

Clean-up letter gets strong reaction

BY DAVE ROOD

Henry David Thoreau remarked that for a thousand men chopping at the branches of evil, there was only one chopping at the root.

David Ulliam Larson must have had the same sort of idea last week and as he decided to go right to the root of the Clean-Up Drive in Schoolcraft County.

The result was a controversy over 88 letters he mailed to area residents and businessmen Monday morning, seeking prompt action in current efforts to clean up the area.

"Confidential," the letters were stamped in red ink, top and bottom. "Violation Notice," it said.

The letter was addressed to "Defendant" at whatever address was being cited. It read: "You are hereby informed that you are accused of being guilty of violating both the Schoolcraft County area from being the beautiful part of Upper Michigan that it should so rightly be, unless you make some arrangement to answer to the below charges by cleaning-up, painting-up, fixing-up, you will be admitting your guilt. Your sentence will be to live in a dirty, dingy, shabby part of an otherwise beautiful peninsula. You are personally held responsible.

Then followed two paragraphs, "Your specific offense," listing everything from litter to wrong color paint, and "Action Necessary," a summary of things to be done and how to do them.

At the bottom was a line, "Prosecutor: David U. Larson," and "For Action—No Plans for Future Action."

A note was also attached saying that a copy of the above had been recorded with one of four area chairmen of the local Operation Pride clean-up campaign.

Larson signed all of the letters, and put the word "SEAL" in the lower right hand corner.

The letters proved effective, if nothing else. Members of the Operation Pride committee were holding a breakfast meeting at the Fire-Station Monday morning when Larson stopped in and left carbon copies of each letter with the group.

"There we were, congratulating ourselves on our progress and on the cooperation we had received so far, when these letters were dropped in our laps," said Mrs. John Moffat, co-chairman of Operation Pride.

It wasn't that the committee didn't appreciate initiative. They were afraid, however, that Larson's comments might provoke a storm of antagonism instead of cooperation.

The "indictments" were blunt. They covered everything from homes needing paint to local businesses needing remodeling or cleaning. In one instance, the color of the existing paint was criticized, and in another instance, a building that had been newly-stuccoed last summer was cited as "falling apart."

In addition, Larson made the factual error of suggesting that residents whose homes needed painting could purchase this paint from his employer, Romer Electric, which is closing out its paint inventory.

Off-street parking plan outlined to Chamber

A street parking program covering the four blocks in the downtown business section, an estimated $146,526 was outlined to the retail division of the Michigan Chamber of Commerce at the Chamber last week.

Manager Robert Noe presented the plan to the City Assessor, Lila Light, and the four blocks would be a separate assessment district, Noe explained, with the tax levied against the merchants in the blocks. These costs are tentatively based on a total of 36 cents per square foot for the four blocks by Cedar, Walnut, Main and Oak Sts., the assessment would be based on 48 cents per square foot would be levied on the blocks bounded by Cedar, Walnut and Oak Sts.

The block composed of the area bounded by Cedar, Pearl and Arbutus the per foot cost would be 55 cents. The block of 48 cents per square foot was set back bounded by Walnut, Cedar, Main and Maple.

Noe listed individual costs for each parcel of land.

The money would be used to purchase land, leveling and blacktopping. Some businesses with large parcels of land in the rear of their store, would receive more than they would be assessed. It was pointed out.

The assessment could also be spread over a 10-year period, Noe pointed out.

A total of 304 off-street parking spaces would be provided in the four-block area. Lighting of the lots and maintenance would be taken care of by the city. Noe said the question of metering of the lots could be decided by the merchants. Special arrangements could be made for loading areas, and for such business as a hotel, where parking is needed for overnight guests.

"Business downtown cannot depend on street parking alone any more," Noe told the group. "We have given you a proposal. The city gains nothing one way or the other. It's up to you."

Merchants will then be contacted by representatives of the Chamber to determine their attitudes on the project, and whether or not the city should proceed.

CBC drive tops $5,000

Schoolcraft County's combined CBC fund drive for the American Cancer Society, Boy Cliff Health Camp, and Crippled Children, has gone over the $5,000 mark.

