Approve teaching contract

Approval of the master contract for certified employees for next year was given at the meeting of the Manistique Area Schools Board of Education Tuesday night.

Teachers had unanimously ratified the contract at a meeting the night before.

The new contract has a pay scale ranging from $5,610 for a teacher with a special teaching certificate and no experience, to $11,163 for a master's degree and nine years experience. It also provides for payment of $20.40 insurance monthly.

Cos' to the local district for teaching contracts next year will total $718,731, or $46,569 more than last year.

All salaries — teaching, auxiliary and administrative — will total $959,395, or 73.6 per cent of the total general fund budget of $1,302,000. This estimate is based on a six per cent increase for auxiliary employees.

Their contract is currently being negotiated. The increase for certified employees totaled 8.4 per cent.

The public hearing on next year's budget has been set for the next regular meeting of the board on Tuesday, Aug. 11. Another revised budget was examined by the board, and approval was given to cuts suggested by administrative staff members that would bring the budget into balance at $1,302,000. These cuts include $116,000 suggested earlier in such items as consultation and supervision, radio equipment for buses, remodeling to meet the Fire Marshal's recommendations, purchase of data processing equipment, other capital entry and purchase of educational equipment.

An additional $17,800 in cuts was approved last night. Most of these will come in maintenance work.

questioned the legality of revising the budget after the public hearing has been held and the budget adopted. He produced his copy of the state school code that he said prohibits this, and requested Secretary Margaret Waters to read the law in question. Her reading showed that the law stated that the budget can be legally changed subsequent to a public hearing, and Wood admitted he was wrong. There was discussion on how the budget changes after the Tax Allocation Board hearing, however, changes in the state school and law, property valuation changes, enrollments, and contracts with both certified and non-certified employees.

Members excluded from "gathering"

An "informal discussion" the morning of Sunday, July 19, to which five of the seven members of the Board of Education were invited, sparked some controversy at Tuesday night's meeting at the high school.

The gathering was held at 9:30 a.m. at the home of Board President William Mueller and featured Mueller's brother-in-law, William Thomas of Fruitport, Thomas was superintendent of the 4,000 student system last year, and will serve as business manager there this year.

Mueller said his brother-in-law had arrived Friday night and Saturday said he would be glad to talk to the board members. He said he started at 8:30 a.m. to call board members to invite them to the 9:30 session. Board members Jenne Larson and Ralph Gillman, however, were not called. Mueller said he did not have time to call them as he had to get dressed.

Four board members — Mueller, Robert Knopf, Denton Nelson and Margaret Waters — attended, plus school secretary Margaret Cain, who accompanied Mrs. Waters. Trustee Leon Wood was working and unable to be present.

Mueller stressed that it was merely an informal gathering to discuss school questions, that he organized the session on the spur of the moment, and said he was sorry if some board members were unhappy with the idea.

Mrs. Larson said she was hurt by the fact that she was not even called. She was not given the opportunity to say whether or not she could attend. She said that this was the first time, to her knowledge, that a private meeting had been held with some board members excluded.

Gillman said he felt it was poor public relations. He said he found out about it from people asking him what went on at the special school board meeting Sunday. "If you are calling the board as a group, you should call the entire board," he said.

Supt. Edwin Wuehse said he also would have welcomed the opportunity to participate in the trip to northern Ontario.

Charles Garvin, of 514 Alger Ave., retired July 1 this year from his job as a grinder in the pulp mill. He began working for the local mill Aug. 28, 1945.

Clarence Peterson, 132 S. First St., retired May 1 after 24 years as a screen operator. He went to Central Michigan University and then taught school for awhile before going to work at the mill.

Retiring Feb. 28 after 19 years and 10 months as a grinder was Arnold Henriksen, of N. Seventh St.

John Lastic, 191 N. Maple St. retired March 1 as a mill carpenter. He had 16 years of service, but added he'd worked there "off and on" since he was 15 years old.

