School Millage

OUR SCHOOL BOARD went through some agonies the other night before finally agreeing unanimously to ask the voters for 5.5 mills for three

The pain involved came from trying to arrive at an amount and a length of time that could be accepted by the hoard, so the action could be unanimous, and a unified front presented to the public.

And why such a concern for unaninimity?

The millage defeats of several years ago are still fresh in the minds of those who run the schools. The problems of other school districts in obtaining operating millage are close at hand. They have found out that even the most reasonable request, presented under the best of circumstances, with good backing, can still go down to defeat.

We're hopeful that next month's proposal will be approved, and regard its chances as good, for several reasons.

First, thinking parents can still remember the painful times of the austerity budget just a short year ago, when they ended up paying book fees that were far more expensive than the proposed property tax levy. They can remember other cuts in the program, and they can also recall that if austerity has to return again, this time there won't be volunteers from the faculty and elsewhere to step forward and do extra work for a year for nothing. They remember that they didn't miss things like guidance until it was gone, and they know that suspending necessary building maintenance can develop into expen-

The other main reason is that no tax increase is involved. The school isn't asking for more money just the same amount, for another three years. If and when the time comes that more money is needed, the request can come next year, when the other four mill levy expires. For now, they've chosen to try and hold the line.

The newly-formed citi-en's advisory group that met for the first time this week should put the school millage vote at the top of their priorities. With little more than a month remaining before the voting, there seems to be no time for active participation in the campaign, but they should acquaint themselves with their school's financial needs and limitations so that their eventual recommendations to the board of education can realistically include Perhaps some day our state legislators will develop the collective maturity and judgement to enact a statewide school state aid program that will elimipate the unfair property tax as a prime source for school financing will be resolved to the noint where they, alone of all governmental units, do not have to go to the voters with hat in hand and request public approval of money to operate their program.

Until that happy time arrives, however, we must make do the best we can with what we have. This newspaper believes that our best can be realized here with the renewal of the 5.5 tax levy for a three vear period. It is a modest enough request, and there has been no reasonable alternative suggested.

"The members will probably have to talk a while about the program," I explained.

"The space program?" he asked.

"No, the program for the next meeting. Russ Paquette has a friend who has a nephew who does bird calls, and Phil Ott wants to show a film on the Federal Reserve Bank and Doc Hawn just wants to make it a social hour. It'll take a while to straighten all that out."

He looked a little discouraged when I told him that.

"But it cost the UnitedStates $128 billion to send us to Mars," he said."They should know what they're getting for their mo-ney."
"That's the same thing one of the members said when we had the venison feed," I told him. "They figure if they're going to lay out $1.25 for a dinner the meat shouldn't have to be disguised with gravy or cream sauce."

Henry began to see that his speech assignment might not be as easy as it first sounded, but then he brightened right up.

"I've got a great idea!" he said. "Maybe I could bring in the portable telecommunicator and explain how we got closeup pictures of the Milky Way, or a diagram of the intergalactic polysphere that let us navigate from the Earth to within 50 feet of the main north-south canal on Mars, or maybe explain how computer programing helped us figure the inertia overload."

I wasn't very enthusiastic about any of that. "The last time Doc Wehner showed slides of his trip to Hong Kong we had a big fight because Bill Beaudin kept wanting to see some shots of Fujiyama and Bill Putvin kept argu-ing that it was in Korea and he knew because his cousin had sent home pictures about it back in 1951. We can't get too technical because some of the members are still having trouble adjusting to dial telephones. I remember Carl Graves spent half a day once shouting 'Hey Central!' into the mouthpiece, and complained that all he could hear was some awful buzzing sound."

sound."

Henry was pretty discouraged by this time, "What can I talk about, then?" he asked.

I had to think for awhile, but then I had a good idea. "Why don't you tell a few space jokes?" I suggested, "You must have heard for the street of the space heard of the street of the space heard of the street of the space heard of the street o have heard a few since you've been back."

"Well, O.K." said Henry "Is it going to be a big crowd? I get nervous when I think about

The Germfask Story

One of the untold success stories of the Community School Program is the Germfask Story. Germfask probably has a larger percentage of adults going to school than any other community in Michigan.

According to Dick Bonifas 48 subject enrollees show up at the Germfask Elementary School during the course of a week. It has been as high as 68. This is a whopping 17 per cent of the adults. If the rest of Schoolcraft County ran as high, 850 people would be working on high school diplomas. Even Flint with its Mott Foundation, its tradition of community schools and its experienced recruiters doesn't begin to approach 17 per cent.

Recruitment and the desire of the adults to improve themselves is the key. Rudy Law-rence, Mae Hutt and Leo Beaudoin, Ruth England and Community Action Area Represenative Mary Kelly work with a vigor which surmounts the usual difficulties of apathy and in-

The people themselves are interested. One grandmother learned to read a newspaper she was drawing social security. In one family the grandmother was taking a course to learn to read, her daughter was completing freshman English at night and the oldest grand-daughter working on junior English. They were all doing it in the adult program.

One World War II veteran had been notified by former superintendent Art Hall of the work he needed to complete requirements for his high school diploma. Over 20 years later the veteran took the necessary courses at Germfask.

When the commercial classes were first offered the adults carried their own typewriters to school. Some of these they borrowed from the businesses in town. Since that initial beginning a lease option to pur-chase arrangement has been worked out with the Office Service Company in Escanaba

Who would have believed in three years time typing I and bookkeeping I would have been offered twice or that there were enough adults to have classes of typing II, bookkeeping II, English 9 and 10, U.S. Government, U.S. History, General Science, General Math, Economics and Adult Basic, No one would ever predict that tiny Germfask would become an adult educa-tion extension center, but be-cause the opportunity and the willingness of the people to participate, plus the zeal of the instructors and recruiters it has become just that.

