GERMANY 'ANNEXES' AUSTRIA

T. V. A.

Arthur E. Morgan, civil engineer and Antioch College president, became kingfish of the Tennessee Valley Authority in 1933. To serve on the board of directors with him, he chose Harcourt A. Morgan (no relation), former University of Tennessee president, and young David E. Lilienthal.

But Chairman Morgan and his two aides did not get along well. They thought he wanted to "rule or ruin"; he suspected them of keeping information from him. Bitterness, brewing for the last three years, boiled into headlines, so President Roosevelt now has intervened in the scrap for the third time. He summoned all three directors to the White House and announced he wanted the facts.

Opinions already had resulted in congressional calls for an investigation. TVA's father, Senator Norris, had urged that the Federal Trade Commission do the probing; Chairman Morgan had suggested that congress do it. Norris argued that congress couldn't conduct a "non-partisan" inquiry; and Morgan contended the trade commission would hesitate to question a government agency's "motives."

Papa Norris thought "intense jealousy" had made Chairman Morgan unreasonable. And the senator indicated he was willing to consider proceedings to oust "someone" if the President could not straighten the board out. Republican Representative McLean of New Jersey suggested removal of the whole board, but Norris didn't think that would be necessary.

Wilkie's Willing
The comptroller general became involved in the free-for-all scrap, too. He "flouted" the law, TVA charged, by challenging certain expenditures.

In the senate, Bridges of New Hampshire cried out that there was something rotten in TVA, and added: "If this love child of the administration, TVA, is indeed illegitimate, no shotgun wedding can give it either a fair name or unblemished reputation."

SENATOR LAYS OUT PROGRAM FOR CONGRESS

VANDENBERG SMILES AT MENTION OF 1940 RACE

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), frequently mentioned Republican presidential possibility, outlined today his own idea of a congressional program. "I'd be willing to stand on it," he said in an interview. The senator only smiled, however, when asked whether it could be considered a possible 1940 platform.

Vandenberg indicated "he might submit to congress soon a suggestion for an entirely new type of arms limitation conference." He said such a conference was "the only feasible alternative to the suicidal arms race the whole world is now engaged in."

The senator, who had advocated a coalition of Republicans and anti-administration Democrats in the congressional elections this fall and the presidential contest of 1940, said of his legislative proposals: "The program should attract the liberal and the conservative. It seems to me it should meet with the approval of business and labor."

Under Five Headings

Vandenberg divided his program, in addition to the prospective arms conference proposal, under these general headings: Government Reorganization; Permit the president to veto individual items in all appropriation bills; "create a complete career service in the postoffice department."

Finance: Amend the social security act to suspend any increase in payroll taxes and segregate security tax collections from general treasury funds.

Relief: Federal grants to the states to be matched and administered locally. Most of the legislation he has introduced this session is still in the hands of congressional committees, Vandenberg pointed out.

Flood Protection In Michigan River Basins Emphasized

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The national resources committee, in its annual report to congress made public today, emphasized the need for flood protection in Michigan river basins.

"Flood protection is a local problem along some of the short streams which drain into Lake Michigan," the report said. "Studies are recommended to determine proper remedial action at the places concerned."

The report included in its recommendations many projects already authorized by congress or in the process of construction.

The Michigan conservation projects listed in the committee's six-year program were: Keweenaw, completion of dredging, breakwater construction, $1,100,000; Ontonagon harbor, dredging, $15,000; Frankfort harbor, dredging, $69,000; Cheboygan harbor, turning basin, $53,000; Saginaw, turning basin, $58,000; deepening channels; Black river, $112,000; complete dredging channel and turning basin Detroit river, $575,000; deepening channels in Rouge river, $228,000.

Improvements Seney marsh wildfowl refuge, first year, $50,000, second year, $75,000, and Clam river wildfowl refuge, first year, $30,000, second year, $20,000.

Improvement of Muskegon and Manistee rivers for recreation purposes, first year, $100,000, second year, $250,000, and improvement of Indian river for recreation purposes, $80,000.

MICHIGAN BEER WAR IS ENDED

Trade Agreement Signed With Indiana; Fixing Uniform Prices

Detroit, March 12 (AP)—The long-fought "beer war" between Michigan and Indiana ended today when officials of both states signed a trade agreement guaranteeing Michigan brewers the right to sell their product in Indiana on the same price level with Indiana beer sold in that state.

After Floods Come Breadlines

Suffering from floods only slackens, does not cease, when the water begins to recede, California relief officials are learning as they recent floods. Scenes like those above are common throughout the great Central Valley where 10,000 migratory workers were without jobs because farmlands were inundated.

Truth Serum Frees Truck Driver In Grand Rapids Hammer Murder

Lansing, March 12 (AP)—"Truth serum" as an aid to crime detection was used for the first time in Michigan today and brought about the release of a Grand Rapids truck driver who had been questioned about the hammer-slaying of 19-year-old Nina Dekker of Grand Rapids.

FRENCH TROOPS PATROL BORDER

German Frontier Guard to Belgium

Paris, March 12 (AP)—Troops manning the powerful Maginot line defenses facing the German border tonight were held to their posts as France took an increasingly grave view of the European crisis.

Culver, Ind., School Has $100,000 Fire

Culver, Ind., March 12 (AP)—Fire swept through a building housing boats and equipment of the Culver summer naval school here today with an estimated loss of $100,000. More than 100 sail, power, racing and other types of boats, were destroyed.

CZECH NATION IS IN DANGER; MAY NEED AID

FRANCE COMMITTED TO HELP LITTLE REPUBLIC

(By The Associated Press)
London, March 12—Adolf Hitler's bold, Nazi seizure of Austria today thrust the fate of Czechoslovakia squarely before Great Britain and France.

The British cabinet in an emergency session weighed the possibility of armed aid to France in event the independence of the war-created public were threatened by Germany.

The cabinet in a two-hour meeting apparently hesitated at taking the momentous decision on what to do.

MAYOR QUIZZED ON 'WINDFALLS'

Senators Ask Johnstown Official Where Strike Money Was Spent

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Senate investigators asked Mayor Daniel W. Shields of Johnstown, Pa., today to explain what "windfall" enabled him to pay off $23,485 of indebtedness and back taxes on his family's property at about the time of last year's Bethlehem Steel strike.

The mayor, who other witnesses said had received more than $30,000 of Bethlehem Steel company money to meet the cost of policing the strike, said the debts and back taxes were paid off by his wife with "money my wife had for years."

Inspector freely and often at a loss for words during three hours of questioning before the senate civil liberties committee, Shields said he had received the money for police expenses from the Johnstown citizens committee and did not know it came originally from the steel company.

Attempt Is Made To Kidnap Bissell Of Sweeper Firm

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 12 (AP)—A statewide search was ordered tonight for two thugs who made an unsuccessful attempt to kidnap M. R. Bissell, Jr., 56, president of the Bissell Carpet Sweeper company.

Bissell was waylaid at 6:30 p. m. at the entrance to Blodgett hospital in suburban East Grand Rapids where he had gone in response to a telephone call from an unidentified man. He was a patient in the hospital tonight suffering from a minor scalp wound received when one of the men struck him on the head with the butt end of a pistol after he refused to accompany them.

Bissell said the unidentified telephone x x caller told him a friend had been injured and was at Blodgett hospital. Bissell said he drove his car into the oval drive in front of the hospital and when he got out a man stepped up to him and asked: "Are you Mr. Bissell?"

"Yes," Bissell replied. "Get in the car. You are going with us to CIO headquarters," Bissell said the man told him. At this point, Bissell said, he was covered by a pistol.

SOVIETS ORDER 18 EXECUTIONS

Three Spared in Blood Purge Given Long Prison Terms

Moscow, March 13 (Sunday) (AP)—Eighteen of 21 defendants were sentenced to death today in Moscow's greatest treason trial.

Those whose lives were spared, were: Christian Rakovsky, former ambassador to France who was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment; S. A. Bessonoff, former member of the Soviet trade delegation to Berlin, 15 years, and D. D. Pletnyeff, heart specialist, 25 years.

Those who must die—Former high-ranking Bolsheviks accused of treason and murder at the behest of foreign powers—will have at most five days to live.

Three days will be given them for the judges to weigh their appeals and two more days must elapse before they are placed before the firing squad. However, if precedent is followed, the condemned men will be executed within 24 hours.