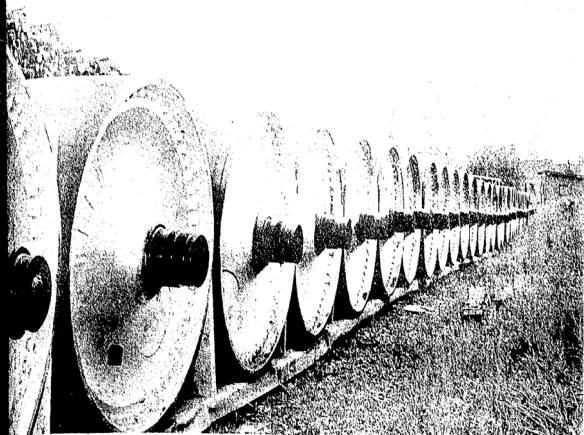

A sixth employee, Norman Oliver, Garden Ave., was unable to be present at the affair. He retired March 1 after 23 and a half years employment, leaving as a spare hand on the paper machine.

Boosters to meet

The Manistique Athletic Booster Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 3, in the Manistique High School, room 105. Anyone interested in backing the various high school teams during the coming year is urged to attend the meeting, whether they are already members of the club or not.

Fire Calls

Public Safety firemen were called to a car fire in front of the Pioneer-Tribune building, 215 Main St., Saturday noon. The cushion of a car owned by Grace H. Abell, 187 N. Maple St., was damaged in the blaze.

READY FOR REBUILD—There are 40 of these new dryer rolls stored in the yard of the Manistique Pulp and Paper Co., awaiting the go-ahead order on rebuilding of the paper machine. The project may be delayed from this fall because strikes have slowed delivery of needed items.

Rebuilding faces delay

In the fabrication of machinery components slowed by strikes, the rebuilding project at the Manistique Pulp and Paper Co. may have to be delayed until spring, said S. Hoholik, president and chief executive officer of Pulp Enterprises, Inc., subsidiary, said last week that the plan had called for a four to six week shutdown of Oct. 1, in order to allow a complete rebuilding of the paper machine.

Some material has already arrived, including 40 large dryer rolls stored in the mill yard. The cost of each unit is estimated at $15,000.

The mill is closed down this week, Hoholik said, for the annual boiler inspection, plus fire protection maintenance.

New harbor financing eyed

Manistique's long-delayed harbor improvement project, stalled in recent months due to Federal funding, may get moving.

Wilson, director of the Michigan State Water Commission, has assured Council members that he will recommend that the state assume all costs above the city's $320,000 project. As planned, the Economic Development Commission was being requested to pay 25 per cent, with the state paying half and the remainder.

Wilson said the plans and cost for the project will have to be reworked. He said that he plans to meet with the city Thursday (today) when he is in Manistique.

Wilson also passed a resolution on special bond for curb and gutter work as part of the $150,000 street improvement bonding.

Paving of Otter St., from School-wood, east to Chippewa Ave., has been completed, and the 700 block of steam requirements are such that the mill cannot be closed down during the winter months because of lack of heat, it is possible that the rebuild project will have to wait until next spring.

Some material has already arrived, including 40 large dryer rolls stored in the mill yard. The cost of each unit is estimated at $15,000.

The mill is closed down this week, Hoholik said, for the annual boiler inspection, plus fire protection maintenance.

Five retirees from the Manistique Pulp and Paper Co. were honored at a luncheon last Wednesday at the Surf.

Guests for the occasion were Louis Salter, Charles Garvin, Clarence Peterson, Arnold Henriksen and John Lastic. Also present were Frank S. Hoholik, president and chief executive officer of the firm; List Christensen, vice president; Otter Schuster, John Orr, Maurice Reid and Gil Kelly.

Hoholik praised the retirees for their long years of service to the company, and cited the improved new retirement plan that went into effect this year.

His sailor has a good life

When you come right down to it, sailing a boat sure beats any other kind of job.

And a beautiful ship it is, with a general, bearded crew of five or six men working for me. All sorts of equipment. Then I built this ship.

And a beautiful ship it is, with a general, bearded crew of five or six men working for me. All sorts of equipment. Then I built this ship.

But what about that sand and gravel business Chadwick described?

It's been cut down to a one-man operation. There's one truck, one loader and one bulldozer, which means Chadwick can run it all himself.

But let's a more leisurely, enjoyable life they lead today, and there'll be even more spare time in the years to come after the three girls have grown up.

