Old-Timers play again!

The baseball glories of the super summer special Old-Timers baseball team, organized and wily manager of the Old-Timers squad, this week issued a call for volunteers to appear in a July 4th contest at Cardinal Field.

Old-Timers participants would be able to take the field adding that it will add a lot to the contest if they are also to see the ball and lift a bat.

Last year the Old-Timers successfully turned back the challenge of a group of veteran players from the Cooks-Garden area in a five-inning pitcher's duel, by a score of 24-23, or something like that.

Fortunately for the Old-Timers, the field of combat is located strategically between the hospital and the cemetery. Game time will be 11 a.m., Lesica said, provided enough of his squad can get out of bed that early.

Official Proceedings OF THE MANISTIQUE CITY COUNCIL

June 8, 1970

A regular meeting of the Manistique City Council was held on June 8, 1970, at 7:30 P.M. at City Hall. There were present: Councilmen Rose, DeMars, Cayla, Reque, Barber, City Attorney Berger and City Manager Noe. Absent: None.

The minutes of the regular meeting of May 25, 1970, were approved as read.

Mr. William Stephens was present about the dust problem on North First Street and Mr. Noe said that liquid chlorine would be spread on Wednesday to hold down the dust on the streets. Mr. Thomas Holobik requested action on an abandoned lot on Lake Street where debris from a demolished house presented a hazard to children. He also asked why the grass at the Senior Citizens Drop In Center was not cut by the people who had use of the building instead of city crews.

Mr. Boyd Briggs, County Sanitarian, requested information about a local ordinance concerning burning by residents. The ambulance was again discussed and Mr. Briggs clarified previous statements from the last council meeting and said the present vehicle was satisfactory and the operators would need to take an advanced first aid course to qualify.

State Geologist Jack Van Alstyne discussed the abandoned well at the old water tower and gave the geological history of the well from records of his department. He showed charts and maps describing the strata of the area and said that he believed the well project was abandoned because of the hardness and chlorine content and said that if the well had gone deeper adequate water would have been found but the quality would not be ideal because of the hardness and chlorine, and said that in his opinion there was not good water at any level. Mr. Van Alstyne answered questions and a lengthy discussion followed.

Mr. John Erickson and Mr. Cletus Courchaine of the Michigan Health Department were present to discuss the water problems in the city. Mr. Erickson said that under our present conditions there could be times when the water is not properly chlorinated before it goes into the distribution system because the pumping station is not manned at all times when the low lift pumps are operating. Because of the changing conditions of Indian Lake and the river, the demand for chlorine can change within a few hours time and unless there is an operator present at these times, it could be possible that the proper amount would not be added. This occurred while the pumps are operating. Also, the need for a filtration plant was brought up and although the water is chemically safe, the hardness and bacteriology content is poor and the only remedy for this is filtration. Mr. Erickson cited the time in 1964 when conditions in the river were such that the water taste was very bad and showed sludges of the water at that time showing solids in the water. At present costs, it was estimated that a filtration plant would cost $500,000.00 and this would require a large increase in water rates and a long term bonding program to finance the project. Mr. Erickson said he would draw up approposed timetable for presentation to the city and he said that action should start soon on the preliminary phases of the project. A lengthy discussion followed.

After the induction ceremony, President Bertoldi presented Earl McIntyre of Marquette, retiring president, with an official Boy Scout pin.

A spirited discussion preceded approval of a $95,545 budget for 1971. Each of the six districts will be expected to contribute the following community share: Chippewa $12,738; Copper Country $13,376; Pelt Marquette $23,614; Red Buck $16,101; Menominee $11,229; Iron Range $5,449 and from the National Council matching funds of $12,978.

"Advance reservations indicate that Camp Hiawatha will operate at near total capacity from July 5 through August 15," said Ernest Neumann, camping chairman. During the discussion of camp activities for the summer, a general invitation was issued to all interested residents of the Upper Peninsula to inspect the camp development, which includes a new service building.

Father David Jemer, council chairman for the World Jam-borne in Japan in 1971, announced that six boys and five adults had applied as of June 19. All applications must be on file by August 1.

"The Boy Scout movement in the Upper Peninsula has made a great many gains during the past year," said Richard Shawalter, Hiawathaland scout executive. "From all indications, we will serve an even greater number of boys in 1971."

New harvesting technique adds to hardwood value

A technological breakthrough to achieve maximum tree use in hardwood dimension production has been developed after five years of research by Prof. James F. Hamilton of Michigan Technological University's Institute of Wood Research.

