Deer season opens Saturday

about one antlerless animal for every four square miles.

DNR game men believe the Upper Peninsula's conservative, over-all quota of about 12,000 antlerless deer would be reached this year. They base this view partly on the fact that there aren't as many deer in some areas as there were in previous years. They also note that the deer population in the Upper Peninsula is still recovering from the effects of the 1965-66 season.

Besides cutting back permit quotas for the Upper Peninsula, the DNR decided not to re-lease "leftover" permits for those undersubscribed areas. That decision is another move to keep antlerless deer kill on the conservative side in that part of the state.

Although Upper Peninsula hunters face a harder time finding deer this season, especially in the sizable 4,000-square-mile Lake Superior watershed, there are still some areas where their chances of connecting are about as good as last year. These better areas include Menominee, Dickinson, and Iron counties and parts of Delta- and Marquette counties.

In the more optimistic vein, too, are prospects that the Upper Peninsula's supply of adult, big-racked bucks, little affected by the winter, has held up with recent seasons. This means that region's hunters still stand the best chance in the state to shoot trophy bucks.

Deer hunting prospects are pretty much the same as year ago for the northern Lower Peninsula, where the animals came through last winter in generally good physical condition and, thus, produced a normal fawn crop.

In light of this and other developments, that region's antlerless deer quota for this season was set at 30,115, a modest 1968-percent increase over the four-year figure. The upgrade of quota also reflects efforts to control new outbreaks of deer crop damage and trim white-tailed numbers in some deer food shortage areas.

New restrictions on antlerless deer hunting this season include parts of Charlevoix and Antrim counties where the DNR hopes to curb the problem of deer riding private orchards.

Also added are antlerless deer hunting areas in sections of Isosco and Ogemaw counties where the animals have caused damage to field crops, which can't be ignored.

Deer sightings by DNR field workers this past summer were higher in the northern Lower Peninsula than last year when hunters took nearly 37,000 bucks and more than 230,000 antlerless deer from that part of the state.

Although deer numbers seem to be up in the region from last year, the animals are expected to be more scattered this season because of a poor acorn crop. That means, of course, it will take a little more luck and some harder hunting on the part of most sportsmen than when the animals are concentrated in oak areas.

In southern Michigan, where deer face no winter food problems, whitetail populations have continued to grow since last year when hunters took a record-breaking 11,640 bucks and 2,940 antlerless animals from that part of the state.

The region's deer population explosion has not, however, been without problems, notably a mounting number of car-deer accidents and increasing cases of deer crop damage. In a move to minimize those two major problems, southern Michigan's harvest quota for antlerless deer has been raised to 4,400 animals this season.

Along those same lines, some 3,000 additional square miles will be newly opened this season to antlerless deer hunting in the region.

Making up most of this new area are northern Kent County, St. Clair and eastern Macomb counties, and a big block of lands in northern Leeward, Branch and Hillsdale counties plus southern Calhoun, Jackson, and Washtenaw counties.

These areas have been added for liberalized action in a step to tone down their seriously growing rash of car-deer collisions. For southern Michigan as a whole, those accidents are up about 13 percent from last year.

Besides hoping for a higher harvest of antlerless deer in southern Michigan to help alleviate these problems, DNR game men see no reason for barring a sliver of bad weather—why the region's 1969 buck kill should not hit another high.

Emerald cagers set to open new season

It's basketball time again, and a young Manistique Emerald squad is getting for a new start on a new season.

They have a new coach, too—Norm Jahn has taken over the coaching reins from Rudi Brandstrom, now athletic director—and high hopes of breaking the 14-game losing streak that has dogged them since a year ago this month, when they posted their only win of the 1968-69 season by edging Rudyard, 46-45.

Jahn is quick to point out, however, that he is in a building year with a young ball club, with six seniors departed from last year's team. Missing are Marvin Miller, Bob Miles, Larry Davidson, Tony Ehill, Bill Leveille and Bill Robert. Beginning from last year's club are four seniors—Tom Jenero, 6'9"; Keith Aldrich, 6'2"; Albert Gauthier, 5'10" and Gary Webster, 5'9", plus junior Kenneth Nevega, 5'11".

From last year's reserve team will be four juniors and three sophomores. Juniors are Dave Mickelson and Alan Nelson, 5'10" and Dave Lehman, 6'1". Sophomores are Jerry Sample, 6'; Jerry Arnold, 6'1" and Bob Harrison, 5'9".

There's not much height there and Coach Jahn plans to make up for it with a running game. "They're in good shape right now," he said "and their attitude is good."

The only casualty thus far in the season is sophomore Jerry Sample, who has been slowed by an infected foot.

Islemping will provide the first test of the season Saturday night with the reserve game slated for 6:30 p.m. and the varsity contest at 8:15. The Hemlockites took the opener last season at Islemping by an 83-41 margin.

