House group hears school reform ideas

Gov. Milliken's proposed educational reform package was exposed to local reaction and opinion Tuesday night in a public hearing by the House Taxation committee, held in the Schoolcraft County court house.

Rep. George Montgomery, Detroit Democrat and chairman of the committee, presided at the hearing. Also present for the session were Rep. Vincent Petrucci, Detroit Democrat and vice chairman of the committee; Rep. Daisy Elliott, Detroit Democrat; Rep. Iron Brown, Okemos Republican; Rep. Yarrick, D. Iola, Comstock Park Republican; Rep. James N. Folks, Ironton Republican; and Rep. Dale E. Kibler, Flint Democrat, who serves on the House appropriations committee.

Rep. Charles Varian of Manistique introduced the committee to the several dozen persons present, and participated in the hearing.

Dr. Robert Jewell, staff member for the Governor's Commission on Educational Reform, first outlined the basic plans and recommendations in the report. He explained, "We tried to identify a few basic causes of the many educational problems that confront us in the state. We kept some room for negotiation, and realized that the final determination had to be made by the Legislature. We think we have identified the problems, and offered a set of solutions."

(This week's Pioneer-Tribune editorial discusses the major points of the report.)

Dr. Jewell explained that there will have to be a transition period during the next several years while the necessary Constitutional amendments are presented to the people. "We are laying time to determine a formula for distributing these funds."

The governor's program calls for a state-wide property tax levy of 16 mills for school operating purposes, and Dr. Jewell was asked how this would affect the present 15 mill limitation and the alteration of these tax funds between the schools, county and townships. He said that the Constitutional amendment covering this will call for a tax limitation of 7 mills for the county and townships, although those counties not levying more (Schoolcraft levies 7.05 next year) would be allowed to continue at that level.

It was pointed out that the statewide 16 mill levy would be for operating purposes only, and that at present funds for building programs and debt retirement are not included.

Five local persons appeared before the committee to read their statements or opinions into the record.

Lindsay Frenette, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, objected to the statewide property tax and the elimination of the 90% and the large amount of tax-reverted lands that resulted. "This is the only source of revenue local government has, particularly for capital outlay," he said, "I urged that the 15 mill limitation be retained, and that new funds for the educational program be raised through increasing the state income tax."

Mrs. Jeanne Larson, a Manistique Area Schools board member and president of the Upper Peninsula African American Board of Education, read into the record a statement outlining the MANIS position on the reform package. Major objections listed included the provision for state financial aid to non-public schools, and expressing reservations about new approaches to vocational and technical training in connection with business, industry and other sciences, until more information is available.

Supl. Edwin Wuehle on the Manistique Area Schools first outlined the position of the Michigan Association of School Administrators, then discussed the provision of state and Federal lands that do not pay their full share in comparison with private property. He pointed out that state and Federal ownership in the Upper Peninsula ranges from 16 per cent in Keweenaw County to 74 per cent in Schoolcraft County. "There's not much property left to tax," he commented, "increasing use of the Pearson Act by private owners was also cited."

Wuehle also discussed the problem of providing adequate vocational programs in sparsely populated areas, and pointed out that this district was already making fuller use of school

Kelly buys WTIQ radio

Purchase of WTIQ radio in Manistique was announced this week by David M. Kelly.

Federal Communications Commission approval of the sale came last week and the purchase was completed last Friday, as Kelly purchased the interest of his former partner, Edmund Setlock.

Kelly and Setlock started the station here in February, 1965. For the past six months Kelly has been on a leave of absence, during which time, he was employed by WETA-TV and WAXX radio in East China, Wis. He and his wife and two daughters, Kerry and Kristine, now live on Greenwood Drive, east of Manistique.

The station, at 1490 on the radio dial and with 1,000 watts power, was Manistique's first local radio service.

