Vocational ed program financing gets approval

The Michigan State Legislature has approved funding for the vocational education program that will enable approximately 40 students from the Manistique Area Schools to attend classes next year at Bay de Noc Community College in Escanaba.

Supr. Edwin E. Wuehle of Manistique said that details of the plan are now being worked out. The youngsters will commute to Escanaba in the mornings probably three days a week for classes in electrically, welding or machine operation.

The program requires the local district to pay $32 per student per semester, plus transportation costs. However the district will receive state aid for the students.

Wuehle lauded the news as "a breakthrough in vocational education" for the district. The offerings at Escanaba will be much advanced from any vocational courses now offered at the local school. The welding course utilizes machines used by Harbick-charger at their Escanaba plant, and the machine operation course involves lathes, punches, drills and other equipment not available here.

Wuehle, who is chairman of the sub-committee on vocational education for the Upper Peninsula Commission on Area Progress, also served as chairman of a committee that arranged a special visit to Ontonagon High School last week in cooperation with the State Department of Education.

Wuehle and High School Principal Marvin Fredericks were among a group visiting Ontonagon last Thursday to study how to offer vocational programs for school districts comparable in size to Manistique.

In arranging the tour, Wuehle said he felt schools of this size were being short-changed by the state because they were not large enough to qualify for many vocational programs.

Also attending were representatives from Munising and Newberry, plus host Ontonagon.

Ontonagon, with a new high school, has the best vocational program of the four schools involved, Wuehle said. He noted that they studied many ideas that could be adapted to the Manistique district to improve the vocational program here.

Wuehle pointed out that the Bay de Noc vocational program would help to complement the new cooperative vocational program in retail and distributive education being started at the local school this fall.

Call for meeting on lake sewage

A meeting tentatively set for Aug. 17, to discuss installation of a sewage system for the Indian Lake area that would hook directly to the city's sewage plant has been requested by the Alger-Schoolcraft Health Department.

Sanitarian Roy Briggs said this week, "This department has come to the conclusion that for the protection of the community, including the City of Manistique which draws its water directly from Indian River, that steps must be taken to install an adequate sewage system for the majority of the east-shore of Indian Lake and along the Indian River to the City of Manistique. This area has built up to a point where we cannot continue pouring raw sewage into this low water-saturated soil and still maintain a safe and healthy condition."

normal for surface water, he said, although they did receive some samples that ran a little higher than others. These were spotty and mainly along the east shore in the vicinity of the Ontonagon Bridge. Several sewage systems have been corrected or action has been initiated for correction, he said, but the problem still exists as far as sub-surface sewage disposal is concerned in this area, he added.

He pointed out that the majority of the sewage systems on the east shore and along the Indian River on State Road are so situated that they will always present a possible health hazard any time that there is high water—such as the area has experienced this past spring.

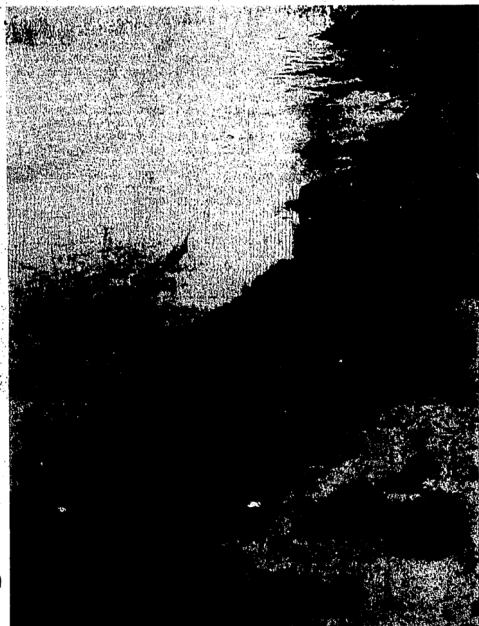

"This area is so low that it is practically impossible to get three feet of good soil between the tile field and the ground water table, which is the main requirement, he said.

Details on the proposed meeting will be announced later.

Teachers ask for mediation

Representatives of the certified teaching staff of the Manistique Area Schools have requested that the State Labor Mediation Board be brought into contract negotiations with the school district.

Urban Renewal is explained

The intricacies of Urban Renewal were unfolded for members of the Manistique City Council at their regular meeting Monday night.

Lee Jolgren and Max Putters of the planning firm of Villan-Leman appeared at the request of the council to explain the status of the program.

