WOGGED DOWN—State Police and bus drivers received plenty of help from the Emerald basketball team members peering out the windows when the team bus broke down early Saturday morning returning from the Negaunee game.

County Has Surplus; Board Salaries Set

For the first time in more than 20 years, Schoolcraft County ended the year with a surplus. Deputy County Treasurer Nora McDonough presented the newly-organized board of supervisors with this startling news Tuesday night, as the board met in its first regular session. The board responded by setting their own pay schedules; then plunging into the business of running the county. Their pay schedule was set at $20 for any regular or committee meeting not exceeding four hours. They will receive an additional $10 if the session exceeds four hours. The mileage rate was set at 10 cents per mile. The old board drew $15 per meeting, with no extra provision for extra hour sessions. The mileage rate was the same. Although the county began 1968 with a deficit of $22,812.85, they ended the year with a surplus of $7,898.94 in the general fund, Miss McDonough told the board. She attributed the surplus to an increase in delinquent tax collections and the $1,303.36 the county received in October as the state income tax rebate.

Plan Program For Special Ed

Intensified programs of special education for retarded children, those with speech and hearing defects, and emotionally disturbed youngsters, may be part of the program of the Manistique Area Schools next year. Meeting at the Doyle School Tuesday night, the board of education accepted a $7,623 grant from the State Department of Education for use in "innovative recruitment of special education teachers." This year the state and the Intermediate School districts are combining to pay 100 per cent of special education salaries in this district, but Supt. Edwin Wuehle told the board he expected the local district would have to underwrite as high as 20 per cent of the cost next year. If the district was engaged in a self-help program, which is probably impossible because of the shortage of teachers, the local cost could be as high as $14,000. This cost is projected in budget plans for next year, but is of course contingent on successful millage approval at the Feb. 14 election. Wuehle said that surveys have shown it could be possible to need a program calling for four teachers for retarded youngsters, at least one speech therapist, and at least several for emotionally disturbed youngsters.

The board, in accepting the state grant, also indicated its willingness to make these special education classes a part of the school's program in the next year. There'll also be some changes in the school auditorium soon. Purchase of 245 folding chairs and 150 tablet arm chairs to replace the old desks and folding seats on the main floor of the auditorium was approved by the board. Cost of the new chairs totals $2,018.75. A total of $2,220 had been budgeted for such an improvement. Principal Marvin Frederickson said that replacing the old seats with the new could increase the seating capacity by 175, making it possible to seat close to 800 people on the main floor and in the balcony for combined assemblies, graduation, and other programs that produce larger attendance. Because the chairs can be folded and stored, it would also make use of the area more versatile, he pointed out. By a 5-1 vote, the board denied a grievance filed by the local Michigan Education Association committee on behalf of William Miller, a teacher at Germans, who had requested a contract business day off, with pay, to attend a Civil Defense training session at Houghton. Board member Ralph Gilligan said that at the time the teacher contract was negotiated, the intent of the clause in the policy on business days, under which the request was made, was to cover personal items of an emergency nature. At issue is not whether or not he could have the day off, but whether or not he should have been paid for it. Robert Knopf voted against denying the grievance.

Only one bid was received from Walter Jindorath & Son for a driver training car, and action on this item was delayed until after the Feb. 14 millage vote. The board also signed an agreement with Richard Manning, real estate salesman who will handle the sale of some school real estate during the next six months. The agreement set the value of the property at $18,000 and the old Doyle School, $2,500. A request from Mrs. Clifford Cool for reimbursement of courses taken in 1967 and 1968, which had been labeled in December, 1967 because of lack of funds, was approved by the board, with maximum payment of $518.66. The board will hold its next meeting at 7:30 Feb. 11 at the Hiawatha School. Bills for the general fund totaling $26,269.07 were approved along with $48.58 in Elementary-Secondary Education Act funds, $2,592.48 in hot lunch bills, and $839.19 for the library. Building and site fund bills of $205 to Paul Howard and $12,583.80 to builder Howard Hird were held pending further checking by board auditing members.

TRAFFIC CASUALTY—This bobcat became a traffic statistic last week when he darted out in front of a delivery van being driven on US-2 near Cocks by Elmer Martin. Elmer's son Richard displays the animal, whose demise no doubt made area farmers happy.

