NAVY BOMBER MISSING WITH SEVEN ABOARD

LONG-RANGE PATROL SHIP VANISHES IN PACIFIC

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 6 (AP)—One of the navy's long-range patrol bombing planes vanished at sea last night with seven men aboard, officers disclosed today after a fruitless all-night search.

Warships and fighting aircraft began their search shortly after the plane dropped out of radio communication with other craft.

The hunt broadened as Captain Alva D. Bernhard, chief of staff for the aircraft scouting force, gave out word that the craft was missing.

Secrecy enveloped details of the plane's disappearance as well as phases of the hunt. Captain Bernhard refused to say where the plane was bound, or where it was when it last communicated with other craft.

Bernhard likewise declined to name the seven aboard, but the navy department in Washington said the craft was piloted by Lieut. Truman Ernest Carpenter, with Aviation Cadet Phillip O. Browning as co-pilot.

One From Michigan Enlisted men on board included: Edgar Angling, aviation chief machinist mate, 37, 1012 Moran avenue, Norfolk, Va.

G. A. Mills, 22, radioman, third class, Prescott, Mich. C. C. Creech, 22, aviation machinist mate, third class, Richland, N. Y.

William Erbe, 52, aviation chief machinist mate, San Diego, Calif. Joseph D. Adair, 21, radioman, third class, Coruhersville, Mo.

Captain Bernhard said the plane was "capable of landing in any kind of a sea" and expressed belief it would be found.

Presumably the plane's last known position was about 200 miles northwest of here. It was said the search had begun in that area. Eleven battleships, and unannounced number of destroyers and target tenders were reported to be somewhere near the area where the patrol cruiser vanished.

Mass Flight Planned The missing plane is a twin-motored patrol craft such as the navy has been flying over great distances. Recently squadrons of 12 to 14 have flown non-stop to Coco Solo, Canal Zone, 3,050 miles from here, and to Honolulu, more than 2,500 miles.

A group of 18 such planes is tentatively scheduled to leave here January 19 for Honolulu to reinforce the large concentration of fighting aircraft already stationed in the islands.

Last August 23 a plane of the same type struck the half-sunken hulk of an abandoned whaling ship in San Diego bay and six men were killed.

For the last fortnight or so naval operations off the California coast have increased and a high degree of secrecy has been maintained. Several destroyers are known to have taken up patrol duty.

Officer's Daughter And Chum Held For Fatal $2.10 Killing

Newark, N. J., Jan. 6 (AP)—A policeman's tomboy daughter and a girl chum she met in New Jersey's house of detention were indicted by the Essex county grand jury today on a charge of killing a bus driver in a $2.10 holdup.

The pair, Mrs. Ethel Sohl, 20-year-old daughter of a Newark radio patrolman, and Genevieve Owens, 17, face arraignment Monday in what Prosecutor William A. Washenfeld said would be a move for an early trial.

County Detective Benjamin Schaffer said the young women confessed slaying William Barhorst, 34-year-old Totowa bus driver and father of two children, to obtain money for "candy, cigarettes and the movies."

There were no eye-witnesses to the shooting that brought tragedy to the Barhorst family a few days before Christmas, but a "break" enabled police to apprehend the pair Tuesday.

After hearing two witnesses and viewing the sawed-off .22 calibre rifle with which detectives said Barhorst was slain in his bus, the grand jury quickly returned a joint indictment charging the two young women with murder.

Sheriff's attaches said Mrs. Sohl and Miss Owens remained calm and indifferent to the possibility they faced the death penalty. They were held without bail in the county jail.

Schaffer said they "borrowed" the rifle from two youths who were shooting small game. First, the detective said, they granted the hunters a "date"—consisting of a ride in the auto the girls allegedly stole to stage the fatal holdup.

SIX FISHERMEN BEAT BLIZZARD

Gay, Mich., Group Makes Home While Cutter Patrols Superior

Gay, Mich., Jan. 6 (AP)—Unaware that the U. S. coast guard cutter Nansemond had put out from Marquette in search of them, six commercial fishermen made their way to their homes here today after being unreported on Lake Superior for six days.

Word that they had been found was wireless last night from the cutter from an undetermined location and at that time it was assumed the Nansemond had picked them up. The six, however, came into port here in a 38-foot power boat, not knowing the cutter was hunting them.

They reported they were caught in a blizzard Friday and that one of their three boats had been demolished by high seas. They pulled the smallest of the boats to safety, and returned in the third. They had only four days of food supply when they left but were reported to have supplemented that from a food cache on Manitou Island, their fishing base in the lake.

In the party were Richard, 28, Walter, 26, and Norman Jameson, 21. Their brother-in-law, Wilbert Haataja, 25, and two hired hands, Coast guardsmen said they had gone out to rescue the same group every winter for the past "four or five years" and that they were given to "daring fishing trips" in midwinter.

Sit-Down Hinted In UAW Offices

Detroit, Jan. 6 (AP)—An order by Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, to reduce the international office personnel stirred workers in the union headquarters here today.

Office employees suspended work for two hours for a conference with the union officials after three young women were dismissed and reports spread that 20 more were to go.

Reports that the office employees were threatening a "sit-down" strike against the union which popularized the "sit-down" nationally were denied by Grace Taylor, international representative of the United Office and Professional Workers of America.

St. Louis CIO Union Denies Use Of Acid

St. Louis, Jan. 6 (AP)—Chief of Detectives John J. Carroll warned tonight the police would make wholesale arrests of members of the United Automobile Workers of America every time there is violence affecting the Ford Motor company.

The police official's statement was prompted by the searing with acid of two Ford assembly workers, James Gallus and Oren K. Sims. The CIO union denied it was responsible and said it would not protect anyone "guilty of such tactics."

Japanese Mass Troops For Attack On Hankow

(By The Associated Press) — On Hankow—yesterday heavily bombed airfields at Hankow and Wuchang. Fifty Chinese non-combatants were killed or wounded.

Other developments included reopening of the United States embassy at Nanking and issuance of a statement by the Japanese government that China had shown "increasing evidence" of an intention to seek peace. The embassy was closed before Nanking fell to the Japanese Dec. 13.

Japanese authorities were silent but Chinese and foreign reports agreed the opposing armies were massing for a decisive battle in northern Kaingsu and eastern Honan provinces.

There the Japanese hoped to seize the eastern section of the strategic Lanchow railway as a route to the interior.

Opposing the Japanese, according to Chinese reports, were 100,000 of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's soldiers along the railway between Suchow, in Kiangsu, and Kweichow, in Honan, a stretch of about 90 miles.

The air attack on Hankow was the second this week on the river metropolis, 450 miles inland from Shanghai. The attackers also tried to destroy the Hankow radio station. They failed to hit it but several women and children were killed or wounded in the vicinity.

Frank Accepts Republican Job

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—Glenn Frank accepted the chairmanship of the Republican party's program committee tonight and promised to conduct an "open-minded" search for policies that "will keep America a going concern."

The aim, he said, will be to determine lines of national action which will "insure a way of life congenial to the American spirit." The "full resources of intelligence," he said, are needed to cope with "extraordinary grave social and economic difficulties."

The former president of the University of Wisconsin said he was chosen last month by the Republican executive committee to direct more than 100 leaders in drafting a declaration of principles.

Chairman John Hamilton of the Republican national committee wired Frank praising the "high purpose" with which he accepted.

HOUSE URGES SUMMERS FOR U. S. TRIBUNAL

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—Representative Summers of Texas, an outspoken critic of President Roosevelt's defeated court reorganization bill, received the backing of the house judiciary committee today for appointment to the supreme court.

The committee decided to ask President Roosevelt to consider Summers as a successor to Justice Sutherland, who will retire January 18.

Opposed Revamping The decision was made in the absence of Summers, who is chairman of the committee. Within an hour afterward 15 members had signed a letter to the president saying:

"With unbounded confidence in Judge Summers, we wholeheartedly commend him to your favorable consideration, and certify our own conviction that your appointment of him would rebound to the lasting honor of your administration, and of the supreme bench."

Summers, a Democrat, who came to congress in 1913, became chairman of the judiciary committee six years ago.

He helped obtain house approval last spring of the supreme court retirement bill, under which Justices Van Devanter and Sutherland decided to leave active duty, but made a speech against the court reorganization bill.

Many Possibilities A suggestion that the president nominate Senator George (D-Ga.), to succeed Sutherland came from Senator Copeland (D-N. Y.), a frequent critic of administration policies.

Senators Minton of Indiana, Schwellenbach of Washington, and Logan of Kentucky, Democratic supporters of the president's court reorganization bill, were mentioned in corridor and cloak room gossip as possible nominees.

Others mentioned in general speculation included Robert Jackson, assistant attorney general, who is leading the administration's current campaign against monopoly; Senator Wagner (D-N. Y.); Solicitor General Stanley Reed; former Senator Sam G. Bratton of New Mexico, now a federal circuit judge; Gov. Philip F. La Follette of Wisconsin; and Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan.

In a letter to Justice Sutherland, President Roosevelt congratulated him for "many years of public service," and expressed hope the justice and his wife would attend the annual White House dinner for members of the supreme court January 29.

Flier Brings Aid To Mother, Ill In Snowbound Home

Sydney, Nova Scotia, Jan. 6 (Canadian Press)—A plane from Cheticamp today broke through an icy blockade to bring medical attention to a mother dangerously ill in a little settlement near Bay St. Lawrence, on the northern tip of Cape Breton Island.

Bob Smuck, one of Canada's youngest pilots, and Dr. H.H. Magonet flew high above the snow-packed pass which earlier had turned back Dr. L. J. LeBlanc in his attempt to reach the woman by horse-drawn sleigh.

Dr. Magonet said they left medicine and instructions before returning to Cheticamp, but he believed the woman, Mrs. Joseph McNeil, who gave birth to a child 11 days ago, had little chance for recovery. She was too ill to be removed to a hospital by plane, the doctor said.

Heflin, Ill With Pneumonia, Hears He Lost Election

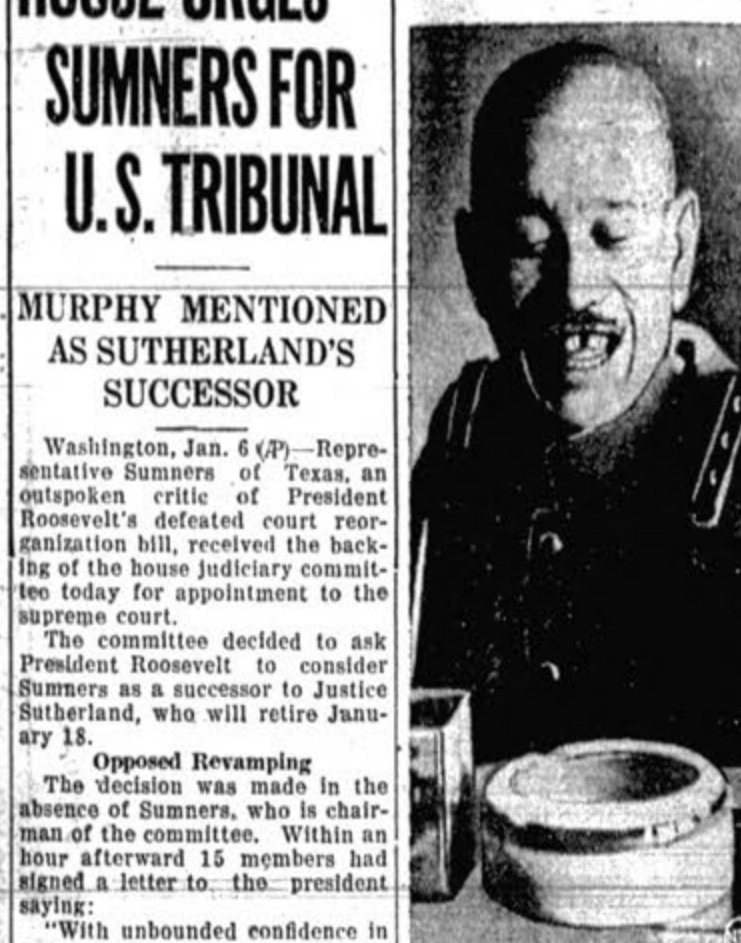

LaFayette, Ala., Jan. 6 (AP)—Lying ill of pneumonia, J. Thomas Heflin learned for the first time today his great hope of a political "comeback" had failed.