Late in June the city received word that it had been approved for survey and planning funds totaling $17,141, on a proposal submitted to the Department of Housing and Urban Development late in 1966. The total cost of the entire Urban Renewal project, covering the four main downtown blocks in the business district, was estimated at $1,130,000.

Jolgren explained that the next step for the city, if they accept the planning contract, is actual preparation for the total loan and grant. This would involve more detailed study of the buildings by structural engineers, a land marketability study, relocation and rehabilitation interviews with occupants, engineering cost estimates on improvements, a financial analysis and property value appraisal.

actual implementation gets underway. This involves remodeling or rehabilitating those structures deemed worthwhile saving, and the demolition of those beyond repair.

Owners are paid the appraised value of their land and building, and may buy the land back for rebuilding purposes if they desire. If they relocate in another area, special loans and grants are available to assist them.

Jolgren said it would probably take 18 months before the council would be required to make a final decision, and two years before the program got underway. Once started, it would probably take four to five years for all of the rehabilitation and demolition work to be completed, he estimated.

Villan-Leman would assist in the supervision of the project, and a local Urban Renewal director would be named to administer the program. Jolgren said the director could either be hired from outside the area, or a local executive could be selected if available.

The city is required to pay one-fourth of the total cost of the project, but may claim as credits improvements done within two years of the program approval. This would include such items as street paving, new sewers, curb and gutters and lighting. The city would also probably be able to claim

City must appear at water hearing

Notice of Determination and Hearing has been served on the City of Manistique by the Department of Natural Resources in their campaign to require removal of phosphates from waste water.

City Manager Robert Noe told the City Council Monday night city representatives have been requested to appear Aug. 12, 10:30 a.m., at the Catherine Bonifas auditorium in Escanaba to either admit or deny the pollution, and to either agree to the proposed schedule for construction of wastewater treatment facilities or to suggest alternate dates. Failure to appear at the hearing could result in an order compelling the city to conform.

The Escanaba hearing date was set by the Water Resources Commission at their July 22-23 meeting in Lansing. Manistique has never adopted the resolution requested by the state to set up a timetable resulting in the completion of sewage treatment facilities by Dec. 31, 1972. They have, however, engaged the water engineering firm of McNamee, and Sealey, of Ann Arbor, to conduct preliminary engineering studies and tests. The city's contention is that it does not know whether or not it is polluting Lake Michigan, and is unable to agree to any timetable until the preliminary engineering studies are completed.

The state's timetable originally required that these preliminary studies be done by September of this year. This was extended to December. Marvin Van Eyck of the engineering firm has told the city they may possibly be able to meet the preliminary planning deadline, but he is extremely doubtful if they can meet the 1972 final deadline can be met.

The city also received a communication from the City of Escanaba another one of the 85 Michigan communities that have been ordered by the state to remove 80 per cent of the phosphorus content from their waste water by 1972. The communication letter contended that the Water Resources Commission was "overstepping its authority," and enclosed a list of arguments that could be used in opposing the move. The city is expected to join in an effort to oppose the requirements.

of arriving at some sort of agreement whereby this area can be hooked to the municipal sewage system. In the meantime we have no other alternative but to start putting tighter restrictions on the installation of new septic systems in this area."

Briggs said that since the closing of the state park swimming area, continental campers have been taken on the east and west shores of Indian Lake. Bacteria counts are down to the safe range which would be

New simulator arrives at school

Representatives from 13 Upper Peninsula school districts will be in Manistique next Monday and Tuesday (Aug. 4 and 5) for training in operation of the new Link Simulator to be used in the cooperative highway safety program in the districts next school year.

The $40,500 simulator was delivered to the local school last week. Housed in a long trailer, it will be hauled from school to school for use in the project.

Two representatives from each of the participating schools are scheduled to take part in the in-service training program. A total of 16 hours of orientation is necessary for the instructors to qualify in the use of the simulator.

Two representatives from the Link Co. in Rosemont, Ill., will be present for the instruction sessions. George Stewart of the office of Highway Safety Planning in Lansing will also be present.

Taisto O'hannan, Arvid Larson and Lowell Cooper will represent Manistique. Representatives are also expected from Baraga, Gladwin, Gribble, Iron, Mounthin, Ironwood, Isabella, Kingsford, L'Anse, Marquette, Menominee, Negaunee and West Iron districts.

