CBC drive nets $6,900

The 1970 CBC Drive in Schoolcraft County ended with a total of $6,900, which was announced this week by co-chairman William Griffith and Rev. Theodore Boman.

Division of the receipts totals $2,415, or 35 per cent, going to the local chapter of the American Cancer Society; $2,780, or 40 per cent, going to Bay Cliff Health Camp and allowing nine children to attend this summer at a cost of $300 each, and $1,705, or 25 per cent, going to the local Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

It was reported that expenses for the entire drive totaled only $61.80, thus allowing the funds collected to be for the sole use of aiding people in Schoolcraft County.

While the 1969 drive brought in $7,000, the co-chairman this year pointed out that no special events, such as the "Mile of Pennies," was promoted this year. "We let the workers have been received very graciously and generously during the entire drive," they said.

The 1970 quota had been set at $6,100, which put this year's drive over the top by $800. Because of this success, the co-chairmen pointed out that the participating organizations will be able to do more than the bare minimum this year.

They cited the example of being able to send an extra child to Bay Cliff Health Camp this summer as the result of exceeding the quota.

This is Oldsmobile's year at Indy.

Isn't it your year for an Olds?

The knowing folks at Indy just named Olds 4-4-2 official pace car for this year's 500.

For good reason. Olds is not only an excellent performer. A winner in looks and ride as well.

The fact is, every 1970 Olds is a pace setter. And it goes far beyond performance.

You find it in great engineering. In exceptional build. In ride and handling that are outstanding. And in the solid quality and dependability you've come to expect from Oldsmobile.

In fact, it's this quality that leads many people to believe that the Olds is priced out of their reach. A mistaken notion that might keep you in an ordinary car, instead of an Olds.

The truth of the matter is that many Olds models are priced right down with the low-price names.

Now that you have the facts, isn't this your year to go Oldsmobile? You can probably do so far more than what you've been paying. See your nearest Olds dealer!

MOTHER'S DAY

Mothers are an important factor in our business, our lives and our community. We think it's appropriate that we take this time and space this week for a Salute to Mothers... to recognize them for their contributions, their interest, their concern, their love and affection, their pride in their children and grandchildren... all of the things that make Mother a special person. Rabies warning is issued

Andrew Sabol, Jr., Public Health Administrator of the Alger - Schoolcraft Health Department, has issued a warning

Health needs are outlined

The need for an efficient and active county health department was outlined to members of the Manistique Rotary Club by Briggs, chief sanitarian for Alger and Schoolcraft Counties.

Briggs pointed out that the majority of people are now very much aware of the pollution problem and are anxious to cooperate in improving our environment. The speaker stated that the Alger - Schoolcraft Health Department is getting an increasing number of calls concerning pollution problems and littering in the area. He added that this kind of cooperation is most helpful and serves the interest of the people.

The speaker stated that the Alger - Schoolcraft Health Department is involved in 12 programs concerning public health including licensing of septic tank installers, inspection of wells and septic tanks, review of building plans for all public buildings, review of trailer or park plans and involvement in the new plat act. At the present time the department has a medical director, a sanitarian and three nurses. Briggs stated that because of the large territory and added work, more personnel is needed.

In view of the growing problems of pollution, health departments have adopted the philosophy of protecting the public from the individual rather than the individual from the public. He added that no single group in our society is totally responsible for pollution and that it is a public problem which can only be solved by continued cooperation and understanding.

Briggs was introduced by Robert Kanerva, program chairman.

Seed of a hybrid giant begonia sells for $3,500 an ounce, National Geographic says. It takes a million of the powdery granules to make an ounce; a single sneeze could scatter hundreds of dollars worth of seed.

Several diagnosed cases of rabies have been reported in the Eastern Upper Peninsula and there is danger of the problem worsening if the wild animals attack dogs or other domestic animals. Mr. Sabol notes, "The trend is a Western movement of this disease among the wild animal population."

"Thousands of children are bitten by pets and stray animals during the first few warm months of spring, and though our primary concern is rabies, there are other infectious a child can contract from animal bites." He urges all pet owners to have their animals immunized against rabies and all parents are asked not to relax their efforts to protect their child from animal bites. Infections caused by bacteria frequently found in the respiratory tract of cats and dogs can be quite painful. "Fortunately, these organisms are sensitive to a wide range of antibiotics," Sabol said. He suggests that if a person is bitten by any animal he contact his private physician.

