McDonough named new Chief of Police

Joseph McDonough, 43, of 620 Garden Ave., will be Manistique's new Director of Public Safety effective Jan. 1. His appointment to that post by City Manager Robert Noe received the blessing of City Council at their regular meeting Monday night.

McDonough, an officer with the local department since July 14, 1961, will succeed Roy Anderson, 64, of 516 Delta Ave., whose retirement was announced by Noe at the meeting.

Anderson joined the force in July, 1936. He had worked for the U.S. Forest Service prior to that time, and is a three-year Navy veteran, receiving his discharge in September, 1942. He was promoted to chief in the fall of 1956.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are the parents of one daughter, Mrs. C. Robert (Helen) Salisbury, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Before joining the Public Safety department, McDonough worked for the Pioneer Steamship Co., Holland's Dairy and the Manistique Locker Plant. From 1941-47 he was a special policeman in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. McDonough have four children: Mrs. Dennis Torrance, of Antigo, Wis.; Ronald, of Shawano, Wis.; James, a teacher in the Big Bay de Noc school system, and Dan, a sportsman at Manistique High School.

Manistique Area Schools snow policy reviewed

A reminder to students and parents of the snow and school policy of the Manistique Area Schools has been issued. When it appears that school might have to close because of weather conditions, an attempt is made to make a decision as early as possible. School officials check with the State Police, the county garage, bus drivers, and others in the area who have reliable information.

As soon as the decision is made, WTIC radio in Manistique and WNNB radio in Newberry are notified. Students and parents are urged to listen to these stations, and to please not call the stations or school officials. Their phones are very busy, and calls to them might tie up lines necessary for calls regarding the weather.

Generally, the stations are asked to only announce when the schools are to be closed. If there is an announcement about the Manistique Area Schools, it can be assumed there will be a school. Only in exceptional cases will the radio stations announce that schools are open.

If it should become necessary to close schools before the regular dismissal time in the afternoon, the radio stations will again be notified. Students within walking distance will be dismissed immediately. Bus students will be dismissed as soon as the buses are available to take them home.

Armory start next year assured by Rep. Varnum

State Representative Charles H. Varnum of Manistique says that construction of a new armory for Manistique has been assured. He said the Department of Defense has notified him that federal funds will be released, guaranteeing the project. "If all goes well," Varnum said, "construction could be underway on the new Manistique armory, as well as the new Gladstone armory, this summer. Both projects have been in the talking and planning stages for years, and now it looks as if we're finally going to get action."

Varnum added that state funds for the Manistique building will be made available soon, probably through a supplemental appropriation. He said this would most likely occur shortly after the first of the year since the present session is devoted almost exclusively to education matters.

Michigan National Guard officials informed Varnum that present estimates of the total cost of the Manistique armory are about $365,000. Approximately $216,000 of this would come from federal funds. Cost of the Gladstone armory, which will house a slightly larger National Guard unit, will be closer to $400,000 by current estimates. Reporting on progress on the Gladstone building, Varnum said a meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 25 to go over final preliminary drawings. The building architect, state building division officials and National Guard representatives will participate in the meeting. "Everything looks very optimistic at present," Varnum said. "I'm encouraged about the chances to have a spring groundbreaking for both of our new armories."

Fire levels rural home

Fire that started from a faulty space heater leveled the Lindsey Frenette home on Townline Road in Doyle Township Friday afternoon.

No one was at home when the fire broke out late Friday morning. Mr. Frenette, chairman of the Schoolcraft County Board of Supervisors, was driving MIS band members to a concert in Ann Arbor; Mrs. Frenette was visiting her married daughter in Lansing, and the children were all at school.

The alarm was sounded at 11:05 a.m. by rural mail carrier Ancel Barrell of Gulliver, who noticed smoke seeping from under doors, eaves and second story windows of the eight-room frame house.

Manistique Public Safety firemen responded to the alarm, and were assisted at the scene by trucks and volunteers from the Manistique Township and Mueller Township fire departments.

