FLOOD DEATHS IN CALIFORNIA ARE NEAR 200

DEVASTATION RUNS INTO TENS OF MILLIONS

Los Angeles, March 4 (AP)—The list of persons dead and reported missing in Southern California floods rose to 210 tonight.

The known dead reached 82, of whom 60 had been identified. Others reported missing numbered 128.

Los Angeles, March 4 (AP)—southern California raked mud and debris under sunny skies today to determine the life and property losses in five days of rain-storm and flood.

Death and damage figures fluctuated with the faltering of communication lines. It seemed the LOSSES STAGGERING Los Angeles, March 4 (AP)—How many millions the flood will cost southern California could only be guessed tonight.

Partial surveys by official and unofficial sources in the five most seriously affected counties put the public property loss to highways, roads, bridges, sewers and drainage systems at $15,000,000.

Losses to homeowners, farmers, orchardists and poultry ranchers, probably will be as much, if not more.

The three railroads, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific, were unable to estimate their losses, but unofficial estimates say they would run into millions.

tell might be 198 lives and the devastation in the tens of millions of dollars.

A reckoning of casualties late in the day showed 74 bodies found, 56 of which were identified. Others reported missing aggregated 124.

Worst in Orange County Many sections remained isolated but large areas were slowly shaking off the storm paralysis.

Orange county appeared to be the scene of the greatest floods. The mad Santa Ana river, breaking over wide areas, was reported to have caused sixty deaths. Thirty bodies were found.

In Los Angeles county thirty bodies were reported recovered, 23 of them identified. Thirty others were reported lost.

Five deaths were reported in San Bernardino county and unconfirmed reports from the desert section east of the San Bernardino mountains indicated 38 missing in the Barstow-Victoria region.

Alplines Drop Flood Riverside county reported six bodies recovered, four identified. Thirteen others were reported dead.

In Ventura county two bodies were found and three others reported missing.

There were some 3,000 homeless in Orange county and 2,800 refugees in Los Angeles county alone.

County Health Officer John L. Pomeroy of Los Angeles said there was no danger to public health yet evident. Food supplies were adequate. Army airplanes joined in the effort to drop sup-

Hookey Punishment Blamed By Son, 16, Who Killed Mother

Chicago, March 4 (AP)—A bland and slender boy of 16 confessed today, Captain Patrick Collins said, that he killed his mother because she took him for playing hookey from school.

The lad, Theodore Danielson, Jr., was seized in a west side hotel 16 hours after the body of his mother, a ten-inch bread knife imbedded in her throat, was found in the kitchen of her home amid evidence of a furious struggle.

The officials related that young Danielson took $5 of his own funds, $5 and some odd change and several pieces of jewelry belonging to his 48-year-old mother, packed two bags, went to a Madison street hotel and rented a 35 cent room.

Detectives, acting on information supplied by the clerk, found the boy seated in a bed there, reading newspaper accounts of the crime.

GERMAN POLICE DETAIN PASTOR Niemoeller, Nazism Foe, May Never Return from Camp

Berlin, March 4 (AP)—Pastor Martin Niemoeller, rallying point of Protestant opposition to Nazi efforts to dominate the church, has been sent to a concentration camp by the German secret police despite his being set free by a court.

His wife collapsed when she was told today that her husband had been sent to the Sachsenhausen, Saxony, camp. His six children and friends despaired of ever seeing him free again when the full significance of his detention at Sachsenhausen dawned on them.

In that camp of about 3,400 "custodied" men are said to be nearly 1,000 members of the international bible students association and others who have run afoul of the Nazi regime for reasons of conscience.

The Gestapo, the secret police, is claimed on good authority to be determined none of these "offenders against the state" would ever be released again unless they retract and promise to change their attitude of opposition.

Niemoeller's past gives little hope that he is likely to come around to the point of view of the Gestapo, which has sole discretion as to how long he is to be held in "protective custody."

Marriage Annulled; Woman Intoxicated; Forgot Ceremonies

Detroit, March 4 (AP)—Mrs. Lillian Ohm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hopkes of Grosse Pointe, was granted an annulment of her marriage to Max Ohm after she testified in circuit court here today that she had no recollection of the marriage ceremony because her consent was gained while she was "intoxicated."

The marriage took place at Angola, Ind., Oct. 27, 1937.

Ohm, arrested in Detroit in December, 1937, on a charge of entering this country illegally, was permitted to return to Germany voluntarily.

The court granted Mrs. Ohm permission to use her name under a previous marriage to Baron Eitel Friedrich Roebiger Von Mantuffel of Berlin, whom she divorced in 1937.

Marquette Dealer Burns Used Cars

Marquette, Mich., March 4 (AP)—Larry Wyse, Marquette automobile dealer, has thought up a novel way of cooperating in National Used Car Week, starting tomorrow, designed to lighten the load of used cars on the market.

Before night, 10 cars, which when new represented a value of $5,000, will be piled up in a heap in a used car lot at Front and Rock streets, and at 9 p. m. there will be a big automotive bonfire when a match is touched to the heap.

If the cars were sold for junk, it was explained today, one or more might find their way back to the highways and further increase the traffic hazard caused by worn out autos.

WIFE FATALLY BURNED Leonidas, Mich., March 4 (AP)—Burns suffered when fire destroyed her home Thursday night proved fatal today to Mrs. Elias B. Kinney, 80. Her invalid husband, who is 78, was seriously injured.

Sixth and June Streets, Los Angeles, Calif.

The season's heaviest rainstorm made rivers of Los Angeles streets and thousands of autos were stalled trying to push through swirling water such as is pictured above. The rains brought the worst flood in the city's history. More than a score were drowned, thousands were driven from their homes and property damage was expected to exceed $50,000,000. The Los Angeles Emergency Relief Council sought to cope with what it called the worst crisis since it was organized during the Long Beach earthquake in 1933. The picture above was taken at Sixth and June streets, Los Angeles.

Blast Razes Manhattan Brewery; 3 Dead, 15 Hurt

New York, March 4 (AP)—Explosions described by wide-eyed witnesses as "sounding like an earthquake" destroyed a brewery building in Upper Manhattan today, took at least three lives, injured 15 persons and spread incalculable damage about the crowded neighborhood.

Hundreds of stores and apartment buildings in a radius of many blocks were left without windows and debris was strewn about the streets and in some instances upon far-away lamp posts and traffic signs.

Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy said, it appeared the blasts had been caused by the ignition of coal dust in the boiler rooms of the Horton brewery by an electric spark from a welding machine.

District attorney Thomas E. Dewey ordered an investigation.

Ammonia fumes pouring from the brewery forced firemen to put on improvised masks. The whole area had to be roped off quickly and for a time was a chaotic scene of shrieking ambulances and milling hundreds of firemen, policemen, sanitation department workers.

There were four sharply separated blasts. Courageous Edward Walsh, an engineer in the plant, prevented a greater disaster by staggering to the ammonia tanks valves and shutting them off. He was groping about the floor when a police sergeant took him to the street.

Priests moved amidst the debris, aiding in the search for victims and upon occasion administering the rites of the church.

At one time, twenty firemen were stretched out upon the street, temporarily put out of action by ammonia fumes and smoke.

MARINE GUARDS HALT JAPANESE Armed Patrols Attempt to Enter Shanghai's American Sector

Shanghai, March 4 (AP)—United States marine guards were halted by police today to have alerted a force of 75 Japanese soldiers at the Bubbling Well road boundary of the American defense sector.

The marines held up the Japanese patrol for half an hour at the entrance to the American defended zone of Shanghai's international settlement, increasing the friction between foreigners and the city's Japanese conquerors.

No comment was made by marine headquarters but it was presumed a protest would be made to Japanese authorities.

American marines repeatedly have had to turn back Japanese armed patrols attempting to enter the foreign area to "super-vised" Japanese there. After previous American representations the Japanese had agreed to forbid their patrols to cross the American defense lines.

On the central China front, Japanese army officials said, four powerful Japanese detachments now are lined up solidly on a 20-mile front in southwestern Shanxi, prepared to use artillery, infantry and aviation in a broom-like offensive to sweep the last Chinese troops from the province.

Mass Trial Bares Plot To Assassinate Stalin

Moscow, March 4 (AP)—A letter in secret chemical ink brought the names of two recalled Soviet ambassadors today into the great web of conspiracies confessed by the 21 defendants in Moscow's greatest treason trial.

Plotters already executed were linked with D. V. Bogomoloff, former envoy to China, who was recalled unexpectedly from Nanking last September, and Dr. Constantin Youreff, who was called home from Berlin and since has been rumored under arrest.

The two ambassadors were named by Christian Rakovsky, one of the defendants and himself once the son of a Soviet ambassador to France.

The mysterious letter, addressed to Youreff and signed by Gregory Pitaakoff, a former vice commissar of heavy industry who was executed as a conspirator, said a certain government would approach Rakovsky. It also implicated Bogomoloff.

Rakovsky said he already had met an important public figure in Japan and they had agreed "our aims and those of a certain government coincide."

