The Savings Assurance Agency was established in 1917 by the State Savings Bank. In 1955 R.G. Hentschell, who served as general manager of the Manistique Pulp and Paper Co. since 1937, joined the agency, and in January, 1962, sold the firm to his son, William. Local Guard aids bridge project

Manistique's detachment of the Michigan National Guard, working with U.S. Forest Service personnel of the Hiawatha National Forest, constructed a footbridge across the Indian River. The bridge is located at the U.S. Forest Service's Indian River Camp and Picnic Ground along Highway M-16, ten miles north of Manistique. The bridge was constructed to accommodate the hunters, fishermen, and hikers in the area. The bridge was purposely designed for foot traffic only. Forest Service personnel used all vehicles, such as snowmobiles or trail bikes, were allowed to travel up and down the steep bank to use the bridge a very serious erosion problem would develop.

Alhigian National Guardsmen, constructing a footbridge across the Indian River for sportsmen.

According to District Ranger Melvin Gottle, many deer hunters hunt in this general area. Some of them stay at a nearby resort, or in the Indian River Campground, or in undeveloped camping areas located along the Jack Pine Truck Trail. All around during the spring and summer months numerous trout fishermen enjoy trying their luck along this stretch of Indian River. However, there hadn't been a suitable crossing within several miles of this bridge. Most fishermen enjoy being able to fish both sides of a stream. They now have this opportunity here. The river has also lured for years many hunters from hunting the area. Immediately west of the river, the bridge for them will open hundreds of additional acres to hunt in.

The U.S. Forest Service has been aware of the need for a bridge at this location for quite some time but the funds were never available. There was always a project with a higher priority, for the money to be spent upon. On the other hand, the Manistique Detachment of the Michigan National Guard is an engineering unit specializing in bridge construction. They were looking for a project that would provide them with a chance to apply some of the training they have been receiving. The Indian River bridge provided them with a practical application for this training.

For this project the U.S. Forest Service did the designing and furnished the material. The National Guard furnished the technical supervision and manpower.

The Hiawatha PTA will sponsor a bake sale at the Maytag Store in Manistique from 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 13. Donations may be given to Roberta Smith of Thompson or left at the Swanson Store on State Road.

Officers elected at their first meeting were: president, Lynn Watkins; vice president, Krista Olson; secretary, Darl Patz; treasurer, Audrey Swanson; club pledge, Kathy Brock; Gail Ward; Flax pledge, June Porter; Lori LaBar; recreation, Gail Porter; Barbara Stuck; news reporter, Patty Fisher. Leader of the group is Mrs. Everett Palf.

He is survived by his wife, Mae; one son, Donald Fouts of Cincinnati, Ohio; a sister, Mrs. Helen Rodgers of Franklin, Ohio and two grandchildren.

Surf Sounds

Most people are hearty believers in the TGIF formula (Thank Goodness It's Friday) but those people who are busy preparing their displays for Manistique's first Winter Sports Show this Saturday will be wishing that Friday wouldn't come so fast this week. There's a lot for them to do, but the indications are now that this first show...the first of many annual shows, we hope...will be a big success. Those businessmen and organizations who will be working so hard can find a welcome rest break here Friday night with our fish fry, which really isn't just a fish fry at all, but a seafood extravaganza. We like to use words like that. There's lake trout and whitefish and perch and fish kabobs and surf 'n turf and a menu just filled with new ideas in good eating. And once the show is over Saturday night, of course, they might want to head our way and join the many people who enjoy our big Steak Fry that night. We have a wide variety and wide price range in some good, hearty eating...the best beef in the area. Sunday is family day, of course, and it's a real treat for Mom and the kids...and Dad...to relax and enjoy our Sunday specials. Our congratulations this week to Bill Hentschell on the grand opening of his new building housing his Savings Assurance Agency on S. Cedar St. It's a fine addition to the community.

