JAPS NEARING RAILWAY LINE; PEACE BARRED

BRITISH OFFICERS ARE SLUGGED IN SHANGHAI

(By The Associated Press) Shanghai, Jan. 8 (Saturday)—While a Japanese army maneuvered for a stranglehold on China's lifeline railway the Japanese ambassador to China declared today that peace negotiations were "out of the question for the present."

The principal theater of the war was more than 400 miles northwest of Shanghai, on both sides of the east-west Lanchow railway—known as China's "last line of defense"—but there were fresh international complications in Shanghai.

The commander of British troops at Shanghai, Major General A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett, protested against the slugging of two British officers of the Shanghai municipal police by Japanese soldiers.

Close In On Suchow The British charged several Japanese soldiers rushed into the British zone to attack the officers when they remonstrated against what they considered unnecessary rough treatment of Chinese peddlers.

Japanese reported their advance southward through Shanghai province, aimed at control of the Lanchow line and complete occupation of the intersecting north-south Tientsin-Pukow line, had captured Tsowhsien.

Chinese denied the capture and told of jolting counter thrusts at the northward advancing column.

Two Japanese columns are closing vice-like on Suchow along the Tientsin-Pukow railroad.

Chinese forces were reported strongly entrenched at Lincheng, 50 miles north of Suchow, indicating a major engagement might be fought there.

(A dispatch from Peiping said the southern Japanese column was within striking distance of Pengu, less than 100 miles south of Suchow, and capitulation of the city was imminent.)

Reports to Shanghai said the Japanese had only one major position to take before assaulting Pengu. Capture of Pengu and Lincheng would virtually complete Japanese control of the Tientsin-Pukow line.

Starving Insurgent Group Surrenders To Teruel Victors

Madrid, Jan. 7 (AP)—The Spanish government said tonight that 2,000 exhausted and starving insurgents who had been barricaded in the hospital of Asuncion in Teruel had surrendered under arrangements initiated by the international Red cross.

With the fall of this base, the government said, only small straggling groups of insurgents remained in the city, which has been the cause of bitter fighting for 17 days, and that these were expected to surrender soon.

The captured forces were headed by Lieutenant Colonel Rey D'Harcourt, commander of the insurgent defenders of Teruel.

The government communique also said two companies of crack Navarrese troops, about 230 men, surrendered in a body.

The collapse of the hospital defenders came a little more than two weeks after they had barricaded themselves in the old quarter of the city after it had been occupied by government forces.

BORAH BATTLES LYNCHING BILL

Foes of Measure Hope to Shelve It By Filibuster

Washington, Jan. 7 (AP)—Southern senators opposing the anti-lynching bill drew eloquent support today from Senator Borah, who denounced the measure as a "blow at the very heart of local self government."

The Idaho Republican told the senate that the bill "rests on the theory that the people in our southern states are either unwilling, or unfit, to maintain the ordinary principles of self government."

Borah, oldest senator in point of service, took the floor when the senate convened and spoke an hour.

Southern senators began using dilatory tactics against the anti-lynching bill yesterday, and Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, threatened to call for "longer sessions" if their speech-making went on too long.

Foes of the legislation expressed hope they could keep talking long enough to force an agreement to shelve the bill.

Crippled Children Commission Staff Ordered Reinstated

Lansing, Jan. 7 (AP)—Three employees of the state crippled children's commission who were discharged two days before the civil service law became effective were ordered reinstated today by Governor Murphy.

At the same time James F. Thomson, chairman of the Republican state central committee, demanded that the governor reinstate three state inspectors who he said were discharged by the state board of pharmacy on December 29, 1937, two days before the civil service law went into effect.

The governor reserved judgment in the cases of five other employees of the crippled children's commission who were discharged with the three he ordered reinstated.

He said the commission would announce the names of the discharged employees in Detroit.

LAPEER COUNTY ESCAPER SHOT

Prisoner, 18, in Serious Condition; Four Saw Out of Jail

Lapeer, Mich., Jan. 7 (AP)—Physicians fought today to save the life of James Weir, 18, one of four prisoners who escaped from the Lapeer county jail this morning.

He was shot by state police. At Lapeer City hospital, attendants described Weir's condition as serious. An emergency operation was performed in an effort to save his life, after which he was taken to the Lapeer County hospital.

A posse of state troopers and sheriff's officers scouring the snow-clad fields near here came on three of the escaped prisoners. Two, Laverne Smith, 22, and Fred Reamer, 28, surrendered quietly, but Weir ran and was shot in the back, the bullet passing through his body.

The fourth escaped inmate, Harold Goss, 22, was still at large. The quartet sawed through a chain on the floor of their cell and hid in the bull-pen during the night.

When Turnkey Loren Elliott came with their breakfasts, they shouldered him aside and ran through the open jail door, which Elliott had left unlocked.

Rubens Case Facts Demanded Of Russia

Moscow, Jan. 7 (AP)—The United States today demanded Russia tell whether Ruth Marie Rubens, of New York—the mysteriously missing "Mrs. Donald L. Robinson"—had been arrested and, if so, on what charges.

The formal note was presented to the foreign office on instructions from Washington after previous requests for information were unanswered.

The United States asked full details of Mrs. Rubens' disappearance from a Moscow file Dec. 9. A week earlier her travelling companion, known only as "Donald L. Robinson," had vanished from the hotel next door to the American embassy.

SHIP IN SWAMP; ALL ARE SAVED

Airliner Pilot Brings Rescuers in Mishap Near Newark, N. J.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 7 (AP)—Stranded for four hours in the middle of a swamp, five passengers of a transport airliner cheered and whistled today as their pilot guided rescuers to their partly-sunken ship.

While flares glowed cheerily, Pilot Usher Rouse of Chicago, cut over the eye when his head struck the instrument panel as he under-shot storm-swept Newark airport, plunged more than two miles through mud and water to pick up a rescue party.

The rescuers found passengers of the plane unhurt and their spirits buoyed by Co-Pilot Stanley Gerding of Chicago and a pretty blonde stewardess, Veronica Lally, a graduate nurse of Mercy hospital, Janesville, Wis.

Rouch, flying in from Chicago in the 21-passenger, eight-ton plane, roared the Newark radio beam, but heavy rain hampered his visibility.

Mother, Son Held In Torch Slaying Near Mt. Clemens

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Jan. 7 (AP)—Justice Donald Parent issued warrants tonight charging a mother and her son with murder in connection with the "torch" slaying of Sam Macciochi, former convict, Dec. 30.

The warrants named Mrs. Rose Ferreri, proprietress of a Detroit rooming house in which Macciochi lived, and Thomas Ferreri, 26.

State police disclosed that the mother and son had been held in the Oakland county jail at Pontiac since Wednesday under investigation.

Macciochi's blazing body, wrapped in a kerosene-soaked piece of carpet, was found in a ditch near here by a motorist. The Macomb county coroner said he had been strangled and shot. State police said Macciochi had served time in the southern Michigan prison on a larceny charge.

Leader In Railway Brotherhood Given Federal Labor Job

Washington, Jan. 7 (AP)—Leaders of the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization received in silence today the announcement of Charles C. McLaughlin's appointment to be assistant secretary of labor.

McLaughlin is a vice president of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen, one of the "big four" railroad labor unions affiliated with neither the A. F. of L. nor C. I. O.

The vacancy in the labor post resulted from the resignation of Edward F. McGrady.

Metamora, Mich., Bank Robbed Of $3,000; Cashier Abducted

Metamora, Mich., Jan. 7 (AP)—Two gunmen abducted Fred D. Donner, 48, cashier of the Metamora State Savings Bank, tonight after forcing him to open a bank safe. The loot was estimated from $2,000 to $3,000. Donner was released unharmed on a lonely Oakland county road near Pontiac after being a prisoner of the bandits for 75 minutes.

Donner, who had been working on annual reports at the bank, said he had closed up and was walking home when the bandits forced him into their car and made him return to the bank.

While one gunman stood guard in the car, Donner said the second bandit forced the cashier to open a small safe which had a 15-minute time lock on it. Donner was then forced to help the pair carry the money to the car, he told police.

MURPHY SAYS TRADE SLUMP IS TEMPORARY

GOVERNOR TO ASK WASHINGTON FOR MORE RELIEF

Lansing, Jan. 7 (AP)—Governor Murphy predicted today that the current business recession was of a temporary nature, and called upon government, capital and labor to join in a fight "to restore prosperity."

The governor said he believed that teamwork and intelligent handling of responsibilities by government, capital and labor would bring a quick end to the slump.

No Depression He asserted the basic and fundamental causes of depression are lacking from the present recession and that lack of confidence was the outstanding reason for the country's present economic condition.

"I realize, of course," he said, "that unemployment presents a serious problem. In four Michigan counties alone, 165,000 are jobless. In Wayne county 140,000 to 145,000 have been laid off; in Oakland county 8,000 are out of work; Genesee county has 9,000 unemployed; and Ingham county approximately 7,000. Muskegon also has a serious welfare problem and I have asked the emergency relief commission to center its attention immediately upon relief for that county."

All Must Share "The welfare problem can be met, however," he continued, "There is suffering only when one agency of government falls to bear its fair share of the burden. Fortunately, the recession has not caught the government flat-footed as did the depression. The state and the nation are geared for modern, efficient and economic administration of relief."

The governor said he was encouraged by the spirit shown by industrial leaders.

"Industry will take back as many men as it can under the best conditions it can and as soon as it can," he asserted. He said he was pleased by the fact that the Ford Motor company had agreed to re-employ 40,000 employees on January 17 and that the Hudson Motor company would re-employ 6,000 more.

May Leave Monday He disclosed he had talked with labor leaders and had assurances they would "be helpful."

"The important advances labor has made within the last year must be kept," Murphy said, "and labor will cooperate to the fullest."