"The Lord takes care of his children, and there are other things for me to be thankful for," was his comment.

Representative Lister Hill, Montgomery, defeated the former senator, Alabama's most colorful political figure, Tuesday in the special Democratic primary called to select the senate successor of Mrs. Dixie Graves.

Stricken by pneumonia three weeks ago, in the midst of his campaign, Heflin lost account of the days while delirious, and thought today was December 29.

STRANGE FIGHTS NEW FARM BILL

Act Unfair to Michigan Agriculture, Says Commissioner

Lansing, Jan. 6 (AP)—State Agricultural Commissioner John B. Strange sent telegrams to Michigan's delegation in congress today asking them to oppose the "ever normal granary" farm relief bill proposed in congress. Strange said the bill would discriminate against Michigan agriculture.

Strange said Michigan failed to receive an average benefit under existing farm legislation and would receive less under the proposed law. He urged the representatives to propose that benefits be extended to the growers of potatoes, apples and grapes.

The "ever normal granary" bill calls for storage of surplus corn, wheat, cotton, tobacco and rice during years of surplus, with federal loans to distressed growers.

Strange said a survey showed 4.7 per cent of the nation's farm income was derived from Federal aid, but that only 2.7 per cent of the cash income of Michigan farmers last year came from the federal government. He estimated the farmers' income in this state at $246,198,000 in 1937, of federal aid.

"That means that some states have received greater benefits than Michigan," Strange said. "Yet Michigan pays a large part of the bill through taxes. We are entitled to equal assistance."

Legalized Betting Banned By Illinois Attorney General

Chicago, Jan. 6 (AP)—Plans to legalize horse race betting establishments in Chicago were knocked toward a legal limbo today by Attorney General Otto Kerner.

He ruled the city council had no authority to sanction such a gambling system, held an ordinance empowering "pari-mutuel brokers" to handle wagers was null and void and warned:

"A broker who attempts to operate under a license issued in pursuance of this ordinance will violate the criminal law of this state and should be prosecuted and punished the same as any other person who commits a crime."

The attorney general disclaimed Mayor Edward J. Kelly, who fostered the unprecedented move to legalize the bookies, had urged a quick court test of the ordinance.

Two Ottawa County Men Found Frozen Grand Haven (AP)—Announcement that there would be no inquests into the deaths of two Ottawa county men whose frozen bodies were discovered Tuesday and Wednesday was made by Coroner W. R. Bloemendal Thursday. He asserted both deaths came from natural causes, John Kamstra, 53, was found frozen in the ice of his farmyard near Spring Lake Tuesday. The body of Fred Zank, 65, of Marne, was found outside the door of his home Wednesday.

Present Recession Will Be Brief, Says Knudsen, GM Chief

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—William Knudsen, the president of vast General Motors corporation, testified today that in his opinion the present business recession would be short-lived and that his company was making plans accordingly.

But, he said, in response to repeated questions from Chairman Byrnes (D-S. C.), of the senate unemployment committee, the company's surplus of $450,000,000 could not be used to keep men at work and avoid the recent lay-off of 30,000 men.

For, he added, in times such as these it is "better" to work off accumulations of unsold stocks by curtailing production, than by adjusting prices downward in accordance with reduced demand.

In addition, he made it evident that he thought little good could come from President Roosevelt's proposal that industry and government get together periodically to gauge the future and plan production.

"I don't think anyone in God's world could have told me that sales were going to drop 50 per cent in two weeks," he said.

What is needed to end the depression, he emphasized again and again, is confidence and, in answer to questions he said he thought that if General Motors would re-employ the 30,000 it laid off, that would do much to increase confidence.

But that "would not be business," he testified; employment must be adjusted to production; "constant employment can not be assured unless there is work to do; if the men were re-employed there would be nothing for them to work on."

Spanish Loyalist Lines Are Intact In Teruel

Madrid, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Spanish loyalist lines reported intact after eight hours of the most savage fighting of the whole insurgent counter-offensive during which two tremendous insurgent thrusts were beaten back.

A government communique said the enemy flung a great flanking column down from Conced, three miles north, after insurgent artillery batteries and warplanes had bombarded government infantry positions steadily for several hours.

Though severely shaken by the barrage of shells and bombs, government troops withstood what the communique termed a "supreme effort" of the enemy to drive them back.

PROFIT SHARING SYSTEM URGED

Vandenberg Says Firms Should Split With Their Employees

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—A suggestion that tax machinery might be employed to encourage corporations to share profits with employees came today from Senator Vandenberg.

The Michigan Republican introduced a resolution calling on the senate finance committee to make a "complete study" of existing profit sharing systems with a view to making the practice more widespread.

This study, the resolution said, should be pointed toward:

1.—The preparation of records "which may be consulted by employers who are interested in voluntarily establishing profit sharing plans."

2.—The consideration of "what advisable contribution, if any, may be made to the encouragement of profit sharing by the federal government, including the grant of compensatory tax exemptions and tax rewards when profit sharing is voluntarily established."

ORATORY MAY DELAY PLANS OF PRESIDENT

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—The controversial anti-lynching bill came up for senate debate today and drew a blast of old-fashioned southern oratory. A prolonged filibuster seemed in prospect.

Leaders expressed concern lest delay on the measure tie up the heavy administration legislative program and push farther into the future the scheduled May adjournment of congress.

A band of southerners resorted to tactics of delay from the very beginning of today's senate session. They demanded numerous quorum calls.

Covers Big Territory Senator Connally (D-Tex.), leading the southern speechmakers, sought for a senate adjournment in mid-afternoon, but failed by a vote of 52 to 18. Adjournment would have given southern talkers a rest.

After preliminary jabs at the bill by half a dozen southerners, Senator Reynolds (D-N.C.) took the floor. He launched a long discussion of world problems, including the economic development of China and Japan, the war between the states in this country, evidences of "Communist" influences in Spain, likelihood of war between Japan and Russia, and cotton production by India.

Earlier, Senator Lewis (D-Ill.) said he would seek approval of his amendment to the anti-lynching bill to make it apply to gang wars and labor violence. At the request of Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) however, he agreed to revise the amendment so the bill would have no effect on labor.

"Secret Influence" Hinted The anti-lynching measure, sponsored by Senators Wagner (D-N.Y.) and Van Nuys (D-Calif.), would provide for flying sheriffs and other peace officers who failed to protect prisoners and would make counties in which lynchings occurred liable to payments to the lynching victim's family.

Lewis told the senate he had talked with persons interested in the measure and they had approved his amendment.

This drew a quick blast from Connally, who demanded that Lewis "tell the senate who these strange, secret influences are."

"I think the senator from Illinois ought to unmask himself and tell us who it is that can pull a string in some dark chamber and have the senate hop" the Texan continued. "I would like to know what goes on in these telephone booths."

Measure Defended Lewis laughingly responded that he knew of the existence of none of the influences mentioned by Connally and added he had discussed his amendment with Wagner and Van Nuys.

In a statement, Connally asserted that the anti-lynching bill was "purely a political gesture" and "an insult" to the southern states. Senator Dixie Bibb Graves of Alabama took an active part in the debate, and told the senate that many states now are making vigorous efforts to punish those responsible for lynchings.

Wagner came to the defense of the measure, saying that it covered only offenses which violated the 14th amendment to the constitution.

"My objective is perfectly clear," Wagner said. "What I am trying to do is to prevent lynchings."

Big Rapids, Mich., Jan. 6 (AP)—A court order granted by Circuit Judge Earl C. Puseley today restrained Mrs. Woodbridge N. Ferris, widow of Michigan's former Democratic governor and United States senator, from using certain of her husband's papers in a biography.

Carlton Ferris, son of Sen. Ferris by a former marriage, obtained the order.

'MYSTERY SHIP' KILLERS FREED

Mad Jack Morgan Tossed Overboard After Five Days of Terror

Los Angeles, Jan. 6 (AP)—A federal grand jury today freed Robert Horn, 37, and George Sperrak, 19, of guilt in their confessed parts in ending the piratical career of "Mad Jack" Morgan, after five days of terror aboard the luxurious yacht Aafje.

Morgan, who had chartered the yacht last Dec. 29 for an announced two-day pleasure trip to Catalina Island, was declared by the survivors to have killed the owner, Dwight Faulding, Santa Barbara hotel man, the first night out.

Armed, he forced Horn and Sperrak to lower Faulding's body, weighted with the ship's anchor, and continued on toward the unknown destination, which federal agents learned might have been a South Sea Island.

After five days of terror in which the seven remaining passengers said they were in constant fear of their lives, Horn said, he felled Morgan with a marlin spike and with Sperrak's aid, tossed him overboard in West Mexican waters.

Horn and Sperrak had been held on murder charges, but the grand jury, hearing evidence for two days, declined to indict them today and the federal marshal ordered their release.

Mrs. Lillian Casanova Morgan, 18, common-law wife of Morgan, who had been held as a material witness, also was released.

"Waited Years for a Medicine Like the New KruGon"

Able to Eat and Enjoy Her Meals Again Without Suffering Afterwards; Kidneys and Bladder Regulated; Like a Different Person Today

"KruGon took hold of my case from the very first as if it had been made for me alone," said Mrs. J. A. Dary, 1007 Randall St., Beloit, Wisconsin. "My kidney and bladder trouble which had been so distressing has now been eliminated. I can sleep the entire night through without the least disturbance which broke my rest and sleep and kept me constantly tired and worn-out. Those poisons which filled my system have been removed in a most natural manner too. My stomach has been regulated so I now eat most any food I want. Those awful gas formations, bloating and burning sensations in my stomach have been eliminated and my digestion is normal again.

"But KruGon did not stop there," continued Mrs. Dary. "For years neuritis pains had almost crippled me so I could hardly raise my arms and there seemed to be nothing I could do to get relief. But a short trial of KruGon soon proved to me how truly different it is. Those sharp, stabbing, unbearable pains were eliminated and I am again enjoying normal health. Little did I realize that a single medicine could accomplish so much.

KruGon is sold by West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., this city.

Lansing Pay Mixup Settled; Lieutenant Governor Is Loser

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 6 (AP)—Attorney-General Raymond W. Starr today ended the Murphy-Nowicki absence pay dispute in Governor Murphy's favor and Lieutenant-Gov. Leo J. Nowicki submitted to the decision.

Starr held that the governor was entitled to pay he drew while absent from the state and would not have to surrender 70 days' pay covering periods of his absence. He ruled that Nowicki, who claimed the pay in question, could only be entitled to it when he had proved that "the said absence was of such character as to amount to an abdication by the governor for the time being of the duties of his office."

Apprieved of the ruling at Detroit, Nowicki announced he would abandon his claim to the extra pay. He forwarded to the auditor general his check for $442.42 which he had drawn as acting governor.

He said, "I am asking the auditor general to immediately adjust my account with the state on the basis of $3 per day, which is the compensation provided for the office of lieutenant governor, and I hope that the discussion during the past two weeks has called to the attention of the people of the state that the compensations of the governor, the lieutenant governor, and the speaker of the house are entirely inadequate when compared with the statewide duties and responsibilities each is asked to assume."

Starr's ruling said that during such absences as created the dispute, both officials could draw the governor's pay.

The ruling differentiated between the lieutenant governor being titular head of the state government during the governor's absence and the lieutenant governor's "performing executive duties x x as the result of an emergency situation requiring immediate action" and other than "the signing of a few papers."

