The best is what you want when you are in need of a medicine. That is why you should insist upon Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Will Putnam, first assistant at the post office, and his nephew, Dan Kimball, will leave on Sunday for a visit to Potoski.

The dust has been flying so thick and fast for several days past that painters would be very imprudent to do outside work.

Considerable street grading has been already done on Oak street, in front of the new residence of Dr. Sattler and John Jansen.

Painters are improving the appearance of the residence occupied by Manager Higney of the Western Lumber Co.'s store.

G. S. Fuller has moved this week from Lakeside into the residence on Walnut street formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Thompson.

noon of the 10th with Mrs. Geo. F.
Fuller, on Oak street. A general attendance of members is requested.

The planing mill has been put in operation on this week, which will stamp as a falsehood the report that it had been shutoff permanently.

Ephraim McCullough, sr., arrived home last evening from his visit to friends in Canada, and Bay Mills and other points on his side of the line.

Mr. McIntyre and others, farmers in Hogkeweenaw, have had plenty to do in saving their hives and similar from being destroyed by fire this week.

B. P. Pollock, the interior of his ice cream parlors fitted in with nice change. We stand in the near future to be enjoying a restaurant.

Since the women began to ride the Colorado claims to have discovered "a gold mine that yields $100,000 a day." It is said to be like Colorado silverites to spite the gold-lugs in that way. They will be using silver scoop shovels out there to gather up the gold.

Lakeland ladies were out in great numbers Wednesday afternoon fighting fire, and their industry no doubt kept the destructive element away from a number of houses. There were very few of the men at home at the time.

A. C. Haldell, superintendent of the Hall & Bull Lumber at South Manistique, received a handsome Sheffield gun and cart, on the Ludington, Thursday evening. The pony weighs about 300 pounds. The cart is for the use of his children.

Sidney Whiteley, of the Phoenix Insurance Co., of London, England, was in this city, Wednesday and Thursday, on business. While here he was engaged in the sale of insurance policies to the large list of insurance companies now represented by the Marsh Insurance Agency.

Archie Madarun moved his stock of goods Wednesday from the Miller building to the room lately occupied by Andrew West and a Ryckel & McCullough's. He carries a full supply of birds, Indian curiosities, reliquies, etc. He offers for sale many of the goods which interest the trade people to call and see. His new place of business is centrally located and will be fitted up in attractive style.

A very handsome veneered crown-top was brought up on the City of Ludington for Alo Hedges, who now on the upper main street. The boat is a beauty, 12 feet long, 20 inches high. It is said to be exactly like the one now used by Grover Cleveland Parties, also annually used a practice by President Hayes.

Mr. Frank Gates and Mrs. Peter Zimmerman.

Mrs. Wm. Wain and daughter returned from Milwaukee on the City of Ludington. The little girl who has been there for treatment to her ears, is now happily improved.

Rue Sala—Several very mattresses in the goods—many are of the best, furniture which can be bought wonderfully cheap by applying at the Ossawatimie Hotel. (21)

On account of increase of business the Manistique Bank has added two more companies to their insurance agency: the Milwaukee Mechanics and the Continental of N. Y.

Dr. E. L. Robertson, of Lansing, Mich., is at the Ossawatimie, where he can be consulted between 10 and 11 a. m. daily. He treats all chronic diseases. Consultation free.

No change in the attitude of the striking miners at Ishpeming at last accounts. The men seem determined to remain out and the companies appear to be willing that they should.

The rain here yesterday afternoon was indeed a welcome guest, and stopped to a great extent the forest fires, for several days had threatened the destruction of much property.

D. Horwitz, of the firm of Schuman & Horwitz, will return from his visit to Chicago late next week.
He will attend the marriage of a relative in the above city before returning.

The Swedish Baptist church society organized some ten years ago and twenty-two members, has now a membership of one hundred and fifty-one.
But nine of the original members are now connected with the society. During the past ten years the society has received the sum of $10,000.15. The church property consisting of lot, church and parsonage, which is valued at $8,000, and the indebtedness upon the property at the present time is about $400.

Hunters will save themselves a great deal of trouble if they will procure a copy of the new game laws and read the same carefully. No man will be allowed now to hunt deer without first taking out a license, for which non-residents have to pay a large fee and residents $10 cents. The officers who tend to rigidly attend to their duties this fall, and it will be a sorry day for those who hunt without a proper license and legal permit. If you doubt the statement consult the attempt and see.