Total amount of the U.P. Community Education Highway Safety Project grant was $114,932. Awarding of the grant was announced May 23 by Gov. William Milliken. Manistique serves as the coordinating district for the project.

Surf Sounds

Remember that old song about little things mean a lot? It was popular a generation ago? We aren't songsters, but we subscribe to the philosophy these words. We feel that it's the little things that make a big difference in dining.

That's why we encourage our girls to always wear a hat when they wait on you. Help you make a satisfactory selection from our varied menu.

That's why we made an extra effort last winter to completely remodel and to present a "New Look" this spring that thus far has earned visitors from both near and far.

That's why we go a little bit further with our food, insisting on selected beef and seafood and personally supervising our purchasing.

That's why we're so proud of our extraordinary view that you see when you eat at the Surf, overlooking Lake Michigan's beautiful shoreline, where the sun sparkles and dances, the waves wheel above the water, the ducks paddle placidly and the full moon rises above the clouds to the east.

That's why some of the "little things" that we think are "big things" in satisfying our customers. The biggest thing of all, is quality food, well-cooked—a fact that we never neglect—and that's why many people will tell you the Surf is "the place" to eat—and enjoy every minute of it.

Schoolcraft County

It is nice to look home in the middle of Upper Peninsula from the busy hustle of Detroit and other down state communities. I have a new water-law and I am not planning to leave the Upper Peninsula until after the season is over.

While down state I firmed up some contacts made with the Michigan Outdoor Writers Association and can pretty well guarantee that Schoolcraft County will be mentioned in the next metropolitan area of Detroit, just this morning while attempting to start this week's mail. I received a phone call from Mrs. Osterhout at the Orchard Hotel stating that the first color jack had been sent on Monday morning, July 28. We are waiting to publicize this event down state (H) we can see if there are more than one small school in the area. Hopefully we will have a nice calm morning one of these days so that I can go flying as an observer with Vern Bernard. In the meantime for all the wives of fishermen in the area - it looks like the annual sojourn about to begin. You would do what Sally is planning on doing. Which is taking up cobo fishing so that she can spend more time with me (in self-defense).

For all members of the tourist industry - remember that we do have launch materials on how to reduce the pesticide content of fish. Let the office know how many copies you would like for your clientele and we will try to oblige as soon as possible.

See you on the beach!

HILLSINKI, FINLAND July 17. We have been in Finland for 10 days and have already seen much of the country. We're enjoying every minute.

My first trip out of the city was to Pasa by air and then a 30 mile drive to Ylikarvia in a rented Volkswagen. My father was born in this small village.

A young minister was waiting for us at the church office. With my poor Finnish and his limited knowledge of English, it was surprising how well we could carry on conversation. He took me through the church which was quite large and beautiful for this small village of 3,000. I also saw the churchyard where my father's family is buried.

The minister also showed me the graves of the young men of Ylikarvia who were killed in the winter war with the Russians. Tubercular legions were in full bloom on all of them. The people here mention this war quite often and their war debt to Russia as a result of it.

Marshall Mannerheim had his headquarters in Ylikarvia during the war.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Tomson and family of Chicago who had spent several weeks at Indian Lake, brought his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Mortinson, to her home here. She then accompanied her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith to their home in Detroit for an extended visit.

Leonard Englund and wife returned from Detroit where he attended a Tiger ball game there.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pappale and family are visiting his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Adey Losey.

Steve Fish takes course in Texas

Steven Edward Fish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Fish, former local resident, is currently attending a summer session of the aeronautical technology program of LeTourneau College in Longview, Texas.

The college is a four-year Christian co-educational institution with an enrollment of 750 students.

It was founded by the world famous industrialist and Christian layman, the late R.C. LeTourneau.

Steven is a 67 graduate of Manistique High School. His parents now live in East Lansing.

Two finish MSU course

TWO Manistique High School students, Peter Heek, 700 Fargo St., and Marie Lesica, 826 Park Ave., have successfully completed two weeks of special study in yearbook editing at the second session of the 22nd High School Communication Arts Institute at Diebagen State University.

A total of 106 high school students from Michigan and seven other states took part in the second and final session of the institute which closed July 18.

The institute, which attracted a total of 280 students in 1968, is sponsored by the MSU College of Communication Arts and the Continuing Education Service. It is designed to help talented high school students to advance their skills in communication and to encourage them to seek careers in communication fields.

The second session provided instruction in yearbook editing and debate-forerests. The first, in radio and television, debate-forerests and journalism.