Nowicki had caused a political furor a few weeks ago by presenting an expense account to the auditor general for 70 days' pay at $13.85 a day, the governor's salary, to cover the period of Murphy's absence from Michigan.

Auditor General George T. Gundry honored one of the vouchers for 32 days but refused to pay the remainder until Starr ruled on the matter. Nowicki normally draws $3 a day.

HOUSE URGES SUMNERS FOR U.S. TRIBUNAL

$86,780 from the appropriations requested by independent government agencies ran into immediate opposition in the house today.

The house appropriations committee trimmed the independent agencies appropriation bill to $1,414,818.515, approving the reductions urged by the budget bureau, but it did this only after a bitter controversy behind closed doors.

The opposition, which was renewed later on the house floor, centered on a $123,669,000 slash in funds for the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Committee critics of the National Labor Relations board almost succeeded in striking that agency's $2,955,000 allotment from the bill just before the measure was sent to the house.

Members said Representative Dockweiler (D-Calif.), offered an amendment to eliminate the appropriation, and served notice he would press the fight in the house unless the board changed its attitude toward the American Federation of Labor. Charges that the board has favored the C. I. O. have been made by the A. F. of L.

The committee made good on the pledge of Chairman Taylor (D-Colo.) to cut all appropriation bills below the budget bureau's estimates. It reduced the bill's total $3,732,020 below the figure recommended by the bureau.

Most of this reduction was borne by the Tennessee Valley Authority. The committee lopped $2,913,000 from a $40,000,000 budget estimate for TVA.

Shortly after the bill reached the house floor, Representative Johnson (D-Okla.), denounced the proposed CCC reduction, contending it would demoralize the agency.

In addition to the CCC curtailment, the budget bureau recommended—and the committee approved—reductions of $37,914,500 for the veterans' administration and $23,845,077 for the railroad retirement board.

These economies were offset largely, however, by increases of $70,559,322 for the social security board, $1,852,000 for the civil service retirement fund and $1,036,500 for the interstate commerce commission.

JERSEY MAYOR DENOUNCES CIO

Crowd of 25,000 Roars Their Approval as He Scores 'Reds'

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 6 (AP)—Mayor Frank Hague, vice-chairman of the Democratic national committee and state party leader, with hands clenched and shouting, told a wildly-cheering throng tonight that the CIO "shall never come into this city as long as I am mayor."

Speaking over a coast-to-coast radio hookup and before an estimated crowd of 25,000 persons, Hague denounced the Committee for Industrial Organization as a Communist-led movement.

His speech, delivered in the Jersey City armory, flag bedecked and jammed to capacity, was interrupted by roars from the audience as he called Roger N. Baldwin, director of the American Civil Liberties Union, "the head of the Communist party in this country," and declared Morris Ernest CIO counsel, was leading 50,000 lawyers and newspaper workers to the Communist party.

The meeting, to which Hague had "invited every citizen of Jersey City to demonstrate against the red invasion," was preceded by a parade of World War veterans, whose number was estimated at 4,000 by Acting Police Inspector Walter Clecluch.

Of these Battleship, What Have You and Flying Minutes are American-bred as well as American-owned. Lansing, Jan. 6 (AP)—William Brownrigg, state civil service director, announced today that the first competitive examinations under the new civil service law would be held January 22 in Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Detroit, Lansing, East Lansing, Grayling, Manistique and L'Anse.

Brownrigg said he had limited the number of cities in the interest of economy and that the list would be reduced if he learned there were not enough applicants in any of those areas to warrant a special test.

NAVY BOMBER MISSING WITH SEVEN ABOARD

States fleet searched the navy drill grounds between Santa Barbara and San Diego tonight for a long-range patrol bombing plane missing since yesterday afternoon.

Sixty patrol planes from San Diego, together with all battleship and cruiser base planes, engaged in the hunt today, navy sources here announced.

The aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga, carrying 172 planes each, sailed from Long Beach late today. At daybreak tomorrow the planes will take to the air, bringing the total airplanes active in the search to 300.

This was declared to be the largest mission yet dispatched after a missing plane. Fog was reported to be hampering the search in certain areas tonight.

Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn radioed the Associated Press from his flagship Pennsylvania, which with other battleships and destroyers had been engaged in gunnery maneuvers in the Santa Barbara area where the missing plane was last heard from, that the following were engaged in the search:

"All available patrol planes, battleship and cruiser planes, and destroyers based in the San Pedro-San Diego area. The Saratoga, Lexington and attached squadrons will join the search Friday."

Two coast guard cutters, the Itasca and the Aurora, were aiding in the hunt.

League Umpire OWENS RETIRES

Burly Arbiter Only 53, Quits Because of Poor Health

Chicago, Jan. 6 (AP)—Clarence "Brick" Owens, for 22 years an umpire in the American league, was placed on the voluntary retired list by President William Harridge today because of poor physical condition.

Owens' retirement completes revision of the league's arbiter ranks for 1938. Like George Hill, debarred who retired in 1934, and William Dinnen, who officially laid aside his mask last month, Owens will receive a monthly "retirement" check from the league, Harridge said. This is a reported $3,500 annually.

Although not yet 53 years old, Owens has been an umpire in the major and minor leagues for 35 years. A Fourth of July accident in 1901 started him on his umpiring career. At that time he was playing with a Chicago sandlot team which had a game scheduled for the holiday afternoon. In the morning Owens accidentally shot himself in the hand and was unable to play, but he attended the game. The umpiring was unsatisfactory and in the fourth inning, the 16-year-old Owens was called upon to officiate. He got 50 cents for the job.

Started in 1916 After 14 busy years, during which he umpired in six leagues, Owens joined the American league staff in 1916. A burly, powerful built man, with a fog horn voice, he has been a popular figure in the big leagues. Because of his size and ability to take care of himself, Owens seldom got into fights with the players.

Owens acquired his nickname while umpiring in Pittsburgh, Kan., in 1903, when an enraged fan tossed a brick that hit him in the head.

In a western league game, years ago, the fans started to ride him and when he returned to his hotel

OLYMPIC STAR LOOKING AHEAD

Betty Robinson Prepares for Games in Japan; Visits Escanaba

Betty Robinson, sprint star of the Olympics, told of her interesting experiences to Escanaba senior high students Thursday morning.

In an interview Miss Robinson said she liked the 1936 Olympics better than the one she attended in Amsterdam in 1928 because she had surmounted so many difficulties in order to compete that she appreciated it more.

The pretty champion crashed in an airplane while passing away time just before the 100 meters race for the national championship. Serious injuries resulted in her missing the 1932 games.

On being asked about the Olympics of 1940, which are to be held in Tokyo, Japan, she remarked, "I hope that they'll stop fighting so that we can go in 1940 for the games." Japan, she states, is very eager to have the Olympics although a lack of proper accommodations has forced Japan to set aside a large sum of money for the construction of adequate buildings.

On being questioned about the affair of the disqualification of Eleanor-Holm Jarrett, the famous swimmer, she replied:

"Personally, I think she got what she deserved. After breaking regulations once she was given a fair warning. Then she deliberately broke training rules a second time. In that case anyone would be justified in being disqualified. Training rules must essentially be obeyed in order to be in the best condition possible. I don't myself approve of smoking or drinking."

Answering the question of the average ages of the competitors she said that men are between 28 and 30 while the average ages of the women are between 24 and 25. Miss Robinson was the youngest member on the American Olympic team, being only a junior in high school when she went to Amsterdam in 1928.

Living in a suburb of Chicago she attended a township high school before attending Northwest. She amusingly relates that she trained with the boys' team by running up and down the corridors of the township school, for a track was not available.

Among other comments she revealed that she was now studying the Japanese language in preparation to going to the Olympics in Japan if chances are good.

BRICKLAYERS PROTEST PLAN

Claim Union Labor Should Be Used Exclusively on Airport Job

Members of the local bricklayers union, headed by Gunnar Nelson, presented a vigorous protest at the city council meeting last night against the use of non-union labor on the WPA projects at the airport where individual hangars are being constructed.

Nelson urged members of the council to demand of the federal government on all future projects in which the city pays any portion of the material cost that nothing but union bricklayers and masons be used. He said he did not believe it was right that the federal government should pay good salaries to WPA workers who are learning the trade, while union men stand idly by. Eventually, he said, the idea will lead to a situation where these men will get jobs in private employment, leaving union men out in the cold.

Members of the council, principally Mayor Carl B. Johnson and Councilman Peter Logan, both union men, and City Manager George E. Bean pointed out to Nelson that the city has no authority as to hiring of men on projects financed by the federal government but, in cases where the city has use for skilled labor, union men are employed. Upon questioning, Nelson said he would heartily approve of the closing down of all relief projects in the city unless union men were used entirely. He also said that he would never work on any project where any non-union man was employed, regardless of whether or not he was paid the union scale. In conclusion, it was pointed out to Nelson that the council, because it was helpless to do otherwise, would continue to allow the employment of relief labor on WPA projects in the city just as long as the work was up to a reasonable standard, using any union men who might be certified on the relief rolls.

New Rate Plan

First reading was given to the proposed new rate on domestic electricity which is as follows:

First 40 KWH at 5 cents	1,054,973 KWH	$52,748.65
Next 35 KWH at 4 cents	201,215 KWH	8,048.60
All over 75 KWH at 2 1/2 cents	148,971 KWH	3,724.28
Total energy charge		$64,521.53
Service charge on 3550 customers at $6 per year		21,300.00
Total estimated revenue		$85,821.53
Estimated net yearly loss without increased use		$ 1,718.91

Council authorized installation of an alley light on North Third street near the Hansen and Jensen market and authorized the engineer to prepare plans for a sewer project on Washington avenue. First reading also was given a proposed ordinance making mandatory the installation of either lights or reflector buttons on bicycles.

Approval was given for a change in the opening hours of the collection windows in the treasurer's office to 9 o'clock in the morning in order to enable the office force to clear up previous day's business before the opening of the new day.

The city manager presented a report showing that the central steam heating plant, in its first month of operation, brought in $445.74 from private business and $238 from city use, making a total revenue of $683 for the month. Estimated operating costs for the month were $210. Bean said that installation costs amounted to about $6,000.

SMELT FEAST TO BE SERVED

Escanaba to Send Fish for Newspapermen at Detroit

Escanaba smelt will feature the menu of food to be served at the annual Newspapermen's Dinner at the Hotel Fort Shelby Wednesday, Jan. 12.

For several years the tourist associations of Michigan have given the dinner for the outdoors and travel editors of Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, South Bend and other cities in the region. Various sections of Michigan send home products to make up the menu. Traverse City furnishes cherries; Romeo, peaches; Kalamazoo, celery, and so on. The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce will send a box of smelt in a sufficient quantity to satisfy the appetites of about sixty-five guests, who will attend the dinner.

Co-operating with the state of Michigan and the other larger tourist associations, the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau will assemble resorting publicity material and help to man a large all-Michigan display at the fourth annual Detroit and Michigan Exposition which will open in Detroit's Convention Hall on Woodward Avenue Friday, January 21, and continue for 10 days.

In line with the interest displayed in log-rolling contests at Escanaba and Muskegon last year, the convention will prominently feature a big birling derby. Invitations to participate in this event have been sent to the four Girards, father and three sons, of Gladstone; Frank Marchand, Minnesota champion; Joe Connor of St. Paul; James Johnson of Cloquet, Minnesota; James Rummeling, of Eau Claire, Wisconsin; and Harold Fisher and Robert Fiske, of Stillwater, Minn. Some of these birfers took part in the Upper Peninsula state fair contest at Escanaba last summer.

Death Toll Higher

THE 1937 death toll from motor vehicle accidents is estimated by the American Automobile Association at 39,243, or an increase of about five per cent above the 1936 figure. A recent announcement by the National Safety Council also shows an increase in the number of traffic fatalities last year.