"In my opinion the recession will not be long lived," he concluded. "Because of this I am anxious that the problems be met energetically. I want to present

HUNT FOR NAVY CRUISER FUTILE

Sea Scanned by 35 Ships Without Trace of 8 Men Lost

San Pedro, Calif., Jan. 7 (AP)—Thirty five fighting ships scanned the sea today while 284 planes hunted from the air in an area of 60,000 square miles off the coast here for eight naval fliers lost at sea.

There was no hope for the eighth flier, Cadet Scott P. Hawkins, 29, of Jefferson City, Mo. He fell to death yesterday 100 miles offshore from a catapulted plane attached to the cruiser Chicago searching for the other seven missing navy aviators.

Hope was held for the seven men unreported since Wednesday evening on one of the navy's newest cruisers of the air, a 25-ton patrol bomber.

G. A. Mills, 22, radioman, third class, of Prescott, Mich., was a member of the crew.

Moose Camp Death Of Pontiac Woman Studied At Inquest

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Jan. 7 (AP)—The province of Ontario moved tonight to find the answer to the hunting lodge death of pretty Helen Grier, Battle Creek and Pontiac stenographer, who was found slain in a wilderness resort 35 miles north of here October 28.

Major witnesses at the inquest, Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert of the attorney general's office at Ottawa, testified regarding his findings at a previous post-mortem.

Also on the witness list was Vernon Spencer, former professional baseball player and wealthy dairy farmer of Wisnau, Mich., who has been held October 29 as a material witness.

Miss Grier and Spencer had gone to the hunting lodge of Dr. August A. Holcomb, of Northville, Mich., as they had done for the past six years, according to residents in that section. Spencer told police he left the cabin to hunt for moose tracks and when he returned found his companion's pajama-clad body in a pool of blood on the cabin floor.

She had been shot through the head with a .22 calibre rifle bullet and the post-mortem indicated she had also suffered a skull fracture.

GOVERNOR AND BROWN CONFER

Senator Asks Murphy If He Would Like to Leave Michigan

Washington, Jan. 7 (AP)—Senator Brown (D-Mich.) left tonight for Detroit where he said he would confer with Governor Frank Murphy on the impending supreme court vacancy.

Brown said he would ask the governor if he "would like to leave Michigan." Brown was a White House caller today. He declined to discuss the possibility of Murphy's appointment to the bench.

Leaving on the same train with Brown were Representative Dingell (D-Mich.), Edward J. Fry, Michigan racing commissioner and state Democratic chairman, and Claude J. Markie, the committee's public relations director.

Fry and Markie accompanied Brown to the White House. Fry said they extended a formal invitation from the Democratic committee, Murphy and Democratic congressmen to President Roosevelt, asking him to visit Michigan.

The Democratic chairman said the president evidenced enthusiasm for the proposal but did not commit himself.

Fry said Michigan Democrats were hopeful the president would attend a Michigan Democratic rally at Mackinac Island which would signal the opening of the gubernatorial and congressional campaigns.

Munising Paper Co. Loses Damage Suit

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 7 (AP)—A jury in U. S. district court today returned a verdict of $4,970.73 in favor of Mrs. Sophie Huseby, of Duluth, in her $25,711 damage suit against the Munising paper company, of Munising, for the company's alleged negligence in the death of her husband, Gustave, on August 28, 1937.

Huseby was electrocuted when he came in contact with high voltage wires at the paper company's dock while returning from town to the freighter A. D. MacBeth, on which he was employed, and which was tied up at the company's dock.

The plaintiff contended that Huseby, 68 years of age, followed the regular path to the boat, that the wires were too low and that there were no warning lights or signs near the wires.

Allegan Officials Vote Against Deer

Allegan (AP)—In a resolution sent Friday to Lansing, the Allegan county board of supervisors added its voice to those who want deer roaming the county and destroying crops transferred to other areas. The supervisors also asked dismissal of charges against John Nyboer, convicted of illegally killing a deer which had been eating celery in his garden patch.

SIX POSITIONS ARE AFFECTED BY REVAMPING

KENNEDY SELECTED AS U. S. ENVOY TO LONDON

Washington, Jan. 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt announced today the most sweeping diplomatic shakeup since he took office, involving the important posts of London, Berlin, Moscow, Brussels, Ottawa and Santiago, Chile.

The president sent to the senate the nominations of: Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the maritime commission, to be ambassador to Great Britain.

Hugh R. Wilson, assistant secretary of state, to be ambassador to Germany.

Joseph E. Davies, ambassador to Soviet Russia, to be ambassador to Belgium.

Norman Armour, minister to Canada, to be ambassador to Chile.

Three of the new appointees, Kennedy, Wilson and Armour, will leave for their posts after the customary month's "period of instruction," during which they will read up on state department archives relating to their respective countries of assignment.

Moscow Vacant Davies will not go to Brussels until spring. He will remain in this country until that time. His millionaire wife, the former Marjorie Post, has been in ill-health.

Today's shakeup leaves open: The post of ambassador to Moscow.

The post of assistant secretary of state.

The post of minister to Ottawa.

The question of what will become of Hugh Simons Gibson, until now ambassador to Belgium, remained unanswered. Asked this question today, President Roosevelt said he did not know.

The shifts mean that Moscow will, before many more months, see the third American ambassador since diplomatic relations were resumed four years ago.

William Christian Bullitt, first ambassador there, is now ambassador to France; Davies was there almost exactly one year.

Dodd's Quits Nazis Much importance is attached to the president's sending, in this difficult international moment, of one of his trusted lieutenants to London, capital of another great democracy, with which the chief executive is aligning himself, at least in ideological grounds.

State department attaches say 1938 will be possibly a decisive year in the squaring off of the democracies and the dictatorships, either for peace or for conflict. Close relations with Great Britain will be maintained, especially after the conclusion of the Anglo-American trade agreement.

The president's announcement of Hugh Robert Wilson's appointment to Berlin followed by a few hours the arrival in New York of William E. Dodd, who recently resigned the post in bitter antagonism to Nazi principles.

Jobless Insurance Checks Cut 30,000 Off Rolls Of WPA

Washington, Jan. 7 (AP)—Between 25,000 and 30,000 persons will have to leave work relief jobs this month because they are eligible for unemployment insurance checks, the Works Progress Administration ruled today.

Aubrey Williams, the acting WPA administrator, announced the policy that workers entitled to the insurance benefits could not retain work relief jobs.

However, he said those dismissed would be re-employed, if sufficient funds were available, as soon as they ceased receiving unemployment compensation.

Woman Strangled In Detroit Field

Detroit, Jan. 7 (AP)—Police today sought to learn the identity of a young woman found strangled and beaten in a field near the outskirts of the city.

The woman was blonde, about 25 years of age and wore a gray cloth overcoat and a black dress.

Belief that the woman had been killed elsewhere and her body dumped by the lonely road was expressed by Inspector Paul H. Wencel of the homicide squad.

NEW FORMS TO BE HERE SOON

Justices Are Required to File Reports to Prosecutor

New criminal case forms which will be used in making reports to the recently formed state department of corrections, superseding the Michigan board of pardons and paroles, will be distributed soon in Delta county to all justices of the peace. It was announced here yesterday.

The forms will be used by each justice to make monthly reports to the county prosecutor. The prosecutor in turn will report each month to the state department, adding to each case report he receives from the justices such information as he has in his office.

Act 255 of the public acts of 1937 creating the state corrections department went into immediate effect upon passage by the legislature but because of the necessary delay in drawing up forms and other details it has taken some time to put certain provisions in effect.

Under the new regulations each justice of the peace will report on all criminal cases on the new forms each month to the prosecutor and he in turn will report to Lansing. Heretofore the justices reported on the criminal cases to the prosecutor each month and the prosecutor reported to Lansing semi-annually. The new forms require very complete data including the place where the case was prosecuted, date of arrest, whether made by sheriff's officers, state police, city police or constables; information about the respondent including among other things race, marital status, education, occupation, and in addition, place of crime, nature of offense, disposition. These general heads of information are also detailed. Criminal statistics will be compiled from the reports.

LOCAL MURDER SOLUTION NEAR

Local Laundryman May Have Been Tortured, Police State

Newberry, Jan. 7.—The solution of the murder of Charlie Hoy, Newberry's Chinese laundryman on Wednesday or Thursday of last week, may soon be announced, although state police detectives are unable at this time to make any statement. Sgt. George W. Waterman and James Smith, detectives assigned to the Newberry state police post have been working on the case since the body of the laundryman was discovered in his shop on Friday morning, Jan. 31. Dozens of persons have been questioned, a few held in jail over night or for a few hours but Sgt. Waterman states that no charges have been made. "I think we have a fair chance of solving the crime," Sgt. Waterman reported to a Press correspondent. "Of course you know better we can have rabbit stew we must first catch the rabbit, but I hope we can sit down to stew soon."

It is known that Hoy had collected at least $80 on Wednesday, the last day he was seen alive by Robert Sommers, local high school boy who ran errands for the laundryman. Sommers called at the shop on Thursday and found the stove cold, the kitchen in unusual disorder, and Hoy nowhere to be seen. On Friday, when the laundryman was still absent, Sommers called the state police and the still body of Hoy was found at the foot of the stairway. A coroner's inquest established the fact that the man had died of strangulation, a strip of sheeting being thrust down his throat. There were marks of a cord about the neck and odd injuries on both arms and legs. Sgt. Waterman is of the opinion that the man might have been tortured to make him tell where his money was hidden.

Hoy's Brother Here
Su Land Lung of Minneapolis, brother of the slain man, arrived here on Wednesday, to arrange for the burial and to offer any assistance possible to the police. Mr. Lung stated that his brother's real name was Seu Suey Lung, was born in Kwan Tung, China, in 1870. While still a boy the family moved to San Francisco, and then to Chicago in 1890. In 1905 the brother came to Newberry to open a laundry and here he became known as Charlie Hoy or Top Hoy. Hoy was an old man, small, and with a hot temper. He had been known as an inveterate poker player for many years, but according to local reports, he had not played for several months and for that reason may have had considerable cash. He was retiring and disliked to appear in public, using an errand boy to do most of his purchasing and other business. Sgt. Waterman, reports that one man could have done the crime if he had come upon the laundryman suddenly, and that he does not believe that Hoy could put up much of a defense. However it is possible that more than one is involved.