GM

Impala's hidden persuaders:

①350-cu.-in. engine
A new more powerful standard 250-hp V8 makes the 1970 Impala move with all the more assurance. On good ol' regular gas.

②Anti-theft column lock
A locking system is built right into the steering column. When you take your key with you, you lock not only your ignition but your steering wheel as well.

③Aluminized exhaust system
It simply means that your original muffler, tailpipe and exhaust are going to last longer than you'd probably expect them to. Fair enough?

④Side guard beams
They look like highway guard rails, and they're built into both sides of the car for extra protection in case of impact. Not too many cars have them.

⑤Full Coil suspension
Huge coil springs at all four wheels are four big reasons why a Chevrolet Impala rides smoother and quieter than a low-priced car has any right to.

⑥Inner fenders
Up inside every fender is another fender to protect against slush and mud and help keep your Impala looking young.

⑦Flush and dry
We build the car so that rain and wash water can run down through the inside of the rocker panel, then out. Air follows to do the drying.

Hot lunch cooking centralized

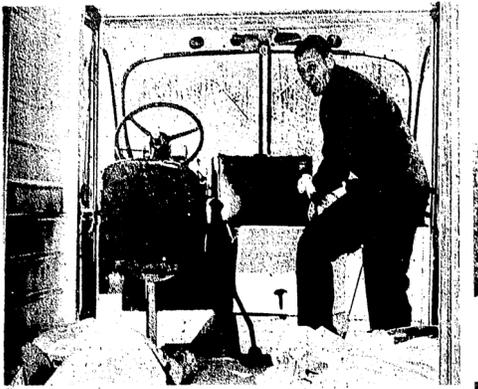

The busiest restaurant in Schoolcraft County? Would you believe the Manistique Area School's centralized cooking kitchen at the Fairview School, where more than 600 hot lunches are prepared daily for serving in the Hiawatha, Central, Doyle and Fairview schools?

Acquisition of new and modern institutional kitchen equipment this summer, with three-fourths of the $12,165.59 cost being borne by a special grant from the State Department of Education, has helped to put the program into high gear.

Directing the operation is Kay Atherton, hot lunch supervisor, assisted by Lillian Garvin and Betty Patz, cooks, and Pauline Brown—all working in the Fairview kitchen. Other hot lunch assistants work in the various schools, preparing the "cold" portion of the "hot" lunch. All of the cooking and baking is done at Fairview (except for the Germfask School, which operates its own kitchen) and the still-hot food is then trucked to the other schools in insulated containers on a split-second schedule.

The new equipment, purchased this summer after approval of the Board of Education, includes a 60 quart mixer, costing $1,326.50; a 4.2 cubic foot refrigerator, $1,193.60; a 72.1 cubic foot freezer, $1,961.60; a 66 gallon steam cooking kettle, $1,603.30; convection oven, $1,652.18; blender, $44.50; a commercial range, costing $434.91, an exhaust hood, $1,700, and a van for hauling the food, $2,547. There were installation costs of $200, and a $50 trade-in allowance, making the total cost $12,165.59.

Suggestion of young fan gets commissioner's ear

A young Manistique football fan has received recognition from Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle for a suggestion he made.

On Oct. 28, Terry DeMars, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rainey DeMars, 629 Oak St., wrote the commissioner for a suggestion he made.

"Dear Mr. Rozelle:

"My name is Terry DeMars. I am 11 years old and am a Lion fan. The only one in the Packard-Bakers, especially our teacher. But it really doesn't matter what team we're for but I think there should be something like the way the football teams state and pledge our flag.

"In school we are taught to respect our flag and I think that the football players should stand at attention like we do because we look up to them as heroes. Please tell the players we'll be watching how the teams stand while the pledge is said or when the Star Spangled Banner is sung.

"Regards,

"Terry DeMars"

"Rozelle's answer came last week. It said:

"Dear Terry:

"Your comments concerning the National Anthem are absolutely correct and we agree with them fully. In fact, just last week we sent a memorandum to our member clubs concerning proper conduct during the playing of the Star Spangled Banner. This week we are sending them a copy of your letter, so that they can have an understanding of the feeling that can be expressed by an eleven-year-old fan.

"By way of explanation, not excuse, we ask you to consider the fact that a player's concentration prior to a game is very deep and in many cases, depending on individual personalities, not conducive to solemnity.

"We really appreciate your interest in professional football, and understand your concern. I am sending you some books which I believe you might enjoy. Sincerely,

Pete Rozelle
Commissioner."

Terry is a sixth grade student at the Lakeside School.

Refuge open for hunting

Once again 85,200 acres of the Seney National Wildlife Refuge will be open to big game hunting during the Nov. 15-30 season. In general, all state regulations will be in effect except for several additional restrictions.