Nevertheless a few simple instructions might save a youngster a painful experience. The Health Department offers these tips to parents to help them protect their child from animal bites:

Never allow your child near strange, sick, injured, wild or nervous animals, or to enter yards housing these animals.

Don't let your child try to stop an animal fight. Instruct him to seek aid from an adult.

Caution him not to tease, make threatening gestures, or remove food or toys from an animal. Tell him to speak first to avoid startling an animal.

Train the child not to make the first move towards friendship, or hold his face close to an animal's mouth. Let the animal make the first friendly move after first getting acquainted with the child's odor.

Teach your child, under proper supervision, to make friends with pets he will frequently encounter in the immediate neighborhood.

Instruct the child to avoid routes where animals chase cars or bicycles.

Unless the child is experienced in feeding an animal,

Did Census miss anyone?

Were you counted in Census '70?

With the 1970 Census of Population and Housing virtually completed locally, District Manager Mrs. Robert Hensley announced the beginning of a "Were You Counted?" campaign to insure that no resident of the area has been overlooked.

If you think you or your family might have been missed, you are urged to notify the census district office by means of a "Were You Counted?" form. Area newspapers are printing these forms in their current editions as a public service. Prompt mailing of the "Were You Counted?" forms will speed up the compilation of preliminary population figures for the area.

Preliminary figures giving the total population of incorporated places of 10,000 or more population, and for counties, will be issued as soon as the District Manager is convinced that a complete count has been made. Final, detailed population figures will be issued from Washington later this year after returns have been tabulated by the Census Bureau's electronic computers.

The importance of a complete count was stressed by the District Manager. She pointed out that the population figures must stand as official until the next Federal census.

"Representation in the U. S. Congress and the State Legislature is determined by the population count as ascertained in the census. Federal funds are allotted to States and State funds, in turn, are allotted to counties and municipalities on a per capita basis. So a short count means under representation in the Federal and State law - making bodies and under allotment in government funds. Thus, it is imperative that we have a complete count. The help of every resident of the area is needed to reach this goal," she said.

Physical and occupational therapy can help to retrain muscles weakened by stroke, and may help many stroke patients, even those severely paralyzed, to become self-sufficient again, the Michigan Heart Association, a Michigan United Fund agency says. Prompt medical treatment is important.

"OUT OUR WAY"
News From Road 437

Hi Folks!

Out our way April left us a bit like March, we had several days of beautiful summer-like weather. Then sudden change came with strong winds and rain, even thunder was heard rolling across the sky.

Old man winter paid us a visit Saturday morning. A strong northeast wind came in bringing with it snow. From the forest came the loud chattering voices of the birds and overhead several flocks of geese flew by banking their way to open waters. None seemed to care about the weather, they knew that the sun was behind those clouds and would soon come through.

It may be a bit cool but these showers opened up the doors of mother earth. The trailing arbutus are sending forth their sweet fragrance. In the yard I have a patch of violets in full bloom. My daffodils are up and showing their buds. Now a touch of summer weather and the earth will be in full bloom.

An important date is coming up Sunday, when the folks of our country will honor their mother. There are many words a child murmurs as it learns to talk, and the first and sweetest word is "Mama" to him. No matter what kind of a gift you may give her, the best one is to show her you love her.

Our spring may have been a bit on the cool and frosty side, but it has brought folks out our way to their lake cabins.

At Murphy Lake, opening up for the summer season, were the Odells and Taylors. The John Sparks and grandson, Bobby Sparks, are spending a week and so are the Paul Gambles of Chicago, their guests, Mr. and Mrs. John Kalita of Hickory, Hills, Ill., Mr. George Brigham of Chicago, and Mr. Walter Brigham of Midlothian, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schumacker are busy this week getting their cabin ready for the summer season, where they spend most of their time. I know they'll take time out to hunt for mushrooms, which is a must for them.

Echoes of birthday greetings go out to Jacquelyn Lancoeur, Emma Harty, Bill Bertschell, Jr., Elsie Dick, Victor Feison, Lawrence Carley, Theresa Neville, Sandy LaFave, James LaKoski, Francis Popish, Larry Olson, Helen Gambia.

Anniversary wishes go to the Ray Ramsdens, Jr., and the Dan Bernards, who are celebrating their silver wedding anniversary.

Jehovah's Witnesses attend convention

"Sacrifices That Please God" was the theme of Jehovah's witnesses three-day semi-annual Christian assembly, held at Norway, Michigan, May 1-3, which drew delegates from over 60 upper Michigan and northeastern Wisconsin communities.