The 500-gallon Manistique Public Safety pumper was emptied of water after about 35 minutes when it seemed the fire was being curbed, but a 15-minute delay as firemen tried to transfer 400 gallons of water from the Manistique Township pumper to the city truck gave the fire opportunity to rage beyond control.

The Mueller truck stayed on the scene until about 5 p.m., and the Manistique city truck was called out again at 12:35 a.m., Saturday when wood stored in the basement of the home flared up with a strong south wind and had to be extinguished.

The Frenettes and their five children have a four temporary lodging, and several benefits have been held already to assist them with clothes and cash.

Public Safety firemen answered the alarm Monday at 10:40 a.m. to the Joseph A. White home at 314 Wolf St., where an oil stove overheated. There was some smoke damage.

Emeralds halt losing string

There may be brighter days ahead for Manistique basketball fans.

The Emeralds broke a year-long 15-game losing streak last Friday night as they out-bustled a visiting Soo Blue Devil quintet and posted a 58-38 Great Lakes Conference victory.

Manistique's last victory was a year ago, in the third game of the season, when they nipped Rudyard 46-45 for their only win of the year.

Friday's contest was a thriller all the way. The Emeralds broke into an 11-8 margin during the opening period, but saw it pared to 19-17 at halftime. They led 41-27 after three quarters, saw this melt to a two-point margin, then put on a late scoring spurge aided by the Soo's lanky Rudy Maleport's fouling out with three minutes left to play.

Neither team was sharp in their shooting. Manistique hit 25 of 62 shots from the floor for 40 per cent, while the Soo hit 18 of 51 attempts for 35 per cent.

Once again the Emeralds were erratic at the free throw line, hitting only eight of 19, while the Soo hit 12 of 26.

Catch Norm Jahn got some solid scoring from Dave Mickelson with 20 points and Gary Webber with 18 points, while Mickelson also landed in 16 rebounds. Dennis Brooks, a former Manistique resident, led the Blue Devils with 14 points, while Maleport got 13.

Manistique is now idle until Friday, Dec. 5, when they travel to Escanaba for a non-conference tussle with tough Holy Name.

In the preliminary contest the Jayvees defeated their Soo visitors by a 48-25 margin. The varsity box score:

Surf Sounds

Summer is a busy time, of course, with all of our tourists and visitors, and autumn sets a pretty fast pace with bird hunters, coho fishermen and deer hunters visiting us, but right now, with Thanksgiving close at hand, seems to mark just about the busiest time of year for a lot of us.

It's the start of a five-week period between now and New Year's when there just doesn't seem to be enough hours in the day for all the things you want to do.

One of the things we hope you want to do is to make this a very special Thanksgiving Day Thursday, and come out and enjoy Thanksgiving dinner with us. We're laid out about our plans for providing a special and exclusive family table, with white linen, crystal and silver, and we shouldn't have to remind you of the good eating we're planning as well with turkey or roast beef, plus the famous Surf salad bar, hot gravy, mashed potatoes, vegetables, dressing, and pumpkin pie for dessert. And it's only $2.50 for adults, and there are special children's prices.

Another thing to help you during this busy time—if you're in charge of a Christmas party for your circle or office or club, you can just stop worrying. Give us a call at 341-5115, tell us how many there are and what you want, and we'll take care of the rest. It's the perfect place for a party of any size, so don't let it worry you. We're anxious to make this a special holiday season for you, too.

And if you find yourself worn to a frazzle after a busy week, you can always relax and enjoy yourself on the week end with us. We have our regular Friday Fish Fry and then the Saturday night Steak Night, and Sunday...well, Sunday we're having our special Sunday Buffet, featuring roast beef or chicken, at only $2.50 per person.

In other words, we've something for everyone during this busy time of the year. We hope to be seeing you soon!

Count your blessings

EACH THANKSGIVING for the last dozen years or so this editor has filled his editorial space with an essay on "Count Your Blessings."

