Owners at two motels

Manistique's leading motels are now under new ownership. Mrs. William Evans, formerly of Warren, Mich., has over the operation of the Deacombe Motel Lakeshore Drive from Mr. and Mrs. James Dallas. Mr. and Mrs. Evans are originally from Pennsylvania and married in Detroit, where he was a partner in a business. They have two children, Robert, 15, and Nora Lee, 8, and Mrs. Dallas will continue to operate the Sunny restaurant, next to the motel. The new owners of the Breakers are Frank and Miriam Warren, who are former residents of Allen Park, Mich., where he is banking for 26 years. He is a native of the Copper River and his wife is from Atlanta, Ga. They have a married daughter residing in New Jersey.

Mueller heads school board

William Mueller is the new president of the Manistique Area School Board. He replaced Patricia Nelson, president of the board for the past seven years. It was Nelson who Monday night cast the deciding vote in favor of Mueller. The board decided, 3-3, on whether to elect Mueller. "Perhaps this will help to unify the district and enable the board to operate more smoothly," said Nelson. Mueller was elected to the board a year ago. Nelson was unanimously elected vice-president and Margaret Waters was unanimously re-elected secretary. On a 4-3 vote by secret ballot, Ralph Gilbert resigned. ## Old school to be razed

It took them almost an hour to get started, but the Manistique Area Schools board of education did a big stroke of business Tuesday night by clearing up the long-standing question of what to do about the old Doyle School. "We're going to tear it down." The vote of 5-1, with Leon Wood voting no and Robert Knop abstaining, was to accept the offer of the Doyle Township Board for $400, and match it with board monies for the purpose of razing the old building. The land will be retained by the school district. All of the controversy over the old building began several months ago when Jim Tompkins made an offer to the board of $500 for the old building. There were subsequent discussions on an easement, a study of the building, another offer of $600 from Peter Derber, and finally the $400 offer from the township board that would be used to match the school money. The delay in getting to the Doyle School question, the second action item on the agenda, was caused by extensive discussion on the first item, approving the minutes. Board President William Mueller said he wanted the minutes of the last meeting to include the discussion of the "illegal" barricade on Cherry St. by the Lakeside School, Supt. Edwin Wuehle cautioned against the use of the word illegal, pointing out that it would admit the school's liability. The word "improver" was then suggested by Robert Knop, and the phrase eventually inserted by a 4-3 vote, with Ralph Gilbert, Jeanne Larson and Margaret Waters voting against.

People speak out on street program

The voice of the people was heard Monday night in the chambers of City Council, with more than 40 persons attending a public hearing on the special assessment districts that will be included as part of the city's $150,000 street improvement program. There was humor mixed with indignation and impatience, plus questions aimed at finding out whether or not the city plans to repair sewers and water mains before improving the street surface, questions as to the width of the streets, and questions as to whether or not some streets should or should not be included. No decisions were reached, but the hearings gave Council an indication of what the public desires in the matter. The final decision on the project still rests with Council, however. Here's a breakdown of the streets tentatively scheduled for the project, which will be financed by a five-year $150,000 bond issue based on future motor vehicle highway tax receipts, plus special assessments for curb and gutters against property owners: N. HOUGHTON AVE. from the Soo Line tracks north to Center St. CEDAR ST. from US-2 (EIK St.) north to Pine St. EARL ST. from Main St. south to Artatus Ave. HERBUTUS AVE. from US-2 east to Range St. and from Cattaraugus east to Steuben St. OAK ST. from Steuben St. east to Puffer St. and from Range St. east to Steuben St. MACKINAC AVE. NORTH from Wolf St. south to Deer St. (US-2), and from Deer St. south to ER St. SCHOOLCRAFT AVE. from ER St. south to Otter St. OTTER ST. from Schoolcraft Ave. east to Chippewa Ave. (US-2). Most of the special projects involve asphalt paving of the streets to a uniform width, plus curb and gutter installations. The Houghton Ave. and Cedar St. projects, however, may involve some major work on sewer and water lines, and may have to be delayed until next summer. Bids on the bituminous surfacing, earth excavating and tree removal, and sealcoating,

New signs are being erected at Doyle, Hiawatha and Lakeside schools this week. Maintenance Director Joe Wood has announced. Wood also reported that work crews have been busy painting at the Mueller School, getting it ready for use this fall as a special education center.

do anything rash...