EXTENSION News Notes

BY HOWARD HANDORF
County Extension Director

FINALLY MADE IT - I caught two nice Coho out at Thompson last Sunday. Fair hooked in the mouth - one 15 1/2 pounds and one 9 1/2 pounds. Another old pro who was with me, Leo Little, also managed to get his first Coho for the year, last week. Leo had them stacked up like cord wood, it's strange but Another thought that struck me while down state was that there are certainly a lot of people scurrying around all the time. Another thing that was brought forcibly home was that the dollar talks, at any rate I received this impression from looking at the way many beautiful landscapes have been ruined by good modern construction techniques. I hope we can save some of our natural beauty up here but I am not willing to bet on it for I have seen the power of the almighty dollar.

Letter to the Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

"The need to uphold the Declaration of Independence during present trying times" is the subject which the local Manistique lodge of the International Order of Runeberg will be giving its attention at its November meeting November 11 at 8 p.m. when it meets at the home of Mrs. C.J. Janson, 553 Park Avenue. The local lodge president, U.S.A. Heggblom, who is also the immediate past president of this international order will moderate the program.

Few Americans have ever read the entire declaration as a matter of a study. Even fewer Americans realize that the Declaration might become a "dead letter" if too many people forget or ignore its basic truth: that each person derives his rights from God and a chief purpose of government is to protect those rights.

It is also true that few Americans realize that the document is only 1324 words long. Even though it explicitly sets forth the principles that are the cornerstone of our nation's freedom. Fewer still, appreciate that without the Declaration, which strongly affirms the divine origin of human rights, the Constitution and Bill of Rights lack a clear, profound basis.

One of the purposes of this forum on the Declaration of Independence is to point out that the Founding Fathers adopted this document "with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence" and that "We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America in General Congress, assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions..."

Copies of the forum discussion will be sent any one interested.

HEALTH PROBLEMS—Merrill Hull of Blissfield, Republican State Central Committee worker, and Roger Harbin, new social worker for the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School District, discuss issues at the health and mental health hearing Saturday morning at the Fireside.

Hearing held here

The health needs of northern Michigan and Schoolcraft County were outlined for a Republican Task Force of Health Problems at a special hearing Saturday morning at the Fireside Inn.

Local physicians Donald Waters and Larry Sell testified at the hearing, one of a series being held throughout the state. They made the following points:

One of the best helps right now would be to have a psychiatrist visiting the community on a regular basis. Although plans for a psychiatric out-patient unit have been made through the cooperation of the County Medical Society, the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital and the Newberry State Hospital, one ingredient is missing: no staff to service such a unit.

The state is the logical unit to offer subsidies to attract quality people to enter the medical professions.

There is a desperate need for general practitioners, with less emphasis on specialization for registered and practical nurses, aides, orderlies and technicians, on all levels of medical careers.

Four medical doctors care for approximately 16,000-18,000 persons in this area, comprising Schoolcraft County and parts of Delta, Mackinac, Luce and Alger counties. "More money should be made available for extensive research in the behavioral sciences of psychology, sociology and anthropology."

A community such as Manistiquette has a real problem: attracting more doctors, the physicians said. Part of the blame must be traced to the profession itself since it has become "specialty oriented." The prohibitive cost of about $50,000 to a young doctor in establishing a practice is another factor. The cost can be circum-

Interment was in the Ferncliff cemetery, White Plains, N.Y., with Dr. James S. Slevarty of the Hikecock Presbyterian Church, Scarisfield, officiating at the services.

Veteran's Day

THE APPROACH OF VETERAN'S DAY next Tuesday comes as planners prepare for a second Moratorium on the Vietnam war. November also brings the traditional Thanksgiving holiday, and there is a certain ironic appropriateness in observing these events in proximity to each other.

Unfortunately, there will be those who choose these occasions to promote division rather than unity. Our own thought is that each day with its special significance can be a time to "bring us together," as the campaign slogan suggested.

It certainly is entirely possible for a loyal and patriotic citizen to mark Nov. 11 by honoring this nation's veterans, to use the Moratorium Day as an occasion to work and pray for peace, and to spend Thanksgiving in recognition of the many blessings that have come to this country and its people. The three purposes are not incompatible.

Americans have a proclivity for special days and special weeks that promote everything from pickle packing to square dancing, but this tendency should not obscure the truly traditional times that mark great moments in our history or the great men who made that history.