TWO NEWBERRY PLANTS REOPEN

Robbins Flooring Mill and Chemical Firm Recall Crews

Newberry, Jan. 7.—Two Newberry plants will reopen next week, greatly relieving the local unemployment problem. The Robbins Flooring Plant, rebuilt after the fire which destroyed it a year ago, will open on Tuesday, January 11th. It will employ around 40 men and will have a pay roll of between $4,000 and $5,000 weekly. The saw mill of the Newberry Lumber and Chemical company, closed two months ago, will resume operations on Monday, January 10. The mill will operate the day shift only and will employ about 50 men. This news is welcome to the community, as the livelihood of around 500 persons is involved in the operations of the plants.

In celebration of the opening of the rebuilt flooring plant a "jubilee dinner" will be tendered the officers of the company on Tuesday evening in the community building. The new plant is brick, steel and concrete construction, an nearly fireproof as possible in view of the fact that its product must be dried in kilns. A modern sprinkling system will be installed in the spring. It is announced and a special water main from the village power plant to the factory will add to the fire safety. The Robbins Flooring company, owned by the Ambroth family, is one of the largest producers of hardwood flooring in the United States, and ships about 25 per cent of their output to foreign points, largely, Scotland, England and France. Much of it is used for leading first from the hand containing two honors he would have been licked before he started.

The ace of spades won the first trick, and North led a low diamond to the queen. This play was based on the best modern practice. If East held four trumps, then there was no way of preventing him from making a trump trick. However, if West held them all, then this way of playing the trump suit would permit the capture of every one of West's trumps. Any other distribution in the trump suit made no difference.

A low trump was returned and West played the ten, declarer winning with the king. A low club was returned, West winning with the ten. A spade was returned, which declarer ruffed. A small club led and won with the ace on dummy. A small diamond led and when West played the eight, declarer played the nine spot.

The ace of diamonds now picked up West's last trump. Another diamond led and East was squeezed. He held the king of clubs and four hearts. He gave up a heart and declarer made the last four tricks in that suit.

The declarer fulfilled his contract by two fine plays, first his play of the trump suit, and second, his early preparation for the squeeze, which was his only chance to make the contract.

Contract Problem (Solution in next issue)

South's contract is three no trump. Declarer allowed the opening lead of the jack of hearts to hold. What card can West play now that will defeat the contract?

This meeting, President Roberta Campbell Lawson, presiding, brings to the organization's headquarters club leaders from every state in the Union, numbering more than one hundred.

Dr. James Edward Freeman, Bishop of Washington, will address the opening session of the board. Mr. John Calvin Brown, of New York and Paris, chairman of the National Reform Club and student of International affairs will present ideas on national evils and suggest reforms. Other speakers include Mrs. Marjorie Trumbull of New York, a graduate student of archeology at Columbia university whose subject will be "Preservation of Ancient Culture" and the Honorable Wesley E. Disney, United States representative from Oklahoma, who introduced the Disney bill which provides for the establishment of a National Academy of Public Affairs for the training of women and men for government service, a project in which the federation is actively interested.

Dr. Carl C. Taylor, in charge of the division of Farm Population and Rural Life, will speak on "A National Program for Handicrafts." A luncheon forum will be given at the Department of Agriculture, the subject discussed, "The Producer," will be approached from the point of view of consumer-producer problems facing the American housewife. Miss Elizabeth Achells, president of the World Calendar Association, will speak on World Calendar Reform, another project in which the General Federation is interested.

The General Federation program, one of the most inclusive of all national organizations of women, having more than 125 activities, will be reviewed by the officers and the chairmen of the nine departments, which are: American Citizenship, American Home, Education, Fine Arts, International Relations, Junior Club Women, Legislation, Press and Publicity and Public Welfare.

Honor Unknown Soldier
At the conclusion of one of its afternoon sessions the Federation will place a wreath and pause for a moment of silent prayer at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery.

Tea at the White House at the invitation of Mrs. Roosevelt upon the afternoon of January 12 will be one of the highlights of the meeting and a formal reception preceding these programs on the same day, will mark the opening of the Board Meeting. It will bring together the Board, members of Congress and their wives, and other leaders in the official and social life of the nation's capital.

The two days prior to the opening sessions will be filled with meetings of various groups making up the Board.

Carl Sandburg, 60, Holds Forth On New Literature

BY RUSSELL LANDSTROM
Harbert, Mich., Jan. 6 (AP)—Carl Sandburg, poet of the water-lands, urban jungles, sun-baked steppes and of man on all his planes from Cro-Magnon to God-like, observed the 60th anniversary of his birth today with an intensification of his literary labors.

Deep in what he expects to be his final year's work on the last section of his life of Lincoln, the poet spared time from his manuscripts to stroll along Lake Michigan, to fondle his pure-bred Nubian and Toggenburg goats, to chat and jest over plain food and bland wine. He began: "There's a literature arising in this country, which in the last three or four years has been growing momentarily, having to do with propaganda and publicity. Several large universities—notably Princeton, Chicago and Minnesota—have classes in an extended way to take-up publicity methods and propaganda analysis.

"It will be only a matter of time until we shall have classes in the public schools around such subjects as 'How To Read a Newspaper' or 'What shall I do with reference to what comes to my ears, in relation to what's worth believing?' It is easy to quote and the quotation has a sublime sound—'You shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free,' but you are helpless unless you have some technique or instinct for knowing the truth."

"One question which has been raised by an educator recently," the poet continued, "is whether poetry is dead. Well, always somebody is saying that poetry is dead—and always somebody is saying that liberty is dead. It, in a given time in history, either one is dead, both are dead. Poetry, undoubtedly, is a good deal of a corpse in Germany, Italy and the River Rouge Plant." (The last reference was to the Ford Motor factory in Detroit.)

Wasted Effort
Sandburg observed that "too many silly efforts are being made to improve our speech," a lot of it, he said, being an affront to colloquial good sense. "The other day," he went on,

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

"A friend in need is a friend indeed," we say. And the funny thing is we believe it.

We've repeated the old saying so many times that we honestly think a real friend is a person who shows his concern when we are in trouble.

The person who pats us on the back and gives us his honest sympathy.

Well, we might as well realize that standing by in time of trouble doesn't necessarily mean friendship. The only way to to see how he takes your successes. How he behaves when it looks as though you have the world by the tail. When he knows you don't need anyone's help or sympathy—including his own. Then if you find he honestly rejoices with you, you have one friend in the world.

Remember Sarah? She made a "poor" marriage and all her friends "stood by" her. Every one was sympathetic. Jane used to let Sarah cry on her shoulder. She was even kinder than that. She encouraged her to talk of her troubles. And afterwards, she'd say, "Poor Sarah" to her husband—and felt nice and smug because she hadn't made a mess of her own life.

Playing Lady Bountiful
Then there was Mary, who used to "do things" for poor Sarah. She made clothes for the children—look Sarah to an occasional show which Sarah never would have seen otherwise, and looked after the children when Sarah's husband came home so drunk she didn't want them in the house. She had a nice time playing Lady Bountiful.

And there was Anne, who gave Sarah good advice. Who persuaded her that she ought to divorce her husband and felt smart as all get-out because she had never married herself.

And Margaret introduced Sarah to Tom, who married her and gave her more than any of her friends who used to help her themselves.

The Anvil Chorus
Now listen to the conversation at the last bridge club when Sarah was absent (she's spending the winter in Florida):

Jane: "Do you really believe Sarah is happy?"

Mary: "She certainly seems to have forgotten all we did for her. Many's the time I used to keep those poor children when Bob came home so drunk that Sarah couldn't do a thing with him."

Anne: "I thought she ought to divorce Bob, but I think it's a shame she doesn't let him have the children for at least part of the year. Sometimes I wonder if his drinking wasn't partly Sarah's fault."

Margaret: "Well, Tom seems to be crazy about Sarah now, but I'm not sure it will last. He's so much more intelligent than she is."

A friend in need may be a friend indeed—but before you're sure, see if he can be glad for you as easily as he can be sorry for you.

THE SPORT OF SKIING

The origin of skiing is buried in antiquity. For time out of mind the Lapps, Finns and Scandinavians used ski for traveling and hunting. Skiing for sport, however, is comparatively new—having its beginning about 1860 in the Norwegian district of Telemark, then spreading rapidly to the mountainous sections of Europe and America. Jumping is limited to a few, but cross country and Slalom skiing are for everyone—exhilarating, exercise and glorious fun for boys and girls from 10 to 60.

that the Republican party will regain strength and prestige so that it can furnish effective opposition to the Democratic party now in power. Our democratic form of government depends much on the preservation of the two party political system. Soviet Russia, Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy each have only one political party. It will be recalled.

Tunnels Aid Traffic

ALTHOUGH many cities have spread out for miles around because of modern transportation facilities, in many instances the solution to the problem of traffic congestion has been through the utilization of more underground space for parking and transit routes. Apparently the motor car, instead of ending the necessity of tunnels, has increased a demand for a system that started more than 4000 years ago.

Many years ago New York City thought it had perfected underground passages to provide transportation facilities for the present century. No sooner than one system was completed, extensions became necessary. Today much of the city's underground is honeycombed with subways and tunnels, four transit systems operating more than 136 miles of underground lines.

Chicago stands unique among the cities for a system of underground freight passes. With no less than 150 locomotives hauling freight on subterranean tracks, and completely separated from other traffic, an immense congestion is avoided and business accelerated. Chicago's underground passageways are so numerous and so large that it is not an uncommon thing when a building is being demolished to cut a temporary chute through to some freight tunnel, and the entire structure taken away through underground transportation lines.