"No major programming or policy changes are anticipated at the moment," Kelly said in announcing the transaction. "We have made an effort to remain attuned to the community's needs and interests and that policy will continue. I have a fine staff and I believe that we are providing the Manistique area with one of the better radio services in upper Michigan. We think of Manistique as our permanent home and we're gratified by the reaction to our return. I hope to show my gratitude by providing the best local radio service possible to our clients and listeners."

Educational TV approved for Lincoln and Lakeside

Educational television for 220 Lakeside and 256 Lincoln students was the narrow approval of the Board of Education at their October meeting Monday night.

The proposal to extend the service from Northern Michigan University, via cable, to the two schools was by a 4-3 vote of the board. Approving were Denton Nelson, Margaret Waters, Jeanne Larson and Ralph Gilliam, while William Mueller, Robert Knopf and Leon Wood cast dissenting votes.

Mrs. Gladys Mercier, principal at Lakeside, appeared before the board to report how TV was used last year, and how it could be adapted in the new Lakeside building this year.

"The children are very attentive, and the programs are professionally prepared," she noted, adding that the teacher works with a text and workbooks coordinating the TV program.

"Programs that might be utilized by all grade levels this year would include children's literature, science, arithmetic, art and geography.

"Lakeside students would view the programs in the open area in the center of the school, while Lincoln students would use the gym."

"The same lesson is repeated three times a week so that it can be fitted easily into the daily schedule," Mrs. Mercier noted.

Board member William Mueller said he felt the students should concentrate on basic education, such as reading, writing and arithmetic. "This same material is all in the textbooks," he said.

Robert Knopf said he felt it should not be offered unless it were available to all elementary students, but it was pointed out that this was not possible because cable service is not now available.

Supl. Edwin Wuehle commented that he felt the district should attempt to offer its good a

Oct. 23 meeting set on water pollution

Manistique and the Water Resources Commission will attempt to get together later this month on a compromise plan for the city's compliance with the state directive to remove 80 per cent of the phosphorus from its waste water by 1972.

City Manager Robert Noe told the City Council at their regular meeting Monday night that he planned to meet with Marvin Eych, engineer with the city's advisory firm of McNamara, Porter and Seiler, to set up a schedule of tentative compliance dates that can be met by the city. These would include timetables for preliminary planning and subsequent steps.

Noe said that he and Frank S. Hololik, president and general manager of the Manistique Paper and Paper Co., planned to go to Lansing Oct. 23 to discuss the joint effort by the city and the paper mill in providing waste water treatment facilities that would meet the city's need under the regulations from the Department of Natural Resources. Noe will then appear before the Water Resources Commission.

County's budget is approved

A 1970 county budget totaling $311,831 was approved by the Board of Supervisors at their October meeting Monday, following a public hearing at the court house in the morning that attracted no one.

The budget for next year is $48,562 higher than the 1969 total of $263,269.

Of the increase, an additional $30,000 in revenues is anticipated from the local property tax because of the increase in the Upper Peninsula showed superintendents' salaries ranging from $13,000 to $21,034 in Class C and $15,000 to $19,000 in Class B.

In comparing principals' salaries, Manistique ranked 19th out of 19 districts that ranged from $13,370 down to $11,607 last year. Salaries paid high school principals this year in other districts include Iron Mountain, $16,057; Negaunee, $16,000; Ishpeming and Newberry, $15,500; Escanaba, $15,120; Gladstone, $14,000 and Munising, $13,832.

The Escanaba business manager receives $13,931 annually, while the assistant superintendent in Gwin, with corresponding duties, receives $17,952, and the administrative assistant in Newberry receives $13,000.

Staff salary raises approved, 4-3

A stormy school board session Monday night, finally brought approval of pay raises totaling $11,862 for six top administrative staff members by a 4-3 vote.

Voting in favor of the pay increases were Superintendent Denton Nelson and Ralph Gilliam, Margaret Waters and Jeanne Larson. Opposing the motion were William Mueller, Robert Knopf and Leon Wood.