The maximum-use concept achieves 2 1/2 per cent more usable material from the same tree, compared with the system currently used by manufacturers. In addition to increasing the value of trees, the new concept also would help conserve our valuable timber resources. Because so trees will provide the equivalent of 160 trees," Hamilton explained.

Hardwood trees usually are cut into 16-foot logs, which are then sawn into full-length graded lumber. This lumber, with the exception of flooring grades, is shipped to the area. Manufacturers then re-manufacture this lumber into dimensioned components primarily for furniture. The ultimate use of the bulk of hardwood timber is in short lengths, averaging less than 48 inches.

The new concept involves using more of each tree stem and then cutting it into shorter lengths related to the length of the actual finished product. These sections, called bolts, are converted into the board lengths required in a fast-sawing system. After kiln drying, re-manufacturing is done to produce a secondary product to the purchaser's specifications. Thus, the maximum tree-use concept employs more of each tree and the value added by re-manufacturing helps the economy of the area.

Hamilton said another benefit of the new system is that low quality hardwood timber produces a much better yield of high grade industrial parts than the current system, which has a problem of obtaining high grade lumber from low grade people and the value added by the concept was development of a reliable method of grading and cutting bolts for specific uses.

The research proposal was approved by the Michigan Legislative Committee on Economic Development in June, 1965. The project was funded by the Michigan Office of Economic Expansion and has been supplemented by support from the University's Institute of Wood Research. The actual sawing involved in the study was done at Michigan Tech's Ford Forestry Center sawmill at Albion.

Dr. Herford Garland, IWR director, noted that a basic assignment of the Institute is continual development of more efficient uses for hardwood forest resources. Particularly emphasized is Michigan's Upper Peninsula, where forests comprise about 90 per cent of the total area. Dr. Garland pointed out, however, that the new maximum-use concept could result in increased employment and increased market value of products throughout the hardwood timber areas of the state and nation.

Hamilton, who has been at Michigan Tech since 1955, is a founding member and past president of the National Forest Products Research Society. Before joining the MTU staff he was chief wood technologist of U.S. Plywood Corp., Algoma, Wis.; technical services director for Perkins Glue Co., Lansdale, Pa.; and director of research, U.S. Bobbin and Shuttle Co., Lawrence, Mass. His master of forestry degree is from the Yale University School of Forestry.

4-Hers hold picnic

A key to implementing the concept was development of a reliable method of grading and cutting bolts for specific uses. The research proposal was approved by the Michigan Legislative Committee on Economic Development in June, 1965. The project was funded by the Michigan Office of Economic Expansion and has been supplemented by support from the University's Institute of Wood Research.

Would You Like a Job Painting? My niece and her husband will be moving into their own home on July 1. It is an old one given to them by her husband's uncle. It's an 8 room, four bedroom house so he'll have a den and she'll have her sewing room. The outside of the house and every room in it needs to be painted or papered and the floors need waxing. As with many young couples, their tastes are entirely different. She's quite conservative and he has some "way out" ideas that they're agreed he can use in his den. I'm sure he'll have some of them elsewhere in the house too.

Right now I sympathize with them. They're young, inexperienced, and have so many decisions to make. Some twenty windows need curtains or draperies and a few are real picture windows. The kitchen needs to be remodeled and the want a laundry room on the first floor.

Where Do You Start When You Have So Much To Do? Many young couples moving into a home for the first time have many decisions to make. How would you do it? I would suggest doing the bare essentials first and then working on one room at a time. And you need to live in a house for a while to know what you really want, even to the kind of window treatment that would be best. All of it can't be finished this year or even next but if you take your time, you'll be more satisfied with your decisions.

Summer concert plans set

Plans are being completed for the third annual Chamber Music Series for Manistique this summer.

Dr. Robert King and his wife Mary, of Altoona, Pa., have again returned to spend the summer at their cottage on the high rollways of the Manistique River, north of Manistique, and will once again be in charge of the production of the concerts.

The concerts will be held on successive Sunday evenings, July 12, 19 and 26, at the Lakeside School.

Financing for the programs is being solicited now by the Community Concert Committee, through major donations from area businesses, and ticket donations from those attending the concert, at $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Rev. Theodore Doane is chairman of the committee. Other members are Mrs. Doane, Mrs. James Fyvie, Dr. Danne Walters, Mrs. William Huest, Helen Meyer, John Moffat, Mr. and Mrs. John Orr, Miss F. M. Scheringer, Rev. Ingmar Levin and Rev. William H. Brauer.

Urban Renewal hearing set

The first public hearing concerning the proposed urban renewal program in the central business district of Manistique will be held Tuesday, July 7 in the high school auditorium.

