CBC plans 'mile of pennies'

"A Mile of Pennies" will be one of the unusual features of the CBC unified fund drive being planned for the Schoolcraft County area.

An announcement this week said that pennies will be lined up one after another in the downtown area, and when the one-mile stretch is completed they will be part of the $6,000 CBC goal.

Uniting in the cooperative fund drive are the local Crippled Children's unit, the county chapter of the American Cancer Society, and Bay Cliff Health Camp. All money raised will remain in the county, it has been pointed out.

Adopting the slogan, "The Job That Has to be Done!" CBC will feature a WTTQ radiothon on Palm Sunday, March 30, broadcast direct from the St. Francis de Sales Parish Center using local talent. Telephone pledges for the drive will be accepted during the program.

Members of the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will manage the refreshments from 1 to 5 p.m. that day, with the Women's Club taking over from 5 to 10 p.m.

Zone chairmen for the City of Manistique have been announced by Mrs. Dorothy Hoholik, residential chairman. They are: Mrs. Denton Nelson, Mrs. Joseph Jackson, Mrs. Richard Berger, Mrs. Alfred Cook, Mrs. Donald Hoholik, Mrs. Conrad Hoholik, Mrs. Lloyd Neville, Mrs. Wallace Peck, Mrs. Bernard Grace, Mrs. John Paul Quick, Mrs. Donald DeSautel, Mrs. Edward Jorgenson and Mrs. Robert Broullire.

Talent scheduled to appear on the radiothon March 30 include an "anchor group," a rock and roll band from Gulliver, "The Boys of Light" plus The Neapolitan Opera and the Union of People.

Other groups are the Chamber Music Society of South Cedar St., the Wednesday Nighters, the Thursday Nighters, the Folk Singers, a guitar trio of Carol Marsh, Tom Mercier and Jerry Abrams, and pianists Mary Kay McKilligan, Rick Stram, Robert Stram, Sandy Webber, Brenda Webber, Mary Beth Waters, Pamela Putvin, Pamela Scott, Crystal Bergland, Cheryl Gilliam, Mrs. Roy LaMarche and Cindy Sadler. Mary and Jim Weber will present an accordion and piano act, while vocalists will include Dave Reed, Arlene Gordanier and Helen Doane.

Vocal and instrumental groups include Buck Houghton, Mike Johnson, Sal-lee Belcik and Pat Howard, Ray and Vi Lund, Donald Smith, Paula Rosebush, Ann Rosebush, Paul Peterson, Bernice Bendury and Kerry Freiler, Lynda Ross, Mrs. Irene Worley, Ann Hubbard and Dick Mars.

Planning clean-up drive

Plans were initiated last week for a county-wide clean-up and beautification campaign to be held May 10-17 as a prelude to Michigan Week.

About 50 representatives of civic, fraternal, youth, and governmental organizations met last Thursday at the Fireside Inn to discuss the need for such a campaign.

They endorsed the proposal and named a three-man steering committee to set up the organization for the week-long drive. The committee members are: Robert Noe, Manistique City Manager; Denton Mofr, president of the Top O'Lake Michigan Chamber of Commerce; and Gerald Graphos, who was chairman of the initial session Thursday.

Tentative plans are for the campaign to be aimed at four areas: (1) neighborhood clean-up and repair, (2) business district improvement, (3) highway and county clean-up and beautification, and (4) parks and recreation areas improvement.

"We envision more than a drive to pick up litter," said Mofr. "This campaign should be an imaginative effort to make Schoolcraft County more attractive to both residents and visitors."

U.P. craft show here April 26

The tenth annual Upper Peninsula Crafts and Native Industries Exhibition will be held in Manistique April 25 with local sponsorship by the Manistique Art Club and the Community School.

The exhibition, which has a theme of "Blue Waters," is organized by the Upper Peninsula Crafts Council. About 100 exhibits from all over the Upper Peninsula are expected for the show, according to Paul Harkonen of the Upper Peninsula Committee for Area Progress, who met with the local sponsors Monday evening.

To promote the exhibition in the county, the Art Club is sponsoring a student poster competition. Posters will also be prepared by Art Club members for distribution throughout the Upper Peninsula.

Exhibits of creative crafts and native products are invited for the day-long show, which will be held in the Manistique High School gymnasium. In connection with the exhibition, there will be demonstrations of craft skills by Upper Peninsula craftsmen.

A special feature of this year's show will be displays of craft items that can be locally produced for sale to visitors to the Upper Peninsula. They should be marketable for under $5. The craft items should not be produced for sale at the exhibition, but will be judged for the merit of their design.

There will also be an exhibit of Michigan crafts presented by the Michigan Council of the Arts.

Associated with the crafts exhibition will be showing of paintings and other art work by members of the Art Club and area artists, according to Mrs. Harold Dixner, Art Club president.

The student poster contest will have two divisions: (1) elementary and junior high and (2) high school. A $5 prize will be offered in each category, Mrs. Dixner said.

Posters submitted will be displayed throughout the county to promote the exhibition. Entries should be on 14 x 22 poster board or other paper. The deadline is April 14. Contest rules will be available from Dixner's Office Supply in Manistique.