Arvid Carlson, presiding minister of the Manistique congregation, said the highlight of the conference was the talk, "Understanding the Pressures of Our Day," by R. L. Balzer, District Supervisor of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Convention personnel reported that 22 new ministers were ordained Saturday morning. The regular schedule of meetings has been resumed at the local Kingdom Hall at 851 Garden Avenue, Manistique.

Achievement Day is over for 1970! I believe that we had excellent displays in the gym, even better than last year. I would like to thank Robert Hubbs for his usual fine job of setting up the gym. Also, I would like to thank the 4-11 leaders for the excellent job they did in setting up their club exhibits and also for their assistance in getting the Dress Reveal and Exhibit Parade participants lined up for the evening program. I want to thank the judges of the various exhibits. I know there is a certain amount of mental strain when you are making selections and very few items are identical.

The Teen Club helped out by decorating the auditorium and I must admit to a certain measure of relief now that spray paint fumes are no longer drifting through the basement of the Post Office. As a matter of fact, it is now safe to light a match down here without danger of an explosion. Special thanks to the following teens for narration duties during the day long program: Laurie Ribble, Mistress of Ceremonies, Share - the - Fun Contest; Cindy Frenette, Mistress of Ceremonies, evening program; Dress Reveal narrators: Jeanne Tunell, Mrs. Berneth Pawley, Becky Charter, Pearl Shaffer; Exhibit Parade - Robert Pelen, Everett Wood, Terry Patz, Larry Brady. Not a teen in age but with them in spirit was Mrs. Gladys Mercier who narrated for her Conservation Club.

On behalf of the Teen Club, I would like to thank the following business establishments for assisting in the supply of decoration materials: Bill Griffith, J. C. Penney Store; Mrs. Mark Schurmer, The Kiddie Shop; and Bob Brumfire, Messier - Brumfire Funeral Home.

Food Show: The 3rd Annual Northern Michigan Food Service Show will be held in Boyne Highlands on Tuesday, May 12 and Wednesday, May 13. Some of you attended this show with me last year. This year, the show is going to be bigger and better than last year. There will be approximately 80 exhibitors showing the latest in food products and equipment. This is 30 more than last year. The show is longer this year, and there will be an educational seminar for foodservice operators on Wednesday morning starting at 9:30 a.m. I will be driving down on Wednesday morning, leaving Manistiquette at approximately 7 a.m. and will have space for an address. One thing I did find last year, was there is a difference in taste between brands for many similar food items offered. All in all, last year those of us that made the trip had a very informative and interesting day. I expect this year to be even more informative and interesting.

To the Editor:

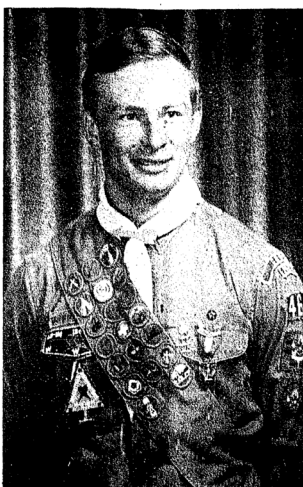

We have our own place on Indian Lake and for two or three weeks a year we spend there, we feel we have an expensive investment. Naturally we correspond with our neighbors there and enclosed is a few lines from a recent letter we received just after Earth Day --

(Reference is to smelt.)
"And with all your pollution, you hadn't better eat them down there. Suppose before long, Lake Michigan will be that way. You should see the moss where smelt dippers are -- cans, bags, garbage all over. Makes me so damn mad, I could just get on a soap box! Like pigs -- they all holler about tourists wrecking their land -- fuel and damnation, they ruin it themselves!"

Scientists studying Florida's reefs believe fish judge the intentions of predators by the look in their eye, National Geographic says. The gray snapper produces a stripe near its eyes that grows darker as it approaches its prey, preventing the smaller fish from seeing the snapper's "hungry look" until too late.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor: As our year round Head Start centers officially close, we the Head Start parents would like to thank a great many people who have given of their time, energy and money to help us make our program one of the best.

Thanks to the Pioneer-Tribune for all the great coverage. To our teachers and aides, Mrs. Otmer Schuster, Mrs. Francis Hyland, Mrs. Gertrude Hololik, Mrs. Helen Schurrer, who not only taught our children but gave their love and concern.