At the Ossawatimie.
Dr. E. L. Robertson, a well-known and highly popular specialist in all chronic diseases, of Lansing, Mich., is at the above hotel. All medicines used are pure and compounded at the laboratory of Dr. Robertson and are warranted purely vegetable. Consultation free from 9 to 10 p. m. every day.

To Contractors.
Sealed bids will be received by the Village Clerk at his office in the Court house for the following contract work to wit: Covering with stone, the highway leading to South Manistique, from the Hall & Bull railroad crossing westwardly to the village limits.
This stone used to be substantially the same as the chip furnished by the White Marble Limestone Co., and to be placed on solid road, 10 feet wide and 8 inches deep in center for feet with sloping 4 inches at 1 inch to an edge. Bids to specify the price per lineal rod of road. The work to be done in workmanlike manner subject to the approval of the road commissioner, and to be completed in 30 days from the date of the contract.
The right to reject any or all bids is reserved. This will be opened at the regular meeting of the village council on Aug. 13th, 1898.

VIRGIL T. HIXSON,
Village Clerk.

His Success Assured.
The second meeting of the Manistique Business Men's Association was held last night in the rooms in the German-Castello building. At the meeting were our representative business men and all took an active part in the matters presented for perfecting the organization. The reports of the several committees were read and applauded, except the report of committee on constitution and by-laws, which were by read a second time, and adopted by section, when an adjournment was taken to next Friday night on account of the lateness of the hour. The following are the names of those who signed the membership list at the meeting: W.
H. Hill, John Costello, V. I. Hixson, A. S. Putnam, J. H. MacNaughton, Leo Rose, Robert C. McKesson, M.
H. Burson, Henry Gandy, John Mc-Carthy, John Mosher, Dilem G. Carley, J. M. Sattler, Chas. R. Orr, John Larsen, Frank Clark, Ed. Ashford, Paul Thompson, S. Wickham, B. P.
Pollock, Matt. Schneider, Lewis Schumper, J. A. Gorman and H. W. Clark.
An adjourned meeting of the association will be held at its hall on Friday evening next when the organization will be completed.

Miracles were from the Flamer.
There was much excitement at Whitehall and Gulliver, Wednesday morning by the fire in the woods between the two places and north of both. The fire got very close to some of the buildings but they were saved by the hard work of the firemen.
The railroad officials took out 25 or 30 men from here on a special train, who assisted in putting out the fire. The only injured reported is that which befell our friend, Gerard Israel. He was out with his team hauling water to put out fires when he found that he was surrounded by the flames and also his team out of. In his effort to break through, the horses "bolted" and before he could get them out they were hauled to a point in a thicket that one or both will have to be killed to get them out of their misery. Mr.
Israel himself was burned badly, but not seriously.

Sehon, a section man at Gulliver, while away on duty, Wednesday, returned home in the evening to find that his household goods and family furniture had been stolen. He was afraid that the fire would destroy his home and placed their furniture in a box car, sending it to this city. A telegram from Mrs. Sehon in the evening told of the family's whereabouts, which greatly relieved the anxiety of the husband and father.

Aphorisms—Laconic—Proverbs.
Dogs lie to the top.
Let nothing afflict you but sin.
Great talkers are commonly liars.
Forecast is better than word hard.
The platy that makes you dainty.
The smallest hair throws a shadow.
God's will grants slowly, but surely.
Fools and willful men make the law very great.

A sound conscience is a brazen wall of defense.
It is fast to derive instructions even from enemies.
Happy is the man who does all the good he talks of.

Gambling is worse than drunkenness to business integrity.
The pen and tongue are battering rams of good and evil.
We raise a terrible dust, said the fly perched on a wagon wheel.
A fool on a hill expects things to fall thus contrary to nature.

Truth lies within a little certain compass, but error is infinite.
If folks were white hats and coats we should look like a flock of geese.
If pride were a deadly disease how many would not be in their graves?

An early death is the only thing that can prevent some girls from being old maids.
God keep me from him whom I trust, from him that I trust not I shall never suffer.

