Dirty book? What dirty book?

There is only one problem with all the controversy that has been swirling about the Manistique School and Public Library for the past week over the fact that the controversial book "Do It!" by Jerry Rubin was on the shelves...

This was brought out at the suddenly-popular meeting of the Library Advisory Board last Thursday noon. Despite the fact that there are two forms that library patrons may sign requesting that a book be considered for removal...

It appears, however, that the Advisory Board will be strengthening its membership. In line with a suggestion made at the recent meeting of a week ago...

It was also pointed out that persons who do not conform to library rules and regulations, and who do not return books, will, as in the past, be denied library privileges...

The operation of a restricted shelf to handle such controversial books was one of the topics suggested at the recent meeting of the Library Board, held at the school and attended by approximately 20 persons...

Library Librarian Mrs. Earl LeBrasseur also assured the board, representing the Board of Education on the advisory panel, that the library was not violating any state law regarding dissemination of obscene materials to minors...

Prosecutor Gotfrid S. Johnson, responding to the request by Wood, wrote to Supt. Edwin K. Wuehle, that it is no violation by law by making available in the library and public library books which have been classified by certain individuals as offensive...

The Library Board meeting also explained the organizational structure of the School and Public Library, with LeBrasseur pointing out that the public library portion of the operation is supported entirely by penal fines paid to the Court, and that only a small amount of school money is appropriated for the school library operation.

New election methods urged by Judge Piggins

The need to change the method of selection of candidates for Supreme Court Justices was stressed Monday by Circuit Judge John Piggins of Detroit, a candidate for the state's high court, when he appeared at the Fireside for an informal coffee hour. Last Fall, 3.5 million children raised $3.25 million in nickels, dimes and quarters.

OUTDOORS with GORDIE

by GORDON CHARLES

Michigan makes much of the fact that to place in the state is more than to miles from one of the Great Lakes. It was with this in mind, among other things, that so much emphasis has been put on these big waters in recent years to provide more fishing for a growing population.

Of course, the club and club-and-childhood programs have managed to buy most of the "bass fish" always tend to continue the old, established species. Many a fisherman, there, has been heard to remark that, given choice, he would rather see more trout and less salmon being stocked in Michigan.

Excellent reasons for this attitude can be found in most parts of the state where the Great Lakes touch the shoreline. Even the DNR fish division has admitted, under questioning, that the substitution of bass for trout is a more popular move anywhere.

Only dark spot in the whole Great Lakes picture is on Lake St. Clair where many anglers of water into a no-fisherman's land, at least from a take-home standpoint. Anglers can hardly be expected to entice fish but must throw everything back. On the Canadian side, anglers can keep their fish but face the chance of mercury poisoning if they eat their catch.

Looking at the Great Lakes as a whole, though, fishermen face a bright future, whether by brown, cold or chinook. Other states should have such problems!

Get feel of road

With winter weather almost set in, Secretary of State James M. Hare recommended that Michigan drivers always make it a habit to get the "feel of the road" when they begin to drive... especially when weather conditions are changing.

But he warned that snow or ice-slicked roads are no place to learn the "feel of the road" technique. "It should be learned and practiced in good weather on dry pavement," he said.

The technique Hare referred to was that of applying brakes gently when starting to drive to see how the brakes and the road surface interact.

He listed the following advantages of making "the feel of the road" a year-around habit:

- "On dry surfaces, you get a reading on how well your brakes are operating. Water, overnight moisture, or the need for adjustment can cause slipping and grabbing brakes that could throw your car out of control.
- "It's an excellent suggestion to have your braking system checked in advance by a competent mechanic. This can be done along with a pre-winter check of your vehicle."
- "In addition to snow or ice, unstable traction can result from water, moist leaves, sand or gravel on the road. This also calls for a 'feel of the road' test by braking or by accelerating carefully to see if and when the wheels spin."

Emeralds top Indians, face Marquette

Marquette's Redmen, assured of at least a tie for the 1970 Great Lakes Conference football title, will arrive in town Friday to test the Manistique Emeralds in the final home game of the year.

Marquette will be aiming for a victory to give them the undisputed championship. Manistique will be aiming for their second victory in a row, having dumped the Newberry Indians in a thriller last Friday night, 22-6.

Friday's contest will be the last conference game of the season for both teams. Manistique has one more road trip, a journey to Kearsford Oct. 30.

The Emeralds yielded 16 points to the Indians in the first quarter of Friday's wild and woolly thriller at Newberry, then slammed the door against the rest of the way.

Echoes from Harbor View

BY MRS. HELEN MERWIN

Thursday, my sister and I drove to Sand St. Marie, Mich. for the day. We went with Charlotte Hickey. It wasn't such a nice day, we encountered rain, snow and sleet at intervals, but by the time we started home the moon was shining and we had a pleasant trip back home.

Friday, Laura Smith returned home after having spent the past week in Escanaba with relatives.

Agnes Erickson and her sister, Elsie Johnson of Perandale, visited friends here two weeks ago. They called on Ed Carlson, Ann and Gus Wre and Adeline Wager. Agnes and Elsie were also here during the summer for two weeks. Because of an accident, Agnes twisted her ankle in the very first day of her vacation; they could not stay to visit here in the building.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley (Mina) Orr from Farmington drove up last week end to close their cabin at Sunset Beach for the winter months. Nina called on Ma Carlson and Adeline Wager Saturday evening.

New sport underway

There's a new sport at Manistique High School this fall. Six boys are participating in the cross country competition under the coaching of William Carmody. Team members are Dick Rodgers, Ed LaVance, Jim MacIntyre, Jim Beaudry, Pat Timmel and Bernie Beaudry.

Manistique finished fifth in a seven-team field last Saturday in the Great Lakes Conference meet at the Marquette Golf and Country Club. Monday they defeated Newberry in a dual match at the Indian Lake Golf and Country Club. Wednesday they journeyed to Soo, Mich. to face the Soo Invitational, and Saturday they will be competing in the U.P. meet at Marquette.

Emeralds also came on a yard effort, this time by John Forsyth. Fossitt passed to Brunet for a two point conversion, and it was 16-0.