Another sensational disclosure was of a plan to seize the Kremlin and kill Joseph Stalin and other Russian leaders in May, 1937. Mikhail N. Tukhachevsky, brilliant red army marshal who has been executed, was pictured as the ringleader.

In conspiracies to dismember the Soviet Union and build a capitalist state on the ashes of the Soviet, the defendants told of plots to enlist the aid of Germany, Japan, Great Britain, Italy and Poland.

They accused Pitaakoff and Admiral Vladimir R. Orlov, both of whom died as traitors, Marshal Jan Garmank, who committed suicide shortly before Tukhachevsky was shot, and Leon Sedoff, Leon Trosky's son, who died in Paris last month.

Police intimated that unless negotiations for returns of the boy were successful within a day or two, Levine, a New York lawyer, would ask local and federal investigators to begin active pursuit of the abductors.

Way is Clear FOR KIDNAPERS Father of Peter Levine Ready With $30,000 Ransom Money

New Rochelle, N. Y., March 4 (AP)—The way was open tonight for the unhindered return of Peter Levine, missing 12-year-old schoolboy, as his father announced $30,000 was held ready to meet demands contained in the "last note" received from the supposed abductors of his son.

Newsmen and photographers agreed voluntarily today to withdraw from the vicinity of the Levine home to avoid disturbing any contact with the holders of Peter, who disappeared a week ago yesterday.

Murray Levine, the boy's father, announced by telephone to the police headquarters here that "the go-between directed by that (the last) note tried very hard to deliver the money, but failed."

His statement was the first to indicate any actual attempt at direct contact with the kidnapers. It was made in compliance with an agreement that he would telephone the New Rochelle police at any time he could make a statement.

Police intimated that unless negotiations for returns of the boy were successful within a day or two, Levine, a New York lawyer, would ask local and federal investigators to begin active pursuit of the abductors.

Divorcee Wins Suit For $10,000 From Episcopal Rector

Stuebenville, O., March 4 (AP)—A jury of twelve middle-aged men awarded Cora Lillian Burnham, divorcee, $10,000 late today for loss of the affections of the Rev. Harold C. Zels, Episcopal rector.

The jurors, most of them farmers, listened four days to the story of an eight-year courtship between the slim New York secretary, one time movie organist, and the stocky clergyman. They took less than four hours to give their verdict.

In final arguments, Miss Burnham, 43, was alternately described as an "assassin," and "the forgotten woman."

Pershing Is Much Improved; Orders Lamb Stew Lunch Tuscon, Ariz., March 4 (AP)—Gen. John J. Pershing's heart showed growing strength today and the World war commander had gained sufficiently to become finicky about his food.

Chrysler Announces Shift In Work Week

Detroit, March 4 (AP)—The Chrysler Corp. announced today 900 of its employees were being laid off in making a change in the work week which, it was claimed, would give 5,000 other employees more hours of work each week.

Yesterday the Briggs Manufacturing Co., makers of automobile bodies, announced a similar shift in its work week would force the lay-off of 2,500 men.

Under the new plan the Jefferson and Kercheval Chrysler plants will operate on a work week of three and one-half to four days instead of the 16 to 17 hours weekly that has prevailed.

Four Suspects Held At Alpena In Car License Bureau Holdups

Alpena, Mich., March 4 (AP)—Two men and two women were lodged in the county jail here today to await questioning by state police in connection with holdups during the past week of three state offices that netted a total of approximately $4,800.

One man and two women were arrested on a Detroit-bound train at Bay City, and state police said they had found $2,634 in cash and securities and two automatic pistols in their possession.

Those arrested are: Maxie Awsiukiewicz, 21, Detroit. Edna Etchelos, 22, Detroit. Margaret Stewart, 19, Detroit. Stanley Angel, 22, Detroit.

MEASURE MAY FAIL, IS FEAR OF ROOSEVELT

Washington, March 4 (AP)—President Roosevelt is beginning to entertain doubts that wage-hour legislation—important part of his legislative program—will be passed by congress this year.

At a press conference today, he declared his objectives are unchanged and that "the old ship of state is still on its same course," but said the legislation to put a floor under wages and a ceiling over hours might not go through this session. He made plain that he would like to see it get through.

Opposition From South The wage-hour proposal has encountered strong opposition in congress, especially from southerners who helped kill a bill last year, contending it might cripple the growing industries of the south. Recently a house subcommittee decided to "begin all over again" in an effort to draft a bill acceptable to various factions.

Aside from the disclosure about wage-hours, Mr. Roosevelt devoted his press conference today largely to a discussion of policy during the past five years, and in the future. This was the fifth anniversary of his first inauguration.

Some Failures Methods have changed from time to time, he said, but the five years have seen no swerving from the principal objectives. There have been enormous advances toward these, he said, and some things have failed.

As major objectives, he mentioned financial stability, increased purchasing power, and an end to special privileges. The already enacted crop control law he described as a step toward more purchasing power and he cited the proposed wage-hour legislation as a contribution to the same end.

Mr. Roosevelt said some persons, including most of the reporters present, had from time to time confused methods with objectives.

JACKSON CONFIRMED Washington, March 4 (AP)—An overwhelming 62-to-4 senate vote today confirmed the nomination of Robert H. Jackson, a top-flight administration business adviser, to be solicitor general.

Jackson, now an assistant attorney general, has been a vigorous critic of "big business" and has been prominent in drafting administration plans to restrict monopoly. He will succeed Stanley F. Reed, now a justice of the supreme court.

Jackson, a 46-year-old New Yorker, will have charge of defending congressional enactments before the high tribunal as solicitor general.

The senate vote found 54 Democrats, four Republicans, two Farmer-Laborites, one Independent and one Progressive voting for confirmation.

Senator King (D-Utah) and Senators Austin of Vermont, Hale of Maine and McNary of Oregon, all Republicans, opposed.

Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.) made a speech supporting Jackson, saying he would make an apt nominee for the supreme court or president.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) spoke well of the nominee also, expressing regret "that Mr. Jackson is not going to have something to do with policies."

HOAX, SAYS VANDENBERG Washington, March 4 (AP)—The administration's bill to revamp federal agencies is a "snare and delusion," Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) declared today.

Angry calling the measure "a deliberate hoax upon a country sadly beset by debt and burdened with a multiplicity of taxes," the Michigan man objected particularly to one provision.

This would abolish the office of comptroller general, distributing some of its powers to the budget director and a new auditor general. Wiping out an office responsible for the nation's budget.

The youths, one 25 years old and the other 16, were shot when they refused to obey a command to raise their hands. The older was seriously injured.

The masked men escaped in automobiles. Police said indications were that it was a political raid, adding that members of the club recently had encountered hostile nazi groups.

BUCHANAN MAN FREE 12 YEARS

Model Citizen Admits He Broke Jail in North Carolina

Cassopolis, Mich., March 4. (AP)—Sheriff Arthur Shattuck drew a parallel today between Robert Burns, who fled a southern chain gang, and Koler Holsclaw, 42, better known to his fellow citizens in Buchanan, Mich., as Frank Bentley.

Twelve years ago, Sheriff Shattuck said, Bentley escaped from the North Carolina state prison, where he had served six years of a 30-year sentence on a murder charge.

Shattuck said Bentley drifted to Buchanan, where he got a job, married, and settled down. The sheriff said his life was that of a model citizen.

One week ago today Bentley, driving on M-60 between Niles and Cassopolis, collided with another automobile. A woman passenger in the second car was killed and Bentley went to a Cassopolis hospital with three broken ribs.

While Bentley was recovering in the hospital the sheriff, working on a hunch, took Bentley's finger prints and forwarded them to the federal bureau of investigation in Washington. They replied that Bentley, or Holsclaw, was wanted for the jail break in North Carolina.

The sheriff said Bentley has admitted breaking jail. He will be returned to North Carolina, Shattuck said.

Where Torrents Ravaged City of the Angels

Swirling down from the mountains, the worst flood in the history of Southern California isolated Los Angeles and its far-flung suburbs, causing scores to lose their lives, driving thousands from their homes and resulting in tremendous property damage. This map shows the Los Angeles metropolitan area. Los Angeles itself and Long Beach apparently were hardest hit by the ramaging Los Angeles river, where the water ran at 20 miles an hour. Communication from those cities was possible only by radio telephone. The low flat suburbs were swamped, the only access was by boat. In those stricken areas were Venice, Santa Monica, Compton, Lennox, Bell, Van Nuys, Lomita and Culver City. Movie stars were marooned at their Malibu Beach colony.

The Southern Pacific expected to break the railroad isolation of Southern California before morning. Santa Fe officials established bus connections to the Bristow area.

Limited highway traffic was getting through the coast highway to Santa Barbara.

Two Villages Obliterated
Los Angeles engineers estimated damage in the city at $3,000,000 and county road and bridge damage at $8,000,000. San Bernardino reported $500,000 damage; Pasadena $715,000, Glendale $100,000, Santa Monica $50,000, Glendora $35,000.

Motion picture studios lost $150,000 in property.

The government provided a possible agency for rehabilitation when President Roosevelt signed a bill extending the life of the disaster loan corporation, enabling it to advance funds to areas affected by catastrophes during 1938.