Fr. Dan Zaloga, co-chairman of the drive, made the report this week. Official cutoff date of the drive, with a quota of $5,000, is May 1.

A house-to-house canvass is in progress throughout the county but the results of this solicitation have not yet been tabulated.

The CBC drive got underway with a radiothon on March 30. Several fund-raising events have been staged by various groups to help reach the $5,000 quota. Anyone who has not made their pledge may send it to either the First National or State Savings Bank, according to Mrs. Roland Hobolik, residential chairman of the drive.

Recent contributions include $100 cash from the Masons and Knights of Columbus which was donated during their joint dinner.

A final accounting will be ready next week, Father Zaloga said. A meeting of the CBC steering committee is also planned for next week.

Crafts exhibit rated a success

More than 500 persons from all over the Upper Peninsula attended the tenth annual Upper Peninsula Crafts and Native Industries Exhibit Saturday at Manistique High School.

Exhibitors displayed a wide variety of crafts including wood-working, ceramics, pottery, weaving, and lapidary work. There were also demonstrations by Upper Peninsula craftsmen of a number of craft skills.

In a morning session, William M. Roberts of the West Virginia Artists and Craftsmen Guild, described the craft industry in the Appalachian region and discussed crafts work in the Upper Peninsula. He cited two major problems that have to be met: finding suitable markets for crafts and locating craftsmen who can produce in sufficient quantity to sell their crafts.

"People with an artistic temperament are pretty lousy salesmen," Roberts said. "If you wish to build a crafts industry here, you have to talk up the Upper Peninsula crafts at every possible opportunity."

Two prizes were awarded at the exhibit. For the best use of the exhibit's theme, "Blue Waters," Mrs. B.G. Buell of Chassell received a $10 prize. The Eastern Upper Peninsula Arts and Crafts Group received a $5 award for the best display of crafts items.

Special exhibits at the show were a display of Michigan crafts by the Michigan Council of the Arts, a crafts book exhibit arranged by the Manistique Public Library, and a group of paintings by members of the Manistique Art Club.

The exhibit was sponsored by the Upper Peninsula Crafts Council with the local assistance of the Manistique Community School Program, and the Manistique Art Club.

Local committee members were: Mrs. J. J. Herbert; Mrs. Margaret Dixon; and Mrs. Caroline Stoll of the art club; Richard Bonillas, director of the Community School Program, and Jan Strassman, a VISTA volunteer.

Council asks study on pollution costs

A long-studied study of water treatment plants in the area is being held Monday night's special session.

Van Eyck, consultant with the firm of Porter and Stooly, was present for the first time to discuss the city's current state of water resources.

He said that the city's water resources are being depleted at a rate of 80 per cent of their capacity by Dec. 31, 1970.

As to what Vidulich would complete the remodeling project, Vidulich said he did not know when he would be able to complete the job of siding his home, but that he wanted to proceed with tearing down some old outbuildings and constructing a utility room.

It was agreed that Vidulich would submit his request to the zoning board of appeals for a hearing.

In other action, Council: Tabled a proposed ordinance requiring the partitioning and dividing of lots, outlots and other parcels of land in recorded plats;

Heard a report that Mayor Rowell and his wife, and fire chief Lyle Buchanan and his wife, of Rochester, Mich., would be here Sunday, May 18 for Mayor Exchange Day as part of Michigan Week;

Approved the appointment of Lawrence Gorsche as local chairman for United Nations Day Oct. 24.

City trash pick up planned next week

If you've got a basement, attic or garage filled with junk, next week is your big chance.

That's when the City of Manistique will be making its annual Spring pick-up.

Special crews and trucks will cover the east side of town Monday and Tuesday, and the west side on Wednesday and Thursday.

"If it's at the curb, we'll pick it up," said City Manager Robert Noe in urging citizen participation.

Journalism changes cited at Quill and Scroll dinner

"As consumers of news we should be aware of current changes in journalism," members of Quill and Scroll and their guests were told last Thursday night at the annual initiation banquet of the journalism honorary held in the new gym of the high school.

YETA Worker Jan Strasma, who has been serving as advisor to the high school newspaper, "The Crier," was the main speaker.