At issue were these increases:

Supl. Edwin Wuehle, $17,510, compared to $15,380 last year; High School Principal Marvin Frederickson, $14,420, compared to $11,607 last year; Business Manager Robert Kanerva, $13,905, compared to $11,500 last year; Community School Director Dick Bonifas, $13,905, compared to $11,221.50 last year; Building and Grounds Director Robert (Joe) Wood, $9,000, up from $8,190.16 last year; and Office Coordinator Margaret Cain, $6,000, up from $5,200 last year.

The contracts also call for one day of sick leave per month accumulative to 150 days (an increase from 10 sick days a year), plus three weeks paid vacation, insurance, and 15 conference days a year.

For the first time, the board used an index to determine some of these salaries.

For example, the superintendent's salary is used in comparison to the top teacher's salary of $10,300, and ranges from 1.7 for Wuehle, to 1.4 for Frederickson and 1.35 for Kanerva and Bonifas. Wood and Mrs. Cain were not assigned indices.

All of the contracts were for three years, renegotiable after two years, except Wood's, which is a one year contract.

The board had interviewed staff members last Wednesday in a special meeting to set the stage for Monday's business.

In the discussion regarding the salaries, Nelson pointed out that it was necessary for administrative salaries to keep pace with other area districts. A substantial turnover of top personnel would result in poorer education and a confused school operation, he commented.

Several comparisons are available. Newberry's superintendent has been raised to $19,000 from $15,700. Escanaba pays their superintendent $17,600, while Iron Mountain paid $16,000 last year. Gladstone hired a new superintendent this year for $17,000.

A survey last year of Class B and C schools in the Upper Peninsula showed superintendents' salaries ranging from $10,000 to $21,034 in Class C and $15,000 to $19,000 in Class B.

This banquet is held each year to recognize the outstanding 4-H'ers in Schoolcraft County. The medals presented are sponsored by companies who have been friends of 4-H for years, then we ask our local representatives of that company to make the presentation to the member. These members are selected by our local awards committee who review our enrollment record cards, use the Tel-Award results, and the members record during the past year at County Achievement and the U. ## School reform

THIS WEEK'S PIONEER-TRIBUNE contains the annual report to the people from the Manistique Area Schools.

Districts are required by law to publish such a report each year, although for the past several years the local district has gone far beyond the legal require by printing the annual audit of the school books.

This year, aided by some Federal funds for community education and information, the school report is even larger and more complete. It is not easy reading, however, when you get involved in the columns and tables of the financial audit.

The report comes at a time when we in Michigan are devoting some special attention to the problems of our schools. Gov. Milliken's school reform package would drastically change education in our state and the method in which it is financed. We think some of the changes he recommends are fine. We are not so sure about some others. There is much of which we are uncertain. Presumably the program's lines will become more definitive as the Legislature holds statewide hearings and moves towards enacting the proposals into law.

The House taxation committee held a hearing here in Manistique Tuesday, and when you get right down to it, that's what school reform is all about—taxation.

Gov. Milliken's proposals call for a statewide property tax of 16 mills, plus increases in the state income tax and cigarette tax, to pay for the $184 million increases in state school aid. It may come as a surprise to many local taxpayers that they've been getting a bargain on their school taxes locally. The statewide average school operating tax is 24 mills, which means that most state property taxpayers would be getting substantial relief. In the Manistique Area School district the total operating levy is 16.34 mills, which means that locally the property tax would be decreased only slightly if the statewide 16 mill levy is approved. (The Governor's Commission on Educational Reform noted that operating millages in the state ranged from less than 10 to more than 35 mills.)

Incidentally, at this writing there seems to be no provision made for school building programs. Whether they would be financed locally or by the state seems uncertain.

The ultimate aim is to have the local property tax carry about 35 per cent of the burden of operating the schools. That's pretty close to what we are paying here in the Manistique district.

