State Stature Grows with Years

Michigan has always been a progressive state. More French explorers, fur traders and missionaries followed Etienne Brule. The fur traders established the first permanent settlement in Lake Huron.

Stean navigation began on the Great Lakes several years later the Erie Canal opened a water route between Lake Erie and the Hudson River, which stimulated Michigan's commerce.

Michigan was admitted to the union at the 20th state in 1837. The chief avenue of transportation became the water. This explains in part the later joining of the upper and lower peninsulas into one state.

When the French settled here Indians named the area, and their names were the forerunners of the ribbons of concrete highways which now crisscross the state in every direction and over which trucks, farm and industrial products.

Within its boundaries are teeming industrial cities, vast agricultural areas, and so many lakes and forests that it is a natural year-around playground.

Family Living

Have you bought your seeds? Do you know what plants you want to buy? Do you get over-ambitious like I do?

I have a flower garden at our old home in Crystal Falls and had a chance to get there last week to see how things wintered. The roses I tried propagating are growing. They'll bloom next summer - if I can get them through another winter. The rabbits ate all but one tulip but the grape hyacinths are beautiful.

WE GET SO BUSY WITH NEW RECIPES. We forget the old favorites. Right now I'm getting hungry for "pies in blankets" or "cabbage rolls" as they're sometimes called. It's so long since I've made them, I've forgotten what recipe I used so I'm going through all, comparing them to see which sounds the best. You'll find one in almost any general or meat cook book.

The interesting thing about cabbage rolls is that almost every nationality makes them. They're a favorite dish in the Balkan states and Scandinavian cook books also feature them as a specialty of their country.

Sauces usually from tomato soup to a sweet - sour combination. A Finnish version uses dark corn syrup and all spice. Cabbage rolls are a little fussy to make but they're worth the effort. A quickie that gives almost the same results - but not quite - layers the ingredients in a casserole. This is then baked at the same temperature as regular cabbage rolls.

A panel discussion of various fields of nursing was featured. A lunch followed the program, which was sponsored by the War Memorial Hospital Women's Auxiliary.

"Americanism Days" Is theme for Fourth

The theme of "Americanism Days" has been chosen for the annual Fourth of July celebration this year in Manistique. Sponsoring the four-day event will be Post 83 of the American Legion.

Most of the events will be staged July 2 and 4, with the Canadian Soo Killy pipe band leading the Kildies Parade July 3, and the Lumberjack parade that same evening.

The sponsors are also hopeful of securing a military band for the main parade on July 4, and are working with the office of Congressman Philip Hodge on this item.

A financial drive will soon be started by the Legionnaires, and prospective donors are reminded that rising costs make it necessary to seek more support this year.

"The American Legion sponsors many youth programs... Boys' State, Legion baseball, oratorical and essay contests... so support your town and help your Legion to guide the youth of your community," the committee said in their announcement this week.

Miss Schoolcraft County will be chosen from a field of 23 contestants in judging tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Co-chairmen of the event, sponsored by Post 83 of the American Legion, are Mrs. Fred Lesica and Mrs. Jack W. Phillips.

The winner will be awarded a large trophy, robe and tiara, plus a $50 wardrobe of her choice, and will represent Schoolcraft County at the U.P. State Fair queen contest later this summer. She will also reign over the annual Fourth of July activities here.

First and second runners-up will be presented with smaller but similar trophies.

Pete Widals will serve as master of ceremonies for the contest.

State Representative Charles Varman of Manistique will be in hand to crown the queen. Judges for the event will be Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rubick of Newberry, Mr. and Mrs. Lauritz Hough of Gladstone, Mrs. Jean Bonfield and Mrs. Helen McDonnell of Escanaba, and Mrs. John Moffat of Manistique.

Stage decorations are in charge of Mrs. Roland Holloch and Mrs. Clarence Peterson.

There will be a 10 to 15 minute intermission while the judges' votes are being tallied, and following the crowning, refreshments will be served for contestants, judges and other helpers in the home economics room of the high school.