This Thanksgiving will be the same, yet different. There are still blessings to be counted, but time's passing assigns different priorities and values to our humble recognitions.

For our Thanksgiving, 1969, let us repeat our thanks . . .

. . . that our insignificant planet Earth is still maintaining its orbit in our small solar system, set amidst the myriad galaxies and endless reaches of time, space and the universe.

. . . that we are a healthy, happy laughing people, still able to find humor in ourselves and in our adversaries and in our defeats as well as our triumphs.

. . . that love and friendship still flourish amidst greed and deceit and unhappiness, and that both are available to any person willing to offer them to others.

. . . that each of us, in his own way, will be able this Thanksgiving to say, "Thank you, Lord, for all this you have given me."

. . . that each of us is free, in his own way, to show his appreciation and worthiness by trying to live a better life, by trying to be a better person, by trying to make a better world for us, for our children, and for our children's children.

For Thanksgiving, 1969, we should also give thanks that the lottery that is life has placed us in these United States at a time when our nation and its principles are being sorely tested from both without and within. Our Thanksgiving prayers should include both some words of thanks to those men in service who are fulfilling their obligation to their country in their own way, as well as words of thanks for all of those citizens, of every age and denominator, who have discovered the courage of orderly dissent and a pressing desire for peace in this world. Shouldn't our prayer be one of thanks that there is room for both in this country? Shouldn't our prayer be one of hope that the passing of time will only increase the worth of the fundamental values and principles of our nation's heritage and our civilization's foundations?

Finally, our prayer will be that Thanksgiving, 1970, will find us with even greater reason to offer thanks and humble recognition for a world that has become better during the past year.

Time to remember

THE HOLIDAY SEASON is the time of year that families are drawn close together. It is a time of reunions and gatherings and happiness.

Yet again this year there will be an empty chair at many a family dinner, with our servicemen on duty in the four corners of the world.

Most of them will be remembered with packages and letters at Christmas time, but there are always those who turn away empty-handed at mail call.

This can be a heart-breaking thing, not only during the holidays, but 12 months of the year.

Our men in service are often faced with doing an unhappy job in unhappy surroundings, far from home and their families and friends. That job can be made just a little easier if we remember to remember them, if only with a card or a note, so that they know that the people at home care for them and honor the job that they are doing.

The holiday season is a good time to make a resolution to remember these men all year round.

Old-time Thanksgiving

When Gramps tells the youngsters about Thanksgiving down on the farm in the old timey days most of us get all choked up with visions of horse-drawn sleighs and giant turkeys with bread and butter pickles and genuine cranberry sauce with lumps in it.

There is a lot of nostalgia in that Currier and Ives conception, but it is not entirely accurate, for back in Grampa's day they found time to make Thanksgiving just a little more than a solemn family reunion--just as we do today.

A tattered copy of the Manistique Saturday Morning Star, published Nov. 26, 1892, was brought to our office by Mrs. J.J. Herbert, local historian extraordinary, and in it we found the editor having a little fun with the citizens of this town 77 years ago.

Under the heading, "They Gave Thanks..." he wrote:

"Some of our citizens gave thanks for blessings bestowed upon them.

"The Democratic Party is glad that it slew Napoleon McKinley.

"The Star was thankful for the defeat of the 'ring gang' and its political rag.

"The farmers gave thanks for the excellent sleighing which enabled them to get their wood to market.

"Sheriff Heffron, because he is a good Democrat and helped to wipe out the 'ring gang.'

(The Star was obviously a Democratic paper, and found solace in the fact that Democrat Grover Cleveland had defeated Benjamin Harrison in the national elections earlier that month. There is no further explanation of what the 'ring gang' was.)

"MacMurray, (the editor of the Star's adversary, the Tribune) because the defeated candidates did not 'do him up' the day after election.

"Charles B. Mersereau, because he was elected county treasurer by a handsome majority.

"Marshall Jachor, because he was never caught asleep on his beat.