The "Charlotte Jean" was three years in the making, and the sturdy craft provides comfortable accommodations for six persons, including a roomy main cabin complete with a cool-burning stove. There is no electricity aboard the ship—light comes from batteries and kerosene lamps, while ice keeps the food cool. The only power aboard the ship comes from a 15-horsepower diesel auxiliary engine.

Chadwick's main pleasure comes from the opportunity to meet and talk with people. "The ship is just a means to an end, I guess," he said.

He and his friend Dave Cox, over a cup of coffee in the cockpit, agreed there was something unique about the Upper Peninsula, and praised the hospitality they had found here. "I think you folks up here are a unique breed," said Chadwick. "I'm not quite sure what it is about the country and the people—but I like it."

And he's found a way to enjoy the country, to meet people, and to sail his boat. It's a good life, but as Chadwick pointed out, "You're a long time dead, you might as well enjoy yourself now while you can."

COURTESY INSPECTION—Lyle Jasmin of the local Coast Guard Auxiliary, left, made a courtesy inspection of the 44-foot schooner Charlotte Jean, owned by Bruce Chadwick, center of Grand Rapids, last week. The inspection is a new service that can now be offered by the local unit. Jasmin also conducted a facility inspection on the power cruiser owned by Lou Conrad, right.

Little League nine wins district tourney

Manistique's All-Star Little League squad advances to Upper Peninsula regional tournament play in Iron Mountain this Friday, after winning the district championship in play here last week end.

Manistique won the district title by defeating Munising, 6-2, in the first game, then turning back Menominee in the title contest, 9-1.

The locals are scheduled to meet the Lake of the Clouds squad from Ontonagon Friday at 4 p.m., with the finals scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday.

In the first contest last Friday, Manistique took a 1-0 lead in the first inning, saw Manistique tie it up in the second, then scored twice without the benefit of a hit in their half of the second and added three more runs on three hits in the bottom of the third. Jeff Miller went the distance on the mound for Manistique, yielding four hits, he also got two Manistique's five hits. Also hitting safely were Jack Weber, Jay Kotelik and John Czarnich.

Saturday's title contest was closer than the score indicates. The two teams battled to a 1-1 tie in the regulation six innings, but Manistique erupted for eight runs in the seventh for the win. Miller led off with a single, followed by singles by Bert Chandler, Bob Masters, Steve White and John Czarnich. The attack was aided by two walks and four Menominee errors. Jeff Miller again singled before the inning was over. Jay Kotelik went the distance on the mound, allowing only one hit, striking out nine and walking only two. Masters and Miller each had two hits for the day.

Richard McCain, 37, of Nauyasaw, was brought to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital by State Police at 2:50 p.m. Sunday, after being taken from the Calspar quarry pool in Mueller Township.

Chiefs lose in tourney

The 11th District Legion Tournament was held at Menominee this year, but this seemed to benefit Manistique very little. As they lost the first game to Menominee by a score of 15-7, and the second to Escanaba 18-1. Lack of power at the plate, and numerous errors in the field caused most of the problems.
The final game of the season will be played at Powers Sunday at 2 p.m. This is a regular season league game which was postponed because of tournament play.

Bowling meeting

The Monday Night Ladies League of Lakeview Lanes will hold their organizational meeting at the lanes on Monday, Aug. 3 at 7:30 p.m.

"OUT OUR WAY"

News From Road 437

Hi Folks!

Our sky has a hazy look this morning, and we may be in for a rainy day.

The black berried elder blossoms standing with such graceful beauty can be seen along the highway. The berries ripen from August on through October, and can be used for pie, jelly or in pancakes. It is food for us as well as for most of the wild life.

The hummingbird has been a daily visitor in my penumbral patch, helping himself to the nectar, while the chipmunks run to and fro looking for goodies to eat and store away for winter. Many folks that drive out our way thrill at seeing a doe with her fawn, or a bear with her cub.

The trees now are in their prettiest shade of green, another month and the maple at City Hall will start to leave its branches. This will be a sign that fall is starting to arrive and summer will be on its way out.

Vacationing at Gooseneck Lake are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hume and daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Kazanski and son of Dayton, Ohio.

At Thunder Lake are Mr.

and Mrs. Charles Johnson from Mason, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Heironymus and family from Detroit, and Mrs. Esther White and daughter, Mrs. Larry Olson and children from Dearborn, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Johnson and son from Chicago visited Jack Sharkey at Thunder Lake.