The Emeralds refused to give up, however, and came marching back, getting on the scoreboard in the second period with an eight yard passing strike from Kenall Nelson to two point convertor, Ed LaVance. Nelson's pass to Doug Erickson for the two point conversion was good, and at halftime the score was 13-6.

Manistique held it all up in the third period, with Nell Buhala going for one yard in the end zone, then catching a Nelson pass for the two point conversion.

A burst off tackle in the second quarter helped to set up the two point conversion in the third. Two plays from the line resulted in a loss of yardage, but then Nelson, following left, spotted Jerry Strubel behind his man down a line, and fired a scoring strike that won the fall game. Nelson's pass to Ed LaVance for two point convertor, Ed LaVance. Nelson's pass to Doug Erickson for the two point conversion was good, and at halftime the score was 13-6.

Driver is hurt in accident

Henry Frans of Milwaukee was injured Sunday about 2:35 p.m. when the car he was driving left Mt-94 by Colwell Lake and hit a cement culvert.

Because Tompkins are fond of fat and oily foods, and consider pig's liver a delicacy only for chiefs, one of the highest compliments a youth of the South Pacific islands can give a girl is to describe her as "a fat liver full of oil," National Geographic says.

He was discovered by passing motorist at 3:35 a.m., and taken to Manistique Memorial hospital by ambulance. He was later transferred to St. Luke's Hospital in Marquette.

Karen A. Francis, 16, of 211 S. Cedar St., was injured Sunday at 9:30 a.m. when the car in which she was riding on County Road 432 in Thompson Township went off the road and hit a tree. She sought her own treatment.

Mario E. Baker, 43, of 727 Garden Ave., the driver of the car, told officers she was forced off the road by an oncoming vehicle that did not stop.

A vehicle driven by Elizabeth Hermes, 16, of Garden, went off County Road 432 in Garden Township Sunday at 10:50 a.m. and hit the top of an underground water storage tank.

Officers said the tire of the car dropped off.

A car driven by Keith T. Carley, 16, of Cooks, ran off County Road 432 in Thompson Township Saturday at 11:35 p.m. and into a steep ditch. He told officers the right front tire blew out.

City Police reported that a car driven by Norman D. Minor, 72, of 602 Oak St., backed into a parked car owned by Orville Warner, Marquette, Thursday at 9:40 a.m. on Steuben Ave.

They also handled an Oct. 12 reporting of an accident on Oct. 9 when a car driven by Thomas Boyd, 21, of route 1, ran into a ditch on Cattaraugus St. and then demolished a trailer owned by Edwin White of 647 Park Ave. Boyd was cited by officers for failure to report a property damage accident, and for giving false information to police officers.

Tips given to homemakers on what to do with fish

BY INGRID BARTELLI

"What to do with the fish we catch? That's the gist of so many of the phone calls and letters coming to my desk at this time of year.

It can be just as much fun to cook and eat the fish as it is to catch them. In fact, unless the fish is to be eaten it should be returned to the water as soon as it is released from the hook. It's a shame to admit it, but there are those who fish for "numbers" and "trophies" rather than for food.

If you catch more than you can eat, the easiest way to preserve that fish is to freeze it. But use a little common sense if you plan to do so.

Fish is a tender, easily perished commodity. It will "self destruct" in a day if not properly cared for. So the first rule is to keep that fish in prime condition, then freeze as rapidly as possible.

It is a common practice to fill a half gallon milk carton with fish, cover it with water, stick it in the freezer and consider the job done. There are a couple of fallacies with this method.

First, home freezers often are not capable of freezing into the center of a half gallon container for a couple of days.

In the meantime, there can be spoilage in the fish in the center of the pack. Be sure your freezer is set as cold as it will go if you're freezing any quantity of food. There is also danger that the warm food to be frozen will partially thaw the food already in the freezer.

The second fallacy in the "half gallon" method is the damage done to the fish in the center of the pack during the freezing process. A full container placed in the freezer will freeze around the outside first. When any liquid freezes it expands. This expansion causes severe pressures on the interior of the pack as the pack becomes completely frozen. Since fish is tender to begin with, the pressures that develop can turn the fish in the center of the pack to mush.

It is a good idea to freeze fish in water or to build an ice glaze to help retain the delicate fish flavor.

A better approach to freezing fish in water might be as follows:

Whatever the variety or form of fish to be frozen, estimate the amount needed for a meal. Arrange these in a pan of suitable size, such as an ice cube tray, loaf pan or cake pan.

If possible, keep the fish in a single layer. Place the pan in the freezer without water.

overnight or until fish is completely frozen. Then cover the frozen fish with water and return to the freezer until the total forms a solid block. Because the fish is frozen first, the expansion of the water when it freezes to ice will cause no damage to the tender fish flesh.

When a solid block is frozen, remove from the pan and wrap in moisture vapor-proof freezer wrap. Be sure to label and date the package. Only fat fish should be used within six months before the fat becomes rancid.

Another method of freezing smaller fish or larger ones removed to portion-size pieces is to spread them out on a cookie sheet and freeze them separately. Then pack the individual pieces in a large, heavy film bag with a light closure. As you need them, remove as many of the individual pieces as you need, release the bag with the remainder, squeezing out all excess air and return to freezer.

Fish can be cooked from the frozen state or thawed before cooking. It is a little more difficult to cook from the frozen state but you retain more of the juices in the fish.

Folks often ask if the fish can be frozen whole just as they come from the water. It is possible but quality is better if the fish is cleaned first. Some species of fish need to be scaled and some with a muddy flavor should be skinned.

One of the best references on fish preservation is contained in a booklet from Alaska entitled, "The Fisherman Returns." We have purchased some copies for resale if you'd like one. They cost 25 cents each. Request from Mrs. Ingrid Bartelli, MSU Extension Center, 580 W. 13th, Marquette, Mich. 49855.

Mrs. William Sara from Lake Umbagog, Mich., has shared her favorite recipe for preparing Northern Pike with smoky flavor. It works for other fish, too.

