Cash Awards Are Made To Essay Contest Winners

Prizes were awarded this week to student prize winners in the essay contest conducted by the First National Bank on the subject of "The Foundation of American Government." The contest was in celebration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Federal Constitution, and sixty students from all schools in the county competed for the cash prizes.

Merrill Johnson, a senior at Manistique high school, won the first prize of $5 in the high school division; Bertha Johnson, in the eighth grade at Gulliver school, won the second prize of $3; and the third prize of $2 was awarded to the five dollar prize for the best essay in the seventh and eighth grade group.

Merrill Johnson's essay follows: "We of the United States must agree that the Federal Constitution is the foundation of American government, because all other statutes are dependent and subordinate to the Constitution of the United States of America."

"During the Revolutionary War the thirteen states acted together through the Revolutionary Congress. It was formed by an emergency and as soon as that emergency was passed the Congress began to disintegrate.

"Of a permanent league was felt at an early date. The Articles of Confederation, formulated by William Dickinson, were adopted by the Congress in November, 1777. But these articles, which were a large number of grave defects, Congress could not enforce its will, could not collect revenue, nor could it regulate commerce.

"This deplorable lack of power soon made the confederation a subject of ridicule and disrespect. The leaders of the nation saw that unless something was done to give congress more power, the situation would develop into chaos. Although many men advanced the idea of a convention to change the Articles, the actual convention came about in a unique though roundabout manner.

"At this time Virginia and Maryland disagreed upon the control of the Potomac River and Chesapeake Bay. Representatives of the two states met March 17, 1785 at the home of George Washington to settle the matter. The northern recommended to the respective state legislatures that the commission be permanent to iron out all commercial controversies between the two states. When the matter was brought forward, the Virginia legislature moved and passed by a large majority a proposal whereby every state be asked to take part in the discussions.

"This originated the Annapolis convention of 1786. Nine states appointed delegates, only five actually sent them to the convention. After a discussion by the delegates present, they saw an opportunity for a meeting to discuss a new government, so they sent an urgent letter to each state pleading that each would send representatives to a new convention to be held May 14, 1787 in Philadelphia. The new meeting was called the Federal, and then the Constitutional Convention.

"By the 28th of May eleven states had assembled and business began. Governor Randolph read the Virginia plan for a new government, and Charles Pinckney of South Carolina plan. The Virginia and fifty years ago that the Constitution of the United States was made. It marked the foundation of our first permanent government for the thirteen colonies as a unit and as a country by itself.

"Before this time the states were very jealous of one another and they had laid taxes on goods coming into their state from another state. The Congress of the Confederation had no power to regulate commerce between these states or foreign countries. The Congress could make treaties of commerce with foreign nations but was without authority and took two to enforce them.

"Soon the Virginia assembly invited all the states to send delegates to a general conference at Annapolis in January, but only five states sent representatives. The men that came to this meeting saw the need of a national government with authority to regulate commerce and so they called for another meeting in May to revise the Articles of Confederation.

"They soon found that the Articles of Confederation could not be revised and so the present Constitution was made.

"Accordingly they met in the Independence Hall, Philadelphia, in May, 1787. All the states except Rhode Island sent representatives. Among the famous and moderate men were: George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, James Madison, Alexander Hamilton Edmund Randolph, Robert Morris, and Gouverneur Morris.

"After the convention decided to make a new constitution, its first difficult problem was the question of representation. The states should be represented in proportion to their population or if each state should have the same number of votes. First they decided to have each state represented by two members. The small states opposed this and wanted each state to have an equal weight in Congress. At last they compromised this by having two houses, a Senate in which each state should have an equal number of votes, and a House of Representatives in which the states should be represented in proportion to their population.

"Slavery was another great question. The South wanted to count all the slaves as a part of the population and the North did not. Finally they decided that three-fifths of the slaves should be counted. The northern men were eager to give Congress full power to regulate commerce. Some of the southern members feared that if Congress had power it would stop the bringing of the slaves from Africa which they wanted to continue.

"The two great compromises settled the most serious differences in the convention. After they were made their members had little difficulty in agreeing upon the other features of the constitution.