Such statistics are somewhat discouraging to the many safety and civic organizations, who have been working hard to reduce the needless slaughter of human beings on American highways and streets. In recent years, safety education has been given unprecedented emphasis, and therefore it appears that such efforts, while their effectiveness is not to be minimized, must be supplemented by more drastic action.

Coincident with the increase in traffic fatalities, records compiled by police and other official agencies show that there is also a greater amount of drunken driving. The mixing of gasoline and alcohol has caused many traffic accidents locally, and the extent of this menace can be appreciated by considering the fact that in every other community in the land similar occurrences are recorded.

The increase of winter travel, the presence of more automobiles on the highways and streets and other factors might be offered as reasons for the steadily mounting death toll, but the driving of motor vehicles by persons under the influence of liquor must be given a good share of the blame. Public officials, juries and the general public must show less sympathy for drunken drivers and more sympathy for their victims if this traffic menace is to be appreciably reduced.

ty. It is a great experience to coast along the foot of these towering heights on a summer afternoon, viewing them from a boat as the sun descends. The array of sharp daubs, hues and fantastic splashes is almost unbelievable in size and scope. After a summer shower, waterfalls and cascades pour over the high and fort-like walls, adding their bit of laughing life to the scene. The waterfalls are not only beautiful, but they are also a source of power. The waterfalls are not only beautiful, but they are also a source of power. The waterfalls are not only beautiful, but they are also a source of power.

Up on the heights, which are easily reached by car from Munising, one may see Miner's Falls in their bluish woodland bower, and the broken cave into which Pau-Puk-Kee-Wis was driven by Hiawatha. Longfellow tells the story beautifully in his Song of Hiawatha, and here in the Pictured Rocks is the core of the epic—here, and along the varied shores of Lake Superior, and the Escanaba and Tahquamenon rivers, and in the vicinity of Grand Marais. Every peninsula citizen should know his "Hiawatha," and familiarize himself with the sights and scenes of Hiawatha Land made famous by the great American poet.

Will China Survive?

READING the swift-flashing news from China as hundreds of thousands of square miles of the good earth pass behind the advancing Japanese lines, one wonders what will be China's fate? Whether, in a few years more, there will be any China? We look with shorter sight than the Chinese themselves. Read these beautiful lines by Lin Yutang, written, it is true, before the present invasion, but still wise and thoughtful. Lin compares China to a wise old dog, whose dignity and cunning enable him to survive indignities and defeats.

Whatever happens, her placid life flows on unperturbed, insensible to pain and to misery, impervious to shame and to ambition—the little human emotions that agitate young breasts—and undaunted even by the threat of immediate ruin and collapse for the last two centuries. Success and failure have failed to touch her; calamities and death have lost their sting; and the over-shadowing of her national life for a few centuries has ceased to have any meaning.

In fighting, even conquering such a foe, Japan may swallow, but she will find digestion difficult.

AROUND THE PENINSULA

The Rotary club of Ontonagon recently adopted a resolution, expressing complete confidence in the Copper District Power Co. and its developments on the middle branch of the Ontonagon river, about which there has been much comment. Such resolutions sometimes smack of having been engineered by a few persons and do not satisfy the majority of residents of the western end of the Peninsula who are interested in the work on the middle branch. They want the word of impartial experts that, as the Rotary resolution said, "the construction and maintenance of all water power dams herein referred to will insure to the best interests of all of the residents of Ontonagon county." And to the adjacent territory.

The Peninsula will get considerable benefit from the expansion program of the Michigan state police. Seven troopers have been added to the personnel of the forces in these parts, giving the state police 43 men in the Peninsula. With almost a 20 per cent increase in personnel, the Peninsula may shortly anticipate a 20 per cent increase in the efficiency of the state police in these northern counties. It won't take long for the new officers to get the hang of their work.

When it comes to removing snow from down town streets, Gladstone calls upon its merchants to contribute to the cost, which is not excessive by any means. Snow has been removed twice at a cost of $7.10 per block each time. With heavier snowfalls the cost may run to $10, but even then the cost is nominal to the merchants, for the city matches the contributions by them.

With the advent of the new year, the Peninsula loses its representation on the state supreme court bench. Justice Louis Feaf of Newberry retires, having been defeated in the last general election. Being only 60 years of age, he should have many useful years ahead of him and the Peninsula will be happy to have him return, though regretting that he has to give up his work in the state capital.

By this time it is probable the parents of the first new baby in Alger county have been flooded with gifts for the youngster. Munising merchants agreed to provide gifts of clothing and other useful articles for the first baby. Even the parents of the first baby will be presented with gifts from those merchants who have nothing appropriate in their stock of goods for a baby.

Sportsmen of the Peninsula sincerely regret that Pete Trudell of Negaunee has resigned from the presidency of the Northern Michigan Sportsmen's Association, to which office he was re-elected not long ago. They are also curious to know why Trudell resigned. In announcing his resignation, Trudell said it was brought about by circumstances over which he had no control. What were the circumstances?

When one politician judges another, his judgment isn't always very good. John Scott Sr., state representative of Iron River, wrote to an Upper Peninsula newspaper in which he said: "The senators and congressmen who voted against the bill (wages and hours) can bid their jobs in Washington goodbye, for politically they

World Affairs Reviewed

BY MILTON BRONNER NEA Service Staff Correspondent London—Soviet Russia enters the new year as the great question mark of world politics.

Particularly perplexed is the French government. For France has an alliance with Russia. That alliance does not sit too well with England and is a cause of distrust on the part of Poland. Two other friends of France—Rumania and Yugoslavia—do not like this Franco-Russian partnership. Rumania is afraid the Soviets may try to take Bessarabia back. Yugoslavia—filled with White Russian emigres—has never had any dealings with Soviet Russia.

But aside from this diplomatic angle, France would give a good deal to know just what material value this Russian partner means to France in case of trouble.

—RUSSIAN PROGRESS INTRIGUED FRANCE—

When France signed her pact with Soviet Russia, all seemed fair in the military garden. The Soviets had built up their Red Army to the point where it was the largest in the world. They had one of the biggest air forces in the world. There was considerable secrecy about their navy, but it was darkly hinted they had a much bigger and more powerful submarine force than was generally believed.

Furthermore, by reason of the various Five Year plans, the new Russia, unlike the Russia of the Czars, had a large home industry, capable of manufacturing all the arms and munitions the country might need. Also in the Spanish civil war—where Russian planes, tanks and guns were tested against similar weapons of German and Italian origin—the Soviet material had stood up well so far, so good.

—PURGES INDICATE WEAKNESS WITHIN—

But then began the terrifying series of "purges" by special courts in Russia, followed by dozens of executions of men who had held the highest posts in the Soviet state—executives, generals, airforce experts, munitions technicians, mine authorities, manufacturing superintendents, diplomats. All of them were charged with treason to the state or with sabotage or with favoring foreign powers. The inescapable surmise was:

1—Either these men were adherents of Trotsky and so eliminated to make the Stalin regime more solid on its foundations.

2—Or they were genuine traitors.

In either case, it revealed a state of affairs in which the business of Soviet Russia was honeycombed with people who hated the regime and wished it no good. A government thus menaced and harassed, which seeks and finds traitors under every bush and in every nook and corner, is probably badly crippled at the start.

—STALIN IS KEY TO INTERNAL PUZZLE—

At least, that is what an increasing number of Frenchmen fear. They are wondering whether in that next war history would not repeat itself, with Russia once more dropping out of the contest, once more beaten from within rather than from without.

The main hope of the Frenchmen, who still anxiously desire the alliance, is that Stalin is really the man of steel; that he knows what he is doing and is setting about it with iron purpose; that when he gets through with his purge, he will have a Stalinized Russia stronger than that country has ever been in all its history.

committed suicide." In the words of the well known H. I. Phillips of the New York Sun, wanna bet?

THE POOR LITTLE BUTTON BUYER

One day recently the Associated Press cabled from Moscow that the government there had just posted news of the execution of sixteen more of its citizens for various described offenses including diversion of funds, disrupting live stock breeding, storing window dummies in the cellar to their ruin, failing to buy for stores the right kind of goods and stocking such stores "with buttons nobody wanted."

"We are interested in that latter item, the buttons nobody wanted."

In one's imagination he can see this putty-faced button buyer being dragged off hurriedly to a cellar for the leaden coup de grace, but protesting wildly that he was a patriot.

Perhaps the poor fellow couldn't talk fast enough. Perhaps he stuttered naturally, which made him stutter wildly under stress.

Had the OGP, only interested in getting the bloody work over, been acquainted with the innermost recesses of this poor wretch's heart it might have learned that his purpose was to use the buttons on Russians' lips.

After all the Russian who loses his voice or buttons his lips is the only one who is safe.

What a chance for the button business when both the people and their tyrants see the point.

And then a monument for the poor little button buyer.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

NEW YORK—Broadway is going to the cleaners. Now that the tumult and shouting have simmered down and another New Year's Eve safely put away, the Gay White Way will be laundered thoroughly. Steps are being taken to restore dignity to the world's most famous crossroad. Dignity has not been Broadway's best point recently. The million bright lights have shone upon an unmanly midway that grew gaudier and cheaper with the passing nights.

Once Broadway had pride in herself, in the way she looked and behaved. The sign wards strung lights together with an eye for color harmony. Merchants did not give in to garish shop displays. The streets were clear of assorted vendors and even burlesque was a respected musical comedy form that nurtured such talent as Fannie Brice, the Howard Brothers, Bert Lahr and others.

Then good taste took a holiday. The Gay White Way became the Loud Midway. The Minskys took over. Neon discolored the nights. Every corner acquired soft drink stands with Coney Island facades. Street camera men started to annoy pedestrians. Panhandlers flocked to the maza lane and overran it with beggars. Sandwich men cluttered up the sidewalks, hawkers barked their wares at fresco, auction "gyppies" sprang up everywhere to fleece the gullible, pinball salons replaced the old, discreet billiard parlors, pushcarts came back to Times Square and store fronts became as loud as sideshow tent covers.

They've Had Their Fling

Against the invasion of these sordid visitors Broadway was helpless. Visitors in recent years found only disillusionment and dirt after the first dazzling impression. All that glittered before gradually acquired a phoney sheen and the dust piled up. The handsome artery had become a honky-tonk. And old-timers who remembered Broadway in its heyday stayed away. The Capital Parade

BY ALSOP AND KINTNER

Washington—In the weary, broiling days last summer when the President and Attorney General Homer S. Cummings put their heads together to choose a successor to Justice Willis J. Van Devanter, they began by laying down four specifications for the ideal man. The specifications were:

1. That he should be a thumping, evangelical New Dealer.

2. That he should be comparatively young.

3. That he should be surely confirmable by the Senate.

4. That he should come from a section of the country not represented already on the high bench.

The specifications are interesting today, because they are likely to be trotted out again for use in testing the successor to Justice George Sutherland. In some respects, perhaps, they will be modified. Having burned his fingers in Justice Black's appointment, the President is understood to be less inclined to insist on evangelism in his choice.

This is important, since Solicitor General Stanley Reed, Justice Black's last competitor for the great office, was finally crossed off the list because he was considered "too judicial." Reed is now the leading candidate for the new vacancy; he still has the backing of the powerful Left-Wing advisers who were ignored last time in Homer Cummings' favor; and, since the day when the justices plumped for self-salvation by self-reversal, he has improved his record by a long series of successful pleadings.

NO BITTER PILLS

Again, the calculations of the confirmability of various candidates may be a trifle less elaborate. The Senate is no longer in quite the raging mood of last summer, and the President no longer cherishes quite the same passion for making his enemies swallow the bitterest pill which can be forced down their throats.

While the President is now less likely to worry about his appointee's confirmability, or to demand a strong admixture of evangelism in his appointee's liberal thinking, the other specifications are likely to stand unchanged.

