County-City issues discussed

Where does the city end and the county begin?

The County Board of Supervisors had the question posed to them in several different ways at their regular meeting Tuesday night as they became involved in rural fire protection, ambulance costs and jail recreation efforts.

Manistique City Manager Robert Noe was present to explain to the county his request to five neighboring townships to either join in the cost of operating the fire department or to face loss of fire protection from the city.

County officials were involved because in 1962 they purchased a fire truck to be stored in the city and to be used to assist in providing rural fire protection. It was noted at the meeting that the truck cost $13,092.50 when purchased, and should have a present value of $6,982.69, after depreciation.

Board Chairman Lundiste Frenette said he thought the county should either sell the truck or dispose of it and get out of the fire truck business.

Inwood Township Supervisor Joel Carley said he felt the city owed the townships some fire protection because of the business done in town by rural residents.

Harold Peters, former Gormack supervisor and now County Tax Director, said it was his recollection that in 1962 a survey showed 95 per cent of the fire calls were in the city and 90 per cent of these calls were answered by the county truck.

Noe said these figures were incorrect and that he could furnish accurate data if required. He pointed out that last year there were 74 fire calls in both the city and rural areas, and if this number were divided into the cost of operating the department, the cost per call would be $540. Carley had objected to Inwood's assessment of $800 per year for participation, saying that if only two calls were answered the cost per call would be $400.

HOORAY FOR BARNEY!—Somewhere back there near the back row is the smiling face of neighborhood grocer Barney Johnson, who was given "his day" last week by student demonstrators from the Lakeside School.

Student demonstrators honor Barney about demonstrations? march of youngsters shouting and waving placards? in Manistique? right, here in Manistique, but this was so protest it was more like a Jewish, and the object of it all was Barney Johnson, who for 39 years has patiently waited youngsters with pennies clutched in their fists to make their way of candy.

and his wife Millie have operated Barney's Grocery for almost four decades, and the children have come on—but last Wednesday the tables were turned and Barney received some dividends on the time he has spent on youngsters in the past.

th grade students at the Lakeside School read about "Cit-zens in Action" in their weekly readers, and their discussions showed they felt Barney qualified in every way. They found out from Mrs. Johnson that his birthday was Nov. 16, and so on Nov. 12 the students gathered at the corner by the Zion Lutheran Church, a half block away, and with signs held high, began their march to the store.

Told that a neighbor lady wished to talk to him, Barney stepped outside the store to be greeted by the small mob of youthful supporters, who sang "Happy Birthday" and "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and presented him with gifts of a wallet and money and a man's jewelry case.

And Barney? He's seldom at a loss for words, but this time about the best he could do was a big grin—and free candy for the marchers.

Option given to city board

The Board of Supervisors cleared the way for an application by the City Recreation Department for money under the County Recreation bond issue by Tuesday night approving an option to the city on a parcel of land needed for the project.

The county will transfer the parcel, located between Cardinal Field and the cemetery, to the city, which will use it as part of their 20 per cent share in their Central Park development project.

Included in the project, which covers the entire Central Park area but for the time excludes development of the marina as a swimming area, are a multi-purpose sports field for baseball and football, a golf putting green, several "mini parks," playground, archery range, four lighted tennis courts with one court to be converted into an ice rink in the winter, scenic walks, handball courts, improvise ski slope and a suitable chemical toilet facilities.

The city's project is one of several that could qualify for the state money, which will be allocated on the basis of $3.83 per capita. A meeting Monday at the board house discussed several township projects and will, including a joint effort by Mueller and Doyle for improvements at the Doyle Township Park, and application from Manistique Township for improvement of the road going to the Manistique Township Park, and an unannounced project for Inwood Township.

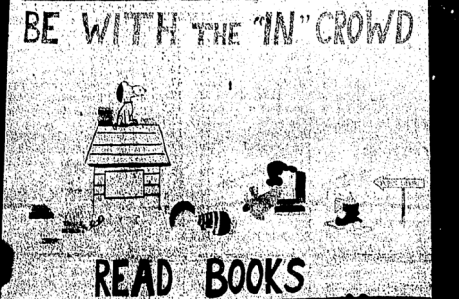

Applications for these projects must be filed by Dec. 4. The intent of the state money, approved by voters last November, is to provide a community recreation program to serve people in the community where they live.

Chamberpicks six directors

Six new directors have been elected by the Manistique Area Chamber of Commerce.

Announced as winners following tabulation of the ballots last Wednesday afternoon were Fred Johns, president of the First National Bank; Jim Ballas, owner of the Beachcomber Motel and Sunny Shores Restaurant; Dr. Larry Sell, M.D.; Glen Jenks, manager of the Edison Sault Electric Co.; John Pat Miller, assistant manager of the Peoples Store, and Bob Carlson of the Manistique Lumber and Coal Co.