ADOLF HITLER VISITS VIENNA AS NAZI HERO

TRIUMPHAL ENTRY IS BACKED UP BY TROOPS

(By The Associated Press)
Vienna, March 13 (Sunday)—Adolf Hitler has joined Germany and Austria and defied the world to part them. He proclaimed this new pan-German union from a Linz balcony to cheering thousands yesterday.

This union joins a Germany, of 66,020,000 population with an Austria of 6,748,826 and adds 32,360 square miles to the German Reich.

Hitler spent the night at Linz and Vienna and was prepared for his triumphal entry today. There were wild demonstrations throughout Austria, especially in Graz, long a Nazi stronghold.

As Hitler spoke at Linz, Nazi forces swept through tiny Austria. CITY CELEBRATES Graz, Austria, March 12, (AP)—Yelling throngs pulled down the memorial statue to the late Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss in the main street of Graz tonight.

Populace, soldiers and police shouted the Nazi greeting of "Heil, Hitler!"

Uniterrupted demonstrations and jubilation swept through the town. The burgomaster telegraphed an invitation to Reichsfuhrer Hitler to visit the city.

to re-make the map of Europe and rouse new fears of European war. Troops came by land and by air. "Any other attempt to part this people will be in vain," the triumphant Fuehrer told wildly cheering throngs massed to welcome his return to his native land and fulfillment of the long-dreamed-of union of Germany and her southern neighbor.

"Secs 'Divine' Mission Declaring it his 'divine' mission to return Austria to the German fatherland, barbed Hitler, clad in an army overcoat, told the crowd: "Your presence is testimony it is not the wish of only a few to found this pan-Germany but is the will of the German people itself."

"It would be fine also if some of our well known international seekers after truth could not only see the truth here but also recognize it."
The new Nazi chancellor of Austria, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, greeted Hitler by proclaiming annulment of the treaty of St. Germain which forbade union of Germany and Austria.

Interesting Items of Day Picked Up Around Town

Crows and the first robin are always welcome, but even surer signs of spring were abroad yesterday.

A group of youngsters, blissfully ignoring the water and slush were noted shooting "mibs" on one of the side streets, and any number of the ladies, bless 'em, were to be seen seriously appraising shop window displays of spring ensembles, or hurrying home with relieved, happy expressions, carrying large suit boxes or unmistakable hat bags.

RECORDS LISTED IN COURTHOUSES

Delta County Inventory All Typed by WPA Survey Group

Munising, March 12—Inventories of all the records in the various courthouses of the Upper Peninsula are now nearing completion according to Walter C. Meyland, district supervisor for the historical records survey, a unit of the works progress administration, division of women and professional projects, of which Miss Harriet Comstock is director in Michigan.

"These inventories, when published, will prove of great value to county officials, genealogists, historians, business men, researchers, students and others who have occasion to examine public records," said William Jabine, state director of the survey. "Condensed entries give information in regard to dates covered by all records, the contents of the various series of records, and the location of these records."

The Baraga county inventory has already been published and a number of copies will soon be made available. Persons desiring further information regarding it or the records of other counties are invited to write William Jabine, state director, historical records survey, 404 Garfield building, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit Michigan.

Bonamer in Charge. The Delta county inventory has already been typed, and is now in the process of final checking before publication. Alfred Bonamer of Escanaba is the survey worker for this county. This inventory contains a foreword on the purposes of the survey and a preface giving the history of the project, followed by a historical sketch of the county as gleaned from the actual county records, the various former and present county newspapers, and the records of the Marble Arms and Manufacturing company of Gladstone. Acknowledgement is gratefully made to the various officials of the county for their cooperation and aid.

This is followed by a historical sketch of each office, comprising its setup, duties, and powers, and the records of each in condensed form, cross indexed and detailed for comprehensive reference.

Later inventories will be published by the survey covering the state records in the capitol, and those of cities and local government units. The records of all churches, too, are being inventoried by survey workers.

The district office of the survey, under the supervision of Walter C. Meyland, and comprising the thirty-four counties in the northern portion of lower Michigan and all of the Upper Peninsula is located in the courthouse at Munising.

Dr. Luther H. Evans is national director of the Historical Records Survey with offices in Washington.

STORIES IN STAMPS

AMERICA'S GREATEST PYRAMID

STRAGGLING into Mexico City from Vera Cruz in 1519 with his tired but adventurous army, Cortez was startled to behold a vast pyramid rising from the dry cactus plains. The centuries had buried a great part of it but evidence of a mighty civilization still cropped up for many miles.

But Cortez did not stop to investigate. He sought gold, not archaeology. Nor did Mexico itself wield the scientific pick and shovel until 1916. What it uncovered then is one of the greatest monuments of all time—the Pyramid of the Sun.

The pyramid is located at Teotihuacan, 27 miles east of Mexico City. Towering 216 feet above the plain, 721 by 761 feet at its base, it is next in size to the Great Pyramid of Cheops in Egypt, and is largest, of course, on the American continent.

Who built it, science may never know. Even its age is mere conjecture. The earliest tribes settling on this tableland of which there is record were the Toltecs in 648 A. D. But when the Toltecs came they found many great pyramids and monuments, even then ancient.

So the Pyramid of the Sun, built apparently for worship of the sun gods, stands today in five vast sections, a grim challenge to men. And while science contemplates it even other temples and monuments are being uncovered around it. Pyramid is shown here on a 1923 stamp of Mexico.

Splashers Should Do Unto Others

Are you a splasher? If you are, you've lost the women's vote.

Persistent complaint has come to city, county and state police—mostly from women—regarding drivers who seem to derive a special sort of thrill from hitting mud puddles at full speed and treating nearby pedestrians to a good, old fashioned mud bath.

The situation was particularly aggravating Saturday, police said, when high temperatures developed a number of sizeable puddles.

Because the walks in some sections of the city are still difficult to navigate, many pedestrians are using the streets. And women are not the only complainants. Plenty of men had their suits daubed up and they didn't like it either.

It requires no great speed to toss up a mud spray. Ten to 15 miles an hour will do it, if the car hits the puddle squarely and drivers are urged, when passing pedestrians along slush covered streets, to slow down and give the hiker a chance.

Text: 'ASK YOUR FRIENDS, ask your neighbors, what they think of this '38 Buick, and they'll give it to you quick in six little words: "It's a honey for the money!" That's praise all right—but praise that still doesn't do this great car full justice! For here's a traveler that would be a buy even if you had to pay a premium to get it! It's a car with power like no other. Power literally born of the hurricane—power that makes gasoline deliver more—power that's smooth, willing, brilliant. Here's a car, too, with an utterly different kind of ride. A ride that gentles every jar and jolt. A ride that's safer in nasty going, that gives sureness to control, that cuts down upkeep and makes rear tires last longer. And here's a car that in addition sparkles with features as a Christmas tree sparkles with ornaments. New quiet, from "silent zone" body mounting. New comfort, from deep, broad comfort-angled seats. New pride of possession, from style hailed as the smartest of the year. Yet big and satisfying as this beautiful Buick is, a little money buys it! No more than you'll pay for some sixes. Less than for any other eight of its size. So there's no longer any reason for not stepping up to the kind of car you've always wanted. Go now and get the details from the nearest Buick dealer—see the car that folks just won't do without.'

TOURNEY PLANS ARE COMPLETED

Lions Club Again Will Sponsor Ping-Pong Contest Here

The fourth annual ping pong tournament, which is sponsored by the Escanaba Lions Club, will be held at the Senior High school, March 29, 30, and 31. Divisions are as follows: Juniors, Grade School, and Junior High, Intermediates under 18, Seniors 18 and over, girls any age. If there are enough entries there will be more than one girls' division, and it is hoped that there will be enough entries to conduct a mixed doubles division.

The Lions club presented a rotating cup, any person winning the cup three consecutive years retaining permanent possession. Jess Lavolette has won the last two years and if he wins this year will take the cup out of circulation. A second prize will be awarded in the Senior division and two prizes will be awarded in all others.

Winners of the tournament since the Lions club started sponsoring it are as follows: 1935 Seniors, Fred Boddy, Intermediates Bill Boddy, 1936 Seniors, Jess Lavolette, Intermediates Bill Boddy, girls Marion Van Lester, 1937 Seniors Jess Lavolette, Intermediates Tom Dufor, Juniors Don Frotter, girls Geraldine Hirn.