$320,000 airport project gets approval of county

First steps in a major expansion and improvement program at Schoolcraft County Airport were given the green light Tuesday night at the March meeting of the County Board of Supervisors.

The board approved a resolution authorizing the Michigan Department of Aeronautics to prepare a tentative master plan for the project, and recommended a $50,000 budget appropriation for next year as the county's share of the estimated $320,000 cost.

It will probably be 1971 before the project can get under construction, it was pointed out.

Included in the proposed project is extension of the present east-west paved runway by 600 feet, paving of the existing north-south turf runway, paving of a taxi area, construction of an administration terminal building, and other improvements.

Tentative funding calls for $100,000 from the Federal Aviation Authority, $59,500 from the state, $95,000 from the Economic Development Administration, and about $65,000 from local sources. The local contribution can be either cash or "in kind," meaning land or labor.

Supervisor Norman W. Jahn, presenting the report, cited increased use of airport facilities, including the development of Blaney Resort and their dependence on the airport here.

In 1966 a total of 99 "visiting" aircraft (from outside the area) utilized the airport. In 1967 this increased to 75, and last year the total was 1,254, he said.

An option to purchase 36 acres at the north end of the north-south runway, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Vern Edwards, at a price of $5,000, was approved. Cost of the five-year option was $10.

In other action: Approved leasing a telebinoocular testing machine for the sheriff's driver licensing operation, at a cost of $5 per month.

Referred the sheriff's request for an increase in prisoner food allowance from 70 cents to 85 cents a day to the finance committee.

Approved changing UPCA's name to Upper Peninsula Commission on Area Progress.

Approved a request of the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital board of trustees to pay $50 monthly salary, in addition to the regular per diem, to secretary Howard Hewitt, retroactive to January, 1969.

Named Norman Jahn as the county's representative on the library advisory board, replacing Agnes Dehlin of Haverthia Township.

Renewed the interim zoning ordinance for one year, effective April 1.

Heard and accepted annual reports from the County Road Commission, Department of Social Services, Friends of the Court and Civil Defense and Prosecutor G. S. Johnson.

Heard a report on a public health meeting held March 8 in Mt. Pleasant, presented by Supervisor Thurman Skarriff, Sr.

Pinocchio here Saturday

The popular Michigan State University Players will return to Manistique again this Saturday to present the puppet play, "Pinocchio."

Students in grades 1 through 6 in both the Manistique Area Schools and St. Francis de Sales School have been invited to view the single performance at 7 p.m. in the high school auditorium. There is no admission charge.

As there will be only one performance, and auditorium space will accommodate students only, parents are asked to bring their children to the school at 6:45 and return to pick them up about 9 p.m. Teachers from the various schools will be on hand to supervise the program.

"The opportunities for scheduling performances of this calibre are very limited in the Manistique area," said Miss Evelyn Berwin, elementary supervisor for the Manistique Area Schools, "and we hope that parents will be able to bring their youngsters to see this play."

Wuehle poem in anthology

A poem written by Manistique Supt. Edwin Wuehle and published last summer in the Chicago Tribune Magazine has been accepted for publication in a paperbound anthology to be published next year by Scott, Foresman and Co.

The anthology, entitled "Something Else," is being compiled by Marvin L. Greene. The text is designed for tenth-grade, urban-oriented students who require special high-interest stories. It will contain approximately 224 pages, with 35 to 45 selections.

A first printing of 35,000 copies is planned, and they will sell at an estimated list price of $1.50. The poem was published in the June 16, 1968 issue of the Tribune.

SIGN OF SPRING --- It may look like just a twig to you, outlined against a grey March sky, but buds on those thin branches are beginning to swell and turn red, holding the promise of spring and life returning as the winter draws to an end.

Spring fever hits the area

It's spring again, and birds on the wing again, start to sing again, tra la, tra la, ...

We got our first inkling several weeks ago when Pat Bernard reported that little snowdrops (those are flowers) were poking their heads up through the snow at her home on Range St.

St. Patrick's Day brought us a report that some crocus are starting to pop up amidst the melting snowdrifts in front of Helene's Beauty Shop at Walnut and Maple Sts.

And about those birds on the wing... Francis Hyland called us from his Indian Lake home near the Copenhagen Bridge Monday to report that a flock of Canada geese has arrived and made a stop in the open water by the lake outlet.

Now, who'll report the first arbutus?

Plan birthday party tonight

Manistique's Community School will mark its third birthday with a special "party" Thursday night in the gym. Director Dick Bonifas has invited all past and present students and teachers, plus anyone else interested in the community education program, to attend the party. Cake and coffee will be served at 6:15 p.m., brief comments will be made by Mrs. Earl LaBrousse, chairman of the Manistique School Advisory Board, and special awards will be given.

SUDDENLY IT'S SPRING

THE SAGE OF SCHOOLCRAFT

It's getting weather. I know because I had to use my wedge to pry wife out of the mud in the driveway.