Ambulance

Emma J. McNeil, 65000 City, was taken to the hospital last Wednesday at 6:50 p.m.

At 2:05 p.m. last Wednesday she was taken to the Manistique Clinic to the hospital.

Turner, Tampere and Lahti are three of Finland's cities.

To see them, we joined a tour group and traveled by air, bus and water to get from one to another. We saw the interesting sights including the Sibelius Museum, his birthplace and his home. We also heard his music.

Our hotel in Lahti, one of Finland's newest cities, was very modern, including the furnishings. Furniture was that of Finnish designers. One that I especially liked was a "hall chair" which is made of fiber-glass, upholstered in dacron. It was designed by Eron Arno.

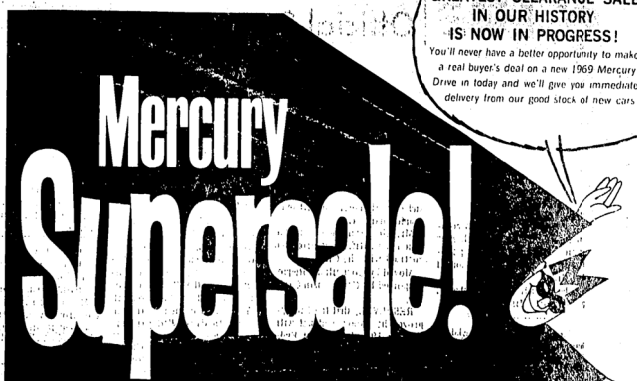

While we were in the dining room a young Russian came over to our table and through an interpreter, told us he witnessed the Apollo flight the very best of luck. He was with a group of about 13 young couples who were on a tour of Finland.

OLD SOL AND YOU...
"It's Summer Time and The Living is Easy". This may be true in your case, but here are a few facts concerning scratchy, irritating, yet non-catching Erythema Solaris - (better known as sunburn). A leading dermatologist had this to say: "Sun gets the skin. Too much of it over long periods destroys the elastic fibers, or connective tissues, and they become vitreous. These fibers are like rubber bands and hold the skin taut. If you overdo it, even with a tan, the rays get down into the connective tissues."
Although there are many preparations sold today to help you get a tan or relieve a sunburn, there is no preparation made that will replace good common sense. Remember, summer is far too short to waste recuperating from a bad burn that could have been avoided. Remember, too, before you leave on your vacation, stop by A.S. PUTNAM & CO., 201 South Cedar... or call, 341-2864 for prescriptions and medical supplies to last for the duration of your trip.

"I'm just trying to tell you in Manistique we've had a program for six years."

"You smuck it in?"
"No, no we had public meetings, showing films to parents, questions from the students, evaluation by the faculty, —all the things the guidelines say we should do."

"Well, if you don't tell anybody, you might get away with it."

"Schickelhausenbender, you don't understand—we told them in '63. The Escambia Press and Manistique Pioneer-Tribune ran news stories and features."

"And they didn't lock you up?"

"Lock us up? We got letters from all over the state asking us how we did it. Mary Frederickson, Rudi Brandstrom and Helen Mickelson were asked to serve on panels."

"Don't go too fast Tony, you'll get in trouble."

"For six years we haven't had trouble—now in '69 we're going to have trouble?"

Schickelhausenbender, just walked off in the direction of the Jack Tar muttering, "O! ge-valt...oi gevalt."

There's no question about it, he's been hearing a lot at the hearings and it's beginning to get to him.

Pick Chamber as sponsor

The Top O'Lake Michigan Chamber of Commerce will act as the coordinating organization for observance of Michigan Week 1970, according to action taken by the board of directors at its regular meeting Tuesday morning.

As the coordinating group the chamber will assist in the selection of a chairman, coordinate the week-long activities and work with other community organizations on specific programs.

The board also gave the go-ahead to the formation of a goodwill ambassadors group. Under the plan approximately 10 men will be selected to act as official hosts to visiting groups and dignitaries on behalf of the community. They will also officiate at ceremonies and call on new residents. Distinctive packets will be selected to identify the group.

The initial step in officially changing the name of the organization from Top O'Lake Michigan Chamber of Commerce to the Manistique Area Chamber of Commerce was taken by the board Tuesday. The proposal was presented by the general membership for a vote. It is felt that the new name will be more easily identified with the community.

The annual membership meeting will be shifted from spring to fall. It is anticipated that the first meeting under the new schedule will be held late in October of this year.