The event will be filmed by WLUC-TV of Marquette.

Capsule Review

...of new books at the Manistique School and Public Library.

"Except For Me and Thee," by Jessamy West are the further adventures of Jess and Eliza Birdwell, beloved hero and heroine of "The Friendly Reformation." Here those epistolary Quakers meet the challenges of nature and man as the growing family travels westward; then encounters the bitterness and savagery that exploded into Civil War and finally into contemporary dilemmas—youthful rebellion, racial intolerance, social inequity and warfare's misery.

Miss West, born in India of Quaker parents, has written screenplays, is an essayist for the New York Times Book Review, a lecturer and teacher in the literary community and has been awarded five honorary doctorates in humane letters and literature.

"Official Baseball Annual," 1969 edition, published by the National Baseball Congress of America, will appeal to advocates of America's National Pastime.

The new publication features '69 playing and scoring rules as copy-righted by commissioner of baseball, including all late rule changes, playing statistics of the American and National Leagues, teams and photos. It explains the player-contract system, umpires, fans' club, scorers, global program and the National Association of Old-Timers.

Ann Landers

Ann Landers: Recently hospitalized at the hospital after the case of pneumonia.

She was hospitalized last year for a heart attack. Mom is coughing her head off this very minute and she knows darned well why. She smokes like a chimney — against doctor's orders.

I'm a boy 17 and I will never smoke as long as I live. My sister, 16, has also made the decision. Seeing Mom cough herself purple in the face and nearly go into convulsions is less than enough for us. But it hasn't made her stop.

The day Mom got out of the hospital she said she would quit smoking if Dad did. Dad told her, "No deal." He enjoys smoking and is in good health. He refuses to give it up.

If Mom doesn't quit smoking pretty soon, Ann she's going to cough herself into the cemetery. Should we beg Dad to stop?

Dear Son: Your mom is playing a game called "It's All Your Fault — Look What You Made Me Do."

Yes, I believe your dad should quit smoking. First, it would be good for him and help him stay in good health. Second, your mother would then be forced to accept full responsibility for her smoking (no scapegoat to blame it on). And third — if your mother does cough herself into her grave, your dad won't be tortured by guilt.

Dear Ann Landers: You seem to understand the convolutions of the warped mind. Will you please explain why some folks who are downright rich in vision crying poor mouth and talks if they don't have a dime?

This seems utterly ridiculous — especially when they live in a mansion, drive two expensive cars, keep hired help on the place, and travel all over the world. What's with these kooks?

—Peek-A-Boo

Dear Bob: Some well-to-do folks have the crazy notion that people of means are supposed to behave in a special way and they don't feel equal to it. So they try to disavow the label. Of course it's phony, but not as bad as the newly-rich who attempt to overwhelm, impress and knock everybody's eyes out.

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think about a woman (divorced) who sends flowers to herself every few weeks and makes up tender and romantic cards which she displays by the flowers for her friends to see?

When asked who sent the lovely flowers, she demurely says, "A secret admirer."

The girl who does the billing for the florist told us about this so we aren't guessing. May we have an opinion?

—The Bridge Club

Dear Club: I think the woman is pitiable. I also think the florist's bookkeeper has a very big mouth.

Alcohol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts.

Grad plans readied

Graduation time is drawing nearer for the Class of 1969 at Manistique High School.

Baccalaureate services on Sunday, June 8, will begin the traditional Graduation Week schedule. Rev. T. E. Doane, pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Manistique, will be the speaker. The program will start at 8 p.m.

Class Night activities are scheduled for Wednesday, June 11, with the four-year honor students in charge of preparing the class will, class prophecy and class history. David Rood, president of the class, will present the traditional "Green and White."

Graduation night is Thursday, June 12, with State Representative Charles Yarnum, a former Manistique teacher, as the commencement speaker.

The 1969 "Grad Night" party will be held from 11 p.m. to 5:30 a.m. following the graduation ceremony. It will be held in the Elks Temple, and will once again feature a variety of activities, such as dancing, movies, games and prizes.