Among the early tunnel builders were the Egyptians. It is recorded that a Theban king upon ascending the throne started the construction of a tunnel that became his tomb. Excavators have found that the tomb of Minepтах was carried for 350 feet into a hillside and then an additional or inner tunnel extended 300 feet in another direction and enlarged to form a chamber for the king's tomb. The temples of Ramees II were hewn out of rock and penetrated more than 150 feet, divided into sections and connected by underground passages. The Hadrian Aqueduct, built by the Romans in the early part of the second century, A. D., was discovered in 1840. In 1925 this old tunnel was reconstructed and today is serving as a source of water supply for the city of Athens.

Roman catacombs stand out as a marked chapter in the world's history of underground tunneling. Originally started about the close of the first century, A. D., as private burying places for the wealthy but later becoming church property, these tunnels extended under many parts of the city of Rome. Lined with innumerable niches, they are believed to contain 6,000,000 to 7,000,000 dead.

Coming to a much later period in tunnel-building, the Languedoc Canal in France, cut through limestone in 1779-1781, and being 510 feet in length, 22 feet wide, and 29 feet high, is thought to be the first canal tunnel. In the building of this project, explosives were used for the first time in history for the purpose of underground excavation.

The first canal tunnel-building in America was started in 1818 and completed in 1821, this being the Auburn Tunnel on Schuykill Navigation Canal at Oriskanyburg Landing near Auburn, in Schuykill County, Pennsylvania. Tunnel-building in America for water and transportation purposes had a gradual increase from 1825 to 1865, and was given a new impetus in that year, Chicago starting its original brick-lined water tunnel, which was completed in 1867. Cleveland, Ohio, started its first underground water passage in 1869. Milwaukee, Wisconsin, followed a few years later by constructing a 3200-foot water tunnel beneath the surface of Lake Michigan.

The world's subway era started on January 10, 1863, with the opening of the first section of London's original underground railway for city traffic. In America, Boston started in 1895, and completed in September, 1898, this country's first subway, for New York's original — although more extensive — subway was not opened until the autumn of 1904. New Orleans saw in the Boston plan an idea, not for transportation, but for flood water, and sewage, and constructed a series of underground passages for that purpose.

The motor car has not only helped cities to spread out and to extend their boundaries, but it has also made it necessary for some of them to dig in. Many eminent engineers foresaw even more complicated traffic problems, the solution of which, they point out, is either tunneling under or building overhead passageways. The latter not being economic or esthetic, every indication seems to point to a century of tunnel-building between 1950 and 2050.

A JOB WELL DONE (Michigan Manufacturer)
Gubernatorial approval from six chief executives of the state, representing both major political parties, for the head of a state department patently can express but a single thought—that the executive so honored has filled the position with merit and satisfaction. This was the record achieved by Oscar G. Olander, head of the State Department of Public Safety, when Governor Murphy praised his work and announced that the Commissioner has his "complete confidence."

Commissioner Olander thus was assured that his administration had escaped the patronage axe under five successive governors and was safe under the sixth. As four of these executives have been Republican and two Democratic, it is readily apparent that the Republican party will regain strength and prestige so that it can furnish effective opposition to the Democratic party now in power.

World Affairs Reviewed

Destruction of Japanese industrial plants at Tsingtao and the closing in of Japanese armed forces upon the city gives a new geographic aspect to the Sino-Japanese conflict, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

In recent weeks war news of the East has been confined largely to operations at Shanghai and Nanking and points south, says the bulletin. Tsingtao, however, is more than 400 miles up the Yellow Sea coast from Shanghai and approximately an equal distance, as the crow flies, north-east of the embattled Chinese capital.

—PORT OF OLD GERMAN LEASE—
The recent disturbances in Tsingtao have brought the city's name into headlines for the second time in the past five months. In August, prior to Japan's big "push" west and south in China, Tsingtao was sought by Nipponese troops as a landing place, but Chinese officials refused them admission.

Tsingtao has changed hands among landlords of several nationalities in the last generation and a half. When the World War broke out, Germany had a 99-year lease on the city and its environs—a parcel of land aggregating about 195 square miles. During the War, the Japanese occupied the area, but it was returned to China in 1922.

The leased territory included Kiaochow Bay which forms one of the finest natural harbors on the Chinese coast. It is 19 miles long and 15 miles wide and its outlet to the Yellow Sea is only four miles wide, thus assuring protection to shipping.

—JAPANESE HAVE DEVELOPED INDUSTRY—

As the eastern terminus of the Shantung railway, Tsingtao has rail connection with Tientsin, Peiping, Nanking and Shanghai. It is a port of shipment for a vast region of the interior where tobacco, beef and coal are the chief products. It long has been one of the world's leading export points for peanuts. Much of the industrial development of the city was due to Japanese ingenuity. Japanese cotton mills, for instance, employed more than 2,000 Chinese workers.

Tsingtao's kaleidoscopic career began before the Christian Era as a rambling fishing village. Like most Chinese cities, as it grew and prospered, it became a target for political enemies and plunderers, and its city fathers surrounded it with a wall.

When Tsingtao was leased by Germany, it was typically Chinese. Flimsy streets dominated narrow winding streets that reeked with odors, strange to occidental travelers. Eight years after Germany took possession the port was opened to free trade. Meanwhile thousands of Germans moved in. Old buildings fell before a brisk march of progress such as the city had never known. Streets were widened, trees were planted and new business buildings and residences were erected. Water and sewage systems also were constructed; and looking toward greater trade possibilities, new granite piers, equipped with the latest cargo-handling devices, were thrust into a newly dredged harbor.

In 1916 the Germans had made Tsingtao a commercial Titan of the East. Beaches were developed and hotels constructed, and the city also became a vacation rendezvous for many residents of foreign colonies in China.

The World War changed all this. In 1914 the Japanese demanded that the city be surrendered. Before the Germans moved out, they demolished many of the improvements made during their occupation. The Japanese cleaned up and partially rebuilt Tsingtao by 1922 when, as a result of the Washington Peace Conference of 1921, they returned the city to China.

parent that the Commissioner's job has been retained on the basis of merit rather than political favor.

Commissioner Olander has done a splendid job in developing the state police organization in Michigan into one of the finest such forces in the nation. Its activities have been expanded greatly in recent years; it has a long record of successful apprehensions of criminals and thwarting of holdups and other crimes; along with material improvement in the reduction of the loss of life on state highways.

Governor Murphy's action, in retaining Commissioner Olander, regardless of his party affiliation and upon the basis of his outstanding record in office, will meet with the favor of every Michigan citizen who has become acquainted with the splendid work being done by the Department of Public Safety in the state.

THE BRITISH VIEW (London Times)

The situation both here and in the United States certainly does not contain the factors which precipitated and intensified the depression of 1929-32. There are no such pyramids of speculative credit, no such mortgaging of incomes, no such inflated security values, no such weak government in office in this country, no such absence of machinery for correcting unjustifiable fluctuations whether in currency or in commodity values. There is also, as the prime minister pointed out recently, at least one piece of "definitely positive action" already under way in the shape of the negotiations for a new Anglo-American trade treaty, and in this country there is the steady factor of the government's rearmament program. There is therefore no fundamental reason for any loss of economic confidence, for the steadying of economic conditions is still well within the control of countries which have announced their devotion to real economic co-operation. Finally, the political basis of confidence is certainly firmer than it has been for some time past.

Q. Does lightning create an air vacuum, with thunder the sound of the air rushing back into it? W. V. E.
A. Lightning does not produce a vacuum in the atmosphere, although there is some rarefaction of the air along the path of the discharge because of the intense heating. The sound known as thunder, which accompanies a flash of lightning, is caused by the violent explosion of the air along the path of the discharge. The explosion results from intense heating and the disintegration of molecules to atoms and atoms to electrons and ions. The rolling of thunder is owing chiefly to the crookedness of the lightning path and to the inequality of the distance of its various portions from the observer.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—A revival of a play by Hendrik Ibsen usually isn't astounding news to Broadway. Because while Papa Ibsen may be first-rate theater, he is an insurance risk at the box office.

There were several reasons, then, for the keen anticipation of the Rialto when Jed Harris exhumed "A Doll's House" not many nights ago. First, isn't Jed Harris still the "Wonder Boy" of Broadway? Secondly, when has an Ibsen revival claimed so stellar a cast as to include Ruth Gordon, Dennis King, Paul Lukas (of pictures) and Sam Jaffe?

It has been a decade since the after-dinner gave ubiquitous Jed the flattering title of "Wonder Boy." He had been fairly unknown when he flashed the sensational "Broadway" on the stage. But his name soon was to become the best known and most powerful on this side of the footlights. Following "Broadway," he gave playgoers "Coquette," that drama which involved Helen Hayes in "an act of god," over every front page of the country. Then he produced "The Royal Family," that colorful comedy-saga about the Barrymores and followed it with the memorable "Spread Eagle." After which, he climaxed a meteoric rise with Ben Hecht and Charles McArthur's unforgettable "The Front Page."

And then—
To awe-struck theaterfolk, Jed Harris had become the symbol of success. They said that his various enterprises yielded millions by the year and actors and playwrights by the hundreds hovered near his door for a moment's audience. It didn't seem possible that the invincible Harris could be implicated in a failure.

The Harris star, however, seemed to pause somewhere in its ascendancy and reverse its flight. Flushed with success, "The Wonder Boy" indulged in an orgy of Russian dramas, all brooding and moody. Artistically, they were all right. Commercially, they did not ring the bell on the cash register.

Then, as a famous line put it, he "combed the Cossacks out of his curls" and engaged in an assortment of satiric comedies, mystery plays, social dramas and cream-puff charades. They failed, too, and with each passing fiasco, the Harris star dipped down the firmament. He was still the "Wonder Boy" but the tense was in the past and showmen shook their heads cynically about his future.

The Capital Parade

BY ALBINO AND KINTNER
Washington—If it had not been for a New Deal feeling of having large hands, damp palms and a red face in the presence of voters, the recent angry Jackson and Ickes speeches and the promised presidential message on business wickedness would have been delayed for several months.