We are not all fit for that love which is the beginning of Heaven, and can have no end.
It is the opposition wall upon the suspense ground that gives force to the common habit.

Wanderers may be said to be artificial, millennium, man-making, self-independent, lovely animals.
A client told his lawyer that he had told him the plain truth, and he could put it in the lies himself.

Thieves like to determine who is to pay for the cigars or drinks, is the first lesson in gambling.
When a man has no mind of his own, it is proper that his wife should fill him a piece of beef.

Only the laws that have sanctified marriage, and a marriage without work, love is an immoral contract.
The most exasperating part of being rich is that the funeral director will rob your surviving relatives, until you reach hell.

What all that is mine own is yours if I end of my life, but the secret of my friend is not mine own, it is a sacred trust.
It only rests with ourselves to make any position in life, which circumstances render it expedient for us to occupy, desirable.

Well, I have had my run, have been Blessed from the darkness of the dust, And for a change, I must see you.
The brightness of the stars of trust.

Some people are far above books; what they study is one another, and the pursuit of this brother of knowledge they are indefatigable.

Some people spend their early lives in letting down empty buckets into empty wells, and then fitter away their eyes in trying to draw them up again.

There never was a novel to mind woman with an outfit, if men were all they ought to be, women would obey them, gladly. To be able to do so is all they ask.

You know what it is to be sure that nothing is wrong, and yet not be able to feel so—to have your conscience acknowledge that your conscience does not condemn?

A man overloads his stomach and is punished by his qualms; he overexerts his nerves and his hand becomes inert; or his brain plays him false in his deliberations. The penalty pays for the character of the crime.

From the instant that a man's eyes have enabled a woman to read that she has found favor in his sight—from the instant that the revolution has brought a throng of rapture with it, and that she is moved by the sense of power which makes her feel for the moment, as rich as her lot, all that remains is to wait until she is betrayed by Christ from the summit of high mountain were within her grasp—then that instant her Garden of Eden closes upon her forever. She has tasted of a fruit whose favor will remain within her lips to the end of time.

Gambling is the skilful, poisonous fog of integrity. You can see the guilt of doubtfulness and guard against being damaged by a drinking partner or employee, but more often than not you know nothing of the gambler's downward progress until you losses tell the tale. Gambling always has been the companion habit of lying; the lying goes worse as the gambling becomes fiercer. Your gambling associate has such a cheerful mask of falseness that you are ignorant when suddenly intimates that he is treading the dangerous path of defiance with lies, cards or the races.

Three again Queen Victoria, the Good, has endeavored herself to all right thinking people. She has announced that her latest dish is corned beef and cabbage.

Statisticians say that in three years the value of horses in the United States has declined by $121,000,000. These are the ravages of the electric car and the bicycle.

According to the census there are 21,000,000 church members in the United States. The field of the evangelist is, however, a pretty good one still, as there are over 65,000,000 people in this country.

Mrs. Bernhardt has been asked how it is that she wears so few hats. The answer she gives is that she never thinks. She plays to her finger tips. Her life is acting. Reflection she leaves to the dreamers. "It is thought that wars one out."

One half of the troubles of every community comes from the fact that too few people can keep their mouths shut. We have two ears but only one tongue—a physiological suggestion that we ought to hear a good deal more than we tell.

The city council of Selma, Ala. have seen the Northwest and gone it one better in their curfew ordinance. It provides that not only minors but married men must avoid the streets after 10 o'clock in the evening. Thus do the triumphs of the new woman grow from hour to hour.

A youth went to a doctor the other day and asked him if cigarette smoking was injurious to the brain. He was heartily satisfied with the reply, for the doctor imparted the following information: "Oh, no, not in the least, for a boy with any brains will not smoke them."

The other day Mr. Hale, of Kentucky, was asked by Mr. Bush, of the same state, to give him a chew of tobacco. "Hale declined in fun," it is reported, whereupon Bush stabbed him in the back. It is such Kentucky habits which make residence in that state somewhat unattractive at times.

The French people are said to have in contemplation for the big Paris exposition of 1910, a hole in the ground a mile in depth, which is made wonderfully attractive by spicuous caverns gorgeously fitted up, and to which visitors will be conveyed by elevators. Such a hole as that would have been mighty handy when the Germans were after them in 1870 and might come in handy in a similar emergency before 1910 if young William of Germany should take it into his head to make a little excursion over the Rhine with his army.