Summer's hot time again, and a rash (pardon the word) of cases has been reported in Schoolcraft County. It is technical, it's Schistosoma dermatitis... It is of aquatic birds such as ducks and geese, who get on their backs in the water. The life cycle of this parasite usually penetrates the skin but they are extremely near-sighted, and often in fact select swimmers as their next home. Parasite comes into the droplets of water, water dries, it burrows into the skin, where it causes an allergic reaction that brings on red, itchy swellings. Schoolcraft Health Department officials are working in infected areas, but for the meantime they offer... always as soon as possible after swimming. Thorough washing of the body helps to reduce infection. It is best to dry off. Use comparable lotions placed on the itchy areas... can be killed by seeding the water with... don't go swimming.

Cast selected for play

Cast members for the August production of "Mary, Mary" by the Manistique Community Players have been selected. The group will present the three-act comedy, by Jean Kerr Saturday, Aug. 22, and Sunday, Aug. 23. Director will be Kathi Ivany, with Sherrie Start as the technical director. The cast will include Dan Doyle as Bob McKellaway; Sally Glimco, Tiffany Richards, Mark Koltz as Oscar; Eric Larson as Dirk; Winston and Carol Swinehart as Mary McKellaway. Tryouts were held Monday night.

Museum open next week

The Imogene Herbert Museum, in a new location and with a fresh, new coat of paint, will be opening to the public some time next week. The exact day and hours will be announced later. Mrs. John Matthews, curator, assisted by volunteers, will be on hand to explain the various museum displays. A "thank you" to the many people who donated funds and volunteered time to help prepare the museum was issued by the committee in charge this week. Formerly located adjacent to the Putnam house at Cedar and Main Sts., the museum building was moved last winter to its new location adjacent to the Chamber of Commerce offices in the old water tower, by the large increase in visitors. The new location is expected to result in a sign increase in visitors.

'Outside' funds aid school

A wide variety of several dozen special programs combined last year for a quarter-million dollar transaction into the Community Bloodstream of the Manistique Area Schools. Summaries of the programs, which range from the adult diploma program to driver ed. classes to special one-time grants for such things as hot lunch equipment and the audio-visual bus, showed a total of $266,435 in receipts during the 1969-70 fiscal year. This total can be confusing, however. It includes a major item of $67,939 for the U.P. Highway Safety Project, in which the local district merely acts as a disbursing agent. It does not include substantial accounts receivables—money due the local district for various programs, but not yet received. The summary does provide an insight, however, into the complexity of school financing today, and how alert school directors can increase and supplement its programs through state and federal programs. Title I of the Elementary Secondary Education Act for instance, brought in more than $48,000 during the last fiscal year. This is the grant that pays for the summer program in basic skills as well as supplements the aide staff and programs during the regular school months. There were other special grants under other titles in the Elementary - Secondary Education Act, or ESEA as it is known. The local district received $2,100 during the past year for a special education staff recruiting program; another $6,050 went to help provide a program in public relations for the district; still another $3,168 was used for library materials. The local program in adult basic education brought in Federal funds of more than $6,000, but the Community School program also provided other benefits for the district. A state grant of $6,368 goes toward paying the Community School Director's salary. It is also the Community School that is acting as the disbursing agent for the $67,939 received for the U.P. Highway Safety Program that is spread over 13 other school districts. The adult diploma program, also operated by the Community School, brought in $21,522 that went to the district's general fund as state aid payment for these part-time students. Community School fees and miscellaneous charges and income brought in $6,838.57, and the program ended the fiscal year with a balance of $12,423.49. Purchase of classroom equipment under the National Defense Education Act is another $2,980. The local district contracts with the Community Action Agency for Head Start facilities, and that's another $8,000. Driver - education reimbursement from the state is $5,340, for home economics vocational education another $1,167, for co-op vocational, $1,172, and for office practice, $378. The library brings in pennies from state aid, fees and grants totaling $24,846.68, while the Type A special education program brings an additional $17,474.80 in state aid funds. Finally, there are the one-sided deals, such as the $12,055 the district will receive to pay for the audio-visual bus, and another $9,944 for assistance in purchasing hot lunch equipment. If it all sounds confusing, don't worry. That's because it is confusing. It requires complicated, bookkeeping, voluminous records and a sharp eye for the fine print in governmental education programs that will allow the Manistique Area Schools to qualify for the various grants.