The Boss and I were guests of the Harold Mickelsons at a steak cook-out in our backyard. Delicious is the word for the menu prepared by Helen.

Our daughter-in-law, Dolly Peterson, and children Danny, David and Michelle, spent a few days with us last week.

The sun is trying to peek through, so with it comes echoes of holiday greetings to Chip Clemenson, Al Markham, Gay Swagart, Dorothy Thelander, and David Mickelson. Anniversary wishes to the William Hentschels, and Gunter Eriksons. May the day for all be one of complete happiness.

Until next week stay healthy and happy.

Unpleasant Facts of Life Department: In conversations with Lyle Jasmin, Courtesy Motor Board Examiner of the Coast Guard Auxiliary, I find that my best accuracy really structured is illegally equipped. It seems that the state passed a law one year ago without very much publicity. This law requires all boats with motors over 10 horsepower to have red and green running lights in the bow and a white 360 degree stern light. I have no quarrel with the law and the obvious intent of making night boating safer but I do believe they could have publicized it better!

Deer management defended

By Raymond J. Sale
Game Habitat Biologist
Michigan Dept. of Natural Resources

The Michigan Conservation Commission recently decided, after the urging of the state legislature, to hold a one-year moratorium on the shooting of antlerless deer in the Upper Peninsula. The Commission's decision was not based on biological considerations. The following discussion reviews some of the reasons for the necessity of continuing antlerless deer harvests.

Antlerless deer harvests were reinstated in 1955 in the Upper Peninsula after 35 years of no-hunt seasons. This action had been recommended more than 20 years earlier by biologists because they realized that the large deer population at that time could not be maintained for very long because of the serious over-crowding which was beginning to appear in the deer yards. Un-til this advice was not acted upon until thousands of deer starved and many of the older young areas were stripped of most available browse. The result is that fewer deer can now be sustained in these years. Natural succession (maturing of the forests) has also played a large part in reducing the carrying capacity of the range.

Many deer hunters are hopeful that deer and fawns will result in better hunting. Unless very favorable conditions (mild winters with considerable winter cutting of timber and good weather during the hunting seasons) occur, the chances of significant increase in the deer harvest is highly slim. If these conditions do prevail a slight upsurge might occur but the first tough winter will cut the herd back again.

A moratorium was in effect in 1961 but the back harvest was only slightly increased in 1962 and in 1963 the harvest remained nearly the same as it had been in 1962.

Analysis of checking station data clearly show how much the U. P. deer herd is affected by hard winters with deep snow and severe cold. Unfortunately, these occur all too often.

To understand the situation, it's necessary to know something about the population dynamics of Michigan deer. In brief, U. P. deer generally do not begin bearing young until their second year of life. They usually have one young. Productivity increases up to about six years of age when most does bear twins and a few have triplets. On the average an adult doe consists about 1.6 fawns per adult doe live to the hunting season however. In some years, after a hard winter, only about half of the number of fawns conceived will actually survive until fall. Most of the loss occurs during or shortly after birth. Studies at the Canadian Wildlife Research Station have revealed that fawns born of undernourished does have a very poor chance of survival. After the severe winter of 1959-60 for instance, the number of fawns per adult doe was only 0.65 as determined from checking station information. In 1962, after a fairly mild winter, 1.25 fawns per adult doe were found by the same methods.

The significance of these yearly variations in fawn survival is apparent when it's realized that a large percentage of the deer harvest consists of yearlings (1-1/2-year-olds), but before a deer gets to a yearling, it has to survive birth and one winter. Therefore, to have a good deer harvest, we must have two mild winters in a row—the first to assure a good fawn crop and the second to maintain a good survival rate for that generation. (The number of fawns removed by hunting is quite insignificant in comparison to other mortality factors). In addition, to have a good deer harvest, good hunting conditions must prevail for at least the first few days of the season when hunting effort is the greatest. The odds are never good in the U. P.

The antlerless deer harvest in Schoolcraft County has remained at a fairly constant level of about 0.4 deer per square mile during the past four years (areas in the northern Lower Peninsula have maintained antlerless harvests of over 10 times that number). During this period of time the county deer herd has remained fairly stable. This level obviously isn't high enough to satisfy many hunters but it is about the proper level for the natural carrying capacity of the range and the present level of winter cutting activity.