Embarrassment may seem an odd reason for starting a crusade, yet it was embarrassment, pure and simple, which caused the administration to start its anti-monopoly crusade at this time—the exquisite embarrassment of a new depression on the heels of the President's famous boast that "we planned it that way." The same embarrassment has also driven the President's conservative advisers from the inner chambers, and put the Left-Wingers definitely on top in White House palace politics.

Since early this fall, the President has been talking anti-monopoly. An excellent test of his state of mind is always the sort of statistics he is quoting and the sort of story he tells.

Since October, he has been asking visitors what they thought of a state of affairs in which the 2,000 stockholders of 200 major American corporations receive an annual income as large as the income which supports the poorest Americans and their families to the number of 16,000,000.

He has been full of anecdotes of bad business men and good business men in which the point has usually been that the bad business man could control the good. He has constantly mentioned monopoly and the concentration of economic power as the political issues of the future.

THE ABORTED STRATEGY

But the President was not ready to start his anti-monopoly crusade in October. The crusade was ready—it was seen here yesterday how it had been prepared for by Assistant Attorney-General Robert H. Jackson and others in the New Deal's back rooms. But the crusade did not fit into his first strategy of approach to the depression.

After the final violent Stock Market break in October, the President gathered his intimate counselors and trusted economists for a series of worried meetings at the White House. At these meetings it was decided to tackle the depression problem by conciliating business, revising taxes, promising a balanced budget, stimulating housing construction by private enterprise and in similar conservative ways.

There was a brief moment thereafter when government and business seemed to have started a second honeymoon, with business playing the part of a rather shy and shrinking bride. Business men did well to be a trifle nervous, as a matter of fact. It was the White House intention to give conciliation just so long to produce an upturn, and then to say, "we've let business have its chance. Now it's up to us to try what we can do in our own way." By this strategy, the administration would have waited until early spring at least, before bringing any business-frightening white rabbits out of its hat. Now the strategy has been aborted.

A LITTLE FISHING

The reasons for its abandonment are simple. From the start, there was a conflict between the Right and Left Wing White House advisers over the "conservatism of the strategy. From the start, such Right-Wingers as Joseph P. Kennedy had constant nervous moments.

As the depression deepened, the Left-Wingers urged more and more strongly the wisdom of real and immediate action. The completely prepared anti-monopoly crusade was most often mentioned, particularly since the depression was being blamed on monopolistic price increases.

At the beginning of December, the President went on his fishing trip and took Assistant Attorney-General Jackson along with him. Mr. Jackson had all the material he had collected for the anti-monopoly crusade in his brief case, and he did his best to get the President to promise to use it at once. The Jackson pleadings were seconded by another of the fishermen, Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, who was itching to have a part in a big political push.

Nevertheless, the President returned from his fishing trip still determined to stick to his first strategy. The end of February or the beginning of March were the earliest dates mentioned for decisive New Deal action, until, in the days following the President's return, business men began "crowding" the President.

PRISON CAMP SITE BOUGHT

300-Acre Tract Located Near Marquette Is Acquired

Marquette, Mich.—A 300-acre tract of land, one and one-half miles south of the Marquette prison, has been purchased by the state board of corrections as the site for a rehabilitation camp to replace the Hardwood camp in Dickinson county, abandoned a short time ago.

Warden Marvin L. Coon said yesterday that all men and state equipment had been moved from the Hardwood camp to Marquette. At present five of the Hardwood inmates are quartered on the site of the Genz farm, near the site of the new camp, where they are clearing land and brushing out a trail for a city power line. More men will be added to the project later, Warden Coon said, expressing the belief that buildings would be erected in the spring.

Others from the Hardwood camp, most of them young first offenders, are being quartered in the outside dormitory at the prison, separated from long-term inmates.

Making Cement Bricks

In a portion of the sawmill a crew of six men is turning out 800 cement bricks a day for use in the construction of an industrial and office building. About 5,000 bricks have been made, 35,000 being needed for the building.

When the supply of bricks is adequate, the crew will make hollow blocks which will be used in construction of the walls. The blocks will be faced with the bricks, making a wall 12 inches thick. The main floor of the building will house the new classifications committee and other offices, and the proposed tobacco factory will occupy the top floor.

The shoe factory at the prison, employing about 50 men, is its most important industry. Under the direction of Frank Lavoie, the plant last year produced 11,256 pairs of shoes for use by inmates of state prisons and asylums.

When the plan was started in 1935, it was equipped to produce work shoes only, but it has been developed and expanded so that dress oxfords, work oxfords and Romeo slippers now are being manufactured. Further expansion of the plant is contemplated. Last year production was as follows: work shoes, 5,522 pairs; dress oxfords, 4,272 pairs; work oxfords, 1,200 pairs; and Romeo slippers, 192 pairs.

Smith, Escanaba, who was elected lieutenant governor for the Northern division which includes the Escanaba, Ironwood, Iron Mountain and Marquette clubs, will not be able to take part in the installation ceremonies because of illness.

Members of the Escanaba club planning to go to the Milwaukee meeting are Wm. J. Duchaine and Clarence Zerbel.

Recreational Program Makes Advances in 1937

With the appointment of a full-time recreational director, Beaver Butte, by the city, progress in recreational activities in the city of Escanaba was speeded up considerably during the year which just closed.

The appointment of the full-time director, who was chosen only after a careful check as to qualifications by the National Recreational Association, was made through a budget appropriation by the council.

The WPA recreation department has furnished leadership for activities and events sponsored by the city recreation department. Under the direction of the combined departments, the following activities were conducted:

City tennis tournament, senior champion, Chester Olson; doubles champions, Chester Olson and Harry Henkin.

City horseshoe tournament, men's champion, Joe Gardner; junior champion, Russell Rabbittale.

Bicycle carnival which had approximately one hundred who participated and many more who paraded.

Children's circus with hundreds participating and thousands lining the banks of Ludington park to see it.

The Halloween parade which was participated in by hundreds of boys and girls and witnessed by thousands.

Touch football league won by the Cardinals, team members being Joe Kroll, Bill Shea, John Gorenchian.

Ice Rinks Open

Three ice skating rinks and two hockey rinks are now open. Hockey will be started after the first of the year with Clifford Anderson, WPA recreational leader, in charge.

WPA recreational leaders now conducting activities in the city are Mrs. Bernice Anderson, Pearl Brant, Wilfred Dupont, Clifford Anderson, Fritz Fredrickson, Leo Moreau, Claude Fisher, Bud Woland and A. Fehe. Mrs. Zania Rivers is WPA supervisor.

NYA workers who were assisting as the year ended are Elmer Pelletier, Lester Cody and Abe Stein.

If there is a group which is interested in some activity not in the program, the department is always willing to cooperate in securing a leader, assisting in organization, or finding a meeting place.

The recreational program from January 1 to August 1 was under the supervision of the WPA recreational staff in charge of Mrs. Zania Rivers. Under their supervision the Webster annex, First avenue recreation center and two school gyms were open to the public. Fourteen volleyball teams participated in the basketball league and nine basketball teams. During the summer months, playground activities were conducted in North Escanaba, Ludington Park, and at the First avenue recreation centers. The WPA recreational leaders also had charge of the junior and senior softball leagues. All activities were conducted with the cooperation of the city council, school board, and the service and social clubs of the city.

CAST OF CHARACTERS—
CONSTANCE CORBY—heroine; richest girl in the world.
BRET HARDESTY—hero; bridge builder.
RODNEY BRANDON—Connie's fiancé.
KATIE BLYN—Connie's "double."

CHAPTER III

"You're not going to keep putting me off now, I hope," Rodney bent toward her, smiling. He was seldom affable, seldom angry. He was too poised; one might have said, too perfect. Just as he was almost too handsome in his impeccable dinner jacket. Connie shrugged her lovely shoulders. Sometimes she wished Rodney would get angry. It would make life more exciting. What fun was it to quarrel, if the other person never would fight back? She said, "I'll marry you next year, or tomorrow. What difference will it make? Things will just go on the same, anyway."

Rodney laughed. "That's not too flattering to my male vanity. But as I've told you, I'll take you on any terms, my dear. I'm such a lucky beggar to get you." He took her hand in his. "Would you really marry me tomorrow, darling?"

"Why not?" Connie asked. He said, "I wish I could believe you."

"You could, perhaps, if you'd make me believe myself. . . . What's that!" She threw back her head, listening. There had been a sound in the vines on the wall, or from the trees overhead, that must have been more than the wind sighing.

Rodney said he had not heard anything. He said, "You see. Already you're trying to elude the issue at hand. Tomorrow it will be the same. It's taken me all my life even to make you announce our engagement. I wish I could make you . . ."

"I know I heard something," Connie interrupted. "Perhaps we should go back." She got to her feet. He jumped to his. He put his arms around her.

"Don't go—not quite yet," he pleaded. She did not resist him. Yet there was no response in her arms or on her lips.

Suddenly there was a loud report; a flash of blinding light. A voice said, "Hold it!" A man had slipped up the stairs toward them. "How did you get in here?" Connie asked sharply. She pushed Rodney away; her blue eyes smoldered.

that she never wanted to see him again. When Gibbs brought Miss Connie's breakfast that next morning, there was no response. When she returned with it again an hour later, there was still no response. Gibbs' face took on its pinched expression. She knew that this signified a thunderstorm ahead. Whether to risk it now, or postpone it, was the question. "Already the day's schedule overlapped. The masseur would have to be fitted into the same half hour as the manicurist; then there was that girl coming from Lucille's with the new frocks to be tried and fitted. Gibbs set her thin lips; knocked once more on the door, pushing it open at the same time with a decisive jut from her knee, crossed the room like a soldier about to face a firing squad.

"It's very late, Miss Connie," she said firmly. "It's a lovely breakfast I've brought." She set the tray on the little table by the mammoth bed. Its occupant was a tiny mound buried among the heaps of cushions and the silk and satin coverlet. A mound that did not stir.