The most tragic stories of the floods came from Orange county. Two little communities east of Santa Ana, the villages of Atwood and La Jolla, were completely washed out.

Homes, business places, and even huge oil tanks were swept away. The villages were occupied chiefly by Mexican laborers and their families.

Whole Family Perishes

GIRL'S MURDER WITHOUT CLUES

Stenographer Is Found Fatally Beaten at Grand Rapids

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 4. (AP)—More than eight hours of intensive investigation had failed tonight to provide police with a single clue in their search for the slayer who fatally beat a 19-year-old stenographer Friday afternoon.

Reconstructing the meagre evidence, detectives determined that in regard to the decision, and indicated that a strike, authorized or otherwise, might be called by early next week.

The injunction which has held up application of the system seniority plan was secured by the Motor Coach Operators Association, many of whose members would, under the new plan, lose their positions to street car employes of greater seniority. The coach drivers have operated under a separate seniority plan.

the victim, Miss Mina Dekker, was attacked in the stockroom of the Manning Abrasive Company—her employers—some time between 12:49 p. m. and 1:10 p. m. Coroner Simeon Leroy's autopsy determined the girl's skull had been fractured in five places and in such a manner as to preclude any accident. The police said they believed the slayer had used a hammer or some similar blunt instrument. A painstaking search of the stockroom failed to disclose anything that might have been used as a weapon.

Aside from these few facts the police had learned nothing. No motive could be established and two persons questioned tonight about their activities at the time of the slaying were released after they established air-tight alibis.

DETROIT AGAIN

FACES STRIKE

Street Railway Workers Not Satisfied With Court Action

Detroit, March 4. (AP)—Action of the state supreme court left Detroit facing its second threat of a street car strike within a week today.

The supreme court ordered Circuit Judge Fred P. Smith of Alpena to show cause why an injunction against installation of a new seniority system for the Detroit street railways system should not be dissolved.

The court directed that briefs on the advisability of dissolving the injunction be filed within 15 days, with a hearing set for the first day of the April term of the court, but this apparently failed to satisfy backers of the strike proposal.

CITY FINANCIAL HEADS ORGANIZE

E. E. Peterson, Escanaba, Member of State Committee

Lansing, March 4. (AP)—A group of municipal finance officers from many sections of Michigan voted to form a state association today, following a warning that local governments were sacrificing authority.

Carl H. Chatters of Chicago, executive secretary of the municipal finance officers' association of the United States and Canada, accused the federal government of "sapping the authority and influence" of cities and said state government treated the municipalities like "unwanted stepchildren."

The meeting paved the way for test litigation to determine whether the legislature, in creating a state land office commission, had jeopardized the collection of delinquent city taxes on property assessed at millions of dollars. A committee was appointed to study the feasibility of a friendly suit test the new law, and to determine what sections need court interpretation. It was composed of John Witherspoon, Detroit; Lawrence LaCourse, Wyandotte; R. E. Sanderson, Lansing; H. H. Corson, Birmingham; Sherwood Bennett, Mt. Clemens; Nathaniel Quikstead, Royal Oak, and Frank Smith, Grand Rapids.

Another committee was appointed to recommend a course of training and study for municipal finance officials and to lay the groundwork for organization of a Michigan association of municipal finance officers. Its members are D. P. Turnbull, Kalamazoo; L. E. Maples, Dearborn; Byron J. Green, Grand Rapids; Walter Engel, Niles; E. E. Peterson, Escanaba; Raymond J. Peters, River Rouge; Joseph Gal-liver, Flint; Clarence L. Lock, Lansing, and LaCourse.

Lock addressed the meeting, criticizing present methods of delinquent tax collection. He said he considered local governments could do a "better job" of collecting their delinquent taxes than the state, acting for them. He made it clear he was not criticizing present state officials. Chatters warned the gathering that local governments accepting grants from federal sources were inviting domination of their activities by the government.

"For some time to come you are going to feel increasingly the influence and heavy hand of both the state and federal governments," he asserted.

Snakes have no sense of hearing.

Final Rehearsals
Being Held By Pirate Gold Cast

The Kiwanis club, sponsoring the John B. Rogers Minstrel-Review, "Pirate Gold" in its annual charity show which will be presented at the Junior high school auditorium Tuesday evening, March 8, will bring to the amateur theatre-goers of Escanaba one of the most hilarious and picturesque productions seen here in years.

The program, done by a cast of approximately one hundred prominent persons, will provide the audience with two hours of novel and varied entertainment.

Probably one of the most popular numbers is the featuring of an instrumental quartet consisting of Bill Clark at the piano, Claude LeDuc, here in Escanaba on a brief vacation, displaying his artistry with the vibraphone, Staff LeDuc, contributing the clarinet and Bob Lucas at the drums. This quartet will provide the music in the cabaret scene of the "Cafe Parisienne" giving an interpretation of modern swing music after the manner of the master of swing, Johnny Goodman, and his band.

Mrs. Harold Gasman will satisfy the lovers of more sedate music with a selection from "Samson and Delilah," while the K. of C. Glee club will offer two four-part numbers, "Stardust" and "Stout Hearted Men," under the direction of Bill Clark. Frank R. Crow, besides singing the lead in "Drinking Song" will present J. L. Booth, O. F. Thorsen and J. Mero in the Forestry Service quartet, singing "Kentucky Babe" and "Harbor Lights."

Charles Larsen, singing a beautiful musical comedy number, "My Holiday Girl," will introduce eight attractive girls in costumes representing various holidays of the year: Vivian Kangas impersonates New Year's Eve; Doraine Winchester, Washington's Birthday; Selma Bentson, St. Patrick's Day; Anna May Thompson, First of April; Bernice Jungles, Fourth of July; Helen Seward, Labor Day; Arlene Moreau, Halloween, and Marjorie Magnusson as Christmas.

Robert Moreau as a gendarme in the French cafe, sings the popular waltz number, "The One Rose," as Lois Peterson, of Gladstone, from the Miss Helen Cloutier School of Dancing does a toe specialty accompanied by Jewel Manthey and Pauline Stegath from the same school. Eight girls from the Junior high school contribute a military number, doing a march routine featuring a duelling scene set to music. These Cane Girls are Jessly Jackson, Edith Bennett, Mary Jane Richer, Anita Jacobsen, Betty Dishno, Ione Kamrath, June Rangnette and Ullaine Charlebois.

The entire cast will assemble at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Junior high auditorium in a semi-dress rehearsal, when the entire show with its many different acts will be put together.

There will be but one performance and no matinee. Tickets and reservations may be secured at the Junior high school. bridge hands of the year in the annual World Bridge Olympic, which is conducted this year by the American Contract Bridge League.

While all of the hands present a fine problem of bridge, this year all tricky hands have been eliminated. Today's hand is one of the Olympic hands of last year.

North and South each have an excellent minor suit. They hold sure stoppers in the majors, and the maximum that "no trump is cheapest," clearly indicates the advantage of playing for nine tricks rather than eleven. The correct play can be determined when the dummy is spread by counting. If North plays for the diamond suit at once, he can count two hearts, five diamonds and one spade. He can never hope for a club trick, as hearts establish too quickly. The best way to get the ninth trick is to win the heart lead in dummy with the ace, and lead a club. If West ducks, then the clubs are abandoned, and a low diamond led and ducked in the South hand. This establishes the diamond suit. If West wins with the club ace, North needs only two diamonds, as he can then run his clubs for the

AT THE DELFT There is wild excitement and cheers as Jane Withers rides down the home stretch in "Checkers," her newest Twentieth Century-Fox picture, but what will thrill most of all is the grand human story. The uproarious fun, the aching thrills and the bright enchantment that come once in every young life unfolded yesterday on the screen of the Delft theatre, and the audience share it all with Jane, so proud in those checkered racing silks. Jane recently was voted one of the six most popular stars of today and in this story of galloping hoofs and gallant hearts she's at her very best.

It is hard to classify Universal's swell screen offering, "Midnight Intruder," at the Delft theatre as a mystery alone, for it contains enough comedy to warrant being called a comedy-mystery.

Louis Hayward and Barbara Read furnish the love interest in a high society setting, with Eric Linden and Sheila Bromley also in romantic roles.

"Midnight Intruder" tells the story of an ex-actor, played by Hayward, who, with a friend, breaks into a millionaire's unoccupied mansion in the dead of night.

They are accepted and waited upon by new servants who think that Hayward is the son and heir of the millionaire, who is traveling in Europe.