If carried through to a successful conclusion, the educational reform package would eliminate the local district carrying the burden of transporting students; it would replace the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate District with a regional administrative center charged with special educational programs and offering data processing, business services, educational media, central purchasing and similar functions; would provide for periodic testing and educational evaluation to determine if the local districts are keeping pace; would replace the present State Board of Education with a single director; would offer at least some financial aid to non-public schools.

One thing is certain. If the state takes over the frustrating job of providing adequate finances to operate our schools, it will in turn take over much of the local control and direction of that school system.

A prize-winning weekly newspaper published every Thursday at Manistique, Michigan, at the Top O' Lake Michigan in the heart of Michigan's beautiful Upper Peninsula.

Our dog Sam has many accomplishments.

He can chase sticks. He can swim. He can bark and run around the kitchen table when he hears the mailman drop anything in the mail chute.

But he cannot hunt.

One would logically assume that the offspring of a springer spaniel and a toy collie would possess enough instinct and natural inclination to roam the woods with his master, flushing out partridge from wherever it is that partridge are flushed from and sort of earning his keep by helping to put meat on the table, if you want to call a partridge meat.

But not Sam. For seven years friends have tried to convince me that he has all the attributes of a good hunting dog, and for seven years I have tried to convince them that he is not exactly 100 watt when it comes to field and stream.

In a moment of weakness, however, I relented last Sunday and invited him with me to inspect the bird situation along the Haywire grade. He gives you that old sad-eyed look when he sees you putting on your hunting boots, and runs furiously back and forth to the front door in a determined effort to show what an invaluable companion he would be. He jumps in your lap and licks your ear to show his devotion, and generally carries on in a way calculated to make a casual observer think that by comparison, Lassie is a dummy. The only thing he doesn't do is fetch the shotgun out of the closet.

There's a road between the middle and north branches of the Stutts that goes west off M-94 to the recently-torn up grade, and I thought this might be a good place to start on a Sunday morning.

Sam cried all the way up there, panting with eagerness and rolling his eyes everytime the car slowed. He was out of the car door like a shot when we stopped, and began sniffing and ranging in the clearing just like he knew what he was doing. He did know what he was doing. He was looking for a stick and he found one, prancing back to me with it in his mouth as proud as could be, waiting for me to take it and throw it for him to chase.

"C'mon dog," I told him, starting off down the grade. "Let's go find some birds." I am not exactly quiet an Indian stalking through the woods, but good old Sam sounded like the Haywire locomotive himself, charging through the underbrush with that stick in his mouth. Any wildlife in the area could make a clean getaway to Shingleton and points north with a warning like that.

When we reached the middle branch of the Stutts I paused for a rest and to scout the horizon, and Sam promptly fell in the water, then just as promptly got out and came over to stand by me and shake himself dry.

We were about a mile down the grade when a pickup truck with some bear hunters came lurching along looking for one of their hounds. We passed the time of day briefly, then the driver looked at Sam standing there with a young sapling in his mouth.

"That's a real dog you've got there," he said. "Even collects firewood."

"That's about all he does, too," I agreed, and started back for the car.

It was about two hours later that Sam had his chance to redeem himself. I discovered, too late, that the Haywire grade between Steuben and M-94 is not passable for ordinary cars, and as I surveyed the sand rising up above the hub caps I gave Sam his instructions.

"Get inside and guard the car," I told him. "I'm going for help."

Well, I found it down at the Jack Pine, where my friends the bear hunters had a four-wheel drive and a logging chain that snaked us out in no time.

And Sam? Man's best friend had been busy. Wet and muddy and full of sand, he had whiled away the moments climbing around the inside of the car looking out all the windows, leaving his trail behind him. The bear hunter took a look and shook his head.

"Man," he said. "That's some dog."

Some dog he may be, but a hunting dog he is not. Unless you're hunting sticks.

CHANGE AND INNOVATION

How do innovators innovate? Quotations from some of the literature on change begin to suggest the answer:

"Change is difficult. The more familiar an ingrained behavior is, the harder it is to change. The faint of heart and the rigidly distrustful will dismiss all change as a parlor game."