The restrictions, designed to maintain quality hunting, include the prohibition of snowmobiles and other similar types of transportation. Motorized bikes and snowmobiles are not permitted on the refuge. If you plan to hunt, leave these types of machines off the refuge.

Wilderness-type camping is permitted on a portion of the refuge lying west of the Driggs River from Nov. 13-30. A camp permit available at refuge headquarters is required.

Maps, hunting regulations and camp permits can be picked up or requested from the refuge office two miles north of Germfask or mail address of Seney, Michigan 49883. Local Department of Natural Resources field stations and Conservation Officers will also be able to supply information.

Local Births

Two boys and one girl are keeping the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital nursery a lively place this week.

Brad Steven was born Nov. 9 to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McPhee of Cooks and weighed in at 8 pounds one-half ounce. Mrs. McPhee is the former Donna Rice.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Reed of route 1 are the parents of a son, Dale Edward, born Nov. 10 weighing 7 pounds 14 ounces. Mrs. Reed is the former Gerald Lincoln.

Queen of the nursery is Brenda Lee Kokesch, born Nov. 10 to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kokesch, 226 Range St. She weighed 6 pounds 5 ounces. Mrs. Kokesch is the former Diana Chandler.

School panel talks issues

Put three tough questions to seven different school administrators from across the county—and you're apt to come up with a variety of answers.

Edwin E. Wuehle, superintendent of the Manistique Area Schools, is one of seven administrators selected to serve as a guest panelist for School Management magazine, and to write for their editorial feature, "Administrators Forum."

Superintendents serving with Wuehle on the panel are: Marvin Garlick, Lincolnwood, Ill.; R. Dean Horton, Columbus Grove, Ohio; George Iannaccone, Palisades Park, N.Y.; Robert F. Savitt, Plainville, N.J.; Keith H. Walling, Los Nietos, Calif.; and Kenneth F. Williams, Edgerton, Wis.

Typical problems are posed to the panel, and each offers his own solution. In the November issue of the magazine the questions involved handling a teacher who used her students in a school bond issue campaign; the complaint of parents who claimed an English teacher was recommending "obscene" books as supplemental literature to ninth graders; and what to do about drivers who demanded the right to kick troublemakers off buses.

New Mead mill will aid deer

Mead Corporation's new Escanaba pulp mill wood needs will have the greatest single industry impact upon deer hunting in the Upper Peninsula in the history of the sport.

On the eve of the annual hunt which starts in Michigan on Nov. 15 a forester of The Mead Corporation and a game biologist of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources sketched the meaning of Mead expansion plans at Escanaba in terms of influence upon the forest and upon wildlife.

Mead has announced that its pulping wood needs from Upper Peninsula forests - state, federal, private and industrial - will go from the present 35,000 cords a year to at least 365,000 cords with construction of the new kraft pulp mill at its Escanaba Paper Co. Publishing Papers Center. Construction start is planned next year.

"This great enlargement of the Upper Peninsula wood market will make possible widespread timber harvest that will greatly favor wildlife, say the commentators. (It will also bring large economic benefits, says Robert Schmeling, land manager of Mead's 370,000 acres of woodlands in the Upper Peninsula, since it will provide work for several hundred men.

"The best thing that could happen to our deer herd is to have an assured timber harvest," said Joseph Vogt of Escanaba, district game biologist of the Department of Natural Resources. "And whenever we manipulate the habitat to favor the deer, we also benefit the ruffed grouse, snowshoe hares, woodcock and black bears." The increased wood harvest will increase the number of trails and roads. They're not going to blacktop these access routes, but they'll open the forests to new usages without destroying their values.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Romeo Lawrence were their daughters and children, Mrs. Mary Krusic and Mrs. Joyce Burns, both of Manistique.

Mrs. Mabel Favely and children, and Gayle Newborn, all of Green Bay, visited the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Newborn.

Gerald Latsch, a student at Lake Superior College, Sault Ste. Marie, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Hubert Latsch.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Musselman and Glenda visited with Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Grassman and family in Newberry Sunday.

The Ladies Aid of the Grace Lutheran Church met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Warren Anderson at Seney with 14 attending. Plans were made to hold a fancy work and bake goods sale at the Germfask Laundromat on Dec. 6. A planned pot luck supper for members and their husbands will be held at the Seney Township Hall on Dec. 2.

"The new mill should be a great help in areas like the Escanaba River State Forest, where we can't sell enough timber to manage the forest fully and where our winter deer yard problems are the most critical in the district. We've been losing sizeable numbers of deer in areas like the Arnold and Northland deer yards because we can't get the timber cut."