Super-Hotdogs
 THE Christian Science Monitor is not so impressed by the plan to build a system of transcontinental super-highways.
 Glorification of the great American hamburger stand is one of the attractions now dangled before the eyes of the motoring public if Congress will pass the bill of Senator Robert J. Bulkley to criss-cross the United States with super-highways.
 It is partly on this premise, in fact, that the Senator from Ohio confidently asserts the wide new roadways would repay the cost of their construction. At first there was talk of collecting tolls to make these arterial speedways self-liquidating; then it was recognized that this alone would hardly suffice.
 The Bulkley bill would authorize acquisition of land for 550 feet on either side of the roadway to be later sold or leased. On this, the Senator expects swanky filling stations and hamburger stands to rise and to pay for much of the cost of the highway construction by their rentals.
 This process of excess condemnation—the state condemning more land than is immediately needed and thus reserving for itself the increase in value resulting from the improvement—has much to commend it. But it also faces legal obstacles, some states having no provision for it, and may sometimes result in a higher price of land than can be regained.
 But over a large part of the area of the United States there is a more cogent consideration than the validity of excess condemnation or the value of hotdog concessions. That is whether the amount of travel, or traffic density, as the engineers call it, is enough to create a demand for the road, particularly if a toll is to be charged for its use.
 One relatively short route exists where this traffic density is heavy enough to warrant some trial of the super-highway plan. This is between Boston and Washington, through New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. A road by-passing both serving and connecting these populous centers would receive enough use, perhaps even at a moderate toll charge, to test out the proposition, including the more patrician style of hamburger shoppes. Conceivably a super-highway might eventually justify construction as far west as Senator Bulkley's home city of Cleveland.
 But beyond that meridian and especially west of the Mississippi it is difficult to envisage a representative motorist quitting the already plentiful, smooth, straight and open public highways to pay toll on an exclusive speedway—even in pursuit of a more succulent hamburger or more streamlined hotdog.

Had Ample Warning
 MICHIGAN motorists had ample warning that the registration deadline would not be extended beyond March 1, the Grand Rapids says editorially. When the state legislature adopted the act setting that date as the day on which 1937 license plates would be illegal that notice was given publicly. As the date approached state officials reiterated the warning that the state law did not allow an extension and newspapers were generous in their assistance in placing these statements before the public.
 There was no basis for a plea of ignorance of the deadline. There was no foundation for anticipation that an extension of time might be granted, except the bad habit formed in recent years when extensions were numerous. But it should have been clearly understood that the legislature left no loophole for further time this year. And in setting the March 1 date the legislators went to the usual limit of extensions in previous years.
 In view of these facts police officers are presuming a great deal in their encouragement of open violation of the law. In Detroit they gave motorists permission to continue using their old plates through Saturday. And it was observed that the immediate result of this order was the fading away of waiting lines at license offices—further procrastination. By what process of reasoning the Detroit police and Detroit officials considered they had the right to choose this law as one which they could disregard is a mystery. Is it any better or any worse to ignore or to violate one law than it is another?
 It is to be hoped that this year's experience will result in a stricter application of the law a year hence. Motorists once having learned that extensions of time are definitely out will be likely to be more prompt in acquiring their licenses. But the promotion of that desired attitude is not helped by the present winking at the law that is evident in many places. Nor does it encourage respect for law in general.

Gabriele d'Annunzio
 EVERY country and every age needs a man like Gabriele d'Annunzio as a release from the humdrum and the prosaic, the routine and the inevitable dull monotony of everyday living. D'Annunzio was the flash of lightning across the heavens and the spray of salt water dashing on the rocks. To Italy he was romance and adventure, love and poetry and drama.

 D'Annunzio published his first book of poems when he was 16. He knew French, English and German and his Greek and Latin were the envy of literary friends. Elected to the Chamber of Deputies, he resigned in disgust because there were "too many words without action."
 His love affairs, particular his famous romance with Eleonora Duse, were the vicarious joy of every honest Italian. D'Annunzio lived like a feudal lord in his Villa Vittoriale, over the door of which was engraved "Per Non Domire"—"It is impossible to sleep here." He wrote vastly—plays, novels, poetry. He was a darling, dashing squadron leader in the World War and the national hero of Fiume after the war. He originated the Black Shirts, gave Mussolini the title of "Il Duce," suggested many of the principles of Fascism.
 He was created a prince and honored countless times by his nation. He was dominating, bold and jealous of his freedom from day-by-day ties. His life hurried along a rushing stream according to his own definition, "Vivere Ardendo"—"Live Ardently."
 Death was the most prosaic thing that ever happened to d'Annunzio. He counted glorious deaths, often talked of taking his own life in spectacular fashion as old age came upon him. But he waited for death to arrive—and died in flannel pajamas while dressing for dinner. That was an unkind fate which must have known no one would accuse the Italian of being unimaginative because of it. For everything d'Annunzio did was vital in its own way, vital to Italy or vital to d'Annunzio. His was a flight from reality that the ordinary man never achieves, but never tires of dreaming of. Every age needs him.

Planes Aren't So Fast
 MAN is pretty smug with his air liners, his air speed and his predictions of stratosphere planes five times as big as any aircraft now in existence. But he really is just a novice and a beginner at this flying business. Nature has him whipped to a frazzle.
 Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, director of the American Museum of Natural History, tells of a little insect, the cephenomyia, whose bullet-like speed breaks all known records. The cephenomyia flies 400 yards a second or 818 miles an hour. That is faster than sound travels, almost twice as fast as the fleetest airplane ever built. The cephenomyia, if it took a notion and had the endurance, could circle the globe between daylight and darkness. This insect travels in high altitudes with lowered air resistance, but there is a fly that resides in the lowland marshes of New Jersey, announces Dr. Andrews, that can take off from a branch so fast it is "utterly impossible" to tell which way he has gone. Dr. Andrews would like to get both that fly and the cephenomyia in a wind tunnel and really time them accurately.
 If plane builders get discouraged, however, they can consider man's brief conquest of the air as compared to the insects'. Even birds have only been on the wing for a mere 135 million years, whereas insects have been flying around for hundred million years. They should be good.

Other Editors' Comments
OUTLOOK FOR '38
 (Iron Mountain News)
 A Cleveland review of the iron ore trade forecasts a shipment for the 1938 season of approximately 30,000,000 tons. At this figure it would be half the shipment for 1937. While, of necessity, there is likelihood of error in forecasts at this early date it will likely be found that the shipment will closely approximate 30,000,000. Variation from the figure will more likely be on the minus, than the plus, side.
 Summary of ore in stock at the lower lake ports and furnaces shows the tonnage to be over 10,000,000 greater than it was at this time last year. Furnace capacity now active is off approximately 50 per cent. This means that for a few months to come, at least, statistics on lower lake reserves of ore will grow more and more unfavorable, with result that the season of navigation will open in lackadaisical manner.
 That the iron mines are doing as well as they are under such unfavorable conditions may be attributed to the condition that last season, under heavy demands from the steel industry, they all but cleaned out their stock piles, as well as shipping current production, with the result that at the close of the season the reserves at unprecedentedly low figures. Because it is good practice to keep them up to a fairly high level, winter mining activity show up better than activity in the steel industry.
 An additional consideration has bearing on the situation. Among the mine operators are many who have consistently had the interests of their men in mind. They are going as far as they can within the limits of prudence to keep employment on a basis that will permit their workers to get along during the period of economic stress.

NEW STANDS OF PINE
 (Minneapolis Journal)
 Establishment of large state nurseries for the reforestation of cut-over lands in northern Minnesota is proposed by HERMAN C. WENZEL, Commissioner of Conservation. In his talk before the Gopher Campfire dinner at Hutchinson, he pointed out that some three million acres of deforested land have reverted to the State for taxes.
 There is room there for state nurseries, in abundance. To reforest on a large scale will be expensive, but as an occupation to supply work for idle men, it might justify the proposed expenditure. If seedlings

 Washington — Dramatic, rapid-fire developments in Europe have discomfited Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, while playing into the hands of those who want to confine this nation's role in international politics to North and South America.

The immediate results over here are:
 1. A hard blow to prospects for "cooperation" by the "democratic countries" against the dictators.
 2. Weakening of the opposition to American naval expansion.
 3. Official accentuation of the Monroe Doctrine as the key program in American foreign policy.

—UNCLE SAM, BAG HOLDER—
 The British government's insistence on seeking to appease Hitler and Mussolini by letting them have what they ask for has left Roosevelt and Hull holding the bag somewhat as Hoover and Secretary Stimson were left when England refused to support strong American protests against Japanese invasion of Manchuria.
 But this time the American neck was not out as far as before. Strong popular and congressional objections to foreign entanglements had defeated administration desires to take a firmer position against German, Italian and Japanese aggressiveness. This both weakened the position of Sir Anthony Eden and strengthened that of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, Secretary, the administration would much rather have seen Eden win.

—CHOICE WAS BRITAIN'S—
 Actually, as every diplomat knows, things had come to the point in Europe where England had to toss an ultimatum at Hitler and Mussolini or consent to deal on the basis of an ultimatum which those two dictators had thrown at England and France.
 Roosevelt and Hull had hoped that the British government would be tough.
 They both hate and fear the ascendancy of the fascist dictatorships and the possibility — which Ambassador-to-Germany Dodd kept pointing out in his handwritten personal notes to both of them — that Hitler, Mussolini and the Japanese militarists will come to dominate the rest of the world and start moving in on a Latin America which already is saturated with their propaganda.