School project going well

Work on the new Big Bay de Noc school project is proceeding ahead of schedule, according to project superintendent Harold Anderson. The roof is expected to be on before the end of the month, and the brick and block work should be completed in three weeks, he said. There are 30 men, including electricians, plumbers, bricklayers, operators, truck drivers, iron workers and laborers, employed on the project. Anderson expects the site work to be completed by fall, and the entire building finished in April or May of 1971. The building will be heated and lighted by electricity, with Paul Electric of Iron Mountain as the contractor, Hoholik's, Inc. of Manistique is the plumbing contractor.

Butterfield bound over

Mark R. Butterfield, 23, of St. Francis, Wis., was bound over to Circuit Court when he appeared for preliminary examination last Thursday in District Court on a charge of possession of narcotics. Butterfield had been stopped for a traffic violation, Stark said when he appeared for preliminary examination last Thursday in District Court on a charge of possession of narcotics. Butterfield, who has been working as a printer in Wisconsin since his discharge from the Coast Guard, was formerly stationed here with that service. He was released on continuance of $200 bond, and will appear at the September term of Circuit Court. The charge is a felony.

EXTENSION News Notes

Howard H. Handorf
County Extension Director

Several portions of the week at Clear Lake. On Sunday we were almost ready when we started driving up to Detroit children for either three days or a whole week. Luckily the weather was clear and warm and the lake was warm. Clear Lake. You didn't turn on even after you had been in for over five minutes. Capt. Gage, our water safety instructor from Manistiquet, took charge of the waterfront immediately and started giving the swimming tests so we could pass all of our campers at the waterfront. I did notice she was working intensively with several girls from the Cooks area who were trying to become swimmers and they were doing very well under her tutelage. So I have hopes that many more campers will come back swimmers next year! I stayed through dinner on Sunday night and it seemed that the Skippy Jones were disappearing quite rapidly from many, many throats. (I assume everybody had enough to eat as there was some food and back up.)

This past week of the 11th Annual Farm Management Tour in the Upper Peninsula. The tour will be on Aug. 1, 10:30 a.m. It will begin at the George Coppess Farm in Garden. After luncheon at the Fayette Town Hall you will have the chance to visit a Fayette bean grower farm, and also hear Drs. Nelson and Capeland, Michigan State University specialists in crop science, discuss new cash crops for this area.

9 from here at Bay Cliff

Bay Cliff Health Camp, a non-profit summer camp for physically handicapped children from every county above the Straits, has completed three of seven weeks during the current session. This year, 107 campers are in attendance, nine from Schoolcraft County. Funds for the local participants were raised through the 1970 CBC Drive.

Attending from Schoolcraft County are Carol Burns, Mark Carlson, Stephanie Eckdahl, Martin Holmberg, John Louis, Jr., Darla Patz, Allen Reno, Louis Reno, and Jeff Sabinski.