"For the last several years we have used our own Department of Natural Resources men and equipment for limited cutting, but this is minimal and we are cutting specifically for the deer, mostly in off-site and non-commercial stands of aspen and red maple, which we just cut and leave.

"The Department feels that commercial logging operations are a much better way to supply food for deer than artificial feeding, with grain and other foods. The commercial cutting not only feeds wildlife immediately, but it opens the forest to regeneration of new stands that provide food within the reach of the deer.

Great Lakes Tim plans two meet

The first of a series of meetings with pulp and timber producers throughout the Upper Peninsula by Upper Great Lakes Timber, Inc., will be held in Newberry, at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 24 following the next evening by a second in Rapid River, at Jack's Restaurant, also at 7:30.

The Newberry meeting, in the Credit Union Building, is designed to accommodate producers from Luce, Mackinac, and Chippewa counties. It is anticipated that those east of Manistique will go to the Newberry meeting, those west of there attend the Rapid River meeting.

Two phases of producer information will be presented. One will be films showing new trends in mechanized woods operations in other parts of the country; the other to present and explain the new safety standards as set by the Department of Labor.

Peter Grievess, general manager, and William Henriksen, field manager, for Timber, Inc., will be in charge, assisted by a representative from the Labor Department. There will be an open forum following the presentation so all producers questions may be answered.

Efforts will be made to contact all full-time producers and as many others as are interested in the project.

Grievess and Henriksen have been making a series of studies in Canada and in Southern States, as well as attending symposiums on woods operations. They have taken pictures of new equipment under actual working conditions, which they believe adaptable to northern Michigan operations.

It is anticipated that by December, the two will be able to announce further scheduling of district meetings so that all producers in the region can attend these sessions without excessive travel.

This is only one phase of a program designed to help bring a greater awareness to the woods producers, both pulpwood and saw log operators, of the

The new 1969 Yearbook of Agriculture is out. It is entitled "Food for Us" and contains something of interest for everyone who is interested in food - the how, why, and where it comes from, also ways to prepare it.

There are chapters on almost everything - buying and cooking food, all about meat, nutrition, stretching the food dollar, what it takes to stay slim and even chapters on entertaining at home and organizing community meals. The book is available from the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20540, for $3.50. I'm anxious to get my copy and I'm sure I'll be using some of the information in my columns.

A good, very acceptable quality of dry whole milk has been developed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. We've had dry skim milk for quite a few years but not dry whole milk. The new milk is available to the dairy industry for commercial production. It may be a while before we can purchase it in our store but do watch for it. The process is a result of nearly 14 years of research and market tests conducted in Philadelphia. The price was four cents less per quart than fluid milk sold in the same market. It also sold from the grocery dairy case where refrigerator temperature is necessary. The consumer reaction was highly satisfactory and there were many repeat purchases.

We're hearing more and more about planning committees. When we were in Finland last summer we visited Tapola, just six miles from Helsinki. Everything is oriented around the heart or "center city" in a radiating plan. Schools, churches, shopping centers, and recreational facilities are located where they're getting maximum use and do maximum good.

The United States is building the new towns in 1960 and about a dozen are in various stages of progress. Now we'll have one near us that is similar to this but much smaller in size. In fact, it will be a resort community and will be located at Spring Green, Wis. The development will build more than 100 homes in the oak hills. The design of each house will be designed to meet the approval of architects of the Frank Lloyd Wright School of Architecture. When it is completed, it should be an interesting place to visit.

Refuge work aids wildlife

The past year Seney National Wildlife Refuge began an intensified program of forest-wildlife management. Approximately 400 acres of red, white and jack pine stands were cut in an effort to improve upland game habitat on the refuge. Game habitat is improved in a number of ways through forest management. Wildlife species have two major needs, food and cover, to maintain healthy population levels. Openings created by road building and skid trails increases the food supply. Sprouting and reproduction increases cover and puts an available food supply in reach of game animals such as the white-tailed deer.

Much of the forested acreage on Seney Refuge is large, over-mature trees. These types of stands do not provide good wildlife habitat, or a continuous variety of habitat necessary to meet wildlife's needs. Under intensified management a forest of young mature and old trees will be developed.

For example, white-tailed deer show a preference for regenerated areas during various stages of development. Following harvest, as new young trees are growing, the areas are used extensively for feeding. As the reproduction grows, deer, excellent cover for deer is provided. Conditions created by forest management not only provide excellent wildlife habitat; they improve hunter success and provide the general public a greater opportunity to observe wildlife.

The quiet drive takes over the town.

Manistique gets a new kind of quiet...in the quietest Ford Galaxie 500 yet.

Quiet is built in. Not just added on. The noise problem with any car is simply this: How do you attach a rigid body to a frame that has to vibrate?

