Council's Top Topic Is Snow Removal

Similar topic of conversation --- snow --- occupied Council at their regular Monday night. Three citizens were present to discuss the use of city crews and equipment to clear driveway of City Manager Noel during the recent blizzard, but councilmen defended their action as justified. Presenting the complaint Harold Snellenberger, Ed. and Jerome Halvorsen, of Schoolcraft Ave. Snellenberger said he had observed equipment plowing Noel's driveway on West Lake Drive, and asked why should be such favoritism. He said it was "regrettable" that he had to call city crews to help get him out, but added it was necessary in order for him to oversee the city snow removal efforts, to remain advised of what was going on in the city, and to check road conditions. He pointed out that he is on 24-hour call --- at the beck and call of every taxpayer --- and frequently had to go out at all hours to check the situation during the recent heavy snowfall. Noel added that he had private contractors plow his driveway in the past, but that they were busy last week and unable to keep the drive open at all hours. He also added he had asked city crews to plow the street superintendent, so that he could be readily available. A policy recommending that the city provide plowing services for key personnel in the future was proposed by Councilman Thor Reque, who also commended the city street crews and the city manager for an "excellent job" under trying conditions. Noel also reported he is hoping for continued moderate weather to give city crews a chance to "catch up" on the job of snow removal. They are making headway in spite of numerous equipment breakdowns, he said, and city mechanics have worked overtime to keep pace with mechanical failures. The city has received assistance during the snow removal emergency from Mayor Leo DeMars, who gave the use of his end loader; George Meron, who donated the use of a truck; Supt. Matt Weber and the county road commission; the local National Guard unit, and citizens who have aided by digging out fire hydrants. In other business, council granted a year's dance permit to "Bands Unlimited" of Escanaba to hold dances in the East Shop hall. A petition signed by 180 high school students urging that the permit be approved was presented to the council. Council also heard a request from Richard Marsh, director of the local Senior Citizens Drop-In Center, for an additional $500 appropriation for the center's 1969-70 operation. This would be in addition to the $492 in fuel, water and utilities that the city now provides the center. Councilmen pointed out, however, that the county now only contributes $500 to the Center, and that the city budget is strained because of high snow removal expense. A public hearing on the proposed new zoning ordinance was set for the Feb. 10 meeting. Both council and the planning commission have approved the ordinance. An ordinance calling for regular council meetings the second and fourth Mondays of each month at 7:30 p.m. was also introduced.

Ad Valorem Change No Local Bonanza

Since 1968 there was considerable shouting and hoo-ah-aw-sorted politicians about success of legislation during the Conservation Department to pay ad valorem on state-purchased lands of Townline 16. Obviously, the state had intended such lands in what is arguably referred to as "ump tax" payments, paying cents per acre to be divided between school districts and shops. Schoolcraft County seemingly has a big stake in such legislation. More than 70 per cent of land is under state or local ownership. "Swamp payments for 1967 totaled 27.75, based on 20 cents per acre for 285,638.75 acres. The county could receive tax for this land, instead of 20 cents per acre allotment. Many thought that this, townships and the city would find their coffers overflowing. Next December the 1969 tax for the county will go out for the first time the state will be billed for 37,261.44 cents at the ad valorem rate. The acres will be deducted from the former "swamp tax" leaving 248,377.31 to be billed at 20 cents per acre, cutting it as simply as possible. Ad valorem taxes will be paid on lands that the state purchased; "swamp tax" benefits will be made on lands that have reverted to state ownership because of delinquent taxes. What are we talking about in terms of money? Will it be another bonanza for local units such as the income tax rebate in 1968, with $42,608.76 coming back to the county, half going to townships and the city, and the other half being retained by the county? Not quite. In fact, the schools may end up getting less than they did under the previous payment arrangement. In the division of payment on state-owned lands last year, the schools received $50,813.86 while the various townships divided up $6,313.89. This year's payment of $57,162.64 will be divided in almost identical fashion. Next year, however, with 37,261.44 acres of state land being deducted from this payment so that ad valorem taxes may be paid on them, the total payment to the county will probably drop to about $50,000, and if the payment ratio is the same as in other years, the schools will receive only $44,460 and the townships $5,540. Can they make up that difference with revenue from the ad valorem tax payments by the state? Probably not. The key lies in what valuation figures are assigned to the state property for tax purposes. —Continued on Back Page—