The Fourth of July was a special experience for the campers with an extra hour sleep-in celebration, followed by a late breakfast. All even the severely handicapped children, then participated in relay races, with prizes being awarded the winners. The annual camp parade into Big Bay was held in the afternoon. After the parade, an all-camp picnic and recreation time took place and a display of fireworks topped off the day's events.

lucky housewives. A recent research report really surprised me. According to a survey made in 1968 of 1,296 husband-wife families in the Syracuse, New York Area, the time contributed by husbands for household work was less than is often assumed and does not increase when the homemaker is employed outside the home.

Food Preparation time did increase.

Husbands increased the time from 6 to 12 minutes per day as wives paid employment time increased. And for wives - as their employment time increased, the time spent in food preparation decreased from 2 - 1/4 hours for full time homemakers to 1 - 1/2 hours for those who worked 30 or more hours a week. This is why we see so many T.V. dinners and pot pies at check-out counters just before supper! They also look for other convenience foods.

Husbands do help with house-care activities.

The research report showed that they contributed over a half hour per day to care of house activities. These included care of the inside and outside of the house and "of the family's second house - the family car." They also contributed about 20 minutes a day to family care and 25 minutes to marketing and record keeping - whether or not the homemaker was employed.

Totaling it all, you end up with about 1.6 hours per day. So if you are a homemaker contemplating working outside the home, don't expect wonders from most husbands.

Wives who had a baby in the family and were employed 15 or more hours per week received considerably more help from husbands than did other wives but these families were the only exception.

Remember, these are averages - some of you are lucky enough to get more help - but others are getting less.

Better health care

YOU DON'T NEED A LONG MEMORY to recall back when the American Medical Association was wringing its collective hands about the socialistic evils of Medicare and telling how it would destroy free enterprise and good medical care in this country.

The passing of time, of course, has shown that while Medicare does have its deficiencies, these are not among them. At the same time, it has helped to show the growing need for some sort of a national health insurance program that offers complete medical protection for every citizen—rich or poor, young or aged.

There is no consistency, for instance, in making adequate health care available to the aged and indigent, yet denying it to others just because they have not retired or are not on welfare. Unfortunately, the skyrocketing cost of medical care, particularly hospital rates, are having that effect. A serious illness and resulting hospitalization can easily cost $5,000—far beyond the ordinary capabilities of the average working man and his family.

We are not putting the knock on doctors, pharmacist or hospitals when we say this. Their costs have gone up too, and we should not expect the marvels of modern science and medicine to cost the same as the more primitive cures and treatments of decades past.

Our point is that in a rich and prospering country such as ours, there is no logical reason for any person facing the threat of economic ruin by reason of ill health and extended hospitalization.

Our thoughts on all of this are prompted, of course, by the introduction last week of the national health insurance plan conceived by the United Auto Workers under the direction of the late Walter Reuther.

The UAW proposal is not the only approach to such a program, of course. Rep. Martha Griffiths of Michigan introduced her own health care bill in the House last February. The plans vary in detail, although both call for financing through social security and the federal government. The Nixon administration has also indicated it favors an expansion of the federal medical care program. With such diverse backers, the question is not if there will be such a program, but when, and what it will contain.

Existing health insurance programs, through private companies, cover only a portion of the people in this country. The coverage that is offered ranges from excellent to minimal. The new plans call for the inclusion or dental services and drugs, which are generally excluded in private plans.

When the UAW plan was introduced last week it was noted;

"Many millions of Americans, regardless of their ability to pay, get inferior and inadequate care. Millions of poor people get no care at all. Private health insurance does not come close to providing real security for the majority of the people it covers and there are 30 million other Americans who have no coverage. These conditions have caused the U. S. to slip behind other industrial countries by the most significant measurements of health status."

It makes no sense at all for our nation to fail to offer its citizen—all of its citizens—complete and comprehensive health care. It would be our hope that the many strong points of private medical and dental practice and personalized hospital care, so valued by so many people, can be retained while the coverages and services are expanded to include everyone.

A super freeway

There has been a lot of discussion recently about state plans to build a freeway in the Upper Peninsula.

