New Bay de Noc School to open doors

A belated Christmas present is awaiting the 600 students of Big Bay de Noc School.

When Christmas vacation ends next week they will be moving into their just-completed school building, housing kindergarten through the 12th grade, on County Road 43 about a mile-south of Garden Courts.

Ground was broken for the $1,200,000 structure on April 19, 1970, and a completion date of May, 1971 was set. Project superintendent Harold Anderson of the Caspian Construction Co. will be turning the keys over to school officials five months ahead of schedule.

An "open house" is being planned for Sunday, Jan. 17, and program details will be announced later. Dedication ceremonies for the new school will be held when the weather moderates in the spring.

The new building is a realization of the long-standing dream that led to the organization of the Big Bay de Noc School District in August, 1966, when the four township districts of Garden, Nahma, Fairbanks and Inwood merged. Inwood is in Schoolcraft County, the other three townships in Delta County.

Garden, Nahma and Inwood (or Cooke), operated small high schools at the time.

The new district covers approximately 540 square miles, and the 600 pupils will all be housed in the new facility. A fleet of 8 to 10 buses, each traveling about 25 miles, will transport the students.

Architect Nohyn D'Hane of the East Lansing firm of Mayotte, Course and D'Haene, designed the one-story cement block building that has a brick facing. There are 63,000 square feet in the 355 by 188 foot structure, with 20 classrooms 30 by 50 feet in size, seating approximately 25 pupils each.

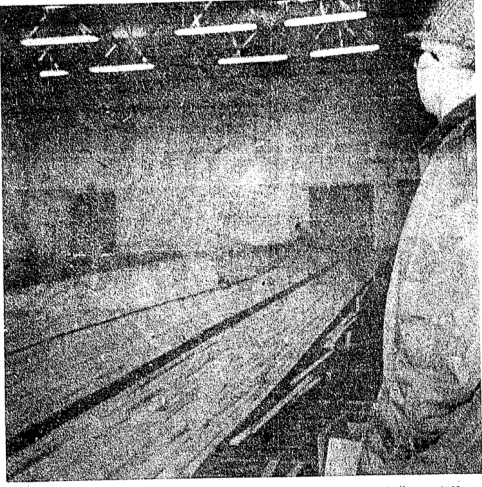

The carpeted rooms have one inside entrance door, a window and an outside fire exit door, with full length lockers with combination locks.

In the center of the building is the cafeteria and kitchen. The language, science, home economics, library, and multi-purpose and library rooms are also located in the center section, with the administrative offices to the south end.

"At the extreme south end of the structure is the 88 by 96 foot gym, with a seating capacity of 1,200.

There will be 28 teachers in the building, plus administrative and custodial personnel.

A 10 1/2 mill tax is being levied.

Nab driver after chase

Richard A. Pilon, 26, of Rapid River, faces a charge in Escanaba District Court of eluding a police officer after State Police finally nailed him and his snow machine along US-2, in Garden Township last Wednesday about 11:20 p.m.

Troopers saw Pilon running his machine down US-2, then turning off down a country road, then out in a field alongside the railroad tracks. They attempted to halt him with their flasher, and finally Trooper Ivan Labde, on foot, stopped the driver and machine when Pilon was forced to slow down for some bumpy spots.

A snow machine owned by Harry Hastings, Thompson, caught fire Sunday about 5 p.m., while being driven by his wife Elaine in the fields behind their home. The hood, engine and seat were destroyed in the blaze.

New facilities lauded

By FRANK STUPAK
Big Bay de Noc Superintendent

With the completion of the new K-12 school facilities in the Big Bay de Noc School District, many opportunities for major curriculum changes and offerings are expected. In the new facility each classroom is so flexibly planned and constructed that modern innovations in the presentation of material and learning can be fully exploited, ideally, the only limitation in the learning process ultimately will be the individuals involved. One of the areas which were minimal or non-existent in this time is an adequate gym as an integral part of the total school program. With the new facilities a physical education program can now be offered to all of the 1-15 girls as well as the boys. Such a program would not necessitate new, but more adequately employed personnel. Within the expanding concepts of a total physical education program, there is no reason why girls cannot enter into basketball, track, and other athletic events which are being conducted throughout the state.