"The Constitutional Convention finished the work in September, 1787, and the new constitution was sent to the states for approval. By July, 1788, all the states except North Carolina and Rhode Island had ratified the constitution which thus became the law of the land.

"The purpose of the Constitution is stated in the preamble. It is the powers of Congress, the President and the courts. It gives the people a part in the government. It gives rights enumerated in the first ten amendments and it gives us the finest government in the world. With the few amendments the Constitution serves and purpose of man."

The 60-horsepower Ford V-8 engine was first developed for Europe, where fuel costs are high. Two years' usage there proved its unusual economy.

When the "60" came to this country this year, the Ford Motor Company made no mileage claims—waited for facts, written on American roads by American drivers.

Now Ford "60" owners are reporting averages of 22 to 27 miles on a gallon of gasoline. That makes it the most economical Ford car ever built!

Best of all, the Ford "60" is just as big and roomy—just as handsome, sturdy and safe—as the famous 85-horsepower Ford V-8. And it sells at the lowest Ford price in years.

If you want a big car for a small budget—a car you can drive with pride and profit—see the thrifty "60" soon!

180,000 Michigan Farms Now Supplied With Electricity

By Gene Alleman

Michigan Press Association Lansing—Michigan farms and farm homes are rapidly becoming "modernized" through a revolutionary change which is taking place quietly, without fanfare or belabored.

In 1926 less than 2 per cent of the farms had electric service. In 1930 the federal census revealed 170,000 farms. Today more than one-third of these have electric power, nearly 10,000 being added last year. Encouraged by private power companies and spurred on by Washington, rural electrification is making great strides. Last week Presser told county farmers received federal support for a cooperative line. Governor Murphy pledged, a few days ago, his support to the Fruit Belt Rural Electrification association, a new group affecting Allegan, Barry, Cass, Kalamazoo, Ottawa, and Van Huron counties.

Schoolcraft County Notes 20 Years of Land Bank Service

Schoolcraft county farmers have outstanding $279,500 in loans on their farms as the result of organization of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, 20 years ago March 17, 1917. Following many years of study of country life and rural credit problems in this country and Europe. The farm loan act creating the land banks was approved on July 1, 1916.

The basis for this volume of loan associations through which land bank loans are made. However, in order to meet the emergency of 1929, congress that year provided for "commissioner" loans by which additional credit could be extended to farmers. The land bank acts as agent of the commissioner in making such loans, the local association assisting.

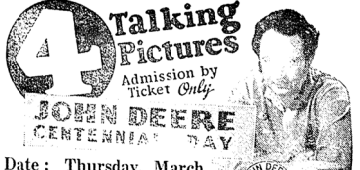

In this county there are 179 farmers who have financed their farms with one or both types of loan, of whom 107 are association members. Of the total volume of credit shown above, $99,700 comprises commissioner loans, and $180,000 land bank loans to members of associations.

Association boundaries do not always follow county lines and in many places the center of an association may have been made through several different associations. Some associations cover several counties, others are contained entirely in one county. Some associations have 2 or more associations.

The association is a part of an cooperative with equal membership rights for all, and each member a bank loan is induced by the association. It is through the kind of cooperation, all members being linked together, that it is possible to bring outside money at a low rate of interest into this county. Each association's indorsement is backed up by that of the federal land bank and the doubly indorsed farmers' mortgages thus are used as the basis for bond issues sold throughout the United States, which furnish the loan funds.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT NOTED RADIO ENGINEERS SAY ABOUT...

Radio Interference?

We quote the following from an article on radio interference by Toke Deutschmann in a recent issue of "Radio Noises and Their Cure":

"We believe that the utilities have been very unfairly criticized because of radio interference from electrical appliances attached to the power line. This interference feeds back into the line and the layman, unfamiliar with the problem as he is, will, nine times out of ten, criticize the utilities.

"We have been checking interference and tabulating our findings for many years. We continue to find listeners suffering from needless interference, some of it being created in their own homes. We have found neighborhoods where the most friendly relations exist and where it would be unthinkable to know of the presence of another neighbor, and yet, through the operation of a sewing machine, a fan, a vacuum sweeper or some other household appliance, the entire community must discontinue the use of their receivers until the appliance is turned off."