Thanks to our cooks, Mrs. Ida Caron and Mrs. Weimer. Also the fabulous Community Action Agency Representative that Manistique is so fortunate to have, Mrs. Fedy Bouchard. A multitude of gratefulness to all the local merchants who so willingly donated food, supplies, and toys to our centers and project funds. They were Leonard's, A & P, John's, Vaughan's, Barney's, IGA, Red Owl, and White Steer Groceries, Coluzzi's Cafe, First National Bank, Fairmont Foods, Ken's Bakery, Barnes Hotel, Top O' Lake, DMC, Ben Franklin, Peoples, Brownies, Rexall, Hub, Gambles, Davy's Discount, and Christy's Gift Mart.

Thanks also to Rev. and Mrs. Ingemar Levin and the Zion Lutheran Congregation for the welcome donation of their accommodations, equipment and many acts of kindness. Also the many interested non-Head Start people who labored many long hours to entertain and educate our children and parents. Especially Jim Herichsen for the beautiful music programs. Also Mrs. Herichsen for all the little things she did that helped so much.

And last but certainly not least, Mr. Jim Bruce who our Head Start Director of time organization. Mr. Bruce was certainly the most patient "Butterfly" director I have ever lasting thanks to a new director, Mrs. Shamus. Here's to one such man who's right in there for us day in and day out. Also thanks to the people who knocked at our door word God! By their example we strove even more diligently to prove we could do a job and we did it.

If we have forgotten someone for their contribution to our Head Start Program we are sorry. It certainly was unintentional. We have great favor for each and every, large or small. Sincerely, Luthern Start Parents Group of Manistique.

Card of Thanks

We wish to sincerely thank all who assisted us at the time of illness and bereavement, the death of beloved husband and GEORGE STEPHENS. Meet Mr. Polluter

I MET YOU AGAIN last week end, Mr. Polluter, and once again it was a case of hate at first sight.

It didn't take much detective work to find out quite a bit about you, either, for it's obvious that you come from the Littering branch of the Pollution family tree, and you can tell a lot about a person from his garbage, especially when he leaves it behind for everyone to inspect.

I am hard put to find anything good about you, Mr. Polluter, but after considerable thought I must concede you must have a certain love for the outdoors, for you picked a most scenic spot in which to leave your garbage. Perhaps I am giving you too much credit, and it was convenience, not beauty, that brought you to that lovely little high rise of ground overlooking the Indian River by the Camp Five bridge.

You camped overnight, I know, for among the debris was a weatherbeaten campground permit, and traces of a fire pit and what I hope was a toilet pit.

Perhaps the night was a cold one, which might explain why you tried to do some chopping on the nearby trees. You hacked up a few pretty good, but someone should tell you that the best firewood is the deadfall you will find all about you, if only you take a few moments to hunt for it. I doubt if the green wood you got from the trees you hacked kept you very warm.

You are evidently a person of hearty appetite, considering the amount and variety of food and drink containers you left scattered around the area. Obviously, however, it didn't give you the strength that was needed to gather up your empty cans and boxes to haul away with you when you left, or even to gather them neatly together so that some poor fool, such as I, would not have to range so far and wide to pick them up and haul them away.

I wonder what your home looks like, Mr. Polluter. Are there beer cans and food cartons and bottles and shells and garbage lying around your yard and your home? Don't you consider this Hiawatha National Forest your land, just as you do your home lawn?

I won't blame you, Mr. Polluter, for the hundreds of beer cans and bottles that litter the side of the Eight Mile Cutoff Road leading north to M-94, and I guess I can't blame you for the arson that set the fires to burning that ruined so many young trees along that five mile stretch.

Not you, maybe, but some of your clan and some of your friends. It takes a unique breed to delight in fouling your own nest or to find some strange release in setting fire to the countryside.

There must be some relationship somewhere to the students who find the compulsion to burn or vandalize the buildings of their university as a form of meaningful social protest.

Yes, I have met you, Mr. Polluter, and I don't like you.

How sweet it would be some time to find myself sitting in judgement when you are hauled before the court and charged to account for what you have done.

How fascinated I would be with your explanations, and how enthusiastically I would decide on appropriate punishment.

Perhaps some day you may come to realize what you are doing. And perhaps some day when I return to that spot I will find the sweet smell of spring's first arbutus to greet me, in place of your decaying garbage and discarded litter.

ALONG THE SIDELINES with Dave Rood

Ahoy there, mates!