In fact there have been quite a few arguments about the best east-west route across the peninsula, with all kinds of fights about where it should be built. Imagine, if you will, a resident of Eskerman conceding without a fight that the freeway should be built through Trout Lake.

There is another problem that nobody has mentioned yet.

What will happen to those communities that are bypassed by the proposed freeway?

The mind boggles, for instance, at the prospect of Hulbert being cut off from the surge of traffic that now courses by, close at hand. They still remember in Engadine, for instance, what happened when they built new US-2 back before World War II, and the new route went a mile south of the business district. Engadine hasn't been the same since. It's as though its very life blood has been choked off.

They also point to examples downstate. How many travelers have passed through Frederic, they ask, since I-75 took the place of US-27? Do we want the same thing happening to Epoufette?

From casual observation it would look like the highway builders are going to have a tough time of it trying to settle on a satisfactory east-west route.

If they go north, for instance, they will be running right smack into the proposed National Lakeshore up at the Pictured Rocks, and who wants an expressway running through a National Park? They are going to spend all kinds of money to retain the natural beauty of the area and keep the Pictured Rocks in their original unspoiled state. So we will have to cross off the northern route as impractical.

The central route, right through the heart of the peninsula, is also going to have problems. They'll no sooner get west of Luce County than they'll run right into the Seney Wildlife Refuge. It should be obvious that all those big trucks and camper trailers and crashing tourists would disturb all the Canada Geese nesting at the refuge and undo all the good work that they've built up over the past 30 years. It was bad enough when the DSS&A used to run a passenger train between Marquette and the Soo.

The only alternative left is the southern route, along Lake Michigan, which is being advocated by all those people who have businesses along present US-2. What most people have obviously overlooked, however, is the proposed National Gitchee Bird Refuge in the Jamestown Slough area. In this era of conservatism and ecology, how would it look if a super highway destroyed the last natural nesting habitat of the almost-extinct Gitchee Bird, who are even more sensitive to loud noises and strange visitors than the Canada Geese up at the Seney Refuge?

The trouble with highway planners is that they take their rulers and dividers and draw a relatively straight line between two points on the map and say, "That's where our expressway is going."

Those people in Lansing know little of our Pictured Rocks, our Seney Swamp, and our Gitchee Birds, which is why this newspaper is performing such a great public service in calling it to their attention.

(I doubt if they will appreciate our efforts very much. The last time I wrote something about the highway department it was to complain because they locked the doors to the ladies' johns on the rest areas during a busy summer week end, causing a crisis of considerable proportions, and they certainly didn't regard that as a public service.)

After giving the matter a great deal of thought I have come up with what I think is a reasonable compromise. If they want to build a freeway in the Upper Peninsula, well and good, but have them run it north and south instead of east and west.

Instead of going from the Soo to Ironwood, a distance of some 309 miles, they could build it from Grand Marais to Seul Choix, which is less than 60 miles. At a cost of a million dollars a mile they will be saving just about $250 million dollars, which they badly need to raise the salaries of the legislature again.

The Grand Marais to Seul Choix route would skirt the eastern boundaries of both the Pictured Rocks and Seney Refuge, and could cut the driving time from Grand Marais to Blaney Park to just over 30 minutes, an obvious boon to commuters. It would also relieve a serious traffic bottleneck at the junction of M-77 and M-28, at Seney.

In fact there are so many good arguments I'm surprised they haven't thought of this before in Lansing. When it comes to the Upper Peninsula, those folks down there just can't see the forest for the trees.

SMOOTHER PEBBLES

Caravel is a "little" magazine. Usually, these are published irregularly, have a short life span (although Caravel has been published since 1957), and have a small circulation. The "little" magazines encourage beginning writers and often accept material which can find no other home. The editorial policy of the "littles" is different, and the thoughts expressed are often unique.

Ben Hagglund, the editor of Caravel, says that the intense preoccupation with self, so evident in modern writing, is a rebellion against the mechanistic view of the universe. The emphasis in Caravel is on people and places.