"Facts are just the skeleton," he told the group. "We need the flesh of meaning--some perspectives and background to tell it like it is, not as it appears to be."

Citing the differing roles of newspapers, radio and TV, Strasma said that readers today should expect honesty and accuracy, if not pure objectivity which is relatively impossible.

This is an age of specialization for news coverage and reporters, he said, noting the need for trained and skilled reporters and writers who are involved yet keep their perspective, who do not editorialize or editorialize, but use their background and knowledge to accurately report the news.

Strasma, who holds a master's degree in journalism from Columbia University, received his bachelor's degree in Eng-

Faculty members Celestine Christensen, Lucille Adamek and Gladys Mercier attended a meeting of the Upper Peninsula Elementary Principals Association April 19 at Marquette.

Highlight of the meeting was a guided tour through the John D. Peters laboratory school at Northern Michigan University, entitled "More Than a Text-book."

The tour included innovative approaches to education, with emphasis on individualized instruction and the influence of technology upon present day teaching and learning methods.

Those participating were given the opportunity of seeing participating in various multiple teaching aids and "gadgets" and were told "TV is the teaching media today—the here and now" and were also told computer-assisted instruction is in the not-too-distant offing.

"Teachers must be receptive to using the methods found available," they were told. "What we don't use we lose."

Teachers interested in learning more about this approach met with Dr. James G. Cahane, director of the school, for reservations for a dinner meeting May 6 at 7 p.m.

He was reported that Dr. Gordon Eadie, the present Director, has submitted his resignation and that he will be leaving about May 15, 1969 for New York State, where he will set up practice. Supervisor Skarritt reported that the new director will be selected by Civil Service, with the State furnishing $15,000.00 of his salary, the balance to be paid by the 4 counties. Supervisor Skarritt, reported on meeting with the 4 County Committee and reviewing the 1970 Tentative Budget and that it was decided to submit for 1970, a budget request similar in amount as in 1969. It was moved by Ernest Hoholik, supported by Homer J. Weber, that the report of the Health Committee Chairman Skarritt, be accepted. Carried by unanimous vote.

It was moved by Homer J. Weber, supported by Norman W. Jahn, that the Board approve the recommendation of the Department of Social Services of Schoolcraft County, relative to their action whereby for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1969, the For River Health Unit offices, be increased from $100.00 per month to $200.00 per month, effective as of March 1, 1969. Motion carried by unanimous vote.

Supervisor Thurman Skarritt Sr., reported on his efforts to try and get some action on the proposed State Fish Hatchery on the For River between Seney and Garmast, Michigan. He reported contacting the local representatives in Lansing, and that they all indicated their support for this project. However, he did find out that this site was listed as third on the current list of sites for construction of a Trout and Salmon Hatchery. The Chairman urged Supervisor Skarritt to continue his efforts in promoting this endeavor and that if he needed help, he should feel free to call on all within the county to help promote this cause. It was moved by Russell A. Tennant, supported by Homer J. Weber, that the report of Supervisor Skarritt be accepted. Carried by unanimous vote.

Supervisor Edward Jorgensen, of the County Extension Committee, reported on his efforts to have Mr. Brown, the 4-H Extension Director, remain in Manistique. However, he reported meeting with the District Supervisor, and discussing this matter thoroughly, and it was concluded that because of the limited amount of funds available, as well as the limited number of available personnel, he had to be moved, but that he would return several times a year to assist in any project called upon to assist with. Supervisor Jorgensen reported that Mrs. Howard Hancock of the County Extension Director, will also direct all 4-H activities in the county from now on. It was moved by Thurman Skarritt Sr., supported by Norman W. Jahn, that the report of the County Extension Chairman, Edward Jorgensen, be accepted. Carried by unanimous vote.

Dr. Diane Waters, M.D., appeared before the Board and indicated that the proposed Doctor's Medical Center, which was being considered, had not reached a point of decision as of this time, and that they would defer any request for land in the Fair grounds complex at this time. He further indicated that it is very doubtful if this project will materialize as now proposed.

