THE PROGRESS OF 1937

Nineteen thirty-seven has been an eventful year for Manistique—a year characterized by definite progress in civic improvement. The outstanding achievement of the year, of course, is the commencement of work on the PWA project which provides for the paving of principal streets, the laying of storm sewers and the installation of a boulevard lighting system.

States and the Scandinavian countries has the right to liberty and express freely and to enjoy the other privileges of life been safe-guarded. But even in the United States liberty has been threatened. Some of the tactics of the National Labor Relations board and before that the National Recovery Administration have smacked strongly of dictatorial suppression.

The real danger undoubtedly lies in the impending clash between autocracy and democracy—a clash which, if it comes, will mean bloodshed and suffering and probably worldwide impoverishment. The clash already has commenced—for the forces contending in China and Spain are actually representative of the two political philosophies.

Manistique In Former Days

Several houses about town contained two to four families each. This was the way we lived in a very short time. Bert Snow and Frank Vastbinder have decided to take a commercial course at Detroit. They expect to leave for that point this morning but probably did not start.

August Miller has begun to drill a well near his residence on Oak street. Bert Orr went to the Phoen camp Monday and will spend the winter sledding lumber.

Forty Years Ago Last Friday evening marked an epoch in the history of Manistique. Upon that date the business houses of the city were illuminated with electricity for the first time.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams have returned to the city from Escambia, and will remain here indefinitely. The dog poisoner is getting in his deadly work again. Dogs belonging to Bob Allison, Chas. Bommer, Gus Swanson, Austin Pythel and Martin O'Hara are reported dead.

August Carlson, who is employed at Jas. Christensen's camp, Hiawatha, spent Christmas in the city. The rain of last night has dissipated the snow and wheels are again exclusively in use.

Charles Adkins says that Brother Chapman has screwed down the lid so tight in his ballwick, Cusino township, that a handle is not allowed on the town pump. The fire department was called out last evening on account of a chimney fire at the home of James Finn on Lake street. No damage.

Ten Years Ago Mr. and Mrs. Glen Renwick of Plymouth, Michigan, spent the holidays in the city with the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lundvall. Russell Brault returned from Chicago last week and is spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Brault. Miss Charlotte McPhail, who is teaching school at L'Anse, is in the city for the holidays. Mrs. E. O. Clement left the city Tuesday for Clement's camp, near Shingleton, where she will spend the remainder of the winter.

Miss Ade Baehler, of Chicago, is spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Muelers. Miss Thoreson Johnson, of Chicago, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Johnson.

Miss Florence Tucker, who is attending the College of St. Teresa, is visiting at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Tucker. The interior of the county court house is being improved in appearance this week by the cleaning of walls and varnishing of floors.

Twenty Years Ago The delivery team of the Peoples Store made a spectacular runway on Christmas Eve for a family party, and managed to stop them near the Berry Chemical plant before any damage was done.

Students home from the state university at Ann Arbor are Elmer Dredvald, Lyle Burr, Doran Carroll, Samuel Rosenthal and Helen Blamrosen.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pattinson and daughter, Ruth, of Rhinelander, Wis., visited their parents here over Christmas. Mr. Pattinson is following his father's business there and is doing well.

Among the local soldier boys who are home from Camp Custer for three-day leave of absence over Christmas are Herbert Strasser, Henry Gardner, Henry and Axel Maran. The fire department was called to the Thomas home on First street Wednesday noon as the little girl had lighted the Christmas tree which had set the curtain on fire, but it was extinguished before any further damage was done.

Miss Agnes Peterson, who is a teacher at Hahoy, arrived Saturday morning to spend the vacation with relatives and friends. Rudolph and Arthur Erickson arrive home Saturday from Akron, Ohio, to visit during the holidays with relatives and friends. The three last week made the walks exceedingly slippery and took away most of the snow, but a heavy snowfall starting last night is continuing today.

Woods District

The immediate members of the Rice family gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. Schurrer here on Christmas Eve for a family party. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rice and three children; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Rice and family; of Gulliver; Mr. and Mrs. William P. Rice, Clifford, Elvira and Lena Mae; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Rice, and family; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Smith and son; and Mrs. Neely Schurrer and sons.

