during 1950 in industrial and private building. The cost of such building will decline a little and the quality of workmanship will improve. There should be an increase during 1950 in publicly financed building.

42. There will not be much change in business rentals during 1950 but residential rents will average higher in 1950. Only as property owners are granted higher rentals will there be any houses built for rental purposes.

43. Mortgage interest rates during 1950 will continue about the same as during 1949.

44. The growth in industrial pensions should help real estate sales in Florida, California, New Mexico and Arizona.

Resolution For Sportsmen Cited

A New Year's resolution the conservation department would not frown on would be for sportsmen to do their part in computing the state's game harvest by mailing in their game kill report cards.

Dropping that card in the mail box would not only help the department's game division in its work, but the tabulation of all cards would also permit the individual hunter to compare his success with thousands of other sportsmen.

Duplicate report forms can be secured from conservation district, regional and Lansing offices by hunters who have lost the hunting license stub on which the report is made.