Fawn production and survival has obviously increased as indicated by the checking station data. There has been an average of 1.17 fawns per adult doe harvested during the past four years in comparison with a .77 fawn per adult doe harvested the preceding four years. This indicates an increased production of 0.4 fawns per doe. In other words, the increased production from just one deer square mile has compensated for the harvest of antlerless deer in the county. This is not to imply that the antlerless harvests were solely responsible for the increased production but it certainly played an important role. Most animal populations respond to a reduction in the breeding population by increasing its productivity.

Another important reason for the increased production in the county has been the sustained winter timber cuttings the past few years. Even during the tough winter of 1968-69 when deep snows treated to nearly completely halt all woods work, a lot of timber producers continued to work simply because they realized that a lot of deer depended on them to provide browse. Moreover, many of the winter cuttings have not been of value to deer just by accident — state, federal and commercial foresters have scheduled and located many cuttings when and where they would benefit deer the most. In addition, crews hired by the Department of Natural Resources have cut over 336 acres of unmerchantable timber in the county during the past four years to provide browse for deer and to improve the habitat. If these commercial and game cuttings were to cease today the herd would soon dwindle to but a fraction of what it is now.

Fortunately the outlook for increased timber cutting in the area is greatly improved with the expansion of the Mead Corporation plant in Escanaba. But even with a greater demand for wood products, wood cutting operations will still continue to slow down during the severe strictly biological viewpoint, a blanket ban on the shooting of antlerless deer throughout the U. P. cannot logically be recommended, even for one year. Even though only adult bucks will be legal targets during this coming deer season this does not mean that only bucks will be shot. A considerable number of fawns and does will be accidentally (or purposely) shot and left to rot in the woods.

Primary competition in four townships

Contests are at hand in four of Schoolcraft County's eight townships in next Tuesday's primary election.

There is competition on the Democratic side of the ballot in Mueller, Manistique, Hiawatha and Doyle townships, while the sole Republican contest will be in Hiawatha.

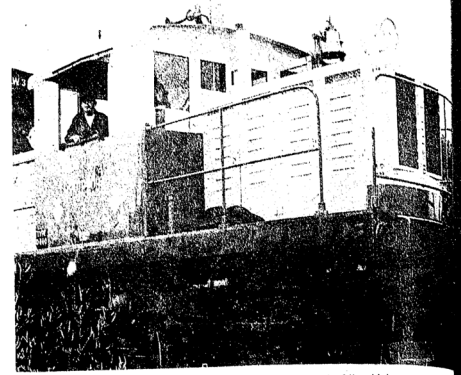

In Doyle Township there is a contest for the Democratic nomination for trustee for a four-year term between Agnes M. McCallan and George J. Ruddle.

Both Democrats and Republicans have contests in Hiawatha. For the Democrats, Margaret Ann Deloria and John Swanson have filed for the treasurer nomination, while the Republicans will choose their supervisor candidate from incumbent Agner Dehlin and challenger Marvin White. Jess Gatterer is also mounting a write-in campaign for the Democratic nomination for supervisor. No candidate filed for that office.

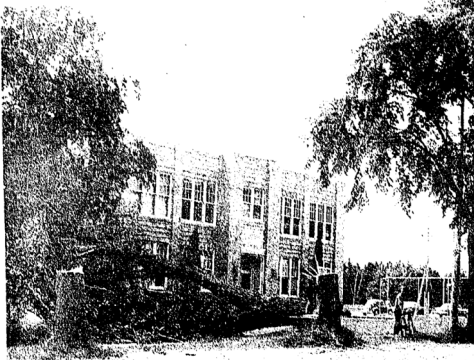

James E. Glerke and Linda W. Walters are competing for the supervisors' nomination in Manistique Township, and incumbent John T. Watson is challenged by Sally J. Lauzon for the treasurer post.

In Mueller Township, the Democratic contestants are incumbent Wells Dowers and Harry E. Willour, for supervisor; Cecile M. Rubick and William H. Temanson, clerk, and Janet G. Hamill and Diane Sue Price, treasurer.

There are no primary contests on the county level.

Concert series ends here

The Manistique Community Concert 1970 Chamber Music Series ended on a "note of triumph" last Sunday night as filled the auditorium of the Lakeside School to hear a third outstanding performance by the Chamber Music Ensemble.