"Many innovations which appear so promising at the start produce virtually nothing because the innovations seem to get lost as the staff works on them."

"One of the reasons why so many innovations are not fully implemented is that school administrators hold such an oversimplified and inadequate version of the process involved in change."

"Bringing major change to a school is far more difficult and complex a task than has been realized."

"One thing about change is it cannot be fully planned for."

"Our knowledge of planned change is a blend of experience and intuition with a large dash of folklore, to which there is slowly being added a body of scientific literature."

"The educational bureaucracy itself is a source of resistance to change."

"The change agent is flexible in his strategy altering it to meet unforeseen circumstances."

Research shows that innovators tend to get around outside their normal environment more than those who do not innovate.

Educational innovators are more completely involved in a variety of communication networks."

Some of the personality descriptions in literature suggest that the innovator is not the most comfortable person to have around."

The problem of changing a school system requires a systematic approach that coordinates various efforts within the system."

When you can't solve a problem with a frontal attack, try detours and reversals."

Most of the change we see in life is due to truths being in and out of favor."

It is human nature to resist change. It is human nature to distrust innovation. But--it is also human nature to like variety.

When we can remove fear and distrust, when we can create a climate favorable for change, then more people will innovate.

It doesn't take the relative, as long to recover from the shock of the sudden death of a rich uncle as from the fact that he didn't leave 'em anything." Jack E. Hester, The Charlestown (Ind.) Courier.

NICKNAMED THE "TIN GOOSE," FORD'S TRI-MOTOR PLANES PROVED THE FEASIBILITY OF ALL METAL, MULTI-ENGINE AIRCRAFT AND USHERED IN THE AGE OF SAFE, DEPENDABLE AIRLINE PASSENGER SERVICE.

THE TIN GOOSE

DESIGNED BY WILLIAM STOUT, THE TIN GOOSE EVOLVED FROM EARLIER STOUT AIRCRAFT PLANS AFTER MANY REVISIONS AND MODIFICATIONS. THE FIRST TIN GOOSE FLEW IN NOVEMBER, 1925. FURTHER ALTERATIONS WERE NEEDED BUT A FIRE DESTROYED THE PLANE IN ITS HANGAR. THEN THE FORD MOTOR TOOLS NEEDED TO PRODUCE MULTI-ENGINE AIRCRAFT. IN JUNE 1926, THE FIRST FORD TRI-MOTOR WAS FLOWN. MORE MODIFICATIONS WERE MADE, BUT THE BASIC DESIGN DIDN'T CHANGE AND FORD TRI-MOTORS BECAME THE NUMBER ONE AIRCRAFT ON AMERICA'S FLEDGLING AIRLINES.

IN JANUARY 1933, THE LAST FORD TRI-MOTOR WAS PRODUCED OVER 190 WERE MADE IN DEARBORN, MICHIGAN. THE DEPRESSION AND COSTLY NEW DESIGN CHANGES BROUGHT AN END TO FORD'S AIRCRAFT INDUSTRY. BUT THE TIN GOOSE WAS TOO TOUGH TO FADE. OVER HALF A DOZEN TRI-MOTORS ARE STILL FLYING AND AN UPDATED VERSION OF STOUT'S DESIGN IS BEING BUILT AGAIN, IN CALIFORNIA.

CANCER FACTS #2

As we mentioned last week, it is very important to be examined for cancer regularly. This disease grows and spreads but it can be cured in its earliest stages.

Cancer starts on the skin or on the lining of the mouth, intestines, stomach and bladder. It also develops in the breast, prostate and other glands. It begins when one cell in the body undergoes a change and becomes cancerous. This cell then begins dividing itself in half. The cells keep on dividing until they build up into a large cluster of cancer cells.

Cancer progresses in stages. The first stage is less serious because the cells remain in one place. But in the later stages, the cells spread throughout the body.

