ROAD BUILDING FOR MICHIGAN IS AUTHORIZED

8 1/2 MILLION TO BE SHARE PAID BY GOVERNMENT

Lansing, March 21. (AP)—The state administrative board authorized the highway department to proceed with an $8,572,522 federal aid program of road construction today.

Details of the financing are yet to be worked out. G. Donald Kennedy, deputy highway commissioner, informed the board his department was preparing a financial formula which would be submitted in a week or ten days. Federal and state governments will share equally in the cost, on a matched-fund basis.

Wait For Funds Kennedy said the program would proceed no faster than state funds became available to the department. His superior, Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner, said it was possible the department would be unable to match all of the available federal funds.

"These programs merely show what we propose to do, if and when we have sufficient funds," Van Wagoner asserted. "At present I cannot definitely state that all the work will get under way, as scheduled, in the fiscal year, 1939."

The fiscal year begins July 1. The program includes the state highway department's share of a two-year secondary road improvement project, in addition to a plan for construction of designated federal aid highways.

No More Delays The state had withheld formal approval of the request of President Roosevelt, who nominated the federal aid highway program as a subject for the congressional economy act. Van Wagoner explained today that Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace had informed state officials the president desires no further delay.

Outstanding projects on the 1939 program are: Wayne—widening of Gratiot avenue, between Seneca and Harper, 9 mile, $390,000; widening of Michigan avenue, between Livernois and Twenty-Ninth, .7 mile, $225,000.

Berrien—Completion of the four-lane pavement between St. Joseph and the state line on US-12, 11.4 miles, $310,000; resurfacing of US-12 in Benton Harbor, 1.6 miles, $100,000.

Bay—Completion of the three-lane widening between Bay City and Standish on US-23, 7.8 miles, $155,000.

Washtenaw—Closing of the three-lane pavement gap between Jackson and Ann Arbor on US-12, 5 miles, $160,000.

Monroe—Completion of three-lane construction on US-25 as far as Erie, 3.4 miles, $170,000.

Genesee—Widening US-10 to four lanes south of Flint, 4.5 miles, $162,056.

Livestock—Construction of four-lane approaches to a grade separation now under construction on US-16 at Howell, .8 mile, $50,000.

Oakland—Pavement of the divided Birmingham cut-off on Woodward avenue, US-10, 1.3 miles, $136,000.

Paving In Peninsula To facilitate tourist travel, the program provides for extension of the pavement of US-23 north of Alpena, resumption of construction.

Boatload Of Gold Brought To U. S. By SS Queen Mary

New York, March 21 (AP)—The S. S. Queen Mary arrived today with forty iron-bound boxes containing almost $3,000,000 of gold bars in her hold, the first of the yellow metal to arrive here from London since last October.

It was the first consignment of "hot metal" to scurry here in the latest flight of foreign capital from abroad. Fearing of war threats in central Europe last week as Germany absorbed Austria and cast a longing eye toward Czechoslovakia started fugitive funds moving toward Belgium, then London, and finally the "safer haven" of the United States.

Gold arriving today, consigned to banks, totalled exactly $2,955,000, of which $2,254,000 was from England and $731,000 from India, the federal reserve bank reported.

Around $10,000,000 additional gold is expected within a few days on later boats.

ANGLO-ITALIAN TENSION EASED

Friendship Pact Drafted to Settle Differences Between 2 Nations

Rome, March 21 (AP)—British embassy officials tonight asserted drafting of an Anglo-Italian friendship accord was under way as negotiations virtually were completed.

Informed sources predicted the pact, which would ease tension between the two countries, would be concluded by Saturday.

The British said main points had been agreed upon in principle and confirmed the accord would embody: 1. An agreement on Mediterranean issues.

2. A British agreement to support recognition of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia through the league of nations.

3. An Italian agreement to withdraw Italian fighters in Spain through the international "hands-off Spain" committee.

Meanwhile there arrived in Naples the first detachment of soldiers being withdrawn from Libya, Italian colony in North Africa as a concession to the British.

It included negotiations 4,000 officers and men. Anglo-Italian negotiations to settle differences were launched after Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain adopted the new "realistic" foreign policy which on Feb. 20 caused the resignation of his foreign secretary, Anthony Eden.

Air Mail Letters To Honor Wrights Week Of May 15-21

Washington, March 21 (AP)—Postmaster General Farley said today that a special commemorative design would be stamped on all air mail letters mailed at Dayton, Ohio, or Kitty Hawk, N. C., during nation-wide observance of national air mail week, May 15-21.

Farley said this would be in honor of Orville and Wilbur Wright's first successful flight in a heavier-than-air flying machine in 1903. The plane was built at Dayton and flown first among sand dunes near Kitty Hawk.