They will take office Jan. 1. The Chamber is directed by a 15-member board.

WINNER—Susan Pirola, 4th grade student at St. Francis Sales School and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dino Pirola, 511 Main St., was the grand prize winner in the poster contest marking National Children's Book Week.

School's budget out of whack

Manistique Area School officials are faced now with the problem of what to do about an anticipated $46,272 deficit for the current year.

A budget that looked to be balanced last June 6, with $1,340,343 in revenues and expenditures, got seriously out of whack in recent months as the board and employees negotiated pay raises of about $20,000 and backslipping of major areas at Central and Lakeside schools took care of another $23,200.

Part of the uncertainties in trying to approve a final school budget lies in such pitfalls as pay increases yet to be negotiated, and the fact that exact state aid revenue is not known until membership day on the fourth Friday of September.

Thus the board of education now finds itself faced with the problem of eliminating $46,272 from the current budget to put things back in balance. A board committee composed of Robert Knopf, Leon Wood and William Mueller has been named to work on this problem, and school officials have been asked for ideas on where the cuts should be. Supl. Edwin Wuehle has asked all staff members for recommendations on the question.

When you're dealing with a business that approaches $1.5 million, $46,272 is not catastrophic—but trying to find general agreement on where to pare the budget of that amount to put it back in balance takes up as a major chore.

One dead, three wounded in area hunting accidents

Three accidents have taken the life of one Manistiquian and wounded three others.

John S. Tunell, 43, of 140 W. 2nd St., died at 6:30 p.m. in Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital from wounds received in an accident that afternoon.

Russell, 28, of 140 W. 2nd St., is in good condition in hospital after being hit Monday morning when he was accidentally discharged by a hunter, John Van der Vliet, 30, of Hudsonville, hospitalized after suffering a minor flesh wound Monday morning from a stray bullet by an unknown hunter.

Michael Moran, 16, of Mt. Morris, Mich., was wounded Tuesday at 4:45 p.m. when shot while hunting in Section 17 of Hiawatha Township.

Tunell was shot at 1:40 p.m. in Thompson Township, near Bursaw Creek, by Bruce A. Rivard, 21, of Westland.

The victim was not hunting, but was participating in a deer drive. He was mistaken for a deer as he emerged from a swamp, officers said, and hit on the right side by a 30-30 caliber bullet which passed through the shoulder, hit the lung and severed the spinal cord.

He was taken to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital by private auto.

Russell was wounded as he and his brother, Dale Russell, 21, of Pontiac, were loading their guns at 8:15 a.m. Monday, while hunting along the Mint Farm Road in Thompson Township.

Officers said they had just left their car when Dale closed the action on his rifle and it discharged. The bullet went through the car and hit Donald the upper left leg. He was taken to the hospital by private car.

Van Sprosen was hit as he sat on a deer stand along the Sop Line right of way in Section 7, Newton Township, Mackinac Co. A witness said that an unknown hunter shot at a deer that had come out on the right of way, and missed. The bullet continued on and hit Van Sprosen, creasing him in the side. The witness chased the shooter but was unable to catch him. The wound was self-treated.

Moran was hunting with Reno Palomo, 16, also of Mt. Morris, Palomo told officers he thought he saw deer horns and fired below them. The slug from the 16 gauge shotgun hit Moran in the right thigh and broke his leg.

He was taken to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital by private car.

The Big Bay de Noc PTO will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday (today) at the Garden Elementary School. Guest speaker will be Rev. E. Sisto of Nahma, who will show a film. Lunch will be served by the Garden committee.

Bay de Noc teachers go on strike Monday

A Monday morning walkout by 27 teachers of the Big Bay de Noc Education Association has closed schools in Garden, Cooks and Nahma for about 600 students in the consolidated district.

The teachers in the district have been working without a contract since the start of school. Mediation and fact finding efforts by the state have failed to produce settlement.

A notice delivered Saturday by certified mail to Carl Van Remortel, president of the board of education said: "If there is no agreement reached between the Education Association and Board of Education by Sunday, Nov. 16, 1969, at 11 a.m., the teachers will not be in school Monday, Nov. 17, 1969. The teachers will continue withholding their services until an agreement is reached."

Salaries are the key in the dispute. Base pay in the system last year was $4,000, and the school board has offered a $500 raise across the board, with the base going to $4,500.

Audio-visual aids topic for meeting

The Lakeside PTA will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday (today) at the Lakeside School. All parents are reminded that the membership drive is under way, at a cost of 75¢ per parent.