SCHOOL PROGRAM REPORT

Changes Are Found In Elementary Grades

Students in the elementary grades are those most affected by the two-year-old reorganization that created the Manistique Area Schools. Prior to reorganization, students from township districts each had distinct elementary programs, but were unified in the high school program as tuition students. With the merging of the townships with the city district, efforts were started to make the programs and texts uniform, and this goal is slowly being achieved. Differing textbook series are still being used in some schools, but this has created no basic problems, teachers report. There is a problem, however, from the second through the sixth grades, with outdated social studies texts. These are gradually being replaced. In junior high, 7th and 8th grade science studies are hampered by the fact that new textbooks are needed more often in order to keep pace with the rapidly changing developments in this field. New language texts are also listed as needed in these grades. There are some of the conclusions that can be reached after reading the preliminary report of the elementary program. The report was prepared by Miss Evelyn Berwin, elementary supervisor for the Manistique Area Schools, for use by the new Board of Education Advisory Committee, which has elected to study the student program as its primary concern.

Much has been accomplished since reorganization. A uniform spelling program has been instituted for grades 2 through 6. There is a uniform mathematics program in all schools except Lincoln, Central 4, 5 and 6, and Lakeside 1, 2 and 3. All schools are using the "new math" concept. Art and vocal and instrumental music have been brought to the rural elementary grades by having these teachers make regular visits to district riders. The science books have been received for grades 1 through 6. New music books have been ordered for grades 1, 2, 3 and 5. The school has started the replacement of English texts as they wear out. Also underway is the replacement of Scott Foresman readers with "Class Program" readers throughout the system. Miss Berwin also has a list of things that need to be done in the future.

She recommends a social studies text study so that recommendations may be made to purchase books for next year. "There are more than 15 different companies represented in the schools, and there is no similarity of program," her report states. "The texts are also out of date. The social studies program is still being revised by major book companies," she says, "and this may pose a problem in that a text suitable to our area may not be available for consideration for adoption."

Also recommended is a study of samples of reporting to parents, so that they will have a better idea of the progress of their youngsters in their school work. Consideration of a sex education program for elementary students is also listed. Recruitment of teachers in speech therapy is among the items to be considered for next year. Also in the future would be purchase of the remainder of the elementary music series, a

Stamp Drive Is On

A trading stamp drive is this week to obtain equipment for Head classrooms in the Manistique Area. The drive is being conducted by Head Start, designed to pre-school children an annual boost, is supported by contributions and governmental funds, but no money allocated for classroom equipment. Peggy Arnold, Mrs. Fundstrom, and Mrs. Paradise are heading the stamp drive. Don McIsaac is working on the campaign for new and repairable toys and books to be placed in the basement of the Lutheran Church, one of Head Start centers. The list at Hiawatha School, and toys include wagons, sleds, dolls, puzzles, and toys suitable for pre-school children. If toys cannot get to the church, call Boyd Snyder, 341-6668, for pickup.

Just a Bad Night!

Perhaps Manistique should have forgotten about going to Negaunee last Friday night for a basketball game. It was bad enough to lose both the varsity and reserve contests. It was worse to have four Emerald backers injured in an auto accident while returning from the game, and to have the school bus carrying the team break down several times on the way home. Kathy Main and Erin O'Brien, varsity cheerleaders; Mrs. Colleen Kasun, and Mrs. Mary O'Brien were injured in the car accident Friday night near Tremont. Erin and Mrs. O'Brien were hospitalized in St. Mary's Hospital in Marquette. Erin received cuts on the head, while Mrs. O'Brien suffered a broken nose. Mrs. Kasun and Kathy were treated for minor head injuries and released.

The bus, plagued by motor troubles, on the trip back, finally came to a halt on M-94 by Stone Cut in Hiawatha Township. State Police cooperated by taking several players' homes, and those players who lived closer to town were brought in by another bus. They arrived home between 3 and 3:30 a.m.

Community School Winter Term Starts

The winter term in the Community Education Program of the Manistique Area Schools will begin next Monday. Classes in Pre-High School, High School Credit, General Education, Adult Enrichment, and Vocational will be offered. High school credit courses will continue for a second semester in most subject areas. Additional credit courses will be held in Geometry, Beginning Typewriting, Welding, English II, American Documentary History.

Pre-high school courses in Reading, Speaking and Artistic Media are offered for adults who have not completed the eighth grade. Applications and registrations are accepted at any time. These courses are offered without cost and students may enter at any time. Of special interest are courses in Basic Seamanship offerings.

Draft Evader Is Sentenced

Thomas E. Tunell, 20, of Manistique, was sentenced to five years in federal prison for violation of the federal draft law. Judge Wallace Kent of Kalamazoo pronounced sentence. Tunell was indicted last December in Grand Rapids for failure to report to the Schoolcraft County Selective Service Board. He maintained that his religious beliefs as a Jehovah's Witness prohibited him from entering the service. He also refused voluntary work in a hospital because of his beliefs. Mrs. Edward Jorgenson, clerk of local Draft Board 81, said Wednesday that his last known address was Wallis, Mich., where he had been working. The last official address of his mother, Mrs. Arlene Tunell, was route 1.