All graduating seniors are invited to the party, and are also given one free ticket for a guest.

Funds for the party are currently being solicited. Rev. Roy Pitts is general chairman of the event.

Probation plan set

Establishment of a probation department for the District Court was approved by the Schoolcraft County Board of Supervisors at their May meeting Monday morning.

District Judge Charles Stark appeared before the board to request their approval. He told them that present plans call for Magistrate Howard Magoon to assume the duties of probation officer, and that the change would not require any funding at least this year.

"At present there is no 'middle-ground' between jail and fines and costs," he said. "We feel the court can be more effective with this department, particularly as we start to get regularity back before us."

The board also approved plans to bring the Michigan Statutes annotated collector of the probate court up to date. Cost will not exceed $50,000, he told.

Education Day Thursday, May 22

Today is Education Day in Michigan.

Education Day turns the spotlight on the state's system of education — its schools, colleges, institutions of learning at all levels, the students, teachers, administrators and staff — their programs and their problems.

Students throughout the state offer programs, exhibits, editorials, a wide variety of activities, all designed to point up their study of and interest in Michigan education.

Citations are presented to educators or others who have contributed greatly to the advancement of education. Top students or foreign students studying in Michigan may be singled out for honor on this day.

REMEMBER WHEN?—It's easy to spot the Presbyterian Church of the Redeemer and the old Nicholson house in this old photograph brought in recently by Mrs. Helen MacGillivray, but the trick is to figure out when it was taken. Note the absence of trees in the area. Best guess is the early part of this century. Any better identification?

New student dress code approved at high school

A new student dress code for the 1969-70 school year has been approved at Manistiquet High School.

Revision of the code was undertaken by the student council at the school.

The regulations for girls are:
Dresses --- Casual street clothes---clean, neat and properly worn.

Length --- Dresses, skirts, culottes and jump suits should be a reasonable length---long enough to conceal all undergarments. Panty hose should be worn with short skirts. Consideration of length when arms are raised should be the determining acceptable length. Jump suits and culottes should be sufficiently loose fitting so as not to resemble Bermuda shorts.

Footwear --- No boots. No thong sandals. Hose must be worn with other types of sandals.

Sweaters --- Clean, neat and properly worn. No sweatshirts.

Girls should place special emphasis on neatness and grooming. They should give close attention to the way they sit, stoop and kneel.

The regulations for boys are:

Pants --- Clean and neat looking and properly worn. Pants with rivets not allowed since these are mainly work pants. Trousers with frayer cuffs not allowed.

Shirts --- Clean, collars down, buttoned up to the top button. Shirts should be tucked in unless the style is designed for outside wear.

Hair --- Clean and neat. Sideburns will be permitted to the bottom of the earlobe. Hair must not hang over the ears or eyes and not touch the collar. Mustaches and beards are not allowed.

Footwear --- Oxfords, loafers, tennis shoes and dress boots permitted. No sandals or work boots allowed. Boys must wear socks.

Friday of each week is designated as "dress-up" day. The code also states, "Any fashion or fad not mentioned specifically may be worn at the discretion of the individual unless disapproved by the student council and faculty committee. These standards may be amended ed by the student council and faculty committee any time that styles and acceptable standards change."

END-OF-TERM JITTERS #1

All students tend to get keyed up when exam time rolls around. Tension of this type is natural and spurs the student on to do his or her best. But, one in fifteen really is upset and develops what is known as pre-examination strain. Both good and bad students are susceptible. Becoming overly apprehensive and anxious during the day, they loose sleep at night.

Despair sets in when they think of the upcoming exams and cannot recall what they read just a minute before. Others fall prey to psychosomatic systems as a result of these fears, headaches develop, tearfulness, depression and nervous dyspepsia. These symptoms make a good alibi for poor grades.

These students are going thru a period of stress. They should realize that their natural efficiency is not impaired and that, more than likely, they will pass. As yet, no pill has been invented that can make a student more intelligent.