Emeralds lose opener, face Soo here Friday

The Soo Blue Devils will visit Manistique this Friday night, opening their 1969-70 basketball season and providing the Emeralds with the second conference test of the year.

Manistique's young squad dropped their opener here last Saturday night to Espenango, 79-69.

The Emeralds almost matched the Hemetites from the 23, field goals to 26, but the free throw line... wellness last season too... was another thing. Manistique hit only 14 of 30, while their opponents shot in 21 of 31. Manistique's percentage from the field was 23 of 45 for 47 per cent, while Espenango hit 26 of 34 for 48 per cent.

Taking a 21-11 lead during the first quarter, Espenango was in charge all the way.

Mike Bestock of the Hemetites led the scoring for the evening with 21, while Jim Neilson had 20 and Gerald Racine 14 for Espenango. Sophomore Jerry Sample was high for Manistique with 12, while Gary Webster had 11.

Crack down on poachers

The Department of Natural Resources is mounting a two-pronged effort this year to prevent the poaching of deer. The first prong is the enforcement of game law violations in Michigan.

"First of all," explains DNR Law Enforcement Chief John Angulin, "we are attempting to make sure that the hunters who are poaching are caught. There is mounting public sentiment for law and order in all spheres of activity, and we are seeing the same in the management of deer and other natural resources."

Angulin has been in law enforcement work long enough to know that the hunter's situation, but in the attitudes and conduct of individuals and their why he is calling upon each and every hunter to be a "straight shooter."

The DNR's law enforcement chief is a seafarer, too, and he recognizes that his appeal is going to fall on deaf ears among a minority of hard-core game cheaters.

That being the case, Angulin is also urging hunters who live up to game laws themselves to help his Department apprehend those who are poaching. Angulin notes:

"The majority of hunters are law-abiding and game violators and they should be, because this cheating is not only taking some of their opportunities for sport."

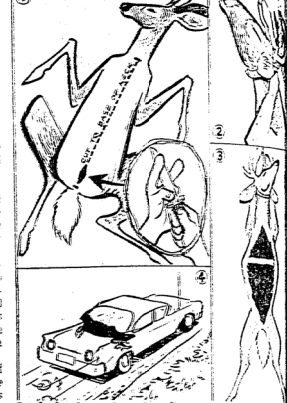

In recent years, aroused citizens in Michigan have helped the Department's law officers arrest several thousand game "crooks," and Angulin is keeping the good work this season.

"We need," he stresses, "a few officers, conservationists and rural residents who fields and woodlands are being plundered at night by poachers. We ask them to promptly report game law violations to the nearest police office, sheriff department, or state police post."

As the second part of its two-pronged defense against deer poaching, the DNR is offering every last available man into its law enforcement effort in northern Michigan night before and during the Nov. 15-30 fire-arm season. As a result, five field nearly 500 men from ranks of fire officers, park rangers, game and fish biologists, and other workers to be out to regular patrols of its northern conservation officer force.

Angulin points out that deer cheating at night is a "significant" problem, which keeps his Department's officers "on the go" from dusk to dawn during this time of the year. In 1968, conservation officers arrested over 800 people in October and November for nighttime violations of deer hunting laws.

Saving That Deer for Dinner

Good cleaning and rapid cooling are two musts in preparing a freshly-killed deer for the freezer. Let's suppose you're just bagged your first kill. What now? Assuming your deer is clean, you'll rifle back to "SAFE" and attach the validation tag to the animal. Cut open the entire body cavity, moving between the hind legs almost to the base of the neck. Insert the knife with the cutting edge UP and work away from the innards. Next, remove the innards, starting from the neck to the tail. Turn the deer belly and feet to drain. Afterwards, tie the fore legs between and/or beside the head (2) so it will be easier to protect it from sun, rain, and flies in warm weather. Check Points for Deer Studies

Successful hunters can help Michigan's deer and other such "hard" pesticides in details of various ages from different parts of the state. Studies of the samples taken this season will show whether deer accumulate pesticide residues as they age, and give DNR game men a starting point from which deer may be checked for pesticide levels in the future. The DNR's checking station is a "good stretch". Under a new phase of fact-finding, game men at these stations will collect fat tissues from about 200 deer for pesticide studies. DNR biologists do not suspect a problem of pesticides in Michigan deer, but they want to find out the Walsh, retired teachers, now living in Curtis, Mich. Dedication of the school was held Nov. 9 with Dr. Wayne Woodby, superintendent of schools in Centerline, Mich. as the guest speaker. A portrait of Mr. and Mrs. Walsh was presented to the school by Albert Warner, Michigan Boy Scout leader. The portrait was made by Mincott Photo Studio of Manistique.