Mrs. Jorgenson also said that a brother, Joseph Tunell, was sentenced on the same charge in the summer of 1967.

Hiawatha PTA

The Hiawatha PTA will meet Wednesday at the school. Robert Olson of Escanaba will be the guest speaker. His topic will be "Legislation and How It Affects Your School." Mr. Olson was legislation representative for the State Department of Education.

Hit by Car, Girl Injured

Marsha Tyrrell, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Tyrrell, 123 S. First St., escaped serious injury Tuesday when she was hit by a car at First and Dear Sts. Public Safety officers said the girl darted from behind a parked car into the path of a car driven by Silvester A. Louis, 78, of route 1, at 11:30 a.m. Taken by her parents to the hospital, she was treated for bruises on the pelvis and head, then released. Mr. Louis was arrested on a charge of driving a car driven by Bernard J. Smith, 58, of Thompson, as the Tigas car backed from a driveway Saturday at 7 a.m. on Chippewa Ave. near Dear St.

A car driven by Carol L. Turley, 18, of Star Route, and a pickup driven by Merton Reno, 54, of 133 S. Fourth St., collided Friday at 8:05 p.m. at Cedar and River Sts., Public Safety officers reported. She was ticketed for having no operator's license. Two accidents were reported by State Police during the past week.

Moving Day is Near At Lakeside School

The new $200,000 Lakeside School should be in operation in February. That was the word given to the Manistique Area Schools board of education at their regular meeting Tuesday night, held at the Doyle School.

Supt. Edwin Wuehle reported that architect Bruce Smith of Royal Oak planned to conduct an item-by-item inspection of the building this month, and that any changes needed would probably be minor. He added that they planned to "operate" the school for a week without any children, checking lights, heat, plumbing and other items, to ensure that no major difficulties would be found after classes had been started there. The board agreed to a resolution authorizing the move to be made as soon as possible, and Wuehle said that publicity on changes of classes and room assignments would be given as much publicity as possible as soon as they could be determined. The board also agreed that the school should retain the title, Lakeside of Garden on County Road 463 in Fairbanks Township. He told officers he pulled over to make room for an approaching car.

Price is Reduced For Hot Lunches

Hot lunches for students at the Manistique Area Schools will be a nickel less next week. The board of education, meeting on a foggy night Tuesday at the Doyle School, approved action cutting the price from 30 cents to 25 cents per meal. They also took other administrative action that will allow the district to qualify for a special grant for free or reduced price hot lunch when altered as follows: Procedures changing the method for youngsters or parents applying for free or reduced price hot lunch were altered as follows: The last official address of the action, Supt. Edwin Wuehle will serve as the school principal responsible for determining eligibility for free or reduced price lunches, replacing a committee that had passed on applications. The board also approved procedures to ensure no publicity is given to those youngsters who benefit by cut rate plan. The former rate of 20 cents per meal for families with more than three children participating in the hot lunch program is retained. Changes in the hot lunch program, aided by $1,093,000 in federal funds that have been allocated Michigan for this purpose, aimed at increasing participation in the program. Complaints on hot lunch personnel and of short quantities of food for youngsters eating on the first shift were heard from parents in the audience, and will be investigated.

Soil District Topics Coho, Chemical Plant

Topics of the 1968 summer boom in the area of soil conservation were discussed at a meeting of the Manistique Soil Conservation District held last Wednesday evening at the Fire-Lite Hotel.

Topics were also heard from E. J. Miller, Soil District representative, and State Rep. Charles R. Varum.

Mr. Miller, manager of the Manistique Fire-Lite Hotel, reported on the progress of the soil conservation program between the summer of 1967 and the area economy experienced in the "extra" $100,000 during the peak months of August and September. He also reviewed past and future planning plans for the Coho.

Carl Albert, manager of the Loric plant, said his organization is still in the testing stage, but is eyeing the possibility of utilizing locally grown alfalfa crop, such as the variety of alfalfa, for their protein conversion process. He said the local plant would be equipped to process about 10,000 tons of such material a year.

Agribusiness opportunities were discussed by Del Meister, area conservationist, and Rep. Varum reported on conservation resource legislation.

William Powers of Gulliver was re-elected to a three-year term as director. Other directors are Jon Handl, Cooks; Charles Matichinski, Halloway; Robert Lepp, Gulliver, and Pete Woods, Thunder Lake. Handl, chairman of the directors, served as master of ceremonies.