The above statements are not guesses—but have been proved by exhaustive surveys made by radio engineers, whose business it is to know.

We are cooperating in every way we can to reduce the local radio interference. This is in line with our policy to give you BETTER SERVICE!

Xervac Treatments

—The Therapeutic Method of Stimulating Hair Growth... are now available in Manistique at HELENE MOON'S BEAUTY SALON

In line with our policy of giving only the best of modern service to our customers, we have installed the XERVAC (pronounced Fexervac) machine this week. This apparatus provides a therapeutic method of stimulating hair development by Dr. Andre C. Cretet, M. D., and is rated the outstanding development in modern hair treatment.

The Xervac machine is now available for treatment of baldness from any cause, except when all the hair follicles have been destroyed, which is seldom the case even on more extremely bald heads. The operation of the machine is quite simple.

A helmet is placed over the head, completely covering the scalp. This helmet is connected to a motor-driven pump and reservoirs. For 12 seconds, controlled vacuum is applied, causing blood to flow from the arteries into capillaries in the scalp, dislodging and filling them with fresh blood. Then the cycle changes—air under controlled pressure is applied in the helmet which forces the blood out of the capillaries into the veins for eight seconds. Three times each minute this cycle takes place.

It has been found that although the scalp appears perfectly healthy, yet in cases of alopecia the underlying condition is actually that of the hair follicles. The remedies are caused to perform their normal function.

We invite you to inspect this splendid apparatus and let us further explain its operation to you.

QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING

What is the best measure of a bank's strength?
The strength of a bank may be judged by the following 3-ply yardstick:—
1. The known honesty and skill of its management in making sound, useful loans and investments.
2. Its reputation and standing in the community, particularly in the confidence it has built among its depositors.
3. The adequacy of its capital, surplus and reserves.
To those who understand figures, bank statements when compared with those of preceding years, are a good standard of measurement. But most individuals judge a bank by its good name among people they know, by the friends as well as by the loans it makes by its record for economical methods as well as services rendered, by sufficient earnings to build up reserves as well as pay dividends, and by its usefulness to the community.
By these tests this bank is worthy to be judged. We believe our record merits the confidence and respect of this community.

DO YOU KNOW?

It's a toss-up now between parlor tricks and magic or conversation for an evening's get-together, with an ego for conversation. The Supreme Court reform is discussed whenever groups of people are assembled. Are you one who must profess ignorance of the subject or who has an uninformed opinion regarding it? Do you really understand the meaning of the president's proposed measure as it affects your liberty and your Constitutional rights? Do you believe radio orators who maintain that the measure is no wise imperils liberty, and do you conclude such men must be right and then go no more thinking for yourself on the subject? Do you believe, as one radio orator declared, that the Supreme Court would not defend your liberty unless you had your pockets well lined with gold to pay for their defense? If you were one of the thousands of people sorely oppressed by the NRA, which the Supreme Court found unconstitutional, do you believe such a false statement that you have no protection for your liberty unless you pay?

MRS. JOHNSON CARRIES ON

Mrs. Osa Johnson intends to carry on her husband's work of exploration. She plans to go to the Belgian Congo to capture a gorilla. Those who have followed her heroic spirit are not surprised that she should wish to dedicate her life further in the quest for scientific material. It is her tribute to the great comradeship and love existing between herself and husband, and to her earnest desire to contribute to the world of entertainment and science.

RISE OF BUREAUCRACIES

In a plea for reorganization and consolidation of Federal bureaus, Senator Byrd, of Virginia, recently pointed out some astonishing instances of duplication and overlapping. For example, at least 24 agencies have been created to deal with lending agencies and other similar agencies, and now in liquidation; at least three agencies have been concerned with insuring deposits and loans; at least 10 agencies have been concerned with government construction; at least nine agencies have been concerned with credit and finance; at least 12 agencies have been concerned with home and community planning; at least 16 agencies have been concerned with wild life conservation.