Participants in the concert, in addition to director and violinist Dr. Robert King, were his wife, Mary King, viola and piano; Richard Potter, clarinet; and Marcia Kraus, cello. Also appearing were Marion Orr and Vesta Fyvie, Manistique residents, with a "four-hand" piano presentation of Schubert's "Fantasie, op. 103."

A musical highlight of the evening was the Mendelssohn "Triolo in d minor, op. 49" performed by Mary King, piano; Robert King, violin; and Marcia Kraus, cello.

Guest clarinetist Richard Potter, a member of the Altoona, Pa., Symphony, appeared in the opening "Quartet, op. 6, no. 4," by K. Stamitz; and also in the closing "Suite," by Milhaud. The final number, with its unusual and lively musical qualities, brought an outstanding ovation from an appreciative audience.

Farm tour is Saturday

Farmers and businessmen interested in seeing change in Upper Peninsula agriculture will want to attend the farm management tour into the Garden Peninsula on Saturday, August 1.

People are asked to congregate at the Garden Cattle Company, a ranch located less than a mile beyond the village of Garden by 10:30 a.m. Here the folks will have an opportunity to see some 500 head of beef cattle managed by George Coppess, a member of the cattle company. George has been crossbreeding for several years and using the artificial method as a means of accomplishing his goal.

A noon luncheon will be available at the Fayette Town Hall put on by the Fayette 4-H Club. After the lunch hour a stop will be made at the Garth Briggs farm. Here people will have an opportunity to see a new cash crop, red kidney and navy beans grown for certification.

The third stop has nothing to do with agriculture but has a direct relationship to the development of the area. We will visit the old town of Fayette, now a state park. The old town is being renovated to its original purpose, the manufacturing of pig iron through the use of charcoal made from the hardwood stands in the area.

Auction is a success

Fair skies and warm weather helped to turn out a good crowd and provide good participation in the Rotary Club Auction Sunday at the high school.

Preliminary figures show the local service club netted between $950 and $1,000 at the event.

Professional auctioneer for the event was Joseph Van Romperg of Iron Mountain.

Proceeds from the sale will be used by the club to help finance their scholarship fund, contributions to Day Child Health Camp, and other youth projects.

Wally Leggett, president of the club, issued a "thank you" this week to the local media, to those persons who donated items, those who worked on the event and those who participated in Sunday's sale.

"Next year I'm sure our auction will be even better than ever," he said, "but for our first year, I think we did all right."

Germfask

The Doran-Keating VFW Post 6030 will hold a meeting on Aug. 2 at 2 p.m. in the VFW Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Krause of Manistique are living in the Harris cabins.

Mrs. Robert Griffin and her father, Mr. Isaac Karwonen of Clawson, visited Mr. and Mrs. Pollmer Lawrence.

The Senior Citizen's Club held a sidewalk sale beside the Community Action Building on Wednesday afternoon and their cook-out on Thursday evening at Riverside Park. Later in the ship Hall and played cards. They will hold a business meeting Aug. 6 at the township hall.

Mrs. E. T. Lundstrom entertained the musicians, their wives and husbands at a festive supper following the concert.

Election time

MICHIGAN'S PRIMARY ELECTION is next Tuesday.

It means that summer is slipping away, and that school will be starting again in about four weeks—but it also means that a rather dull and lackluster primary campaign will be coming to an end.

Most of the action is at the state level. For the Republicans, Lenore Romney is being challenged by State Sen. Robert Huber for the U.S. Senatorial nomination, and Gov. Milliken is getting token opposition from publisher James Turner.

The Democrats have a four-way race going for the governor's nomination.

Some comments:

Money is the name of the game in politics today.

It takes money to come up with the type of campaign that will project the candidate's highly-polished, glossed and refined image to the voter. Computers and television are in. Issues and newspapers are out. Youth is in. Ecology is in. Racial equality is out. War is out. Peace is in.

Very few of the candidates choose to get down to specifics.

Lenore has even had trouble getting around to mentioning her last name, which is Romney, but the best that Sen. Huber can do in rebuttal is point with pride (a declining art form) to his record of 16 years in government.