A weak argument

THE RELUCTANCE of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. to provide service to Manistique and 10 other northern Michigan communities unless they receive a rate increase from the Michigan Public Service Commission gained very little sympathy last week as a result of their appearance before the Manistique City Council.

For a utility that is guaranteed a profit on its investment through regulated rates, the company makes a poor case when it pleads poverty—which, in essence, was their main excuse for defaulting on earlier pledges to serve this community.

Just as examples:

They contended that the MPSC denial of their full rate increase request resulted in the stock of their parent company dropping considerably on the New York Stock Exchange. The fact is that almost every stock on the big board has shown considerable decline in recent months.

There was complaint about it costing 10.5 per cent interest to borrow money for capital expenditures, but when they were asked if the $58 million being budgeted in the current year for expansion and maintenance in other areas was all borrowed at 10.5 per cent interest, the company representatives backed off. "Not all" of this money required such high interest rates, they admitted, but also admitted they didn't know how much had to be borrowed at this rate.

When questioned about profits, there was some confusion among the representatives as to exactly how much profit Michigan Con had shown last year, until City Attorney William Hood quoted their own figures. Those figures did show a decline from $24 million profit to $20 million profit.

There was also uncertainty as to how much annual dividend was paid on common stock last year. The representatives present at the council meeting "couldn't remember" what the amount of that dividend was, although they did admit it had not been cut. (It's $2 per share.)

The representatives were unable to provide total cost estimates for providing natural gas service to the 11 northern Michigan communities, which would indicate that their planning has never proceeded beyond the preliminary stage. They did estimate the Manistique cost at about $750,000 "or maybe less" and St. Ignace at "about $650,000."

The company does not agree that it has a commitment to come into the city at this time, yet they evidently feel they are on shaky enough legal ground to agree to pay about 14,000 to the Manistique Area Schools for a second year as the differential between the cost of natural and propane gas. Certainly this payment is tacit admission that they have an obligation to this area.

We will agree that the company has problems in attempting to gain a rate increase from the MPSC (while Attorney General Frank Kelley contends they should get a $10 million rate cut, a fact noted sourly by one of the representatives last week) but we do not agree that they should use the extension of service to this and other communities as a wedge to gain that increase. We would never recommend any area resident writing and urging that the rate increase be granted so that we could enjoy service that was promised years ago. Rather we would recommend letters to our state legislators, the governor, the MPSC and the attorney general pointing out that we are tired of being caught in the middle, and asking that they use every means at their disposal to see that Michigan Consolidated fulfill its earlier rosy promise and bring natural gas service to this community.

David A. Rood--Co-Publisher and Editor

A prize-winning weekly newspaper published every Thursday at Manistique, Michigan, at the Top O' Lake Michigan in the heart of Michigan's beautiful Upper Peninsula.

There is the school of thought that contends that much of man's trouble is of his own making, and I must admit that there's a certain degree of truth in the contention.

If he didn't want his lawn to look nice, he wouldn't have to go out and cut the grass. If the third martini didn't taste so good he wouldn't feel so bad the next morning. If sweet young girls in yellow dresses didn't smile at him in Shakespeare classes he wouldn't get married and have kids. If you're going to dance you've got to pay the fiddler, and all that sort of thing.

Much of this philosophical turn of mind comes as the result of a wisdom tooth extraction last Friday--a relatively minor surgical procedure, I will grant you, but one which I do not recommend as the curtain raiser for a week end of fun and games. What I mean is, I didn't want to have the tooth pulled out, but I didn't want the right side of my face to rot off either, so I submitted to the tender ministrations of Dr. Sell with scarcely a murmur, then retired to the couch in the living room where I alternately slept and hollered for the better part of two days.

I am not one of those who deem it a virtue to suffer inselence. It's the squeaky wheel that gets the grease, and I have found that if I moan and yell and roll my eyes everyone is much nicer than if I just sit and grin and bear it. (Have you ever tried to grin with a mouth full of novocaine? You end up leering like some dirty old man watching a miniskirt go by.)

This now makes three wisdom teeth out and one to go, and as of right now I think I will try and find some other way to gain the sympathy of my wife and kids and dog. That fourth one can stay there, for all I care.

The second reason for my wallowing in self-pity this week is that after 10 years of close and intimate relationship, my Model A and I have parted company. It's the same old wheezer that I drove up here from Three Oaks, when transferred to the U.P. from Sugar Beet Land, and I must admit to a certain pang now that it's gone. I never did understand it, and I don't think it ever understood me, but we had a certain kinship, you might say, that I shall miss.