It's also the first day of spring, officially. No cases of measles' itch have been reported from Indian Lake, but the problem of spring was spotted out in the deer yard eating up corn and alfalfa left behind by the deer, who have moved out along the highways so they can play chicken with passing cars.

The teacher asked the boy if he were animal, vegetable or mineral. "Mineral," the boy replied. "I'm a human bean."

There was only a printer's daughter but I liked her type.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor: In 1904 three of us went to Thunder Lake hunting deer. We went from Manistique to Steuben on a log train, got a team and wagon from a Mr. Hoss, and took us to his boarding house about four miles out. We stayed overnight and next morning he took us to Thunder Lake. We stayed seven weeks and Saturday one of us took a horse and they placed each get bread and donuts.

What I would like to know is where was his boarding house? I have been up there three times and can't find anyone that knows anything about Mr. Hoss or his house.

I'm going up there this summer and see if I can find it, or some old man that knows anything about it.

Anything you can tell me will be greatly appreciated. Thanking you in advance, I am,

Frank R. Rich Melanora, Mich. 49455

Split scored by Varnum

State Representative Charles H. Varnum, of Manistique said this week he objected to Governor Milliken's proposed split on the $100 million re-creational bonding monies.

"Those of us who support the bonding program sold it to the people of Michigan on the basis of dividing the money on a 70 to 30 formula with 70 percent going to state conservator projects. I very definitely feel that Michigan's citizens approved the bonding program on this basis, and we in the Legislature have a clear responsibility to see that the 70 to 30 formula is carried through," Varnum said.

Governor Milliken has urged the legislature to administer the $100 million on the basis of $30 million for a local grant program, $30 million supplement to the local grant program, and $40 million for state conservator projects. "I am sympathetic with the pressures the Governor must be receiving from the large cities, particularly from Wayne County," Varnum said.

Yarnum did say, however, that he was aware of the needs of the core cities, and that they have a unique and serious problem. But this particular bond issue was not sold on the basis of solving all their problems.

Yarnum said he had re-examined the statements and brochures utilized in representing the bond issue to the public and they spell out clearly that $70 million would be spent on such things as state park development, forestry and wildlife development, and fisheries. "Michigan has made great progress in our sport and fishing industry, both on the lake and on the shore, and these funds should go to continue these programs so valuable to the entire economy of the state," Varnum said.

"We also need to purchase and set aside more wildlife preserves. This is what the money was originally intended for, and we must insist that it be used in that manner," Varnum concluded.

Guidance efforts related

Mrs. Lee Pappas, guidance counselor at Manistique High School, has been busy enrolling high school students for next year's classes. She explains that early enrollment offers the chance to work out any special problems, eliminate confusion about which subjects to take, and helps to set up, as far as is possible, an entire high school program.

High school placement tests have been given for 8th graders. The results of these tests, combined with grades, teachers' recommendations and other test data, will be used to help students select their 9th grade subjects. The parents of Germfask and Doyle students will be invited to come to school on the days their children will be enrolling. It is impossible to arrange this for the more than 90 parents of Central School pupils, but they are urged to come to the Guidance Office at the school, or to call Mrs. Pappas.

Here are a few highlights from the American Association of School Administrators Convention. School architecture is lagging behind educational philosophy by at least two years. That is the opinion of jury members for AASA's 1969 exhibition of school architecture. Open space planning with a minimum of walls -- is this year's prominent trend -- is more evident than it was last year, but still isn't as widespread as it should be, jury members said. They predicted more open planning will show up next year, especially in high schools where it is more difficult to organize a curriculum for wide open spaces, and in much-talked-about middle schools. However, some high schools are solving the problem. For instance, in Pittsburgh's "great high schools," now under construction, home rooms will be required by four open houses of 350-400 students each. A house will have a full-time counselor and will be broken into 10 advisory groups of about 35 students. Each group will have its own area, defined by partitions, which will serve as the student's home base for meeting his faculty advisor, talking with friends, studying, and storing equipment.

Plan parish renewal program

A program of "parish renewal" for St. Francis de Sales Church will begin Sunday, March 30, at the parish center. In charge of the program will be a special team of experts, assigned by the Diocese of Marquette, to go throughout the diocese and put the decrees of Vatican II into effect on the local parish level. The purpose of the Institute is to motivate Catholic laymen to assume their rightful role in the church in light of their responsibilities as outlined and rediscovered by Vatican II. The announcement said. Such renewal is designed to expose, in everyday terms, a new understanding of the essential truths of faith so they can more readily be translated into contemporary action.

Director of the diocesan center is Fr. James Donnelly, assisted by Sister M. Rosamond and Kenneth Bray. The Institute will continue four evening meetings with the first at the library and the others at the center. The Sunday topic will be a general introduction of the diocesan program of renewal.

Discussion group meeting is Sunday

A meeting for the purpose of discussing and organizing neighborhood discussion and Bible study groups will be held at the Church of the Redeemer, Presbyterians, Sunday, at 7 p.m. This meeting has been planned under the auspices of the Manistique Ministerial Association as a result of interest expressed in this type of program by people attending the recent inter-faith banquet. Dr. Robert Worley will be in attendance at this meeting as a resource person to aid in development of the program. An invitation is extended to all interested persons in the area to attend this meeting.