Rep. Bob Davis is doing the same thing in the Republican contest for the State Senatorial nominating from the 37th District. He's busy pointing with pride and citing his experience. It is always amusing (and sad) that nobody pauses to ponder the fact that this experience might be bad instead of good. We spend a good share of our time between elections fulminating about our elected representatives and champing eagerly for the opportunity to turn the rascals out. Then election time comes, they point with pride to their experience, and we re-elect them for more of the same.

It depends, of course, on whose ox is being gored. Gov. Milliken started to key his campaign to the theme, "This is no time for beginners!" That slogan was gleefully picked up by Sen. Huber and used against Mrs. Romney, and presumably, Sen. Hart could borrow it in the fall. Sen. Sandy Levin and Rep. George Montgomery could also utilize it in their four-way Democratic primary governor's fight against their opponents, Zolton Ferency and George Parris, although Zolton might react with great indignation at the charge he is a beginner, which he isn't.

Such a slogan wouldn't work too well, of course, on those who long for relief from the ministrations of professional politicians, and would welcome the fresh air of amateurism.

We will make our pre-election prediction right now.

Those candidates who have spent the most money, who have mounted the slickest public relations campaign, who have glossed over the issues and emphasized the image—these are the ones who will be nominated next Tuesday. Lenore Romney, Sander Levin, Bob Davis—they will be the winners.

And if they win in November, they may turn out to be excellent public servants, who knows? It's just that we wish the public would demand something a little bit better than superficial images when we are about the important business of electing our representatives in government. Perhaps if we could peel off some of the Madison Ave. gloss we could discover what kind of person there was underneath.

James M. Tagg--Co-Publisher and Business Manager
David A. Rood--Co-Publisher and Editor

A prize-winning weekly newspaper published every Thursday at Manistique, Michigan, at the Top O' Lake Michigan in the heart of Michigan's beautiful Upper Peninsula.

I noticed with great interest the other day that one of the new and exciting features at the Upper Peninsula State Fair this summer will be a Demolition Derby.

Having enjoyed a minor league demonstration of the sport for years along US-2 during the tourist and deer seasons, I am looking forward eagerly to seeing some real pros in action.

A Demolition Derby, as you know, is where all the contestants jump into their cars and bang into each other until only the winner is left undemolished. Sort of like when the cars all race to leave the drive-in theatre at the same time.

The prospect of all this has so excited me, in fact, that I am attempting to prevail upon my friend Harold the stone salesman to enter. Harold, as many of you know, modestly bills himself as the World's Greatest Driver, and each year at hunting camp he presents the Upper Inwood Township version of Helldrivers and Their Death-Defying Challenge of the Open Road.

He is handicapped in his demonstration, of course, by the fact that his arena is confined to the parking lot at Himsel Hentschell's camp, and I feel he could do much better in the open spaces in front of the state fair grandstand.

Ruminating on the prospects of all this led me to consider the fact that there are other events that I would like to see staged at the fair, that could possibly help to attract record crowds.

One of the top events would be what I would like to term the Bridge Fare Free-for-All, which may be a misnomer because they still charge $1.50 toll on the Big Mac, but which would attract a large field of contestants composed of all those people who claim credit for lowering the tolls on the Mackinac Bridge. If we collected a 50 cent entry fee we could probably pay the interest on the outstanding bonds through 1987.

This would be a thrilling, no-holds-barred contest, featuring some of our top politicians. State Rep. Bob Davis of St. Ignace would no doubt be the pre-contest favorite because of his high wind capacity and flair for the overstatement, but retiring Sen. Tom Schweigert is a good man with the backing and Rep. Charlie Varnum's ghost writers have provided him with a good arsenal of snappy retorts that would be most effective.

ALONG THE SIDELINES with Dave Rood

Midway attractions

Spiro Agnew could come and serve as referee for the event.

Another event that I would propose would be the Upper Peninsula Open Deer Estimating Contest. We could round up a certain number of deer, build a fence around them, and then let our U.P. legislators and the Department of Natural Resources experts take turns guessing how many there were. If we had 125 deer behind the fence, the DNR folks would probably estimate around 250, while the legislators probably couldn't see any. First prize could be a free doe permit, and Sen. Joe Mack could do the judging, if he could spring free from the Bridge Fare Free-for-All.