Homer J. Weber, Chairman of the Welfare Committee, reported on the meeting held in conjunction with the Welfare Commission and the problem of increase allowance for an indigent burial allowance. He reported that the burial allowance had been increased up to $400.00 but that the local undertakers were still dissatisfied. It was moved by Russell A. Tennant, supported by Ernest Hoholik, that the report of Homer J. Weber on welfare problems be accepted. Carried by unanimous vote.

Harold R. Peters, Department of Equalization Director, presented the equalization report as approved by the Equalization Committee, and asked that it be accepted. Joel Carley, Inwood Township Supervisor, appeared before the Board and spoke against the proposal in the Equalization Report, to increase the amount of Inwood Township's State Equalization by $26,970.00. He said that he felt that the method used by the County Tax Equalization Department did not properly represent the economic factors and it was for this reason that the Inwood Township Board of Review changed the recommended assessments of the County Tax Equalization Department on some 45 parcels located in Inwood Township.

The Chairman advised Inwood Township Supervisor, Joel Carley, that the way to resolve this dispute was for him to appeal this equalization to the Michigan Tax Commission, and that they then would investigate all the facts and make their recommendations, which would be binding upon the Township and the County. The Chairman also advised Mr. Carley, that if his County claim is correct, that other units of government in the county would not properly assessed, that this study by the Michigan Tax Commission would reflect this situation, and that the Chairman, would favor having this condition brought to the Board's attention; and that it is the desire of the County Board to review equal taxation, and that if any irregularity exists in the county government, it is the intent of the Board to have same corrected.

It was moved by Russell A. Tennant, supported by Ernest Hoholik, that the report of the Tax Equalization Committee, on the 1969 Tax Equalization for Schoolcraft County, be accepted. Carried by unanimous vote.

The report of the Equalization Committee is as follows: Whereas, this Board of Supervisors for the County of Schoolcraft and the State of Michigan, having ascertained from the Assessment Rolls of the several Townships and the City of Manistique, that the valuation as fixed by the several Boards of Review is as follows:

Table with columns: REAL, PERSONAL, TOTAL, TOWNSHIPS, DOYLE, GERMFASS, HIAWATHA, INWOOD, MANISQUE, MUELLER, SENEY, THOMPSON, TOTAL OF TOWNSHIPS, CITY OF MANISQUE, TOTAL OF COUNTY.

And whereas, this Board has ascertained from an examination of the several Assessment Rolls of the County for the year of 1968, that the relative valuation is as listed above, and have determined it necessary that these Assessment Rolls shall be equalized as assessed, except the Township of Inwood to which Twenty Six Thousand nine hundred seventy-three dollars ($26,973) shall be added to Assessed Valuation.

Therefore, be it resolved, that the Assessment Rolls of the several Townships and the City of Manistique be equalized for each taxing unit, for the purpose of taxation by leaving the assessed valuation of the several Townships and the City of Manistique as fixed by the several Boards of Review, except for the Township of Inwood to which Twenty Six Thousand Nine Hundred Seventy-three Dollars ($26,973) shall be added to assessed valuation as fixed by Inwood Township Board of Review, and

Be it further resolved, that we hereby determine the aggregate valuation of the taxable real and personal property of each Township and City of Manistique, of said County to be shown by the following tabulated statement and that the several taxes authorized be apportioned according to the equalization as established by this Board.

It was moved by Norman W. Jahn, supported by Edward Jorgensen, that the recommendation of the Finance Committee, to deny the Sheriff's Department an increase from 7% to 8% per meal served the prisoners, as requested by Sheriff Lloyd

EXTENSION News Notes

By Howard Handorf
Michigan State University
This week's herbicide demonstration plot was planted to White Spruce and Scotch Pine. The value of these herbicides in Christmas tree production is that the soil is not disturbed so that there is no loss of soil due to erosion from either wind or water, as there is when a furrow is opened to remove the sod. The second major benefit and, possibly, the most important one to tree growers is that none of the top soil is removed so that all nutrients are kept in place for utilization in growing a quality Christmas tree.