On the vibrating frame, like an oversized tuning fork, there are certain points that re-

Longer wheelbase than competition. Longer wheelbase smooths the ride. Wider track in the rear for road holding. Getting in and out is easier: the door opening of our 2-door hardtop is 15 inches wider than our competitor's. And 9-inch longer wiper blades for visibility in the rain.

Bigger base V-8. Ford's new 351-cubic-inch V-8 is the biggest in its field, with scores of engineering advantages over competition. Two examples: Ford uses 16-mm. spark plugs instead of 14-mm. Galaxie uses 36,000 instead of 6,000 miles between major chassis lubrications. With our major competitor it's still a 6,000-mile or 6-month interval.

Quality you can see, feel, measure. Ford's "SI" Intellivoy can see, feel, measure. Ford's "SI" Intellivoy is designed for safety. Welded torso boxes reduce road shock. The rear bumper is attached to the rear end of the car. Our bumper is attached to the body, inside the story gets better. Galaxie's front door design gives the front seat passenger extra knee room. Back seat passengers get more leg and hip room. Our front seat cushions are 100% foam, our competitor's are 47% foam, 53% cotton. Our carpet is 100% loop pile nylon. There is 20% more padding in our seats. Buckle-Up! Lock Harness unclutchers seats, makes seat/shoulder belt fastening A-B-C simple. There's only one buckle for both belts. Why pay your present car's way through another northern winter? Official Proceedings OF THE MANISTIQUE CITY COUNCIL.

October 27, 1969

A regular meeting of the Manistique City Council was held on October 27, 1969, at 7:30 P.M. at City Hall. There were present: Councilmen Carlsson, Carlson, Cayla, Wedegartner, and City Manager Noe. Absent: Councilman Reque.

The minutes of the regular meeting of October 13, 1969, and special meeting of October 22, 1969, were approved as read.

Mr. Noe read two letters thanking the city for improvements made to the alley on South Cedar Street.

The Manager reported on the meeting with the Water Resources Commission and said that Frank Hololik of the local mill met with the Commission and pledged cooperation and agreed to sign a stipulation timetable. The City desires to comply but was hesitant because of the unknown costs and the possible need for enlarging our plant to treat wastes of the mill and the Indian Lake area. The Paper Mill and the Indian Lake area are conducting a study of waste treatment in conjunction with the study being made by McNamee, Porter & Sealey for the city.

Mr. Noe reported on progress of the Senior Citizens Building and the City Hall and said that both should be completed soon and suggested that a combined dedication ceremony be held for both buildings.

A discussion was held on condemnation of a building on North Third Street.

Moved by Councilman Carlson, supported by Councilman Cayla.

WHEREAS, the building located on the following described property: Lot 1 Blk 7, of Teeples Little Farms Add to City of Manistique, has been found to be a "dangerous building" within the meaning of Ordinance No. 126 of 1967, of the City of Manistique, Michigan, because of the following conditions:

(1) This building exclusive of its foundation shows fifty percent (50%) of damage or deterioration of the non-supporting enclosing or outside walls or covering, and since this building cannot be repaired so that it will no longer exist in violation of the terms of this ordinance, it shall be demolished. (Section 1 (b) (See Photo) listed.

(2) This building because of its condition is unsafe and dangerous to the health, safety, and general welfare of the people of this City.

(3) This building because of its neglected condition and the fact that it is open and accessible to children and vandals, and because of the high grass surrounding it, constitutes a distinct fire menace to the immediate neighborhood and its residents, and since such fire hazard exists in violation of the terms of this ordinance, and of the fire prevention code of the State of Michigan, it shall be demolished. (Section 1 (c))

(4) This building because of its condition and neglect, fire hazard and safety hazard to children and others constitutes a public nuisance to the neighborhood and to the City of Manistique.

(5) This building because of its condition and for certain other reasons stated above exists in violation of the fire prevention code of the State of Michigan.

WHEREAS, said property owner was duly notified, in writing, of the above conditions on October 1, 1969.

WHEREAS, said notice specified that the owner must repair the above conditions, or demolish or vacate said building (6) within twenty (20) days after the service of said notice, and property owner (6).

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, that the Council directs that said building be demolished within a period of thirty (30) days from and after the date of October 27, 1969, and that all structural materials be cleared from the property within the said thirty (30) days;

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that shall the owner (6) fail to comply with the demolition order within the time prescribed, the City Manager is directed to proceed with demolition of the building, and subsequently charge the costs of such demolition to the owner(s).

Yes: Councilmen Carlson, Cayla, DeMars, Wedegartner, No. None. Absent: Councilman Reque.

Mr. Noe said he had sent the following letter to adjoining townships regarding fire protection:

"The City of Manistique is currently extending fire protection service to your areas. This service is becoming increasingly more costly to this rise in cost, we are going to be unable to extend fire service to your area unless a yearly contract is entered into with the City of Manistique regarding this service.