Clean fish, cut into serving-size pieces. Soak fish in soy sauce overnight. Drain well. Brush with liquid smoke on both sides. Let dry well. Place in baking pan. Sprinkle with garlic powder and paprika. Bake 15 minutes at 450 degrees, then 25 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool and serve.

Dolley Madison loved to wear bejeweled turbans, use snuff, play cards for money, and entertain 15 to 20 people at dinner, National Geographic says.

1970 Deer Hunting Format

This map shows action will be limited to buck-only hunting in the Upper Peninsula during Michigan's 1970 firearm deer season set for November 15-31. That major change comes a legislative resolution called for a moratorium on shooting antlerless deer with firearms about the state this fall. Licensed archers may still take antlerless deer in that part of the state during the 1970 bow and arrow season. In other notable changes from last year, antlerless deer-hunting permit quotas have been cut 44 percent for the northern Lower Peninsula and increased slightly for southern Michigan. The sharp permit reduction for northern Michigan is designed to promote a buildup of whitetails in those areas where there are good signs that the animals have been balanced with their range as the result of past antlerless harvests and commercial timber cuttings. That region's total permit quota for 1970 is about 69,000 as against 119,000 last season. For southern Michigan, this year's permit level has been raised to 19,795; about 1,000 more than in 1969, in a continued effort to ease problems of rising crop damage and car-deer collisions.

Sportsmen are not required to apply through the mail for permits covering Area 27, the Beaver Islands Wildlife Research Area. They may hunt antlerless deer without permits in that area this season. —Mich. Dept. of Natural Resources.

Winter OK for cattle.

A "best cow herd" survived last winter and 170 inches of snow in excellent condition with trees as the only windbreak at the Northern Beef Demonstration Center of Michigan's Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

The winter was typical for this area, according to T. R. Greathouse, Michigan State University beef specialist and associate director for the Center. Each cow received 25 pounds of late-cut, grass-legume hay daily with dicalcium phosphate, trace mineralized salt and water offered free choice.

"Reducing and eliminating housing" costs increases net profits," notes Greathouse.

He believes there are many opportunities in the Upper Great Lakes Region for beef cattle operations, with a minimum investment.

"The relative cost of a beef cow unit is considerably less in this region than in the West. The region is suited to forage production, there is an excellent market demand for feedlot calves and little or no housing investment is required," points out Greathouse.

The Northern Beef Cattle Demonstration Center is a cooperative project between Michigan State University and the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission.

FAT RATS STUDIED

Sterility is a common condition in overweight animals and human beings. To find out why this is true, Michigan State University foods and nutrition researchers are conducting basic studies of fat rats to determine why obesity affects reproduction and sex hormones.

Booster club seeks support

The recently-revived Manistique Athletic Booster Club has had a busy fall, according to a summary of activities released this week by Marge Fountain, secretary-treasurer of the group.

Born June 9, 1909 in Hancock, Mrs. Moilanen resided on Co. Road 149. She was last employed as a nurses' aide.

Mrs. Emma Briggs succumbs in Canada

Mrs. Emma Briggs, 90, of Moncton, New Brunswick, Canada, the mother of Roy Briggs of Manistique, died Oct. 13 in Canada. Mrs. Briggs was well known in the area, having spent the winter of 1967 with her son and daughter-in-law here.

Booster Club members operated the concession stand for the first varsity game and for all the reserve games as a fund-raising project. The group furnished and served lunch to 150 boys after the Freshman Football Festival Sept. 30, and working in the kitchen were Mrs. Barbara Mickelson, Mrs. Dan Johnson, Mrs. Richard Demers and Mr. and Mrs. Art Fountain, Jr.

A far bus has gone to each out-of-town game, with Booster Club members serving as chaperones. Gate receipts have been furnished to all the football teams for use at halftime, and a new portable drinking fountain for use at athletic contests, costing $75, has been purchased.

Fire department history related

Editor's note: The first portion of a history of the Manistique Fire Department, taken from an Escanaba Daily Press issue of the early 1930's, ran two weeks ago. This is the final portion of the story as it appeared at that time.

After the death of Chief Loose, Tom McCullough took over the reins in 1906 and also acted as engineer, succeeding Jerry Bowers. His position was also a part time position. Next in the line of chiefs was Otto Laux who acted in that capacity during the first five months in 1913. He was succeeded by Herman Wendland, Manistique's first full-time chief, who served until 1919 when he resigned in favor of Charles Underwood, the present chief.

Approximately eight major fires occurred in Manistique since the "Big Fire" of 1893, the last of any great significance being the blaze at the Berry Chemical company on November 17, 1929, when the damage approximated $165,000 and resulted in the closing down of the plant. Other memorable fires were the court house fire of 1901; the Rose Bros. store which occurred on Christmas Day, 1906, the razing of the Charcoal Iron Co. of America in the summer of 1919; the $70,000 loss at the Northwestern Leather company which was operated by L. C. Harmon; the Chicago Lumber Co.

mill fire; and the Cloverland Oil company blaze which resulted in $6,000 damage on January 2, 1928. Old Dobbin was discarded in the summer of 1919 in favor of the fire truck. Two triple combination fire trucks, hose, chemical, and pumps, were secured together with a Dodge chemical truck which was later converted into a ladder truck. One of the two trucks is a LaFrance and the other a Reo. The addition of this equipment gave Manistique one of the most efficient fire-fighting forces in the Upper Peninsula for cities of its size.

Germfask youths aid in River Road clean-up

The Department of the Interior's Johnny Horton Clean-up Campaign received a big boost on Oct. 16 from the seventh and eighth grade boys of the Germfask School.

In cooperation with the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife and State National Wildlife Refuge, the boys picked up all trash and debris along seven miles of the Manistique River Road from M-77 to two miles south of the Mad Creek State Forest Campground.

Johnny Horton is the symbol of the Department of the Interior's anti-litter program and the clean campaign is a part of Interior's overall effort to improve environmental quality.

The boys from Germfask School that participated were Rocky Streeter, Mike Skarriff, Richard Cole, Ricky Russell, Jim Ackley, Steve Hartman,

Varnum challenged on Parochial aid issue

Mike Nelson has challenged State Representative Varnum on the issue of parochial aid. Nelson, a teacher at the Manistique High School, has written a letter to Varnum questioning his support of the "Proposed 100" on the November ballot. Nelson also called on his fellow citizens to make a clear public stand on the question.