—CONCESSIONS NO GOOD—
 Hitler and Mussolini, in the private opinion of our highest officials will be in-satisfiable until they have humbled — or tried to humble — France and England in the dust. To make concessions to such men through sacrificing the last Austrian, the last Spaniard and the last Czechoslovak, in the opinion of our diplomatic high command, will only encourage them to further demands and ultimate aggression.
 Prestige of England and France and of democracy as a political ideal, under these circumstances, cannot help but be impaired in middle Europe, the Mediterranean area, the near east, the far east and the rest of the world — including Latin America. Conversely, our diplomats feel, prestige of the fascist nations will rise.
 Of course it can be pointed out to Roosevelt and Hull that the United States was not "under the gun," as was England, that this country has no great yearning, such as afflicts the dominant British statesmen, to make some agreement — practically at any price — which will assure England against German air raids and an Italian seizure of the Mediterranean.

—FRANCE REAL LOSER—
 England and France permitted things in Europe to drift to the point where an ultimatum to the fascist powers meant at least an even chance of war. They failed to take stern measures in the face of Germany's Rhineland invasion and today that failure appears as a turning point in European history. The turning point is chiefly signified now by the fact that France, after seeking to maintain an artificial balance of power in Europe for 18 years, has now lost her hegemony.
 European peace, according to surface indications, seems to be assured for an indefinite period, during which Germany will start gobbling Czechoslovakia and make a deal with England as to her lost colonies, meanwhile supporting further Italian efforts in Spain.
 As to the permanency of peace on such a basis, perhaps that hope is no more abiding than was the dream of Roosevelt and Hull of a united front of "democratic nations" which would include Tory-governed England, Communist Russia, wobbly France and the isolation-minded United States.

can be propagated and replanted at the rate of 200 million a year, much of the cut-over area can again be put to production of profitable timber crops.
 Minnesota forest areas do not reproduce of themselves the white and Norway pines that constituted our most valuable timber resources. The second-growth is of less valuable woods, which yet can be utilized for paper making and to some extent for lumber. Whether or not the second growth timber attains to merchantable size depends on just one thing — protection from fire.
 That is the essential thing in even a partial restoration of Minnesota's timber wealth. It takes twenty to forty years to grow a valuable tree, and one fire in any of that period will destroy it. If Minnesota is to go extensively into replanting of pine timber for future use, the State must maintain a fire department for the north woods that will give absolute assurance against wide spread timber fires.

The Capital Parade

BY ALBION AND KINTNER

Washington — If Senator Joseph F. Guffey's temperament were slightly more poetic, he would now be repeating the worn old line—"How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child."

The recent events in Senator Guffey's domain of Pennsylvania have really rather suggested a burlesque version of "lear," with overtones for the Democratic National Convention in 1940. The senator's political offspring have conspired against him; his allies have deserted him, and he is fighting desperately to retain the immense power he has wielded as the biggest machine boss in the United States.

Predicting the downfall of the senator would be very silly indeed. He has been to the cleaners so often, and returned so often to become more potent and prosperous than ever, that the Guffey knack for comebacks is widely celebrated. But he is certainly in a very tough spot.

Attacking the unhappy senator, on the one hand, are a group of his most powerful lieutenants, who have rebelled against his dictatorial rule. They have nominated Charles A. Jones, a Pittsburgh Democrat of Al Smith flavor, for the governorship of Pennsylvania. Advancing on him from the opposite direction is his old ally, the man whom he has most faithfully served, John L. Lewis. Mr. Lewis has nominated his own man, Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy, for the big job in the state.

When the conspiracy of the rebels came to a head at an agitated breakfast in Harrisburg, the doughty senator defied the ingraters over the coffee cups, and hurried off to Mr. Lewis. He demanded Mr. Lewis's backing for his own gubernatorial candidacy, and asked the labor leader to be content with a senatorial seat for Mr. Kennedy. Mr. Lewis, never warm-hearted where politicians are concerned and desirous only of building up a Pennsylvania Labor Party, was cheerfully adamant.

Because, as yet, he has no candidate of his own for the governorship, Joe Guffey has a good chance of losing control of the Pennsylvania state government. As there are 27,000 state jobs in the control of the governor of Pennsylvania, he may also lose control of the Pennsylvania Democratic machine. Control of the Pennsylvania machine carries with it control of the state delegation to the 1940 convention, which Joe had expected to use for a little expert king-making.

And if Joe loses all these powers and perquisites, he will no longer be "Mr. Guffey of Pennsylvania," as he describes his calling cards. He will be a mere senator one of the all too common herd.

The situation is all but incredible, for if ever a political machine was the handwork of one man, the Democratic juggernaut in Pennsylvania was Joe's. When Joe started, he was himself a dispirited old promoter, with uncertain control over an Anomic party organization in his state. As for the men who have rebelled against him, oblivion was their natural climate. Joe made himself and them great together.

He picked Franklin Delano Roosevelt from the field of candidates early in 1931. As the original Roosevelt-before-Chicago man, he used the lush patronage of the New Deal to build a real machine. He made the first alliance with labor, converted the Negro voters and won the state election of 1934. He led the tens of thousands of Pennsylvania Democratic workers to the PAP-full public trough.

David L. Lawrence, Pennsylvania state chairman and leader of the rebels, is chairman because Joe put him in. John B. Kelly and Matthew H. McCloskey, Jr., the Pennsylvania leaders who joined Lawrence against Joe, are ex-Republicans whom Joe personally installed in the seats of the mighty. Because of Joe, Governor George H. Earle 3rd is an eminent statesman, instead of a somewhat paunchy, vaguely bored millionaire. Altogether, the rebellion against Joe is a sad study in the ways of the human heart.

If Joe is ever reduced to the status of an ordinary senator of the United States, he will be acutely unhappy. On the Floor of the Senate, Joe is not at home. A glorified debating society, where all men are equal, is no place for Joe, who is so used to giving orders that he has lost the habit of repartee. His place is in his suite in the senate office building, next to the telephone which connects him with Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, and the minor capitals of his halliwick.

There he has supervised the slicing of the pie for his followers. There he has received an unending stream of good Democratic job-seekers and favor-seekers, and sent them all away satisfied. There he can call up government agencies, snap his terrifying name into the telephone, and hear the awed officials promise him all things.

Joe's real love is power. If the combinations which he is now preparing to destroy his enemies should prove successful, he will be more powerful than ever. And then, heaven help the rebels. The political virtues will pick their bones.

NOT MUCH
 It used to be a mornin's drive
 From here to Holton in them days,
 And you was lucky to arrive
 At noon for it was quite a ways.
 I drove it many and many a time,
 And I knew ev'ry flow'r and tree,
 Each creek you cross, each hill you climb,
 With lots to see, and time to see.

Well, now it takes a half an hour,
 But, when I'm there and back again,
 I can't remember tree or flow'r,
 Though they are there, the same as then.
 Life's like a wind-a-blown' past,
 A thing you feel but can't touch.
 I guess we're movin' purty fast,
 But we ain't seein' very much.

We are dragging bottom now and we are expecting the consumer goods industry to show the first pickup.

Government Reorganization

Washington—Reorganization of the government's operating structure in the interest of efficiency, proposed for decades by one President after another, is up again in the Senate.

The program as originally proposed has been torn up and whittled down into the present Byrnes bill. But the remainder is still threatened by a horde of senators jealous of patronage and prerogative, entrenched bureaucrats and lobbyists who appreciate things as they are.

Leading the opposition is chubbily Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, whose presidential candidacy is as persistent as his criticism of Roosevelt. Byrd bases his attack on the allegation that the Byrnes bill would mean much heavier concentration of executive power.

His views carry a certain weight with some of the senators because as governor of Virginia Byrd successfully advocated a program to reorganize the state government which had been worked out for him by one of the three public administration experts who since have formulated the original Roosevelt federal program.

Increased Executive Power
Virginia borders on the national capital, so it's easy to learn how Byrd operated when he himself went in for government reorganization.

Byrd said then that the problems of government and of the governor's office had become such that the executive should be given authority commensurate with the responsibilities of his office. His program involved enormously increased centralization of executive power, most conspicuously in the transfer of numerous elective jobs to the status of appointive jobs.

A state department of finance to cover auditing, comptrollership, disbursing and similar functions had been recommended by Luther H. Gulick, Byrd's chief expert, and to end controversy over this phase Byrd agreed that he would be the head of the department as well as governor.

Similar Federal Issues
To fill the newly created post of state comptroller Byrd appointed his chief political henchman, E. R. Combs. Involved in the job was the power to stop improper use of appropriated funds—an issue which crops up now in Senate debate.

Few contended that the Virginia reorganization didn't mean a great improvement in government efficiency. But today many Virginians who observe the senator's fervent efforts to restrict powers of the presidency are snickering as they recall the lengths to which he went to extend the official and political power of Gov. Harry F. Byrd.

The Virginia reorganization program wiped out an old and wide-spread fee system which had enriched county ring politicians, placing the fee jobs on salary. A compensation commission was set up to determine what the salaries should be and Byrd gave the chairmanship, a post which carried a great big stick because its function was to establish salaries for the county ring politicians, to the same E. R. Combs. The "Byrd machine" became one of the strongest political combines in the country.