The taxpayers of the City of Manistique can no longer support fire protection service to township residents at the expense of the city taxpayers. I divided the preliminary cost among the townships according to their assessed valuation. I am asking each of the townships to contribute the following as a yearly support contract to help maintain this service: Doyle, $385; Manistique, $500; Thompson, $590; Hiawatha, $1,400; Inwood, $800.

This will not eliminate the usual fees for the volunteer firemen for each call. If you wish further discussion on this matter, please feel free to contact me.

If I do not hear from you within thirty days, the City of Manistique will assume that you no longer wish this service and we will discontinue making calls in your area.

Sincerely yours, R/Robert L. Noe City Manager

The question of moving the monument near the siphon bridge was discussed and the manager was requested to contact the local veteran organizations to meet and discuss the matter.

Mr. Noe said he would contact State Highway officials for information concerning bonding for a major street improvement program. It would be possible to extend financing for ten years in order to re-surface and improve needed streets. Moved by Councilman Wedegartner, supported by Councilman Carlson, that meeting adjourn.

School Board

Continued from Page 1 Education" reporting on the recent visit to Iron Mountain-Kingsford by the board's Citizens Advisory Committee was played, and the board heard member William Mueller and others report on what had been done in those districts. A report on the visit was also a part of the written summary presented by Principal Mary-Fredrickson.

Appointment of interested persons to the Delta Schoolcraft Intermediate vocational study group included Denton Nelson, Robert Knobl and Ralph Gillingham from the board. Other volunteers interested in the study are being sought. Leon Wood, Robert Knobl and William Mueller were named as a board committee to study the revised budget and to make recommendations to the board at their next meeting.

By a 5-1 vote, with Robert Knobl dissenting, the board approved payment of sick leave time to Ronald Baldini and Stanley Arnold to help defray the cost of graduate study in vocational education.

The question of filling the vacancy of elementary supervisor was tabled to allow the job description to be modified. A request from teacher aides for a pay increase from $1.75 per hour to $2.50 was referred to the administration, along with gas and oil bills.

TB testing is complete

A "very successful" tuberculosis testing program for 9th grade students has been reported by health departments in the eastern Upper Peninsula.

Dr. Charles Russo, director of the Chippewa County Health Department, and Andrew Sabol, Jr., administrator of the Lapeere-Charlevoix-Alger-Schoolcraft Health Departments, said they were pleased that so many parents and students took an interest in the program as part of a special statewide project.

Schoolcraft County's participation was listed at 85 percent. Sabol said the statistics showed a small number of reactions to the testing. He explained that a national goal is to have no more than one per cent reaction for the age group in each community, and he added that it appears all five counties are within this range.

Results of the tests in each county will be tabulated and studied and sent to the Michigan Department of Public Health. The completed information will provide a comparative index of tuberculosis infection in each area and in the state.

A positive reaction to the tuberculin test does not mean that the student has or ever will have tuberculosis.

Stressed, "It simply the student has at risk and has tuberculosis in his body. A chest X-ray and skin test are necessary to determine damage has been done.

Treatment of persons who have had a positive reaction can help prevent the development of active tuberculosis. This has been called chemoprophylaxis and other close associates are also advised.

Local sources of gram were Lapeere-Schoolcraft and County Health Dept. The state sponsors the Michigan Dept. of Public Health, the Department of Education, the Michigan Tuberculosis Respiratory Division.

Education Week

NOVEMBER'S SECOND WEEK brings a host of observances to report, including World Fellowship Week, Youth Appreciation Week, Veteran's Day, the Marine Corps Birthday and Spiro Agnew's birthday.

It also brings us American Education Week Nov. 9-15 as "a time to focus public attention on the needs and achievements of America's schools."

In the traditional proclamation marking the occasion, President Nixon said: "I urge all Americans to join with me during this week in a thoughtful examination of our education system and in formulating ways in which education in America can be improved where needed by the traditional American way of reason and open discussion."

Theme of the observance this year is "Better Education—Your Job," which is somewhat appropriate in view of the fact that most Americans tend to involve and identify themselves more with school than any other local unit of government. This involvement comes because of their children's participation, of course, and by the fact that much of school financing is still a local affair.

We were reminded of the changes in education recently while visiting the Fairview School. The photographic assignment included the new centralized hot lunch cooking operation, where a small group of kitchen workers turn out meals for more than 600 kids daily, using new equipment and the concept of centralization—cook the food in one location and deliver it hot to the other schools.

Just before lunch we had a few moments and a chance to talk to John Stapleton, the energetic young guy who has taken over the job of directing the physical education program in the elementary schools. He was full of plans for the soccer playoffs and the flag football competition and other events that have become a part of the schedule.