Timber, Inc. now taking aim on forest economy of the U.P.

A concentrated effort, through cooperation between industry and government, has been launched to determine if effective steps can be taken to improve the forest economy of the Upper Peninsula.

There is general acceptance by operators themselves, by wood-using industry, land owners and the communities in forested areas that the margin of profit is too slim to encourage development and to bring desirable revenues to operator and community. This is evidenced by many public expressions of concern and by requests for governmental assistance.

The Upper Great Lakes Region Commission, formed to help with economic development projects within the three state area of northern sections of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, authorized a forestry study project recommended by a task force.

This was born Upper Great Lakes Timber, Inc., now in its second year and ready for practical studies and demonstrations after a year of trial and exploration.

Tomorrow is our bazaar, and we are so busy getting ready that I can hardly concentrate on anything else, so if I fail to mention other things you should forgive me.

Mr. Ham, the social security representative, will be here Friday also and we have arranged for him to see people in our kitchen. So they may have privacy and not be disturbed by the activities of the bazaar.

Our next movie date is Dec. 5 at the high school in room 103 at 7:30 in the evening.

Our center will be closed from Wednesday evening Nov. 26 until Monday Dec. 1. We are taking advantage of the holiday to give our kitchen floor another coat of paint and ample time to dry thoroughly before we use it again.

This is a last reminder if you have something to sell at our bazaar bring it in today or tomorrow. We will open our sale at 10 a.m. and close at 5 p.m.

Surf Sounds

Remember when it used to be over the river and through the woods to grandmother's house we go for Thanksgiving? Well, times have changed, of course, but that doesn't mean you can't make Thanksgiving a real family holiday, and give mother and grandmother a rest from their kitchen duties at the same time.

Here at the Surf we're planning a special holiday event that will feature your exclusive family table, with bright linen, gleaming silver and shining crystal, a perfect setting with our million dollar view of the woods, lake and shore.

We're taking reservations now for these family tables, and you can be sure we're planning now for a very special meal as well.

You'll have your choice of turkey and roast beef, cut to your order in the dining room. And there's more--after all, this is Thanksgiving! Hot gravy, vegetables, dressing, mashed potatoes, and of course, the famed Surf salad bar, where you can browse and choose and sample to your heart's content. For dessert, there's pumpkin pie, of course.

Sound good? We think so, too. Something special for a special family day.

Dinner for adults will only be $2.50 and of course there are special children's prices. So instead of over the river and through the woods, why not plan to go along the highway and past the store to the Surf? It's not grandmother's house, but it's the next thing to it. Give us a call and reserve your family table now.

Timber, Inc., is funded through Economic Development Administration and under contract to the state department of commerce, authority for the program in the state of Michigan. Its findings, however, will be available to all sections within the commission, so all work in the Upper Peninsula has triple significance.

The board of directors is chosen from timber producers, industry administrators, and agency personnel. The president is Frank Hololik, president and executive officer of Manistique Pulp and Paper Company.

At its recent general session, the board accepted the annual report submitted by Peter Grievens and Willie Henriksen, manager and field manager, respectively.

The big problem is one of management, one of being able to bring greater production into being and at the same time make actual operating economies, so there would be a double value to such operations.

Grievens and Henriksen have traveled to southern states and into Canada, observing new mechanical equipment under actual operating conditions. They have taken pictures of these machines and have attended symposiums on woods development.

One of the immediate results is a series of meetings within Upper Peninsula districts, so that producers from one district area will have a minimum of travel to attend. These sessions will demonstrate how economies are being affected in other areas and how the per unit cost of production has been sharply cut by one-man machine operation and a striking increase in cordage produced.

Closely allied with this safety in operation and a new code has been developed and put into effect. This was the work of Timber, Inc., representatives last year, assisted by agency and department of labor people with the result that a code has been devised aimed at substantial reduction in woods injuries. This is the great value, but another result would be a corresponding decrease in workers' compensation rates, which are so high now that Michigan produced wood products are placed at a competitive disadvantage. Department of Labor representatives will participate in the safety section of the district meetings.

Upper Great Lakes Timber invites the full involvement of all interested parties to seek solutions to the many problems that beset the industry.

One of the projects now being set up is to get the cooperation of 12 producers to use new machinery and techniques on a trial bases. Grievens and Henriksen report considerable progress and anticipate being able to make an objective demonstration within a relatively short time.

What they plan is to lease a harvesting machine that should produce 18 to 24 cords a day for a one-man operation, as against the 4 to 6 cords power saw operator can produce today. It takes about 15 cords with the harvester to break even on all costs, including labor and insurance, and anything beyond that is additional gross profit for the operator. It is being used with success in Canada and both Grievens and Henriksen are convinced the harvester can be adapted to Upper Peninsula woods conditions.