The materials used were granular Casuron, granular Simazine, and wettable powdered Simazine. In addition to planting in these herbicide strips, a control strip that was mowed and no herbicides applied was also planted. At the end of this year's growing season this will give us a chance to obtain a rough evaluation of the effectiveness of herbicides in reducing confusers from grass and sod competition. If you want more information on where the plot is located, you can contact the Extension office.

Driver killed, two injured in US-2 accident Friday

A one-car accident Friday morning claimed the life of a Manistique youth and seriously injured two other young people.

Randall L. Buchs, 21, of 530 Della Ave., was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident, on US-2 just west of Gulliver, by Coroner Robert Brodlire.

Injured were Walter E. Horton, 22, of Gulliver, and his wife, Lynn Marie Norton, 21. The Nortons were brought to Schoelcraft Memorial Hospital by Public Safety ambulance, and Mr. Norton was later transferred to Mackay for medical care by air ambulance.

State Police said the Buick car was eastbound on US-2, a half-mile east of County Road 434, when it left the road on the south side, then skidded back across the north side of the highway and rolled over into a clump of trees. Buchs and Norton were both thrown from the vehicle.

Two large trucks sidestepped on US-2 just east of Cooks at 8:30 p.m. Monday, injuring one of the drivers.

Lester L. Green, 29, of Comins, Mich., was taken to Schoelcraft Memorial Hospital by Public Safety ambulance following the mishap. State Police said his truck collided with one driven by Clifford Rodgers, 48, of Green Bay. Green was slightly injured, driving to the left of the centerline.

Four other accidents were handled by State Police during the past week.

Edward T. Devarrie, 29, of Detroit, reported that his car hit a deer Thursday at 7 p.m. on M-77 in Mueller Township, and Louis E. Garvin, 36, Chicago, reported her car hit a deer Saturday at 12:45 a.m. on US-2 in Nahm Township.

Kristopher M. Jacobs, 16, of Oregon, Ill., was ticketed

Surf Sounds

The sounds of Spring last week end were mostly raindrops pattering on the roof, but that didn't prevent a lot of people from driving out our way along Lake Michigan and visiting the model home in the Glenwood Park subdivision.

It's a beautiful home and a beautiful site, and the developers deserve congratulations for a fine job. We hope to see many more like that in the future. It's been a busy week for us. There was a party Friday for the Bill Putvinis, celebrating their safe return from the wilds of old Mexico, we hosted the Saturday Night mixed doubles bowling group for their annual party, and then Wednesday the Wednesday Night ladies held their party here. If these people have as good a time bowling as they do at their parties, it's no wonder that it's such a popular sport.

We also had a wonderful turnout for our "trip to Eastern Europe" smorgasbord Sunday. After being not quite sure how such an innovation would be accepted, we're particularly pleased that our adventurous eaters cleaned up almost every plate.

In fact the entire day was 'n fact a success we've decided to try another "trip" this coming Sunday... this time to gay New Orleans, for some plain and fancy Creole Cookery.

Here's something that's really different... Shrimp Creole, Chicken La Louisian, Beef Bourguignon, Baked Fish Supreme and a special, Beef Roast Au Vin, which is beef with mushrooms.

We'll have other Creole dishes, of course, and sauces and spices and salads and everything to give that authentic New Orleans touch. We'll star serving at noon, and again the price will be $2.50 per adult, and $1.50 for children under 12.

Come out and have a treat. And once again, of course, we'll have regular menu items if you aren't feeling brave, or if your stomach isn't quite ready for something different.

Plan social session

The Women of St. Alban's Church will hold a social meeting with Mrs. Mayme Slining and Mrs. Florence Vance as hostesses on Tuesday, Field Day has been cancelled.

Elks roll-off held Tuesday

Two champions were crowned in bowling roll-offs at the Elks Tuesday night. Bowling Agency defeated Bosch Beer, 2467 to 2298, for the men's title, while Rexall defeated the Deacumbroer team, 2197 to 2146, for the women's crown.

Members of the Savings Agency team are Bill Wright, Chip Bonner, Shorty Brnel, George Grunm and Bill Henschel, with Art Fontana as head of his car sid into the rear of a car driven by Calvin F. Marx, 21, route 1. The Marx car was slowed into the rear of the Casoy car, which had stopped in the roadway to a clump of trees. Buchs and Norton were both thrown from the vehicle.