When we ate lunch by chance we sat among the youngsters in Ruth England's special education classes, and could watch the extra care and attention that these children received during the meal time.

On our way back to town we mused over these innovations—the centralized hot lunch, elementary physical education, special education—and how things had changed since our days in school. This comparison obviously intrigues others, for we often hear critics of the school complain about the "frills" and services that they never had. Their conclusion, of course, is that they turned out well without such things, and that today's youngsters could do equally as well without such things.

Perhaps, you can always find examples of people succeeding despite obstacles and handicaps: of a millionaire who received his education in a one-room school; of a great scientist who never attended college. It's our contention, however, that you do not attempt to hold down the educational opportunities for everyone simply because you can find a few who will succeed despite everything.

Thirty years ago life—and education—was a little simpler. There was no television, no jet planes, no computers. Man had not gone into space and walked on the moon. There was no atomic bomb. Cars had running boards and "going like 60" meant 60 miles an hour and was designed to describe great speed. In 1939 there was no great urban crisis, no great debate on civil rights, no drug menace, no civil resistance to undeclared wars.

Schools must change with the times if they are to be effective and worthwhile. Some of the changes will not be for the good. We will have to lose some things while gaining others.

Better education certainly is our job if we want our children to find their way through the mazes of today's society. While we may differ as to the means, there should be no disagreement on the end.

A prize-winning weekly newspaper published every Thursday at Manistique, Michigan, at the Top O' Lake Michigan in the heart of Michigan's beautiful Upper Peninsula.

Because these columns are written in advance, by the time you read this I will either be putting the finishing touches on my packing for deer camp, or be well on the way up along County Road 437, where the deer and the ante-pe may not play but everybc else has a lot of fun.

Most hunting camps provide a representative cross-section of American hunters, but for some obscure reason Himself Hentschell's location on Thunder Lake has a disproportion of insurance agents on the roster. Whenever there's a lull in the activity the stone salesman and the editor find themselves witness to a fascinating show, as the three insurance peddlers try to sell policies to each other.

This is almost as much fun as watching the stone salesman, who modestly describes himself as "The World's Greatest Driver," park his car in the lot on the bluff above the cabin. He's gotten himself mired completely the last two years, which is a blessing considering that the immediate alternative was backing over the edge of the bluff into the lake.

There is a popular misconception that hunting camps are largely populated by ruffians and roughnecks who take great delight in scratching where they itch and uttering profanities and staying up late in the clutches of the demon rum. Mercy. Those who entertain this distorted view should present themselves at the singalong sessions that have become an institution at the Upper Inwood Mathematical and Theoretical Laboratory.

With background chords provided by the World's Greatest Five-Thumbed Ukelele Player, who just happens to be me, our voices are raised in sweet and sour mash harmony on such diverse selections as "In the Garden" to "Hurry on Down to My House, Honey."

Most music lovers are probably ignorant of the fact that Thunder Lake was the birthplace of that pioneer Northern Soul classic, "The Pine Stump Blues," which in 1966 was one of the 50 most-requested songs in Steuben and environs. This ignorance is very apparent to me because whenever I play and sing-it people always ask, "Where in the world did you learn a song like that?" In fact a lot of people ask me where I learned to play the ukelele like that, but they seem to believe me when I tell them I learnt it myself from a book that said "Learn to play in 5 minutes." You can do it too if you only want to play three chords. Really, if you know three, you can fake the rest, particularly if everyone is singing loud, which they usually are at hunting camp.

In preparation for the 1969 season I have been hard at work on a new composition, "Sweet Arbutus," which has a haunting melody faintly reminiscent of "Urk Terwolliger Glunik," the Patagonian national anthem, which in turn is almost a direct steal from "On Wisconsin" and the John D. Pierce Fight Song. I am having trouble right now trying to find a word to rhyme with arbutus, and the closest I've come is the phrase "refute us" which is sort of difficult to work into a ballad about the glories of nature. You can see I'm not one of these pop composers who relies on such prosaic words as moon and June.

(I have to keep busy rehearsing and composing in fear that I will be supplanted as the resident musical genius. I was in real trouble for a while last year when Carl Aaron, the Sugar Beet King from Freeland, stole the ukelele and led us through three choruses of "White Christmas" and the reprise from "The Whiffenpoof Song" before we discovered he didn't know any chords at all and was faking all the way. There were cynics there who claimed that it sounded better than usual when I play, so you can see why I'm concerned.)

If time permits me, and I meet the deadline and solve the problems of rhyming with arbutus (shoot us?) I am hopeful of composing still another musical sensation that would be appropriate to the occasion. Considering the ratio of insurance men to normal people, it should have something to do with underwriting. Let's see now...

"Let's have a toast to some men who are great,

Who work day and night for State Farm and Allstate; They make every sacrifice and take all the blame, And are happiest when they are settling a claim."