CONFERENCE--Principals and counselors from high schools throughout Michigan gathered at Northern Michigan University last Friday to meet with former students and evaluate their progress. Freshmen Laura Lockwood and Sheryl Kaerwa, left, confer with Mr. Lee Pappas, MHS counselor and Principal Marvin Frederickson.

Lydia Strom dead at 82

Complete funeral services were held at the Messier-Brouillette Funeral home at 2 p.m. Monday for Miss Lydia Louise Strom, 82, who died Nov. 14 at the Marinette General Hospital, Marinette, Wis., where she had been a patient for three days. Rev. Eugene Levin, pastor of the Zion Lutheran Church, officiated at the services. Interment was in the Fairview cemetery.

Born March 3, 1887 in Thompson, Miss Strom came to Manistique from Thompson in 1923 and had been employed as a secretary by the U.S. Johnson law office for several years. She had also been employed as a secretary by the Schoolcraft County Probate Court.

A member of the Zion Lutheran Church in Manistique, Miss Strom had served as the supervisor and Sunday School teacher at the church, as well as secretary to the church-congregation for many years. She had made her home at the Lathier Home in Marinette since July 31, 1967.

Surviving is one sister-in-law, Mrs. Matt (Signe) Strom of Manistique.

CITED—Selected as "Patron of the Month" for the Manistique School and Public Library was Mrs. Erroll Abell. An avid reader, Mrs. Abell visits the library a minimum of three times a week and has a variety of interests and tastes in reading. She enjoys discussing the publications and offers her opinions and recommendations for other patrons.

CAA honors are reported

Honors received by Fred H. Hahn, president of the First National Bank and board chairman of the Delta-Menominee-Schoolcraft Community Action Agency, were reported in the October issue of the Michigan Economic Opportunity Office "Newsletter."

In July Hahn was presented a plaque by Escanaba Mayor Cecil Chase citing him for his leadership of the CAA since it was organized in 1965. He also received a commendation in a letter from Robert Perrin, acting deputy director of the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington.

The "Newsletter" story said, "Hahn is deeply committed to the self-help philosophy. He is interested in seeing communities put themselves up and do some work on their own. This without doubt is reflected in the Community Action Program which for its size has supervised, or at times been catalyst, for an unusual number of self-help projects."

Opinions are sought for TV "Town Meeting"

The democratic process is at work in the Upper Peninsula in a traditional, yet new and different way. The mechanics for this unusual process is the Town Meeting of the Air, now well under way.

Local Town Meeting committees in 14 Upper Peninsula counties have been conducting opinion surveys among their citizens during the past month. These grass-roots expressions of the people's opinions are now being forwarded to the central U.P. Town Meeting Committee in Marquette. The central committee will consolidate reports from all the counties, thus determining the most pressing needs and concerns of the whole region.

After the central Town Meeting Committee has done its work, the results of the survey comments by specially qualified persons on the problems identified during the first portion of the telecast, "non-commercial" at the advantages of the Upper Peninsula, and special messages from top state and national governmental officials.

Working mothers coverage is cited

Ervin Simi of the Soil Conservation Service appeared before the board to explain comprehensive health planning for the Upper Peninsula. Labuhn is secretary of the U.P. Health Planning Association, and asked for a resolution to recognize that organization to implement Federal laws and receive Health Service funds. No county financial aid would be required. The U.P. grant is for $131,850 for a two-year period. The question was tabled until the next meeting.

Ervin Simi of the Soil Conservation Service appeared before the board to explain Resource Conservation and Development Projects covering forestry, agriculture and recreation. Again, no local finances would be involved, except that the county would act as a co-sponsor. Chairman Frenette said he would designate a county representative to sign applications for the projects.

Enforcement of the plat came up again with a letter from Adeline H. Foye on the problem of residents who have built on private roads in a subdivision on the west side of Indian Lake. The letter was referred to the present meeting.

The board also passed resolutions asking for inclusion of the county in allocation of funds under Senate Bill 428, and opposing the proposed 16 mill statewide property tax levy for school aid and asking for retention of the present 15 mill limitation.

Naming of a trustee for Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital, and approval of a contract with the airport manager were postponed until the next meeting.

Noe also commented that if the county sold the truck, the city would bid on it. In any case another pickup unit would be purchased by the city. The cost of protection to the townships might be tripled because of this extra cost. He also told Frenette that if the county wanted to eliminate the city and eight years of use out of the county truck, he could submit a bill to the county for eight years of storage.

The question was eventually resolved, at least temporarily by having fire protection placed on the agenda for the meeting of the township officers Dec. 6, called by Carley. Noe will be invited to attend.

