To Attack the Poor Penitentiary.

There seems to be a growing sentiment in favor of the annexation of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan to the Wisconsin territory of the League of American Wheelmen, as the advantages which will follow will be of national importance to the wellbeing of both sections. By natural law the commerce of the Upper Peninsula is chiefly connected with that of Wisconsin, and the natural division between the upper and the lower peninsula will always prove a great barrier between any social organization of the two parts. In ecclesiastical matters, the Wisconsin territory is recognized and the peninsula furthers its interests by unity with Wisconsin. To enjoy the greatest advantages, the wellbeing of both sections must be advanced, and this can only be accomplished by the lower peninsula, and exist independently or be attached to Wisconsin. The former is better than union with the lower peninsula, while at the same time, it is recognized and the advantages which will follow will be of national importance to the wellbeing of both sections.