No doubt Attorney General Cummings will be asked once more to bring to the White House his statistical study of judicial circuits, showing which have no court representation, and which of the unrepresented ones have the largest population and the greatest political power. Again, the new appointee will certainly be a moderately young man, since the hullabaloo about in the court fight would make an elderly choice too embarrassing.

THE MINORITY OF TWO

The way of the President with appointments is, of course, as utterly unpredictable as the "way of an eagle on a rock." But except for the modified specifications already mentioned, nothing much has happened since Black was picked to alter the President's inclinations.

Therefore, it's worth knowing that Reed was second choice after Black; that Senator Sherman Minton, the hard-driving, effective New Deal warhawk from Indiana, came after Reed; and that Circuit Judge Sam G. Bratton, of New Mexico, a liberal of the great old George Norris stripe, came after Minton.

Obviously, there will be one change in procedure from last time. In considering successors to Justice Van Devanter, the justice department did not bother to investigate the records of the candidates.

Investigation had not been a practice before Supreme Court places were filled. The President was in a hurry, and the Attorney General believed no one could be chosen whose record was not already sufficiently public. But there will be careful investigation this time.

Amid all the uncertainties, one thing seems almost sure. The conservative majority of the court has utterly melted away, after long years of power. Instead, there now exists, in the person of Justice Black, a really radical minority to the left of Brandeis and Cardozo. It seems almost sure that, when Justice Sutherland's successor is named, the minority will become a minority of two instead of one.

BLACK'S WORDS

This week, for the first time, Justice Black spoke out. His dissent from his colleagues in the Indianapolis Water Company case has little noticed, but it was remarkably important all the same, both for its stinging scolding of the other justices, and for its extremist argument on utilities problems.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

PLEASE

"Please" marks the difference between the common woman and the queen. For queenliness is not of thrones, but something any woman owns. The kitchen maiden may be kind. The monarch have the boorish mind. One queen among her common things. The other common among kings.

"Please" always is the queenly way. That surely anyone may say. A favor that is shouted for. And any queen is queen no more. 'Tis not alone a royal name. This title anyone may claim. For dignity and gentleness. The poorest of us may possess.

"Please" makes a queen in any land. They are the common who demand. Queens are not made by royal show. I've met a queen in calico. Beside a spring was one of these. She asked me for some water, please. A queen forgot to use the word. A woman of the common herd.

Launching of the Steamer John Hulst, last of four new ore carriers being readied for the opening of the 1938 shipping season for the Pittsburgh Steamship Co., subsidiary of the United States Steel Corp., will take place at the River Rouge, Mich., yards of the Great Lakes Engineering Co. on Saturday, January 8.

The vessel is being named for a vice-president of the steel corporation and will be sponsored by Miss Helen A. McDonough of the Pittsburgh Steamship Co.

The new freighter is a sister ship to the three vessels which preceded it down the ways last Fall, and is identical in construction and equipment to the Str. Ralph H. Watson, which was launched to the water at River Rouge in November.

Motive power of the Hulst will be comprised of double-gear-cross-compound turbines. Overall length is 610' 9" with molded beam of 60' and molded depth of 32' 6". She will have a maximum draft of 22' and normal shaft horsepower will be 2,000 at 90 revolutions per minute. Designed normal speed of the ship is 11.8 M. P. H.

The Str. John Hulst, with its three sister ships, will be the most modern ore freighter on the Great Lakes. They will bring the total number of vessels operated by the Steamship company to 73 steamers and 6 barges, the largest fleet on the lakes.

Registrar Holds Warm Milk Bottle For College Boy

Detroit, Jan. 6.—The youngest college student in the world, that's the title Florence E. Donahue, registrar at the University of Detroit, uncovered for James J. Kelley yesterday while checking through her student files. Although his registration card shows him to be born February 25, 1937, Kelley has completed his high school course and attained the ranking of a junior in the Arts College at the University of Detroit, which is not bad going for an infant of 11 months. Of course, Miss Donahue pointed out there's always a chance that the young man wrote the wrong year for his date of birth. The registrar, when last seen, was passing through the class room with a warm bottle of milk in her hand. After all, Jimmie must have his meals on time.

OLSON GIVES YEARLY REPORT

Work of Register Shows Big Increase During Past Year

A great increase in the work of the office of register of deeds has been noted during the past year. Werner Olson, local register, said yesterday in pointing out that his office has handled 1,552 deeds, mortgages, probate records and sheriff's deeds and 609 mortgages, mortgage discharges and mortgage extensions.

Chattel mortgages also increased in volume, 3,900 such instruments being filed during the year. The fees taken in for recording deeds, mortgages, etc., amounted to $5,178.75, exclusive of chattel mortgages. The approximate amount of words necessary to collect that large fee at the rate of 15 cents per 100 words, which is the statutory requirements, amounts to 21,032 words. The fees collected for chattel mortgages, conditional sales contracts and bill of sales total $978.90.

As the board of supervisors sets up a budget for each office to follow each year, the register deems office used only $803 out of the $3,960 which was set up in the budget in the year 1937. The balance of money was transferred to other departments and used to offset overdrafts.

Host to Registers

During the past year Mr. Olson was host to the Michigan Register of Deeds association and received many compliments from the registers after they went home about hospitality and scenic points in Delta county.

Olson also prepared a series of articles which was published in local press, to inform the public and taxpayers of several new laws passed during the last session of the legislature which effected the register of deeds office. There were twelve such laws passed. The extension of mortgages was a very important law.

Several of the older laws such as paying of mortgage tax in the office of the county treasurer before presenting mortgage for record and the federal statute which requires that all deeds conveying property sold for a consideration exceeding $100 shall have revenue stamps attached thereon, based on the consideration, at the rate of 50 cents for each $500 or fraction thereof, have been forgotten.

Another law which the public is not fully acquainted with, Olson said, is the chattel laws. The first big change came in 1934 when the register of deeds took over the chattels from the townships and in 1935 the city clerks brought into the register's office their chattels and records. At the same session of the legislature a law was passed that a chattel would remain on record for three years before it outlawed or needed renewing, as against one year previous to this time.

The public does not realize, Olson said, that once a chattel is filed with the register of deeds it remains a lien upon that person until it is discharged or outlawed which takes three years. It is as important to have a chattel discharged as a real estate mortgage discharged as soon as the chattel is paid in full. If a person, when he makes his final payment on such contract asks for a discharge that can be filed with the register of deeds, he will in most cases get one. The automobile finance companies are the only ones which are lax in issuing them. There is an old law on the statute books that compels anyone holding a chattel mortgage to give a written discharge within six days after a request is made for same or can be prosecuted.

Olson has found in several cases that discharges are given when contract is fully paid and the person will hold same and never deliver or mail discharge to the register's office for filing which would remove lien on such person.

It is to the benefit of the public that all discharges are filed as soon as possible receipt of same, as all credit bureaus use the register of deeds office as their information headquarters.

Fox Is Run Down With Car On Ice

By Chas. Olson

Charles Olson of the Ford River road reported yesterday that he ran down and killed a black and red fox with his snowmobile on the ice off Portage Point.

Olson, who with his sons Harold and James, were setting nets on Green bay, noticed the fox and took up the chase. After driving around for some time, they succeeded in turning out the animal and ran it down.

Olson reported that he killed a fox in a similar manner last year and a coyote several years ago.

FURTHER CUTS IN SCHOOL FUNDS

Additional Six Percent Decrease Hits Local System Hard

Announcement yesterday by state school officials of an additional six per cent reduction in state aid funds came as bad news to Escanaba school officials in view of the fact that the local district previously had been deprived of 10 per cent of its state aid and two mills appropriation, which went for relief purposes.

The two mill appropriation, which amounted to approximately six per cent of the total estimated revenues for the year, and the 16 per cent loss from expected state aid funds came after the local budget had been set-up and after the current fiscal year comprising a large share of the total yearly revenue, may put the local school-system in financial difficulties.

Combined loss of the two mill appropriation and state aid amounts to 8.8 per cent of the total estimated revenues upon which the budget is based. The cuts, coming as they did after the fiscal year was under-way, have caused the board of education difficulties.

Thus far, the local school district has received $61,422.13 of state aid, allowing for the 16 per cent reductions, $44,363.30 still remains to be received or a total of $105,785.43. These funds comprise revenues from Thatcher-Saur fund and tuition money.

Primary school money already received amounts to $50,993.05.

The board is tiding itself over the setbacks through effecting of savings in insurance, coal and utility costs and through dropping of several proposed projects for which money has been appropriated in the budget. These latter projects will necessarily have to be postponed indefinitely. How well the board will fare depends largely upon the size of the tax collections, delinquent tax returns and tax sale in May.

Act 249 of the Public Acts of 1937, providing $28,000,000 of state aid for schools, sets up certain regulations for the disbursement of this state aid to schools on the basis of the latest information available—the school year of 1934-35.

This appropriation, however, will not meet the minimum program requirements because of:

1. an increase of about 10,000 pupils in the high school enrollment,
2. an increase in the rate of high school tuition, and
3. the increase in transportation costs.

On December 9, checks for one-third of the state aid for the

Senator Doitsch Is Speaker At Meeting Of Local Teachers

Senator James Doitsch was the speaker at the meeting of the local branch of the American Federation of Teachers held at the Junior high school on Wednesday evening. Senator Doitsch presented a resumé of the important legislative acts of the last session of the legislature for the Escanaba teachers.

He told how last year's appropriation bill for education was first set at $8 million, changed to $3 million, then to $7 million and finally back to $3 million, and now through cuts made by the governor because of the unexpectedly low income from the sales tax has been lowered to $1 million. He expressed his belief that under the present tax setup of the state more money cannot be raised and advocated federal aid as the only solution to the financial difficulties of the schools under Michigan's present taxing system.

The teacher's retirement fund law found little opposition in the legislature, he told the teachers. However, the tenure bill was a different story and he said that the present bill, while not all that could be desired is a victory for the teachers in that, for the first time, places the principle of tenure on the state's statute books. He said that if it had not been for the efforts of organized labor the bill would have died in committee. It was pressure from labor groups that brought the bill out of committee and forced a vote. It is now a fair bill, he declared, and will be much easier to improve than the present bill was to secure.

Urged Organization

He explained the failure of the bill to repeal the teacher's oath act, which died in the house. This bill was introduced by Senator Doitsch and the fact that it came as near passing as it did reveals that sentiment at Lansing has changed considerably since the law was passed. In the senate, even the sponsor of the law voted for repeal. He also spoke of other bills the most important of which was that approving the teaching of sex hygiene in schools.

In closing he urged teachers to organize and affiliate with labor because with the power and backing of labor teachers would have much more influence in Lansing than through any other organization.

He said that while he welcomed letters from individual constituents he preferred to have letters from groups touching on matters under consideration by the legislature.

Leon Schram, president of the local teachers, presided at the meeting. E. John Nicholas, secretary of the local, reported on the activities of the Trades and Labor Council. Following the business session, a light lunch was served.

Paper Mill Chiefs To Hold Meeting

The Lake States Section of Tappi will meet Tuesday evening, January 11, at Conway Hotel, Appleton.

The two speakers of the evening will be Dr. B. L. Browning, Research Associate at The Institute of Paper Chemistry in charge of the analytical department, and Dr. J. A. Van den Akker, Research Associate at the Institute in charge of the Physics department.

Dr. Browning will talk on the Identification of Dirt Specks in Paper, discussing the general methods employed in identification and demonstrating some of the more significant of these methods.

Dr. Van den Akker will talk on the Behavior of Fibbers in Flowing Stock Suspensions, discussing work that has been done or is under way at the Institute to obtain more fundamental knowledge of the factors influencing fiber dispersion and orientation.

FROST DELAYS HIGHWAY WORK

Winter Conditions Are Hindrance; 600 Men on WPA Job

The Delta county road commission is finding it increasingly difficult to provide winter work for WPA employees assigned to county road work. Working conditions are aggravated more this winter than usual on account of deep frost penetration which amounts to 36 inches in practically every place where work could be done.