So it goes, down a long list. Every one of the purposes for which these agencies have been created may be beneficial and legitimate—but certainly there can be no excuse for setting up 20 bureaus to do one bureau's job. Nor can there be any excuse for permitting bureaus to grow unchecked and multiply on tax funds in unimaginable quantities. Senator Byrd also points out that one bureau has 13 addresses in Washington alone.

Untold millions of public dollars are thrown away annually through duplication. Congress can have no excuse for failing to adopt a reorganization plan such as recently proposed—Mich. Manufacturer and Financial Record.

Communism, the majority of the ministers believe, is simply a form of materialism into which men fall when they lose religious faith and cease to pursue spiritual goals and values. Their prescription of a "cure" consists of "a genuine revival of religion. ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Business, Financial, and Industrial Interests of the Nation and International Principles Inseparable from Local Welfare.

Current business, on the average, is maintaining the relatively high level reached at the end of 1936 and the beginning of 1937. The short-term outlook, so far as the course of industry and business is concerned, is good. The long-term outlook is questionable.

Little discussion is found in the theme song of most of the business writers at present. They have at hand the cold statistics which convey a very few exceptions, but are encouraging. But they are puzzled by various conflicting tendencies and opposed trends.

There are three principal elements that make it extremely hazardous to attempt to forecast the course of industry and business beyond the next few months. One of these elements is politics.

One idea of Mr. Wallace's is the "ever-normal granary" plan, surplus crops would be stored in big production years to be used in subsequent years; thus, in theory, stabilizing prices and adjusting supply with demand.

Highway Meeting One Of Largest

Several Manistique people attended the fourth annual dinner of Upper Peninsula highway commissioners and engineers at the Douglas Hotel in Houghton February 27. The affair with an attendance of more than 300, was one of the most successful of its kind ever held in the district. It was said: "In no other part of Michigan are the people more road-conscious than they are here," said Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner. "I like to see this interest, for after all, the highway system of Michigan is owned by the people who have paid for it. This system serves our industries, our agriculture, and the busiest traffic which brings more than $300,000,000 a year into the state."

STAR DUST Movie - Radio

THE biggest sensation of the year in motion pictures is the success of the Ritz Brothers, those three wild-eyed comics who rush into "On the Avenue" like a storm. They work with such whirlwind speed that in a stunt lasting only three to five minutes on the screen, they use up more genuinely comic material than most comedians develop in a lifetime. So, in their first five months on the screen, the boys have gone off to Miami.

Expert dancers rave about the Ritz Brothers' dancing; singers are sure that they must have had operatic training; actors suspect that they played in stock for years to develop the lightning-like flash of their line delivery. But according to Harry Ritz himself—he's the hardest working one in all their sketches—they have never had a dancing or singing or elocution lesson in their lives.

For days Joan Bennett had all of her friends in a perfect fever of excitement over the sight she made up her mind about going to New York to sing on the Ritz Brothers' show. Back in New York Margaret Johnson had announced that she was going to withdraw from the cast of "Vogues of 1937" because she is going to play a mother part in real life soon. The producer thought it would be a grand idea to get Joan to take over her part. She was quite interested in Walter Wanger, to whom she is under contract, said he was willing to let her go. But that why Walter Wanger showed Joan the costume sketches for "Vogues of 1937" and that settled it.

If you have been wondering what Arthur Tracy, the Street Singer so long popular on the radio, has been up to, you'll soon see for yourselves. In "Backstage," a picture he recently made in London, he plays opposite Anna Neagle, the Gammon-British star. "Little Lucy is in it too, the exquisite dancer whose hands written so seductively in "Garden of Allah."

Clark Gable, who thinks that Robert Taylor is a great romantic actor, and Robert Taylor who thinks that Clark Gable is tops, have persuaded Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to let them make a picture together. The story selected is "Sons of Pride," a military story by Percival Wren.

There is a serious shortage of beautiful chorus girls in Hollywood right now, because all the studios are making big musicals. Girls who could not even get a few days extra work while the studios were all busy on dramatic pictures, are now signing ten-week contracts calling for as much as $200 a week. Samuel Goldwyn's chief complaint about the beautiful girls who come to Hollywood seeking work is that they invariably try to look like some popular picture instead of looking like they are in their own way. The one sure way to get an engagement in Hollywood pictures is to have someone tell him that you look just like Virginia Bruce, or Carole Lombard.