The discussion on ambulance service came when the board was presented with a bill for highway accident pick-up/drop-off back to 1968, totaling $89,497. Prosecutor Galtiff Johnson told the board the county was legally responsible for these cases if the city were unable to collect them. The question was referred to the finance committee.

County-city cooperation hit a happier note later, however, when the county agreed to give the Recreation Center (see page 5) out of San Jose, Calif., and several nieces and nephews.

Rousseau rites held

Fr. Arnold Grambow officiated at the 10 a.m. complete funeral services held Wednesday at the Messier-Brouillette Funeral Home for Orville N. Rousseau, 61, of 212 Pearl St. who died at 5:30 p.m. Saturday at his home. Mr. Rousseau had been in failing health for several years. Burial was in Fairview cemetery.

Born Aug. 7, 1908, in Garden Township, he had been a resident of Manistique since his childhood and attended the Manistique public schools. He and the former Ada Hooper were married in Manistique on March 8, 1941. Mr. Rousseau was employed in the mechanical department at Inland Lined Stone Co., having worked there from Aug. 7, 1933 until his retirement on June 1, 1968. He served in World War II with the 98th Signal Service in the European theater.

A member of St. Francis de Sales Church, he was also a member of the Manistique Elks club, No. 632 and VFW Post 4420.

Surviving are his wife Ada of Manistique; two sisters, Mrs. Bernice Archambault of San Jose, Calif.; Mrs. Dak (Denise) Out of San Jose, Calif.; and several nieces and nephews.

EDUCATIONAL REFORM is getting a lot of headlines these days since Gov. Milliken presented his program to the fall session of the Legislature.

Nobody, least of all the Governor, expects that the proposals will be whisked through intact. A lot of hauling and pulling is currently underway, and the finished product, if and when it ever emerges from the legislative halls, is apt to bear little resemblance to the original plan.

There are cries of anguish over almost every portion of the reform proposal. Politicians hate to see the State Board of Education removed from politics. County officials are disturbed over the 16 mill limitation that might box them in on operating funds. Anti-parochial forces are up in arms about the section dealing with aid to non-public schools, and parochial advocates claim it doesn't go far enough.

We don't intend to go into all of the arguments surrounding the proposals at this time. There's simply not enough space in a small weekly newspaper, for one good reason.

However Denton Nelson, president of the Manistique Area Schools Board of Education, went right to the heart of the matter last week when he commented he failed to find anything in any of the bills about the problems of negotiations and payroll.

As far as local school districts are concerned, these are the areas where the big headaches have been.

And as Nelson pointed out, there will be little benefit to education if more money is poured into local districts simply to be eaten up by spiraling wage increases to teachers, administrators and auxiliary employees.

Before the teachers, administrators and auxiliary employees get their hackles up, we should qualify the comments with the remark that for the most part they are entitled to fair compensation in comparison to similar jobs with similar training and responsibilities. This is not the point.

The point is that local districts have been caught between the increasingly high costs of payroll and the increasingly high resistance on the part of the local property taxpayer. With 80 per cent of a district's budget going to payroll, there is precious little left over for educational progress, development and innovation.

If state financial aid to local districts is increased, there is the danger that continued pressure for employee pay raises will eat up that increase before it can start to solve some of the other problems facing districts everywhere.

It has been suggested that if there is to be state-wide financing of our schools, then there should be statewide bargaining for the teachers. Another suggestion has been for regional bargaining, such as just for the Upper Peninsula. This would mean that schools could avoid the unrealistic situation of a teacher in a rural situation receiving pay equal to that of a teacher in a hard-core ghetto area. Obviously, the jobs and responsibilities and environment are different.

Gov. Milliken's proposals have served to focus statewide attention on the problems and needs of our schools. There is much in them to be commended and endorsed. But more work needs to be done in the area of teacher pay and negotiations, or much of the work will have been wasted.

Return of the Prodigal

As it happens inevitably but unfortunately only occasionally, the week's biggest news story happened too late last Wednesday to be included in that issue of the Pioneer-Tribune.

And in all objectivity, I suppose it scarcely warranted our running out to the back shop shouting "Stop the Presses!" ---something I have always secretly dreamed of doing---but to the Rood family and to all those kind people who suffered through the 10 days with us, it was the big news indeed.

Sam was found. Dirty, matted, dead tired and a bundle of bones, tangled in the brush by his chain, but alive and in good spirits, and glad to be home.

Sam, of course, is our dog, an eight-year member of our family circle, a mutt and a mongrel whose chief achievements are chasing sticks, barking at the mailman, and tracking up the kitchen floor. In short, the perfect family pet.