"OUT OUR WAY"

HI Falls.

What a thrill it was to watch the sunrise Sunday morning to give us really a beautiful day with blue skies. At present things are quiet throughout our area except on week ends, when there is plenty of activity, some at Thunder Ski Bowl and quite a few snow machines, making road 457 as busy with traffic as it is during the summer vacation season.

My Sunday's drive to church was an enjoyable one for me. With the sun coming up over the snow-covered hills with the blanket of glistening snow it was truly a gorgeous sight. The pine trees wore a heavy cloak of white ermine, the bushes and shrubs looked like huge white hoists. It all was so pure and wholesome, no smoke from factory stacks to mar this beautiful scene. As far as I could look into the forest, as I drove along it was a fairyland beyond description.

Winter may give us some hardships but it is a wonderland of beauty. Many of the folks who have been making trips Out Our Way on their snow-machines, have found it so, and remarked to me, "It really is beautiful." For myself I have this to say: I've been blessed for I've learned to understand the trees of the forest, the breezes in the summer as it sends messages floating of beautiful things. I've learned the language of wild flowers, as each one has and holds a meaning of its own. Also the many melodies of different birds that when they joined in the singing together was a beautiful concert to listen to. The chatting of the chipmunks and squirrels, yes, all this has given me the understanding of my nature and her love for all her creatures.

Timber Project Sponsors Meet in Traverse City

Members of the board of directors of Upper Great Lakes Timber, Inc., and the Michigan Advisory Task Force held meetings last week at Traverse City to discuss and plan more efficient methods to produce and market wood products.
 The project, which is getting underway, will serve timber interests in the Upper Peninsula and in the northern section of the lower peninsula.
 Frank A. Hohlak, president and general manager of the Maunslippe Pulp and Paper Co., who also serves as president of Upper Great Lakes Timber, Inc., presided at the meeting last Wednesday, while Myron Riggs of Cheboygan, treasurer, presided at the Thursday meeting of the Michigan Advisory Task Force.

Featured in the discussions were improved methods in the timber industry to reduce accidents in logging, a step which is expected to reduce Michigan's high rate for workman's compensation insurance, a factor often cited as one reason why Michigan timber operators are unable to produce forest products profitably. Other discussions featured finding new markets, improving timber cutting practices, and improving marketing techniques.

 Upper Great Lakes Timber, Inc. was organized by the Michigan Advisory Task Force of the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission to carry out the timber demonstration project to serve as a profit-making guide for private timber operators. The initial phase of the project is funded by a grant of $107,000 from the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission for the current fiscal year. The commission is comprised of the governors of Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

 Russell A. Tennant, Supervisor-elect from District No. 7, was administered the Oath of Office by County Clerk, Fern L. Lesica.

The roll was called and the following members were present: Norman W. Jahn, Edward Jorgensen, Thurman Skarritt, Sr., Russel A. Tennant, Homer J. Weber, Lindsey E. Frenette, and Ernest Hohlak, Absent None.

The Acting Chairman then asked for nomination for Chairman for the ensuing year. Russell A. Tennant was nominated by Lindsey E. Frenette for Chairman. Seconded by Thurman Skarritt, Sr. The Acting Chairman asked if there were any further nominations. Thereupon it was moved by Ernest Hohlak, supported by Edward Jorgensen, that no nominations be closed, and that a written ballot be taken in accordance with the statutes. The Acting Chairman appointed Ernest Hohlak and Norman W. Jahn to act as tellers and count the ballots. Both tellers testified to the Acting Chairman that the vote was seven (7) ayes in behalf of Lindsey E. Frenette as Chairman for the ensuing year. Thereupon Lindsey E. Frenette was declared the duly elected Chairman for the ensuing year and assumed said office.

The Chairman called for nominations for the office of Vice-Chairman of the Board for the ensuing year. Moved by Ernest Hohlak, supported by Thurman Skarritt, Sr., that the name of Russell A. Tennant be placed in nomination for Vice-Chairman for the ensuing year. There being no further nominations, it was moved by Edward Jorgensen, supported by Homer Weber, that nominations be closed and that a written ballot be taken, in accordance with the statutes. The tally of the votes was taken and both tellers indicated that seven (7) aye votes were cast for Russell A. Tennant for Vice-Chairman for the ensuing year. Thereupon, Russell A. Tennant was duly declared the elected Vice-Chairman for the ensuing year.