Michigan Week 1969

IT'S BRAG TIME AGAIN, and all across Michigan the virtues of our good state are being extolled and praised. It's the 16th annual observance of Michigan Week, and once again we're trumpeting the news about "Michigan—Land of Hospitality."

It's been 351 years since the white man first came to these shores of our Water Wonderland, and a lot of water has trickled out of the Chicago Drainage and Sanitary Canal since then, to turn a colorful new phrase.

We have progressed from exploring to pioneering to homesteading to farming to industry during those three and a half centuries, and we have grown from a thousand migratory Indians in bands to eight and a half million people.

We should not spend Michigan Week proclaiming that we are the greatest, as the stereotyped Texan is so easily accused of doing, but we can spend our week in contemplation and appreciation of the things that we do enjoy here in Michigan. And without trying to throw cold water on the proceedings, it might also be a good time for another periodic assessment of our progress and our prospects.

Our failings sometimes loom larger than our successes, mainly because wailing and gnashing of teeth have a tendency to drown out whatever hosannas of praise can be mustered on behalf of day-to-day progress. That's why occasional outbursts of self-satisfaction, such as Michigan Week, serve a constructive purpose. We are reminded of the continuing good that far outstrips the continuing bad.

Each day of Michigan Week spotlights a particular segment of our state, its people and their activities. These include community pride, spiritual foundations, government, heritage, livelihood, education, hospitality and youth.

It would be our suggestion that as we observe each day, we not only reflect on what has been done and achieved, but what there is yet to do.

Although these special days deal in both tangibles and intangibles, it is easy enough to set new goals and new hopes and new aspirations.

As we look about our fair peninsula, consider the need for year-around community pride, for spiritual foundations that are meaningful to everybody on every day, for government that is responsive to the needs yet aware of its natural limitations, of the heritage that is ignored by so many most of the time. Consider that livelihood should involve more than just a job, but pride in achievement and workmanship; that education is a continuing and complex process that we are all involved in, willingly or unwillingly; that true hospitality can come only from the heart; that our youth have the potential and the energy to channel their enthusiasms into a future that can be bright for all.

Michigan Week's greatest return is not in the past, or even the present. It is in our acceptance of the challenges that the years ahead will bring to our state.

A prize-winning weekly newspaper published every Thursday at Manistique, Michigan, at the Top O' Lake Michigan in the heart of Michigan's beautiful Upper Peninsula.

"Just remember," the exasperated parent told his son, "I've had more experience at being a youth than you've had being a parent."

That's about the only consolation many of us have in the constant efforts to close the generation gap (a label that has become sadly overworked and misused).

Sometimes I wonder what the older generation would do to occupy itself if it didn't have the younger generation to fret about. Long hair, miniskirts, student demonstrations, motor bikes, the new morality—well, you can compile quite a list if you put your mind to it, and the more you work at it the more discouraged you can get.

I've decided not to panic. I've decided I'm going to trust at least some people under 30 even if they don't return the compliment.

Such optimism usually gets a revival every time they hold a Government Day during Michigan Week, or whenever graduation time draws near and the seniors begin to lift their sights a little bit and discover the world outside themselves.

It was enjoyable, for instance, to watch the students play their roles as "city councilmen" for a brief time last week. Once the self-consciousness wore off and the words began to come a little easier they had some pretty valid points to make about their home community.

One point often overlooked is that youngsters are concerned, just as their parents are. They have strong feelings and convictions, and naturally resent any patronizing of these by their elders, just as we resent their sometimes casual rejection of values that we have held for a lifetime.

If I, as an adult (and a parent) resent being told how the kids of today are going to hell in a handbasket (to use a phrase borrowed from a previous generation) then how do you think the kids themselves react?

Sure, there are mean kids and thoughtless ones and some are stupid and shallow and self-centered and ungrateful—but where do you think they learned all that? From adults, that's who, and we have our share with those same failings, and then some.