Gibbs crossed the room once more with the same purposeful footsteps. She pulled the heavy gold brocade draperies, letting the warm bright sunlight stream in. "It's a lovely day," she stated, as though expecting an immediate denial of such an obvious fact. "A busy day, too, Miss Connie, if you'll please to remember."

Still the mound did not stir, though there was a faint quiver of the long curling dark lashes on the smooth fair cheeks. "Mr. Brandon already has called three times," Gibbs ventured and knew immediately that this was the wrong approach because the mound flopped over and buried itself even deeper. "There's a lovely account about your lovely party last night." Undaunted, Gibbs tried again, proving to old acquaintance that it pays.

Connie stirred, sat up, flung out a rounded white arm. "Let me see," she said. Sleep had vanished from the blue eyes; fire smoldered in their depths. Her hair hung in a loose swirl that just brushed the ribbon and lace on her shoulder of the chiffon gown that had come, with trunk-loads of other lingerie, from the Rue de la Paix.

Gibbs handed her the papers carefully folded at the proper place. Connie glanced at the first one flung it aside. "I knew it," she muttered.

"The low-down spying sneak. If only I'd been a man . . . Or had one with me." She gave the pillow next to her a vicious thump. "I'll have to send for the guards if you don't go," she mimicked in what was surprising imitation of Rodney's clean-clipped Harvard accent. Then she slumped down among the pillows again. "Take it away, please," she waved Gibbs and the papers, and the whole upturned out of her sight. "Don't want any breakfast. Don't think I'll get up—ever. You can tell the newspapers that. Tell them to come take a picture of me dying—dying of boredom and nausea. Tell them they can have one in my coffin, too, for good measure. Tell them . . ."

"Now, Miss Connie, you'll really be ill, if you allow yourself to get all worked up." Gibbs bent to pick up the scattered papers, smoothing out a crumpled sheet that explained—too late—the explosion. A full length portrait of Miss Connie, clasped, somewhat gingerly, it is true, but clasped, nevertheless, in Mr. Rodney's virtuous arms, his lips pressed—not quite so gingerly—against hers, and underneath the caption: "MILLION DOLLAR PRINCESS BESTOWS BETHROTHAL KISS."

"I am ill," Connie muttered from the pillows. "I'm sick. I'm sick of living. I'm sick of myself. Go away—please. Take the tray and those papers with you. I don't want to see anything or any one ever. Understand, Gibbs?"

interest, lighted in her blue eyes. The girl nodded solemnly. Her eyes, blue like Connie's, were wide with wonder, as though they could not credit all they saw. "Why don't you, then?" This time Connie's tone was touched with impatience. She reached for a negligee at the foot of the bed. She slung her feet to the floor, wiggled into blue silk mules, the heels of which were studded with rhinestones, walked over to her chaise longue and sat down. "You took my breath," the girl said. "And I was told not to say anything. Just leave the box."

"I won't bite," Connie said. I suppose you're the girl from Lucille's. Well, you can take those things back, I don't want any of them."

The girl just stared at her, not saying a word. "Did you hear me?" Connie asked. The girl nodded. "I said I didn't want to see anyone, or anything, ever again," Connie said. "And I meant it."

"Why?" Connie was so surprised that the girl could ask a question that he answered before she thought. "Because I'm sick of everyone and everything. I'm sick of living."

The incredulity on the girl's face deepened. "You!" she exploded. "When you have everything in the world you want!" It was Connie who nodded this time. "Exactly," she said. "That's what my grandfather told me years ago. That's why I haven't anything."

"But you're the richest girl in the world!" the girl said. And then, "Oh, I'd give anything to be you! Just for a little while."

Now Connie stared at her speechless. "Anything!" the girl went on, peaking rapidly, heatedly, as though now that her reserve had been broken down she could not stop the flow of words. "To have all this, nothing but beauty around you—to sleep in a bed like that—to lie as long as you want . . . But I'm sorry," she stopped, her face coloring. "I didn't think what I was saying. I didn't mean to say it."

Connie said, "There was a new light in her blue eyes; a flame much deeper than any flickering candle, a flame that grew brighter, more intense. She beckoned the girl to her side, regarded her for a moment, the cheap little hat yet had an air of chic, the neat plain suit, worn, but well-pressed, the shiny hose, with a runner neatly darned, the brown roguish, scuffed a bit, but bravely lined. An air of pride and defiance about the whole ensemble, catching the light of the trembling chin and pretty head. Connie nodded as though satisfied, as she said:

"Then how would you like to be me—for a little while?" (To Be Continued)

As a good start A. L. Byers donated wood for the hall, Alfred Repp and Thomas Lewis cut it and E. F. Aldrich hauled it. Mrs. Mona Aldrich, Alfred Repp and Mrs. A. L. Byers have been appointed as an Executive committee and now it is mostly up to the ladies to get busy and make the Grange hum.

Leon Laporte has gone to the hospital at Ann Arbor for consultation as he has been quite ill for some time. Simon Keplar, Mrs. Gilbert Hyland and Mrs. Russell Ruggles were Manistique callers today. Several of the neighborhood ladies have organized a Thursday afternoon luncheon club. Of course everyone knows that Thursday is the maid's day off but this time it is the wife's day off and the ladies are leaving their husbands to sink or swim while they taste other cooking save their own. This week the ladies will meet at the home of Mrs. Russell Ruggles.

Although the snow is getting terribly deep in the woods in the part of the county both Mr. Harry and Russell Lafleur are still working at the job of getting out timber. Mrs. Edward Lewis who has been on the sick list for some time is improving. The children of the Aldrich school are to be congratulated on the splendid work they did under the guidance of Miss Margaret Needham in making presents for both their parents at Christmas time. The artistry of some of the younger ones is truly fine. An exhibition will be held later on in the year. Hiawatha Grange held its first meeting of the year last evening and has voted to change the date of their meetings from the first and third Mondays of each month to the second and fourth Friday, beginning with January 14.

Elementary Capitalist Economics

In commenting upon the President's message to Congress, this column is embarrassed by the dilemma caused by desire to be reassured by the good temper of the address, and disappointment that from our point of view—it evaded the only question worth discussing at this moment in the message to Congress, namely the industrial depression.

Why do corporations borrow on short-term preference if they can raise capital on reasonable terms? There is only one deduction to be drawn, and that is that business leaders were unwilling to invest more money in plant and that investors were unwilling to supply it even when interest rates were fantastically low.

In other words, something has happened drastically to check what is now the essential of recovery and what was already producing recovery although at too slow a pace. And that is investment in durable goods.

And the President's comment on all this is to suggest that business act unselfishly and invest regardless, in the interest of the common good. But the words mean nothing, because business does not act unselfishly. It is not the Rockefeller Foundation! It operates for profit, and without the hope of profit it will not operate. That is the realistic law of its nature.

We are presuming, on the basis of the President's speech, that we intend to continue to live under the capitalist system, however it may be humanized. That means that we are to continue under a system in which industry, agriculture and commerce operate under private enterprise for profit.

Therefore the paramount question in the United States is whether the analysis by the President and his advisers of the existing situation is or is not correct, inside the framework of the system under which we live.

The premise reiterated by the President is that this particular depression is due to under-purchasing power in the form of too low wages to industrial workers and too low returns to agriculture on the basis of the existing profits of the total economy.

Actually, the facts are these. Between the calling of the Special Session on October 11th and today the index production has declined about 25 per cent, according to the figures of the Federal Reserve Board, and unemployment, in man-hours, has risen about two millions.

The biggest spurt in employment and in the national income took the place after the first quarter of 1935, when there was a revival in the durable goods industries. Unemployment in the first quarter averaged 11 1/2 million, according to the figures of the National Industrial Conference Board.

employment was still around the figures of mid-1932, and all the inflationary activities of the government had only brought it down from 14 to 12 millions. It hovered around these figures throughout 1934, and the first essential change for the better took place under the impetus of revival in durable goods.

According to Alexander Sachs, who is one of our leading liberal economists, and who presented a brilliant analysis of the situation to the American Management Association on December 14, 1937, it was not until 1935 that additions to plant in a single year exceeded the amount charged to depreciation, and in 1936 the excess was negligible, less than 4 per cent.

Taking the four years 1933 to 1936 together, depreciation charges of 26 large industrial concerns totalled $690,800,000, while gross additions to plant were only $570,000,000, a deficiency of almost 120 million, and this simply means that invested capital was diminished in a period when general business activity was increasing—a wholly abnormal phenomenon.

There was a positive liquidation of capital at a time of increasing business. There was an impairment of working capital, cash was diminished by 5 million dollars and net short-term borrowings increased no less than 350 million.

Why do corporations borrow on short-term preference if they can raise capital on reasonable terms? There is only one deduction to be drawn, and that is that business leaders were unwilling to invest more money in plant and that investors were unwilling to supply it even when interest rates were fantastically low.

City Gets $24,091 From Federal Gov't

A check for $24,091 payable to the City of Manistique was received by City Treasurer L. B. Chittenden from the treasurer of the United States yesterday, as part payment on the government's PWA grant to the city. The check for $24,091 represents the money for the first two grant payment applications made by the city some time ago. It also represents one quarter of the estimated cost of the entire project, and more than half of the government's total grant of about $45,000. U. S. Grant was regarded as a professional failure before the Civil war.

PRINE SETTLES NLRB DISPUTE

Cournaya Reinstated as Employe of Brown Lumber Co.