In addition to the two official designs, 45,000 postoffices throughout the nation have been authorized to prepare local non-official ones. Thousands of private fliers will be given an opportunity to participate in the celebration by carrying air mail from cities and towns not provided with regular air mail service to airports along the regular air mail routes.

With bands unraised in the Nazi salute, and shouts of "Hell Hitler," some of the Viennese pictured above vote their approval of the end of Austria's existence as a free nation. SPANISH REBELS ARE SLOWED UP

New Successes Reported in East; Machine Guns Halt Engineers

Hendaye, France (at the Spanish Frontier), March 21 (AP)—Spanish insurgents today reported new successes in eastern Spain but the government insisted their drive toward the Mediterranean had been slowed.

Official dispatches from Barcelona said enough government reinforcements had been brought up "to take care of the situation."

Government troops established a defense line outside the village of Torrevelilla, 18 1/2 miles from the Catalan border.

West and north of this village, insurgents said Generalissimo Franco's legions took control of a triangular area pointed by Torrevelilla, Calanda and Alcaniz.

Within this triangle, they reported, some villages still contained a number of government militiamen and mopping-up activity was underway.

Government engineering squads attempting to erect barricades were stated to have been dispersed with heavy losses by warplanes' machine-guns.

Sands Farmer Is Axe Victim, Son Held At Negaunee

Negaunee, Mich., March 21 (AP)—Swan Sinni, 26, is being held in the Negaunee city jail following the death of his father, John Sinni, 71-year-old farmer residing in Sands township, seven miles south of Negaunee.

Sinni died from a basal skull fracture suffered in a fight.

There was every indication that the two crossings would be hard-fought and possibly mark the turning point in the widespread contest for the central China front.

Bandits Get $1,879 At Yale State Bank

Yale, Mich., March 21 (AP)—Two robbers who looted the Yale State Bank of $1,879 this afternoon apparently slipped through a state police blockade of roads and highways or found a hide-out relatively close to this community.

Authorities tonight reported they had found no trace of the robbers save for the automobile the gunmen had abandoned a mile from here to continue their flight in another machine. Bank officials, after an investigation, said the exact loss was $1,879.

Burnell Middleton, assistant cashier, told police one robber asked change for a $10 bill and drew a pistol when he was tendered the money, announcing "this is a stick-up."

The bandits forced Middleton and Miss Neva Ferguson, the bookkeeper, to lie on the floor while one of the robbers scooped the money from the teller's cash drawer.

Miss Elsie Barr, who entered the bank while the robbery was in progress, also was forced to lie on the floor.

Edward Beard, son of Guy E. Beard, bank cashier, said he broke a window in his apartment on the second floor of the bank building, intending to shoot at the fleeing robbers with his rifle, but desisted because there was other traffic in the street.

The bandits fled southward on 31-19 in a coupe. The car was found shortly afterward abandoned a mile outside Yale. Police were informed they transferred to a black (Plymouth) coach and continued their flight southward.

Middleton told police he believed the men were after a payroll that had not been delivered to the bank at the time of the robbery. He said the men tried to open the bank's big vault, but were unable to do so because it was locked.

Sheriff's deputies immediately began a search of the surrounding countryside. State police set up their blockade system.

Middleton said the bandits were well-dressed. Officials of the East Jefferson Pontiac company, Detroit, told police that the coupe used by the bandits in their flight from the bank was stolen from a company used car lot Friday night.

Bookkeeper Admits Embezzling $25,000

Grand Rapids (AP)—Carl J. Rittenger, 43, was held under $7,500 bond Monday awaiting sentence Thursday on charge of embezzling $25,000 from the White and Friant lumber company, Rittenger, a former bookkeeper for the concern, pleaded guilty before Superior Judge Thaddeus B. Taylor earlier in the day. Don O. Collins, an insurance agent, is co-defendant with Rittenger, did not appear in court Monday because his counsel was unable to be present.

HITLER SEEKS APPROVAL FOR AUSTRIA COUP

PROPAGANDA READY FOR PLEBISCITE APRIL 10

Berlin, March 21 (AP)—The gigantic propaganda machine of the Nazi party was mobilized today for a whirlwind campaign for the April 10 plebiscite on Austrian-German union.

The goal is to achieve for Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler an endorsement of both Germany and her new province that will be as close to 100 per cent as possible.

Separate appeals by leaders of various Nazi formations were featured in the afternoon press.

Goebbels First Each formation was commanded to do its utmost during the campaign and ordered to report for general muster Wednesday when Paul Joseph Goebbels, propaganda minister, will fire the opening oratorical gun in Deutschland hall.