A windshield can wrinkle your face.

NEW. YEAR'S RESOLU-TIONS? We all make them at the beginning of the year. Not all of them verbal and I'm sure none of them are written, but we do resolve to make some improvements. These may be in ourselves, our figures, our jobs, or whatever.

Change Ourselves? This could be quite an undertaking, couldn't it? But maybe we could do something about just one thing - getting along with others. Part of this could be in not finding fault with others - to make allowances for their eccentricities. We all have them. We could forget personalities and think of common interests. We could try to avoid friction whenever possible. We'd be happier and so would those with whom we work.

CHANGE OUR FIGURE: How many times a year do we vow we're going to do this! I'm going to lose five pounds in January. How about you? After all of the holiday eating, it's an absolute necessity!

I just heard of a 14 year old, the daughter of a friend, who has lost 30 pounds since this summer. She finally reached a point where she was determined to do something about it. I'm so happy for her. Teenagers are very sensitive about their weight and how they look. She must be proud of herself. I know her family is proud of her.

WEIGHT CONTROL HELP? We have two lessons coming up that will be very helpful to those of you who are interested in foods and weight control. One "Our Changing Food Habits" is scheduled for 1:30 Thursday, Jan. 30.

The second foods lesson is called "The Psychology of Eating" and will be taught through group discussion, Materials and other information will be given to leaders at the Jan, 30 meeting.

PATHS OF GLORY

Every schoolboy knows where the "Paths of Glory" lead, but, brimming with energy and a zest for life, it is the last thing in this world which concerns him . . . until the day he sees pily on the lawn. Then, perhaps, the lines of the long-dead English poet echo through his mind.
This is the day he begins to study the ways he can protect his family's future . . . a major medical plan, life insurance, pension options open to him, and the ways and means of easing things for his wife should an emergency arise. Such mature thoughtfulness is the true "Path of Glory" for a man who has come of age.

"OUT OUR WAY"

the news from road 437

HI Folks,

The holidays are over and by now everyone must be back to normal everyday living. Children back to school and those who had vacation holidays back to work. Out our way unnumbered snowflakes have fallen from the still black sky daily. On the level, we have a giant white blanket to a depth of almost four feet. The scene is truly a fairyland and this morning the snowflakes are again. Slowly winding their way down softly from a dark sky. They seem to want to add more cover to the sleeping grass and flowers.

I look at the paths made by the snow machines and the falling snow covering them up look like swirls of frosting on a cake, A squirrel's footprint to the feeding table is already covered with fresh snow. New Year's Eve was a rather cool night to be out, reading went to 18 degrees below zero. That made the snow crisp and glisten in the moonlight and the twigs crackle in the cold. Yet at daybreak little birds made their rounds to the feeding table, never discouraged 'cause it's cold or stormy. The chickadee is always cheerful regardless of winter's stormy weather. To get ahead of the Blue Jays, I must be out to that feeding table bright and early with their breakfast. On the trunk of the tree with its many rough spots Ifill with peanut butter, and how they do love that treat. They fly from branch to branch, singing out their light tee dee notes as if to thank me for this extra treat. When that table is empty they sure let me know, they fly to the window of our kitchen door, look in, and softly start their tee dee song. The snow is coming down heavier and I guess we are in for another good fall. Our Christmas holidays were

The most exciting part of the day, was, when the children opened their gifts.

As always, Dr. and Mrs. Horace B, Davidson, son Joe and daughter Mrs. Gerald Cotten spent the Christmas holidays at their winter hide-a-way on Thunder Lake.

The Herb Pronds entertained friends at their cabin on Bear Lake, with plenty of fun for all riding snow machines. The week end at the Prond Cabin is always fun for all of their guests.

Received word that Mr. and Mrs. George Lakosky have a new grandson, Steven Joseph, who was born Dec. 14, to Mr. and Mrs. Decker at Utica, Mich. Mrs. Decker is the former Sylvia Lakosky.

Sylvia Lakosky.

This brings my scoop to an end and with it go echoes of birthday greetings to Dr. Ewald Hoerster, Richard Underwood, Dr. Horace B. Davidson and Mike Sayer.

Anniversary wishes go out to the James LaFaves and Conrad Jams. May the day for all of you be one of complete happiness.

The art of the physician, pharmacist and barber were once practiced by one individual. In fact, the red and white of the barber-pole were intended to signify blood and bandage. With the passage of time and the increase of knowledge, each became a specialist in his own field.

Pharmacy today is a long way from the herbs and incantations of the middle ages. With each pussing year and each new development, the pharmacist must spend more and more time on continuing education. To be a specialist one must know his business and all its know his business and all its hoest. That is why a prescription filled at A. S. PUTNAM & CO. is such a bargain. Our experienced pharmacists are experts... and when we say "experts" we mean it.

It's pretty exhausting to have two big brothers that excel in everything!

Of course, there are advantages. Like the time a bully beat me up-my brothers followed me to school for two weeks. They wouldn't have fought him, but he didn't know that. Every night they worked out with me. Finally, I took him on and won.

My brothers are first-rate in everything-studies and athletics. There's nothing wishy washy about them -if they don't think something's right, they say so. When there was a "walk-out" at school, they squashed it, practically single-handed.

Because our parents have always taken us to church and taught us God's way, my brothers are strong-principled and good. I aim to be like them.

Your church is a training ground for integrity!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL.

ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good elitemanip. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can surtive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Flan to go or church regularly and read your Bible daily.