If we have to deal in generalities, then why not recognize that most youngsters have a pride in their school and their community that is as great or greater than that of adults? We should recognize that the troublemakers, the rioters, the anti-establishment group is a relatively small percentage of the total.

These youngsters of today have a greater social conscience, a social awareness, that hadn't penetrated their parents at the same age. With their progressiveness comes youth's willingness to risk, a shedding of conservatism, the push to change.

You can brew a heady mixture when you combine youth's enthusiasm with their genuine concern about the world they live in, and what they want to make of it.

Parents will always be concerned about their youngsters, and as this generation matures and marries and reproduces, they in turn will worry about their kids and their actions. Ultimately they will become the older generation worrying about those who have taken their place.

That old quip about youth being such a wonderful thing, it's a shame it's wasted on youngsters, is true to the degree that it's a shame that some of their sincerity and dedication and inherent goodness can't be spread around a little more evenly through the rest of the population. What a world we'd have then.

OPEN SPACES AND OPEN HOUSE

You are invited to tour your new Lakeside Elementary School. There isn't another one like it in Michigan north of the Bay City-Muskegon line. Since March 3rd 300 people have visited it. Feature stories have appeared in "The Milwaukee Sentinel," "The Detroit News," "The Green Bay Press Gazette," "The Escanaba Press," "The Pioneer-Tribune" and other Upper Peninsula papers.

Any school which has received this much exposure must have something different about it. It does. It was designed for today and for the year 2020. Even then, it will not be as old as the Lakeside School which was just demolished. The plans were drawn and redrawn four times, and then modified to fit a change in site and a tight budget. The building is designed for children and for education and for the 21st century. Only the kindergarten is closed off by a door. Six other teaching stations have only portable separations.

We hope the building will eliminate the idea of grades and substitute learning. We hope that the teacher-pupil ratio need not necessarily be one teacher to 30 pupils, but that there might be teams of teachers responsible for the education of 90 youngsters. The building will allow for ungraded classes, educational television, and groupings of students for the best learning possibilities.

The other school districts in the north who build elementaries will look at this one and improve upon it. They should, because this is a first, and while it takes community courage to be first, it also provides a pattern for those who wish to follow.

Much is being written about open space school buildings. James Theodores expresses it well in his "Crisis in Class." "A school building is a work of art and a form of communication. It can express a genuine regard for its human occupants; and it can speak of that regard through its scale, texture, and art forms. Unlike the airport that is designed to accommodate machines; the modern school building can, and sometimes does, grace the human values of its users. Not only can it be a pleasant place in which to work, it can also add positively to the quality of good relationships among its occupants. For good or ill, it speaks forcefully for what is expected of its occupants. Pupils and teachers alike tend to live up to those expectations."

The new Lakeside School is designed to "grace human values." It is evident that the design has already added to the quality of relationships among its occupants.

The Manistique Community, the faculty at the Lakeside School, and the students have a right to be proud that they have pioneered and will have the opportunity to continue to develop new educational concepts in the North. People from many parts of the Upper Peninsula will visit this building on Sunday, May 25. Mrs. Edward Jackson and her committee will certainly make them feel welcome. We hope the people from the Manistique area will visit too.

CHICAGO GAVE CAPTAIN CRANG AND HIS CREW AN ENTHUSIASTIC WELCOME ON HER RETURN VOYAGE. THE MADEIRA PET WAS LOADED WITH LEATHER AND SALTED HIDES. A HUMBLE START, BUT THE BEGINNING OF AN ERA.

Hi Folks,

Our past week of thunder showers brought out our first rainbow of this spring. Its colors were a bit faint but I enjoyed seeing its pattern across the sky.

At this time of the year on a stroll in the forest you will see the new floral design on display of its earthy floor. With reflexed yellow petals is the trout-lily, or adder's tongue. In colors of white the northern white violet, dutchman's breeches, with its Fern-like foliage and a delicate spray of waxy yellow tipped flowers remind me of bleeding hearts.