Today there are literally millions of great men and women who have served their country in four wars—World Wars I and II, Korea and Vietnam. Next Tuesday we will honor their service. In doing so we should be careful not to classify dissent as the opposite of patriotism. There can be such a thing as a dissenting patriot.

We do our country no service when we arbitrarily classify those who march for peace as effete snobs or long-haired hippies. There will be veterans marching on Moratorium day, just as there will be peace advocates paying honor to veterans next Tuesday.

Fire Protection

RURAL RESIDENTS were no doubt properly alarmed by the news that the City of Manistique will no longer be offering fire protection to township areas unless agreement can be reached on a fire fighting contract.

Their concern is proper, of course, but the city is also properly concerned about the continued high cost of providing such a service.

In past years the county has participated to some extent in the cost of fire protection by purchasing a fire engine that was then stationed in the city. The last such engine was purchased about eight years ago. One fact that is generally overlooked in such an arrangement is that the city taxpayers, through their county taxes, paid about 45 per cent of the total cost of the engine.

It is also unfair to expect the more remote areas, such as Seney or Germfask, to share in equal proportions the cost of a fire engine that they rarely, if ever, would see.

It makes more sense for the city and for those townships who want such service to enter into an equitable agreement to share the burden of expense. This is what the city is proposing.

Ultimately, the city should also propose such an arrangement for ambulance service as well. Again this is a case of the city taxpayers carrying the burden for rural taxpayers.

A more equitable arrangement should be found.

More on the Griffin

We talked about the mystery of the Griffin, first sailing ship on the Great Lakes, in last week's column, and how she disappeared mysteriously 290 years ago after sailing from the Green Bay area bound for the Straits.

Did she founder? Was she attacked and sunk by Indians? Or did the pilot and crew scuttle her and take off with the furs and trade goods that were her cargo?

The debate still goes on, fueled just recently by the announcement of a Detroit man that he has found the wreck of the Griffin in deep water about 12 miles northeast of Drummond Island. His was just the most recent in a series of reports that claim to have discovered the last remains of this historic vessel, but generally it's accepted that the mystery of the Griffin has yet to be solved.

Robert Rene Cavalier, Steur de la Salle, built the Griffin in the winter of 1678-79, just above Niagara Falls, and sailed her westwards, into Lake Huron, to Missilimakinac and then to Green Bay, probably Washington Island or Summer Island. On Sept. 18 the pilot, five sailors and a clerk started back. They were never heard from again.

Has the man from Detroit really found the Griffin? Or is it resting off Manitoulin Island, where six skeletons and some artifacts were found in 1890, or near Find Out Island, near Tobermory, Ont. where another wreck was found?

Russ McKee discussed the possibilities in his book "Great Lakes Country." He writes:

"...There are holes in both of these stories. Those who favor either Manitoulin or Find Out Island as sites believe that the Griffin somehow negotiated the Straits of Mackinac without being seen, and that the ship was then wrecked or scuttled at one or the other of the Lake Huron locations. But the record is silent on this point. Shortly after the loss, Tonty (LaSalle's lieutenant) asked at St. Ignace if the Griffin had been seen to pass the straits on the return trip. It had not been, or he would have certainly reported the fact to LaSalle. LaSalle's detailed letter of 1683, after all available evidence had been collected, makes no mention of the ship passing St. Ignace. Could those at St. Ignace have missed seeing the Griffin in a storm or at night? They could, but the chance of an inexperienced pilot attempting to thread that shoal-bound strait in storm or darkness, with a square-rigged ship, is slim indeed. Also, according to Father Hennepin (unofficial chronicler of LaSalle's expedition), the storm which hit Lake Michigan occurred soon after the Griffin sailed from Green Bay. After waving the Griffin on its way, LaSalle, leaving Tonty behind to round up the remainder of the advance party, coasted south by canoe with Hennepin and the rest of the men. They passed along the Wisconsin side of Lake Michigan, but were soon forced to put ashore because of a storm. This same storm must have also hit the Griffin before it passed through the straits."

Measured by today's standards, the Griffin was not a large vessel. Sixty feet long--just the length of the Tribune building--it was listed as having a cargo capacity of 45 tons. (One purist contends the word is tons, meaning barrels, but the dimensions of the ship would indicate it to be larger than that.)