Committee members representing the Lions club are Dr. W. R. Buttner, chairman; Austin Stegath and Bever Butts. The city and W. P. A. Recreation staff will cooperate with the Lions club in conducting the tournament.

Mr. Hunt was born 71 years ago at Ionia while Mrs. Hunt was born in Bellevue 69 years ago. Sons and daughters present at the celebration here were George of Newcastle, Penn.; Mrs. Maud Bjork of Gwinn, Mrs. Winnie Burmeister of Shelby, and Clifford and Forrest of Rock. One son, Ray of Detroit, was unable to come for the celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, both still very active and in good health, received many telegrams and cards of congratulation on the happy occasion.

In the Annamite language of southern Asia, the term "ma" has six different meanings, depending on the inflection used: young rice, but, horse, ghost, tomb and mama.

Among the Moors, if a wife does not become the mother of a boy, she may be divorced with the consent of the tribe and may marry again.

Wasted Both Time and Money On All Other Medicines

KruGon Gave Him Results He Had Been Wanting for Years; His Work Made Easy He Feels So Well Now

"My rheumatism has been completely conquered by this new KruGon," said Mr. Delor Desormeaux, Barbeau, Michigan (near Sault Ste. Marie). "After suffering with rheumatism for the past seven years and getting no results from other medicines I was terribly discouraged. My hips and legs at times were so full of pain I could hardly stand it. My entire body was stiff and sore and it was difficult for me to do my work in this awful condition. I lost my appetite too, the foods I ate did not digest well, could not sleep well at night and often felt as if my entire system was gradually wearing out. But all of that was before I gave this new KruGon the opportunity to help me—it was wonderful.

"I am in comfort again, able to work as I should, free of pain and simply feel like a new person," continued Mr. Desormeaux. "That dreadful rheumatism has been driven out of my body after so many years of being unable to find anything to help me. I now eat and sleep fine, enjoy new strength and energy and my work is a pleasure I feel so well again. I am glad to tell others about this new KruGon so they too may regain their health as I have mine." KruGon is sold by West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., this city.

TRAINS 216 AND 217 TAKEN OFF

North Western Ends Day Passenger Service to North of Escanaba

Chicago and North Western trains 216 and 217 are to cease running north of Escanaba effective March 21, according to word received by wire yesterday at the railway's Peninsula division headquarters in Escanaba. Primary cause for the trains being discontinued was said to be the re-routing of U.S. mail, main source of revenue for these two trains between Escanaba and Ishpeming during the past few years.

The trains, which provided daytime passenger and mail transportation north of here, left Escanaba southbound at about 10:45 a. m. and northbound at about 1:30 p. m. Their service will be replaced, in part, by trains 161 and 162, which will make additional station stops at Brampton, Rock and Lathrop to provide passenger service.

Railway officials here said yesterday that northbound mail, formerly handled on 216 and 217, is to be routed differently after March 21, removing the source of revenue which has made it possible to keep the two trains in operation. Authorities at the lo-

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

Gentleness is one quality men expect to find in women. They look for the expression of it in many different ways.

A strident voice is harder on their pre-conceived idea of femininity than on their ears.

While a low voice fits in with their mind's picture of what a woman should be like.

They expect a woman to be sympathetic, not only toward them, but toward the world in general. A woman who has no feeling for others will have a hard time taking hold of any man's imagination.

While a "ministering angel" has men in love with her all cal post office stated that they had not been informed, as yet, of the service which is to replace the North Western in the carrying of mail to the north.

Most of them would honestly prefer to abandon soft prettiness for sharp smartness. When they don't it is a tribute to the preference of men for fluffy femininity.

As for loving children—well, that isn't an all-inclusive feminine trait, as you well know. Some women love them—and some don't, though it isn't often that you find a woman who does not try to cover up her dislike or indifference.

For the picture of gentleness is the one men like. Women know that. And if they are interested in pleasing—they fit the picture.

When they are together in a room without men their low voices frequently climb the scale. And if they disagree, as they often do, their voices scream their convictions. A strictly feminine bridge party is often harder on the ears than a drunken brawl.

As for women's sympathy—it actually is felt for a limited number of people. Few women know pity for a rival, or for one who has ever crossed them. They can cry over a book or at a sad movie—and feel not the least remorse for the misfortune of one who has at any time been in their way.

Herbert Linck Dies

Engadine, Mich.—Herbert Linck, 9 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Linck, died Thursday night at 9 p. m. following an operation for appendicitis at the Perry-Spinks hospital in Newberry.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock at Our Lady of Lourdes Church.

Surviving him are his mother and father—and the following brothers and sisters: Marie, age 11, David S. Lawrence Jr. 6, Theresa S. Marjorie 4.

Attic Transformed Into Pleasant Trophy Room

This delightful trophy and recreation room was converted into habitable space from an old, useless attic. In this instance cane fibre insulation was used on the walls and between the rafters. Bed rooms and store rooms can often be built into the waste space and a badly lighted attic may be improved by the addition of a dormer window.

USE OF FRONT PORCH PASSING

Tendency Is Toward Living in Rear of Home

The past decade has seen a gradual trend in American home building toward the abolition of the front porch.

Utilization of smaller plots of ground, desire for increased privacy, and the general desirability of "living in the back of the house" has been the reason for this trend. In general the living room or sun porch, located either in the back or on the side of a house, has supplanted the front porch.

There is nothing new in this practice. European home construction for over a century has followed this same line. Today, the American home is designed to give maximum comfort, privacy, and convenience. Garages are built as an integral part of houses in many cases, located in the front, thus minimizing driveway costs. Kitchens are frequently built in the front also in easy access of the driveway to simplify delivery of groceries, packages and the like.

Through intelligent placing of the house and by careful landscaping, many interesting results are obtained. A hedge or attractive fence can frequently be placed so as to enclose the back yard, and in this secluded space formal gardens, possibly a wading pool or lily pool, flagstone terraces and similar improvements can make the rear of a home a spot of great beauty and charm. It is advisable when planning to build to consult an architect and a landscape architect who have first-hand knowledge of the most recent developments and approved practices in home planning. Their knowledge and experience will more than justify the fee paid for the services.

Change Of Wall Finish Suggested

If you want to completely rejuvenate some room in your house, try giving the walls an entirely new treatment. If they have been papered with a sprightly design, try them plain. If the walls have been plain, try a patterned paper or a paneled effect. Wood paneling can be obtained in a variety of styles and qualities, or simulated paneling may be used.

Houses may be redecorated under the terms of the Property Improving Plan of the Federal Housing Administration.

New Wall Board Is Fireproof

It is now possible to secure a fireproof wall board for your remodeling that is finished on one side with an imitation wood graining. This product is made in several finishes—knotty pine, walnut and Douglas fir. The wall-board will not buckle or warp and when used as a wall finish makes an attractive room.

Repair Loan For Dwelling Unit Is Insured By FHA

In compiling a list of improvements to dwelling units that may be financed under the Property Improvement Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration, no attempt has been made by the Administration to include all eligible repairs or improvements. If the application to a lending institution develops any item about which it may be in doubt a prompt ruling will be supplied from Washington.

Included in the list of eligible repairs are the following: Boilers, as a part of the system, coal stokers, doors (including storm doors), driveways, fences, heating systems, heat-control devices as a part of the system, landscaping, lighting systems, lighting fixtures if a part of the system, linoleum when cemented to the floor, oil burners, plumbing systems, radiation, if a part of the heating system, ventilating systems, private walks, water heaters as a part of the water system, water softeners as a part of the water system, wells and cisterns.

The items appearing in this list are also eligible for commercial and miscellaneous properties, when they become a structural part of existing buildings.

The cricket's note sometimes is so loud that it can be heard a mile away.

MODERN HOMES BANISH DRAFTS

Follow Example of Public Office Buildings

Drafty rooms are not only uncomfortable but they are also unhealthy. Today's standards of heating and ventilating are set not in our homes but by public buildings such as schools, churches and office buildings.

Such buildings, due to public demand, are insulated and the people who occupy them have become accustomed to temperatures that are maintained at a constant level.

This makes for a feeling of displeasure when one goes into a house or room that is overheated or too chilly and one that is full of drafts.

Drafts and chilly rooms may be overcome by use of proper insulating material and modern, up-to-date heating plants that will overcome these conditions.

Raised Closet Is Easy To Clean

By raising the floor of a closet above that of the room into which the closet opens it will be found that it is much easier to clean and sweep out.