The minutes of the December 17, 1968 meeting of the Board were read and approved as read.
 Joel Carley, Chairman of the last Board of Supervisors, spoke to the Board offering his help and cooperation to the new Board, urged cooperation between the new Board and the Township Supervisors, and he recommended that some sort of liaison between the two groups be maintained. Mr. Carley reported that it was hoped that in the near future a Schoolcraft County Organization of Township officers will be organized, and through this organization contact with the new Board would be maintained. The Chairman informed Mr. Carley that it was the intention of the new Board to keep in close contact with the Township Supervisors and Township Government, and he urged that if the Township Organization or any Township Officer has any problem which they wish the new Board to consider, that if same was submitted in writing that it would be given immediate and thorough consideration. The Chairman urged the rural representatives on the Board to keep in contact with the Townships by attending their Board meetings, and meeting with their Board members, so that no problem will be left unattended.

The matter of committee appointments was discussed by the Chairman, and he suggested that consideration be given to consolidating or eliminating some of the 17 committees which were assigned under the old Board concept. After considerable discussion the Chairman advised that he would appoint a committee, whose function would be to recommend the number of committees to be organized; the number of members to be assigned to each committee. The Chairman also advised that this committee would be asked to consider and recommend for adoption, rules and regulations by which the Board would function. Other matters to be considered and recommended for adoption would be a per diem schedule, department relationship policy and any other matter that would be helpful and improve the functioning of the County Government.

Chairman Frenette suggested that an Industrial Committee be added, and it was possible that this committee could be combined with the function of the Airport Committee for the purpose of promoting industrial development in Schoolcraft County.

It was moved by Ernest Hohlak, supported by Russell A. Tennant, that Mr. Howard J. lional $500 appropriation to the center during 1970 and requested county sponsorship of the center.

The county is presently contemplating a $500 to the center's operation.

Marsh is seeking the money for the center's third year of operation - April 1969 to March 1970 - when local money may be available to qualify for federal funds.

No action was taken on either approval with the appropriation request money referred to the finance committee and the sponsor matter being tabled until the board can determine future responsibility should it assume such a sponsorship.

A decision can be expected at the February meeting, Marsh was told.

Matt Starritt was approved as bailiff and special deputy of the District Court upon recommendation of Sheriff Lloyd Gray. Gray said that District Judge Henry Starke had requested his recommendation of an individual to the post.

Prosecuting Attorney Gottfried S. Johnson explained that the new court must be served by a bailiff whose duties include serving summonses, assuming charge of District Court juries and related activities.

The bailiff will be paid on a fee basis, Johnson said, and when serving papers only those rendered in criminal cases will be the county's financial responsibility. The plaintiff in a civil suit must pay the fee and mileage for any papers served.

The total county fire loss for 1968 was reported at $9,565, by assistant Public Safety Director Henry Darrow in a summary report. A total of 23 district fire calls was made during the past year.

In other business: Earl A. "Mike" Sadler of Gernfask was appointed, by a 5-2 vote, to the hospital board of trustees, The name of former board chairman, Joel Carley of Cooks was also proposed.

Supervisor Ernest Hoholik was named to the county zoning commission to fill the unexpired term of the late L. J. McLaughlin. Supervisors Tom Weber and Edward Jorgensen were named county representatives to the Chamber of Commerce and Council of Veterans Affairs, respectively.

A request by supervisor Thurman Starritt that the board increase the $15.00 per diem allowance of hospital board secretary Howard Hewitt was referred to the finance committee. Starritt cited the excessive work load carried by the hospital secretary in making his request.

Chairman Lindsay Frenette suggested the building and grounds committee arrange a meeting with City Manager Robert Roe to discuss the use of the Justice Court building as a Magistrate's Court and to review city-county relations in regard to ambulance service, fire policies, city payment of salaries for anyone confined in the county jail under a city ordinance, etc.

The board also approved bonds for several county officers, adopted rules and regulations governing board procedures and establishing county policies before adjourning to a second meeting with a Co-operative Extension group to discuss county development.

It also points out that only Central 7th and 8th graders now have home economics, with none being offered in the rural area schools, and that there is no shop program for 7th and 8th graders at Fairview and Gernfask.

The report does not attempt to get into the questions of "Why Johnny Can't Read" as heralded by national publications several years ago. It does not go into the basic weakness of grammatical and writing skills which seems to afflict most high school students today. It does not go into controversial issues in social studies, with increased emphasis on the role of minority groups in American life, and urban problems.

These questions, as well as the ones outlined in Miss Berwick's report, will undoubtedly come in for some intensive study by the blue ribbon citizens' committee now functioning as an interested partner with the board of education.