Nelson also questioned Varnum's supposed statement that he had resigned from a special Legislative committee on community colleges. Nelson said that minutes of the committee showed they had voted 8-4 to put him off the committee. "He was kicked off, he didn't resign," Nelson said.

Varnum's explanation is that he quit because he didn't agree with the committee's policies on tuition. If he'd been a real representative he would have stayed there and fought for it," Nelson said.

Nelson said Varnum was taken off the committee because of non-attendance at meetings.

He also took a swing on the question of billboards. "Varnum has been screaming one way," he said, "yet his billboards litter the highway from Sault Ste. Marie to Baraboo." Nelson said that the billboards do not say what Varnum is running for or what political party he belongs to. Nelson described them as a "devious attempt to deceive the people."

Four top Democrats to appear

A quartet of four top Democratic candidates will be on hand Sunday for the third in a series of four county rallies being sponsored by the county Democratic organization.

The Manistique area rally is scheduled for 6 p.m. at the Three Mile Supper Club.

Scheduled to be present are Paul Brown, candidate for the University of Michigan Board of Regents; Nino Green of Gladstone, candidate for Congress; Russel (Bob) Lee of Ontonagon, candidate for State Senator from the 57th District, and Mike Nelson of Escanaba, candidate for State Representative from the 107th District.

The final rally of the pre-election campaign is scheduled for Seney-Gormfask residents Nov. 1. The time and place of the meeting will be announced later.

Senate candidate Lee was the featured speaker last Wednesday night at the second rally of the series, held in the Wood Township Hall at Cooks.

"This is the year for the Democrats!" Lee told the group at the meeting. "I have always felt that the Democratic party represented the ordinary person in the United States, and this is the year for his voice to be heard."

He said he would be devoting the last week of his campaign toward working for a 97 per cent voter turnout, but added realistically, "Anything over 80 per cent would bring this district of ours national publicity."

Lee also called on strongly against Proposal "C" on the November ballot, labeling it discriminatory and a move that would result in the closing of all non-public schools in the state.

He said he felt it would result in poorer education for all youngsters, and was opposed to the proposal.

Bill Nelson of Escanaba appeared at the rally to represent his brother Mike, candidate for State Representative, who was unable to be present.

Also speaking were Cal Jensen, on behalf of congressional candidate Nino Green, Robert Louy, on behalf of Road Commission Chairman Harold McNamara; Habsley Frenette of Doyle Township, speaking for all Democratic candidates for the County Board of Commissioners; Jess Gutierrez for Sen. Philip Hart, and County Clerk Ferdinand Laska, who presented election and ballot information.

Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Seniors pick of play

Gov. Sault No. 1, a play in three acts by Ruth Hale has been selected by the Senior play this year. The play is being presented by the committee of seniors at the Manistique High School. The play will be held Saturday, Dec. 12, in the high school gym.

A nodline will be for elementary students only, Dec. 4 at 3:30 p.m. and has been announced.

School aid is offered

Fred H. Halme, chairman of the Schoolcraft County Chapter of The National Foundation-March of Dimes announced this week that March of Dimes scholarships will be offered to high school students planning to pursue studies in nursing, medicine, occupational therapy, physical therapy, medical social work and occupational therapy.

March of Dimes Health Careers Awards in nursing, occupational therapy, and physical therapy are offered high school seniors; awards in medical social work and medicine are available to college undergraduates at specific academic levels.

Halme pointed out that, in contrast with most scholarships made when the recipient is advanced in his studies, the March of Dimes Awards will help the young person at the very beginning of his career.

"The March of Dimes Health Careers Awards program is particularly timely because the severe shortage of trained health personnel is a national problem," Halme said.

"I am happy we are able to do something in our community to fill this desperate need. It is one more reason the March of Dimes deserves our strongest support."

"By helping educate young people today, we can make sure there are enough trained people in the future to treat, nurse and rehabilitate those stricken by crippling disease."

Halme said that application forms are available through the local chapter.

Book is reviewed for local Study Club

"Those Fabulous Greeks," by Doris Lilly was reviewed for members of the Study Club on Monday evening by Mrs. Charles Atwater. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Carl Carlson with Mrs. William Hood assisting.

Mrs. Diane Waters will present the next review on Monday, Nov. 16 with Mrs. John Moffat hostess at Gulliver Lake. Mrs. Earl H. LeBrasseur will be assisting hostess.

Letter to the Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

HOW TO DO IT!

If you want to make an author prouder... than his hawk in Manistique!

If you want to alienate young people... try to take away their freedom to read!

If you want to fear a community wide open... send the "rigilantes" into the school and public library!

If you want to publicize a controversial book... tell everyone it's a "No No!"

If you want to try and set the moral standards and the rooting level for a community... buy air lines!

If you want to rear your children in a sterile situation... try the moon!

If you are looking for a "witch hunt"... start with censorship and book burning!

Let's be honest. Let's talk about a germ-free library in a germ-ridden world. Let's get off the broom sticks and back to reality... working together, united in an honest sincere effort to make this a peaceful community of which we can all be justifiably proud.

Yours respectfully,
Katherine LeBrasseur

The fear of rabies is increasing, and rabies comes to us immediately when a dog sustains an animal bite scratch. Since most anti-rabies involve dogs, the rabies vaccine is usually determined if the animal can be captured alive and treated by a veterinarian. If animal is rabid, it is obvious within a few days. If it thrives in the kennel, the bitten person need not worry.

The circumstances involved in a biting incident play a vital role. An animal bites without cause or provocation should be considered an unless caught and treated. For instance, an excited dog exhibits purposeful movements with drooling, snapping and vocal parading.

In such instances when the YOUR DOCTOR SHOULD NOTIFIED so that anti-rabies vaccine may be started immediately. Usually hyperimmune serum is injected and the wound probed if the dog is not sensitive to the virus.