Got More State Taxes
Gov. James H. Price, recently elected against Byrd's wishes, has decided to separate the comptrollership and the compensation commission chairmanship. But when he asked the legislature to appropriate $450,000 as a salary for the latter job, the lower house, dominated by Byrd men, rebelled and wrote in a requirement that the attorney general must be chairman of the commission. The attorney general was a candidate of the Byrd machine.

Byrd also put over a new tax system under which land and property were subject to local taxation while nearly all other sources of revenue were reserved for the state. This state revenues have risen enormously and local revenues only a little. Greater and greater concentration of state power resulted and that meant—at least until Price came along—greater power for Byrd and his machine.

In opposing civil service reforms advocated by the President's committee Byrd is not inconsistent. Virginia has no civil service system and never did have. (Copyright, 1938, NEA Serv. Inc.)

For Love of Polly

By RACHEL MACK

CAST OF CHARACTERS
POLLY CHELSEY; heroine; stranded in London when war breaks out.
JERRY WHITFIELD, hero; the Yankee who sees her through.
CABELL BANKS, privateer captain.

Yesterday, at sea, Jerry and Banks attacked a British merchantman, their first chance at a prize of war. And at home, Polly bears a son for Jerry.

CHAPTER XXVII
The Gray Gull, by means of the sweeps, was held poised like a restless bird in the darkness while the long boat was lowered away. In the boat were Jerry Whitfield and 12 volunteers, hastily chosen. He had said to the crew, "Those that go with me will get no more in prize money than those that stand by in the Gull. Let that be understood." It was very heating. These 12 who accompanied him were Americans, all, each with a crow to pick with England. Revenge, it seemed, could flick as keen a whip as greed or patriotism.

According to plan, the Gray Gull again ran out to sea a distance and stood by. The long boat was rowed to the merchant ship's stern. Now the great bulk loomed and towered above them. The oarsmen held the boat pressed to the hull's great timbers while Jerry Whitfield stood on a thwart and grasped a piece of loose tackle that hung from the ship's stern like a ribbon on an untidy woman's bonnet. By means of this he hauled himself aloft, gaining foothold here and there by any means afforded. . . .

His moccasin feet came silently over the taffrail, and now he stood on the quarter-deck behind the slouching helmsman. It was true, that thing they had observed from the Gull: the quarter-deck was deserted except for the man at the wheel, and he was none too keen. A rum bottle stood beside him on the deck. . . .

Jerry Whitfield seized and bound this man, gagging him against outcry. He felt no pride in his achievement, for the fellow had forfeited half his strength and wits to rum. Jerry doused the lantern and looked down onto the main deck. He counted a score of sailors prostrated from drink and possibly 10 that were still active. The watch was a late one. All others had evidently gone below to forecastle quarters. No officer was visible, either.

Armed with this knowledge he went astern and signaled his men to come aboard. This they did, each man drawing another after him like stealthy Indians taking a stockade. As the last man left the long boat it bobbed away in the darkness, the symbol and the reality of a retreat now beyond reach. Jerry, seeing it go, uttered a smothered exclamation of concern. And yet, what matter? They must take this ship or fall.

Delay would be deadly. Jerry put one of his men at the wheel. With the others he stood for a moment at the turn of the quarter-deck while they picked their opponents on the main deck.

The events that followed were as swift as vengeance and as brutal as warfare. The 12 Americans rushed upon the English sailors, overpowered them and herded them into forecastle quarters like so many sacks of meal, throwing them, shoving them, pitching them with a sort of gleeful exhilaration. This accomplished, they closed the hatches and secured them with the locks that they found there. The locks were stout, as English locks were always stout, against the chance of mutiny at sea.

No shot had been fired, no call piped. There had been only the subdued, repressed noise of men in bodily combat, seuffling, thudding, falling. Jerry ran up to the quarter-deck and stood at the opening of the companionway. He had not long to wait, and it was no hero's work that followed. Several of his men had joined him; as the officers emerged they were overpowered and herded down the ladder they had just ascended. There were but four of them, and the captain was their spokesman.

"Who are you?" he shouted at Jerry.
"First mate off a privateer, sir, American."

"I disagree, sir. We carry a letter of marque from President Madison. This is an old custom in warfare. England helped make the rules. A good game if you know how to play it. We're leaving." They were divesting the infuriated officers of their weapons. Jerry said, "My men and I bid you good night, sirs." He spoke without malice or triumph, but with satisfaction.

"This is preposterous," said the lieutenant who was second in command. "It's beyond reason. We're just off the coast of England. We're part of a convoy. We've two gun brigs to guard us."

"Americans have devilish good luck," spoke up the officer who were the insignia of a third lieutenant. "I'll not be surprised if they pull it off."

Had Cabell Banks been there he would have made some witty rejoinder. Jerry had a sudden realization that the occasion warranted it, that a small but vital bit of history was being enacted here without benefit of repartee or quip from the one who had accomplished it. But he was an inarticulate man, and when he had sent his sailors out and had started to back out himself, his pistol before him, he could think of no more suitable exit than to repeat earnestly, "My men and I bid you good night, sirs." His sailors were amused. Especially one young giant of Irish ancestry who sufficed aloud in spite of himself.

Jerry Whitfield was now in command of the ship which he presently discovered to be a 12-gun merchant brig named the May Queen, 90 days out of Canton. One of the sailors had brought the log book from the cabin; these interesting facts and others were clearly set forth in it. Her hold was filled with Chinese tea and silk, and there was a good deal of carved ivory listed, and furniture of teakwood; several pages of the log were devoted to a listing of Chinese porcelain vases at unbelievable appraisement.

"It's enough to c o k your eye out," said the Irish giant, reading over Jerry's shoulder.

Though all this had taken only a half hour of time, Jerry hastily put aside the log book and gave orders for running the May Queen out to sea. His reaction now was an urgency for flight, and his impetuosity all but tortured him. This rich ship was only half theirs until they had plucked her from the convoy and hidden her in the vast darkness to leeward. . . .

An hour later they came upon the Gray Gull and spoke her. On the Gull's deck her 60 seamen crowded the forecastle head to hear. . . . "Captain Banks," Jerry sang out. "Our compliments, sir! Jerry Whitfield commanding the prize brig May Queen 90 days out of Canton, formerly bound for Bristol!"

Cabell Banks had trouble controlling his voice. "Well, you fool!" he shouted. "you've done it! Any dead or wounded?"

"None. Will you come aboard?" "Aye, aye, sir! At once!" answered Cabell, remembering to be nautical.

An interval passed. A boat was lowered away from the Gray Gull. Another interval, and Cabell Banks came over the side of the May Queen, followed by a dozen men.

"I've brought you some hands, Captain Whitfield. They're willing. You'll need them to handle your prisoners. If you need more, ask for them." He spoke gruffly, for the occasion was charged with emotion.

Jerry grasped the long thin hand of the elegant young man from Boston. "Thank you," he said. "Thank you for all of it."

"Nonsense," said Cabell. "You owe me nothing." He was a small man in stature, but spiritually he was measuring with the giants and the gods; he was rejoicing without stint in the success of a friend.

Home Economics Meet
Trenary, Mich.—If you were the maid and planned on a night off, and your employer asked you to stay in for the evening with the children, what would you do? Marian Erwin, instructor of home economics at Trenary High School hopes to answer this question satisfactorily on March 23rd at 3:30 P. M.
This will be the first lesson in a series of six given every Wednesday night after school for girls interested in doing domestic work this summer as maids or waitresses. Girls, whether in school or out are eligible to enter the class if they pay a fee of seventy five cents. The money will be used to cover the cost of supplies used in the class. The lessons will be on ethics, table service, meal planning and preparation, laundry and cleaning. Miss Erwin will be most pleased to have the class to make out the course of study, if it desires. All who are interested see Miss Erwin before March 23rd. The class will not be conducted for less than five people.
The purpose of these classes is to show the girls how to improve the relationship between the employer and employee. Domestic work may have many disadvantages, but it also has many advantages. Those who do house work have to pay out less for clothes, transportation, manicures and shampoos than the stenographer and the girl behind the counter. And here in the upper peninsula, it is especially easy for young girls to earn a little pin money during the summer months doing domestic work.

CLEANING REFRIGERATOR
Food or liquids spilled on the shelves of your refrigerator should be wiped off immediately, and the whole ice box should be cleaned once a week. To do this most efficiently, wash interior with hot water, rinse in boiling water, and dry movable parts in the open air. Wash out waste pipe with soap suds, then with the soda solution, finally rinse with boiling water. When every part is aired and dried, renew ice. After the refrigerator is thoroughly chilled, it is ready for use.

GREAT LAKES BOATING GROWS

More Yachts Expected on Lake Michigan During 1935

By JEANNETTE OATES Chicago—Great Lakes yachting this year comes into its own! No longer is the sport confined to salt water, each year finding more enthusiasts on the lakes where a sailor need only lean overboard to scoop up a fresh drink of water. Those who follow the water closely are practically a unit in the expectation that in 1935 there will be more boats on the waters than ever before...