When Kathryn Witwer, popular MBS prima donna, first came to Chicago to win fame and fortune, she had exactly $5 in her purse and some secretarial training which she traded for music lessons. First prize in a National Music Clubs federation contest won her a chance to appear with Fredrick Stock and also with Mary Garden at the Chicago Civic Opera. After her successful debut about her home town of Gary, Ind., sent her to Europe for further study.

ODDS AND ENDS... Marlene Dietrich has confided to a few close friends, who told several thousand other people, that Merle Oberon is going to marry Brian Aherne soon in London. Remember the love scenes in "Upward Bound"?... Ed Bergen, the sensation who has made such an outstanding success on the Vaudeville hour, has been put under contract to make pictures for Warner Brothers... Barbara Stanwyck has a huge new rating, gift from Robert Taylor. Incidentally, when landed her check for five thousand dollars for a three-minute sketch on the radio recently, Barbara got the giggles. She suddenly recalled that just twelve years ago she was making $100 a week at a night club job at thirty-five dollars a week. Western Newspaper Union.

U. P. ON PROPOSED THROUGH AIR LINE

May Serve As Mid-Continent Landing Ground Of Projected Service

There is a good possibility that the Upper Peninsula of Michigan will serve as the mid-continent landing ground of projected through air service from Montreal to Vancouver, according to Tracy Southworth of the Michigan Department of Aeronautics, Lansing. British-Canadian capitalists have approached the Department with the statement that they are contemplating the establishment of a trans-Canada air line, and are seeking information as to whether Upper Michigan ground facilities would be available for their ships. Mr. Southworth stated: Flights over all-Canada territory from coast to coast are not yet feasible, in the opinion of the leaders of the enterprise. Great areas of Lake Superior are unsettled and in a state of primitive wildness, and there are no airports or emergency fields for hundreds of miles.

The department has provided the backers of the proposed venture with all available information, and is awaiting further advice about the outcome. Tentative schedules call for one-day service from Montreal to Vancouver, with stops at Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, Winnipeg, and Calgary and possible landings at Duluth and some Upper Peninsula port.

With service extending over the north of Pennsylvania and its landing ports at frequent intervals, no undue physical difficulties are anticipated this side of the Canadian Rocky Mountains. For the greater part they are much higher than the American Rockies, and the "highly skilled pilots will be necessary." Year-around air service is now maintained in Canada from Great Bear Lake near the Arctic Circle to Toronto and St. Catherine's Ontario, and large amounts of highly valuable radium ore are transported by air from the far north to the radium smelter at the latter point.

The little toy-dog is covered with dust. But sturdy and staunch he stands. And the little toy-soldier is red with rust. And his market moulds in his hands.

Time was when the little toy-dog was new. And the soldier was passing fair. And that was the time when our Little Boy Blue Kissed them and put them there.

—EUGENE FIELD.

Four thousand "Little Boy Blues" this year again? Four thousand little toy-dogs waiting, waiting? Up sets you, doesn't it... but does it upset you enough? Will it be on your mind when you're driving a bit too fast down a city street? Will you slow down when you see a child playing near the curb? For the responsibility is primarily yours. There are no brakes on the mental operations of an impetuous youngster.

Will you, in your car, remembering Little Boy Blue, drive more carefully this year?

Blaney Woman Doing Man's Job In Logging Camp

Makela, a camp superintendent. "She's her own mechanic and she's one of the last to bed. When she isn't busy with the yard, she's finding her knitting or crocheting."

For two years Miss Lang has hauled logs with her truck on a contract basis. She spent the summer in a camp on the Two Heart River, 20 miles north of Newberry. Last autumn when Makela hired a B. Lang at the outfit on his operations, he expected to greet another "road monkey"—this is the lumbering term for the trawny, two-fisted huskies who tramp and tramp down the log railroads.

First in Lineup.