NATIONAL LAWN AND GARDEN WEEK. We had hoped to have an extra special meeting to pay big dividends for northern Michigan," said Sen. Schweigert and Rep. Davis. The present areas surrounding the magnificent Mackinac Bridge Authority recently announced that it will reduce the toll on the bridge to 32 cents, compared with 32 cents a year ago. He said that the winter month in the past was quite apparent that the

"It had been evident for a long time that bridge tolls had been shifting into seasonal rates. January and February figures indicate that traffic increases resulting from the toll reduction are likely to be much greater than anticipated." "Northern Michigan communities can expect an economic boost in the area as a result. We are sure that when word gets around the United States about the lowered rates that we can expect a heavy influx of out-of-state tourists willing to make the complete trip through Michigan, instead of only stopping to look at the bridge and then turn back," Sen. Schweigert and Rep. Davis particularly noted the fact that truck traffic in February showed an increase of more than 27 per cent. "Some persons have complained that, while the bridge tolls were reduced, the increase in the gasoline tax by one cent, and the increase in the automobile license plate fees more than offset toll reduction," said the Straits area legislators.

"In the first place, the automobile license plate fees do not go into the Straits bridge fund. "The gasoline tax increase was necessary for state highway construction and operations and northern Michigan legislators worked hard to get a share of the increase to reduce the bridge tolls because of the help it would bring to that area. If this money had not been obtained for the bridge operations, northern Michigan would have had to pay the tax increase just the same. "We felt that, since the tax increase was going to pass anyway, it was important that our section of the state get a share of it rather than have it go to other parts of the state by default."

SHOCKING PINK AND ORANGE! Who, ever thought we'd see these two colors together and like them? Yesterday's rules no longer hold true. Remember the one "brightest colors in small areas" and cool, light colors for background areas.

Although color combinations are freer and more exciting than in the past, we do need some guides in color selection and coordination. If you would like a new bulletin of colors in the home, ask for it at the Extension office.

WINS MEDAL.--Dennis Segerstrom of Cooks has been cited for heroism by the Boy Scouts of America. His actions are credited with saving his sister, Tina, left, Mrs. Segerstrom holds the medal he was awarded.

Seney tours this week

Special tours of the Seney National Wildlife Refuge are being enjoyed by area students this week in observance of National Wildlife Week.

The National Court of Honor of the B.S.A., selected Dennis as one of 91 Scouts and Scouters to receive the award for saving lives at the risk of their own for performing an outstanding act of service and demonstrating exceptional character.

Dennis has been a member of Troop 464, sponsored by the Cooks Community Club.

Like others to receive awards, Dennis faced an emergency with courage and resourcefulness, unmindful of self. His act shows the value of the B.S.A., selected Dennis as one of 91 Scouts and Scouters to receive the award for saving lives at the risk of their own for performing an outstanding act of service and demonstrating exceptional character.

Boy Scout cited for bravery

A Cooks youth has earned national recognition from the Boy Scouts of America. Fifteen year old Dennis Segerstrom has received the Medal of Merit for saving his sister's life.

and effectiveness of safety and lifesaving training conducted by the Boy Scouts of America. Scouting reinforces a boy's natural courage with skill and knowledge in handling emergencies requiring quick, sure decisions.

Mrs. Alden Segerstrom and her daughter, Tina, 12, were trying to thaw water pipes in the basement of their Cooks home on Jan. 7, 1968, using a gasoline and oil-soaked torch.

It exploded, spraying flaming fluid over Tina. Acting without thought for his own safety, Scout Dennis Segerstrom grabbed Tina and took her outside where he rolled her in the snow to put out the flames. Then, because they had no telephone and their car was not working, Dennis hitheliked a note to summon help. At the hospital, Tina's burns were found not to be severe, due chiefly to Dennis' courageous application of rescue methods he learned as a Scout.

Adoption program related

Schoolcraft County couples interested in adoption are being urged to contact the Department of Social Services at the court house.

Director David M. Nordin said that the Michigan Department of Social Services has approximately 355 children under its custody for whom they are seeking adoptive placement.

"It might be pointed out that not only are white and negro children available, but also children of mixed races," Mr. Nordin said. There are also 21 American Indian children available for adoption. The age groups range from infants up to 18 years. Of the 355 total, there are approximately 115 with mental and physical handicaps.

"Not available in this group, usually, are the normal, blonde, blue-eyed children that most adoptive couples seek," Mr. Nordin said.

Capsule Review

...from new arrivals at the Manistique School and Public Library.

THE GAMES, a novel by Hugh Atkinson.

This authentic novel sweeps the reader into the private worlds of the Olympics and of the men and women whose lives are caught up in the events--the athletes, forcing themselves beyond the limits of pain and endurance; the powerful Committee, responsible for maintaining the Olympic ideal; the more powerful international interests.

At the center of this arena of ambition, dedication and manipulation are three great runners who will compete in the marathon. The story revolves around a young Englishman, an American and an Australian aborigine brought together in a shattering climax.