Unfortunately the number of WPA employees increases materially in the winter when working conditions preclude efficient work in many cases.

600 Now Working

Last summer less than 200 men were available for county road work. With the assignment this week of 80 men from the city of Escanaba and 41 from Gladstone, the total number now working on county roads is near the 600 mark.

Due to frost, digging ditches and moving dirt, except in deep cuts, is virtually impossible. Clearing, cleaning up roadsides and moving fences, which have furnished winter work in the past, has been practically completed in localities where there is now an abundance of help.

Operates Gravel Plants

Gravel production offers the most satisfactory means of furnishing employment. The road commission owns and operates two gravel plants which are kept in continuous operation, but obviously all the available help cannot be used with these two plants.

The road commission has in stock piles 130,000 yards of gravel which is being continually increased. This is sufficient material to gravel over 100 miles of road. Arrangements have been made to haul a considerable portion of this gravel during the winter which will insure many farmers against impassable roads in the spring.

Progress Marks Year's Activities at St. Stephen's

The annual parish meeting of St. Stephen's Episcopal church with reports of a successful church year, election of the vestry and other church officers, and discussions of plans for the new year, was held Wednesday evening following an excellent supper prepared by the women of the church, and served by the Young People's Fellowship.

78 Years Old

Mrs. Hannah Nelson, mother of Mrs. E. R. Gustafson of this city, and a resident of Escanaba for many years, Thursday observed a happy occasion, her seventy-eighth birthday anniversary.

Open house was held at the Gustafson home, 209 South Seventh street, in honor of the day, old friends and neighbors joining with the family group in extending their congratulations.

Mrs. Nelson was presented with a beautiful birthday cake, and she received lovely flowers and other remembrances of the day.

Mrs. C. R. Henderson was elected assistant parish secretary.

At the close of the meeting the rector announced the first adult class preparing for confirmation would meet at the church on Sunday, January 16, at 2 p. m.

Church Events Christian Science Churches "Sacrament" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, January 9.

The Golden Text, from I Corinthians 10:16, is: "The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ?"

Among the Bible citations is this passage (John 14:21) "He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me: and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 4): "To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done."

Bethel League Meeting The Luther League of the Bethel Lutheran church, Stonington, will meet in the church this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Fascism Marches On

The new year opens with Fascism on the march in Rumania, Spain and China. The year 1938 may well be decisive in the deepening struggle of democracy for survival. There should be no illusions about its present weakness in most parts of the world. For the moment, unity, discipline, ruthlessness and ruthlessness are working on the side of the aggressor. Dictators are willing to take long chances and the gods of fortune have been on their side. What makes their successes dangerous is the response of the many to whatever forces seem likely to win.

It is this factor that makes Rumania's defection from parliamentary government particularly important. King Carol, who would like to add the mantle of dictatorship to his other doubtful distinctions, has given control of Rumania to the party that has just won ninety percent of the vote.

Octavian Goga, leader of the Fascist National Christian Party, had no sooner assumed the premiership, in response to the King's call, than he proclaimed an anti-Semitic policy modeled on that of the German Nazis. His decrees suspending liberal newspapers because they were partly owned by Jews, his elimination of Jews from important business and professional undertakings, and his general classification of all Jews as foreigners, duplicate Hitler's policies in Germany.

Even King Carol has become alarmed at the anti-Semitic vigor of his new Premier. Perhaps in response to a hint from his notorious Jewish mistress, Madame Lupescu, King Carol made tolerance the theme of his New Year address. Certainly no monarch needs tolerance on the part of his people more than King Carol, but he may learn that once intolerance has raised its ugly head, there is no telling against what group or individual it will be turned.

Ex-Foreign Minister Titulescu is seeking an alliance with the Rumanian Peasant Party to put the government back on a more liberal road. France will help him, but Germany and Italy are working mightily to prevent his success. France has loaned Rumania some $400,000,000 for arms credits, but Germany has made a bitter and cheaper investment by buying 50 Rumanian newspapers, which are vigorously preaching Fascist doctrines.

By the use of bribes, threats and intrigues, the Fascist agents in Bucharest have won the day. But they are not yet permanently established. If Britain and France can learn to unite their efforts with those of the liberal majority within the country, they may recover lost ground. France has already hinted at an embargo of arms exports to both Rumania and Yugoslavia. And since the military equipment of both countries has been supplied altogether from French and Czechoslovakian factories, such an embargo would be a serious matter. It is only such threats rather than sweet persuasion that will be effective in the face of Fascist blandishments.

Recent Events in Spain
In Spain, the over-confident Loyalists have lost a good part of their gains in the Teruel area. It remains to be seen whether their offensive power, which proved strong enough to win Teruel in a surprise attack, has sufficient drive to hold against Franco's major forces. The battle for Teruel may turn out to be the major engagement of the Spanish War. Mussolini seems to sense its importance. Some 4,000 Italian Blackshirts have just arrived at the Port of Santa Maria, presumably as Italy's first contribution to the work of the Non-Intervention Committee in 1938. It is more evident than ever that if Franco wins in Spain, it is not he, but Benito Mussolini, who achieves the victory.

Second Phase in China
The most important news from China concerns the triumph of Chinese radicals over the conservative forces of the Nationalist Government. Hankow announces that political prisoners have been released. This means that the drive against Communism has ended and that the Red Chinese Armies of the Interior are making common cause with the Nationalists against the Fascist invaders from Japan.
It is Japan's declared purpose to eliminate Communism from China. Actually she is giving Communist ideas the best chance they have had since 1927. The "black ashes" policy which has ruined Tsingtao and now threatens the destruction of Canton, if Japan attacks that great city, is a Communist technique. Terrorism in Shanghai and elsewhere against Chinese officials, cooperating with Japan, is the work of young Chinese radicals, trained in the Communist schools of the distant interior. The guerrilla warfare which Chiang-Kai-Chek announced as he relinquished his government responsibilities to become exclusively an army commander, is based on the tactics developed by China's famous Red Army in their decade of successful warfare against government forces. These guerrilla attacks mark the beginning of the second phase of the

Richest Girl in the World

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

CHAPTER I
Along the ocean drive at Palm Beach, America's winter playground for the great and near-great, the line of automobiles stretched for nearly a mile approaching the Tudor-styled castle of Constance Corby, the richest girl in the world.

A corps of special patrolmen was on guard, besides the traditional men in livery and a dozen private detectives. A flock of newspaper men and photographers was gathered outside the tall wrought-iron gates. The formal gardens and velvety terraces were flooded in softly tinted light; an enormous marquee especially built for dancing, overlooked the silvery edged surf beating against white sands shimmering in moonlight of rivaling splendor. Rare lilies and orchids, brought by plane, filled the spacious rooms from baseboard to ceiling. Three orchestras had been engaged. Forty caterers occupied the mammoth kitchens preparing a feast fit for a bacchanalian king. The supply of champagne was unlimited. For tonight the formal announcement of the betrothal of "The Million Dollar Princess" was to be given out to the world.

Outside the richly appointed bathroom, with its sunken marble tub and gold-plated fixtures, three persons hovered anxiously, listening for every word and sound from within.
"You really should be getting dressed, Miss Connie," Gibbs, the personal maid, English, angular, sardonic, warned.
"Indeed you would!" Mrs. Perry, the head housekeeper, fat, florid and forty, urged with supplication bordering on tears.
"You should indeed," Uncle Tippy added his bit. "That is if you intend to appear at your own party, my dear." Uncle Tippy was Connie's favorite guardian. He never allowed anything to upset him too much; not even his niece's whims, which were, at times, to say the least, likely to be upsetting.

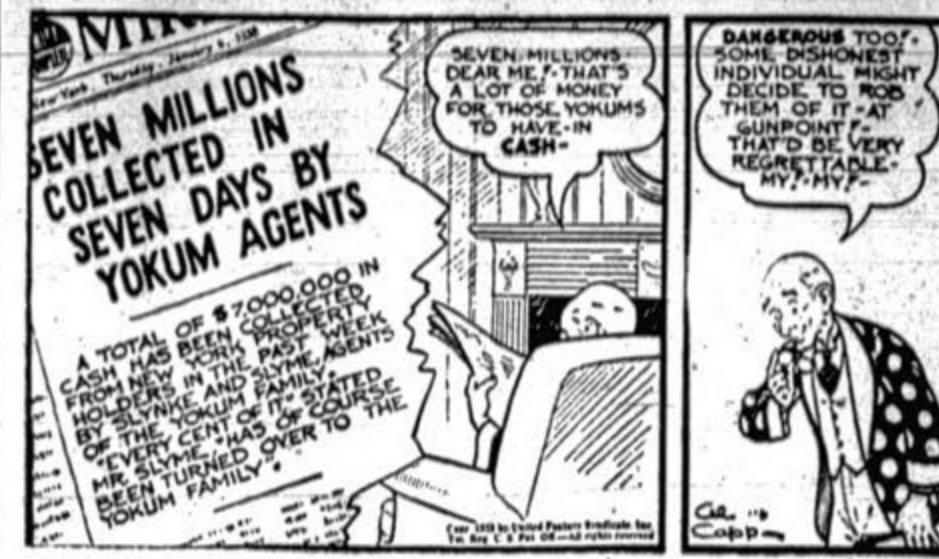

There was silence for a minute while the three waited as though holding one long suspended breath. Then: "But I'm not so sure I want to appear," a low, throaty voice murmured from the other side of the door, which was locked. "I'd much rather stay where I am. It's terribly cozy. When I think of all those people waiting to shake my hand and offer congratulations or condolences, not to mention the reporters and camera men... The more I think of it, I believe I shall stay here."

"But you can't do that!" Mrs. Perry threw up plump arms in horror. "Remember Rodney is waiting, too. Your fiancé. Such a splendid young man!"
"I shan't be able to do your hair to suit you, Miss Connie, unless you allow me ample time," Gibbs' thin face took on a peculiar pinched look.
"What I should have done long ago," Uncle Tippy sighed, "was to have given you a good sound spanking. Hope Brandon will have sense enough, when he takes you off my hands."
"If Rodney ever beats me, I shall leave him," the cool, lovely voice stated with emphasis. "I'll do my own hair, thank you, Gibby. And I'm not going to throw a tantrum, Uncle darling, unless you drive me to it. Go way, please, and let me alone."

"Talking about divorce before the banas are even spoken!" Tis a bad omen!" Mrs. Perry moaned.
"Will you go way?" This time the voice was not quite so soft or musical; there was a loud splash in accompaniment.
"I expect we'd better," Uncle Tippy decided, motioning to the others. He had not been a favorite guardian for 20 years without having learned when to give in.
Connie listened to the footsteps dying away. The frown between her prettily arched brows vanished, her lips curved in a little victorious smile. What good were seventy-some-odd millions if she could not be late to her own announcement party?