School Program Evaluated

Editor's Note: This is the first of a planned series of articles discussing the issues that will be covered by the new Citizen's Advisory Committee to the Board of Education. Future articles will be printed as materials become available. * * * * * BY DAVE ROOL What kind of a program is being offered to the 650 students at Manistique High School? Is it adequate for the complex world of 1969? If more should be done, can we afford it? These questions and more are among the topics that will be examined by the newly created Board of Education Advisory Committee as they buckle down to the considerable task of examining our schools today and their problems. At their first meeting the committee members indicated that student programs was their prime area of concern. They want to know more about what their youngsters are being taught --- and what is not being taught. It's heartening to see this item receive top priority. Education, after all, is the prime function of our schools. If we're doing a poor job in that area, some changes are needed. The new committee will also probably eventually get into three other areas --- finances, buildings and equipment, and auxiliary services. That these studies can cover a wide area of study is shown in a list of suggested topics for examination --- vocational education, distribution of students, debt consolidation, new methods of financing, what should be done about the Lakeside School, what should be done about the present high school building, hot lunch menus, community school programs, faculty recruiting and special education. And those are just starters. Before their next meeting Feb. 3 members of the committee will be receiving bulky packets loaded with information on the current school programs, including summaries of elementary teaching schedules, and an outline of the high school program. High School Principal Marvin Frederickson, in his outline, not only examines the offerings of each high school department, but utilizes his 20 years of experience in the local system to cite changes of the past two decades. His report also includes frank estimates of shortcomings, and predictions of needs of the future. It's a six-page typewritten report, and Frederickson wisely does not attempt to assign any priorities. That has to be —Continued on Back Page—

ENZYME PRODUCTS are an aid, but not a cure-all. They're the newest, thing in the laundry area. They will remove some stains but not all. Regular detergents do better on others so you do need to experiment to decide which is best for you in your particular situation - and when to use what.

Three Appear in New Court

One youth was bound over to Circuit Court and three men had trial dates set in appearances last week before District Judge Charles Stark.

Aaron Ziegler, 17, of 602 Garden Ave., was bound over to Circuit Court last Thursday on a charge of felonious assault without intent to commit murder. He is charged with attacking two Public Safety officers early Jan. 1 at his residence. Ziegler was returned to jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

David A. Repp, E. Lakeshore Drive, was denied preliminary examination, then stood mute on a charge of assaulting a police officer when he appeared Friday. His court-appointed attorney, William Hood, asked for a bill of particulars on the charge, and a plea of not guilty was entered for Mm. A non-jury trial on the count is scheduled for 10 a.m. next Wednesday, Jan. 22.

Two companions, arrested by State Police at the same time, entered not guilty pleas to the assault charge. Frank Pakety, 600 Michigan Ave., and Robert L. Walters, 138 N. Cedar St., tentatively set for 10 a.m. Jan. 30. They are both represented by attorney Arthur A. Neiman of Escanaba, and are free after posting $1,000 bond.

In another case last Friday, Judge Stark dismissed a traffic charge of improper overtaking against Lydia Weinst, Star Route, after hearing the case in a non-jury trial. Mrs. Weinst had been ticketed following a mishap on M-94 Dec. 17.

Time Recount Jan. 31

The recount on the Daylight Savings Time proposal on the Nov. 5 ballot will start in Schoolcraft County Friday, Jan. 31, at 9 a.m., County Clerk Ferdinand Lesica has announced.

Two teams will be counting the returns for every precinct in the county except Manistique Township, where voting machines were used for everything except absentee voters.