Although presently we have a complete science program, the new facilities will give us an opportunity to offer a more complete program in which participation in lab work and study will be on an individual rather than a class basis.

All of the school districts which today make up the Big Bay de Noc School District had limited laboratory facilities. They generally included some low-lying, fiction, reference books, current magazines, but totally lacked an audio-visual library and a language lab. Mrs. Betty Brown of the Michigan State Library has offered her services and experience to coordinate the district's efforts in the development of library facilities.

Similarly, the Home Ec department, long overdue, with emphasis on modern homemaking techniques and related studies, will make high school more relevant to the girl students.

The concept of vocational education will be expanded beyond the "birdhouse" stage. Present plans call for metal, electrical and automotive basics.

Slick roads are trouble

Last week's snowfall may have provided a beautiful Christmas setting, but it made things tough for those on the streets and highways.

Two persons were injured last Wednesday, Dec. 23, at 12:45 p.m. when a ski drink truck went off US-2 in Inwood. Township and overturned. Injured were Albert H. Giroux, 66, of Escanaba, the driver, and his passenger, James Lenard, 16, also of Escanaba. Giroux told officers he went off the road while passing another vehicle when he saw he didn't have time to get back into the correct lane.

A car driven by Glen P. Barker, 16, of 727 Carlow Ave., slid into a pole on M-149 in Thompson Township last Wednesday at 11:30 a.m.

Cars driven by Theresa M. Welby, 28, route 1, and Robert C. Lewis, 41, of Gulliver, collided Thursday at 12:05 p.m. on US-2 in Manistique Township, as the Webber car was making a right turn. Lawrence Lewis, 5, was injured slightly.

Friday at 9:50 a.m. on US-2 in Doyle Township William Knaut, 27, of Newberry, reported hitting a deer. Another car-door mishap was reported at 2:05 a.m. Monday in Doyle Township on US-2 involving a truck driven by Leroy D. Earl, 23, of Sault Ste. Marie. The deer "fled the scene" in each instance, officers reported.

It's too late to do you much good this year, but if you're the type who plans ahead, you might want to take the opportunity during these holidays to take a few notes on gift ideas for the sportsman in your family. After all, there are birthdays coming up, and even next Christmas is less than 365 days away.

This should be a fairly easy task if you are looking for a gift to please the outdoorsman. Of course, shirts, ties, socks and those sort of things are always appreciated but if you really want to make Pappy happy, give him a little something that he can use for fishing or gift lending by and by the gift year catch him looking at most often on Christmas Day.

Far be it from us to recommend that any wife, sister, daughter or girl friend go out and buy the man in her life a new shotgun, rifle or flyrod. If you do that, better ask his advice on it first. A lot of money can be wasted buying the wrong gear. There are, however, a number of items which will fill the bill and don't cost a fortune, either.

Does he like to ice fish? So, maybe he needs a new nylon net or an ice rod if he fishes bluegills and catfish. Maybe he is the indoor worker who comes home slightly frost-bitten after a day in the open. A pair of good insulated boots will keep his feet warm. If cold hands are a problem, he can use new mittens or a hand-warmer.

The fisherman who uses a fish slanty sometimes needs a new stove. There are several good oil burners from which to choose or perhaps a small bottled gas model would suit him better. Maybe he needs new tie-ups or lines for his old ones, or holders, flies, or hook-almost a tackle kit. Perhaps your outdoor is a trout fishing one, he can't pass-up having flies or tapered leaders he ties his own flies are packages of fly-tackle at all prices.

A lot of fishermen enjoy their fly fishing on evenings, if so they are interested in one of the fly lines which show up in the dark. They can very well keep buying developing a severe eye strain.

Or, then again, maybe a trout fishing one, he can't pass-up having the scene or has tackle that threatens to invade the garage, or his own a new one.

If he is a hunter, then knives, compass, map and tainer, folding camp stool, olive lantern, duck decoys and all sorts of calls.

A word of warning here. If you are not sure consult a friend of his who is his fishing and hunting.