Regular readers of this column know of Sam, for I have reported on him and his experiences from time to time. Others have met him as we tramped through the woods or did wind sprints on the beach. The mailmen know him well from his vigorous defense of the mail slot by the front door. The Bob Thorell family knows him almost as well as we do, for they were close neighbors when we first brought him home, and have served as dog sitters faithfully during the many times we've had to leave town.

He was at their home on Oak St. Monday morning, Nov. 3, when the urge for a dawn stroll became so powerful that he broke the rope and took off, collar, chain and all, for parts unknown.

This was nothing new, for such urges had come upon him at other times and other places, but this time he was not to be found with the usual day or so of searching. Thus began the Great Search.

The Roods went out looking. The Thorells went out looking. We asked school children at Lakeside and Lincoln to go out looking. The mailmen looked. The paper boys looked. There were ads on the radio, in the daily paper, the shopping guide and the Pioneer-Tribune. Our friends looked.

No Sam.

There were a lot of leads. People had seen a stray dog over on Garden Ave. Two girls saw a dog on a rope at Harvey's Grocery. Emma Wilson and Mary Lloyd Parsley retrieved a bewildered springer spaniel on S. Cedar St. Ed and Billie Doyle saw a dog dragging a chain on M-94 by the pipeline. The Tuffnells on Fourth St. had found a dog. A puppy was found by the Thomas family out by Swanson's Grocery. Denton Nelson took in a stray at his gas station.

For 10 days we cruised the streets, checked the back lots, went looking on the beaches and in the woods, followed every lead, listened to every sound of barking.

No Sam.

Until last Wednesday, just after 3, when Jackie Loquist from the Colonial Motel called the office and said, "I think we've got your dog." Her son Don had found this sad sack in the woods behind the motel and brought him home---and the description matched.

After 10 days I wasn't too optimistic, but I didn't waste any time in getting out there. And when he came skittering through the kitchen door and jumped up and licked my nose, well I tell you it got a little emotional there for a minute. It got a little emotional down at the Tribune office when I brought him back. Dorothy Anne cried. Kathy came in from school and cried. Vicky the office girl cried.

I know. It's a bunch of foolishness to get that worked up over a runty little mongrel whose cash market value is probably minus ten dollars. I agree. But I couldn't have been happier to indulge in a little bit of foolishness when we found him.

If you love animals, you'll understand. If you don't, then you've wasted your time reading all this. There are probably 100 million dogs in the United States today, and even if Sam ranks at the bottom in value to others, he heads the list in value to us. He accepts us completely as we are, warts and all, with no reservations. His trust is complete, his devotion immeasurable. There's not too much of that sort of thing in the world today.

ODDS AND ENDS

Those of you who read this column regularly know that "odds and ends" come from a variety of sources. They are "lifts" from the writing of others and quotes from speeches. Sometimes, as in the case with "bloopers," they are the unconscious slips of people as they go about the serious business of doing their jobs or solving problems.

Shades of the Past
My dad used to tell me, "When you're in charge, take charge," and my German groszvatler "Kein antwort ist ein antwort" (no answer is an answer), and my other grandfather "If a man fools you once, shame on him. If he fools you twice, shame on both of you. And if he fools you three times, you're a complete idiot and there is no hope."

Social Problems
In the important things, we're always playing catch up.

We spend too much time convincing ourselves of what we are already convinced.

Everybody wants progress, but nobody wants change.

Solving Social Problems
Wonderful things happen when you get the right "people mix."

Most people will give someone else the problem. A scant few come in with the problem and the solution.

Paul Miller, Superintendent of Cincinnati schools, says, "Don't bring me a problem unless you're willing to go to work on it."

Those who have the knowledge don't have the power and those who have the power don't have the knowledge.

Education
Why is it we encourage students to think for themselves and then become so rattled when they do it?

Life and Living
Life so people will want your autograph, not your fingerprints.

Bloopers
I didn't hear nothin' prone nor con.

We have to put in extra lights for the people who are hard of seein'.

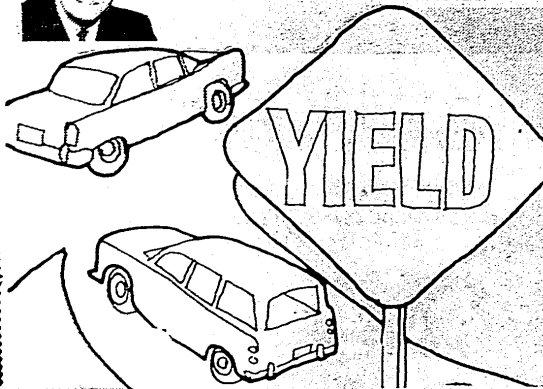

Let's quit arguing and not to and fro -- back and forth so much.