"John Hayden gives thanks because his sweetheart is the best and most beautiful of all of 'em.

"J.W. Whistler gave thanks because he knows more about hand springs, main springs and such than any man in town.

"Charley Bronson and Carl Polson gave thanks because they have arranged it with the god of snow storms to not delay our mails this winter.

"J.A. Foster, because he will not be a widower forever.

"Blumrosen Bros., because they are prepared to build themselves a large double store.

"Michael Heffron, because he has never yet permitted himself to become a henpecked husband.

"Capt. McWilliams, because his tug can out pull anything that comes in our harbor.

"Geo. Haire, because by next Thanksgiving there will be a Mrs. Geo. Haire on deck.

"Alex Moesta gave thanks because he has so many fair charmers buzzing around him he finds it difficult to make a proper selection.

"Harry Clark gave thanks because 'Jud' was out of town and he spent the day in peace.

"J.A. Ohlson, because the election is over and his liquor bottles are safe, while standing on the bar when his back is turned.

"Wm. Golden, because he has a fine horse and is a happy papa.

"Angus McLeod, because a very pretty girl has fallen dead in love with his mustache.

"Frank Wharfield, because this has been a good season for hunting.

"W.H. Hannigan, because he is in the insurance business.

"Geo. K. Moddy, because he can lie down to sweet dreams of his ideal.

"Charles Coon, because he will soon foreclose the mortgage on the heart of a certain Wisconsin belle.

"Rory McDonald, because he has a lovely city blonde and is solid with her rich papa.

"Patrick MacNamara, because he has dissolved partnership with the bell on his neck.

"Johnnie McCarthy gave thanks because he has a sweet creature that claims his attention on Lakeside.

"The boys in the woods give thanks for receiving the Star regularly and keeping them posted on what is going on in our city. (That was a free plug from the editor.)

"MacMurray gave thanks because he can boast of being the manager of the rankest sheet that is published. (They didn't mince words about the opposition in those days.)

"And the Star because it has enjoyed a large advertising and job patronage during the year." So now you know what they gave thanks for in Manistique, 77 years ago. I wonder if we should run the same sort of column this year?

Tony's Topics

One of my recent writing assignments was to describe a farmhouse in 250 words. That's harder than it sounds. I had been looking at farmhouses all my life but had never looked hard enough to write about them. It was an exercise in memory and observation.

Here it is. If you can see and feel it I would like to hear from you. If you can't, I'd like to know that too.

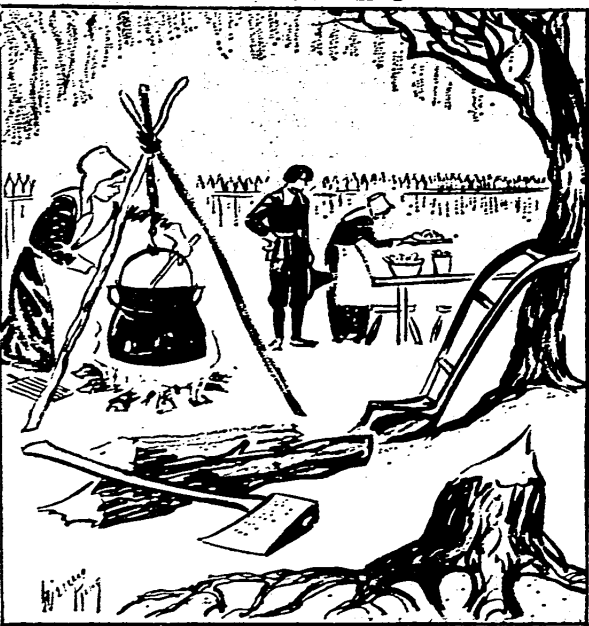

The house set alone on a knoll in a clearing a hundred fifty yards off County Line Road up a gravel driveway. Towering sixty feet high in front of it were three white pines. They had been planted much too close years ago when the house was built. Like so many old, northern farmhouses, it had been covered with russet colored asphalt shingle siding. The window frames, the wooden corners and the high peaked ends were a clear white.