(Mrs. D. L. Merwin, Corres.) Adn S. Watson, school commissioner, called at the school on Christmas Eve for a family party. Both Merwin visited in Manistique with friends Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merwin, of Manistique, attended the school program here Thursday night. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wolfe and daughters, Beatrice and Erma, of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Merwin, and a grandnephew, Evelyn Strider, of Cooks, attended the Thursday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Lee and son, Edwin, of Choboyan, made several calls here on Wednesday, enroute to the Copper Country to spend the Christmas holidays with relatives.

Bussal Jewett and son, Harold, were in Manistique on business Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Merwin were Christmas shoppers in Manistique Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Wade Edwards, and family spent Christmas in Newberry at the George Edwards home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kane and daughter, of Manistique, spent Christmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hanson and daughter. Mrs. Everett Wood, of Manistique, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Smith spent Christmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith and son, Alver, of Manistique, Mr. and Mrs. William Rice, and Clifford Pythia and Lena Mae Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith and family on Christmas Day.

Moose At Casino Refuge Are New Tourist Attraction

Compared to their previous life on Isle Royale, Michigan's captive moose at the Casino game refuge have been having about as much seclusion as a bowl of goldfish. Kept at the refuge for experimental feeding, the moose also have become a new tourist attraction and were visited this past season by approximately 2,000 persons from 17 states and Canada in addition to Michigan.

The corrals in which the moose are kept were built in the spring of 1936. As they were intended merely to hold experimental animals, no thought was given to the interest the public would have in the project. A program of study and feeding was planned by the game division of the department of conservation and carried out by Cusino CCC camp crews, with five moose being kept in the corral the first year. Records were kept of the kinds and amounts of food eaten, and weights were obtained periodically of each of the animals by enclosing them one by one onto a large pair of platform scales. Last August three of the moose were sent to the Escanaba state fair and released from there. A family group of one 1,000 pound bull, a cow and her calf, which was born in the spring of this year, were retained at the refuge for additional studies.

No record was kept of the number of visitors in 1936, but this year a register was placed near the corrals and by the end of the season here the names and addresses of 1,700 persons. About 300 other visitors did not register. States represented on the register, besides Michigan, Canada, and the District of Columbia, include: Louisiana, Oklahoma, Minnesota, Illinois, Ohio, Texas, Wisconsin, Florida, New York, Arizona, Missouri, Kentucky, California, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Colorado, Montana.

Farm Loan Groups Strengthened In '37

265,000 separate transactions exceeding $125,000,000.

The initiative and enterprise of farmers of the Northwest in organizing cooperatives for marketing, for processing, and for various farm services—about one-third of all farmer cooperatives in the United States—are located in the seventh Farm Credit district—has been matched by providing an adequate financing system for cooperatives, Mr. Johnson said.

"More than $19,237,000 in commitments for various types of farmers' cooperatives have been approved by the St. Paul Bank for cooperative since the beginning of 1934," he said. "This financing service has been furnished to many types of cooperatives in all four of our states where needed and where business practices, volume and local capitalization provided a basis for additional financing.

"This year the bank for cooperatives has approved loans for $5,537,000 in eleven months. Creameries, cheese factories, farm business service companies handling many commodities, fruit and vegetable canneries, grain elevators, livestock, cooperatives, poultry, wool, and sugar co-ops have qualified for this volume of credit this year. Last year the volume was $3,700,000."

Mr. Johnson said that more than 300 co-ops have become stockholders in the bank and have enjoyed credit service in the past four years, 77 joining this year. That number previously had ooms. Repeating he said, and the method of repaying has been highly satisfactory to the cooperatives. Loans secured by mortgages on plants, inventories and personal property have been repaid in easy installments out of the regular business returns of these organizations.

Manufacturing Of Su-Bru In New $200,000 Plant Is Process Of Exact Science

The Sault brewery, a modern plant representing a capital outlay of over $200,000, with a capacity of 40,000 barrels of beer a year, was formally opened this week.

Besides the new brewery at Sault Ste. Marie, there are five other breweries in the upper peninsula. Houghton has two, the Haas and the Bosch plants; across the river company at Escanaba is the Delta Brewery; and in Menominee is the Menominee Brewing company.

The Sault plant houses the latest equipment, and the manufacture of its product, Su-Bru, is an exact science. From the raw materials to the finished product, every stage in the process of making the beer is carefully watched. Every item, malt, grist, hops, Vienna yeast, and the Lake Superior water is proportioned and carefully weighed by the brewmaster, and during the brewing process a series of laboratory tests is taken to see that the beer is perfectly blended and properly aged.

Grinds Own Malt.