If he is a bass fisherman, certainly wouldn't make him a batch of trout vice versa.

(NOTE TO HUSBANDS: This idea appeals to pasturing this value in your wife will be so like right in the middle mirror.)

A gold mine near California, may have been one of America's first. In the 1800s it slid down the mountain, then on Sundays, it again aboard the mine line ore buckets.

Extension News

BY HOWARD HANDORF
County Extension Director
Dec. 23rd I drove up to Germfask for a fertilizer meeting.

As many of you may remember it was snowing like mad that night and in a weak moment or two I almost tried to cancel the meeting, however, I did not and it took me an hour to make the drive. During this time that I was on the road (?) I spent about half of it driving at least partially on the shoulder. About the time that I arrived at Blaney, the snow stopped and from that point on I enjoyed the drive up M-77 as many of the roadside houses had their outside Christmas decorations lit up. There is nothing prettier than Christmas lights seen through a new-fallen snow! We had the meeting and there was a good turnout so everything turned out for the best.

Snow shoveling today is not only outdated, it's also dangerous. With Jacobsen compact LT, Chief, or Super Chief, you needn't worry about sore muscles or aching back. A big 36" capacity, two stage snow thrower attachment moves giant amounts of snow quickly and easily. The large auger chews up the snow, hi-speed second stage rotor spins it out, and the directional chute puts it out of the way where you want it. For lighter jobs, a 34" or 38" single stage thrower is available as well as snow plow blades.

If you see me driving around the county with plastic garbage liner bags in the car, I have not flipped, as I am in the process of collecting hay samples to be tested for nutrient content. In the early spring some of our cattle producers have trouble with scours in their calves and I am trying to see if it could be due to a deficiency in the feed that the cows are getting.

We had a Merry Christmas at the Handorf house and hope that you had one too. As this is now the season of turkey leftovers, I would appreciate it if you send in your many varieties of turkey leftover recipes so that we can mimeograph them for next year and perhaps save someone's sanity as turkey goes on the table for the fifth time in six days. (No, these are not for me.)

Cattle producers: Having trouble locating corn at a reasonable price? Barley is an acceptable substitute as it is an excellent energy feed. Barley has 90% of the energy that corn has, so that it is worth 90% as much. If barley is available at $2.25 per hundred weight it would be comparable in price to corn worth $2.50 per hundred weight ($2.50 times .90 equals $2.25). Barley contains more protein (11.5%) than corn, but the amino acid balance is not as good as corn.

The Manistique Pioneer-Tribune

End of the year

WHAT A DIFFERENCE a day makes, the song goes, 24 little hours.

We were reminded of this recently as we compiled our annual "Year in Review" for this issue of the Pioneer-Tribune—a summary of the happenings of this area during 1970 as recorded in the pages of our newspaper.

There is an old saying that the more things change, the more they stay the same, and this too, is true, particularly in a small community and isolated rural area such as Manistique and Schoolcraft County. There is change all about us, and yet, except for the obvious and the sensational, we are little affected until it touches us personally. We are not impressed by the small happenings, the small changes, the minor shifts, until we suddenly discover that the sum total of these parts has indeed changed our lives, and the realization dawns that we are indeed different persons than we were 10 years ago, five years ago, last summer, or even yesterday.

We hope that you can find the time and the interest to read our Year in Review, for there, in condensed form, is a capsule summary of our area for 1970 ... our accomplishments, our failings, our hopes and despairs, the tragedies of death and the new hopes of marriage. We are a different community this New Year's Eve than we were 365 days ago, and yet, in outward appearances, the changes are not so apparent. The cast of characters is altered slightly, diminished in some respects, bolstered in others; the plot has thickened in some areas, thinned in others; the stage dressings glitter in one corner and have tarnished slightly in another.

Next year at this time there will probably be another Year in Review summary of all that has transpired in this area in the 365 days to come. As in the year past, there will be victories and defeats and the hope that the good generally outweighs the bad.

What else? Who knows? Marshall McLuhan wrote, "We look at the present through a rear-view mirror. We march backwards into the future." The past, it has been noted, is prologue.