Voters in the county turned down the proposal, 2,874 to 716. The proposition failed state-wide by a narrow margin, and backers of Daylight Time are financing the recount in hopes of overturning the result. Upper Peninsula residents opposed the switch because the time change has placed them in the Central Time zone instead of the Eastern zone with the lower peninsula.

Study Club Meeting

The next meeting of the Study Club will be held at 8:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 27, with Mrs. Charles Alwata, hostess and Mrs. Lee Pappas assisting. The book review will be presented by Mrs. Earl H. LeGrassier.

ADVERTISEMENT BEAUTY ALL AROUND

A look through today's paper will show you that the fresh, white snows that have fallen during the past week, while not exactly welcome everywhere, are indeed a joy to behold when you seek beauty.

But have you ever read, or heard, someone go into ecstasies over a woman whose color resembles the snow? Well, yes. Somehow the American male has become persuaded that beauty in a woman is the show of sparkle, life, color -- and the American woman had to work hard in the old days to get that color. Fresh air was important, hanging the clothes out both winter and summer, seeing that you got enough sun but not too much, enough wind to reddens the cheeks, but not enough to redden the entire face.

Today, with the invention of work savers in most every aspect of modern life, Max Factor has come up with not only a work-saver in beauty, but a complete set of products that can outfit nature itself in making a woman's beauty come to life. Just a few of the beautifiers available at Pulvin's Watgreen Drugs right now are the California Upsets by Max Factor--actively caused in mirrored compact, cosmetics containing five shades of lipstick in one case, in sets of pink, peach or beige tones so that YOU determine the right shade for your complexion and can change the shade according to your mood, the occasion, and the time, without carrying five individual tubes of lipstick with you.

Another blessing is the compact case of six shades of brush-on eye shadow, a case that fits in even your prettiest evening bag, and with shades to compliment your brown, blue or green eyes.

What woman today doesn't desire that look of innocence, with just a dash of femininity thrown in, one that can be obtained by the easily blushing, creamy-smooth Blusher Stick that comes in Ultra-Lucent three-complexion-look shades in creamy or frosty. It makes the pale, color-free old-fashioned, the romantic, right-now face all the rage.

All make-up of course needs a proper base, and Max Factor provides that too with its Ultra-Lucent Cream Make-Up Film Makers. Pressed Powder, Face Powder, Counter-Shine and Highlight. No woman need look down when Pulvin's Watgreen Drugs offers you such a complete selection of beautifiers -- in such a wide range of colors and prices. Why not stop in today and browse, then when you get home and try the products you'll know that Max Factor was the best time you spent.

That "certain fella" just might decide to take you out and show you off -- give it a try -- give Pulvin's a visit and see the Max Factor line today!

Michigan government officials have had some trying moments in office but none more so than that of Gen. William Hull, governor of the Michigan Territory during the War of 1812.

Hull was court-martialed on Jan. 3, 1814, and sentenced to death for surrendering Detroit to the British without a fight. Fortunately, Hull's sentence was remitted.

Christians

Questions on church unity were prepared following Dr. Worley's talk, as individuals discussed what steps could be taken "to help us become aware of the oneness that does exist among Christians, and what steps can be taken to help promote this."

Rev. Incmar Levin, president of the Manistiquian group, then presented three of the questions and invited comment from the participating clergy.

Question No. 1 was, "What do you as clergy consider as the biggest obstacles between various churches today?" Father Don Zaloga, assistant pastor of St. Francis deSales Church, commented it was the lack of knowledge "as to what our job really is on this earth," plus apathy. "Recreation is God in this country, not to money," he said, and comes first rather than service to others.

Rev. William Brauer, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, Presbyteria, and the closing prayer by Rev. David McLane of the Pentecostal Tabernacle.

Question No. 2 asked about the possibility of conducting unified Bible study in neighborhood groups.

Rev. Theodore Doane of the United Methodist Church said he would react positively to such a suggestion, "we should be able to sit down and talk about the Scriptures and what they mean," he said.

Rev. Robert E. Haring of the Bethel Baptist Church said the idea appealed to him, and added it would probably be better if there were no clergy or authorities on hand, "let the Word do the talking," he said.