Eliminate Fuse In New Wiring

There has recently come on the market a new device that does away with electrical fuses entirely and provides even better protection.

In the old type fuse box if a fuse blows out a new one must be installed. With the new convenience there is a circuit breaker that eliminates the bother of replacing a blown out fuse.

Located conveniently in kitchen or hall all one has to do to restore electric service is throw a small handle and the electric current is immediately restored.

ROAD MEETING ON APRIL 1-2

U. P. Conference To Be Held at Houghton; Big Program

The complete program for the fifth annual meeting of highway engineers and commissioners of the Upper Peninsula to be held at Houghton, April 1 and 2, was announced yesterday by State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagone.

Colonel Willard Chevalier, of New York, and Commissioner Van Wagone, president and president-elect respectively of the American Road Builders' association, will be the banquet speakers the second night of the conference. Louis M. Nims, state administrator of the Works Progress Administration, will act as toastmaster.

Grover C. Dillman, president of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, will give the address of welcome at the opening conference session, April 1. After a response by Commissioner Van Wagone, there will be a talk on highway personnel problems by L. C. Sauer, director of the office management division of the state highway department.

The afternoon meeting the first day will be devoted to a discussion of problems relating to construction, maintenance, land and legal matters, bridges, county highway administration, and contractors. Speakers will be: Harry C. Coons, deputy state highway commissioner; E. E. Blomgren, maintenance engineer of the state highway department; J. M. Kane, director of the land and legal division; L. W. Millard, bridge engineer; Louis F. Levin, engineer of the Chippewa county road commission, and Herman Holmes, Crystal Falls contractor and president of the Michigan Road Builders' association.

A smoker will be held the first night at the college gymnasium with athletic entertainment.

The theme of the second-day sessions will be the development of transportation in the Upper Peninsula. At the morning session, the speakers will be J. C. Cavill, superintendent of the Indian Service at Ashland, Wis.; James K. Jamison, of Ontonagon, deputy auditor-general; Gilbert R. Johnson, secretary of the Lake Carriers' association, and R. H. Allie, publicity director of the Michigan Railroads association.

SOLOMON SCOTT OF C&NW DIES

Former Engineer, 74, of Iron Mountain, Began Service in 1879

Iron Mountain, March 11—Solomon Stanley Scott, aged 74, former locomotive engineer for the Chicago and North Western railroad and resident of Iron Mountain for the last 57 years, died at 3:15 o'clock last evening at the Iron Mountain General hospital following a brief illness. The family resides at 112 West Fleisheim street.

Mr. Scott was born December 15, 1863, in Currie Hill, Canada. In early youth his family moved to Chicago and after a brief residence there located in Ishpeming, where he spent his youth manhood. His father was one of the pioneer mining men in the Lake Superior district.

Mr. Scott was employed for a time at the old New England mine at Ishpeming and in 1879 he moved to Ford River, a short distance south of Escanaba. He lived there nine years and in 1879 located in Norway where, in that year, he accepted his first job with the North Western road, as fireman on a switch engine.

Private funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday at the Freeman funeral home, and at 2 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church. The Rev. N. U. McConaughy will conduct the service. The casket will not be opened at the church. Burial will be in Cemetery park and Masonic services will be conducted at the grave.

Second Vacationist Buys Property Here

Another vacationist, who has been coming to Ford River for several years, has decided to build a summer home in this locality.

Mrs. Mary Andress of Chicago has purchased 18 acres of land from Mrs. Wm. Wellman in South Ford River, and will start building in the spring, according to her plans.

Not long ago Mrs. Ella B. Smith of Rockford, Ill., bought two lots from H. O. Brotherton, Sr., on the Ford River road. She will start construction of a permanent residence in the near future.

Michigan Forges Ahead In Fire Fighting Work

BY GEORGE RINTAMAKI

Newberry, Mich.—Michigan is stepping ahead in the science of fire fighting. With 1937 closing as the best forest fire year in the state's history, less than 3000 forest fires having been reported, Michigan attains a ranking among the nation's three first state's in the efficiency of forest fire control.

Michigan's forest fire fighting machine has become a pogonius of scientific, mechanical and engineering knowledge. Through a step by step study, virtually all of the guess-work and gamble has been taken out of forest fire fighting.

Using the records of past fires, studies go on continually to add even greater efficiency to the fire control system. New data on controlling different types of fires, their speeds of spread, probable time necessary to bring under control and other valuable information is continually being added to the growing store of knowledge.

Scientific weather forecasting plays a major role in the battle against rampant forest flames. During the entire fire season the government weather bureau makes available to all fire wardens throughout the state a "fire weather service."

These reports, which give probable humidity, rain and wind velocities and directions aid the forest fire warden in planning each day's fight against the flames during the previous evening. Through studying the reports he knows just where to place his crews on the following morning and what the best method of combating the fire will be.

During the forest fire season, which usually begins in late April and lasts until November, a special crew is employed by the state forest fire division. The crews consist of three classes of employees: the conservation officers, regularly employed and salaried and upon whom the largest share of responsibility rests; towermen, regularly employed during the "danger" period when constant vigilance over the forest domain is imperative and the "keyman," who is not regularly salaried, but is instead, a "co-operator," or sort of minute man, ready at a moment's notice to take charge of a fire fighting crew, or to combat any fire to which he may be called.

Local Settlers Help
Though the keymen are usually recruited from the ranks of the farmers and lumberjacks who are reasonably easy to reach in case of emergency, they may, during an especially dangerous season, be regularly employed in conservation work at strategic areas so that they are readily available in case of emergency.

Mechanical and engineering genius has contributed greatly to the efficiency of the state's present forest fire fighting system. One of the most valuable contributions to the fire fighting division is the two-way forest fire radio, recently perfected by the conservation department's radio men.

Its value has already been conclusively demonstrated in summoning materials and men to a remote fire front where other communication facilities are not available. The field piece is portable and weighs less than 100 pounds and has a good two-way operating efficiency up to distances of 100 miles or more under favorable conditions.

Airplanes, bull-dozers, tractors, especially designed plows are some of the devices used to combat forest fires in Michigan today with extra-ordinary speed. A high-speed well-digger, also perfected by Michigan conservation department experts, has become a valuable piece of field equipment in the combatting of fires. It produces water from depths up to 22 feet within a few moments of arrival on a fire scene.

Aldade Is Important
Everyone, of course, is familiar with the aldade, the nemesis of demon forest fire. It is the sighting or "spotting" instrument used by the towerman in locating a fire on a map. This simple instrument can determine with unerring accuracy the exact land office location of a fire on a special mounted map which has been oriented to the land survey of each district. Thus the towerman can direct the fire fighting forces to the exact location of the conflagration.

Science has made such advances in fire fighting that forest fires in Michigan are now reached and placed under control within three hours of sighting by the towerman. Various charts, mosaic maps, taken from the air, and other fire data render assistance of incalculable value to present day fire fighters.

Much of these charts and data have been the result of the experiences of past fires. They are the gleanings from records of forest fires over a period of eight to ten years. These reports have yielded information which permits the formulations of regular "war plans" to combat future fires.

Records of past fires have shown, for instance, that most fires have started during the hours of from 12 mid-day until three in the afternoon and that smokers cause most of them.

Thus, with corps of skilled, trained fire wardens and highly efficient equipment, combined with a thorough educational program, designed to show the pub-able piece of field equipment in the combatting of fires. It produces water from depths up to 22 feet within a few moments of arrival on a fire scene.

INDIAN WOMAN DIES SUDDENLY

Mrs. Keshick Stricken at Brother's Home In Harris

Mrs. Violet Keshick, 32, of the Hannahville Indian reservation, died suddenly at noon Saturday at the home of her brother, George Michigand, in Harris. She was born July 18, 1905. Surviving are her husband, Stephen W. Keshick, three sisters and three brothers: George, Hubert and Raymond Michigand of Harris; Isabel and Cynthia Michigand of Harris, and Mrs. Daisy Klein, Detroit.

The body was taken to the Boyle funeral parlors at Bark River, and arrangements for the funeral will be made today.

General Charles Lee, of the American Army of Revolutionary days, loved dogs better than men. He took them with him on his marches and they often ate with him at the table, sitting on their haunches in chairs.

In 1935, the passenger fare rate on American Class 1 railroads was 1.935 cents per passenger mile, as compared to 3.086 cents per passenger mile in 1922, the peak year.