Not that she had any reason to be late. Except that the water was warm and fragrant and soothing and suddenly she was sick to the soul of parties and maids and butlers and guests. As for Rodney, an anxious moment or two might be good for that young man.
"This should be the happiest day of my life, I suppose," Connie thought, a few minutes later, standing before her dressing mirror with its array of shining monogrammed silver. Her hand, brushing hair that curled in soft, damp, golden ringlets, stopped in mid-air as she bent forward to survey that mirrored reflection: Blue eyes that met hers challengingly, rather than eagerly; a straight little nose and firm chin that bespoke a long line of blue-blooded ancestry; coral lips that curved in an aloof little smile that held no laughter, really.
For she might be the richest girl in the world, but she was not the happiest.
"There is one thing money can not buy," her grandfather had told her when she was small enough to perch upon his knee. "Happiness. For how can you be happy, if you have everything?"
Nevertheless, this wise old financier had willed his only grandchild a fortune, the extent of which was known only to the six lawyers who were the executors in control of the purse-strings.
How indeed? Connie wondered now, though she had not then. She wondered, too, why she should ask herself this question tonight of all nights. For Rodney Brandon, crack polo player and tennis ace, as well as heir to one of the oldest names and fortunes in the United States, was a young man any girl would be thrilled to marry.
He had been Connie's first sweetheart, almost the only one she had had for although she was far prettier than most girls, Connie had had very few friends of either sex and only a carefully restricted number of suitors. The richest girl in the world had often been the loneliest. Behind the golden myth that was Constance Corby, underneath all the splendor and regality of legal empire, lay the somber, haunting shadow of perpetual fear. The fear of kidnapping, a dream of being murdered.
Her childhood had been spent practically in isolation on the 6000 acre estate of Corby Farms, with its miles and miles of guarded roads and its myriads of locked gates. Her education had been conducted by private tutors. She had traveled abroad extensively but she could not walk in the streets of any American city, enter any public place, attend any social function without being trailed by private detectives.
Bagfuls of mail were opened by her secretary, Crank, letters, People who wanted to meet her. Applications for money. Threats. At times the deluge rose to such proportion that flight became the necessary precaution. Everywhere she went, as soon as her identity was revealed, it was necessary to move on.
Yet the whole world knew what Constance Corby wore, with whom she danced; that she painted her toenails to match her lips and wore a gold slye anklet; how she had wept when her Irish terrier had been killed—and had had a costly tombstone put over his grave; that she liked hot-cha music, but had once asked an orchestra to play "I Love You Truly"; slept in a bed that had belonged to Marie Antoinette, breakfasted from a solid-gold service, leathed publicity and photographers, and that she would, eventually, marry Rodney Brandon.
Rodney was tall and bronzed and blond. There was an air of breeding and distinction about him. He said now, coming to meet Connie at the door of the long, curving stairway, bowing in mock servility, "Your humble henchman awaits with impatience that is now rewarded. You look more beautiful than I have ever seen you. If that's possible, darling, may I claim this first dance?"
So that Connie, smiling down on him, wondered further why her heart did not quicken, her pulses stir, why she did not feel a flood of happiness as he took her in his arms and spun her onto the polished floor.
CHAPTER II
"And now that everyone's drunk to our happiness and you've danced upstair, your pretty silver slippers must be worn through, when are you going to marry me?" Rodney asked, his hand persuaded Connie to slip away to the little summer house that often served as a rendezvous when they wanted a few moments alone.
"When?" Connie murmured.
"When?" Rodney repeated. "You can't expect me to wait to wait much longer, darling. In fact I can't see any reason now for waiting at all."
Connie tilted her head to one side, regarding him. "You manage to sound like the impatient lover, Rodney—almost. Somehow, you don't make it quite convincing. For my part I can't see any reason to hurry."
From the marquee the low music of a languid waltz floated out to them, mingling with the soft shush-shush of the surf pounding against the wall. A night for romance, surely; the stage all set, the characters in costume. Yet—was romance missing?

GINGLES GROUP HERE TONIGHT

Lyceum Stars Will Present "Along Came Juliet"

"Along Came Juliet", a clever play in which romance, mystery, comedy interwoven, are entertainingly brought to the Gingles Players at the Manistique high school auditorium.

Seven characters are portrayed by members of the company in such rapid succession that until the thrilling climax is reached, it is difficult to believe that all of them have been played by Mr. Gingles and two fellow actors.

With fine costuming and scenery, "Along Came Juliet" is a clever play of sparkling wit, comedy and drama.

The presentation of "Along Came Juliet" by the Gingles Players is the third lyceum number to be presented here this season by the Northwest Assemblies and the Manistique Students Association.

Other numbers presented previously were the Brown-Menely duo and Harry C. White, scientist. After the Gingles Players, three other numbers will be included in the lyceum program.

They are the Mississippi Singers, here March 1 at 8 p. m.; Tom Thumb Circus, at 3:15 p. m. February 11 and the Mikado, by the Chicago Opera Company on May 13, at 8 p. m.

St. Joe Meets Baraga; Eskymos At Gladstone

LOCALS SEEKING SECOND VICTORY

Parochials Play First Home Game Tonight at Junior High

Seeking their second consecutive victory of the season, St. Joseph high school cagers, coached by Johnny Vandewelle, will make their debut before local fans tonight at the junior high school gymnasium when they meet Baraga high school of Marquette. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

The Parochials of this city have a pre-holiday record of one victory and one defeat, the defeat being at the hands of the Baragans in the first game of the season played at Marquette several weeks ago.

The locals have been practicing diligently during and since the holidays and Coach Vandewelle has indicated that he expects the team to be in top shape for the game. Russ Faber, hold over center from last year's squad who is the only returning regular, is expected to have a stellar role. Faber scored 11 points in the first Baraga game and is expected to contribute largely to the offense tonight.

Others expected to see service will be Loeffler and Luskin at forwards, and Knaut, McDermott, Perron and Metokovitch, guards.

The Marquette crew, coached by Carroll Rushton, former Escanaba high school star, is composed of several veterans who saw action here last year. Among those expected to see action tonight are Cardoni, Schmeltzer, Crowley, Tonella, Julick, Walch, Thornton, Dagenais and Darlath.

The probable starting lineup for St. Joseph will be: Luskin, lf; Loeffler, rf; Faber, c; McDermott, lg; Knaut, rg.

BOB FELLER'S PAY IS RAISED

President of Indians May Cut Harder and Averill Down

Cleveland, Jan. 6. (AP)—Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Indians, announced tonight that Bob Feller, the Tribe's 18-year-old pitching attraction, will get a salary increase this year.

Amount of the increase was not disclosed by Bradley, who made the announcement as he mailed out the last of registered letters containing 1938 contracts.

At the same time, the Indians' president indicated a new contract mailed to Johnny Allen also provided a salary raise. Allen received about $16,000 last year.

"There will be many increases and a few cuts, but the raises will outweigh the decreases," Bradley said as he estimated the 1938 Indian payroll would be somewhat higher than for last year.

Mel Harder and Earl Averill will be asked to accept "a small reduction," Bradley said.

First Cub Players Leave Feb. 21 For Catalina Training

Chicago, Jan. 6. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs announced tonight their first training camp contingent, or "schooling class," would leave February 21 for Catalina Island.

Manager Charley Grimm, Catcher Gabby Hartnett and Coach John (Red) Corriden will head the group, which will include Pitchers Clay Bryant, Clyde Shoun, Roy Parmelee, Kirby Higbie, Paul Epperly and Bob Logan; Catchers Ken O'Dea and Bob Garbark, and Coacher Triplett, newly acquired outfielder.

The second Cub squad will leave Chicago February 28.

Olympia Manager Must Pay $1,180

Pontiac, Mich., Jan. 6. (AP)—Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty today handed down a decision ordering Louis J. Griffels, general manager of Olympia, Detroit sports arena, to pay Clifton Thrift, sponsor of the Pontiac hockey club last season, $1,180.53.

The money was due Thrift as his club's share of the last Michigan-Ontario Hockey League playoff. Testimony at the hearing before Judge Doty revealed that Griffels had offered Thrift half of the money, contending that the other half was due him for expenses incurred by players Griffels had loaned the Pontiac club.

52 ENTER SPEED SKATING MEET HERE

Will Skate in Escanaba

Doris Tetzlaff (left) and Walter Jaeger (right), both members of the Oconomowoc, Wis., Skating club, will compete in the amateur open skating meeting to be held at the Ludington Park rink Saturday and Sunday. Miss Tetzlaff is the Wisconsin Class B senior woman champion skater, and Jaeger was the third high point winner in the senior division of the Wisconsin state speed skating meet. Other speed skaters from Oconomowoc and Detroit will race here this week-end.

Hank Luisetti Called Greatest Cage Player

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD

WPA Service Sports Writer

Angelo Luisetti didn't realize he was shattering the world's scoring record for a single basketball game until it suddenly dawned on him that the stream of substitutes coming in from the Cardinal bench were performing in a rather strange manner.

Stanford was playing Duquesne in Cleveland in the last game of its eastern trip, and was enjoying a healthy lead of some 50 points. Angelo, who is known more familiarly as Hank, knew he had tossed quite a few field goals. Just how many he didn't know.

Then it was that Captain Hank noticed that replacements were trying to pass the ball to him at every opportunity. In fact they tried to hard. They found themselves tightened up. Passes went wild. Captain Hank took time out to find out why, and, sheepishly, they told him.

Luisetti tossed 35 points in the first half, and the world record for a single game was 41.

So Coach John Bunn gave orders to feed the lanky sharpshooter until he had racked up all the points he could get. But Hank was too much of a team player for that. He ordered his mates to shoot whenever they got an open shot. Ordered is hardly the word. He screamed at them. Fairly pleaded with them.

Yet when the evening's work was done, Luisetti had scored the amazing total of 50 points, as Stanford routed the Dukes, 92 to 27.

LUISETTI PERFECTLY BALANCED

There is little doubt that Luisetti is the greatest college player ever developed. Bunn, who has seen plenty of basketball in his day, would rave for hours about the slim Italian youth of San Francisco, but he finds words can't describe him.

"He's perfectly balanced," says Bunn. "His co-ordination is remarkable. He never makes a false move. That one-handed shot of his can't be stopped by anyone, and he lets it fly from anywhere on the floor. What's more, he's a great team leader, and a marvelous floor man. He could play on our team if he never scored a point."

Luisetti frankly admits he established no reputation at all, as a high-school player.

"I was just a big, skinny kid, and if I made six points a game I considered myself hot. It wasn't until I got to Stanford that I developed my scoring eye."

His "scoring eye," incidentally, enabled him to sink 416 points in his sophomore year, and 410 points as a junior. He has been a unanimous All-America choice two years and is headed for his third—despite the fact that just a few weeks before the present campaign opened he underwent an appendectomy.

Explains One-Handed Shot
"People wonder why I shoot one-handed," he explains. "The answer is simple. It isn't showmanship as many suspect. It's merely a matter of efficiency. I don't have to take time to get set when I shoot one-handed. That saves a half second. I can shoot while in motion, and what probably is most important of all, I can shoot with more accuracy."

There'll be no professional basketball for young Luisetti when he graduates in June. He's majoring in economics, and when he leaves the Stanford campus he'll step right into a job with a large oil company.

Is he working his way through school? Hank says yes, very emphatically. He waits on table for his brothers at the Deke house, and during the football season

PIRATES ENTER TRADING FIELD

We Want New Faces, Says Pittsburgh Crew's President

Pittsburgh, Jan. 6. (AP)—Bill Benswanger, president of Pittsburgh's baseball Pirates, put his prima donnas on the trading block today with the calm remark he was ready to deal "star for star" with any club in the National League.

"We want new faces," the slight, sandy-haired Pirate boss declared. "We are interested in a major trade of any kind—and one I made this year, I'll betcha we'll be in on it."

"Mind you," Benswanger said, "we don't want to give away one of our stars like the Waners of Vaughan or Stur for two or three secondary players. But we are ready and eager to make a deal with any club that will give us men of calibre equal to those we lose."

"As a matter of fact we don't care whether we strengthen our club or not, in such a trade, just so we don't weaken it. We feel the advantage of new faces would be sufficient inducement for trades."

Gwinn And Munising Will Clash Tonight

Munising, Jan. 6.—Mather high school's basketball squad will invade the home territory of the Gwinn cagers Friday evening.

So far the locals have turned in two losses, to Newberry and Ishpeming, and one win, against Manistique. Last year the Mathers took both of their games against 'Doc' Miller's aggregation, 38-14 and 26-21.

Miller's five haven't been scoring as consistently as usual but are still playing good basketball and Coach Peterson has been putting his boys through strong practice sessions in preparation for the game.

LITTLE GIANTS PLAY ST. PAUL

Rock Cagers Are Seeking Second Victory of Season at Home

Rock, Mich., Jan. 6.—After a two weeks holiday lay-off, Coach Cliff Buckmaster's Rock high school cagers will return to cage wars here Friday night when they entertain the powerful St. Paul cagers of Neegaunee.