Representatives of Villacorn Associates, planning consultants, will be present at the 7:30 p.m. hearing and will participate in the program. They will also have preliminary plans and drawings available as aids in the discussion.

According to Quinton Mitchell, urban renewal director, one of the purposes of the hearing is to get reactions to the planning suggestions from property owners, retailers and other interested citizens. It is also an opportunity for persons to get first hand information on what is happening as far as urban renewal is concerned and the direction the program is following.

Members of the citizens advisory council have been meeting regularly to discuss the progress of the program and they will be present at the July 7 hearing.

Before beer reaches the consuming public it employs 60,000 workers in the brewing industry alone and 1 million in collateral and support businesses and industries, paying $1.5 billion in state and federal excise taxes, over $2.7 billion in wages to employees, and distributors, and $1 billion for agricultural products and packaging. ing the elementary supervisor. It was pointed out by Wuehler that the proposed project for next year under the Elementary Secondary Education Act funds will include a projected expenditure of a million dollars, and that this person can utilize this time to serve as elementary supervisor.

The board also discussed the meeting procedures that interested people to submit items for the agenda by the Thursday preceding the Tuesday meeting. Leon Wood also pointed out that many last-minute items come up that cannot be included in time, and that he felt these people should have the opportunity to be heard. Gilliam also said he felt it would be courteous to hear people in the audience near the start of the meeting instead of making them wait while the board transacted routine business.

Wuehler suggested a plan whereby the first 15 minutes or so of the meeting are devoted to having these present state their problem, if any, and then having the board decide whether the issue should be discussed in detail later in the meeting. It was agreed that this would be a good procedure to use.

The board's procedure on paying bills also came in for discussion, and whether or not board members should return to the old method of personally going through the bills for approval. Wood said that the post of treasurer and secretary both take a lot of time, and that he felt these people should be paid for their extra effort. It was pointed out, however, that members of a Third Class school board may not receive any pay.

William Mueller suggested that board members be allowed to take the bills home for inspection, but it was pointed out that there is a danger of bills becoming lost or mislaid if this happens. Other board policies discussed included extension of probationary time for failure to meet for two years; changing the section on transportation to simply say the board will follow the state Transportation Code; the inclusion of a general statement of purpose to include the preparation of students for college study, and others. The revised policies will be rewritten and then submitted to the board at their next meeting for approval. The board will also study the section on student services at their second July meeting.

The Reques are given the right to remove the building, which they own, and the site can only be used as a drive-in restaurant. Councilman Reque explained that it was his intention to move to a new site as soon as possible, but added that it was important that he be given time to search for a new location. Bonitas explained that the commission was convened because the stand is in the area of the proposed Central Park recreation development project, and the land may be needed when state bond monies are made available to local units of government.

Council passed the final resolutions approving the lease of the property to the Reques, as well as authorizing a property exchange on Elm St. with Charles Frankovich, needed to round off the low-income housing project property.

Council discussed the purchase of a "sawtooth" aerial lift for use on the county fire truck. DeMars reported he had talked with the county Board of Commissioners regarding joint financing for the equipment, estimated to cost about $8,500, and it was agreed to request an equipment salesman to appear at the next session and present his case.

City participation in the financing of the recently appointed County Dog Warden was also discussed, and DeMars said he felt any city contribution should be used to increase the warden's salary, rather than simply decrease the share paid by the county. He said the warden is receiving $1,000 a year, and suggested city participation of $500 to assist in his operation. County representatives will be requested to appear at the next council session to discuss the issue.

Two requests for transfer of liquor licenses were approved, pending approval from the Department of Public Safety. These include the sale of Coluzzi's Bar at 325 Deer St. from James Coluzzi to Jack O. Reich, and the sale of the Hub Bar, 204 S. Cedar St., from James MacKenzie to Mary Sue Holland.

Council also approved the application of the Fourth City Committee for a fireworks permit. J. P. Quick will be in charge of the display, assisted by Martin Hololik and Don Klagesstad.

A request from Miss Jessie Truteau for abandonment of the alley at the rear of 623 Deer St., so that a covenant in the deed will allow the property to revert back to the original owner, was referred to the city attorney.

Council took action to give 30-days notice to DeBeres County of Detroit, owner of a house at N. Fifth and Caribou Sts., to correct deficiencies or demolish the structure. Leo DeMars voted against the resolution after stating earlier he felt efforts should be continued to enable the building to be repaired and retained on the tax roll.

Several residents from Bear

St. appeared with a petition requesting that the street be closed as one means of abating the dust that is raised by passing cars. Council discussed the possibility of erecting stop signs to slow the traffic, and the application of chloride. The question was tabled for study.