Kind of gets you right there, doesn't it? I am undecided as to use the "Prelude to the Third Act of Lohengrin" or "The Man on the Flying Trapeze" as the basis for the music, but I still have a week or so to work that detail out...

Let me hear that A seventh chord again, maestro.

NEW LIFE FOR OLDSCHOOLS

That was the theme of the conference at Notre Dame last week. Manistique Area has an old high school; it needs new life--so I went.

I discovered we weren't the only community that needs to breathe new life into an antiquated structure. San Francisco described a number of its high schools as having auditoriums with sloping floors, poorly ventilated balconies, and intolerable acoustics; with overly large corridors, limited areas for home economics, arts, crafts, and music, classrooms illuminated with outmoded incandescent lighting; with teacher preparation areas and designated student study space practically non-existent. It all sounded familiar!

San Francisco described the problem further -- "Toputnew teaching and learning procedures which simulate life into actual effect always comes down to 'the building won't get out of the way.'"

Say "school" to almost anyone, and you conjure up the mental picture of a rectangular room that encloses a teacher facing approximately 30 pupils. It is hard to think of many significant occasions when people group themselves in this way outside of education. In business or the professions, people work alone; or they talk things over with someone else; or they confer in groups of three or four up to a dozen or so; they join large audiences -- numbering hundreds, sometimes more--for exposition or demonstration.

Old walls should not stifle new ideas. Identical boxes must not enforce the same program on all students and all teachers; each is a unique individual. Fixed furnishings must not quash spontaneous inquiry. Dismal, spiritless, and uniform decoré must not blight a student's creativity.

We have eliminated walls in some elementary schools. The report at the conference was they're tumbling down like Jericho in a number of "old new" schools too -- in some places.

But our problem, as recognized by the Board of Education Advisory Committee, is improved junior high and high school buildings. So, we had better start thinking, planning, and acting, or that old "new" gym, as well as the rest of the building, will be worse than obsolete -- it'll be ancient.

HUMIDITY

The proper amount of indoor humidity may result in fewer colds for us here in the north. Most persons are comfortable with room temperatures between 68 and 72 degrees and humidity between 30 and 40 percent. When one of the members of your family has a respiratory infection, the moisture in the air may need to be doubled.

Cold steam is the breaking up of water into tiny droplets and sent out in the form of fine mist. The old croup kettle produces hot vapors which are dispersed into the air. An automatic humidifier can be put on your furnace, but beware of heating devices that do not have a moisture control.

rising sun gave it a touch of its red. The scene was just breathless. In the evening the sunset on Thunder Lake is glorious. Its beauty is just impossible to tell. As the day began to slip slowly into the night and the sun began to drop down through the rees, its reflection touched the clouds to light up the dying day. It looked like whips of fire, striking up behind the trees. Even the lake looked on fire as the sun kept dipping down to rest.

Also enjoying this blazing message of God's writing in the evening sky were Vern and Joanne, who were visiting the Boss' sister, Vera Hieronymus and husband Joe. They came up to spend the weekend at their cabin at Thunder Lake. Marie LaFave and Eleanora Daniels were the other spectators of this gorgeous sight.

Thus Indian summer, though a bit late in coming, was enjoyed. It sort of helped our summer retire in a graceful manner. Its short duration is always held as one of my fondest memories.

After we lose our summer and autumn beauty we prepare ourselves for winter's season. The woodchucks and bears are hibernating and the frog and turtles rest in mud 'neath frozen lakes or ponds. The squirrels and chipmunks begin to raid their hiding places of goodies stored away in the fall. My feathered friends start to call for their goodies. Then I know old man winter has taken over and you know that is the way it all is planned.

Sunday afternoon I accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lueck to attend the fiftieth anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. George Swagart of Cooks given by their children. It was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Swagart. All attending had an enjoyable afternoon. A surprise visit was included as Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Popour came in from Santa Barbara, Calif. They are on vacation and will be visiting friends and relatives.

Saturday brings in the opening of deer season so I may miss chatting with you as the Boss will keep me busy and no time to send out scoop.

Echoes of birthday wishes go out to Lucille Hoholik, Marilyn Prond, Kenneth Jones, Ralph Gauthier, William Wood and Ray Ramsden, Sr.

If only I had been born with the ability to reason and all the wisdom great decisions require.

Then I'd ask Daddy to teach me a prayer.

And I'd ask Mommy to read me a Bible story.

And if nobody offered to take me, I'd walk myself to Sunday School.

But, as things are, I've no more say about my destiny than a missile has. You grown-ups decide how high—or how low—my life shall be aimed! And when to launch me! And where!

And, from what I hear, some of us never get off the ground.

Please . . . SOMEBODY . . . plan my-orbit.