In a certain state of the south there is a railroad which is leased for one cent a year, and which has only one train, which flunks up in accommodation what it lacks in regularity. It stops anywhere and everywhere. A train certain crossing it always stopped to take a dozen of eggs which a widow sent it from every day. One morning the widow came out, and said: "I'm mighty sorry, Mister Conductor, but I've got only eleven this morning." "Never mind, madam," he replied cheerfully, "we'll wait."

All who aid in the making of newspapers have need to school themselves in the yet unlearned lesson of reflecting the facts of every day just as they exist. It is a legacy of this age of newspapers that news is colored or partially given, and there is hardly a paper in the country (boast ourselves as we may) that has wholly broken loose from that old-time fetter. Yet the daily paper of the future is going to be a newspaper—successful and profitable, and popular, and useful as a social force, just in proportion as its news-giving shall be rightly impartial.—Monocle-Herald.

A million and a half tons of ore moved an average of about 850 miles, and most of it unloaded direct into railway cars for shipment to farmers, all in thirty days! Such is the record of the lake ore trade thus far this season. Shipment of May and June aggregate more than 3,000,000 gross tons. This volume of business exceeds all estimates as to what might be done in the one trade during a single season.

If forced to list the present facilities would probably admit that 10,000,000 gross tons of ore being moved in a season.—Marine Review.

True Nationality. An exchange tells a good story of a father and mother who were trying to find names for their twin babies, who by the way were girls. It was decided that the father must name them. After casting about and finding no names that exactly suited him, he determined to end the strain on his mind and call them "Kate" and "Duplicate." In the course of time another pair of twins came, and they were boys. This was the husband's opportunity to get even, and he wanted his good wife to christen the boys, imagine his feelings when the mother one day told him she had named the boys "Pete" and "Repeat."

Nella Bly, the noted and indefatigable newspaper correspondent who ferreted out the crimes perpetrated on working girls and women in the huge manufacturing establishments of Chicago, has been traveling throughout the west and writing up the Nebraska families. "Here is one of the heather in Africa and I will tell you of the people in the west who haven't seen a church in years. Tell me of the poor in Ireland, and I will tell you of the labor of Siberia, and I will tell you of the harder labor in the west. Send your subscriptions west, loan your money for your own, and it will be better for us all."

There are two principal reasons why both the beet and cane sugar industries of the United States should receive ample protection at the hands of congress. One of these reasons is that it will enable us, in time to be independent of other producing countries for our supplies of one of the necessary articles of life. The other reason is that the use of thousands of acres of our farm lands in growing sugar cane or sugar beets will leave a smaller area to be planted to cotton, corn, wheat, and other crops that we know produce in such superabundance that the prices paid for them to the farmers are very often below the cost of actual production.—American Economist.

The Vital Statistics Report for 1903, just received at this office from the department of State, Lansing, is issued unusually early and contains matters of much interest and importance to physicians, health officers, sanitary and social conditions of the year 1893 to 1903, 47,732 births and 21,982 deaths. Of the deaths returned, 2,154, or 12.0 per cent of the number returned from specified diseases, were due to consumption; 1,218, or 6.8 per cent, from diphtheria and croup; 689, or 3.8 per cent, from typhoid fever; 369, or 2.0 per cent, from scarlet fever. There were 644 deaths from cancer, 555 from "la grippe," and 1,385 from pneumonia. These causes of deaths are fully discussed in the Report, and illustrative diagram and maps are given for certain important ones. Persons desiring copies of this report should make application to Hon. Washington Gardner, Secretary of State, Lansing, Mich., as the former wasteful custom of distributing them through the county clerks has been discontinued.

Perhaps the actual conditions of life in a great city have never before been so thoroughly analyzed as by Mr. Charles Booth in his studies of London, says the New York World. His analysis shows that the city has 188,000 people who live as families of four in one room or eight in two rooms, while there are 2,000 living eight to the room, 6,000 seven to the room, 20,000 six to the room, 57,000 five to the room, 102,000 four to the room, 304,000 three to the room, and so on until we have an aggregated 2,257,000 people, none of whom has more than a single room as a home. Of the middle classes of London 153,000 have more than a single room, but less than four, while 982,000 have four rooms or over. The test of standard admission to the upper classes is the employment of two or three servants. There are 584,000 Londoners who belong to the servants-keeping families, while the total number of male servants in the city is 206,300.