An unpainted barn stood behind the house. It could be seen from the windows of the kitchen and the dining room. The original occupants had planned it that way for their convenience and protection. The barn was their source of income and they wanted to be able to watch it. In the fenced yard around it, the black and white young stock munched the hay and in the open fields, sometimes one could see a deer.

Two hundred yards back the woods began and it went on for miles and miles. It circled the clearing like a black spiked wall. Looking from the woods across the rock-piled pasture, the barn and house seemed not to belong--as though men had in some way violated the vastness of the woods. There was always the foreboding realization that if the house were deserted and no effort made to preserve the clearing, the woods would take over. The three pine trees which had grown too tall for the house and the scattered small spruce which had sprung up in the yard were a reminder that the take over was already happening.

Family Living

TURKEY COMES IN MANY WAYS. By now, if you're going to have turkey for your Thanksgiving dinner, you've already bought it. It now comes in so many ways, even a family of two can enjoy it. You can take your choice when you're purchasing turkey meat - pre-basted, stuffed, rolled, and even frozen with a choice of dark or white meat.

I hope you're allowing enough for each person, also for leftovers and nibbling. I think I enjoy the nibbling most.

DO YOU PLAY IT SAFE? You've heard so much about taking care of leftovers - removing the dressing and refrigerating it, then refrigerating the leftover turkey. Do it!

You can avoid some tummyaches that may be caused by even mild food poisoning. Keeping the turkey out at room temperature can be dangerous - just the right temperature to develop bacteria.

COOKED TURKEY CAN BE USED IN MANY WAYS. It's good in salads, casserole dishes, pie and chop suey. You'll find recipes in your basic cook books. You may need to substitute turkey for the chicken called for in the recipe. And if you want to freeze left-over turkey, wrap it tightly in a good freeze paper and freeze it in a container and cover it with gravy. This will keep up to three months but flavor will be better if it is used sooner.

MORE IRON IN BREAD? You may have recently read about the possibility of the milling and baking industry adding more iron to flour. The enrichment program started in 1941. The B-vitamins and iron have been added to white flour, macaroni products, white rice, farina and corn meal. This program has helped upgrade the level of national health but there is still wide-spread malnutrition, particularly among lower-income groups.

The question of adding greater amounts of iron have been given top priority by representatives of medicine, government and industry. The problem of iron-deficiency has been shown to be of particular concern among women and children.

Contributions were forthcoming from the Gulliver churches, several churches in Manistique, classes at Manistique High School, as well as many friends and neighbors in the area.

"OUT OUR WAY"
News from Road 437.

Hi Folks!
I'm glad to be back with my readers, for some do let me know when I miss sending out my scoop. I have been kept very busy the past week of deer season. The second week things get back to normal and I get into the ordinary groove.

The past week our winter Wonderland returned and by the looks of it, it is here for another season. Last Wednesday evening, from the dark heavens, countless white flakes fell without a sound, to give the earth its soft blanket of white.

The pine trees along road 437, again, were a picture of beauty and to me Christmas tree lane. I never lose the thrill as I drive along this road. It is one of many of nature's lovely possessions. As I drive along the road, the landscape on both sides sparkles and glistens each time the sun comes from behind a cloud.

Thursday is Thanksgiving, a day that was set aside to give thanks to God by the Pilgrims many years ago. I wonder if today the folks are as grateful as they were for the little they had, compared to our abundance of today. The Boss and I hope you all will be cozy in your homes, to enjoy Thanksgiving with your families, and give thanks for all your blessings.

Chip Cleminson spent the weekend at Murphy Lake with his mother, Mrs. Betty Cleminson. He plans to return for Thanksgiving weekend.

Also at Murphy Lake doing some deer hunting are the Paul Gambas and Dr. Hoerster and Mr. Bird.

At Thunder Lake hunting were the Les Tuckers and Mrs. Frank Lewis, a daughter. Les is going home to Mansfield, Ohio, happy, for he got himself a 5 point buck.