Cars driven by Brenda A. Norton, 17, of 119 N. Third St., and William J. Sheahan, Jr., 31, of 233 Range St., collided Friday at 4:15 p.m. at Cedar and Oak St. The Sheahan car had stopped to make a turn and the Norton car attempted to pass on the right side.

Pat Massie, a passenger in the Sheahan car, was slightly injured, officers said. A two-year-old driver came to grief Saturday at 11:30 a.m. in a driving test at the home of Mrs. Frank Paquette, 226 N. Second St.

Stephen McGuire, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen McGuire of Lansing, got into the McGuire car, started it, and it then went ahead hitting Mrs. Paquette's car, which was then pushed into the Paquette garage. Young Stephen was not ticketed.

A car, driven by Terry A. Knoph, 16, route 1, hit a light pole in the Norden's Footland parking lot Sunday at 12:10 a.m., officers reported. The pole was not damaged, but the car was towed away.

Buchs rites held Monday

Randall Lee Buchs, 21, of 530 Della Ave., died July 4, 1947 in Garden and had lived all of his life here. He graduated from Manistique High School with the class of 1966. He was a member of St. Francis de Sales Church and the Seafarers Union and had been employed with the American Steamship Co. of Buffalo, N.Y., as a gatekeeper at the docks.

All of this resulted in several things. Operation Pride committee members, who felt that the letters were being misinterpreted, were concerned last recipients think that they were part of the committee's program, and also that many older residents might easily be confused and think that they represented legal action being taken by a governmental agency.

Jack Toerner, owner of Roemer's Electric, was used because of the reference to his point close-out, which made the letters smack of commercialism and possibly give the impression that someone was strong-arming property owners into buying his paint. He was also concerned because at least one person threatened to punch him in the nose, and also because Larson had evidently used the firm's truck to make the community survey in the past.

A 7:30 p.m. Mass in the Parish Center, celebrated by Father Scheringer, opened the evening. Buffet refreshments were served by St. Christopher's Circle. A special anniversary cake, made by Mrs. Malt Weber, and a garden centerpiece, made by Mrs. Leonard Walters, dominated the buffet serving table.

Msgr. Scheringer was presented gifts to mark the occasion. He has been pastor of St. Francis de Sales Church since 1952.

The Society also welcomed Mrs. James Coluzzi, Mrs. Arville DeGroot, Mrs. Barcell and Miss Ann Tomcio into membership.

Formerly a resident of Joliet, Ill., he served overseas in Germany, France and Italy with the Air Force, and learned Russian at the Air Force language school and became an interpreter-translator. He also attended the University of Illinois.

He arrived here in May, 1967, and went to work for Roemer as an electrician, but also found time to open and operate the Music Center in downtown Manistique for a time last year, and also give private drum lessons. An accomplished drummer, he appeared as guest soloist with the Manistique High School band at their spring concert last year.

The 26-year-old Larson also taught a course in Russian for the Manistique Community School and is currently working to develop a Swislandist tourist center at the old Grilim grocery store in Thompson. Some of his items were on display at the Arts and Native Crafts Exhibit last week end at the local high school.

One thing is certain. He is better known today than he was a week ago.

Library offers fine paintings

The Manistique School and Public Library, in cooperation with the Mid-Peninsula Library Federation, now offers to adult patrons a collection of fine art reproductions.

Chosen to appeal to a variety of artistic tastes, the Federation's total collection has representative works by 100 leading painters of the past and present. Among the famous names included are Goya, Cezanne, Michelangelo, Rembrandt, Renoir, Picasso, Dali and Wyeth.

The collection is divided into eight sets of 12 pictures. Sets will circulate among member libraries with a change of selections to be made every four months.

All paintings are beautifully framed and ready to hang in the patron's home. A nominal fee of fifty cents will be charged. Time allowed for each picture is one calendar month.

Many selections are now available at the Manistique School and Public Library.

The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide.