Hugh Atkinson, the author, was born in New South Wales, Australia, in 1923, and has worked as a magazine editor, script writer, and documentary film producer; in addition, he has authored three previous novels and numerous short stories.

Plan contest for fair book

Plans have been approved for the ninth annual Upper Peninsula State Fair Premium Book Cover Contest, according to Cliff Perras, Fair manager.

Children under 20 years of age attending either grade or high school are eligible to enter the contest which has had the approval of the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals for the past number of years. Prizes to be awarded include the grand prize, a portable television set; and four transistor radios to be awarded to the winners in four separate Upper Peninsula districts. The prizes are donated by Bancroft Dairy, Inc. of Marquette and will be awarded at a special program to be televised over WLUC-TV late in June. Entry blanks may be obtained from the art teacher at any school throughout the Upper Peninsula and additional entry blanks may be obtained by writing the Upper Peninsula State Fair Office at Escanaba.

Last year's winners were as follows: Grand award -- Susan Bohjanen, Marquette; Four District winners: Karen Honkala, Ontonagon; Carl Krumrey, Manistique; Doris Holmstrom, Gladstone; Colleen C. Masters, Munising.

In 1968, over 400 students participated in the contest. The most common error among the many fine entries was the omission of the dates of the Fair from the art work entered, according to the judges. The dates of the 1969 Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba are Tuesday, Aug. 12, through Sunday, Aug. 17, 1969.

Hello, Progress

Where every prospect pleases, and only man is vile.

Progress is once again returning to the Upper Peninsula.

We had it 75 years ago, when iron, copper and timber were kings, and our peninsula was systematically plundered of its raw materials and natural resources. When they were depleted, our land declined, there was no more growth and progress, and nature retired to lick her wounds and replenish herself.

Today our mining companies have learned how to convert their former wastes into profits, the timber is growing back, and once again the cry of the money maker is heard in the land.

Wonderful.

If this keeps up we can look forward to enjoying the benefits of complete water and air pollution, a booming economy, urban slums and urban problems, traffic jams, and all those other wonderful things of which we have been deprived for so long.

Not only that, but think of the tax base we will have. New power plants and ore treatment plants will provide tax money to help us pay for solving some of the inevitable problems that progress seems to bring. Of course they won't pay a fraction of the total cost, but we will have progress, and we can't expect everything.

It's disappointing that there should be opposition to this area moving ahead. It's too bad that individualism and sensitivity and a sense of beauty and heritage should be allowed to intrude upon the plans for progress, which in the jargon of the business world is a synonym for profits.

Businessmen and advocates of the free enterprise system are often shocked that in some circles profits has become a dirty word. They are shocked without stopping to consider that in many instances profits (or progress) has come to mean systematic exploitation of man's environment. Oddly enough, there are men who object to this, not because they oppose free enterprise, but because they cherish the right of the individual and the public together, because they believe that they can be compatible, and because they believe that progress and profit does not necessarily mean fouling one's own nest.

It is unfortunate that some business interests in the Upper Peninsula are so intent on ledger sheets that they fail to see the forest for the trees. It is unfortunate that there are those among our leading business enterprises who feel the necessity to destroy in order to create. It is unfortunate that there are township politicians who can only see the tinsel of an increased tax base without having the acuity to analyze the situation to determine what they are doing to their homes and their homeland.

We raise fierce cries about the intervention of the Federal government in local affairs, but when ruin is the price of progress, when local people prove incapable of handling themselves and their problems, then it is no wonder that Washington and Lansing are called upon to save us from our own mistakes.

We never learn.

James M. Tagg--Co-Publisher and Business Manager
David A. Rood--Co-Publisher and Editor

A prize-winning weekly newspaper published every Thursday at Manistique, Michigan, at the Top O' Lake Michigan in the heart of Michigan's beautiful Upper Peninsula.

Having suffered through something called The Jimi Hendrix Experience and the Vanilla Fudge one recent evening just before supper --- an experience not particularly designed to aid middle-aged digestion, I might add --- it was probably inevitable that the supper table conversation involved such trends in popular music.

Naturally, in the eyes of my youngsters, I was cast in the role of the Old Fogey, the embodiment of the Establishment, the Sad Square (if they're still using that rather archaic adjective), I am not sure who won the argument, as we finished eating before we finished shouting, but I am here to report getting in at least a few good licks for the Great Depression Era.

Nobody really wins arguments like that anyway, for they, like the music, go round and round (ohohohho ho and it comes out here) and a man convinced against his will retains the same opinion still.

We didn't have stereo back in those dear, dead days, but I can well remember blowing a week's allowance for a wax 78 just to be able to put in on the wind up Victrola and hear that driving cornet of Bix Beiderbeck come pushing through, or the rhythm and blues pianer of Fats Waller (Up in Harlem at a table for two, there were three of us... me, your big feet and you!) or that new sensation, the smooth blend of dancing music by Glenn Miller, which would have been really keen if ever I had the courage to ask a girl a dance.