FULL ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITY

During 1969 and 1970, Michigan Democrats have reaffirmed their traditional commitment to the goal of full economic security for every citizen. New legislation has been enacted to provide an increase in the minimum wage, higher unemployment compensation and an extension of that compensation during periods of high unemployment.

X I believe that the state of Michigan must institute even more vigorous employment programs, in conjunction with the Federal Government and private industry, so that the spiraling unemployment rate is halted immediately. The state's efforts must also be directed toward permanently ending unemployment and underemployment for all citizens regardless of age, sex, race or area of residence.

OUT OUR WAY

to help summer relief. Our color of autumn is gone now and the surroundings out our way have a showpon face. We had a touch of Indian summer which always comes after the less of summer and autumn beauty. We may still have more of Indian summer days but I can see everywhere that the earth, trees and all of nature's plants are all grounded for their winter's rest. Last Thursday evening we had snow flurries and in the morning we saw the earth covered with a white carpet in areas, where the leaves lay to keep the earth warm. We took a walk into the forest and found the winter-green berries giving the earth a touch of beauty as we come into the middle of our autumn season.

Soon the folks will be making their last week end trips to their cabins, putting things in order to close up for the winter and look forward to spring's return. The roads, too, have been busy flying south, even starting their flights during the night.

Dark season is really here now, no matter what kind of weather the dawn brings his leadership will take off for the dark bird, crowd alone the old com stalks to wait for the ducks to land on his side, there will be duck dinner for the table. Good luck to all you hunters.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Fielders spent a few days visiting the Norman Underwoods at Murphy Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hall of Chequamegon, spent a week at Brimacombe's cabin on Thunders Lake. Mr. and Mrs. John Burleson of Chicago are vacationing at Ramsdens Cottage at Thunders Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hieronymus of Detroit spent several days at their cabin on Thunders Lake, as did Mrs. Esther White and son Donald of Dearborn.

Echoes of birthday greetings go out to John Hartman, Jake Schuetter, Marie Gardner, August Frans and Lucille Burson. Happy returns of the day to all of you.

Anniversary wishes go out to the F. G. Bonners, John Barbers, Harry Bockorups, Alvin Schellenbergers, and the Victor Petersons. May the day for all of you be one of complete happiness.

Until next week, stay healthy and happy.

Senior Citizens

BY EILEEN MALES
Practically every adult living today will live to be 65 and older. In 1975, there were 20 younger people for every person over 65 and in 1975, there will be only eight younger people for every 65 year old. You are going to get there too!

What will you do about old age? If you are younger, you can develop an emotional state now. Plan for future finances, plan a place to live when you are advanced in years, expand your interests by developing hobbies, get acquainted with people and since you are going to be old some day, start making people see the problems of the aged.

If you are already aged, these following hints are helpful. Cooperate with the inevitable and accept gracefully whatever fate may be. Whenever an old friend departs, seek a new one. Life is as empty or full as you make it. Try to be flexible and adaptable in your thinking, avoid prejudice, don't criticize youth for being as they are. Dress neatly, sew up the holes in the old garments very carefully. Retain good, clean manners. Do not dawdle, pursue interests as though you mean business. Above all, keep your disposition pleasant and cheerful. Greet people with a smile and a kind word. Don't gripe, except when no one else can hear you and when you can't hear yourself. Never let yourself know how tired you are. Just sit down for a while, telling yourself that doing so was what you had in mind anyway. And lastly don't worry about dying. Everyone who lived before you stood it.

These hints were taken from the book "How To Live 365 Days A Year" by Dr. John A. Schindler. It is available in the pocket edition also. Another good book to read is "The Power of Positive Thinking," by Norman Vincent Pease.

The program "The Golden Years" is being shown over WFRV TV - Green Bay. Please check the TV guide for time and date. These programs cover health, nutrition, safety, living in America, consumer affairs, Social Security, nursing home and etc. Be sure to see this.

Our movies at the Harbor View Towers will be shown at 7 p.m. instead of 7:30. Our schedule is as follows: Tuesday, 2 - Arts and Crafts; Wednesday, 2 - 4, oil painting and Friday, 7 p.m. cards and a social hour.

Seniors, 65 and older, who haven't picked up their courtesy cards are invited to do so at the center. This entitles you to a discount at 40 participating merchants. So far 89 persons have taken advantage of this.

Lastly, I'd like to tell you a story about a Senior couple who went riding in the country. He was driving and she was dreamily reminiscing. Finally she spoke, "Dear, remember when we first married how close together we used to sit in the car?" "A twinkle in his eye, her husband said, "I haven't moved!"

Family Living

BY INGRID TERVONEN
Michigan State University Extension Home Economist
I'm sorry I had to miss the 4-H Awards banquet on Thursday night. I always enjoy the event and visiting with you. I do plan to be at the Leaders' banquet on Nov. 5. If there are any special questions you want to ask me then, I'll be available.

Delta and Menominee counties are having a lesson early in November called a "Vegetable Bonanza." Extension leaders will be bringing in samples of their favorite vegetable dishes or will try something new on the first of us. We'll be testing first, then discussing how we can serve more vegetables to the family. I'd like to do the same thing in Schoolcraft county but will need your help. You'll be hearing more about it and we'll set dates.

We had a good turn-out for Ingrid Bartell's session on "Trends in the Market Place." There were some new faces at the meeting. We hope to see you again, plus our regular familiar faces.

Mrs. Soma Geekyiyama enjoyed meeting you and I know she a charmer! And the more you are with her, the more you like her. She will be returning to East Lansing on Oct. 26 and on Oct. 28 she will leave Michigan, Washington, D.C., Philadelphia, the Philippines, Singapore and Tokyo are on her itinerary but these visits will be short. She is very anxious to return to her family.

We got taken in on the magic weight reducing gadgets. Some can be quite expensive. My sister, a prime example, bought a special stationary bicycle for about $80 and never uses it. I was in a discount store recently and was looking at one of the one-wheel with handles gadgets that is the rage. One of the Extension homemakers was nearby and said "Don't buy it. I'm a prime example I took her word and didn't buy it. Thought I'd settle for a few push-ups instead of getting my roll in the middle. I'm sure the gadget is like the bicycle. It's good if you make good use of it."