Too Many Melons. The Georgia crop of watermelons this year is so big that it has blocked the transportation lines. The fruit rates on the way, and are not accorded to the wholesale dealers to whom it is consigned. On Friday there was a sale of 30,000 watermelons that had been received, after a delay of three weeks, at the dock of a southern steamship company, near the foot of Spring Street. Most of the melons were decayed, and were refused by the New York dealers on the ground of unvarranted delay in transportation. The very rotten fruit was carted away and dumped in garbage cans, and the rest was sold at what small prices it would bring. Many of the street vendors bought largely.

A wholesale dealer told yesterday that melons eaten when only slightly tainted were most injurious to health. "In the past," he said, "these melons have been thrown together in great quantities, and jammed about so as to bruise the inside. When this happens the fruit very soon gets rotten at the core, and ferments so that when a hole is made in one it blows out gaslike a bottle of soda water."

"I have consignments of fruit on the way now that have been more than once overhauled by the authorities. There is a tremendous blockade somewhere."—New York Herald.

English Don't Chew Gum. It is said to be a fact that Englishmen are very slow about taking to the American habit of chewing gum. "They are slow in adopting all new customs, but those who come to this country succumb sooner or later to most of our ways. In the use of tobacco they have no rivals. But gum-chewing seems to differ. A druggist in Chicago, who himself is an Englishman, makes the statement that in the ten years he has been in business in the city he has found but three Englishmen who have taken to chewing gum. He explains the disinclination of his countrymen to exercise their jaws over the end by saying that they are very practical and they do not see the use in chewing over something which isn't food. It is doubtful if that is the right idea. Chewing is one source of relief for nervous people. The English are not born with it, but Americans are. Our climate is productive of nervousness. It would be interesting to note whether young people of English parentage, growing up under the influence of the climate, do not take to gum-chewing as frequently as others do. If they do, the proof would not be in the form of money, but it would be sound and stable, and would hold water in the courts to-day as well as the most approved document of the times."

Science in Dish Washing. One comes across rather amusing incidents even in the course of the most hum-drum every-day life," said a lady who always finds something interesting wherever she goes. "I had occasion to drop in at the house of a lady with whom I am very intimate. She happened to be without help and was putting up fruit. It was necessary for her to stay by it continually, so she gave me a chair in the kitchen by the window, and we talked while she worked. Her breakfast dishes were to do, for I had gone in early on a matter of church business. I fancy I may be ultra-fastidious about these things, but it occurs to me that I would not like to eat from those dishes. She gave them to the merest serf; then, with spoonsful of soap and fragments attached to them, she popped them into the pan, washed them and wiped them without rinsing. It is an excellent idea to have a large dish of water into which dishes may be dipped and rinsed before putting them into the dish-pan. Where one has running water this is easy to manage, and, indeed, it is well worth while, under any circumstances. Dishwater should be rinsed in hot water after being washed, as it is much easier to dry them, and they look enough better to pay. They should, however, be dried immediately, or the heat makes the water dry in streaks and it is difficult to make them look well afterward."

What They See, Not What They Want. A satisfied customer is not always made by selling him what he asks for. Frequently the very thing he wants is the one which will give him least satisfaction. Shrewd retailers who have made a success are very particular to find out what use a thing is to be put to and select a weight best suited to that purpose.

Fourteen should be heavy enough. In the country it is easier to get people to buy heavier grades than in the city, and it should be done always.

Said a retailer on this subject: "I have signs up the year round, suggesting that heavy goods be purchased for heavy wear, and my clerks try to select what customers get the proper kind of shoes and rubbers."

I remember one day last winter one of my old customers came in for a pair of rubbers. The clerk fitted him too tightly, and I took him so.

"The customer, however, was determined to take them and despite my objections did so. A couple of days later they split out and he had the nerve to ask for an exchange—which he didn't get."

"He threatened to change his patronage to another store, but I will not break my rule of giving no exchange where none is merited through fault in the goods."

"I peevish him by selling him a heavier pair, which satisfied him every way."—Gazette.