All of this was to the great despair of my poor mother, whose musical tastes ran largely to Jeannette McDonald and Nelson Eddy, a few World War I songs, and a grudging acceptance of Guy Lombardo as "not too bad" for a jazz musician. "I just can't stand those blues singers," she would proclaim. "All they do is screech and wail. That's not music!" She was utterly baffled by Mairzy Doats and Three Little Fishies and Dance With a Dolly (with a hold in her stockin while her knees keep a rockin') and in looking back I will concede there was some justification for the confusion and a jazz or swing arrangement of Swanee River or Annie Laurie was enough to give her the screaming meemies, probably in the same way if I heard Jimi Hendrix try to sing Stardust or Deep Purple.

There is much about today's music that I enjoy. Much of it has a good strong beat to it, there is occasionally a fine melody (Hey Jude comes to mind) and the country-western influence is being distilled and refined to an enjoyable degree.

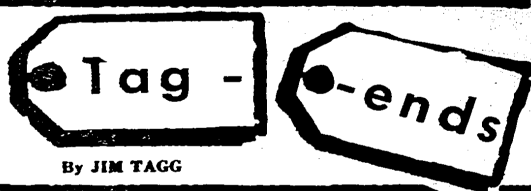

There is also much that just about drives me out of my tree. Hairy and unshaven groups clad in discarded piano scarves who rely on the strength of their amplifiers and sheer lung power to present a progression of rhythm chords while completely ignoring the melody line are not musicians, but entertainers relaying on gimmicks, gadgets and gullibility to mask the fact that they are as short on talent as they are long on noise.

Yes, I will concede there were gimmicks in the Big Band Era. Shep Fields and his Rippling Rhythm usually had an introduction that sounded like a clogged drain, and the pop and gurgle of the Champagne Music of Lawrence Welk sometimes sounded like a rumbling stomach badly in need of antacid tablets, but these groups did not rely on these devices to carry their entire efforts, but were versatile performers and accomplished musicians as well.

All of this probably sounds like I'm living in the past, and I will plead guilty to the extent that we all do the same thing, to some degree, but when modern groups come out with some good and solid revivals like Harper's Bazaar (or is it Biz-zarre?) and Chattanooga Choo Choo I can't help but feel a certain smug satisfaction that maybe there's still musical gold in them thar hills.

(This has nothing to do with musical comparisons, but most of today's kids probably don't know that the TV couple of Ozzie and Harriet were once very big in 1938 and earlier. Ozzie Nelson was the bandleader and Harriet was the vocalist, and you get the gold star if you remember that her stage name (and later screen name) was Harriet Hilliard. If you remember that, you probably can tell me the name of the high school that Jack Armstrong, the All-American Boy, attended. Come on, now...)

But-I digress. It is senseless to try and impose one generation's musical tastes upon another's, and I'm not trying to do that. I am trying to tell some of these hairy-faced runny-nosed drum pounders and guitar pluckers that if they turned down their volume and let an occasional melody creep in that perhaps the older generation could get with it just a little bit more. Any group that could produce Flat Foot Floogie with a Floy Floy isn't entirely square.

Back on Nov. 21, 1968, I announced that "Tag-ends" was being discontinued as a regular column. However, it was stated that the column would appear from time to time when I felt compelled to comment. That time has come!

In the true spirit of a free press, I want to take exception to partner Dave's editorial, "Hello, Progress," appearing in this week's issue.

I don't think he is really against progress and yet he sure gives it a good downgrading. He makes those who advocate progress sound like the spoilers of the earth and the greedy profiteers of a helpless society. He talks about the cry of the money maker and all the dire plagues that will befall us should we allow progress to reach our door step. He speaks about how man systematically plundered the land 75 years ago as though it was synonymous with progress... as though there was no other way. He implies that profit is the sole motivation for progress and that together they can only mean plunder and exploitation. At least this is the impression he leaves.

In short he has attempted with a broad sweep of the pen to catalog all of our ills under one simple heading, "progress." This kind of simplification is neat but not very logical. Everything is not all light and dark. There are shades in between. Dave does let a little light in midway through the editorial when he implies that the right of the individual and the public can be compatible and that progress and profit do not necessarily mean fouling one's own nest. In my opinion this is the key. This should be our beginning thought and not something sandwiched in the middle between two negatives.

If there is anything the Upper Peninsula needs it is progress. It needs to improve its economic base, its standard of living and its area of opportunity. Such progress does not mean that we are automatically going to be confronted with complete water and air pollution, urban slums and urban problems, traffic jams and as the editorial states, "all those wonderful things of which we have been deprived for so long."

I share Dave's concern over what is happening to the natural beauty of some areas of the Upper Peninsula. But to accept these few incidents as the whole is not logical. To use this as a reason for downgrading our efforts to achieve some degree of economic progress is as detrimental as exploitation.

There is an area of compatibility in this matter. It comes from systematic and selective development. We can have progress without plunder. We can have economic growth without destruction of our beauty or our heritage. We can if we think logically, plan carefully and work constructively.