Editor's note: This is the second of a series of planned articles discussing the issues that will be covered by the new Citizens' Advisory Committee to the Board of Education. The next article will deal with Community Schools and Community Education.

systematic replacement of texts, as mentioned above, so that all children will have the same program in reading, English and social studies.

Elimination of double grades at Hiawatha is listed as a priority item.

The report also includes the possibility of experimenting with non-graded groups for reading, mathematics, language and spelling, and interest grouping for social studies.

"This would allow children an opportunity to achieve at their own level and pace, and to review elements missed," the report says.

The problem of junior high housing is also mentioned, as the report urges putting all junior high students in one building to insure uniformity of the program. "There is no room in the present Central building for 90 more students even when the two elementary classes move out, because of present large junior and senior high enrollments," the report says.

Also recommended is advance planning for finances and space for the "much needed" three special education classes planned for next year, to allow a program with continuing special education one year and regular class the next; does not insure a sound program for special education students.

It also points out that only Central 7th and 8th graders now have home economics, with none being offered in the rural area schools, and that there is no shop program for 7th and 8th graders at Fairview and Gernfask.

The report does not attempt to get into the questions of "Why Johnny Can't Read" as heralded by national publications several years ago. Christian Unity

CHRISTIAN UNITY was the theme at last week's inter-denominational church dinner at St. Francis de Sales Church, and Rev. Ingmar Levin, who served as chairman for the meeting, remarked that comments and questions submitted for discussion following the main speaker would provide him with sermon material for a year. It would provide editorial writers with a host of provocative questions as well, if editors were admitted to the exchange privileges of the clergy, which seems like an unlikely possibility.

Even editors, however, cannot help but be impressed with the obvious sincerity and enthusiasm of the more than 300 people present at the meeting. In evaluating the news stories for the front page that Thursday, it was obvious that a meeting that could attract 300 rated greater display than a city council session that could only draw three citizens.

Christian unity is one of those things that is easy to talk or write about, but difficult to accomplish. It's sort of like the situation in "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner?" when the white girl brings home her Negro fiancé, and her liberal parents get a good test of their sincerity.

It's no sudden shock to announce that Christianity is in the midst of what can best be termed a religious revolution, but what we often forget is that other religions and tenets are also beset by the sudden surge of secular independence that has become a hallmark of contemporary society. Moslems no doubt have their qualms about their new thinkers, much as the Orthodox Jews view with alarm the attacks upon Hebrew traditions and beliefs—the eroding of modernism, as it were.

The Catholic church has been in the news much of late, largely because of the Papal Encyclical on birth control, the ecumenical influence of Pope John, and the tendency of young and vocal priests to often take positions seemingly at variance with those of Rome. Traditionalists within the church are appalled by basic changes in the celebration of the mass, the "popularization" of ritual, the casualness that is replacing centuries of pomp and ceremony.

It is often forgotten, however, that similar stresses and strains are found in the Protestant movement, where the spectrum stretches from the Fundamentalists to the Unitarians, and a wider diversity of thought and theology could hardly be imagined. Many Protestants are as quick to apply the hatchet of bigotry to dissenting non-Roman sects as they are to the Catholics themselves, a situation that would have appalled the gentle man from Nazareth that they revere.

There was a time for group discussion following Dr. Robert Worley's main address of the evening last week, and in searching for areas of agreement, our table found that certainly Christ was a common denominator for those in attendance, and that His church, in its best sense, could be found in meetings just such as this one, where people from all shades of the religious spectrum met together in His name.

In a purely personal point of view, our hope would be that Christians of all faiths realize and recognize that there is strength in diversity, that there is room for differences, that no one person or no particular religious group holds the exclusive franchise for salvation.

There is much of value that we can learn from each other, there is much that is worthwhile that we can give to others, if we can recognize our basically similar aims and desires and beliefs, then we can overcome the fears and suspicions and distrust of our differences.

Wouldn't it be wonderful?

A prize-winning weekly newspaper published every Thursday at Manistique, Michigan, at the tip of Lake Michigan in the heart of Michigan's beautiful Upper Peninsula.

Editors are like politicians in one regard --- once they get a good subject they are apt to work it to death.

At the risk of doing that very thing, this week's effort will be an extension of remarks, as they say in the Congressional Record, on the editorial of last week regarding our youngsters and their problems.

Newspapermen are probably

ALONG THE SIDELINES... with DAR

More on Kids

more apt to succumb to flattery, no doubt because they receive so little of it, but the reaction to last week's editorial was perhaps the strongest positive comment we have received in almost eight years here and all we did was to state the obvious.