Charges which the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Local Union No. 2761, filed with the National Labor Relations Board against the Brown Dimension company for discharging Victor Cournaya on August 12, 1936, allegedly for union activities, were withdrawn by the union Thursday afternoon after company officials agreed to terms of settlement laid down by the NLRB. The settlement was claimed by the union and Morris L. Forer, attorney for the NLRB, as a complete victory for the union and Cournaya. Under the terms of the agreement, the company accepted the following conditions: 1. Offer Victor Cournaya immediate full reinstatement to the position from which the union claimed he was discharged because of union activities, without prejudice to seniority and other rights and privileges. 2. Agree to make whole to Cournaya any financial loss suffered because of his discharge. 3. To post notice for 30 days at the plant guaranteeing the rights of workers to organize and form any union they choose, also mentioning the reinstatement of Cournaya. Given One Dollar As Cournaya has received salaries in other employment exceeding the amount of money he would have earned at the Brown Dimension company from the period of August 12, 1936 to January 6, 1937, the company did not owe Cournaya anything as reimbursement for financial loss. However, he was given one dollar from the company to "legalize the transaction." Morris L. Forer, attorney for the National Labor Relations Board, arrived in Manistique Thursday morning. He was to represent the NLRB in a hearing on the union's charges against the company scheduled to begin here January 13. At a conference in which Cournaya and Dave Cooper

Going off the beaten path, producers have uncovered a vicious and unsavory racket, and, in the new picture, "Paid to Dance," which opened yesterday at the Rialto Theatre, subjects it to the pitiless glare of a dramatic exposure. It is a stirring and grimly entertaining film that tells the whys and wherefores of the dance hall hostess racket which preys on innocent girls.

Sour cream is used by many housewives in preference to sweet. They think it adds a mellow flavor.

LEADERS SLIP ON STOCK LIST

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES Table with columns for Date, Net Change, and various stock indices.

By FREDERICK GARDNER (Associated Press Financial Writer) New York, Jan. 7 (AP)—Stocks generally struggled ineffectually to extend their rally in today's market and leaders slipped fractions to a point or more in relatively light dealings.

Traders early showed a disposition to cash in profits accruing in yesterday's sharp run-up and steel, aircraft and motors were down from the start.

At the same time selected copper and lead issues received support when the domestic price of the former was lifted 1/4 of a cent a pound and the latter was raised 3/2 a ton.

Bonds, on the whole, did better. Commodities were quiet. Wheat at Chicago was unchanged to up 1/4 of a cent a bushel and corn gained 1/2 to 7-8. Cotton was up 5 to down 15 cents a bale.

Among losing shares were U. S. Steel at 57 1/2, Bethlehem 61 7-8, Chrysler 51 5-8, General Motors 33 1/2, Douglas Aircraft 40 1/2, Boeing 32 1/2, Westinghouse 103 3/4, Du Pont 11 1/2 and Santa Fe 37.

Moderately higher were Inspiration Copper at 13 3/4, Cerro De Pasco 42 1/2, St. Joseph Lead 35 1/2, National Lead 28 3/4, Phelps Dodge 29 1/2, Brooklyn Union Gas 21, Southern Pacific 19 7-8 and Union Pacific 86.

Theatres

AT THE DELFT "Missing Witnesses," those honest but timid citizens who are frightened away from the law courts or otherwise disposed of by racketeers against whom they might testify, form the subject of the Warner Bros. melodrama which had its local premiere yesterday at the Delft theatre.

It is one of those "plucked-from-the-headlines" stories at which the Warners are so adept, and it seemed to be highly satisfactory to the audiences that watched its unroll. "Missing Witnesses" shows, in the first place, a city honeycombed with racketeers, which are headed by a certain Ward Sturgis, played by Harland Tucker.

As if they didn't have trouble enough already, Dad Jones adopts the toughest kid in town and Bonnie becomes a bride in the fastest, funniest Jones Family picture, "Borrowing Trouble." The latest in Twentieth Century-Fox's popular series is receiving the acclaim of delighted fans at the Delft theatre, where it opened yesterday.

When Dad becomes the leading figure in the "Big Brother" movement it spells trouble for Bonnie's wedding. The planned quiet garden ceremony becomes a mile-minute procession with cops and robbers for ushers and a hail of gangster bullets for a shower of rice.

AT THE MICHIGAN Mutiny on the high seas! Romance. The daughter of a dying sea captain married by her father to a stowaway who alone can save the ship and prevent a threatened May and December alliance.

Suspense—as a whale smashes a small boat during a hurricane in the Southern Seas! Pearls and a crew gone treasure crazy! A great Ben Ames Williams novel! These are a few of the elements Universal put into the classic sea story, "Adventure's End" which is showing at the Michigan, with John Wayne and Diana Gibson in the leading roles.

Filled with surprises, from the start of the picture in which a native pearl diver is saved from the tentacles of a giant octopus by Wayne, until the heroine finally finds out who is the "better man."

BOND MARKET AVERAGES

Table of Bond Market Averages showing various bond indices and their movements.

NEW YORK, JAN. 7 (AP)—

Ignoring a few new cracks in the secondary rail group, the bond market moved to generally higher ground today. Bonds of Erie Railroad suffered fresh declines on reported differences between the Reconstruction Finance Corp. and Chesapeake & Ohio, the controlling property, on conditions affecting Erie's application for an R. F. C. loan.

Corporate issues pushed up fractions to around 2 points. In the upswing were American Waterworks 6s at 95 1/2; M-K T 5s at 45 1/2; New York Central 5s at 70; Western Union 5s at 65 1/2; and Remington Rand 4 1/2s at 92 1/2.

LITTLE GIANTS BEAT ST. PAUL

Buckmaster's Cagers Win Thriller in Final Frame, 33-30

Rock, Mich., Jan. 7.—In one of the most exciting games seen on the local floor in several years, Coach Clifford Buckmaster's Little Giants cagers turned in a spectacular 33-30 victory over the strong St. Paul quintet of Negaunee before a good crowd.

The game was fast all the way with plenty of action to keep things moving. The locals, paced by Trombly, C. Carlson and J. Peltonen, took a nine to six lead at the quarter and held an 18-14 advantage at half time. The Negaunee Parochials, however, put on a stirring third quarter sprint which enabled them to take a one point lead as the third period ended.

The last frame was a nip and tuck affair throughout with both teams battling to win. The Little Giants finally pushed forward and were out in front by three points as the game ended. Trombly, stellar Rock guard, scored 13 points to lead his mates while Jacobetti, Russo and Baldini each scored three field goals for the Negaunee crew.

The State of California has been asked by the Redwood Empire 1938 Exposition Commission to aid in the financing of county exhibits at San Francisco's 1938 Exposition.

Challenger No. 1

Former bell-hop Fred Apostoli of San Francisco earned the right to be designated challenger No. 1 for Freddie Steele's middleweight fight crown last night by stopping the champ in the ninth round of their 12-round non-title contest.

SPILLING the DOPE

Escanaba today is host to some of the best speed skaters in the states of Michigan and Wisconsin . . . the staging of the Upper Peninsula amateur skating championships at the Ludington park rink will mean much toward publicizing Escanaba as the winter sports capital of the Upper Peninsula . . . in view of the fact that the championships are still in their infancy, there may be some errors of omission and commission in the staging of the meet but we feel certain that the meet will be a successful one.

With the 11-0 lead, the Harris boys never had any trouble, holding several points advantage throughout the game. Linfors was a thorn in their side, however, but Chatham guard making 13 of his team's 23 points. He topped Beauchamp of Harris, who scored 11 points, for high scoring honors.

Boxing Commission Changed By Murphy

Lansing, Jan. 7 (AP)—Governor Murphy reorganized the state boxing commission today.

The governor appointed Albert F. Rut, of Lawrence, to succeed Dr. F. N. Bonine; Jack C. Miller, of Grand Rapids, to replace Joseph C. Grant, of Battle Creek; and J. J. Gallagher, Jackson, to succeed the late M. J. Caplan, of Detroit. He reappointed Ollie Richards, of Chesaning.

The State of California has been asked by the Redwood Empire 1938 Exposition Commission to aid in the financing of county exhibits at San Francisco's 1938 Exposition.

St. Joe Five Defeated By Baraga; Score 25-21

A determined last quarter drive was not enough to overcome a first half lead by their opponents and St. Joseph high school cagers were defeated by Baraga Parochials of Marquette by a score of 25-21 in a good game at the junior high school last night.

The Baragans, coached by Carroll Rushton, former Escanaba high school star, took a lead at the outset of the game and never, at any time, did they lose it. Tonella and Schmelzer sparked the visitors to a 5-2 lead a quarter time and stretched it to 14-7 at the half.

Marquette continued its drive in the third period, scoring six points but they were matched by the locals, largely through the efforts of Faber and Knauf.

The final frame opened with Baraga leading, 20-13, but things happened quickly. Knauf opened the scoring with a long shot that swished through the nets and Faber made good on Tonella's foul. Knauf came back with another beauty to bring the score to 20-18. Crowley countered with a field goal but Faber made it 22-19 with a free throw on Julick's foul. Schmelzer made Baraga's final scores with a field goal and a free throw and Loeffler closed the game with a spectacular long shot.

St. Joseph displayed an improved attack over their first game with Baraga, which they lost 41-23.

Steele was badly whipped and virtually out on his feet when Donovan called a halt 54 seconds after the start of the ninth. The champion's finish came as the climax of a dramatic and extraordinary series of developments in the seventh round.

Steele was bowled off his feet at the outset of this round by Apostoli's rush, then given the benefit of approximately a ten-second rest, after claiming foul from a terrific low hook to the groin.

No fouls are recognized under the New York state boxing regulations, but Donovan exercised his own judgement in calling a brief halt to the proceedings while Steele writhed in apparent pain.

Under the circumstances many ringsters thought that the rules called for Donovan to start a count, without regard to the effect of the low blow, but the referee gave the champion the benefit of the doubt instead, before the fight continued.

Both judges, Charley Lynch and Marty Monroe, agreed with Donovan's judgment, but the orthodox proceeding caused howls of protest from the crowd besides provoking arguments among the ringsters. It was described as an unprecedented occurrence by Brig. Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York state athletic commission. Donovan said he acted within his discretion in giving the obviously injured Steele a brief respite.

MICHIGAN PAYS HUGE TAX BILL

Income Levy in State Totals 150 Million Last Year

BY PAUL MAY
Washington, D. C.—Michigan's income tax bill of $150,902,947.30 for the last fiscal year represented 6.94 percent of the nation's payments on its earnings for the 12 month period. It appeared today from the annual report of the Internal Revenue Bureau, just released.