This brings my greetings, some may be belated, but the wishes are well meant.

Echoes of birthday greetings go out to Mona Hentschell, Jack Hire, Willard Garvin, Jim LaFave, Betty Jean Jahn, Milty Williams, William Mielke and Sally Cotten.

Anniversary wishes go out to the Ernie Hoholiks, Harold Mickelsons, John Lucovitchs, Lew Cleminsons and the Harold Lakoskys.

May the day for all of you be one of complete happiness.

Until our next chat, stay happy.

Home falls are dangerous

"People 65 years of age and older become victims of more than 30,000 fatal accidents each year," Andrew Sabol, Jr., Administrator of the Alger-Schoolcraft Health Department warns.

"Although this age group only constitutes about 10 percent of the total U.S. population, it experiences nearly 75 percent of all fatal falls," Sabol says.

"The severity of accidental injuries occurring to our senior citizens is extremely high," he continues, "the National Safety Council reports that 800,000 persons of this age group annually incur disabling injuries of at least one day duration."

In addition, Sabol reports that their average number of hospital days is longer as a result of accidents than from cardiovascular disease, cancer, diseases of the respiratory system and other diseases.

"On the whole, most fatal accidental injuries occur in private homes," he notes. "This is most likely due to their extended exposure to their environment."

"These falls, can be prevented or controlled," Sabol says and suggests awareness of a few simple rules:

Any quick movement of the head such as tilting the head backwards or moving suddenly may cause dizziness and result in a fall.

If required, wear your eye glasses at all times.

Be alert for tripping hazards -- toys, mops, brooms, etc.

Don't carry items that will hinder your vision:
Wear sturdy low heel shoes at home.
When climbing to reach something use a firm ladder or stool.

Let each member of the family think daily about how to prevent falls.

Maintain halls and stairs well-lighted, without glare and shadow. Be able to turn on light before you walk into an area.

Install, use and maintain in good condition, strong banisters and handrails on stairs. Painting the top and bottom stair with a light paint is also a good idea.

Use a non-slip mat in the bath tub. A grab rail near the tub is desirable.

Repair broken floors and stairs; mend or replace worn carpeting.

Wipe up spillage promptly.
Use floor wax sparingly or not at all.

Fasten rugs securely -- avoid using loose scatter rugs.

Keep low furniture and electrical cords away from walking areas.

Place night lights in locations that will illuminate walking areas.

STRETCH GARMENT DERMATITIS

A new skin disease called stretch garment dermatitis is due to wearing tight-fitting stretch garments. The eruption appears in the areas of greatest pressure and is the result of a mechanical allergy, due to pressure and aggravated by friction. The result of this disease is either a nondescript, reddened eczematous rash or it aggravates a coexisting condition.

According to Los Angeles dermatologists treating young girls for acne the face cleared up, but the back and shoulders did not. Lesions remained in the area where the bra rubbed with arm movement. Other skin disorders were aggravated. The cure is simple, the dermatologists recommend a cotton-type fabric, but you may find it difficult to find these in our modern day of drip-dry duds.

News Notes

BY HOWARD HANDORF
County Extension Director
Scholarcraft County

Here is a recipe from Ingrid Bartell for Oven-Method Jerky I thought I would pass on to you:

OVEN-METHOD JERKY
3 pounds venison
Salt and pepper to taste
1/2 teaspoon liquid smoke
in 2 tablespoons water
Slice the meat 1/2 inch thick.
Remove all fat. Lay meat out in a single layer on a counter surface. Dab each piece with a brush dipped in the water and liquid smoke. Salt generously. Sprinkle with pepper if desired. Place strips layer-on-layer in a large bowl or crock. Place a plate and weight on top of meat. Let stand overnight or least 6 hours. Remove meat strips from bowl and dry.