Question No. 3 asked about combining all junior and senior high school church groups once a month for inter-faith discussions.

Fr. Zaloga commented that in his experience junior and senior high youngsters function better as discussion groups when separated, but aside from that, such meetings could be beneficial.

Following the comments, Rev. Levin said many of the liturgical prayers will be revised to get together for discussions in the future. Music on the program was furnished by "The Ecumenists," a vocal and instrumental group singing "A Mighty Fortress is Our God" and three folk songs.

The opening prayer was offered by Rt. Rev. Msgr. F. M. Schriener, pastor of St. Francis. The Scripture was given by Rev. William Brauer of the Church of the Redeemer, Presbyteria, and the closing prayer by Rev. David McLane of the Pentecostal Tabernacle.

Bridge Club

Mrs. Carl Carlson entertained members of her bridge club Thursday evening at her home. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Barney Johnson, Mrs. E. J. Thompson, Mrs. Carlson, Mrs. William Johnson and Mrs. William Howe.

the job of the board of education, assisted by their new advisory committee. Some of the needs, however, are quite obvious.

"Most high schools have a language laboratory with overheads, tapes, recorders, headphones, etc. Our present room 200 is large enough to house a laboratory set-up." That's part of the recommendation on the language department.

"The constant need in science is to keep your equipment and materials up to date, since there are so many changes taking place in this field." And although in recent years laboratory equipment for biology and chemistry has been updated, technological advances in our scientific world are so rapid that continuing modernization is needed if we are to keep pace.

Other needs mentioned in the summary include the question of more seating and table stations in the library; more faculty time to supervise individual classes in physical education and English; possible expansion of class offerings in such fields as mathematics, social studies, commercial and home economics.

And although the report mentions possible home vocational training, commercial studies and industrial arts needs, it cannot begin to hit at the most obvious and pressing need of the programs at Manistique High School -- vocational education. The report cannot evaluate our shortcomings in this area because there is no specific overall vocational program. Instead you find classes of a vocational nature within individual departments.

If a student plans on going to college he has little trouble in outlining a four-year high school program to fit his needs. However, most of our students do not go on to college. They become housewives or factory workers or beauticians or bulldozer operators or mechanics.

GEORGE LA CHAPPELLE

LaChapelle CU Speaker

George LaChapelle of Iron Mountain, president of the Michigan Credit Union League, will be the guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Limestone Federal Credit Union scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Saturday at the Manistique Elks Club.

In May, 1968, he was elected president of CUNA International Stabilization, Inc.

"Tickets are still available for the credit union dinner and may be purchased at the office. No tickets are needed to attend the meeting and dance following."

Open Water

There are still plenty of stretches of open water on the Indian River, providing a contrast between the dark stream and the white snow on the bank. This spot is just below the Copenhagen bridge at Indian Lake.

"OUT OUR WAY"

the news from road 437

Hi Folks,

Being surrounded by the forest, my home is a rather quiet area at this time of the year. Winter has really closed us in for three days, not even the mail went through. Snow falling and strong northwest winds just built those drifts higher. We just didn't venture anywhere and to make things more difficult, the Boss' Scout is having a repair job.

I recalled a winter we had Out Our Way in 1962, and checking over some pictures I had, I discovered it happened in February of that year. This winter is coming in strongly in January. I guess we have more to look forward to, for this morning the sky is just a huge dark cloud.

The Boss has been kept busy daily with his snow-blowing machine, and cleaning off the roof tops, and those huge icicles, that obstruct my view through the window. Despite being snowbound, the scenes Out Our Way are really very beautiful. The huge white and deep blanket that covers the earth stretches deep into the forest. The stumps look so huge and resemble some very large toadstools.

This past week end a number of folks tried to break trails into their cabins for a week end of fun. The task was rather a rough one, yet going through the white and quiet forest a look of serene peacefulness met them every foot they made. The going got rougher right along for the snow-machines, until the attempt to get into their cabins was given up.