And most of them want to be better.

"In between the worst and the best are thousands of mediocre schools whose staffs know something is wrong, but they aren't sure just what."

Miss Parsons recognizes the difficulty of innovating. "The problem of accepting or even giving a hearing to new ideas is not a new one, nor is it confined to the field of education. It is, perhaps, the most deplorable in a field based on thinking, but resistance to change clogs every drain."

Louis Agassiz, the naturalist, said it about botany and his words are appropriate here-- "Every great scientific truth goes through three stages. First, people say it conflicts with the Bible. Next, they say it has already been discovered before. Lastly, they say they have always believed it."

Miss Parsons believes schools can change and that it is the responsibility of many different groups and individuals to see to it that they do. "Great things are called for. Sweeping changes are coming. These changes must be sound, positive, intelligent, dynamic, healing. To see that they are is the duty of citizens, members of school boards, administrators and teachers, parents, college professors, and even professional teacher organizations. All must be committed to the cause of excellence in education -- all must be much more dissatisfied than they have been with the way things are today.

"Schools can change. They can be dynamic instead of dull, exciting as well as exacting, creative as well as relevant, free instead of restrictive".

Miss Parsons explodes and exposes the myths which resist change. Myth No. 1, is that it takes 50 years for an innovation to get into the schools; Myth No. 2, the more money a district spends the more innovative it is; and Myth No. 3, "What was good enuf for Pa is good enuf for me."

She indicates that most innovations are only a thought away. "They need not wait 50 years, or even five minutes. They only need attention.

"It is not the amount of money that is responsible for the innovation. Instead, it is the amount of commitment to change."

"...there are scores of school systems which are considerably richer in ideas than cash."

The "what was good enuf for Pa is good enuf for me" myth has had considerable reinforcement from unenlightened parents and from the educational establishment. "The public schools have become citadels of conformity. And teachers' colleges and departments of education in colleges and universities treated teaching as a vocation and these colleges and departments became the lowest common denominator in the academic world."

Three proposals

THERE WILL BE THREE PROPOSALS on the ballot for Michigan voters in the general election two weeks from now.

Proposal No. 1 deals with a state bond issue for housing projects. There seems to be general agreement that it is desirable, and there has been little general opposition to it.

Proposal No. 2 revives the 1966 question of allowing 18-year-olds the vote. It is somewhat clouded this year because of Federal laws passed in June that would give this privilege automatically. There are court tests underway right now to determine the legality of the Federal law, so in the interim Michigan voters can express their own views. Georgia and Kentucky allow 18-year-olds to vote now. Alaska sets the age at 19, while Hawaii says 20. The rest of the states stick with the 21-year rule.

We said it four years ago and we will repeat our stand now. We believe the good outweighs the bad in the proposal, and that 18-year-olds should be allowed to vote.

Finally, we come to the question, or Proposition "C" on the ballot. And that's a dandy.

Most folks know it as the Parochial resolution, but beyond that identification, opinions tend to get a little fuzzy. One good reason would be because of the way the question is phrased on the ballot. If you favor Parochial, you vote "No." If you are against it, you vote "Yes."

But somehow, the language of the proposal goes even further. It reads:

"No public monies or property shall be appropriated or paid or any public credit utilized, by the legislature or any other political subdivision or agency of the state directly or indirectly to aid or maintain any private denominational or other nonpublic pre-elementary, elementary, or secondary school. No payment, credit, tax benefit, exemption or deduction, tuition voucher, subsidy, grant or loan of public monies or property shall be provided, directly or indirectly, to support the attendance of any student or the employment of any person at any such nonpublic school or at any location or institution where instruction is offered in whole or in part to such nonpublic school students. The legislature may provide for the transportation of students to and from any school."

It should be noted that the word "Parochial" nowhere appears on the ballot. For this reason, perhaps, the state appended the following official explanation:

"This amendment adds language to the constitution to:

"(A) Prohibit use of public funds to aid any nonpublic elementary or secondary school.

"(B) Prohibit use of public funds, except for transportation, to support the attendance of any students or the employment of any person at nonpublic schools or at any other location or institution where instruction is offered in whole or in part to nonpublic school students.

"(C) Prohibit any payment, credit, tax benefit, exemption or deductions, voucher, subsidy, grant or loan of public monies or property, directly or indirectly, for the above purposes."

We reprint all of the above, ambiguity and all, so that there will be no misunderstanding of the proposal.

The unfortunate thing about the proposal is that it attempts to go too far in delineating the historical separation of church and state. In effect it punishes several hundred thousands of children now attending parochial schools by denying them educational services including health, library and driver education, and special programs for delinquent, disturbed and mentally handicapped children. It could jeopardize some federal funds for both public and nonpublic schools. Finally, it could remove the property tax exemption for nonpublic schools, which is a far cry from the more reasonable suggestion of putting all church-owned property on the tax rolls.

It's our suggestion that you vote "No" on Proposal "C," and if you are unhappy with the theory of Parochial, support the inevitable attempts to reach a more fair and equitable limitation through a less confusing and less restrictive amendment.

Who reads dirty books?

Let's talk about Jerry Rubin and his book, "Do It!"

Why not? That's all anybody in town's been talking about all week, with arguments waxing pro and con from the sublime to the ridiculous and the intelligent to the insane.

It was somehow ironic, as the debate was waxing hot and heavy at the school board meeting last week in the uproar caused by the discovery of this dirty book on the school and public library shelf, that in the midst of it all, I noted a little carving in the top of the press table alluding to the alleged sexual idiosyncrasies of a faculty member. It was the sort of thing you discover on the walls of toilets and hear on the street corner or in the bar. Certainly not original, not clever nor illuminating, but very commonplace.

How many people in the past have gotten excited about these dirty words on walls, on desks, on tables, in all the places that inventive minds can conceive? Have we started a crusade yet to crucify the janitor because he didn't scrub the washroom wall?

Maybe there were 100 people at the school board meeting last week. I doubt if 10 had read the book in question. I hadn't, but I read it this past week end.