The Little Giants are looking forward to the post-holiday schedule after playing the hardest part of it before the vacation. They turned in a victory over Nahma in their first game of the season but then lost to three strong teams, Gladstone, Rapid River and Treenary. They have played good basketball in all four games but lack of height has proved to be a big disadvantage.

Little is known of the strength of the St. Paul team other than the fact that the team is composed of several veterans from last year's aggregation which defeated the locals.

Coach Cliff Buckmaster quite likely will rely on the same lineup which he employed before the holidays. That would find Trombly and I. Pilon at guards, Luttio at center and C. Carlson and L. Carlson at the forward positions.

Others likely to see action will be L. Pilon, J. and P. Peltonen.

Officials will be D. E. Evans and Ted Baldwin of Escanaba.

GRUDGE FIGHT IS ON TONIGHT

No Love Lost Between Freddie Steele and Fred Apostoli

New York, Jan. 6. (AP)—Tomorrow night's 12-round non-title fight in Madison Square Garden between Freddie Steele, middleweight champion and Fred Apostoli, of San Francisco, his foremost challenger, may pave the way for an outdoor meeting between the pair next summer with Steele's jealously guarded title on the line.

Even though the championship is not involved and Apostoli would not be recognized if he upsets huge buckets of dope and wins, the fight is shaping up as far and away the most important middleweight clash of the indoor season.

For one thing, the two are old rivals. For another, there is no love lost between the rival managers. And to top of the grudge angle, Steele has been severely criticized for his apparent willingness to give almost every middleweight shot at his crown except the ex-San Francisco bell hop.

Indications tonight were the champion will go into the ring a 5 to 8 favorite.

Should Apostoli turn up with a surprise, the victory would just about force Steele to sign for a title match.

It will be the second meeting between the pair. Almost three years ago Steele was credited with a ten round technical knockout when the referee stopped the fight after Apostoli's eye had been cut. The San Franciscan was on his feet at the time, but he had been floored for a short count in the previous round.

Apostoli, who has agreed to fight at between 160 and 165 pounds is expected to scale around 161 at noon tomorrow.

Frankie Wallace, veteran Cleveland lightweight and Irving Eldridge of New York, have been matched in the eight round semi-final.

Maddy Horn to Enter International Speed Skating Meet at Oslo

Oslo, Norway, Jan. 6.—Maddy Horn, America's lone contender for the women's world speed skating championship in Oslo, Norway, learned to skate on a frozen cow pasture alongside her father's cheese factory near Beaver Dam, Wis.

Maddy Horn's first pair of skates were of the clamp type, which she sharpened daily with a carpenter's file.

From 1926 to '29, pretty Miss Horn, now 26, was a student at Wayland Academy at Beaver Dam, where she has lived all her life. She spent the following year as a telephone operator in Milwaukee.

Returning to Beaver Dam, Miss Horn organized a softball team which beat every other feminine outfit in the state, largely through its manager's home runs. A mighty maid is Maddy.

Unheralded and practically unknown, Miss Horn journeyed to St. Louis in 1933 to break a half dozen records, which she still holds, and to beat Hattie Donaldson Briggs of Toronto, her closest rival, and Kit Klein and Dorothy Fraley, the latter pair Olympic stars, for the senior North American indoor title.

Maddy Horn in Hurry in 1937
After Miss Klein turned professional, Dot Fraley was Miss Horn's foremost opponent. Throughout a two-year stretch there was a quarrel every time they met. One or the other fell was hit, or went sliding into the boards because the one behind nicked a blade. They resorted to hair-pulling a time or two.

Miss Horn was runner-up in the Nationals in Minneapolis in '34. A sprained Achilles' tendon prevented her from making any headway in '35. She won the Great Lakes championship and again was runner-up in the Nationals in '36.

But Miss Horn was only warming up.

Last year, against the stiffest kind of competition, she bagged, among others, the National championship at Petoskey, Mich.; the North American at Saranac Lake; the Canadian at Winnipeg; the National Indoor in Chicago; the Southwestern in St. Louis; the Minnesota Ten Thousand Lakes Meet in Minneapolis; the Great Lakes at Oconomowoc, Wis., and the Missouri Ozark Meet in St. Louis.

Has Form and Stamina of Man
During her spectacular career, which dates from her winning the first of six straight Wisconsin state crowns in '32, this girl, who skates with the form and stamina of a man, has established United States records in the half, three-quarter, and mile events, and in the Canadian three-quarter mile.

The date of the world championships this month is uncertain inasmuch as it is dependent on weather conditions, but one thing is certain.

The international committee invited plenty of trouble for foreign femmes when it respectfully requested Madeline Horn's presence in Oslo.

DOZEN CHOSEN FOR OLYMPICS

International Games Are Scheduled at Tokyo for 1940

New York, Jan. 6. (AP)—Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic association, tonight announced the names of twelve men nominated for membership on the U. S. Olympic track and field committee for the 1940 international games at Tokyo.

The 12 were nominated by the National Collegiate Athletic association and the Amateur Athletic Union. The American Olympic association executive committee, meeting here Saturday, will approve the make-up of the various committees, including the track and field group, for the 1940 international games.

Heading the nominees announced by Brundage was Earl J. Thomson, 1920 Olympic hurdles champion and now head-track coach at the U. S. Naval Academy. He was one of a half-dozen named by the N. C. A. A., which also nominated Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson of Northwestern; Alfred Masters of Stanford; W. S. Hunter of Southern California; Wilbur Hutsell of Auburn and Emmet Brunson of Rice Institute.

The A. A. U. selections were Judge Thomas T. Reilly, New York; Ward Waylett, Kansas State college; Edward S. Parsons, Northeastern university; George T. Onoguhue, Chicago; Edwin F. Schaefer, Buffalo, and John S. Coates, San Francisco.

NORDMEN SEEK FOURTH VICTORY

Keilmens Would Avenge Football Defeat of This Year

After a two weeks' rest during the Christmas holidays, Escanaba high school cagers will get back into the harness tonight when they resume one of their oldest rivalries at Gladstone.

The Eskymos, in spite of their layoff, looked good in practice thus far this week and Coach Carl Nordberg is expecting his charges to turn in their fourth win of the present season against their old rivals from the Upland.

In their pre-holiday series, the locals turned in successive wins over Marquette, Iron Mountain and Kingsford before succumbing to the relentless attack of Ishpeming, which is as yet undefeated. The boys were decidedly "off" during the Ishpeming game but Nordberg feels that they have regained their

EARLY BIRD

An appropriate award, to be donated by the Escanaba Daily Press sports editor, awaits the unidentified basketball fan who called up at 12:25 a. m. today to ask for the score of the Escanaba-Gladstone basketball game. He was indisputably the first one to call for the results of this particular contest. Incidentally, fans are reminded not to telephone the Press too early tonight to get basketball scores, but to note the time of the game and remember it takes some more time to finish a game. Then the final results will be ready for the waiting telephoners.

GRADSTONE'S RECORD BEFORE THE HOLIDAYS INCLUDED VICTORIES OVER RAPID RIVER AND ROCK AND DEFEAT BY MANISTIQUE.

It is quite likely that Nordberg will rely on his original lineup against the Keilmens. If so, it will mean that Capt. Stanton Abrahamson and Ken Frederickson will be at guards, Ray Elis at center and Wes (Slug) Hanson and Gordon Hurley at forwards.

Gladstone's record before the holidays included victories over Rapid River and Rock and defeat by Manistique.

ZERVIC IN SHAPE

Gladstone, Mich.—One of the big games of the season is on tap for basketball fans of the city tonight when the Eskymos clash with Gladstone on the local court in the first of a home and home series of tilts.

A preliminary between the second teams of each school will precede the main game.

In a workout against the alumni the Keilmens appeared to be getting back into pre-holiday form and a hard-fought battle is anticipated.

Zervic, who was out of practice for several nights with an infected tooth, is back in shape and will undoubtedly be in at one of the guard posts when the game opens.

Gobert and either Frank or Sigan will start at forward, Holm at center, and Gabe at the other guard post.

Antell of Neegaunee and Zentic of Gwinn will handle the game.

BRITZ, TYNES FOUND GUILTY

Jury Returns Verdict of Guilty in Circuit Court Case

George Britz, Jr. and Frank Tynes were found guilty by a circuit court jury yesterday on a charge of robbery from the person of Axel Locke, woodsman from Bark River who came to Escanaba to spend the Christmas holidays.

The two were sentenced by Judge Frank A. Bell to serve from two to 15 years in the Marquette branch prison. Locke testified that he had arrived in Escanaba the day before Christmas after having spent about two months in the woods near Ladoga. He told of visiting several taverns in the city on Christmas day and of drinking with both the defendants that evening. Later, when he was walking toward a west end hotel to get some clothes he had left, he was overtaken by Britz and Tynes. Britz, he said, told him to put up his hands and pressed something against his back. Meanwhile, he said, Tynes stuck his hand in Locke's jacket pocket and pulled out three dollars in bills, which the pair had seen him put there while they were drinking at the tavern.

After the pair had made their disappearance, Locke returned to the tavern and had the police called. After the police came, he went with them and Albin Olson, who had been in the tavern earlier in the evening, on a tour of other taverns with the description of the two suspects. The two, Britz and Tynes, who were identified by Locke, were picked up at a nearby tavern.

During the course of the state's case, witnesses called in addition to Locke and Olson, were Police Officers Walter Antonson and Arthur Horchner, Harry Tibbert, tavern owner, Howard Vanlerberghe, bartender, and Miss Lilian Martineau, waitress. Neither of the defendants took the stand in his behalf, the defense attorney calling only Miss Martineau to the stand momentarily.

Stamp Club Meets Here This Evening

THE COLISEUM

The Coliseum will be open this evening for a flashlight dance from 9 to 1 o'clock. Harold Menning and his orchestra will furnish the music.

Ordinarily, one can see up to a dozen meteors on a clear night, but on the night of October 9, 1932, the earth passed through a swarm of these small particles, each of which became white hot due to friction caused by the earth's atmosphere.

ONE CRIMINAL CASE REMAINS

Several Sentences Are Meted Out by Judge Frank A. Bell

A new criminal case, probably the last one of the present circuit court session, was added yesterday to the court calendar and will be heard early next week.

The case is that of Charles Brady, charged with larceny. After a jury was selected in the Frasher-Hawkinson civil case, the remaining jurors were dismissed until Monday morning.

Several sentences were handed out yesterday by Judge Frank A. Bell, the stiffest of which were those of Mike Sullivan and Justin McCarthy, who were sentenced to the Marquette branch prison for a period of from four to 15 years for burglary. The pair pleaded guilty to theft of 39 turkeys from the Fairmont Creamery company on October 18.

Frank Tynes and George Britz, Jr., of this city, were sentenced to serve from two to 15 years for robbery unarmed while Margaret Michaud, who pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct, third offense was ordered to serve from one to two years in the Detroit house of correction.

Richard Davis and Olaf Hanson, who pleaded guilty to unlawfully driving away an automobile, will be sentenced Saturday.

Many Attend Second Amateur Contest At Recreation Center

Over seventy five adults and older boys and girls attended the second monthly amateur contest at the city recreation center last Wednesday night.

Places were awarded as follows: first, Junior Martin, singer; second, Florence Raymond, singer; third, Mary Smallman, singer; fourth, the tie between Bertha Gerou, pianist, and Marion Gerou, song and dance. These five are eligible to compete in the city finals to be held the first week in March.

Others appearing on the program were Helen Arbagey, Dorothy Arbagey and sister, Gloria Pennings, Joan Ferdine.

Entries have already been received for the last preliminary contest to be held the first Wednesday in February. Anyone wishing to enter may call 1347 and inform Wilfred Dupont, WPA recreational leader. He will be glad to play for anyone wishing to sing, but requests that an appointment be made at least a day in advance.