The Herb Pronds, Richard Bergers, Milton Lowerys and the Don Fugeres were invited for dinner at the Don Klagstads. So it all ended up happily for Nancy Klagstad, she prepared dinner in my kitchen, but had extra guests -- the boss and I with some unexpected ones who were cold and tired plus hungry. They were Floyd Houghton, Paul Larson, Paul Hansen, and Robert White. All in all, Nancy's chicken and biscuits were enjoyed, plus all the trimmings.

This brings me to the end of my scoop so echoes of birthday wishes go out to Frank LeMaire, Ann Decker, Nancy Hieronymus, Rose LaMaire, Dale Potvin and Goldie Tomlinson.

My birds are busy flying close to the kitchen window. It's feeding time so until next week stay happy.

Mrs. Scoop

would appreciate hearing from his friends.

What About Our Youngsters?

Editorial Page

The Manistique Pioneer-Tribune

THE PROBLEMS OF YOUTH came under discussion last week when the PTA Advisory Committee met with church leaders and law enforcement officials.

One result of more than two hours of talk was the agreement to form still another committee to study the question some more, which may be fine for those who like to serve on committees, but will not do very much about helping solve the problems of youngsters.

Several thoughts come to mind.

Worrying about the younger generation is one of the world's few universally gratifying exercises, complete with rich historical tradition dating back to the juvenile delinquency of Cain. Twenty years from now the kids that we are worrying about today will be worrying about their own youngsters. We have a tendency to gloss over our own youthful indiscretions and can conveniently forget zoot suits, goldfish swallowing and bootleg booze.

This is not to say we should ignore the obvious problems that do arise. They are serious. But let's keep them in perspective.

Several months ago a 20-year-old youth was hauled into Justice Court and charged with being a minor in possession of beer. He pleaded not guilty to the charge in the face of conclusive evidence, and was found guilty and fined. The same issue of the Pioneer-Tribune that carried that Justice Court report also carried another story on that same youngster. Recently returned from Vietnam, he had been awarded a Purple Heart after being wounded in action, as well as a Bronze Star for heroism under fire.

If this young man is slightly cynical about a society whose laws can direct him to fight and shed blood for his country, but prohibit him from drinking a can of beer when he comes home, then who can blame him?

We hate to admit the obvious fact that we've got more of a parent problem than a youth problem in this community.

Why don't we admit we've got a shortage of concerned parents who are willing to adjust their personal schedule so as to find the time to be with their kids; to act as Scout leaders or 4-H leaders; to teach Sunday school; to serve as a Little League manager; to chaperone a high school dance? If a youngster is told to be home by 10 p.m., and arrives to find his parents gone, what will be his reaction? What would be your reaction?

If they want to form another committee, or have another panel discussion, why don't they go check the court docket to discover the parents of the last half-dozen youngsters brought in for being minors in possession, and ask those parents to participate. These minors come from both good homes and not so good homes, some with parents that care deeply and others with parents who could care less. Some of the minors are innocent bystanders who happened to be riding in a car that had beer in it. Other minors deliberately get the beer as an act of defiance.

If they are concerned about getting at the buver who furnishes beer to the minors, why not bend their efforts to convince the courts that they should utilize their auto impoundment powers? The court can impound the car involved if the driver is convicted of being a minor in possession. Take the wheels away if they don't tell where they got the beer . . . the information will soon be forthcoming. Particularly if the car belongs to Dad and not to Junior.

We don't buy the argument that "there's nothing to do in this town." We've heard the same griping in every town that we've ever lived in, and those that are doing the griping are those who expect their parents and the community to provide ready-made amusement seven days a week.

One police officer present at the meeting hit it right on the head when he commented, "There's plenty of snow for them to shovel." Yes, and chores to do around the house, and good books to read or letters to write or hobbies to enjoy. The average youngster in this area is minutes away from beautiful hunting, fishing, camping and hiking country. There are ski hills and toboggan runs and ice rinks in the winter and beaches and lakes in the summer. There is so much to do in this life, and so little time to do it . . . how can they sit there and complain, "There's nothing to do!"