It Costs Less To PREPARE Than To REPAIR!

PROTECT Against MUD and WATER—

This season of the year with its muddy roads and water-filled ruts can do more damage to your car than any other season. Unless it is frequently and thoroughly greased, the mud and grit-filled water will cause costly damage to every moving part it comes in contact with. When it costs so little and saves so much, you cannot afford to be without—

On The RECORD

By Dorothy Thompson

The Letters They Didn't Send From Arthur E. Morgan to Senator Norris:

My dear Senator: I am deeply moved by the personal tribute you bestowed on me in your speech of March 5th. It was one of the happiest experiences of my life to have your support in a fight for the highest ideals of American public administration. I knew from my long association with you, that you were always guided by the loftiest motives, and I believed that in my lone fight, I could count on the support of one who, for so long, had himself waged a lone war. But what green-eyed monster has seized your soul that you suddenly jeopardize the glory of your whole career by showing a tolerance, curious in you, for practices which you have so often and so rightly condemned in other quarters? You would oblige me and I am sure the whole American public, by an attempt at heart-searching for your own motives. Sincerely yours, ARTHUR E. MORGAN.

From John L. Lewis to Senator George E. Berry:

Dear George: As you may imagine, I am somewhat disturbed by the newspaper reports that you have been involved in a business deal with the United States government. I don't believe for a moment all the calumnies that a hostile press is spreading about you. But the fact seems to stand that you have been the owner of marble deposits which had, unfortunately, to be condemned in order that the people of Tennessee might realize some of the happiness that you and I have so long promised them. I am sure, of course, that it was mere chance that you happened to own this land, and that the evaluation you put upon it represented "prudent investment." Still, though I haven't the slightest intention of interfering with your private affairs, I am somewhat embarrassed by the fact that you, for several years, have been the outstanding leader of the political labor movement of the United States, after having been entrusted with very important public duties in the defunct N. B. A., etc. In these activities, which eventually landed you in the United States Senate, you have been fighting our common fight against the exploitation of the American people by Big Business, against Wall Street robbery, and the corruption of government by capitalist influences. You would therefore oblige me, if you would let me know what steps you have taken to clear up this matter and to extricate yourself from business interests which seem to be incompatible with the position of a labor leader and public reformer. Yours for the C. I. O. JOHN

Senator Berry to Vice-President Garner:

Dear Jack: I'm shocked to read in the newspapers that the Chairman of the T. V. A. in a public letter calls the Berry marble claims "an effort at a deliberate, bare-faced steal." He apparently bases his libel on an opinion rendered by the Federal Commission. Of course, there is not a single word of truth in all the statements and findings of this commission, and I am immediately filing suits for criminal libel, both against the members of the commission and Dr. Arthur E. Morgan. I consider it proper to suspend my attendance at the Senate sessions, until my reputation has been fully redeemed. With that end in view, I beg you immediately to create a committee of the Senate for a thorough investigation. Cordially, GEORGE.

Senator Norris to David Lillenthal:

Dear Dave: I have fought my whole life long for the public ownership of utilities, and for decency and honesty of public administration. I know better than anybody else what shenanigans have been pulled in the past by private utilities. The establishment of T. V. A. was the crowning of a life-long struggle. I have complete confidence that you share completely my views and my feelings. You certainly realize what is at stake in the fight that has broken out in full view of the public in the last few days. You will therefore agree with me that it is of vital interest to our great cause to demonstrate that we have absolutely nothing to hide, and will support me publicly when I move in the Senate for setting up a Congressional Committee, to be joined by independent experts, to review the whole set-up and practices of the T. V. A. I know that you will be very happy to put the entire files, minutes, and books, at its disposal. Sincerely, GEORGE E. NORRIS.

David Lillenthal to the President:

My dear Mr. President: Referring to the statements of Mr. Arthur E. Morgan and the comments which he has aroused in the public I feel compelled to ask you most urgently to exert all your influence on Congress, and particularly to join forces

LOVE LAUGHS AT THE DOCTOR

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS: CONSTANCE MAIDWELL—heroine; the stand-in. DEREK MANTHON—an artist who loved money first. HILDEGARDE THORVAID—Derek painted her portrait. DR. ROGERS—he met his most difficult case.

Yesterday, Derek breaks the news that he is to leave for California to paint a portrait of Hildegarde Thorvaid. A knock is heard just then at the door.

CHAPTER III

Derek muttered something impatient and called, "Come in!" At sight of his guests, however, his manner altered as if by magic. In an instant he was all charming, boyish deference.

"Why, good morning, sir!" he cried. "It was nice of you to drop in again. . . . Do sit here, Miss Thorvaid."

As the tall golden girl in the rich fur wrap moved forward, Constance was unpleasantly conscious of her own faded tweeds and shabby hat.

"Miss Thorvaid, may I present Miss Maidwell?" Derek was murmuring. "Miss Maidwell—Mr. Thorvaid."

There was in his gesture the manner of one presenting Constance to royalty.

Ernest Thorvaid bowed, smiled briefly but pleasantly, said something inconsequential, and began scribbling in a notebook he took from his pocket.

Hildegarde Thorvaid said in a slow, warm voice, "How nice to meet one of Mr. Manthon's friends—since we are to see a great deal of him for a while. . . . Perhaps you are an artist, too?"

"Oh, no!" smiled Constance. "My artistic efforts are achieved solely on the typewriter."

"Oh, you write then?" "If you can call it writing."

"This would chat for a while, like this, about nothing; and then Derek would tell them. . . . Constance heard her own voice running on lightly. "My best literary efforts sound something like this: Manthon, Derek; American gallery. Born, Worcester, Massachusetts, 1905. . . . Honorable Mention, 1935. First Prize Winner, 1937. Pictures exhibited: Old Man Resting, Italian Boy, Lady in Blue. . . . You see, I catalog for the Museum."

"The Lady in Blue?" Miss Thorvaid's amber eyes were suddenly interested. "Of course, I thought I had seen you somewhere before. The portrait is really lovely. I—I couldn't help feeling that there was a story behind it."

Constance glanced at Derek under veiled lids. He was smiling and flushed with pleasure. . . . He would tell them now.

"Well, you see, Miss Thorvaid," he began, "that canvas has a special significance for me. It was finished the day—"

"Hello!" Ernest Thorvaid, who had finished writing in his notebook, glanced at his watch and stood up decisively. "Guess we'd better get down to the business that brought us."

Constance knew a moment of shocked disbelief as Derek broke off, his sentence unfinished, to turn to the older man.

"Now about the arrangements for your workshop at the ranch," Ernest Thorvaid was going on. "I'm ordering some fixtures to be sent on at once. Perhaps you'll look over this list now. . . . or better still, since I see you're practically packed, perhaps you had better run along in the car with us and make a few selections yourself. . . . We'll have time before we go to the airport."

Derek's eyes flew to Constance's face in a desperate appeal for patience and understanding, but hers, perversely refused to meet them. . . . This could not be happening—not really. . . . But if it were, she told herself proudly, she would not influence Derek by the flicker of an eyelash.

"Aren't you being particularly impossible, Dad?" Hildegarde Thorvaid's eyes flicked her father's face with leisurely amusement. "Perhaps Mr. Manthon could use this last hour in his own interests. . . . This is what living with Dad is like," she explained to Constance. "When an idea gets hold of him, he can't sleep or eat or talk about anything else till it's an accomplished fact—and neither can anyone around him. . . . Dad, Mr. Manthon was going to tell us with Senator Norris, to set up a Congressional Committee, to be joined by independent experts, to review the whole set-up and practices of the T. V. A. Pending this investigation I beg your permission to suspend my activities in the T. V. A. and take a leave, remaining, of course, completely at the disposal of the Congressional Committee.

My colleague, Mr. Harcourt Morgan, joins me in this request, as he has joined me in all other policies. Respectfully yours, DAVID E. LILIENTHAL.

The President of the United States to David E. Lillenthal: Dear Dave: Complying with your request I have asked the appropriate Congressional authorities to set up immediately a committee to investigate the whole T. V. A. issue, in all its ramifications. Pending the findings of this committee, I grant you, and your colleague the requested leave of absence. Sincerely yours, FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

something about The Lady in Blue. "Plenty of time for that after we get aboard the plane," Ernest Thorvaid said. "Coming, Manthon?"