Whenever I see a Model A I shall be reminded of one Opening Day at Bill Hentschell's hunting camp, Trapper Bill and I were the only ones to rise before dawn and fling down the gauntlet to the wily whitetail, as it were, and we planned to drive the Model A out to his favorite stand in the deep dark woods. It was cold and dark that morning, and as we piled into the truck Bill expressed some doubt as to whether it would start. "Ha!" I said, "Switch on, Spark retarded, Throttle down, Contact!" And as I hit the starter there was a loud explosion and a cloud of blue smoke and a cry of agony from Big Bill, who had barked his shin scrambling out the door. It was a bomb, of course, attached to the starter by those same hunting companions who had failed to rise from their bed of pain that morning, and chosen instead to watch the proceedings safely from the cabin.

Goodbye, old Model A. You were one of my better investments, I only spent $800 in acquiring, equipping and refurbishing you, and now I've got $400 cash to remember you by.

To cap everything else, while I'm mulling all these blows that cruel fate is dealing, the week's mail produced a reminder of my 25th anniversary high school reunion late in August. That hardly seems possible. Shall I go and see what the erosion of time has done to my old buddy Biff Miller? Are Maggie Wolgamood and Helen Harrison still as beautiful in miniskirts and wigs as they were in saddle shoes and long skirts and cashmere sweaters? Will everyone remember how the Red Falcons closed a grand and glorious grid season by routing arch-rival White Pigeon '55-0? Who else remembers the words to "I'll Be Seeing You" with Tommy Dorsey and Frank Sinatra? I think I'll go have a good cry and then blow my nose. That always makes me feel better.

SCHOOLCRAFT VISTA report

BY JAN STRASMA
VISTA Volunteer

Several weeks ago I spent part of a morning with Dave Nordin, director of the County Department of Social Services, wading through the tangle of welfare programs and services.

"It's a complex operation," Nordin said. And he was right. Not only is it complex, but it can be confusing.

The department is a county and state agency which administers the welfare programs financed by the county, state, and federal governments. Direct money grants are available to needy persons and families who are eligible under income and property guidelines.

Just keeping up with the requirements of the various programs is a big job. The instructions covering them fill two large loose-leaf manuals--and the requirements and procedures are frequently changed.

There is considerable paperwork involved. It takes anywhere from two weeks to a month to process an application for one of the department's programs, Nordin said. Applicants with immediate needs, however, may receive assistance from county funds during this processing period.

The paperwork and red tape doesn't end with the approval of the application. They continue to occupy much of the time of caseworkers, who work with the clients. The caseworkers are not able to meet with their clients as often as they would like because they must also be "clerks" and "bookkeepers."

There are four assistance programs which are financed by the state and federal governments and administered by the local department of social services. These four, called the categorical assistance, are:

1. Old age assistance (OAA), for persons over the age of 65.
2. Aid to the blind (AB), for persons with limited sight over the age of 18.
3. Aid to the disabled (AD), for persons with a definite physical disability that will last at least three months. The age requirements set by the state which govern the disabilities covered.
4. Aid to families with dependent children (ADC), which assists families in which one or both parents are deceased, absent, disabled, or unemployed. In most local cases, Nordin said, the assistance is for children living in broken homes.

The department also administers a medical assistance program for families whose income is sufficient for monthly needs, but not for medical expenses. Persons who qualify for the four categorical programs and needy persons under the age of 21 are eligible for the medical assistance.

Surplus foods are distributed monthly by the department to low and limited income families. The requirements for this program are not as strict as for financial programs.

County-financed direct relief provides emergency funds for persons needing assistance. It also covers persons who don't qualify for other programs, but are in need of some kind of financial help.

In addition to its programs of financial assistance, the department of social services has a number of services that are not as well known. These include: the administration of the Schoolcraft County Medical Care Facility, child care programs, adoption programs, services for wards of the State and licensing and supervision of foster homes.

Nordin said he is sure there are people in Schoolcraft County who could qualify for one of his department's programs, but are not receiving aid. In some cases, he said, they do not know they are eligible. In others they are either afraid to apply or feel that receiving assistance would be a blow to their pride.

He noted that the department does not go out looking for business--it waits until a person comes into the office in the basement of the Court House. And there is little publicity on the programs that are available, he said.