Hennepin's account says the ship was no more than a league from shore when it was hit by the storm. He is not very specific, however, as to the location of the shore, except to say it was in the "north of the lake," which covers considerable territory. A "league" is also a relatively vague term that has, at different times, ranged from 2.4 to 4.6 miles.

Perhaps the Detroiters has found the Griffin, but the odds would seem against it. The chances are better that the wreckage would be found somewhere along the north shore, from Wiggins' Reef eastward to Seul Choix to Pt. Patterson.

Time may have rotted the timbers, but unless she burned there should be enough left to identify. LaSalle used some hardware in its construction, and the ship was outfitted with seven small cannon which should still be recognizable.

The remains are there somewhere, and they hold at least a partial answer to one of the great puzzles of our history. The Griffin was not only the Great Lakes first ship, but its first Flying Dutchman, the first of many to sail away without trace "through a crack in the Lake" and disappear forever.

Tony's Topics

Manistique--Manistee
"No, I'm not from Manistee, I'm from Manistique in the Upper Peninsula--where the Coho are." That's the way you have to explain on first introductions below the Straits.

Nat Dellis and I were discussing this difficulty after the last Chamber of Commerce meeting. We speculated--

"Maybe Manistee would change its name."

"No, they'd never do that--"

"Maybe we should change ours."

"To what?"

"The Four Seasons, Recreation City, Big River or Red River (we weren't sure what Manistique meant in Indian--thought we'd check with Chink LeBrasseur), Indian River, Hiawatha, Cohoville."

"Nothing with 'ville' in, sounds too much like a crossroads town."

Now I'm not suggesting it makes sense--because of all the changes we'd have to make if we did it. We would have to revise the name of the schools from Manistique Area Schools to something. All the stationary would have to be redone. The teams would no longer be known as the Manistique Emeralds, but as something else Emeralds.

We would have to work with the Postal Department, the Highway Department, the Federal Communications Commission, AAA, CIA, ECA, the FBI, the Brownies, (and the Chamber would have to get another new name). Consternation would reign in map-makers office. The Rand-McNally people would throw a fit. Every map of the U.S. would be obsolete. All the highway markers that list Manistique would have to be changed. Vern Bernard would have some difficulties with the Federal Aviation Agency.

What would all of the people in town who have named their establishments Manistique do? Here's who'd have problems: The Manistique Broadcasting Company, The Manistique Builders, The Manistique Cleaners and Dyers, The Manistique Dairy Cream, The Manistique Day Care Center, The Manistique Decorators, Manistique Floral Company, Manistique

Furniture Mart, Manistique Garage Company, Manistique Lumber and Coal, Manistique Motel, (pause to catch your breath) Manistique Oil, Manistique Pulp and Paper, Manistique Radio Center, Manistique TV Cable Company, Manistique Tool and Manufacturing, Manistique Saw and Planing.

I can't think of anything that would rile us more. Look what happened in Gladstone when they tried to rename the Buckeye School.

Problems which we are now considering seriously would seem trivial by comparison. During the whole time we considered a name change, no one would worry about off-street parking, the armory, the Governor's Reform Program, pollution, snow removal, street paving or taxes.

No I'm not suggesting we get into a fight about the name--but you know even if we went through the motions and didn't change it, the people downstate would know about Manistique. "Sure, you're the town in the Upper Peninsula that tried to change its name."

And we could reply, "That's the one--Manistique not Manistee!"

Know Your Points!

BEBB Bill says:
Watch the rule of right-of-way. The Michigan statute says that a vehicle approaching a "yield" sign shall slow down to a reasonable speed and shall yield the right-of-way to any vehicle in the intersection or any that is approaching on another highway so closely as to present a hazard. If you are convicted of failure to yield the right-of-way it means 2 points on your record.

"OUT OUR WAY"

'News from Road 437'

Hi Folks!

There is a silence out our way this cloudy Monday morning. Now and then a breeze comes by to move about the few leaves that still cling strongly to their branches. Most of the forest doors are open where I can see the emptiness that is within. I just have the memories of its Autumn beauty that has paid the price to blustery winds and snow that we have had so far. I can almost see signs tacked to every tree that reads, "Winter is just ahead," and I'm wondering what has happened to our Indian summer.