Derek tore his eyes from Constance's face to say, "Right, Mr. Thorvaid. . . . I'll just shut this trunk, and everything's ready. The janitor will nail up the boxes and take care of the expressman."

Mr. Thorvaid said agreeably, but quite as if Derek's acquiescence had been a foregone conclusion. "Fine. That will simplify matters. . . . Nice to have met you, Miss Maidwell," and started briskly out of the room.

Hildegarde Thorvaid lifted one eyebrow as if occupied with some secret amusement of her own, rose with supple, long-limbed grace, and strolled toward the door.

Derek seized the moment to mutter swiftly with a pleading smile, "It wouldn't have done to force it, darling—tactless and awkward."

"Please wait here. I'll be back for a few minutes at least. They can't do this to us."

"They seem to—with effortless ease," said Constance through lips tense with the strain of smiling.

As Derek followed Mr. Thorvaid down the corridor, Hildegarde lingered to put her hand into that of Constance, and ask impulsively, "Can't we take you somewhere? It seems as though we can do after—I mean it will give us a great deal of pleasure."

Or—perhaps you and I might drive around while these madmen pick up their gadgets, and then we can all go to the airport together."

"Why, thank you," Constance answered, her smile very bright, her tone clear and brittle as ice. "But I—I'll have to run along. . . . So glad to have met you."

"Oh, dear," breathed the tall girl, "aren't we all being rather—oh, well—sorry you won't come."

She turned to collect her belongings from a table, hesitating for a perceptible moment over the business as if caught by an amusing idea; and then with a nod and smile she went out and down the corridor.

So that was Hildegarde Thorvaid—the girl Derek was to spend weeks with in the exacting intimacy of artist and model.

Derek had said that Ernest Thorvaid was of Scandinavian origin. This daughter of his, though tall and lithe as a Valkyrie, was tawny rather than blond, with eyes and hair of light brown shot with deep golden lights, and a golden skin, pulsing with a warm, rich glow—fragrant and lovely as a sun-ripened peach. . . . Most definitely she did not have a hare-lip.

The door burst open, and Derek hurried in.

"A bit of luck at last," he cried, catching Constance to him and hugging like a mischievous schoolboy. "Miss Thorvaid left one of her gloves and I didn't waste any time offering to come back for it. . . . She couldn't say just where it was. And," he finished, his cheek against hers, "under the circumstances, it's bound to take me a little time to hunt it. Isn't it, darling?"

Suddenly Constance remembered Hildegarde Thorvaid's brief hesitation as she paused to collect her belongings—that amused, secret flicker of a smile in her eyes. . . . And in that moment she hated the other girl for the impulsive kindness of the gesture that had sent Derek back to her.

"You needn't hunt at all," she said clearly. "The glove is right there on the table."

"Oh, well!" Derek released her reluctantly. "The sooner I run along, the sooner I can get back. . . . Wait here for me, darling."

When Derek had gone, Constance stood staring at the door, the back of her hand beating against her lips.

So Derek had come back only because another woman had sent him back to find her glove. It was a hateful thought. But try as she might, Constance could not entirely hate the tall girl, Hildegarde Thorvaid, she told herself, was kind—with a kindness as warm and natural as that of the sun that mellowed her father's fruit.

And of course Derek must think of his future—their future. Derek did not want to go away from her. She did not need to hear him say that to know it. . . . But, oh, how she had wanted to hear him!

Nervously she began wandering about the denuded studio, righting with deft fingers the disorder Derek had left after his hasty packing—closing drawers, dusting a little, and carefully covering several canvases Derek had set out for transfer to the gallery of a local art dealer—even setting the nails in the boxes Derek had packed for shipment.

Finally she went over to her former seat before the fireplace. She threw more wood upon the dying embers, swept the hearth, and then—because there was nothing else to do, she sat down to wait.

She had hardly settled herself into her chair before someone rattled at the door.

Because of the fact that 35 per cent of the money from the sale of the stamps remains in the state...

New Fishing Rules Close Inland Lake Fishing This Month

New regulations of Michigan's winter fishing become effective this month. All designated pike lakes in the Lower Peninsula...

Although this regulation ends fishing on all inland lakes this month, it is still permissible to fish in non-trout streams...

Following is a summary of the dates on which the open seasons on the various species in the different classes of waters in Michigan ends...

Pike, walleye, perch and muskellunge: Pike lakes in the Lower Peninsula, March 1; pike lakes in the Upper Peninsula, March 15...

Bluegills and sunfish: Pike lakes below the Straits, March 1; north of the Straits, March 15; all other lakes, March 31...

Refuge Work Is Progressing

The building shown in the upper photo will be the headquarters and residence for the superintendent of the Casino game refuge...

New Headquarters At Casino Refuge Nearly Completed

Munising, March 12—A $15,000 modern dwelling, to be the headquarters and residence of the superintendent of the Casino game refuge...

The building is 45 by 50 feet and is well-equipped. Electricity will be furnished by a 4,000 watt electric light plant...

Located in the basement of the dwelling are a heater room, storage room, and laundry.

On the first floor there are the bunkroom, den, kitchen, two lavatories, and the living room.

Light fixtures in the building are in the early American style. Electric outlets placed at convenient places throughout the residence make the use of electrical accessories attractive and practicable.

The linoleum has all ready been laid in the kitchen and the bunks are being placed in the bunkroom. Other details in finishing the rooms remain to be completed.

Smelt Sport Began As New Ely Went For Pail Of Water

Because a husband who had been sent to draw a pail of water for the family wash floundered a pail of fish instead...

Although smelt dipping did not immediately become a sport, discovery of the famous Beulah run, first known in Michigan...

When he pulled up a bucket of silvery fish and then noticed that the six-foot width of stream was filled from bank to bank...

Since then, with recurrence of the Beulah run and the discovery of similar runs in other streams, smelt dipping has become a yearly sport offering both recreational and commercial value...

East Jordan is usually the scene of the first yearly smelt run, followed closely by the run at Boyne City. This year the official date at Boyne City has been set for March 26...

As smelt dipping grew rapidly in popularity and increasing numbers of dippers took increasing pounds of fish each year...

The fish were not identified as smelt until 1922 after which it was learned that the Michigan fish commission had planted smelt in Crystal Lake in April, 1912.

Although the smelt dipping season has been participated in by thousands each year, fisheries investigators have not found convincing evidence that the supply is being depleted...

BIGGER BUCKS CAN BE BRED

Wish of Hunters Must Decide Experiments in Breeding

When bigger bucks are bred, Michigan should breed them, K. D. Campbell, Stambaugh sportsman, still maintains.

And the state department of conservation agrees with him, according to a communication forwarded him last week by H. D. Ruhl, in charge of the game division of the department.

Campbell recently wrote to the department asking that a select herd of big, heavy bucks and does be trapped and placed in new game preserves which the state is establishing in order to obtain a heavier strain of animals.

Ho has offered his services in the trapping of several big bucks and does which would serve as the nucleus of a plant herd from which a larger type of deer could be expected.

Objection Seen: Campbell maintains the size of the deer is a big factor in attracting downstate and out-of-state hunters during fall hunting periods...

The Department points out that the Upper Peninsula has, on the average, produced as large white-tailed deer as are raised anywhere in the country...

Michigan now raises big deer," Hickie claims. Campbell retorts that the Michigan buck is still "not big enough" and can be bred larger with proper methods.

Campbell has suggested to the Upper Peninsula Development bureau that a larger deer stock can be obtained if breeding stock is selected from widely separated areas to avoid inbreeding.

Need Body Heat: In a survey conducted in 1937 by the conservation department, 44 deer averaged 150 pounds dressed weight with a maximum of 248 pounds for a big, 12-point buck.

Scientists recognize a law known as the Bergmann rule, Hickie indicates. The rule states that larger warm-blooded animals such as deer are found in the northern climates where they become smaller when kept in the warmer areas.

AUGUST SIEGEL DIES
Menominee—August B. Siegel, 42, clerk of the city water board and former city clerk, died early today of a heart ailment at the Richards hotel where he resided. He had lived in Menominee all his life except for a period in military service during the World war. The body was found by Robert Campbell, superintendent of the water station, at 9:30 a. m. Campbell went to the hotel to inquire after Siegel when he failed to report for work at his office in the city water station.

Mr. Siegel was lying face downward in bed, with his face buried in a pillow. He had been dead for several hours.