In the arum family the jack-in-the-pulpit with its flaplike spathe curving gracefully over the club-shaped spadix, looking like a preacher in his canopied pulpit. Then three broad leaves and three showy petals mark the largest and most variable species of white flowers in the woodlands; it's the white trillium, which turns pink with age. Another trillium found is the nodding trillium with its flower dangling below the leaves. In wet meadows and stream banks grows the marsh-marigold. In the very wet soils and swamps if you care to explore you find the skunk cabbage. In bogs this month you can find the Pitcher plant. So cool days don't stop Mother Nature in her work.

Over the week end the Boss joined the parade of men to Ken-ny Jones' camp for the annual beaver feed. By all the chatter and laughter I heard later, I know a good time is had by the crowd of at least 70 menfolk.

Irma Brown spent a day visiting the Lawrence Sallies at Thunder Lake. Mr. and Mrs. John Prantner and son Neil of Milwaukee spent the week end at their cabin on Thunder Lake. Spending the week end at Thunder Lake were John Sharkey and son Clem from Escanaba. Mrs. Fred Tucker and children spent Saturday visiting her brother, Ronald Olsen at Thunder Lake. The John Hills of Richmond, Ind. were guests of the Ralph Livingstons at Gooseneck Lake. The Loyd Monasmiths of Findlay, Ohio were guests of the Chip Bonners and enjoyed fishing on Thunder Lake. At Steuben the Bigelows are busy getting their bait shop in order for the fishing season.

Heard by the grapevine that John Sharkey of Portage, Ind. plans to spend two weeks at his dad's cabin at Thunder Lake. Last year John caught some large walleye and plans to go after them again this year. Wonder if he is willing to pass on the secret used to land the larger walleye? Sportsman John made the sports section on large fish caught in the Outdoor Life magazine. Good luck fishing, John.

Another cloudy morning but out go cheery echoes of birthday greetings to Floyd Houghton, Herb Prond, William Morden and Pauline Carley. May the day for all of you be one of complete happiness.

Until next week's chat, stay happy, as an author unknown said, "A cheerful heart and a smiling face put sunshine in the darkest places."
Mrs. Scoop

 GENERICS

The trend, the publicity, the consumer awareness fostered so strongly by the press and interested public officials, have brought generic prescribing and generic drugs to the fore. The pros and cons have been heated and shrill, the controversy still rages; but some physicians, with full professional integrity, want their patients to have the more economical medication.

This inevitably increases the pharmacist's responsibility. He must be sure! The doctor writes a generic, and fully implied is his confidence that the product the pharmacist chooses will be of the highest purity and will live up to this trust. To do so he must be very critical of the responsibility, the ethics and the integrity of the supplier and the manufacturer of the generic. With as much zeal and fierceness as the brand name manufacturer guards his label, the pharmacist must guard what he dispenses under his own.

This is how we believe, how we think. With full confidence, as does your doctor, you may rely on us. A. S. PUTNAM & CO., 201 South Cedar... Phone 341-2264.....

In fact, when it comes to money, a VW will save you a lot of counting after you buy it, too.

And, since the engine is air-cooled, you never have to dish it out on anti-freeze.

Is this just another of those "national so-and-so weeks" where a group honors itself and asks others to follow suit? Is it a week for "Michiganers" to strut around that barnyard saying, "Smile -- it's great to live in Michigan."

Or is it more than that? If it is worth the effort of those who organized it, it should be a time for us to look at what Michigan is now and what it has been in the past -- and at the same time, see what Michigan can be.

The week starts off on the right foot with "Community Pride Day." The importance of that day is emphasized by the theme of the entire week, "Michigan -- Land of Hospitality." Hospitality begins with pride, how we look at what we have to offer others.

High school students who took over the City Council meeting last week as part of Government Day observance pointed out the need for pride and confidence in their community. And by exploring some of the problems and possibilities of the Manistique area, they showed that they do care about the community.

Each day of Michigan Week has a different theme; much of the emphasis is placed on institutions: government organizations, schools, churches, and that undefined institution -- youth. But we need to think of it as a people week, for it's a "me and you" observance, too.