The one thing that is certain is that there will be change. Part of the excitement of life, part of its challenge, is in not knowing what those changes will be, or how they will affect you and yours.

Most of those changes that will come our way are beyond our ken and capabilities. Like it or not, the masses and the multitudes are pawns in the moves by the chessmasters of great power and great influence. We are unconscious victims, perhaps, or the unconscious blessed, depending upon the whims of time, circumstance and location, and what we become is largely the result of how well we can react and adjust to the inevitable.

We are not so fatalistic, however, as to throw up our hands in resignation and prepare to accept whatever comes our way. There is much we should do, and will do, to make our own lives more meaningful and our own community a place we think of with pride and affection.

In the long run, any collective effort on the part of a community is the total of many individual efforts and attitudes. In the year of 1971 to come, what we do and what we become may be unknown, but the answer will be found within you and your heart, and with your friend and neighbor, within our community, where things change, yet stay the same.

James M. Tagg--Co-Publisher and Business Manager
David A. Rood--Co-Publisher and Editor

A prize-winning weekly newspaper published every Thursday at Manistique, Michigan, at the Top O' Lake Michigan in the heart of Michigan's beautiful Upper Peninsula.

There is a lot of loose talk these days about this being the Age of Aquarius, the time for youth, and how half the population of the United States is under 25 years of age.

Ordinarily, contemplating this sort of thing might be enough to throw Senior Citizens and those of Middle Age into a blue funk, to use one of their quaint old-timey expressions, but the old geezers have received a reprieve, of sorts, in the person of one Harvey Wheeler, who wrote an article recently for the Saturday Review called "The Rise of the Elders," which has a nice, comforting sound to the title, at least.

In brief, what Mr. Wheeler is getting at is that man's built-in biological clock will, within 10 to 25 years, be alterable. "It will be possible to make them run longer, to reset them, even to turn them back," he writes. "The aim and the promise is...to add the additional years to the prime of life. So-called middle age would last for forty or more years."

The mind boggles.

I will not clutter up your mind with how they intend to do that. He writes of anti-oxidants, such as vitamin E and butylated hydroxytoluene, being used to neutralize free radicals, or unstable molecular particles, that are believed to react with normal molecules to cause degenerative effects. There's also the question of protein and nucleic acid molecules cross-linking, and that's enough of all that, but surely you understand what he's getting at. And even if you don't understand it, you and your mind can boggle along with mine over the end result--middle age for forty or more years!

How many times have you heard someone say, "Ah, if I only could be 20 again and know what I know today." Comes this gerontological revolution and it will be possible to do just that.

It may sound exciting as all get out to you, particularly if you're 40-plus, but Mr. Wheeler doesn't get carried away. He writes:

"Consider now the following problem: We are speaking, as it were, of a Methuselah-like, one-horse shay man. The expansion of his longevity would come during the years of his prime; middle age. This period would be lengthened by, say, thirty years; forty or so years of life would be experienced with the vigor of a forty-year-old. But there is more. We also look forward to preserving vigor into the later years. The decades of today's sixty- and seventy-year olds would be lived out with the vitality of the prime years, senescence being postponed to a short decline at the very end. So, in all, we are speaking of men who live as if they were forty years old for a fifty- or sixty-year duration. How would the world cope with what men now experience for but a single decade stretched into more than half a century? Reflect that not only the noblest moments of history but also its worst disasters have been presided over by middle-aged men. Mankind's most outstanding explorers, inventors, scientists, statesmen and artists have all been middle-aged, but so too have its worst trouble-makers--the dictators, the revolutionaries, the conquerors, the empire builders and the tycoons. Can the world stand five times as much of this? Or, on the other hand, is the present compulsiveness of middle-aged people brought on by their dread of impending decline? Would that disappear with stretched-out life spans?"

ALONG THE SIDELINES with Dave Rood

Life begins at?

You can spend an entire evening considering the consequences of all this. What Mr. Wheeler is forecasting by the year 2000 is a society predominately composed of and dominated by the elderly, a new class of the aged, still vigorous and seemingly able to postpone death indefinitely.

"The elderly will no longer be second-class citizens," he writes. "That role will be visited upon the young...The only function of the young will be to become elderly."