I was intrigued by a wire service story of last week quoting a retired 90-year-old Catholic priest as saying, "Disobedience and the like starts in the home and it goes out into church life and civic life." He added the interesting comment, "Today you have more obedient parents than you have obedient children."

He too is stating the obvious, for our society today is still centered about the home and family as a unit, which thus become the source for most of our behavior.

There is a certain confusion of terms involved in dialogue between the generations. What a 90-year-old priest refers to as disobedience may be termed simply lack of motivation by a contemporary social scientist.

I would not regard blind obedience as necessarily good or desirable. Nazi Germany was certainly an obedient society. Any militaristic approach is based on obedience. We have all seen obedient children who, while they may have been well-behaved, nursed an abiding hatred for their parents and were merely waiting for the day when they would be free to "go it alone."

I have had extensive experience both as a child and as a parent, which is offhand one of the few advantages of being middle-aged, but based on this experience, my premise would have to be that motivation is far more effective than unreasoned discipline.

Youngsters may want and expect discipline, but they are much more apt to follow it if they can see why it is necessary. That's what motivation is all about.

An example: Whenever my brother and I engaged in one of our frequent arguments about who got which slice of pie or helping of dessert, we were told, "One divides . . . the other one gets first choice." The logic of such an approach is tough to argue with, and far more effective than if we were belted in the chops and sent to bed without any dessert.

Many of the hippies and the flower people that we find it so easy to deride are merely youngsters lacking motivation. They cannot see any logic in conforming to a society that they regard as sick, and as a result, find it easier to simply drop out of that society.

On the other hand, many parents who are accused of being indifferent are more accurately confused and incapable. Unable to understand their youngsters and their actions, they too "drop out" as parents, giving the appearance of being indifferent when in reality they're incompetent.

My recollection is that as a child when I behaved I did so in the hopes of gaining approval from my parents, not out of fear of a good larruping. As a parent I would hope to motivate my kids so that they would do the same thing, basing their actions on a foundation of love, not of fear.

I suspect I have disappointed my parents many times despite this approach but even now, past the age where life begins at, much of what I do and how I do it is governed by the motivation of hoping to please. That lasts long after the fear of a whack on the side of the head is gone.

UNCLE WALTER'S GRANARY

From the time I was six until I was twelve, for at least two weeks every summer, Uncle Walter's farm in central Kansas was the greatest place in the world. It was small for a Kansas farm, only 80 acres, but for boys it was an entire universe to fascinating diversions and adventures.

Here was a world of granaries, haymows, pastures, windmills, water tanks, tractors, plows, combines, cows, horses, pigs, chickens, ducks, guinea hens, dogs, cats, kittens, bullheads, goldfish, waterlilies, wheat, oats, barley, kafir, corn, cream separators, kerosene lamps, ice cream churns, guitars, harmonicas, accordians, guns, fishing poles, western pulp magazines, five cousins, my Tante Anna and Uncle Walter. Because of the indulgence of my Tante Anna and Uncle Walter, I must have investigated everything, but I remember the granary best.

The granary stood between the hog house and the tool shed. It was a plain, planked, peaked building, open at both ends in the summer, so the grain wagons could be pulled straight through. On the far side were the three bins for the small grains. The one which held the wheat held the greatest fascination. A bin of wheat, if you had an Uncle Walter who didn't mind your playing in it, had amazing possibilities for development. Wheat is without chaff, a clean grain with a clean smell. Also, unlike the oats and the barley which just barely covered the floor, there was enough of it in a bin so you could really do something with it. The wheat was always at least six feet deep and this bin had another attraction -- a jumping off place.

Someone had nailed boards across the rafters for storage and someone had nailed a crude ladder to the side of the bin to get to the storage. We would climb to the planks and then hollering sonorously, jump through what must have been at least 10 feet of space into the wheat. We were barefooted and our calloused feet would drive the grains aside until we were at least knee deep in dry, golden kernels. We would pull ourselves out, climb, holler, and jump again and again.

We would see who could jump the furthest, go down the deepest, touch our heels in the air together the most times, turn completely around and do a sommersault. For added thrills we filled milk pails and gunny-sacks with wheat and then jumped, holding them because we were absolutely convinced it made us come down faster.

When we finished the jumping, we were hot and would turn from the pressing heat of the granary to the cool shade of the windmill. The cement platform at the base seemed to be always wet. My cousin and I would take turns pumping dippers full of water for each other. We drank deeply and then poured them over our wrists and on our bare feet to cool us and then we would sit on the bench in the shade of the vines and try to decide what to do next. The possibilities were endless, but we both knew that no matter what intervened, we would get back to the jumping off place in the granary.