We can if we don't get carried away to one extreme or the other.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Krause, a son, last Monday, Gilbert Olson of Cooks was in the city on business Wednesday.

In a recent article The American Medical Association said: "This is a push button age. With a flick of your wrist you can watch a sports event, wash the dinner dishes, or adjust the heat. Sure, automated living is easy; but it eases your muscles out of needed exercise."

Regular exercise can do more than improve muscle tone. It replaces fatigue and boredom, reduces nervous tension, controls inches more effectively than diet alone, helps your digestion and strengthens your heart and lungs.

If you decide on a planned regular exercise program, you would do well to ask your physician's advice about types and amounts. He will suggest activities suited to your age, sex and physical condition.

Drop is reported in timber cuttings

Because of unusually deep snows in the Upper Peninsula this winter, timber cutting on the Hiawatha National Forest is about half the normal rate for winter.

In spite of this, local loggers cut timber on 65 different National Forest areas during January and February of this year. They cut a total of 124,000 bd. ft. of sawlogs and 5,261 cords

Much of this cutting was done in and near deer yards, thereby providing both browse for immediate use and regeneration for future use and permanent betterment of the yard. Forty-three sales were in or near deer wintering areas.

we've been expecting you

Copyright 1959 Keister Advertising Service, Inc., Strasburg, Va.

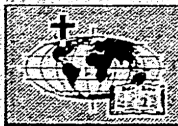

On a busy night in New York—or any other city—it pays to be expected. After our wanderings we crave welcome.

There is somewhere else we are expected and welcomed!

Here is an aspect of religious concern which isn't emphasized enough: Whatever you've done about it, you are conscious of the fact that you need God. But are you aware also that God needs you?

Or, putting it another way, do you realize that one of the churches in our community has been expecting you—waiting for you to add your strength to that of your neighbors, your brothers in faith?

You don't need a reservation. Only a reverent heart.

News Notes

Michigan State University

CALF VACCINATION TOUR: It is time for our Calf Vaccination Tour again. We are making the survey now and have the date set for April 3. You will recall all female calves between 4 through 8 months of age should be vaccinated. Dr. Boydston of Escanaba will again make the tour. I hope all of our farmers will return the card I sent to determine your number of calves to be vaccinated at this time. Be sure and pass the word on to your neighbors.

4-H EVENTS: Plans are being made at the Extension office for a number of 4-H activities, such as, 4-H Camp, Achievement Day, State Show, Youth Week, Citizenship Short Course, U.P. Activity Days. Our Teen Club has done exceptionally well with their Easter Egg candy sale for such events. It is our hope this year to send more of our 4-H'ers to all of these events. In the past if one or two attended we felt we had done well, this does not seem sufficient any longer as we look about us and see the other counties doing so much better in this particular way.

LIMING SOIL TESTS PAY BIG DIVIDENDS. The higher yields that result from applying liming material will return $10-$12 for each dollar invested in the lime, according to Eugene C. Doll, Michigan State University soil scientist.

But improperly applied limestone may be a waste of money. Doll says lime should never be applied unless the soil has been tested.

Heavy rates of fertilizer, especially nitrogen, speed up the rate at which soils become acid. And acid soils need lime. In Michigan State University experiments conducted at East Lansing, corn would not grow in soils that had become strongly acid after heavy rates of ammonium sulfate had been applied for five or six years. The same thing happened on a farmer's field in Kent County when the soil pH dropped below 4.5.

In both cases, however, normal yields were obtained the next year after lime had been applied.

In another case investigated by Michigan State University scientists, growth and yield of potatoes were reduced on a Montcalm County field when the soil pH was below 4.7 because toxic amounts of manganese became available in the acid soil.

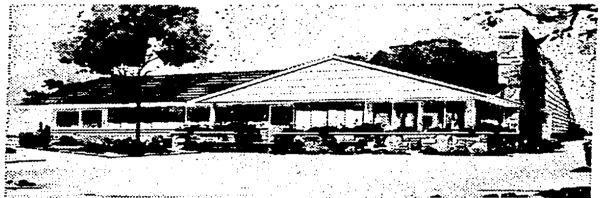

"The best way to protect yourself against these kinds of conditions is by soil testing," advises Doll. "Soil acidity and lime requirement tests can be made quickly and accurately."

"If a soil does not need lime, a soil test will quickly show it. Applying lime to a soil that doesn't need it may actually reduce yields by reducing the availability of soil manganese, zinc and boron.

to a strongly acid soil may not be any better than not liming at all. Medium, dolomitic limestone should be used. That's because it contains the magnesium element."

Tony's Topics

It was a solid joy to discover a character I couldn't possibly meet outside the pages of a book.

Either through my own negligence or an oversight on the part of all my good high school and college English teachers, never once did I bump into this beautiful, ebullient comic character in American literature, who makes his entrance into an adult education class by exclaiming.

"Hollo, frands, students, av-erybody! Grittings! Valcome to de new sezson! Valcome to be-ginnis' grate!"

He's late! The class is al-ready assembled. They enjoy prior residence but he wel-comes them. He storms in like a knight conquering a city, a returning hero and caps it by informing Mr. Pensky, "Podden me. You got mine sitt." He does it simply like a recognized "sovereign returned to claim his throne."