The problem is not so much with our youngsters, but with parents who have come to expect our law enforcement officers, our churches and our schools to take over the job of raising their youngsters. This is not their job. If we are having problems with our youngsters, don't blame these people. Put the blame where it belongs—on the parents.

At the close of last week's meeting they asked the media people present to give coverage to the session and to offer editorial comment, which we are doing here. We responded at that meeting by inviting these people to offer some editorial comment of their own. We told them that if they were concerned about youth problems and wanted to get their message across by using our newspaper, each and every one there was welcome to do so by writing a letter to the editor. It will be interesting to see how many letters we receive.

ALONG THE SIDELINES . . . with DAR

Winter Woe

I'm not the sort of guy who keeps close track of that sort of thing, but I think I am pretty close to correct when I report that we have had about one day without snow since Dec. 18, which is almost a month ago. (And that one day was New Year's, wasn't it?)

Not only that, but we have had a lot of days with a lot of snow, and if that's news to you obviously you are one of our out-of-county subscribers, probably down in Florida, so go soak your head in orange juice and get sunburned.

If I sound snarly about it, it's because I am, not because I don't enjoy the bright and shining crystals of fluff as they float happily earthward, but because first, I am getting tired of shoveling, and second, I am running out of a place to shovel it.

Even the old-timers are starting to concede that they can't remember a winter like this one. We've had this much snow before, but never so early in the season.

Ragnar Carlson told me last week that this is the worst he's ever seen. Otis Nelson agreed with him, and got to reminiscing about the winter of 1937-38, when he was logging up in the Shingleton area. That year the snow was so bad they had to close down operations for awhile, he says, which is interesting when you remember that usually it is the sometimes sticky and soggy traditional "January thaw" that poses mid-winter problems for woods workers. Raoul Bertrand poked his head up from behind a snowbank while I was taking a snow picture, and when I queried him as to whether or not he could recall anything like it, he just shook his head and mumbled, "Never, never, never . . ."

Otis' recollection of the 1937-38 winter rang a bell with me, because I can recall as a youngster in Marquette the huge snow banks and drifts, and the savage fire that broke out downtown, razing the Masonic Temple and threatening to take most of the business district because the fire trucks couldn't get through the snowbanks to the scene. (That fire was an early form of urban renewal, because the Masonic Temple was rebuilt as a modern addition that is still the pride of the Queen City, and also led to the construction of the Nordic Theatre, just across the street from the Delft—a creation in chrome and neon that boggled the adolescent mind. The Nordic then showed the high class pictures, and the Delft the snoot-em-ups, and I never did get much of a chance to sample the luxurious upholstered seating in the new motion picture emporium.)

According to our newspaper files, other winters to remember include 1942, 1924, 1918 and 1913, and I'll leave it to the old-timers to agree or dispute.

I think one thing that can't be disputed, however, is that our city street crew has done a tremendous job against impossible odds. They have been working long hours over the holidays, when most of us had plenty of time to sit by the fire and complain about the snow. They'd no sooner get some snow hauled away than another storm would load up the town again. Too many people would simply leave their cars parked on the street, right when the plows needed all the room they could get to push the snow back. Their machinery would break down, but still the job went on.

Perhaps the worst is behind us . . . maybe that January thaw I mentioned earlier is due. But realistically, there is truth to the old saying, "When the days begin to lengthen, then the cold begins to strengthen." Not until February will the rate of heating from the sun overtake the cooling rate, due to the conservation of the earth's heat by the atmospheric blanket. And then the change isn't so sudden that you'll be struck down by the sudden heat.

I know all the snowmobilers who have been praying for snow must be pretty happy with the situation, but please fellows, enough's enough. Let's call a truce for awhile and let everybody get caught up.

In just over two weeks Old Man Groundhog will make his phony prediction and we can start arguing about the weather again, but for now, let's everybody think sun, not snow. It would be nice to see blue skies once again.