Councilman Fibor Reque presented a report on the meeting of the Manistique Municipal League held last night, including discussion of the highway construction plan, the Upper Peninsula issue of compulsory school attendance for municipal employees

A special place

WE HAD THE OPPORTUNITY recently of breaking bread with a happy group of older folks down at Harbor View Towers.

The occasion was a special going-away dinner for City Manager Robert Noe. The Senior Citizens now residing in their new home wanted to thank him in some way for his efforts in helping to make the housing project a reality.

How many of you can look back and recall the criticisms that accompanied the project?

Remember the contention that the housing was not needed, that it would leave vacant housing in the community, decrease the tax base and just be a waste of Federal tax monies?

Remember those who said the units would never be rented, that they were too small, and that the building looked like a series of grain elevators?

Remember those who contended that it would eventually become an apartment slum, and that the people would not be happy crowded in together?

We'd like to invite anyone to take some time and go down and talk to those people who live in the Towers today. We've never seen a happier group. They are in love with their building and their cozy apartments. They thrive on the view of the harbor and beach area, and they take immense pride in the neat appearance of the building and grounds.

They enjoy a close and unique fellowship with one another, living with people of their own age and interests, independent yet, but not alone.

Instead of vacancies, there is a waiting list, and it is our contention that a second facility of similar size would soon be filled.

There are also critics of the new low-income family housing project now under construction on N. Maple Ave. It would be our suggestion that the critics take a look at what happened at Harbor View Towers before getting carried away.

A good man goes

BY THE VERY NATURE of his job, City Manager Bob Noe has gained his share of critics during the three years he has served Manistique.

The manager hasn't been created yet who can please everyone, and the demands of the community are so varied and so great that there are bound to be unhappy citizens.

Despite these handicaps, we feel our community owes a big vote of thanks to Bob Noe for what he has accomplished.

The Senior Citizens housing project has been completed. The low-income housing unit is almost done. Our streets have finally received some long-overdue attention, maintenance and improvement. The harbor development program has been applied for. A new armory should be underway by this fall. A new City Hall has been built, and a new DPW storage building is under construction.

That's a considerable list of achievements for a small community in a depressed area.

Noe will be facing many similar challenges in his new job in Idaho, and we wish him well in those endeavors.

We also offer our thanks for a tough job well done here in Manistique. He'll be a tough act to follow.

Time for action!

The mating call of the Gitchee Bird, of course, is very unique. The cry of "Urk! Urk!" is seldom heard in the land any more. I thought I heard it once up at hunting camp, but it turned out that it was only Himself Hentschell brushing his teeth.

One of the problems in spotting Gitchee Birds is that they fly so fast, I can still recall my Pa telling me about the time that he spotted a Gitchee Bird in flight Wednesday at supper time, and by the time he could identify what it was time had gone so swiftly that it was back to breakfast Tuesday before he knew it was a Gitchee Bird.

The old-timers will tell you that there is nothing tastier than roast Gitchee Bird. The taste resembles that of the Cornish Pasty, probably because the Gitchee Bird subsists largely on rutabagas and black flies.

They also claim that there is nothing warmer than a hat made out of Gitchee Bird fur. (The Gitchee Bird has fur instead of feathers because it needs the protection while nesting during the months of January and February. I never said the Gitchee Bird was very smart, just scarce.)

It is the Gitchee Bird, of course, that is responsible for the naming of the Big Spring. Legend has it that a crafty Indian brave set a snare for the Gitchee Bird over by the spring, and that when the bird came down to get a drink of water he fell into the trap. "Gotcha Gitchee!" cried the brave happily, and the spring was known as Gotchgitchee until 1869 when a Frenchman with a speech impediment described it as Kitchitikiipi, by which name it is known today.

If we are ever going to have a National Gitchee Bird Refuge here, it's time we started writing letters to Congressman Phil Ruppe demanding action. The Jamestown Slough would be a perfect place for such a sanctuary, and it is convenient to US-2 so that the tourists could park along the highway and watch carefully to see if they could see the Gitchee Birds in flight.

Tomorrow may be too late.

News From Road 437

Hi Folks!

Summer has finally made its debut out our way, giving us those marvelous peaceful blue skies with fleecy white clouds. Our winds have calmed down to those summer breezes that like to toss the leaves about gently.

This morning the birds can be heard singing everywhere, each one his favorite melody. The chirp of the crickets comes in now and then to join their concert.