Children
And Marty, who completed kindergarten last year, indicates with all sincerity, that when he wants to demonstrate, he will "show and tell it."

for woods meeting Tuesday

Between 30 and 40 woods producers and other interested persons are expected to attend a meeting in Jack's Restaurant at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday to hear and see evidence of new methods of higher production and lower cost.

One of the problems plaguing the woods operators in the Upper Peninsula has been the question of how to get better results, and a more comfortable margin of profit from woods operations.

Timber, Inc., a project fostered by the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission, is trying to do something about it. They have sent men into other areas of the country and into Canada. They have come back after field trips and studies, with some ideas on how to tackle the problem. In charge of the meeting will be Peter Grieves and Bill Henriksen, of Timber, Inc.

In addition to this portion of the meeting Nov. 25, a representative of the state department of labor will explain the new safety standards for woods operations. This code is the result of joint studies by the department and representatives of the industry. It is designed to cut down injuries, of course, but one of the major economic results would be a decrease in workmen's compensation, which is the highest level for any industry in the Upper Peninsula.

The meeting here will be the second in a series planned for the Upper Peninsula, so that woods operators within limited district boundaries will be able to attend without too much travel involved.

Refreshments will be served

The Manistique School and Public Library has received a copy of the book "A White Pine Empire," by John Emmett Nelligan, as a memorial to the late Fred Bryant.

Presented by his great-grandchildren, the book is a autobiographical account of the logging days and Nelligan's years in the timber country.

Mr. Bryant, who died June 6, 1969, worked in the lumber camps in the Gernfask-Seney area, Drummond Island, Newberry, and around Hunt's Spur and Trenary. He was a book-

HERWINDOW

The Bennetts live here. That's Grandmother Bennett's Bible on the window sill, and the whole family goes to the church across the snow covered field.

John Bennett works in the local bank. Martha, his wife, is president of the P.T.A. and they have three lovely children. Grandmother Bennett has been living with them for the past couple of years, since she broke her hip. She can't always get to church in wintertime and that's why she calls this her window. When she can't be in church, it helps to be able to see it.

To her, the church steeple represents a great many things, and brings back many memories. Her son was married in that church. Her husband was buried from it. Her grandchildren were christened in it.

The Church has helped her to bear grief, in hours of sorrow; and it has seemed to put a benediction upon her happiness, in times of joy. Most important of all, whatever the occasion, whatever the crisis . . . the Church has always been there.

To Grandmother Bennett, the most comforting thing in the world is knowing that it always will be there.

Marriage course on marriage

A course in marriage enrichment will probably be offered through the Manistique Community Schools with the cooperation of the Manistique Ministerial Association.

Dr. Urban Steinmetz of Escanaba, director of the U.P. Family Life Bureau, outlined tentative plans for such a course at the November meeting of the Community School Advisory

TOPS queen title to Nancy Zellner

Nancy Zellner was chosen queen for the month of October by the TOPS club in honor of her 7 1/2 pound loss. Queen for the week was Elizabeth Cook with a 2 1/2 pound loss.

At the Wednesday evening meeting Elizabeth Cook was awarded her 10 pound charm and Kayleen Young received her 20 pound charm. Each member was asked to make a poster using weight loss as the theme.

A report was given on the Christmas party to be held Dec. 10 at the Fireside Inn. A series of exercises were undertaken by the group.

DO YOU SHOP FOR USED CLOTHING? If you do, we have some information that may help you to be more satisfied with what you purchase. It's a one page bulletin called "Shopping for Rewearables," written by our Extension clothing specialist, Bernetta Kahabka.

Fit is very important in anything you purchase, whether it's new or second hand. The bulletin gives information on what to measure and how to mark mea-member of the family. It's a handy reference too, when you shop for new or used clothing. I can see using one myself when I do my Christmas shopping. Then I'll be more sure of having the right size for each person and thus avoid disappointments.

HOME-CLEANING PRODUCTS? The number and kinds are almost limitless and new names are appearing on the grocer's shelves.

Each is helpful in its own way but you do need to read directions for its use and follow the directions carefully. They're dangerous only when misused and most will read "Keep Out of Reach of Children." Where do you keep yours? Under the sink is one of the poorest places to store household cleaners. You may not have young children of your own but little friends may visit you - or you may have grandchildren. Keep their safety in mind when you store cleaning supplies.

ARE YOU A KNITTER? I learned something today that may help you if you aren't already doing it. When making a garment with a hem that turns under, knit the underneath part on smaller needles. This will keep the hem straighter and prevents bubbling.