He also points out that it is ironic that it is today's youthful rebels--those who can't trust anyone over thirty--who will come to power, not in their youth, but in their middle age.

"It may not be too much of a caricature to picture the year 1995 studded with retirement communes peopled by centenarian long-hairs, each one with guitar in hand, beaded, fringed and bathed in strobe light. The high-ways may well be clogged with gray-bearded hitchhikers. Dirty old men and garishly rouged Gertrude Stein-type hags could easily become society's sex symbols."

Harvey is starting to lose me right about there. My mind may boggle, but not that much. In fact it's going to take me a while to contemplate the collapse of the life insurance business, the withering of social security, and the possibility of turning back the clock to the point where the 1966 Green Bay Packers could be reassembled and sent back into the fray. Now there's something to ponder.

BEYOND THE CURTAIN

On New Year's Day we can either look toward the wings of the past or try to see beyond the curtain of the future. We should spend more time with the future, because it is here we will live the rest of our lives. So--a brief collection of quotes.

Longfellow set the stage by writing of the past, present, and future: "Look not mournfully into the Past. It come not back again. Wisely improve the Present. It is thine. Go forth to meet the shadowy Future, without fear."

Patrick Henry and Lord Byron link the two. Patrick Henry--"I know of no way of judging the future but by the past" and Lord Byron--"The best of prophets of the future is the past." Playwright Pinerio equates them: "I believe the future is only the past again, entered through another gate."

The Roman, Marcus Aurelius, cynically advises, "Deem not life a thing of consequence. For look at the yawning void of the future and at the other limitless space, the past," whereas, Longfellow in "A Psalm of Life" tells us:

"Trust no Future, how'er pleasant!
Let the dead Past bury its dead!

Act, act in the living present...
Richard Horne advocates hard work in the present for the sake of the future:

"Ye rigid plowman! Bear in mind Your labor is for future hours."

while humanist poet Philip Bailey doesn't give a hang about plowing or any other action "It is much less what we do Than what we think which fits us for the future."

The German philosopher: Nietzsche ironically claims that our future determines our present: "Our destiny exercises its influence over us ever when, as yet, we have not learned its nature; it is our future that lays down the laws of our to-day." But poet Swinburne takes the traditional opposite view, "All our past accclaims our future," and Rainer Rilke in "Letters to a Young Poet" suggests a mysterious relationship: "The future enters into us long before it happens." Poet Edmund Gosse has little use for either:

"The Past is like a funeral gone by
The future like an unwelcome guest."

Playwright Maeterlinck says it depends on us: "The future is the world limited by ourselves; in it we discover only what concerns us, and sometimes by chance, what interests those we love the most."

Poet Walt Whitman celebrates the divinity of the individual and the certainty of the future--"None has begun to think how divine he himself is, and how certain the future is," while short story writer Bret Hart is uncertain but hopeful:

"Behind the curtains' mystic fold
The golden future lies unrolled."
HAPPY NEW YEAR.

I love a good snow storm, the kind that starts during the night and has you snowbound for the day. A blizzard is beautiful to watch from the window and when you just can't get your car out to go to work. It seems to spur you with ambition to really make use of the extra time you suddenly Merriement and Festivities have welcomed the New Year as long ago as 2,000 B.C. in Mesopotamia. Today the blowing of horns, tolling of bells and singing "Auld Lang Syne" are part of the festivities of welcoming the New Year.

The knowing host or hostess realizes the fact that the buffet table and punch bowl are focal points of interest while awaiting the arrival of the New Year. Therefore, they tastefully select floral arrangements for the table and surround the punch bowl with flowers for flowers have been used on festive occasions since the beginning of festivals.

So folks, as the New Year approaches, why not decorate your buffet table with a floral arrangement and surround your punch bowl with flowers, family and friends and Good Will?—Most of all, have a Very Happy New Year!

have. I can think of so many things to do, can't you?

The French have pork pie or "turkaye" on Christmas eve. I enjoy mine with a French family on New Year's eve. It has become one of the good holiday foods enjoyed by many nationalities. Scandinavians have learned to make it and have added it to their traditional list,—just like some Frenchmen now enjoy and make Scandinavian potato sausage. Each cook has her special recipe for both. I do too.