June has brought out more wild flowers along the roadsides and the forest floor. The Solomon's Seal, which is of the Lily-of-the-Valley family, has creamy white flowers in feathery pyramidal clusters on the end of a solitary leafy stem. They later ripen into plump speckled berries. In the deep grass you'll find the star grass that has a wide-eyed flower open at the very top of the stalk. In plains and among plantings we find the blueberry plants in bloom; along the edge of wet meadows or woods the blue flag iris and along the roadsides now you'll see the purple vetch, a smooth plant climbing by tendrils that grow two to three feet. Then there is the fireweed, with drooping flower buds and reddish seed-pods later angling upward. So don't miss seeing our wild floral show. It is beautiful.

The Conrad Donovans spent a week in Pontiac and Alpena. Their visit in Pontiac was to see their new granddaughter. The parents are William and Sandy Donovan. The other grandparent is Pauline Carey of Pontiac.

The Boss and I had a busy week end as all our family came home and also 19 grandchildren joined our family reunion. The oldest daughter, Ruth Vodnik and family from Hales Corners, Wis.; Lillian Stuber and family from New Berlin, Wis.; Jeanne Annelin with her family from Manistique, Kathleen Hardy and family from Pontiac, and our son Henry who is at the present time at home. It was a beautiful day for our reunion Saturday. A cook-out of chicken, ham and different salads was held. Children were kept happy playing games and going swimming. Truly everyone had a good time. At the end of the day all were ready for the land of nod.

Jack Sharkey of Gladstone spent the week end at his cabin on Thunder Lake. Also his sons Donald and Clem of Escanaba joined him.

Echoes of birthday greetings go out to John Ott, Hope Smith, Lillian Garvin, and Lee Rare-don.

Anniversary wishes go out to the Frank Lewis', Tom Husons, Carl Luecks, and Joel Petersons.

May the day for all of you be one of complete happiness.

Until next week stay healthy and happy.

Public Hearing On Urban Renewal

Tuesday, July 7, 1970

7:30 P. M. At The Manistique High School Auditorium

There will be a hearing open to the public concerning the Urban Renewal Program in our Central Business District.

Planning consultants of Vilcan-Leman Associates will be present to hold a general discussion and offer ideas that may be used in our project. They will have preliminary plans and drawings on display that will be used as suggestions for the area. One purpose of this hearing is to get reactions to the planning suggestions from property owners, retailers and other interested citizens. This is your opportunity to get first hand information on the progress and direction of our program and to express your opinions.

We are hopeful of having the attendance of all interested people in Manistique, particularly those from within the project area. If you are concerned with the future of the downtown area and its effect on the economy of Manistique, then you should definitely attend this hearing. So - let's have a good turnout and show our visitors that we care.

yours is the hand
that lights your child's face

We've heard so much about the effects of insecurity on the life of a child! It seems urgent to find a picture of security . . . that elusive ideal that parents want to provide but can never be sure they have.

Notice the importance of the light in our picture. It doesn't really come from that fatherly hand. Someone else has provided the light which links father and son. The father merely stood in that light . . . and held his son's hand!

Sunday - Father's Day - in hundreds of thousands of churches, earnest fathers will stand in the Light. With their sons they'll worship God . . . experience again the spiritual understanding of life. See the brightness of that true security reflected in youthful eyes.

COMMISSIONERS' DAY: I was on campus for Commissioners' Day with Ed Jorgensen, Russell Tennant, and Thurman Skarritt. The temperature reached 98 degrees that afternoon and made us realize more than ever why we love living north of the bridge.

There were some interesting presentations in the morning on forestry, pesticide control, changing food patterns of consumers, and then we had two excellent presentations, one on 4-H - Youth, the other and probably the most impressive was on the expansion nutrition program on which there were three aides explaining their background (which was mostly ADC) and the work that they were doing with low income families down in the city and the rural areas. We had some real discussions on this one that evening!

In the afternoon we went on tour and took in the Water Quality Control Lab, had an in-

At this time the main tours broke up and those of us from the Upper Peninsula had a special tour to M.A.-B.C. (Michigan Artificial Breeders Cooperative). We had an interesting tour through their computer center, processing lab, storage facilities and the stud barns. The general comments were - we had never seen such "bull." We are looking forward to going back next year, hopefully with an expanded crew.

18, 1970. We are still accepting application or registrations for 4-H Camp at Clear Lake but we are getting closer to the magic number.

4-H - YOUTH WEEK at Michigan State University: Our two delegates Larry Brady from Hiawatha Township and Phyllis Middaugh from Inwood Township attended 4-H Youth Week on campus last week. They left by bus with the other delegates from the U.P. on Tuesday and returned on Saturday. We assume from the reports we have received that it was well worth their time and money. These delegates will report on this trip at our 4-H Awards banquet in the fall.