Mr. and Mrs. Hagglund recently moved from East Palo Alto, California, to Thief River Falls, Minnesota. From the description, Thief River Falls must be like the Upper Peninsula. It is in the upper left hand corner of Minnesota at a junction of the Thief and Red Lake rivers. The area was once a watery highway down which lumberjacks herded millions of logs to the sawmills. At the end of the long run came payday, and with payday came a wild gambol through the two-story establishments. Thief River Falls at one time had 18 saloons. It sounds like Seney.

Their young folks have left, too. The villages had nothing to offer young people, so the choice was not even theirs. The majority of the farmyouths found their way into the cities and the farm girls either found careers for themselves in the cities or married boys who found careers in the cities. The area shows a decreased population and the people remaining there tend to be in the older age bracket.

Editor Hagglund writes about a paradox in modern life; a man can't wait to leave the quiet and peace of the village so he can jump pell mell into the noise and confusion of the city, in order to make enough money so he can afford to leave the city and regain the quiet and peace of the village. He sees suburban living as not much better than cities because the suburbs are pieces of the city and have the fatal virus already imbedded in them.

He thinks of simplicity as being not the absence of contrivances, but as a world in which living can be done with the least amount of friction and abrasion, physically and mentally. This requires all the help we can get from tools and gadgets in modern living. "Let computers do the routine tasks that formerly required the tedious work," he says.

The back page of Caravel quotes Isaac Newton's casual approach to life: "I do not know what I may appear to the world; but to myself I seem to have been only a little boy playing on the seashore, and diverting myself in now and then finding a smoother pebble or a prettier shell than ordinary, whilst the great ocean of truth lay all undiscovered before."

Hagglund's advice is, "You must belong somewhere. This is the only thing that gives life some meaning. Find your place and dig in! The rest will follow."

Discovering Caravel is like finding one of Isaac Newton's "smoother pebbles."

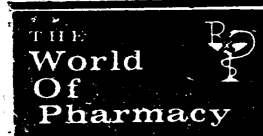

"These days, a child who knows the value of a dollar must be mighty discouraged."

Hi Folks!

This week I almost played hooky from my visit with you. It seemed not a minute in my

Tommy Thompson, J.P. Quice
MEDICAL I.D.

Do you take prescription drugs daily? Do you have a serious allergy, heart condition, diabetes, kidney trouble, glaucoma, etc.? Are you on a prescribed diet such as low or no salt? If your answer is yes to any of the above questions these next paragraphs are aimed at you!

If you were to be in an accident or possibly become unconscious for any reason, your condition could be extremely critical if you were given drugs that your system could not tolerate. The wearing of an A.M.A. approved bracelet or necklace could make the difference between LIFE or DEATH for you.

Firemen, police and emergency aides throughout this country and most of the world have been trained to look for the A.M.A. symbol and automatically check wallets or purses for any special medical instructions. This has been instrumental in the saving of many lives.

daily hours was to be had where I could pause to let my thoughts roam. I just don't know what I would do if I didn't find nature so entertaining for with it I find my best relaxation.

Last night we had a little rainfall and we could use more as the earth is very dry. Yet more wild flowers come up with their blossoms to add beauty to our summer season. In the purples you'll see the flowerheads of the ironweed blooming everywhere. They resemble the flower of the purple thistle but without spines. The purple asters can be seen in open fields and along the roadsides as is the sweet Joe-Pye-Weed whose flowers are a dull, pale, pinkish purple, in a fuzzy, massive, somewhat domed cluster.

In the shades of the evergreens the wintergreens with their small white tubular flowers can be now seen and later will give us tasty berries. The blue berries are starting to ripen slowly now and in a short time one should be able to have a tasty blue berry pie.

Along the roadside the tall evening primrose has started to open towards evening and wilt towards the day. The common mullen is also showing off its clublike flower head of yellow that looks like a stout and erect candelabra.