Hi Folks!
Past week we've had some gray skies and continuous rain with strong winds; winds that are taking the leaves down, covering the ground's carpet with color. Geese have been going over, calling out their loud cry to one another to follow the leader.

Autumn now is on its last fling for most of its beautiful richness has passed on. Won't be too long before the trees will stand erect and silent. The leaves that still cling to the branches seem to tremble as the wind comes by. The forest last Tuesday morning was a beautiful sight to me, as day began to break. The whole forest seemed like a huge ballroom with hundreds of light bulbs to show up its magnificent beauty. These rainy days my wood stove has kept out the chill and filled the air with the aroma of burning wood.

Weather like this, they say, is for the ducks which has brought out duck hunters, as the season opened up Friday morning.

Guests of Marie LaFave's that came up to duck hunt were Robert Bruce, Daniel LaFave of Lansing, and Leonard LaFave.

Mr. Jacobs spent a few days at his cabin on Thunder Lake.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schumacher, who have a cabin on the Big Spring road, were Mr. and Mrs. Art Cliff.

Larry and Norma Sallie are back. Larry is kept busy duck hunting with the rest of the enthusiastic duck hunters.

Chip Cleminson spent a few days visiting his mother, Mrs. Betty Cleminson, at Murphy Lake.

Anthony and Robert Butchko of Detroit spent the weekend at Thunder Lake duck hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bane are vacationing at their cabin on Goose Lake. Their guests are Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Miller, Dr. James Davis and Dr. William Patterson of Columbus have also come up to do a little duck hunting and color fishing.

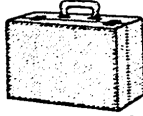

This is about all the news I scooped up to write you about, so ending it with echoes of birthday greetings going out to the F. J. Bannons and the Williams family.

Stay the day for each of you for a bit of complete happiness.
Until next week's scoop, stay happy even though we are having rainy days.
Mrs. Scoop

We'd be lost, wouldn't we, if suddenly computers were withdrawn from our daily life? We have become dependent on them to schedule airplane flights, point out scholastic aptitudes and aid the Internal Revenue Service in checking income tax returns.

But there are things a computer can't do. It can't make a home a better home or a man a better man. A computer can't heal sorrows and disappointments. It can swallow up a lot of statistics and clank out a lot of conclusions, but it can't direct a man to God's love.

As today's world is run more and more by automation, we need the help of the Church to guide us in the spiritual realm of life. We need to experience God's great love for all men. In our mechanical world, only the Church can help us find God's love.

The 1968-69 school year in pictures

A highlight of the year for band members was the arrival of new uniforms last winter, (top left), following a community drive to match funds made available by the school board and a bequest from the late Alex Creighton.

Above, the new summer arts and crafts program occupied the efforts of Sharlene Mathson and Julie Thorell, among many others.