What is Jerry Rubin saying that is so offensive? I almost hate to dignify his literary effort with a critique, but if anyone is interested in my opinion it is a juvenile, badly-written book conceived by a disturbed mind with a single intent---to shock. Rubin's purpose, and that of his fellow Yippies, is to gain publicity via the shock technique, to be so blatantly offensive they cannot help but arouse the righteous indignation of the vast mid-American majority, and by arousing it, bring attention and possible credence to their purpose in life, which is revolution.

In all of this, Jerry Rubin was eminently successful in Manistique. The book may be off the library shelf, but by becoming an object of controversy it has propelled itself to the point of becoming a best-read, best-selling publication. Two weeks ago, 90 per cent of the students at Manistique High School would have had no interest in the book. Today, 90 per cent seem determined to read it. And that's just what Jerry Rubin and his Yippie revolutionaries wanted in the first place.

"Yippie is just an excuse to rebel," he says in the book, and if the Pioneer-Tribune be banned from the library shelves for quoting from the book, so be it.

"Our parents are waging a genocidal war against their own kids. The economy has no use or need for youth. Everything is already built. Our existence is a crime..."

"The function of school is to keep white middle-class youth off the streets. High schools and colleges are fancy baby-sitting agencies. Vietnam and the school system are the two main fronts in Amerika's genocidal campaign against the youth. Jails and mental hospitals follow closely."

Remember, this book has sold 200,000 copies. It may send you right through the roof with indignation as you read it, but remember, our kids are reading it too.

"The 1950's were the turning point in the history of Amerika. Those who grew up before the 1950's live today in a mental world of Nazism, concentration camps, economic depression and Communist dreams Stalinized.

A pre-1950's child who can still dream is very rare.

"Kids who grew up in the post 1950's live in a world of supermarkets, color TV commercials, guerilla war, international media, psychedelics, rock 'n' roll and moon walks. For us nothing is impossible. We can do anything.

"This generation gap is the widest in history. The pre-1950's generation has nothing to teach the post 1950's, and that's why the school system is falling apart."

It is pointless to reprint the crude words he uses for shock effect. This is a family newspaper, our second class postal permit doesn't allow it, and best of reason of all, they are pointless except to give the impression that he is daring and original, which he isn't, just juvenile and crude. But they are there, in the book, and he puts them there purposely, to shock and outrage. If you didn't react, it wouldn't be fun anymore.

He is a master propagandist. There is just enough truth mixed in with the lies and the absurd to make the entire thing seem to have a ring of reasonableness. But he makes a fatal mistake. He assumes that because we as elders have made mistakes in the past, that our children will automatically join in a blanket indictment against us.

Personally, I have more faith in our kids. I have more faith in America, in our schools, in our churches, in our small towns such as Manistique. Rubin sells these things short, and that's where he makes his mistake.

I have faith that our kids are intelligent enough, discerning enough, honest enough, proud enough, conscientious enough to separate the wheat of truth from his chaff of shock and outrage. They may read, but that doesn't mean they're about to buy.

There is a certain comfort, to those of us in middle age, to recall that the fascist masterminds of our youth were convinced that American youth was too soft, too shallow-minded, too vulnerable. They learned the hard way that there is a timbre and fibre to the American spirit that extends from the oldest to the youngest, and that in the game of international politics and ideas, American youth holds the royal flush.

If we have done our job as parents, then we should not fear the thought of our children reading such a book. If we have done a good enough job with our children, we should hope for equal time to refute the obvious foolishness and inconsistencies of such a book.

I for one am not about to admit to Jerry Rubin, or any other revolutionary, that I am afraid to have my child read his book. Instead I would accept his challenge, invite him to do his worst--which this book is--and then leave it up to these wonderful kids of ours to make their own decision. I have enough confidence in them, and in their heritage, to feel that they will be able to spot the phoniness and shallowness and cheapness and illusory indulgence, and to judge for themselves whether or not the America they have come to know is indeed as Rubin portrays it, or is instead a land of great promise and potential, where the opportunities and challenges of the future can still be exciting and exhilarating and worthwhile--still something of great and inestimable value that eventually they will want to pass along to their own children and grandchildren.

SCHOOLS CAN CHANGE

Cynthia Parson, the former education editor of the Christian Science Monitor, is committed to the idea that schools can change, and that people ("exciting people") make the difference between bad education (status quo) and good education (constant change through innovation).

The quotes from her book, "Schools Can Change," indicate present conditions, the direction she thinks changes should take, and the method for achieving them.

"The best schools in the United States are not nearly as good as they could or should be, and they know it.

"The worst schools in the United States are more terrible than anyone will admit.

BY MRS. ELEANOR LABUTTE
 Myron Farley is recuperating at his home after being a surgical patient in Ann Arbor. He was there two weeks.
 St. Anne's Altar Society met Oct. 13 for a potluck supper followed by a meeting at the St. John's Parish hall in Garden.
 The annual Lord's Acre sale held at Fayette Oct. 9 was a very successful affair, it was reported, and the attendance was much higher than in previous years. Fred Lang of Leland, Mich., was high bidder on the quilt, which had a large orchid pattern made by Mrs. Stern. The quilt was put together by several women in two old-fashioned quilting bees held this summer. Everything was reported sold and plans are in progress for next year's sale to held in the fall.

A program was presented to Big Bay de Noc students recently by Mrs. Somo Geekiyangage of Ceylon. Married and the mother of three children, a graduate of Kundasale School of Agriculture, she is a very friendly and outgoing person who is touring the United States. A question and answer period was held prior to her tour of the Garden Peninsula.

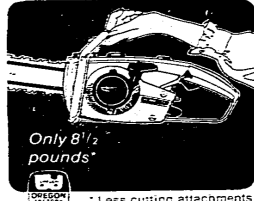

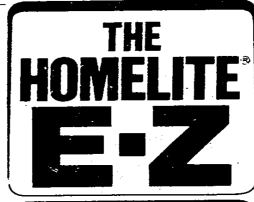

Oct 11, Mrs. Geekiyangage was a guest at the home of the Garth Briggs in Fairport. Oct. 12 she stayed at the Herman Robare home in Fayette. Carla Laux and Lael Stern were guides on a tour that included the new Big Bay de Noc school, the Bay House, the home of Mrs. Frank Zehrn where they observed her rabbit raising business and her unusual woods work.