Public immunity

TO A NATION that has developed an immunity to the hard sell of television hucksters, the problem of the difference between promises and performance should seem academic.

We have developed cynicism to the point where a man or a company or a political party is no longer held accountable for saying one thing while doing another. It's become part of the game, and we watch with detached tolerance that borders on withdrawal. As long as we aren't directly affected, we see no reason to get involved.

It's comfortable to retain the image of ourselves as a peace loving people, the land of the free and the home of the brave, where a boy born of poor but honest parents can some day be president, where all men are created equal, where brotherhood abounds . . . an image of an America that is beautiful, from sea to shining sea.

These are the basic and fundamental values of the middle-aged and older generations. They were a part of the ritual of our young lives and our education. Our entire system of priorities is supposedly built on these virtues, and we react with shock and indignation when they are questioned.

Perhaps all this is why so many youngsters today regard anyone over 30 as either a hypocrite or a person that refuses to face up to reality.

We are a peace-loving people, yet how much peace has this nation . . . and the world . . . enjoyed in the last 30 years? The concept of defending our nation against tyranny has been expanded to defending all nations, whether they want us to or not and whether or not our culture and values are similar to theirs.

Of course freedom and democracy depend on who you are and where you are. Out of fear of communism we play cozy with France and Spain, and with military dictatorships in Latin America. Our Vietnamese justifications are weakened by our passiveness in the Arab-Israeli dispute, and our good-humored acceptance of the British occupation of little Anguila, which provides a sort of comic relief for everyone except the Anguillans.

We have become enmeshed in a tax structure that bleeds the little man and allows millionaires to escape without paying a cent; we tolerate a governmental bureaucracy that can't deliver letters as fast as it was done 30 years ago; we prate about all men being created equal, but expect civil rights to come about by some mysterious process of self-generation that allows us not to become involved; we talk of ecumenism and still tolerate bigotry.

In our United States, fortunately, there still exists the means and the machinery to restore some reason. What seems to be lacking is the motivation. We have a marvelous tendency to get all upset about all the wrong things and mill around in great confusion without solving anything. One of these days perhaps we'll get upset about the right things and will be motivated to start compiling a list of national priorities that is realistic.

A prize-winning weekly newspaper published every Thursday at Manistique, Michigan, at the Top O'Lake Michigan in the heart of Michigan's beautiful Upper Peninsula.

For sheer entertainment, excitement, drama, suspense and action, you just can't beat a country auction.

We spent a day down in auction country several weeks ago, and I made the tactical error of stopping and letting the family loose at the Hillsdale County Fairgrounds, where the weekly Saturday auction was in full swing.

The Saturday auction was a big event back 15 years ago when we lived there, and we discovered that it's still going strong. If anything, it's bigger than ever.

Livestock is the big attraction, but everything and anything else also shows up to go on the block. Each Monday the paper carries a report on the sale, and it's read avidly. Recently it reported, "Good quality ponies sold well at the Hillsdale Sale Barn Saturday and some top quality weaned pigs brought up to $20.50. There was a good run on light cattle and a light run on poultry but the quality of the birds was down. Over 4,500 bales of hay and straw were sold with good hay moving stronger."

All of the action keeps at least half a dozen auctioneers busy, and they move swiftly along. One man works his way through a parking lot full of wagons of hay and straw, and the semi-circle of buyers and spectators crowds around. The conversation is brief and quiet. "Fred got 40 cents..." and "is that second cuttin'?" They make their bids briefly, almost silently, as if there was a pre-arranged code between the auctioneer and buyers, but finally the chanting stops, the auctioneer cries "Sold!" and the clerk begins marking the bill of sale.

At the same time the livestock are beginning their parade into the sale pit in one of the barns, and at the other end of the grounds other auctioneers proceed from pile to pile of machinery, household goods, antiques, lumber, tires... a selection that looks as though everybody cleaned out the attic, the basement, the garage and the barn all at the same time, and brought it to the sale. "We sell anything legal to be sold at strict auction," the sale ad says each week, and after you've seen the selection, you believe it.

There are also small booths inside the barns, where housewives sell handwork, jelly and eggs. Outside, truck farmers sell produce of all kinds. Two restaurants on the grounds do a booming business all day.