Here we are in the month of November and I know its surly blast will strip every tree of its leaves. The forest will be bare to await its blanket of diamond sparkling cloaks. The snow covered stumps will look like huge toadstools and everything will have a fresh clean look. Everywhere that I will look I'll see a world of contentment that spells peace, and cares of the world are far from my mind. With this thought, my mind brings me Armistice Day or Veterans Day. May this day again be close at hand for our boys in foreign lands.

Friday morning Mrs. Marie LaFave, son Patrick, Mr. and Mrs. James LaFave and I left for Lansing to attend the wedding of Mrs. LaFave's son, Daniel to Jacqueline Bruce of Charlotte, Mich. Also attending the wedding were Mrs. LaFave's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Connolly, daughters Helen and Patricia of Marquette. We all had an enjoyable time returning home Saturday evening with the Connollys spending the rest of the weekend at Marie's cabin at Thunder Lake.

On our return we discovered Mr. and Mrs. Daniel LaFave spending part of their honeymoon at Ramsden's cottage on Thunder Lake.

The Lawrence Sallies have bid us farewell and plan on a return out our way in several months.

Echoes of birthday greetings go out to Ole Olsen and Ronald Fiegel.

Anniversary wishes go out to the Larry Olsons and Al Bursons.

May the day for each of you be one of complete happiness. With this thought of John Donne's in my mind, "No spring nor summer beauty hath such grace as I have seen in one Autumnal face," stay happy.

Troop 402 at Camporee

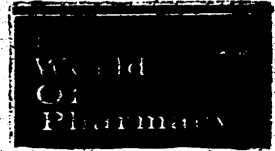

Manistique's Boy Scout Troop 402, sponsored by the Zion Lutheran Church, was represented at the Red Buck District Fall Camporee by 14 local boys.

The troop was transported to the campsite north of Hermansville by means of transportation arranged by the Manistique Tool and Manufacturing Co. The event began on Friday evening when the several troops participating set up their campsites. On Saturday the program consisted of various problems to test scout skills. The day's program ended with the participation of all the troops at a large central campfire.

On Sunday the scouts attended church services at the site. Following this service they broke camp in preparation for returning to their respective homes. Attending with Manisson, Allen, Doyle, Robert Gerber, Jr., Nathan Herro, Robert Johnson, Tom Klagstad, Steve Malette, Mike McKenzie, Alan Pace, Gary Rogers, Ricky Rogers, Chuck Rusiecki and Dan Selling.

Leaders with the troop were assistant Scoutmasters Roy Anderson and Rev. Ingmar Levin, and Scoutmaster Frank Malette.

Tommy Thompson J.P. Quick SEAT BELTS

The use of seat belts or shoulder harnesses can minimize injuries and save lives. Research indicates seat belts could save 14,000 lives a year. The only type of accident in which they are of no value is when the car is crushed. With no protection, the occupants can be thrown from the car and these injuries carry a high mortality rate.

The exceptions are among pregnant women where abdominal restraints have injured the fetus and encouraged miscarriages, and maternal shock. In spite of this adverse report, the ladies are safer wearing seat belts as they can be tossed about the car's interior. Fractures of the pelvic girdle are common where restraints have prevented these injuries, so buckle up and let's start saving those 14,000 lives.

The concert is over. The artist takes a bow. Or, perhaps the curtain rings down on a smash hit. And hands slap, smack, pat, or tap. Hands do other things besides applaud. Some write on blackboards, others perform miracles of surgery — some type, some sew, some plant. Hands drive trucks, make music or diaper a baby. There are crippled hands and wrinkled hands, soft ones and smooth; hands flung up as a shield; others stretched in supplication. In God's Church are praying hands. These hands translate compassion into action. They find homes for the homeless and food for the hungry. They teach, as well as preach, and bring hope to hearts long lonely. They, literally, become the hands of God. Today, as never before, mankind needs the assurance and comfort of God's love. Won't you help your church reach out? Offer your heart and your helping hands.