Remove oven racks. Stretch meat strips across the racks. Allow edges to touch but not overlap. Do not cover entire rack. Allow room for air circulation in oven. Arrange racks so the top rack is no closer than 4 inches from top source of heat, and bottom rack no closer than 4 inches from bottom of oven. Set oven at 150 degrees and let meat dry for about 11 hours. Check meat early in the drying process. If there is excessive drip, catch it on aluminum foil on a rack near bottom of oven. Lower the temperature until oven feels warm but does not cook the meat. Cool and store in an airtight container.

NOTE: Frozen meat may be "jerkyed." Thaw and proceed according to recipe. We have several other recipes in the office if you are interested.

I believe I finished out the Coho season this last weekend at the Thompson - bay-bottom hardware store. I picked up many, many lures, leaders, and swivels as well as my limit in Coho. I now believe that I am set for the northern-type trolling season next spring with an adequate supply of hardware. There was a good-natured crowd out there last weekend.

However, I still do not understand some of our Michigan sportsmen. Why an individual would go fishing and then tell all the bystanders that the fish are not fit to eat is beyond me. I will admit that some of them were in quite rough shape and that I did release several after catching them but the majority were still in edible shape. I do believe that we will have an additional bonus to advertise for next year's deer season as I know many camps had at least one meal of Coho and I have heard rumors that several others filled their freezers with Coho so they would not go back "skunked."

MEETINGS: There will be a 4-H Council meeting at the Extension Office at 7:30 p.m. December 1. You will be receiving a notice this week. There will also be a meeting for the 4-H Teen Club at 6:30 p.m. at the Extension Office, December 1.

WE
TOGETHER

We all went to church this morning. Later, as I carried the turkey, Mary and I began to reminisce about our first Thanksgiving in our own home.

It was the year Joe was a baby. Always before, we'd go home to our families. We set a festive table and pretended not to be lonely.

"And were you?" asked Jane.

"Did you pray before you ate?" asked Ruthie.

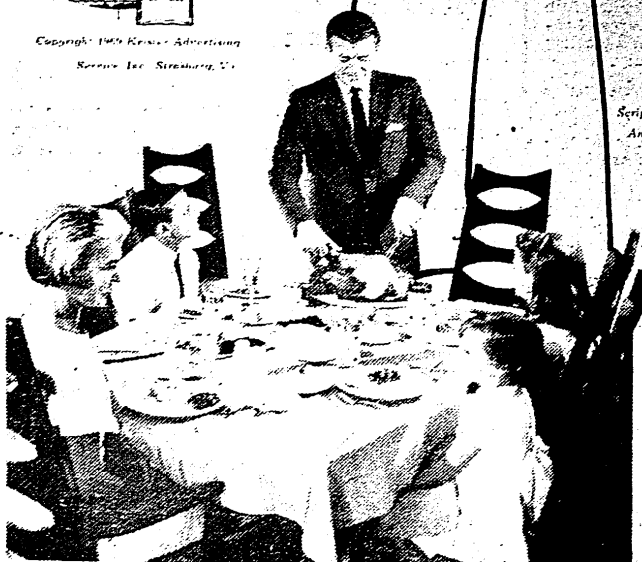

"Of course, they prayed," said Joe importantly. After all, he'd been there! "That's what Thanksgiving is all about!"

Mary and I smiled at each other, remembering how we'd nearly forgotten. We'd bowed our heads together, baby son at our side. Suddenly the real meaning of Thanksgiving swept over us, and we gave thanks for the blessings of the hour.

How grateful we are for the teachings of our church, which through the years has helped us interpret the source of all goodness!

Speech pathology course scheduled

Northern Michigan University plans to offer a special course, Independent Study in Speech Pathology, to Schoolcraft-Delta county adults during the 1970 spring semester. Community Education Director Richard Bonifas said the first of 16 sessions will start Tuesday, Feb. 3 at 6:30 p.m. in Room 200 of Manistique High School.

The Pacific Ocean covers an area larger than all the continents combined, the National Geographic Society says.

The new publication, presented by a friend of the family, is now available for circulation.