He heard a shriek of brakes outside his office and a rush of masculine footsteps. A moment later he was confronted by a laughing, yellow haired woman, who in a suitcase in one hand and a copy of a movie magazine in the other.

"Mrs. B. Lang and ready for work," said Miss Lang and that was all there was to it.

"That night she helped straighten up on a connecting rod, grind a couple of valves and do a transmission on somebody else's truck," Makela added. "Next morning she was No. 1 in the load lineup, and I guess she's been there ever since."

Miss Lang's mechanical inclinations were first shown when she was attending high school at Manistique. One Saturday a driver allowed her to take a passenger bus for a trial run around the block. Her next great adventure came at St. Ignace, where another bus driver permitted her to show her ability. But buses were few, regulations drastic, and the only solution seemed the purchase of a truck.

"I'm a Dance."

"Abandoning my intention of studying law, I went to Chicago to earn enough for the down payment on a car. For another year I lived near Blaney Park. When I got the truck, people put on a demonstration and I was put on a demolition crew on the prospective employer on the sea couple of cures. Sure, I always got the job."

Miss Lang lives in a bunk house with the camp boys and two other women. Her hobbies are fishing, knitting, golf and dancing—when she isn't tinkering with her motor truck," she divulged. "In a few years, hope to have a fleet of some day, but I'm too busy with 110 men."

Presbyterian Churches to Purchase Conference Site on Lake Michigan

The purchase of approximately 21 acres on the west shore of Lake Michigan, in Manistique county, has been undertaken by the Lake Superior Presbyterian, which includes all Presbyterian churches in the upper peninsula.

The purchase price is $20,000 with a $2,000 down payment and the balance payable at three percent interest as the Presbytery is able to raise funds. The approximate value of the conference site is $15,000.

In addition to the cost of the site, the Presbyterian church in the Presbytery's program also includes the raising of an additional $25,000 to equip a kitchen and conference street additional cottages.

The Lake Michigan conference site is believed to be one of the most attractive in the upper peninsula and is an ideal place for the church's national missions of the church, already has raised $2,000 for the project.

The project to acquire a peninsula extending out into the blue waters of Lake Michigan, and it has a long stretch of sandy beach. Included in the land is a small island. The land is partly covered with a fine stand of second growth evergreens and hardwood and also has a large area large enough for athletic contests and exercises.

The land previously has been used for summer conferences of various types, but the Presbytery wants to create there a permanent summer home for its members. Every summer boys and girls of Presbyterian churches in the peninsula will attend the conference and enjoy a vacation which includes religious guidance and physical recreation. ## USE RECREATION BUILDING FRIDAY

First Group To Meet There To Be Knitting Unit; Broad Program Planned

The first organized recreation unit to use the new WPA recreational building on Walnut street will be the knitting group directed by Mrs. Eva Gorsche. It was announced Thursday morning by Ferdinand Gorsche, WPA recreational division.

The knitting group will hold its first meeting in the new center Friday afternoon, March 12, starting at 2 o'clock. Previously it has been meeting at both the Lakeside and Central schools. Mrs. Gorsche is the leader under the WPA recreational division.

The Johnson building on Walnut street was made available when the city council Monday night voted to appropriate $25 a month for three months to pay rent.

The opening of the new boys club in the Dishman building on Deer street is expected to take place in about a week, Mr. Gorsche said. This building was made available when the Rotary club last week agreed to pay rent for three months.

Donations of boys' books on handiwork, play equipment and room fixtures will be accepted, Mr. Gorsche said. In explaining plans for club work, the event in which he expects to interest boys is the bird house contest being sponsored by the Manistique Lions club.

Edwin Sundell, who is chairman of the bird house contest committee for the Lions, this week urged Manistique boys to make plans to enter the contest. The contest was completed by April 15 when the contest closed. With active support from the WPA recreational division, more boys than usual are expected to participate in the event.

Boys interested in building bird houses are advised to write to the United States department of agriculture and ask for Farmers' Bulletin No. 1456 which explains in detail the method of building homes for various types of birds.

E. C. DeGrant returned Saturday from a two weeks' vacation trip to Grand Rapids and St. Louis, Mo.