Foreign cookery can be very interesting and a challenge. New foods and new ways of cooking are introduced. Often foods used in foreign recipes are common everyday foods in America but the method of combining them or serving them is different. I think a good example is our yeast bread. Every country has its favorites, yet the basic ingredients are about the same. They vary in the little extras added and in shape. And during the holidays they're made especially festive. My Croatian landlady makes povitica, a sweet dough with a walnut filling. Scandinavians add soffron and candied fruit to their holiday bread. The Germans make stollen and the Italians panettone.

We start program planning early. The Extension Homemakers Council will meet on Tuesday, Jan. 5 to think about what we can do beginning in September. Mrs. Beda Hough of Manistique is a member of this council.

A "Vegetable Bonanza" is scheduled for 7:30, Jan. 7 at the Manistique High School. It is open to all women in the area. You'll get many new ideas for using vegetables in ways your family will enjoy. You may want to share your favorites with the group too. It will be an interesting meeting so do plan to come.

At 1:30 on Jan. 7, 4-H Clothing leaders will meet at the Post Office Building in Manistique. All clothing leaders are invited and encouraged to attend.

The next column will be written in 1971. Time flies! A Happy New Year to You.

The Garden TOPS Club met at the school on Dec. 21 and recorded a six week weight loss of 185 pounds. Prizes were awarded for the Christmas tree contest to Jackie Tarrow, Joan Potvin and Doris Farley. Arlene Bartholomew was the queen of the week. The group elected a TOPS Pal, who is called by members who need assistance.

Mr. and Mrs. James Potvin held a birthday party for their daughter Kristi's first birthday on Dec. 16. Guests included Jerrilyn Potvin, Corey and Craig and Jean Potvin and Eunice McPhee and Edna Ouradnik.

TURNS

As bells ring and horns blow, a new year dawns around the world. In every land men celebrate its coming, variously, according to tradition.

One custom seems almost universal . . . an assessment, a review of the past year and the resolution to do better — in one's vocation, in one's attitude toward family and neighbor.

What is this spark that makes men seek a higher plane? It is the yearning that set the Wise Men's feet to follow a star, the longing of the multitudes that thronged the hills of Gallilee to hear the words of Jesus, the thirst of every man to know God's presence in his life.

In this age of chaos and confusion there is no better resolution than to attend our churches where wisdom and compassion are taught.

Resolutions

BY J. E. SALAMUN

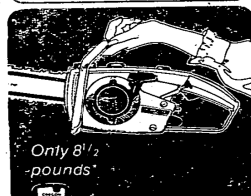

Well, I can't believe it, another year has gone by and here we are, ready to enter a new year. I'm not ready. I am totally unprepared to face up to '71. I haven't made one resolution nor have I found any faults with the past year, aside from the war, Agnew, Martha Mitchell, poverty, students resting and the price of eggs, everything seems to be the same.

But in this day and age of complete unpreparedness one should make resolutions to improve his image. Regardless of what I have said before nothing remains the same. I have given a great deal of thought to my image and resolutions that would enhance my image. First of all, I resolve never to eat pickles with oversize warts. One of those warts may be a prince.

Second of all, to listen to my students after I have inserted my ear plugs. Nothing said, nothing heard. Third of all, to walk with my hands in my coat pocket so that I can wave hello with my elbows. Fourth of all, to shovel the walk before it snows. Fifth of all, well, this could be anything from bourbon to scotch, take your pick. Sixth of all, to move the furniture before my wife decides where it should go. Seventh of all, to watch the news on t.v. without laughing. Eighth of all, to never watch a doubleheader football game on Sunday when Julia Childs is preparing dinner. Ninth of all, to never mention Jerry Rubin to Abbie Hoffman, Judge Hoffman, or Leonard Shellizeman. Tenth of all, to never adhere to the voice of wisdom when I am writing this column even though I am late on the deadline.

Before I end this column I wish to say to the readers of the Pioneer-Tribune, a happy new year of Love and Peace. See you next year!