Here is where each of us can make our contribution to the week's success. As our part of Michigan Week, can we find something -- however small -- to help the community, to help others, and to help ourselves? It may be a small project left over from last week's Clean-up and Beautification Campaign. It may be taking time to help a neighbor. It may be work on a community service project. Or it may be something to make this state even more a "Land of Hospitality."

In his inaugural address President Nixon praised the "small splendid efforts" of volunteers all over the country who are contributing to the betterment of their communities.

Let's make Michigan Week "Our Week" and each make a "small splendid effort" to make it a success.

The final Story Hour sponsored by the Community School program will be held Saturday at 10:30 a.m. in the Lincoln School kindergarten. All children three years and older are being invited to attend.

Merri-makers meet

The Merri-Makers Square Dance Club will meet at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Hiawatha School gym. Ernest Hoholik will be the caller. Members are being asked to bring sandwiches or cookies for lunch. Anyone interested is being invited to attend.

Biologists estimate that there are 25,000 species of fish.

Festival Wednesday

A Festival of Creative Dramatics has been scheduled for 7 p.m. next Wednesday, May 28, in the Manistique High School Participating will be students from the elementary schools and junior high school. The program is being coordinated by Mrs. Katherine LeBrasseur of the school staff.

MAY 17 IS THE BIG DAY. 4-H Club members will again show the public what they have done in project work during the winter. The annual achievement program is being held at the Manistique High School. Exhibits will be on display during the afternoon and early evening. A talent show is scheduled for the afternoon, a style show parade of projects and announcement of winners in the evening.

WANT TO SEE SOME GOOD KNITTING? Schoolcraft county 4-H knitters are among the best in the Upper Peninsula. When I judge, I always marvel at the good work that has been done. Do stop in on Saturday to see what I'm talking about.

*****

GARMENTS WILL ALSO BE ON DISPLAY. It's surprising how much girls learn about sewing when they're enrolled in a clothing project. Leaders do an excellent job in teaching the girls. Garments vary from a simple shift dress to a complete costume. Judging isn't easy.

*****

FOODS EXHIBITIONS, TOO. This year exhibits can be different and will be judged by the quality of that particular product. Members can exhibit something they have learned to make in the project. For instance, one person could make brownies, another cookies, cupcakes or anything else. This will be an interesting and challenging change.

*****

THE U.P. FAIR EXHIBIT WILL BE DIFFERENT, TOO. At Saturday's achievement day some selections will be made for the Schoolcraft 4-H exhibit at the U.P. State Fair. This year counties will have individual exhibits -- all from Schoolcraft will be in one exhibit booth or area. When you come to the Fair, this will be easy to find. All judging, however, will be done on an individual basis as before.

Two are selected for special training

Taisto Orhanen and Peter Derber of the Manistique Area Schools faculty have been selected to attend a workshop July 14-18 at Northern Michigan University on driver education for the mentally handicapped.

They were selected by the Michigan Department of Education to attend the workshop which is one of four being held in the state this summer.

"Before I had a chance to say, 'Guess who,' Jack knew it was I. We're like that—maybe it's because we're twins.

We've always been close. When we were small, we had a private adventureland out in our back woods. Hardly a day went by that Jack didn't help me out of some scrape. He was the one who was able to notice me down from that tree when I fell halfway from the top—and lay paralyzed with fright between two branches. I bailed him out of several misadventures, too.

When it came to college—we chose the same one. And it's been nice. Every now and then we get together and talk out our problems, just as we always have. We go to church together, too.

We're glad Mom and Dad made the Church an important part of our lives. When we think of graduation and the inevitable parting of our ways, it's good to know that each of us has an ever-present source of strength and guidance in God and His Church.