Here is an undaunted, blithe free spirit coming back to "be-ginnis' grate" because he can't make it in the next higher level.

He has a talent for outlandis, massacre of the English lan-guage and a genius which gives the opposite of "tall" as "shrimp" and of "inhale" as "dead." He defines "diameter" as a machine that counts dimes, and describes "Ohio" as an Indian yawning. The principal parts of "to eat" are "eat, ate, and full" and the First Lady of America is "Mother Washing-ton" because he reasons with deadly logic, "Judge Washing-ton was the father."

He signs his name H*Y*M*A*N K*A*P*L*A*N, carefully placing the green stars between each letter. These he draws in red crayon and outlined each one in blue. Hyman Kaplan signs his name with a "glittering phosphores-cent pride."

He writes of himself in the biographical assignment:

"First, I was born. In Kiev, in Old Country Moishe Elman, famous on fiddle is also coming from Kiev."

"My father had the name Joe, but friends were calling him Yussel. My mother had name Ida, but I called her Mamma."

"Also was four brothers and sisters. All nice. Avrum, Sophie, me (my name was Hymie), Becky. Behind Becky come Max. He got wonderful momory, only he forgets."

"Come bad times (plenty) so I arrive in wonderful U.S. 10 days on ship and also sick 10 days. I falt sure it already Goodbye, Hyman Kaplan."

In N.Y. I am happy. But not 100%. So I am coming to school. To learn. I am full of all kinds of embition. My motto is --

Kaplan, GO HIGH!
The end

You have to love a guy who recites so proudly "October tvalf I'm born; October tvalf I'm tsalebratink! All mine life I'm hevink boithdays, October. tvalf. No axceptions." His rap-ture is overwhelming when he discovers October 12th is also Columbus Day. "October tvalf, I'm arrivink in de void, an' October tvalf Columbiss picks of for discoverink, U.S.! Dastiny!

I have never met anyone in my life who has such limited educational resources, but who also possesses (what we call in the trade) "such a positive self image." God love you Hy-mie Kaplan.

SCHOOLCRAFT VISTA report

BY JAN STRASMA, VISTA

Several days ago I was again asked: "Just what is a VISTA?" It's a question that my partner Jerry Abrams and I are asked frequently.

I replied with a stock answer that VISTA means "Volunteers in Service to America" and that it is the domestic equivalent of the Peace Corps.

But that answer leaves most of the VISTA story untold.

A VISTA volunteer is one of more than 4,000 in all parts of the country who are helping people and their communities meet some of their problems -- a lot of little problems and, perhaps, a few big ones.

The concept is quite simple. Take people who are interested in helping others and turn them loose for a year in an area where they are needed. And to make sure they are really interested in helping others, pay them only a living allowance.

Most VISTAs are young -- but some are older persons willing to give others the benefit of their years' experience. Several weeks ago I met a high school principal from Midland who told me his parents were completing a year in VISTA. They were spending the first year of their retirement in an urban ghetto.

VISTAs are sent to areas that request them and can show a need for them. Like many VISTAs, Jerry and I are assigned to a Community Action Agency, a local organization that administers a number of government-sponsored programs. The CAA provides transportation and supervision, while the government pays our living allowance.

Each VISTA assignment is different. Volunteers in urban areas generally have a specific project to work on. But those in small communities often work with a number of programs.

In Schoolcraft County Jerry and I assist a number of agencies and organizations: the Community School, the Head Start program, the Department of Social Services, the Senior Citizens Center, the schools, and various programs sponsored by the CAA. We work with families and individuals as well.

Recruiting brochures tell prospective volunteers that they will be spending a year of their lives helping others; that they will be living and working in a urban ghetto, on an Indian reservation, or in a rural community; that the hours are long and the pay low; and that the year will be both frustrating and rewarding.

But there are gaps left when you try to put VISTA into a pamphlet. To fill these gaps think of the year's service as "the VISTA experience." It is just that -- a year of my life, a year of any VISTA's life, is devoted to becoming part of a community and working within it to make it a bit better.

A VISTA sees things that others may not see, for he has his eyes open. He is looking at his community. He is looking at people. And he is looking for ways to help.

The VISTA experience is a two-way street. By giving, a VISTA receives. And it is not all work; becoming part of a community means fun, too. It is being with people, as much as trying to help them.

In a year we VISTAs learn much about people and even more about ourselves as people. For some, their year is an awakening, a realization that many people do not lead the glossy lives we see on television and in advertising. For most volunteers, VISTA is just a beginning. It is a year of service that does not end; once you become aware of the world you live in, you cannot ignore it.

As such, VISTA is a national investment. It is planting the seeds of concern and service that will blossom as the years pass.

People becoming VISTAs know what the brochures say, but feel there is more to it. When I joined, I had read the recruiting pamphlets, but wondered: "Just what is a VISTA?"

Nine months later I am still seeking the answer. My search for the answer is being a VISTA, and each day I discover a bit more of what it means.