A pasty-eating contest would be another natural attraction. I would be sorely tempted to enter Normie Jahn as the Schoolcraft County representative, except that he is down to only 265 pounds now and seems to be off his feed. His voice is as strong as ever, though, so maybe I should save him for the Gitchee Bird Calling Contest.

One unusual event they should consider would be a map-reading contest. This would attract a good many of our tourist friends, who seem to spend most of their time practicing for just such a competition. Just to make it interesting I would let my wife be the judge for the event, even though she has been known to get lost while driving two blocks to Barney's Grocery.

There are no doubt all sorts of other competitions that I could think of if I put my mind to it, but I am too busy these days keeping the weeds down in the garden and doing the cultivating. After all, I've got to do a good job if I hope to win a blue ribbon in the Rust Resistant Rutabaga Division at the fair this year.

To the Editor:

As long as you are running a series of articles about the workings of the Department of Social Services, why don't you look into the working conditions of the local office?

You should have had a photographer there on Monday morning, taking pictures of the water in the basement of the Court House. The whole force had to go home while water, up to the girls' ankles, was being pumped out.

It would seem that the County and State could find a drier, healthier place for these people to work. I know that the former Director of Social Services had his eye on the Manistique Clinic building. In all of Manistique, there must be some available space, it doesn't need to be as plush as the Clinic, where this group of hard-working people can operate without being in that wet, smelly basement.

Yours sincerely,
Helen Peterson

P.S. If you want to print this, I am the mother of one of the girls in the office. She has a cold all year around, the deadline. When that happens, I head for a manila folder labeled "Column - Raw Material" and dig. When I have dug up an idea and developed it into three typewritten pages worth, I have a column. There are times when I would rather not write it, but I hate to see Dave and Jim give the space to Ann Landers.

This is one of those times. It has to do with a round of golf, a Rotary auction, swimming, and a picnic.

I began a column on realism once, but it never developed. Each of us is proud of his realism. We believe that we look at things the way they are and that we always "tell it like it is," but very few of us ever take the time to determine our particular brands of realism. It was Robert Frost who wrote that a potato washed clean is just as real as a potato with all of the dirt on it.

Here's another paragraph that never quite made it, but I didn't want to throw it away:

Some kids spend their free time tinkering with engines and others read books. I never learned to tinker and as a result I'm an absolute incompetent in the presence of anything more complicated than the mechanics of a wheelbarrow. But I've been reading adult fiction since the fourth grade when I discovered Edna Ferber's "Cimmarron" in the library of our one-room school. It was the first book I had ever read that wasn't a kids' story and it was a great thrill to enter the world of adult fiction. This experience has convinced me that literature -- like water -- will find its own level and that censorship doesn't really do much good. The person who is hurt most in censorship is the censor. It gives him a false belief that something is working when it isn't.

Eric Hoffer is one of the most quotable writers I have ever read and I especially liked: "America is the only new thing in history."

"If you think a thing through to the bitter end there isn't much to say."

"America is God's gift to the poor."

"Intellectuals are more corrupted by power than anyone else."

"Masses perform if you leave them alone like weeds."

That's it for this week, and it all came out of a folder labeled "Column - Raw Material" late on a Sunday night,

Manistique's Largest Bank Prefers

To Let The Customers Do The Talking!

Dick Ketcik:

Well I spend many trips to the bank - The First National Bank - because of some of the civic organizations I belong to. Our finances are handled by this bank, Gerald does a tremendous job, helping us out with our problems. I would assume that other organizations have the same problems, and it might help them to stop in and see Gerald, or at least think about it during their meetings. When they have to put their finances someplace, give it a try.

Owner of Normad Motel & Restaurant

Norm Oliver:

I certainly recommend the First National Bank, I find the service is complete at this bank right here. I don't have to go any further than the First National Bank of Manistique if I want monetary assistance, or guidance in other directions.
It doesn't make any difference.
I feel they have everything I need right here, one stop. It's a one stop bank.

This week's Traffic Safety tip.....

You can see there's a lot of us young kids who enjoy riding the swim bus to Indian Lake each day during this hot weather. And just as we must obey the safety rules while swimming, so should you observe the safety rules while driving. They both make sense, and are there for protection of everyone. So why not drive like we swim—safely, so you'll be back to swim—and drive—another day?