They also visited Bill Hermes' fish sheds and boats, George Coppess' cattle company farm, John LaTulip's dairy farm, Hector Peterson's fishing business and equipment, Harold Sterns' chicken and beef farm on Burnt Bluff. They stopped for lunch at the Roy Laux home in Fairport. Oct. 12 she was honored at a potluck supper sponsored by Fayette 4-H Club members and leaders. Held at the Fayette Town Hall, the dinner was largely attended by area people.

THE WORLD GOD MADE

Teach them the wonder of its foliage, the panorama of its seasons, the mystery of ever-renewing life.

Teach them the world God made.

But teach them, too, the God who made the world . . . the majesty of His Power, the purity of His Holiness . . . the tenderness of His Love.

Teach them the Christ through Whom our Creator revealed His heart to mankind.

There is no greater tragedy than to cherish a book, but not understand its Author.

1969-70

A REPORT TO THE PEOPLE*MANISTIQUE AREA SCHOOLS

MANISTIQUE, MICHIGAN

Superintendent's Report

The 1969-70 school year was a year of many changes and many new programs.

These would include:

- *Three additional classes in special education.
- *Transporting vocational students to Bay de Noc Community College for classes in electricity and welding.
- *Addition of vocational classes in cooperative education in distribution and office practices.
- *Use of the new audio bus.
- *The first full year of operation for the "open-spaces" Lakeside School.
- *The first full year of the Upper Peninsula Highway Safety act program.
- *Administering General Educational Development (GED) tests through the Community education program.
- *Considerable improvement of the instrumental music program.
- *Continuation of all other programs which had been in practice.

During the year the board also received the report of the Citizen's Advisory Committee which recommended the hiring of an architect to consider the feasibility of a building and/or remodeling program. The Board of Education did hire the Lansing architectural firm of Warren Holmes, and are now working with the architects to determine the feasibility of remodeling and expanding the high school.

The voters again passed a millage issue for operation, and the district won a substantial law suit against the State Department of Education for back state aid funds.

What's ahead in the future?

During the 1970 school year we will be adding a program of Contracted Vocational Education. This is through a special grant from the Department of Education under the Vocational Education Act. It will enable the Manistique Area Schools to train students for specific occupational skills on job sites within the community.

Through the cooperation of the Intermediate District we will be able to add an additional class for handicapped youngsters. This will be at the Mueller School--which we reopened this fall. We also will have the services of a diagnostician and of a speech therapist. These employees will be located in Manistique and should be able to provide services which the district has not had previously. The community education program continues to flourish, and many adults and children in the community have benefited. We are adding a part-time nurse to our staff.

The physical improvements during the past year include providing additional parking spaces at Lincoln, providing a new boiler at Lincoln, the blacktopping around the Central School, new roofing on the Junior High and the Industrial Arts building at Central School, installation of a new electrical system for the welders in the Industrial Arts Department and the continuation of adding equipment, especially through special grants under federal and state-supported programs.

The community does face some critical educational difficulties. The most crucial will be in the area of finance. The Manistique Area Board of Education adopted a balanced budget this year which will maintain all services which have been provided in the past. However, without an increase in financial resources--either in state aid or local, or a combination of the two--this will not be possible next year. There will be no lawsuit windfall to make-up the deficit.

The second serious consideration is the possible loss of accreditation unless certain minimum requirements are met. The North Central Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges has informed the board that it must provide an assistant high school principal and increase the guidance staff. We must continue our efforts to solve these pressing problems.

We thank the many citizens for their participation and generous cooperation and donation of time. They have been active in the school program through the PTAs, PTA Advisory Committee, the Elementary-Secondary Education Act Advisory Committee, the Community School Advisory Committee, the Vocational Education Advisory Committee and the Booster Club; also, many parents have assisted with school projects in other capacities.

The cooperation of the entire staff is also assuredly appreciated, and it is only through their efforts that the progress which has been made in our district can continue.

Superintendent

FROM THE AUDITOR

Board of Trustees
Manistique Area Public Schools
Manistique, Michigan

We have examined the accompanying financial statements of the several funds of the MANISTIQUE AREA PUBLIC SCHOOLS as of June 30, 1970. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly the financial position of the several funds of the MANISTIQUE AREA PUBLIC SCHOOLS as of June 30, 1970 and the results of their operations for the year then ended. Schneider, Larche & Haapala Certified Public Accountants

COMMENTS RELATING TO SCOPE OF EXAMINATION*MANISTIQUE AREA PUBLIC SCHOOLS

June 30, 1970

Cash on deposit was reconciled to the amounts reported directly to us by the depositories and cash on hand was counted and reconciled to June 30, 1970. For periods selected by us, recorded deposits were traced to bank statements and cancelled checks, invoices and other data on file were examined in support of recorded disbursements. Recorded payroll disbursements were compared with individual earnings records and teachers' contracts for selected periods on a test basis. Bonds paid during the year were inspected. The cash receipts and disbursements records were footed for the selected periods and the totals were traced to the general ledger accounts.

Securities held by the district were inspected by us or confirmed directly to us by the banks which held the securities for safekeeping. Interest received on these securities was checked.

Insurance in force is as shown on policies and other data inspected by us.

Current taxes, delinquent taxes and other funds received from the City, State and County were verified by the City Controller and the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate Superintendent of Schools. Interfund transfers and receipts from other selected activities were checked on a test basis. Amounts receivable have been appropriately recorded in the statements of revenue and expenditures and in the balance sheets as of June 30, 1970.

Suppliers statements and invoices on file were examined in support of amounts stated for accounts payable, and transactions immediately subsequent to June 30, 1970 were reviewed to satisfy ourselves that all known liabilities were provided for in the balance sheets. Liabilities for amounts withheld from employees and for the accrued items were reviewed to determine that requirements were adequately provided for in the balance sheets.

The child account records were examined by the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate Superintendent of Schools and were not a part of our examination.