Reason for this phenomenal shift of interest, say those who know, lies primarily in the breaking down of the tradition that sailing yachts belonged on oceans and cost money to buy and to operate, and in the expected improvement in harbor facilities...

It's to be a progressive and eventful season on several other scores. More yachts, more club members, more trophies, more races, more cruises, more juniors, more classes, this is to be the kind of year that can, if need be, take a recession in its stride without undue concern. Let the pessimists worry about navy ratios and armaments races but the rating and racing of his own ship is enough to occupy any blithe and carefree sailor...

Breaks Down Old Myth Yachting has grown slowly, steadily and surely on the Great Lakes. Several factors are breaking down that old and noxious myth that yachting is a rich man's sport. It is, and can be, but isn't necessarily, which sounds like Gracie Allen but makes sense if you can get the drift and forget what you've always heard. It is this significant discovery that has brought hundreds of former landlubbers, not quite content with Moby Dick and Popeye, to taste the pleasure of the seas...

As a matter of fact, yachtsmen most certainly, and fortunately for all who play at the hobby, include that body of gentlemen who finance and race international ocean matches and whose sleek 100 to 333 foot triple-masted cruisers search out the remote or startlingly beautiful corners of the world with no more effort than it takes to cross the street. The sport will always carry the prestige of abundant wealth for its ensign. But this is only the edge of the picture...

Much more important to its development are the skippers whose income tax doesn't cause wakeless nights, but whose instinctive love for the sea finds great satisfaction in the response of a sweet-lined hull, topped by canvas and rigging tuned to a degree of perfection. This sense of rhythm on water, and the skill to handle a boat is the essential definition of a yachtsman in anyone's semantics...

Power Yachts in the Lead Actually the power yachts squadron outnumbered sail yacht owners. But jolly diversion of the tar-pots has come to be one of those perennial jokes which are more for fun than fact. Occasionally both branches of the sport are enjoyed by the same person, and in all practical matters, sail and power squadrons band together for mutual good. For some forty odd years they've united on Lake...

Gasoline Vapors Found In Sample Of Sewage Water Of numerous samples of sewage water taken from various parts of the sewer system on the west side of Manistique, only a sample of sewage water taken from the man hole at Deer and Chippewa avenues contained sufficient gasoline vapors to be dangerous, a report of chemists employed by the Naph Sol Refining Company has disclosed. A report of the chief chemist, H. R. Marquand, indicated that proper ventilation of this sewer should quickly eliminate the hazard. A sample of the sewer water was exposed to the air and the vapors quickly disappeared, the chemist reported. How the gasoline found its way to the sewer has not been determined. The fumes were so prevalent a week ago that the Lincoln school was closed for a day and a half while proper repairs were made to trap out the fumes.

SENIORS PACE DUCAT SELLERS

Junior Class Narrowly Beaten in Recent Contest

Seniors led various classes of the Gladstone junior and senior high schools in sale of basketball tickets during the current season. In determining the winners, the per capita sales was considered, not the total per class.

The senior class with 64 students sold 111 tickets to barely nose out the juniors numbering 55 who sold 95 ducats. The sophomore class ranked third.

The freshman class of 103 sold 107 tickets, 74 eighth graders got rid of 60 and the 72 seventh graders helped out to the tune of 49 tickets.

Sales were credited to the class of which the purchaser was a member. In this way, juniors were handicapped, it was pointed out, because about 20 members of the class were members of the band and not required to purchase tickets.

JOB HUNTERS BUSY
Ironwood—it's tough to be a congressman, especially during an election year. A congressman can't even make a quick trip back to the old home town on business without being trailed by hordes of job and favor seekers.

Once the word is passed along the party "grapevine" that the congressman is in town, there is no rest for the people's representative. The job seekers swarm into the lobby of his hotel, they keep the switchboard of the hotel busy with their telephone inquiries, and they lurk in doorways of stores and on street corners in the vicinity of the hotel, watching every approach like hunters on the trail of game.

DISCUSS TRAIN SERVICE

Iron Mountain—Possibility of the development of Chicago and North Western railway passenger service into Iron Mountain to compensate for the loss in accommodations that will be suffered under the Milwaukee road's new schedule effective March 13 was discussed this morning by Don Smith, secretary of the Iron Mountain-Kingsford Chamber of Commerce, with B. M. Howe, of Escanaba, traveling agent for the North Western.

While results of the conversation were naturally indefinite, Howe said that he would take up the proposal with the proper officials. Smith stated he felt certain that if the railway was interested and an improved schedule and accommodations could be brought about Iron Mountain

SLUMP CANCELS RALLY RESULTS

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES table with columns for Net change, Previous day, Month ago, Year ago, 1938 high, 1938 low, 1937 high, 1937 low, 1936 high, 1936 low.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER (Associated Press Financial Writer) New York, March 4 (AP)—Stocks enjoyed a mild rally in today's early market proceedings only to be thrown for a loss in the closing hour.

Steele, motors, coppers and specialties led the morning recovery for markets running to a point or declines of as much were in the majority at the end.

The feeble upturn was accomplished on extremely small volume, as was the subsequent backslide. Transfers totaled 488,930 shares compared with 466,850 yesterday. The week's turnover thus far was the lowest in about three years.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .3 of a point at 44.6.

Traders found little in the news to inspire expansion of commitments either way.

Rails failed to respond to a somewhat less than seasonal drop in last week's car loadings. Followers seemingly were a bit disappointed by the delay in the freight rate decision.

Some support was given liquor shares when a Pennsylvania court ruled the state's "door tax" on whisky stocks was unconstitutional. National Distillers held a gain of 3/4 of a point at 22, but Schenley, ahead until the last, ended 1/4 lower.

General Electric was improved the greater part of the day despite a reduction of the dividend. The substantial jump in the company's earnings for 1937 was helpful, although orders for the first two months of the current year registered a sharp drop from the same months last year. The stock was down 5-8 of a point at the close.

On the offside were U. S. Steel at 53 3/8, Bethlehem 56 3/4, Chrysler 52 5/8, Westinghouse 53 3/4, Santa Fe 36 3/4, Anaconda 52 3/4, Kennecott 37 3/4, Sears Roebuck 60 5/8, Douglas Aircraft 35 3/4 and International Harvester 65.

Gains were retained by American Telephone at 155 1/2, Allied Chemical 168 1/2, Allis Chalmers 47, Woolworth 43 1/2, American Tobacco "B" 68 and Corn Products 64 1/2.

TRENDS MIXED; CARRIERS WEAK

BOND MARKET AVERAGES table with columns for Net change, Previous day, Month ago, Year ago, 1938 high, 1938 low, 1937 high, 1937 low, 1936 high, 1936 low.

New York, March 4 (AP)—Weakness in railroad issues stood out today in an otherwise mixed bond market.

Baltimore & Ohio bonds showed substantial losses generally, the convertible 4 1/2's losing 3/4, closing at 21. The Associated Press average of 20 railroad issues declined 1/2 to 63.2. Prominent in the decline were Great Northern 4 1/2's of '77 "B" at 86 1/4, Illinois Central 4 1/2's at 53, Lehigh Valley 4 1/2's of '49 at 48, Missouri Pacific 5 1/2's of '77 "A" at 21 1/2, Southern Railway 4's at 58.

Nickel Plate 5 1/2's at 53 1/2, Santa Fe 4's of '95 at 105 5/8, and C. & O. 4 1/2's at 119 3/4 were among the few gainers.

Domestic industrial and utility issues moved in a narrow range. American Telephone 3 1/4's of '66 at 101 3/4, Goodyear 4's at 104 3/4, Loew's 3 1/2's at 95 3/4, Western Union 5's of '69 at 59 7/8 and Youngtown Sheet & Tube 4's at 98 3/4 were all fractionally higher.

United States government obligations were mixed, with a range of 3-32 lower to 5-32 higher in active issues. Foreign governments generally were slightly higher.

Eskymos Close Season With Win Over Gladstone

'STIQUE BEATS RAPID BY 22-17

Teams Wind Up Year In Slow Game; Three Players Ejected

Mainistique, March 4.—Maintaining a slight lead throughout, Mainistique high school's cagers rung down the curtain on their season here tonight, defeating the lanky Rapid River crew by a score of 22-17 in a slow, ragged game.

In a high scoring preliminary, the local seconds trounced the visiting reserves, 43-16. The feature game, although comparatively close throughout, was quite an uninteresting affair. Rapid River, largely through the efforts of Boyer, held a 4-3 lead at the end of the first period but Wassberg's crew scored eight points in the second frame and held the visitors to half that amount. In the last two periods, they outscored Rapid River by one point in each frame.

Boyer led his mates in scoring with 11 points while Slough cashed in for nine points to lead the Emeralds.

The game was a free fouling affair. Groleau and Ebbeson of Rapid River and Helsten of Mainistique being ejected from the game on fouls. Referee Reque called 19 fouls on the visitors and 11 on Mainistique.