During the same time, the year ending June 30, last, all revenue collections in the state totalled $288,919,198.70, or 6.21 percent of all collections throughout the United States.

This more than six percent of the nation's total recorded for Michigan cannot be considered as an accurate picture of the burden the state bears of the country's tax load, the revenue bureau explained, because many of the taxes collected in the state may eventually be borne by persons in other states. The figures represent all collections within the state of Michigan during the year, including deposits by postmasters of amounts from sales of documentary stamps and deposits of liquor taxes.

The income tax figures include excess profits tax collections, as well as those on ordinary incomes. Collections from employers and employees in Michigan during the fiscal year under the social security and railroad retirement acts totalled $16,147,151.31, or 5.50 percent of all such taxes collected throughout the country, the bureau's annual report showed.

Largest tax collections recorded in the country were in New York, Illinois, and Pennsylvania, respectively, with the first paying 21.24 percent of all taxes collected in the U. S. Altogether, Uncle Sam realized a total of $4,653,195,315.28, in tax collections during the year.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 7 (AP)—Captured at pistol point by two state policemen, Lawrence McCarty, 37, of Anderson, Ind., was held today as a suspect in the "lonely road" murder of Melba Moore, 16-year-old Granger, Ind., girl.

Miss Moore was shot fatally late on the night of October 12 while she was motoring along a lonely road with her fiancée, Adolph Stöpper, 20, and Charles Walton, 17.

Stöpper and Walton told officers Miss Moore was slain when they stopped to aid a man they believed was a distressed motorist. The latter, they said, stepped from his car and fired six shots, one of which struck Miss Moore in the head. She died enroute to a hospital.

Amazed By KruGon's Thorough Action

Arms and Hips Badly Affected With Rheumatism, Stomach Caused Sure Distress After Eating; KruGon Was a Blessing to Him

"KruGon meant the difference between continued suffering, and good health for me," said Mr. Joseph Thibault, 309 S. 12th St., Escanaba, Michigan. "For twenty years I had been miserable with stomach troubles and rheumatism and in spite of all I tried I only grew worse. I could hardly eat a single meal without great distress afterwards of indigestion and would bloat until I could hardly stand it. My back ached continually too and rheumatism settled in my arms and hips causing such pain which at times, was almost unbearable. All I knew was suffering it seemed and it was so discouraging. But finally friends persuaded me to give this new KruGon a trial and I was soon on the road to good health.

"It is easy to understand now why so many people are praising KruGon," continued Mr. Thibault. "For the first time in twenty years I feel my health troubles are at an end. I can now eat and enjoy my meals without that awful distress afterwards. The rheumatic pains have been relieved, get around with ease, enjoy new strength and energy and feel fine. KruGon is one medicine that suffering people of today can depend upon."

KruGon is sold by West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., this city.

the facts in Washington."

FORD OFFICIAL DISAGREES
Detroit, Jan. 7 (AP)—Harry H. Bennett, personnel director of the Ford Motor Co., differed today with both Governor Frank Murphy and Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers, over estimates of the number employed at the Ford Rouge factory.

At Lansing, the governor said he was encouraged by the facts that the Ford company had agreed to re-employ 40,000 men on Jan. 17. Testifying before a senate sub-committee investigating unemployment, Martin estimated that only 50,000 of the peak employment of 90,000 were working at the River Rouge factory.

Characterizing the governor's remarks as "inaccurate," Bennett said that fewer than 25,000 Ford employees are unemployed and that "as soon as business conditions warrant these men will be returned to work."

"The departments are opening up," he said. "The company hopes to have all of the men back at work on Jan. 17 or soon thereafter. Business conditions will decide it."

Before Christmas, 35,000 Ford employees were laid off. Bennett said some of them have already been called back.

AMERICA OUT-OF-DOORS

The Toboggan and Its Uses

BY DILLON WALLACE
We are indebted to the American Indian for three implements necessary in wilderness travel—the canoe, the snowshoe or webbed raquet, and the toboggan. All of these were devised by him as the result of necessity. When deep snow fell, he could not have hunted the forests in winter without the aid of the snowshoe, and without the aid of the toboggan he could not have taken with him his shelter and other necessary equipment. The canoe made it possible for him to penetrate the farthest reaches of the wilderness in summer. All were necessary to his life and very existence.

Our early pioneers quickly recognized the utility of these implements in wilderness life, and adopted them. They played no small part in the subjugation of the North American wilderness, and the settlement and civilization of our country. With slight modifications and adaptations we are using them today, and increasingly, for sports or pleasure or for recreational purposes, a valued heritage from the American Indian.

Important to Indian
The Indian toboggan (to-bas-kan) was quite as necessary in the Indian's life as the snowshoe. The runners of an ordinary sled would sink deeply in the untrodden snows of the forest, and therefore would be of little use. Only a flat-bottomed vehicle that would ride upon the surface of the snow and support a load would serve. This need brought forth the toboggan. In the Indian's life it served wholly as an implement of utility.

The toboggan in use today by Indians and northern trappers has undergone no changes or modifications since the coming of the white man. It varies slightly in construction and size, depending upon the region in which it is used, or the character of service for which it is intended; but Indian toboggans, wherever found, are essentially the same. While the length naturally varies, that in common use is from 6 to 8 feet

Parental Blessing Telephoned Trudie And Young Husband

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 7 (AP)—Gertrude Bennett, 17-year-old daughter of Harry Bennett, Ford Motor company official, received by telephone from Detroit today a parental blessing for herself, and Russell Hughes, her 21-year-old, trap drummer husband.

The couple, who eloped Monday night at Auburn, Ind., where they were married by a justice of the peace, talked with the girls' father, and arrangements were made for them to spend a month in Florida.

"Oh, daddy!" the young Mrs. Hughes cried exultantly as she talked with the elder Bennett from the private office of Chief of Police C. J. Woodruff here. Woodruff had been asked by Bennett to get the couple to a telephone.

Everybody Happy
Then, slightly befuddled and bewildered, they indicated they wanted to be alone. Young Hughes was the spokesman.

"There isn't much of a story," he said. "We just got married and we drove straight to Tampa, and here we are."

"Of course you're happy?" they were asked.

"Oh, very, very happy," the girl said, and they were on their way to their three-room flat, where they paid $3.50 for a week's rent in advance—until Russell could find a job.

When Miss Bennett disappeared from her home at Detroit Monday she was aroused that she had been kidnaped.

The Hughes drove into Tampa Thursday night in a 1934 model sedan with a suitcase and a trap-drumming outfit.

Located by Police
After they had telegraphed their new address to friends in Detroit, Mrs. Hughes' father asked Police Chief Woodruff to locate them.

"It was a real happy ending," Woodruff said. He couldn't help hearing one end of the conversation in his private office.

"Mrs. Hughes talked with her father, and then Mr. Hughes talked with him and everything was lovely."

At Bennett's direction George M. Holtzinger, a Tampa representative of the Ford Motor company, took the couple in charge as official host. Tonight, with much secrecy, they were planning their Florida vacation.

"They probably will not remain in Tampa," Holtzinger said, "but will likely go to some quiet spot in search of privacy."

The honeymooners nodded assent, and to emphasize their agreement, went into a typical honeymoon embrace.

Walker Cup Lineup Leading Item For Meeting Of USGA

New York, Jan. 7 (AP)—The forty-fourth annual meeting of the United States Golf Association will be held tomorrow at the Waldorf-Astoria, with announcement of the make-up of the 1938 Walker Cup team as the chief item of public interest.

Actual selection of the team was made today in a closed session of the U. S. G. A. executive committee, which planned to withhold publication, probably until Sunday morning. The final choices were arrived at by majority vote after the original list of 45 candidates had been cut to twenty-five.

There also is a chance the U. S. G. A. will make public its findings in regard to the stymie. A special survey has been conducted to discover the sentiments of sectional associations and member clubs on this troublesome question.

Four men appear certain of selection for the team. Two are hold-overs from the 1936 aggregation that swamped the Britons, nine matches to one, with three halved. They are the 1937 U. S. amateur champion, Johnny Goodman of Omaha, and Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati, his predecessor.

The two most likely newcomers are Ray Billows, printing sales man from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who was runner-up to Goodman at Portland, Ore., and Frank Stracofsky, Brooklyn boy who won the 1935 U. S. public links crown and led the amateur contingent in the metropolitan open championship and finished a stroke behind Goodman at ninth place in the U. S. open.

Freddy Haas, Jr., and Paul Leslie of New Orleans; Charles (Chuck) Kocsis of Detroit, Willard Wehrle of Racine, Wis.; Willie Turnesa, metropolitan titleholder; Roger Kelly of Los Angeles and Marvin Ward of Olympia, Wash., also have received considerable mention.

Six hundred concessions—the most thrilling from applications that run into the thousands—will open the 40-acre Midway at the World's Fair on San Francisco Bay.

SWINE TO DINE ON DYED SPUDS

Lansing, Jan. 7 (AP)—Swine on 45,000 Michigan farms are going to dine on potatoes dyed a delicate shade of violet.

R. C. Lindstrom, federal supervising inspector under the agricultural adjustment administration, said 711,000 bushels of potatoes being purchased by the government will be dyed violet to make sure they are not used for human consumption.

Lindstrom explained that potatoes purchased to relieve a glutted market would be coated with a non-poisonous vegetable dye "guaranteed not to make a tempting display on any table." The growers will be permitted to keep the colored potatoes for swine feed.

Lindstrom announced the appointment of five district supervisors and 12 inspectors who will examine all potatoes being diverted from the market.

The state, and the counties they will serve, include: Escanaba district—Ronald Severson, supervisor; Wesley H. Zeratsky, Menominee, inspectors; Chippewa, Mackinac, Luce, Schoolcraft, Delta, Alger, Marquette, Dickinson, Menominee, Iron, Baraga, Houghton, Gogebie counties. A total of 574 growers have agreed to divert 91,600 bushels.

The government has agreed to pay 15 cents a bushel or 25 cents a hundredweight for potatoes diverted from the market.