BOND ISSUE VOTED
Crystal Falls—At a special meeting yesterday afternoon in the city hall, the city commission decided to set up a bond issue of $35,000 to be submitted to property owners at the general election, April 4. The amount, if sanctioned by three-fifths of the qualified voters, will be used for the construction and equipment of the proposed municipal hospital.

The amount is $5,000 less than the original estimate of $40,000, and is based on the presumption that if further funds are necessary they may be obtained in part from a surplus in the city treasury, designed for emergency use. Payment would be made over a period of 20 years.

JOSEPH CONE APPOINTED
Marquette—Joseph Cone, Marquette city auditor, has been appointed by Kenneth J. McCarrren, president of the Michigan Municipal League, to serve as a member of an upper peninsula advisory committee on taxation.

In a letter to Mr. Cone, McCarrren said: "Problems in taxation have always been paramount in the minds of municipal officials in Michigan. This year, even though we do not expect a legislative session, these issues have assumed even greater significance due to the appointment by the governor of a tax study commission, which is to review and make recommendations for a revision of the tax system of this state."

NEW MAIL SERVICE
Marquette—Providing faster dispatch of outgoing mail to Green Bay, Milwaukee and Chicago, a new star route messenger service has been established to carry mails from Champlin, through Republic and Marquette to Channing. It was announced yesterday by Leonard A. Beaudry, superintendent of mails in the Marquette postoffice.

"Providing a new service for Marquette residents, the carrier on this new route will arrive in Channing at 2:10 p. m. each day to make connections with the Milwaukee road's Chippewa speed train, which goes to Green Bay, Milwaukee and direct to Chicago," Beaudry said.

Business won't take advantage of its credit because of general uncertainty.

Modern Electric Cooking
—is as simple as it is Fast and Efficient!
Accurate temperature control proves key to new degree of cooking success.
A woman who had just experienced the thrill of cooking by electricity for the first time was heard to say, "Why, it's just as simple as turning on an electric light, isn't it?"
Of course it's simple, simple as A B C. Or, in terms of the quotation above, simple as turning on an electric light.
Just about the whole story of electric cooking procedure is contained in this one short paper which we have used so many times before — just turn the switch and start to cook.
Yes, electric cooking is simple. It's economical and CLEAN. Spring house cleaning is reduced to a very low minimum in homes where electric cooking prevails. USE ELECTRICITY CORRECTLY. It's economical. Clean. Safe!

WEEK FINISHES WITH RECOVERY

BY FREDERICK GARDNER (Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, March 12 (AP)—After a week of general droopiness, the stock market ended today on a general recovery note.

War tension, as a result of the latest Austro-German developments, which touched off a late slide in the list yesterday, appeared to have lessened considerably, although buying forces were still timid.

Some market observers looked for no outbreak of hostilities immediately and expressed the thought that, even if an explosion should occur, the chances were better than even foreign capital would jump to the United States as the safest haven.

The stock list got off to a rather hesitant start in the 2-hour proceedings, but selling quickly dried up and traders began to take on small commitments in steels, rails, motors and specialties.

The turnover amounted to 299,850 shares compared with last Saturday's low volume of 222,000. Transfers for the week were about 1,800,000 shares ahead of the preceding week.

The Associated Press average of 50 stocks was up .1 of a point at 42.3, although showing a net decline from a week ago of 2.2 points, the most sizeable set-back for any similar period since the last part of January.

Speculative contingents moved on the theory at least a modest recovery was in the offing because of the recent retreat.

Passage by the house Friday of the revised tax bill tended to improve Wall Street's temper-a-bit.

Rails were assisted in a light come-back, after falling Friday to a new 5-year bottom, by announcement of the Association of American Railroads that a move would get under way next Friday to cut wages of some 1,000,000 employees as a means of counteracting, from a revenue standpoint, the disappointing rate boost.

Utilities were unable to make the grade and oils were at a standstill.

FOREIGN BONDS TURN 'JITTERY'

New York, March 12 (AP)—The foreign division of the bond market turned jittery today on Germany's move to take over political control of Austria.

German government dollar obligations took the developments calmly, but those of Italy, Czechoslovakia and Poland suffered heavy losses.

Spotic rallying tendencies in rates after a week of heavy decline left a few secondary issues a bit higher at the close, but the Associated Press average of 20 carriers dropped 3 of a point to a new five-year low at 57.1.

Baltimore & Ohio 4 1/2%, 1960, closed at 17 1/4, up 1/4; Illinois Central 4 1/2%, 1955, at 40 1/2, up 1/2; Nickel Plate 4 1/2%, 1978, at 37, up 1/4; Southern Pacific 4 1/2%, 1957, at 68 1/2, at 1/2; Erie Refunding 6 1/2%, at 12 1/2, off 1/2.

Czechoslovakian 8% of 1951 and 1952, were pushed down 4, each issue closing at 92. Italian 7% gave up 1/2 at 75 1/4. A similar loss occurred in Rome 5 1/2%. Polish 6%, 1940, were down 1 7/8 at 60.

U. S. governments, extending their recent recession, closed 2-32 to 10-32 down.

Transactions totaled $3,421,825, face value, against $2,788,000 a week ago.

DAY'S MARKETS IN BRIEF

New York, March 12 (AP)—Stocks: Steady; Wall Street expects no immediate European conflict. Bonds: Lower; secondary rails sold. Curb: Narrow; early losses partly regained. Foreign Exchange: Weak; capital flows to London and New York. Cotton: Soft; foreign markets down on war scare. Sugar: Lower; less active spot market. Coffee: Steady; European buying. Wheat: Early advance lost. Corn: About steady. Cattle: Nominally steady. Hogs: Steady; trading limited.

Prices Unchanged For Curb Leaders

New York, March 12 (AP)—Paucity of trading interest tended to hold the curb market to a narrow range today. A number of leaders finished unchanged. Industrial and mining shares were mixed.

Gainers included Sherwin Williams at 87, up 5-8; American Cyanamid 'B' at 23, up 1/2; and Technicolor at 19 1/2, up 7-8. Newmont dipped to 58 1/2, off 3/4, and Niles-Bement-Pond sold at 31 1/4, off 1/2.

Transactions totaled 59,000 shares against 47,000 last Saturday.

LIQUOR MEET HERE TODAY

General Public Invited to Conference at City Hall

A public meeting will be held at the city hall in Escanaba at 1:30 o'clock under the auspices of the Michigan liquor control commission. Various phases of the liquor control problem will be explained.

Speakers at the meeting will include Chairman Edward W. McFarland and V. F. Gormely of the state liquor commission; W. J. Johnson, upper peninsula branch manager, and Jerry Thomas, director of merchandising.

"At this time the task of renewing licenses for 1938 is under way," Chairman McFarland said, "and every licensee of each type should be thoroughly familiar with the procedure. Likewise, the governing bodies, township boards, or city councils who approve or disapprove of renewals, should understand the serious part they have to perform. The public, too, including every citizen, has a distinct duty in knowing and giving voice to the control of the liquor traffic."

"The vendor of alcoholic beverages is in a legitimate business. He deserves and must have the safeguards and protection that any other legitimate business requires, and it is the duty of the enforcement officers to provide such protection. They, especially, should be familiar with the liquor control regulation. The vendors in a great many instances look to them for advice and instruction."

Additional Camps For Jobless Needed; Three Now Operated In U. P.

More camps for unemployable single men are to be established in the Upper Peninsula, according to Philip Schafer, social service director for the emergency relief administration, who stated Friday that a rising volume of unemployment above the straits will necessitate the opening of additional camps.

Three camps are now operated in the Peninsula, and negotiations are under way to provide for two more. The largest of the camps is at Hagerman lake, an old J. G. Wells Lumber company camp which the ERA has operated for the past 2 1/2 years to take care of men of the state who are single, homeless and unemployable. Lumberjacks out of work are also employed at Hagerman Lake, its present occupants being 200 lumberjacks and 106 men coming under the unemployable classification.

Administration Explained

The administration of these ERA camps was explained yesterday by Walter Barry, field representative of the state emergency relief administration for the Upper Peninsula. Under the present set-up, the men themselves do the bulk of the work of the camp and supervision as well.

Last Wednesday the ERA opened another camp, Camp 19, owned by the Von Platten-Fox Lumber company and offered by them for use in the ERA work for lumberjacks and other unemployable men. Under this plan, Barry explained, the men are to be kept in camps near their work, with food provided by the ERA, so that the return of lumbering activity in the spring may find them at hand and ready to resume their duties.