U.P. Bowling Tourney Entries Come In Fast

Gladstone, Mich.—Indications are that the annual Upper Peninsula Bowling tournament to be held at the Rialto alleys here March 26-May 1 will be one of the most successful in the history of the event.

Already 25 teams have been entered in tourney. In most cases team members will roll in all events, five-man, doubles and singles.

A drive for funds to assist in financing the entry of local teams in the event has been started and will be prosecuted vigorously within the next week or ten days.

Locals Have No Trouble; Large Crowd Joins in Community Sing

Towering over their rivals by several inches, the Escanaba high school cagers made good use of their reach to defeat their honored rivals from Gladstone quite easily, 30-16, at the junior high school last night before a packed house, one of the largest crowds of the season.

In a preliminary, the local reserves also won, 24-11. After the first few minutes of play, it was plain to see that the visitors were in no position to combat the Eskymo height, Escanaba making three tip-in shots in the first quarter. Gladstone's only points of the period came on free throws by Gabe and Holm. The Eskymos hit the rim with consistency in the second frame, scoring 11 points and holding Gladstone to but another free throw.

Thrilled Eskymos Gladstone came back in the third frame and employed a deeper set defense and held Escanaba to but five points but were able to score but two points themselves. These points were scored on a tip-in shot by Holm, the first field goal of the evening for Gladstone and came near the end of the third period.

With the game clearly in the bag for Escanaba, Gladstone boys, who had been tense and decidedly "off" in their shooting, relaxed and began making their shots effective.

With Holm leading the way, the visitors chalked up eleven points. Nordberg used five players, who will be back next year, all of the final quarter.

Holm was the offensive star of the game, scoring ten points while Els led his mates with nine markers.

Music Is Applauded A bit of carnival atmosphere was injected into the evening with a community sing between halves of the main game. During the intermission, the Gladstone band put on an effective drill and played several numbers.

Both the Gladstone and Escanaba cheering sections were in "fine trim" and both student bodies displayed fine sportsmanship.

KANSAN TALKS 4-MINUTE MILE

Cunningham Isn't Sure Anybody Will Ever Achieve Goal

By ORLO ROBERTSON
New York, March 4 (AP)—Notwithstanding his undoubted claim to the fastest mile in foot-racing history—the phenomenal 4:04.4 he produced last night on Dartmouth's indoor track—Glenn Cunningham still isn't sure he or anybody else ever will achieve the much-discussed "four-minute mile."

"It's a possibility," Glenn conceded today after clipping four full seconds from his own world indoor mark and bettering by two seconds the recently-approved world outdoor record of 4:06.4 by England's Sydney Wooderson.

"But, if it is ever done by myself or anybody else, it's going to require perfect conditions. I might have come a little closer to it last night if my pace for the first two quarters had been a little better."

"I would have preferred if the first quarter had been run about two seconds slower (the time was 58.5) and the second about three seconds faster (he did it in 64 flat). That would have conserved a little more energy for the last half."

"I'm never quite sure myself what I'm going to do until I start running. It all depends on how I feel. I've felt fine most of the season but I guess I felt a little better than usual last night. The track was fast, there was no need of jockeying for positions and the crowd refrained from smoking."

Only 28 The theoretical limit for the mile run has been put at 4:01.66 in a scientific table of maximums prepared by Brutus Hamilton, University of California track and field coach. But the human machine from the plains of Kansas cares comparatively little for theory. He is 23 years old, a veteran of seven years campaigning as a national athletic headliner, yet is now enjoying his greatest competitive year.

Unbeaten in his specialty this year, Glenn has run three miles in 4:10 or better and reduced the world indoor record for 1500 meters to 3:48.4. In between he has found time to work on his doctors degree at New York University, carry eight hours of graduate work at Columbia and spend a little time with his wife and nine-months old daughter. He left tonight to race in Baltimore tomorrow night.

"I don't see much of him," said Mrs. Cunningham. "I do try to see he eats the right things—mostly plain food—steak, potatoes and fruits. He's not hard to cook for."

Cunningham's new record probably never will get beyond the list of American indoor marks. Board-track competition is confined almost exclusively to the United States and the marks it produces never have been given world recognition by the international amateur athletic federation, which rules track and field sports.

ROBERT P. SCRIPPS

San Francisco, March 4 (AP)—The intercoastal liner Pennsylvania tonight toward Los Angeles the body of Robert P. Scripps, 42, principal stockholder in the Scripps-Howard newspapers, who died aboard his private yacht off lower California.

Scripps-Howard sources said internal hemorrhage caused his death. Scripps, the son of the late E. W. Scripps, who founded the newspaper chain, began his journalistic career at the age of 16 after graduating from Pomona college in southern California.

Five years later, in 1917, he married Miss Margaret Lou Culbertson of Pasadena. The widow and six children survive.

A few months after his marriage young Scripps assumed command of the Scripps newspaper enterprises. Five years later he and Roy W. Howard formed the Scripps-Howard group, which expanded into the present nationwide chain of 24 newspapers.

As sole trustee of his father's estate, Robert Scripps held the controlling interest in the chain. The trust provided that in the event of Robert Scripps' death, the control should pass to three trustees—Howard, William W. Hawkins, chairman of the board, and George B. Parker, editor-in-chief of the newspapers.

175 ON LOCAL WPA PROJECTS

Most of Men from City Working on Roads Through County

Only about 175 men are being employed on WPA projects in the city of Escanaba, City Engineer A. V. Aronson said yesterday, a large majority of the eligibles working on road projects throughout the county.

Certified residents of the city on WPA rolls are employed on projects in the city as fast as the projects can be submitted and approved but the recent heavy demand for additional projects has depleted the present supply. Several new projects now are pending approval from Lansing and as soon as they are okeed, more men will be taken on in the city. A large sewer project, if approved, will employ about 200 men for a period of five months.

It is expected that sheeting will be driven on the beach project next week and work will be begun on a sewer project at 23rd and Ludington streets and at 13th avenue north and 22nd street.

The cemetery water main project has been closed because of lack of funds. About 600 feet of main are left and it is expected that work will be resumed shortly, as soon as money is forthcoming from Washington.

Work is progressing satisfactorily on the hangar jobs at all street intersections in the city. About 600 posts will be needed to supply two for each intersection.

MEASURE MAY FAIL, IS FEAR OF ROOSEVELT

sible to congress, Vandenberg contended, would "rob congress of existing controls over public expenditures and transfer these controls to the president."

Spend Without Authority
About the time Vandenberg spoke, the comptroller general's office sent to congress a report alleging that federal agencies had made illegal expenditures. Opponents of the reorganization bill seized upon the report as ammunition, declaring it contained 100 cases of "irregular and illegal" spending.

The report criticized national guard officers in several states, asserting they had charged the government for fictitious supplies and had helped enlisted men get pay for drills which they did not attend.

"Numerous methods have been devised, apparently by officials of WPA, for irregular procurement of various classes of supplies," added the report, which was signed by acting Comptroller General Richard W. Elliott.

Elliott also reported that the air commerce bureau had spent $78,768 for airplanes without authority, and he criticized the maritime commission for paying an $88,175 subsidy to a steamship line which owed the government $5,333,106.

He said methods used to avoid competitive bidding included use of restrictive specifications which enabled the resettlement administration to purchase the make of automobile it desired.

Used Car Parade To Be Held Here During Noon Hour

The Delta County Automobile Dealers association will stage a mammoth parade of used cars here today, leaving the foot of Ludington at 12 o'clock noon. The parade will signalize the opening of National Used Car Exchange Week.

The cars will be parked during the afternoon for inspection by the public in the 1300 block on Ludington street.

National Used Car Exchange Week is the joint creation of the country's automobile manufacturers, working together to stimulate used car sales and thereby inject new life into the country's business and industry.

Dealers have on hand a wide variety of used cars, many of them properly reconitioned to give thousands of miles of service. The selection is said to be unprecedented in the industry's history. These cars, spokesmen for the industry assert, are now priced so low as to constitute bargain values unique in history. Many are 1937, 1936 and 1935 models, and include many features that are to be found in the newest cars.

ROAD BLOCKADE PLAN ARRANGED

Bottle-Neck at Hammond Designed to Hold Up Fleeing Bandits

East Lansing, March 4 (AP)—Michigan and Indiana have effected a road blockade in the Calumet district of Indiana to prevent fleeing bandits from escaping into Chicago. Lieutenant Van A. Loomis of the Michigan state police detective force said today on his return from a week's conference with Indiana officials.

Loomis said he aided Indiana state police and sheriffs in setting up a system based on Michigan's famed road blockade plan and arranged for joint operation of the system to mutual advantage.

He said the Indiana blockade would operate as a "front line" against crime in that state, as a secondary defense for Michigan bandit hunters, and as a northern barrier to keep criminals out of Michigan.

The plan will be ready in five weeks, Loomis said. A "bottle-neck" is being formed in the Hammond, Ind., area, with posts extending east to Dune park and south to Schneider. Thirty-six strategic spots on all roads leading into Chicago will be blocked in case of a man hunt.

Loomis said the existing Michigan blockade system was not effective in protecting border communities when bandits can pop across the border before the system can get into full operation.