The time is close at hand when I should be completing my course in Basic Seamanship offered at the Community Schools each Wednesday night by the local Coast Guard Auxiliary.

If all goes well I should complete the course no worse than third in my class, which sounds impressive until you discover there are only three students.

The course has taught me all sorts of interesting things, like the difference between port and muscatel, and what the yardarm is that the sun must be over before you can have the first drink of the day.

There is a handy glossary of nautical terms at the back of the textbook which has proved invaluable, and I must say has done a lot to clear up a lot of the confusion in my mind.

Like for instance:
BAIL---To dip water out of a boat with a bucket or container. (I always thought that was what you had to post with the sheriff to get out of jail.)

BITTER END---The last part of a line or the last link of a chain. (I have heard people refer to Dorothy Anne as my bitter half all these years, but I didn't know about the bitter end.)

BOW---The forward part of a boat's hull. (Up till now I had always used it in the context of "taking a bow" for some accomplishment, or a kind of a necktie.)

BURGEE---A swallow-tailed pendant. (The only Burgee I ever knew was the advertising manager on the Hastings Banner, and I don't think he was one of those.)

CARLING---A fore and aft beam at the side of the hatch. (I still don't understand that. What do you do when the skipper says "Run below and get me a bottle of Carling's.")

CHARLEY NOBLE---The galley smokepipe. (I know a Charley Gable but he doesn't even smoke, although he'd probably spend a lot of time in the galley.)

DRAFT---The depth of water which a vessel requires to float her. (I wonder how many drafts it would take to float Dorothy Ann?)

DROGUE---A cone-shaped instrument device streamed from the bow or stern for the purpose of creating a drag. (I've known some sly old drogues that were anything but a drag.)

FLUKE---The broad arms or palms of an anchor that bite into the ground. (Then how come the instructor says "If you ever get to be a sailor it will be the biggest fluke of the century.")

FLY---The end of a flag away from the halyard. (If you see a vessel with this problem you have to tell him discreetly that his fly is open.)

FOUNDER---For a vessel to fill with water and sink. (I guess that's why Partner Jim refers to me as the Founder of the Pioneer-Tribune.)

GARBOARD STRAKE---The plank next to the keel. (The next time I feel poorly after an evening of falling among friends I will tell my wife that it is simply an inflammation of the garboard strake.)

HEAVE---The rise and fall of a boat in a seaway. (Which is directly connected to the rise and fall of your stomach in a seaway.)

IRISH PENNANT---An untidy loose end. (The Irishmen aren't going to go for that description.)

JURY RIG---An emergency repair. (I always thought you could go to jail for rigging the jury.)

PINTLES---A metal fitting secured to the rudder and fitting into the gudgeons. (If your back aches when you get up in the morning you're obviously having trouble with your gudgeons and pintles.)

SNUB---To stop a line suddenly. (Many a young girl wonders why her ex-boy friend snubs her. Probably had a talk with her father.)

WHIPPING---A method of preventing the ends of a rope from unlaying by binding the end with twine. (Spare the rod and spoil the child, that's what I say.)

These are just a few of the highlights. I am studying this section some more, as I don't want to be caught out in the middle of the lake and needing to sheet home my scuppers without a few instructions or a little background.

You may think sailing a boat is easy, but after going through this glossary there's obviously more to it than meets the eyes.

EYES---The foremost part of the weather deck in the bow.

THE ART OF EVASION

There is an art to evading problems which has been refined to a high degree of expertise and its principles can be carefully delineated. Instead of solving a problem, escape from it. This is often done clumsily, which causes embarrassment, but it can be done with a skillful dexterity which will leave the individual or the group with the feeling of having dodged the problem graciously and comfortably.

I have observed many of the eminent practitioners of the art of evasion and have compiled a list of their devices. Most of them have at sometime been used on me, and I publicly confess guilt to having employed a few myself.

The list is incomplete, for like any art, those who practice it become more skillful and learn from those who have gone before.

Here are ten techniques of the art of evasion.

1. Find a scapegoat and ride it to death. It can be the school board, the city council, the parents, the kids today, the generation gap, big business, labor unions, etc. -- but blame somebody and if possible give that somebody somebody, to blame. This will keep everybody so busy blaming that there won't be any time left for problem solving.

2. Say that we must not move too rapidly. This avoids the necessity of getting started.

3. Say something that nobody can understand. This one is a little risky because someone might ask you to explain and then you're in trouble because you don't understand it either. Usually no one will ask because he thinks if he does it is a sign of ignorance.