Men who are eligible are certified for WPA work, provided that they are residents of the state and can prove citizenship. Only Michigan men are taken in, those from Wisconsin being sent to a Wisconsin camp near Phelps. A camp near Ontonagon now has facilities for the care of about 70 men.

Seek New Camps

Negotiations are now under way for two camps in Gogebic county, where 3000 are left unemployed in the woods and mills. These camps, the Bonifas camp at Marquette and the Weideman camp near Ironwood, would enable the ERA to provide aid for many of the unemployed in that section.

Under this plan the lumber workers are to be cared for in scattered camps, under their own management, with food supplied by the ERA. Equipment, as much as possible, is provided by the camp owners. No staff is needed in the camps thus far set up, as the lumber workers have proven their ability to organize their own routine satisfactorily.

The greatest problem at present is the care of the men in Gogebic, Ontonagon and Iron counties. Alger county is at present being handled on a food order basis, but the ERA is endeavoring to set up a camp in that area.

CON M'CAULEY SEEKS OFFICE

Well Known Musician Is Candidate for City Council Here

Con McCauley, 325 South Fifteenth street, yesterday announced that he would be candidate for the Escanaba city council at the April 4 election.

Mr. McCauley was born in Escanaba in 1896, and has resided here his entire lifetime. He was educated in the public schools and at business college. For many years, he managed local union orchestras, and has served as a delegate to the Escanaba Trades and Labor Council.

After serving in the World War, he returned to Escanaba and engaged in various business enterprises. He is the son of Dominick McCauley, who served as a member of the Escanaba police department for 24 years.

Butterfly Seen At Danforth—Spring Must Be Close Now

A brown and orange butterfly was seen by Gloria Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Larson of Danforth, flitting about in the sun on the south side of the family home yesterday morning. Evidently just brought from its cocoon by the heat of the day, the butterfly was the first to be reported in this area.

Hid Their Beauty But the Judges Exposed It

Selecting beauty queens of the 15th annual Midwest Beauty Trade show in Chicago, judges decided to pick their women first and make 'em beautiful afterward. So they selected the three girls at the top for their "hidden beauty and personal charm." Then the experts went to work, and below you see the same girls after their "hidden beauty" had been brought into the open. At the left is Ailee Ballinet, 20, Eleanor Kowalewski, 20, is at right. And Shirley Mathea, 18, center, turned out to be the "Hidden Beauty Queen."

TEACHERS TO HOLD MEETING

Educational Problems To Be Discussed at Lansing

Lansing, March 12 (P)—Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, today announced the program of a two-day conference on public school curriculum and guidance problems. Teachers from every school in the state have been invited to participate and more than 800 are expected to attend.

The conference will be held here Friday and Saturday. Teachers of art schools and teachers colleges, who were not represented in a similar meeting a year ago, will participate this year.

Speakers at general sessions will include Dr. Elliott, W. H. Cowley of Ohio State University, and Mrs. Florence Cane, New York City art teacher. Discussion groups will consider definite curriculum programs and the integration of classroom and community.

The conference committee includes G. Robert Koopman, Norman E. Borgerson, John R. Emms and George H. Fern of the Department of Public Instruction; E. L. Austin and Alma Goetsch of Michigan State college; T. Luther Purdom, University of Michigan; Lynn Clark, Kent county school commissioner; Leiland H. Lamb, superintendent of Flint schools; Paul T. Rankin, Detroit; Jessie Winter, Cranbrook Institute; Kenneth L. Heaton and J. Cecil Parker, engaged in directing federal school study projects.

Fire In Courthouse Would Bring Chaos In County Business

A fire in the Delta county courthouse, destroying the records kept there, would result in chaos for the business of all county agencies, prosecuting Attorney William J. Miller stated yesterday when asked his opinion on the proposed new courthouse. A fireproof building, he said, would safeguard the valuable documents kept by the county and prevent the chaotic jumble that would result if these documents were destroyed.

Among the irreplaceable documents on file at the courthouse are titles to property within the county. If these titles were destroyed, the attorney said, the only alternative would be to have the court decide the ownership of each piece of property involved. The cost of procuring witnesses, going to court and proving ownership would be so great that it cannot be estimated. A courthouse fire in an Illinois county, destroying all legal records some 15 years ago, created a legal tangle that is not yet completely straightened out, Clyde McGonagle, assistant prosecuting attorney, stated yesterday.

Mortgages on record at the courthouse, when not handled through banks keeping records of them, would also provide much trouble if they were lost.

Inconvenience would be experienced by all persons born in the county if the records of birth, kept in the courthouse, were to be destroyed. It would then be impossible to get a passport, prove citizenship, prove age for an old age pension, or prove eligibility for voting without securing other proof, through witnesses, of the data now contained in the records.

The tax rolls of the county treasurer's office could not be replaced if they were lost. About the only way the county could collect taxes due would be by calling in all property holders in the county and asking them to present receipts to prove taxes paid—and lost or mis-played receipts would cause trouble for everyone.

Records of the probate court, affecting many wills which have been filed and estates now in probate, would be irreplaceable if destroyed. Appeals now pending would have to be instituted again, and all records of guardianships and trusts would be lost.

Lists of registration and poll lists would have to be compiled again, each voter having to prove his eligibility anew. The bulk of legal data on file at the county courthouse and there only has been added to considerably during the past few years, since registration of deeds, formerly done by township registers, now must be done at the county courthouse.

Conservation Men Take Instructions

Marquette—Col. William A. Bergin, deputy field administrator of the state conservation department, was here from Lansing to cooperate with L. N. Jones, U. P. conservation supervisor, in instructing district supervisors and assistant supervisors of the upper peninsula on civil service methods to be used in rating employees of the department.

The school of instruction opened at the regional headquarters Friday and was concluded today. Those attending are District Supervisors Dan Raess, of Ewen; Joseph Elmblad, of Baraga; Ernest Laby, of Marquette; B. J. Curry, of Crystal Falls; Claire Farwell, of Escanaba; and F. P. Furlong, of Newberry; Assistant District Supervisors Louis Smith, of Baraga; W. E. Tommola, of Marquette; Bernard Stephansky, of Crystal Falls; Robert Furlong, of Escanaba; and Joseph Stephansky of Newberry.

ORDER A TON TOMORROW

This week is a good time to buy a 1938 FORD V-8

Now that National Used Car Exchange Week has reduced dealers' used car stocks, this is an opportune time to buy the new 1938 Ford V-8 you have been wanting. There are three excellent reasons for acting now.

First, the ability and desire of your Ford dealer to accept additional cars in trade—now.

Second, the fact that spring arrives officially next week, and it's a real thrill to meet it with a new car.

Third, the 1938 Ford V-8 itself. It is a great value at its present low price—and the value seems even greater when you learn the exceptional amount of equipment included in the advertised price.

The big 85-hp. De Luxe Ford V-8 offers a new standard of luxury at a low price. The newly styled Standard Ford V-8, even lower in price, is available with either engine size. With the 60-hp. V-8 engine it is "Public Economy No. 1"—owners are reporting 22 to 27 miles per gallon.

You are invited to see your Ford dealer this week for an appraisal on your present car—and a chance to drive the Quality Car in the Low-price Field.

FORD V-8 PRICES FOR CARS DELIVERED IN DETROIT— TAXES EXTRA

Standard Ford V-8 (60 hp.)—Coupe, $599; Tudor Sedan, $644; Fordor Sedan, $689; Standard Ford V-8 (85 hp.)—Coupe, $629; Tudor Sedan, $669; Fordor Sedan, $714.

De Luxe Ford V-8 (85 hp. only)—Coupe, $689; Tudor Sedan, $729; Fordor Sedan, $774; Convertible Coupe, $774; Club Coupe, $749; Convertible Club Coupe, $804; Phaeton, $824; Convertible Sedan, $904.

Both Standard and De Luxe cars come equipped with front and rear bumpers and bumper guards, spare wheel, tire and tube, tire lock, cigar lighter, twin horns, and headlight beam indicator on instrument panel, at no extra charge.

In addition, De Luxe cars are equipped with an extra tail light, windshield wiper, sun visor; also de luxe steering wheel, glove compartment lock, clock, and rustless steel wheel bands, at no extra charge. *See visors in closed models only