In my little garden my petunias in different colors have been attracting the humming birds, and I still have some roses blooming and cantebury bells to add color.

Dr. and Mrs. Joe DeLor and their guest Mrs. Edwards spent an enjoyable week at the DeLor's cabin at Hughes Lake. Mrs. Nola Havens is spending the summer at her cabin at Blaze Trail.

At Thunder Lake Dr. and Mrs. James Davidson and family are vacationing.

Visiting and vacationing with the Garr Kitts at Thunder Lake is their son and family, Mr.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Paczkowski of Troy, Mich. spent the week end with us. These folks will spend a lot of time out our way as they are buying a place at Thunder Lake.

Last Wednesday the Boss and I with part of our family went out to dinner. To join us was our son and wife, Capt. and Mrs. Henry R. Peterson, daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Amelin, daughter Mrs. James Hardy and our friends Mr. and Mrs. Dale Potvin. We had an enjoyable evening, yet it was somewhat sad in a way as our son left for Vietnam Friday morning, where he will remain for a year.

The much needed rains have come this morning and the air smells so fresh. So with the rain drops go echoes of birthday greetings to Roy Briggs, Rita Schuetter, Marie Reid, Jerry Sleeper, Joe Markham, and Rose Klarich.

Anniversary wishes go to the Michael Chisholms, Norm Jahns, Jr., and the Donald Shackles.

May the day for all of you be one of complete happiness. Until next week stay healthy and happy. Mrs. Scoop

Schoolcraft among counties receiving sewer plan grant

A grant of $80,700 has been approved by the Farmers Home Administration for comprehensive planning of water and waste disposal services in rural areas of Alger, Delta, Dickinson, Marquette, Menominee, and Schoolcraft counties in the Upper Peninsula.

The grant will be made to the Central Upper Peninsula Regional Planning Commission. Alfred O. LaPorte, State Director, Farmers Home Administration, presented the first installment of the grant to the Commission.

The comprehensive plan will outline orderly development of central water systems, sewer systems, and other waste disposal facilities to serve all rural areas of the above-mentioned six counties, including towns of not more than 3,500 population. Planning will take into account the need to insure effective use of water resources, avoid duplication of systems, and locate waste disposal facilities so as to guard against pollution of water supplies.

Planning will be carried out under the jurisdiction of Central Upper Peninsula Regional Planning Commission, which headquarters in Escanaba, R. Myron Ross is chairman, and Frank W. Mead, secretary of the commission.

Sally Handorf says:

We were looking for a bank that offered all services when we first moved here, such as having a savings department, having a place where we could have a checking account - and we found those at First National Bank. You enjoy going in because they always have a nice pleasant word to say with you and the children always feel very much at home at the bank. They look forward to their trips in there...the tellers are just as courteous to them as they are to the adults doing business with them.

ATTEND THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE THIS SUNDAY

This message is brought to you by the following local business establishments in the interest of strengthening community churches:

MANISTIQUE PULP & PAPER CO.

TREE HOUSE

There is joy in the tree house nestled high in the boughs as the boys climb up to play in it and the adults remembering the golden afternoons of their own childhood.

Sometimes grownups say wistfully, "I wish I were that age again." But do they really wish it? Being a child is wonderful, but maturing can be a painful process.

Help your children enjoy the precious childhood hours—never forgetting that they must grow up. Remember you have a never-ending source of guidance. The church will help your children preserve the spirit of youth and give them the wisdom, courage and faith that will sustain them through the rest of their lives.

Bank debits on increase
 Bank debits in Manistique during May showed an increase of 11 per cent from the same period a year ago, according to figures released this week by the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis.

Manistique's bank debits volume for the month was $6,976,000, compared to $6,261,000 for the month of May, 1969.

For the first five months of 1970, bank debits here totaled $33,809,000, an increase of 12 per cent over the first five months of 1969.

Bank debits for the most part are checks against depositors' accounts and represent payment for goods, services and debts. They are regarded as one indicator of business activity in the area.