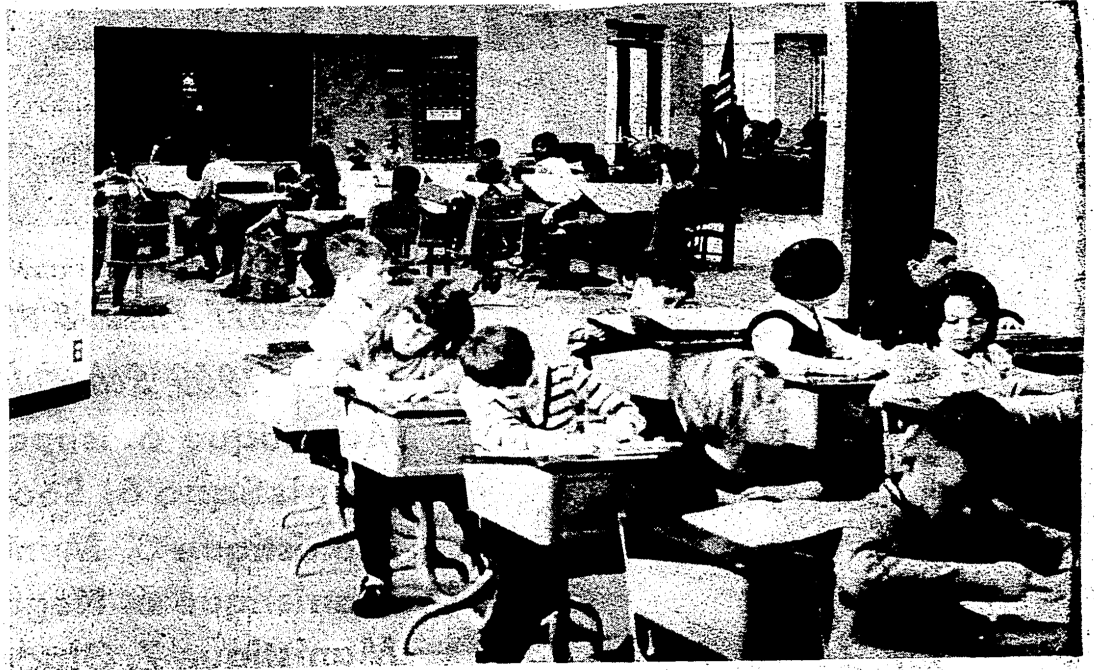

At left, students enrolling for this fall received vision testing from Mrs. Ed Dorie as part of a special program screening both hearing and sight.

Below left, a new Link Simulator for use in driver training was purchased in a cooperative Highway Safety Program by 13 Upper Peninsula districts.

Below right, Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer was the pride and joy of the kindergarten students of Mrs. Grace Gero at the Lincoln School last Christmas.

The 1968-69 school year in pictures

When Kassandra Jernudd, far left, opened the door to the Kindergarten at the new Lakeside School late last February, it opened up an entirely new concept of teaching for the students and faculty. Open spaces in the new building, (see above), allowed the introduction of group teaching and specialized classes this fall. The passing of the old was noted by the demolition of the old Lakeside School, (left) a landmark here for more than 65 years.

The district's efforts in conservation education received recognition this fall when the Upper Peninsula Sportsmen's Association presented Mrs. Clifford Christenson with a citation as U.P. Conservation Teacher of the Year, and Supt. Edwin E. Wuehle, right, accepted the group's award to the district for offering the top conservation program in the U.P. during the past year.

At lower left, the school's summer program included beginning baseball for young boys, and an enthusiastic group worked out regularly with their coaches.

MANISTIQUE AREA SCHOOLS

MANISTIQUE, MICHIGAN

Superintendent's Report

This has been the year of new programs and educational progress.

More new programs and changes have been started during the past year than at any other time in the history of the Manistique Area Schools.

Let's examine them, program by program.

First, your board of education has authorized three programs for mentally handicapped pupils---one for early elementary students, one for later elementary, and a third for junior high and early high schools. Three teachers took special training for this program, which is funded in part by state and federal funds.

Our vocational training has been expanded considerably by two programs.

First, we have made arrangements with Bay de Noc Community College in Escanaba to send 40 students there twice a week for classes in welding and electricity. These are far advanced from any similar course we have offered here, and should be of great help to these youngsters in those days following graduation when they must compete with other youngsters for available jobs.

Secondly, we have added a cooperative program in both office and distributive education. There are 40 youngsters enrolled in this class, and half of them have been placed in part-time, on-the-job training that is a part of their educational program. Work is continuing to obtain job placements for the remaining 20. The cooperation of the business community has been good, to this point, and we are hoping that part-time job opportunities will soon open up for the remainder of the students not yet employed.

Another new program is that of the audio bus---a technical term for a bus equipped with tape recorders that enables students to listen in on as many as a half-dozen different educational tapes while riding to and from school. We are planning to use this bus on the vocational trip to Escanaba, as well as for transporting youngsters from Germfask and Mueller districts to the high school. Again, this program is funded by a special grant from the state.