Park Honors SHD Retiree

The State Highway Commission has named a roadside park on US-2 east of Naubinway in Mackinac County in honor of Theodore E. "Ted" Anderson of Newberry who retired Saturday after 26 years with the Department of State Highways. A replica of the sign that will appear at the park was presented to Anderson last Thursday evening at a retirement dinner at the Falls Hotel in Newberry.

Anderson, senior engineer in the Highway Department's six-county Newberry District, first joined the department in 1931 as a rodman and inspector, and has worked on highway projects in every Upper Peninsula county.

He was promoted to district engineer in 1957, supervising department activities in Alger, Chippewa, Delta, Luce, Mackinac and Schoolcraft counties, including the construction of Interstate 75 between Sault Ste. Marie and St. Ignace.

Your inquiring mind

CHECK THE FOLLOWING QUESTIONS THAT YOU MAY HAVE ASKED YOURSELF:

- () Can there be more to life than eating, sleeping, studying, working and playing?
- () What is the purpose of my life?
- () What is prayer for? Does it really work?
- () Does God really exist? Can I know Him personally?

If you checked any of these questions, you're the kind of person who "knows" that life should be more than just living. You have an inquiring mind — one that wants to know what life is all about.

You've asked yourself some pretty important questions. Now follow through. Come to church regularly, and get the answers from God.

WHO DECIDES -- Do you do all of the selecting of your

Tommy Thompson J.P. Quick
...YOUNG AT 100...

It is entirely possible that within the near future a life span of 100 years will not be uncommon. For to quote Dr. I. S. Wright of Cornell University Medical College, "we are in the midst of a new biomedical era that has already brought a significant prolongation of potentially productive life."

New techniques are slowly evolving that will provide older people with an opportunity for work commensurate with their capabilities. In keeping with their biologic age rather than with their years. Retirement based on age is fast becoming obsolete.

Old fashioned, but far from obsolete is the thinking at A. S. PUTNAM & CO. We think you should have the best in prescription service and we provide it. Everything when you need it . . . done exactly as your physician wants it, is here at A. S. PUTNAM & CO.... 201 South Cedar....Phone 341-2264.

daughter's clothes or do you let her do part of it? Most children want to wear "what the other kids are wearing" and it's important for a child to look like other children rather than be different. Sometimes this will show when Janie insists on getting something new to wear, or about not wearing something on a particular day. Children's personalities influence what they select in the same way your selection is determined by your personality. Some children have very definite ideas - and I'll have to admit - others couldn't care less!

PUT YOURSELF in your child's place. It may reveal situations you hadn't thought about. Clothes do more than protect them from the weather. They give a child a chance to express himself. Today we have many mix and match clothes. Do you give your child a chance to experiment in putting things together - blouses, skirts, jackets, pants, shirts? Some combinations may not be the best but how else can they learn? By allowing them to choose their own clothes - at least with reasonable limits - the child practices making decisions. It can gradually develop into selecting new clothes for himself.

CARE OF CLOTHES - Our 4-H Youth Agent, Don Brown, has two very typical little girls, ages 3 and 5. They just couldn't seem to learn to hang up their clothes so he devised a "doll" for each of them. It is a very simple frame that they dress night and morning. And in between the two frames is a laundry box for soiled clothes. Now they have fun when undressing themselves. They can dress their "doll" with their clothes.

Shelves, drawers, and closet rods need to be within easy reach of small children. They should have designated, easy to find places to keep their clothes, and a place to put soiled clothes. And most important - neatness is taught by example. Are you a good one?

Mrs. Larson Heads UPASB

A local woman will be presiding at the sessions of the Upper Peninsula Association of School Boards when they hold their annual mid-winter conference Friday and Saturday at Northern Michigan University in Marquette.

Mrs. Paul Larson, elected vice president of the group a year ago, has been designated to lead the sessions because of the illness of W. J. Shon of Ontonagon, president.

Mrs. Larson will open the evening session Friday night as general chairman, serve as chairman of the Saturday luncheon meeting, and conduct the Saturday afternoon business session.

She and Supt. Edwin Wuehle of Manistique have served on the planning committee for the meeting. Also attending from here will be board members Denton Nelson and Mrs. Duane Waters.

Plan Story Hour

The Community School will sponsor a story hour on Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at the Lincoln School kindergarten room. All children three years and older are being invited to attend.

About 200,000 men, aged 45 to 64, breadwinners upon whom a family's well-being depends, die each year from heart and circulatory diseases, says the Michigan Heart Association.