4. Move away from the problem into a discussion of endless ways to study it. This device has been used with great success on the Upper Peninsula. Now we are getting the studies of the studies.

5. Appoint a committee to weigh the pros and cons. If you appoint the committee carefully you will have a group of people who individually can do nothing getting together and deciding that nothing can be done. If you really want to kill progress charge them with the responsibility of weighing pros and cons and reaching a tentative conclusion that can be subsequently used as a basis for further discussions of an exploratory nature preliminary to arriving at initial postulates on which methods of approach to the pros and cons might be later predicated. They'll be so busy figuring out what they are supposed to do, that they will never report back.

6. Wait until some expert can be consulted. If possible consult two experts and hope they disagree.

7. Point out that some of the greatest minds have struggled with the problem and that it certainly is to our credit to have thought of it. Also remind the group that the greatest minds have not solved it.

8. Belittle the problem. Act as though anything so trivial can hardly be worth serious consideration.

9. Magnify the problem. Blow it up to the point where the solution will be worse than the present perplexing situation. (Often times this is actually the case. That's why the problem still exists.)

10. Show that the problem cannot be separated from other problems, therefore it cannot be solved until everything is solved.

If you are courageous dig in and try to solve rather than evade the problems? You'll have other problems you hadn't even thought of.

Leave a clean camp and your fire dead out!

Doesn't this sound spring-like? I saw this little hand-written poem on the bulletin board in the Schoolcraft County Extension Office. It was written by the secretary's young daughter. I thought it was so sweet I wanted you to appreciate it too.

Another 4-H Achievement Day is over. It's a big event for all members, leaders and everyone else who is involved and it is successful because of so many helping hands.

The list of winners will be found elsewhere in your newspaper but I just thought I'd mention the fact that any girl who had a purple ribbon pinned to her garment can exhibit it at the U.P. State Fair. Also, any girl who received a purple modeling ribbon will be invited to model at the Fair. You'll be reminded of this when the time is near. Schoolcraft County can be very proud of the gals who will be representing them.

Foods Lessons Coming Up. Don't miss the series of two meetings on some good ideas for preparing food, recipes, tasting and all. One will be held in Germfask at 1:30 p.m. on Wednesday, May 20 and 27. We hope all of you from the Seney, Germfask, Blaney Park and nearby areas can attend. The Manistique meetings are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. on the same dates, May 20 and 27. They are planned for all of you who are interested in cooking in new recipes and in making the most your meal money. I'd like to extend a special invitation to all of you who are food stamp recipients, to young homemakers, to "TOPS" members, and, of course, to our Extension homemakers. More next week but mark the dates now.

Dere Mommy, Happy Mothrs Day!

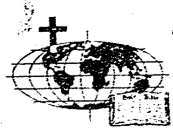

The red rose decorating the notebook paper is a little lopsided, and the spelling is awful. But what a wealth of love went into the message.
I know, because I was the little girl who made it.

Now it's my little girl who struggles with pen and crayon to fashion a card of love for me.

And as I watch her I think of Mama -- sliding down the back hill with us in Daddy's worn-out knickers, kneeling with us as she heard our prayers, singing sweetly Sunday mornings as she stood between us in the family pew.
I remember her joy in life, the way her Christian faith glowed in everything she said and did.

Do you wonder that our church is a continuing source of joy and strength for me and my family?

 THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW!
 #5

12. Don't trust your memory when taking medicine! Always read the label three times; once as you remove the medicine from the cabinet, again before you actually take the medicine, and a third time after you've taken it. Never take a medicine in the dark, THAT'S A NO-NO, ACCIDENTS HAPPEN.

13. Do not try to guess what is wrong with you or select your own medicine. Certain temporary symptoms can be relieved by medicines you can buy without a prescription. Consult your pharmacist about these, and follow directions on such "over - the - counter" medicines just as you would with prescription drugs. BUT IF A SYMPTOM DOES NOT RESPOND PROMPTLY OR RECURS FREQUENTLY, CONSULT YOUR PHYSICIAN.

14. Be sure the label stays on (or in) a prescription container until the medicine is used or destroyed. Each prescription box or bottle label shows the name of the patient, the physician, and the pharmacist; the prescription number, date of purchase and the directions.

Here is an easy direction to follow; bring your next prescription to A. S. PUTNAM & CO. . . 201 South Cedar. . . Phone 341-2264.