This spring saw the completion of the new Lakeside School building---a major achievement in itself---and this fall came the shift to ungraded classrooms for certain portions of the program. This is possible because of the unique design of the Lakeside School---a design that has received statewide recognition because of the open spaces between classrooms that allow teachers and students to group and regroup according to ability and interest. The faculty at the school is convinced that the youngsters will benefit immensely from the new program.

Through the efforts of the Manistique-Area Schools, 13 Upper Peninsula school districts with Community School programs grouped themselves together to gain state aid for the Governor's Highway Safety Project. By receiving a grant of more than $100,000 under this program, these 13 schools have purchased a driver-training simulator---a large, long classroom built in a truck-trailer---that allows both young and old students to participate directly in moving pictures simulation of traffic problems and driving testing. Manistique students will gain the use of this novel simulator as part of their driver-training program.

Parents will also discover that their children are bringing home a new style report card at the end of the first marking period this year. It is aimed at doing a better job of telling the parent about the child's progress and attitudes.

A citizen's advisory committee to assist the Board of Education in reaching vitally important decisions about our schools was formed this year. Their studies of needs and possible solutions should prove to be a tremendous help for the board.

In February a successful vote on the one-year renewal of the 5.5 mills for operation of the schools was held. This success enabled the district to continue full operation without any cuts in service. It will expire next year, however, and once again the question will have to be put to a vote. It is possible that unless state financial aid programs are improved dramatically, more than 5.5 mills will be needed.

Negotiating teams from the board worked long and hard to arrive at contract settlements with both the teaching staff and other employees. We think the contracts are fair and competitive, and all participants in the negotiations should be commended for their hard work.

The community education portion of the local district continues to operate effectively through the Community School, offering basic education, diploma programs, and enrichment courses for all people in the district.

Because we were convinced that our school district was being short-changed by the State Department of Education following reorganization, a suit was started by the Manistique Area Board of Education to recover more than $100,000 in state financial aid we felt was due. The State Court of Appeals ruled in favor of the Manistique District, but a motion for appeal to the State Supreme Court has been filed by the state.

There have been many visible changes in buildings and plant. Perhaps the most dramatic shift from the old to the new occurred when the old Lakeside School was torn down after the new Lakeside School was completed and occupied.

With unanimous approval of the school board, the parking and play areas around the Central and Lakeside buildings were blacktopped this summer. This has not only helped keep the area clean and smooth for parking, but can be used to assist driver training, for marching practice by the band and Precisionettes drill team, and for recreation purposes, such as volleyball and basketball.

Another unanimous decision was to install carpeting in the main first floor hallway of the high school. Reduced maintenance costs will ultimately pay for this expense, and the noise level has been substantially reduced to the benefit of students studying in the auditorium.

The five-year remodeling plan adopted in 1964 has been completed. Some of the changes involved in the main building this past year include a new washroom for boys, a shipping and receiving room, remodeling of the library and addition of carpeting in the library and guidance counseling area, plus the conference room. All of the old seats were removed from the auditorium and replaced with more than 330 folding desk-type chairs, and this main room was paneled with financial assistance coming from the Class of 1969 as a class gift.

Other physical improvements during the past year would include erection of fencing along busy US-2 adjacent to the Lincoln School; construction of storage for football equipment in the stadium; construction of a new storage shed adjacent to the shop building; new roofing at both the Lincoln and Central schools; remodeling of two rooms to be used for special education purposes at the Fairview School; remodeling and installation of new equipment for the hot lunch program at the Fairview School kitchen---the latter being 75 per cent paid for by federal funds.

The district is also in the process of installing new drapes in most of the buildings.

Crossing guards have been employed at the Lincoln School, and are proving very conscientious and effective.

We feel that all of these improvements and advancements are commendable, but financial problems continue to plague the district. Solutions to these financial problems must be found if all of these existing programs are to continue.