"Aw, he seems friendly enough, Mom—Lookit that big smile—"

On-the-job injuries are expensive, warns the Michigan Bureau of Safety and Regulation. To offset, with profits a $100 accident loss, a restaurant would have to serve 1,563 two-dollar meals; a supermarket must ring up 357 twenty-dollar sales; a store must sell 8,000 pairs of children's socks,

New Edition Tells History Of This Area

A new edition of "Voyageurs' Harbor," a history of the northern parts of Alger, Luce and Schoolcraft counties, centering on Grand Marais, has been published this week.

The second edition has been enlarged and new illustrations added. Sixteen new entries have also been added to the list of Lake Superior shipwrecks, many of them in the Deer Park, Vermilion, Crisp Point and Whitefish Point areas.

Additions include sections about Dan H. Ball and Philo M. Everett, early Upper Michigan developers of Marquette iron mines, railroads and real estate in the Grand Marais area; Dan McLeod, veteran logger, who was a pioneer in the Newberry area; parts of an unpublished journal by Charles W. Penny of Detroit, who made a trip along the Lake Superior south shore with Douglass Houghton in 1840, and "The 'Red Devil', the Maxwell and the Adams Trail," which tells about the first auto in the Grand Marais area, and the building of the historic Adams Trail between Grand Marais and Munising.

Author James L. Carter, a native of Alger County, now living in Marquette, noted there was much interest in the history of the area, by residents and tourists alike. First publication of "Voyageurs' Harbor" was made last December.

fascinating fishes

"See! see!" Amy cries, using one of her new-found words. Her voice trembles with wonder, and suddenly the fish Bob brought her become more than ordinary. They're magical creatures, slashing through the water with a flick of their tails, golden gleams of fascination.

How thrilling is a baby's world—changing, growing. Every day brings a new experience, some added lore to shape the growing personality.

Bob and I know how important these days are in Amy's development. Her acquaintance with the world now will affect her life greatly. That's why we take her to church every Sunday. We want her to learn of God's love from earliest remembrance.

God is the light of the world. His Church offers you and your family the opportunity to make His presence a joyous reality in your lives.

Timber Sale Now Limited

The large Borealis Timber Sale is no longer available for direct purchase announces Al Trout, Forest Supervisor, Hiawatha National Forest.

This 15 year timber sale of 500,000 cords of pulpwood advertised for sale last spring, received no bids. Since then it has been available to any qualified purchaser at the advertised rates and sale conditions.

Timber values have changed and the stumpage rates are being reappraised to reflect this change.

National Forest timber stumpage rates are determined by subtracting all logging costs and an allowance for profit from the selling price of the product at the market point.

The selling price of some of the timber species has dropped. A reappraisal will reflect this change. Borealis will be re-advertised in April or May, Trout added.

The sale was originally set up to market surplus wood and attract new or expanded industry to the Upper Peninsula. Neither of these objectives have changed, said Trout. There are some 35,000 cords of wood per year available on the Hiawatha National Forest over and above the amount utilized by present markets. New markets are needed.

We are quite confident that a more stabilized market and re-appraised stumpage rates will create favorable conditions and Borealis will sell next spring, Trout concluded.

Letters TO THE Editor

To the Editor:

On behalf of Rev. Roy Pitts and members of the First Baptist Church and myself, I wish to thank you for the fine publicity you have given us in the Tribune this past year.

The publicity was very important in making the past year of our church programs, activities, etc., a success.

Respectfully yours,
Mrs. Margaret Hewitt

The 1930s brought out the most parties to run in Michigan elections. Ten parties were on the 1934 gubernatorial ballot, the most in state history. Republican Frank D. Fitzgerald won by 82,699 votes. The eight minority parties totaled just 22,138 votes.

If you're counting on a 1969 VW you can stop at $1,953.95
$100.00 Down Payment includes tax and '69 plates $66.30 monthly

In fact, when it comes to money, a VW will save you a lot of counting after you buy it, too.

On gas bills. (It gets up to 27 mpg.)

On oil. (It hardly ever needs any between changes.)

And, since the engine is air-cooled, you never have to dish it out on anti-freeze.

So if you don't like to count, buy a Volkswagen.

It figures.