A public auction is also a popular way to combine business and recreation and to bring producer and consumer together at individual sales held during the week. These are usually held when a farmer goes out of business, or an estate needs to be settled, or somebody's moving to Alaska or California. They are held on the site, the lunchwagon is brought to the grounds, the machinery is collected in one area and the household goods in another, and off they go, everything under the hammer - lock stock and barrel.

These sales are favorite hunting grounds for antique hounds, who peer carefully underneath heavy old tables and rummage cautiously through stacks of old dishes and glassware, always in the hope of finding hidden treasure.

It's surprising what people will buy. A collection of junk that you would normally be hauling to the dump may bring top dollar if the bidding is right. At the same time there are all kinds of opportunities to pick up something useful and in good condition at a real bargain. That's part of the lure of the auction.

We managed to escape relatively unscathed from our visit to the Saturday sale. Young Dave was the only one to break free from the nervous surveillance of his parents long enough to buy anything. He proudly produced, of all things, an empty Old Crow bottle with genuine imitation simulated leather flask bindings that only cost him 25 cents. That's not too bad. Kathy was ready to bid on some baby chicks at only 30 cents each before we could haul her away to safety and lock her in the car. And if I'd coughed or rubbed my nose at the wrong time, I might have ended up with a wagonload of second cutting alfalfa.

SCHOOLCRAFT VISTA report

BY JAN STRASMA
VISTA Volunteer

How many times have you listened to a good musician and said, "I wish I could play like that!" If you haven't, your children probably have.

If you are debating whether or not your child should learn to play an instrument, consider a few of the benefits and drawbacks:

Music is a form of expression which manifests itself in tone, pitch, and loudness according to the mood the instrumentalist is in. Music, aside from its inherent beauty as an art form, can act as a psychological punching bag. Oftentimes the musician will release his pent up feelings on a musical piece. In effect, this would seem a better means of expression (for a child) than beating up one's little brother or being a nuisance about town.

An obvious drawback of this approach is that on a bad day amplifiers and fuzztones, for example, could reach an ear-splitting level for the parents. But, by the same token, parents learn self-control and tolerance though they might have to see their analyst a bit more.

Learning to play an instrument has value in the development of the mind and body. Few people can just pick up an instrument and begin to play it well. It takes time and effort to master an instrument well enough to play it decently. While the student is learning to coordinate his hands and mind, he unconsciously is learning some measure of self-discipline. He learns to "stick at it" until he accomplishes his goal. (That is not to say that parents' coaxing and threats are not necessary.)

Once a person learns to play an instrument well enough to ham it up in public he is ready to use it to his advantage. Mothers and dads beam with pride when their little "Mozart" sits at the piano and shows everyone his stuff. But more importantly, the musician is the one who can justifiably beam with pride. The appreciation and admiration from his listeners is very rewarding. Music has provided him for that moment some social acceptance and status.

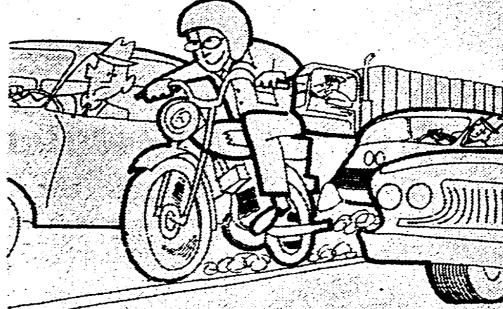

If one is ambitious he can use his musical training to earn money. The young like to play in rock groups. While in these groups they must cooperate with each other. They learn responsibility - taking care of expensive instruments, showing up at jobs, and collecting their money.

Of course, not all the benefits and drawbacks of playing an instrument can be listed, but we should recognize that an instrument is sometimes costly (a piano), but not always (a guitar). Lessons cost money. Most of all you cannot be assured that the student one day will just give up the instrument.

In order to give a kid a chance to discover and develop his talents, you must make an investment. Who knows you might have a future Beethoven, John Lennon, Johnny Cash, Glen Campbell or Barbara Streisand in your own home.