The first stage in the brewing process starts with the malt. The brewery grinds its own malt. The grain and other ingredients go into scale hoppers, on an endless chain which carries the preparation from the storage bins to the lauter tub. Each batch which goes through the scale hoppers is carefully weighed, and each batch weighs the same. A scale hopper is nothing more than a scale on the hoppers, which does the weighing.

In the lauter tub, or cooker, the grain is steamed and cooked for hours, being stirred by giant paddle wheels. The liquid is pumped over to the other side of the brewery up to the top floor into the mash tun. Here the boiling liquid is cooled down to 60 degrees by being run over a series of cool pipes, known as the bandolier cooler.

If you look at the cooling tubes, which are on the next floor or cellar below, where it receives a first charge of yeast to start the fermentation process. It remains there 12 hours, and then runs below to the next cellar, or fermenter, where additional yeast is added. The beer remains in the fermenter for three days, and then runs into the next cellar. Here it is held for 48 days to age. The aging cellar contains 18 tanks of 200 barrels each.

From the aging cellar the beer is filtered through a carbonator into the large glass lined storage tanks. This room contains nine steel tanks, which have a capacity of 416 barrels each, and five smaller tanks, having a capacity of 117 barrels each. The beer goes into the large tanks first, and as it is needed it is filtered again through the carbonator into the smaller 117-barrel tanks. It is kept under a constant pressure of 12 pounds, and the temperature is also kept constant at 32 degrees.

Bottling Final Stage.

The final stage in the making of beer is the bottling or bottling. From the small storage tanks the brew goes either into the racking room, where it is barreled, or into the bottle house.

The bottling house has a process all its own. First the bottles are stacked into a glass washer, where each bottle is thoroughly washed. Automatically, the bottles then go to the fillers and the cappers, being carried there on an endless chain. From the fillers and cappers, the bottles carrying the filled bottles go into the pasteurizer.

Not satisfied with sterilized bottles, the beer must also be pasteurized before it is put on the market. The chain carrying the bottles dips into the large pasteurizer, and it weaves through three such tanks before it comes out, ready for packing into crates.

3 CAGERS FIRED FROM LOCAL SQUAD

Wassberg Announces Change In Lineup; Manistique To Play Newberry Jan. 7

Coach Oscar Wassberg announced recently the dismissal of three members of the Manistique high school basketball team from the squad. They are: Lowell Olson, Harold Peasley, and Ted Hupfer.

Hupfer was fired for breaking training; Olson and Peasley were released for insubordination. Their dismissal was effected immediately following the Manistique game which the Kalamazoo captors lost, 21 to 19.

All of the above named trio are seniors. Hupfer and Peasley were regulars and Olson was a capable substitute. All were letterman. Peasley and Olson earned their letters last year; Hupfer was a first-sixer of two years ago but did not go to school last year. All were counted on heavily to aid the Emeralds this year although Olson did not come through with all that was expected of him in view of his record last year. Hupfer and Peasley were not high point scorers but both were good "team players."

Following the dismissal of Hupfer, Peasley and Olson, Coach Wassberg promoted Bernard Hillsten and John Nos, sophomores, to the first team, leaving only eight players on the varsity squad. They are: Captain Slough, Orr, Norton, and Smith, seniors; Jordan and G. Holsten, juniors; and B. Helles and Nos, sophomores. The Green Wave will play Newberry on the latter's court in the first game after the holidays on January 7.

Fishing Licenses Being Distributed

Fishing licenses for 1934 are now being distributed to dealers throughout the state, along with digests of the fish laws which will be in effect beginning Jan. 1.

A total of 1,400,000 licenses has been printed for distribution, including 650,000 resident non-trout licenses.

Anticipating even greater numbers of fishermen in 1934, the department of conservation has prepared 1,415,000 copies of the digest compared with 1,025,000 last year.

Case Warns Against Currency In Mail

Manistiguette who send currency through the mails to the Department of State, do so at their own risk, Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, has cautioned.

The warning was sounded on the heels of the recent statement by Case that investigators from his department, and from the United States postal service, are attempting to solve the mystery of cash hidden somewhere between points of mailing in the state, and the capital.

Thousands of dollar bills are received annually in payment of fees for operators' licenses. If currency is lost, applicants have no receipt for their payments, Case stressed.

Money orders should be made payable to the Secretary of State at Lansing. Orders made payable at the office of issuance, require payment of an additional fee for which the Department of State has no funds. Such money orders are returned to their senders.