News Notes

By Howard Handorf
Michigan State University

MEETING: There will be an interesting meeting at the Fire-side meeting room Tuesday, May 27 at 7 p.m. Dr. Gene Dice and Miss Gladys Knight, both of our Michigan State University staff, will have approximately a two hour question and answer period and a demonstration on the following:

- (1). How to decrease pesticide content of Great Lakes fishes.
- (2). Proper skinning and filleting methods to achieve the decrease in pesticide content.
- (3). Demonstration of charcoal grilling techniques and handouts with fish cookery recipes.
- (4). Proper methods for preserving the catch to get it back home.

I hope to see a good attendance at this meeting. Because of all the controversy in state and national papers on the pesticide problem, I believe this is the time to get some definite facts relating to this economic problem.

I have sent out invitations to some people but anyone who is interested in attending is welcome, just call the Extension office, 341-5050, and let us know.

4-H CAMP: Now that Achievement Day is over, we have a little time to consider some other 4-H events, one of which is 4-H Camp. This year camp is scheduled for July 13 to July 19 at Clear Lake. We have the camp reserved and have been doing some planning with Alger County as they will be with us as usual. However, all 4-H'ers between the ages of 9 and 14 years old can look for a letter giving the details before too long. Camp is a little later this year but we think it will be a little warmer in July for swimming and all our outdoor activities.

Latin banquet set tonight

The Manistique High School Latin Club will present their annual Roman Banquet at the Surf tonight (Thursday).

Each spring the Latin Club, headed by teacher Thor Reque, participates in a typical Roman banquet. The "Roman citizens" are portrayed by the second year Latin students, with first year Latins as "slaves."

Like ancient banquets, the Latin Club will also feature guest speakers. This year they will be Joseph Giovannini, who has taken a trip to Rome, and Merry Jo DeSautel, a former Latin Club member.

Mr. Reque, as Caesar, will preside over all the Latins and slaves, but each citizen will have his own slave. Citizens and slaves are: Karyn Bignall and Mary Cockram, with slave Tricia Slining; Cathy Cooper, Susan Brandstrom; Diane DeMars, Becky Cain; Greg Hase, Dan McDonough; Marie Hentschell, Sandy Webber; Cheryl Jetty, Nancy Peterson; Karin Jetty, Eileen Mathson; Darlene Mersnick, Kathy Broullire; Dave Mickelson, Rosanne Brundige; Jill Roemer, Beverly Willour; Dick Sheldon, Rob Moffat; Mary Stoll, Meg Moffat; Nancy Thibideau, Shelby Gager; Mike Wilcox and Dave Lehman, Ivan Brock.

GED testing set

The General Educational Development test will be offered at Manistique High School June 5 and June 9, it was announced this week by Mrs. Lee Pappas, guidance counselor at the school.

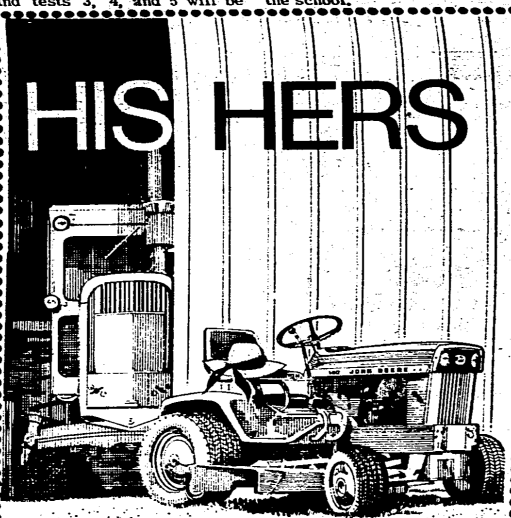

GED tests are a battery of five comprehensive examinations, emphasizing intellectual power rather than detailed content. They are used to appraise the educational development of adults who have not completed their formal high school education.

By achieving satisfactory scores on the tests, adults may earn a high school equivalency certificate from the Michigan Department of Education. This aids them in qualifying for admission to colleges, meet educational requirements for employment or promotion in a job, satisfy educational qualifications for induction into the armed forces, and to meet regulations of state and local boards of licensing examiners for admission for those occupations requiring educational competence at the 9th, 10th, or 11th grade level.