The appeals were issued by Viktor Lutze for the brown-shirted storm troops; by Heinrich Himmler for the black-shirted S. S., or elite guard; by Robert Ley, chief of the labor front, for political organizers; by Major General Huehnelin for the Nazi motor corps; and by Major General Friedrich Christiansen, organizer of the German air force, for the Nazi aviators' corps.

Throughout greater Germany, formations will listen as Goebbels' speech is broadcast. During ensuing days, party leaders will address mass meetings and Hitler himself will campaign, particularly in his native Austria.

Reichstag in Vienna Informed Nazis here, and in Vienna predicted that the new reichstag for greater Germany, also to be elected on April 10, would hold its first session in Vienna.

Problems of Germans in Czechoslovakia and other issues outside of Germany, including possible moves in the free city of Danzig and colonial demands, have been shelved for the time being in favor of concentration on the plebiscite campaign.

The German press intimated Czechoslovakia, with her 3,500,000 Germans, would be made ripe for reasonable consideration of German demands by the statement to be made Thursday by British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

(Chamberlain announced in the house of commons in London he would make a statement on British foreign policy on Thursday.)

OIL EXECUTIVES HELD PRISONER

Mexican Banks Suspend Foreign Exchange Dealings

Mexico City, March 21 (AP)—An American and two Mexican oil company executives were reported held prisoners today by Tampico workers in the first disorders developing from President Lazaro Cardenas' expropriation of the foreign petroleum industry.

Tampico advices said Edward Borrego, American superintendent of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey refinery here, and the Mexicans were held "within a building" by workers demanding payment of back pay.

Company officials here said they knew of no pay due, unless it was one day's wages in certain fields where payday was on Thursday instead of Friday or Saturday as elsewhere.

Meanwhile, the possibility Mexico would take a leaf out of Germany's bank book and institute a system of "blocked pesos" was suggested.

Foreign exchange dealings were suspended by the Central Bank of Mexico at the same time that expropriation of the $400,000,000 foreign oil industry was announced last week. Other banks followed suit.

The Central bank tonight authorized a free market to let the peso "seek its natural level."

Fegan Irks Solons In Lansing, May Be 'Called On Carpet'

SENATE TURNS DOWN REORGANIZATION AMENDMENT

Lansing, March 21 (AP)—Rep. George A. Schroeder, speaker of the house of representatives, said tonight he would confer with Governor Murphy before deciding whether to summon John N. Fegan, chairman of the state tax commission, before the legislative council to explain charges that "representatives of the people" had received bribes.

"The responsibility is the governor's," Schroeder said, "and I am entirely willing to let the governor determine the appropriate course of action."

Schroeder declared, however, that "I do not wish that fellow (Fegan) would shut up. If he won't do it of his own accord, I'll see that he is made to shut up."

The speaker, who is also chairman of the legislative council had indicated earlier he would call the council together this week to demand that "Fegan put up or shut up."

CHIEF OF TVA WILL NOT QUIT

Morgan Defies President to Remove Him in Power Dispute

Washington, March 21 (AP)—President Roosevelt threatened to suspend or remove Arthur E. Morgan from the chairmanship of the Tennessee Valley Authority today and promptly was confronted with a blunt declaration from Morgan that he was powerless to do either.

The determined chairman declined to participate further in Mr. Roosevelt's personal investigation of TVA and spurned a presidential suggestion that he was obligated to resign or retract the charges he had made against his fellow members of the TVA board of directors.

"It is my judgment," Morgan told the president in a third and apparently final session of the chief executive's inquiry, "that my resignation at this time would not be in the public interest. Therefore, I do not tender my resignation. I wish also to say that I challenge the suggestion and deny the right and power to remove or suspend me."

He persisted in his refusal to give the president facts supporting his accusations that Vice-Chairman Harcourt Morgan and Director David Lilienthal had been guilty of malfeasance, or to defend himself against their charges that he had sought to "rule or ruin" the TVA.

BIG EXPANSION VOTED IN U. S. SEA DEFENSES

WASHINGTON, MARCH 21 (AP)—The administration's billion dollar naval expansion bill won house approval today by a majority of nearly three to one.

Thirty Republicans joined one progressive and 261 Democrats in swamping the opposition, 292 to 100.

The measure, which by this vote reached the half-way point in its journey through congress, would authorize construction of 46 warships, 22 auxiliary vessels and 950 airplanes. Experts say its authorizations could be carried out in four to six years.

Opposed by LaFollette It now goes to the senate, where Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis), Senator Borah, (R-Idaho) and some others have indicated they will fight it vigorously, and administration leaders have predicted passage by another large majority.

As approved by the house, the bill carried no actual funds for construction. President Roosevelt has recommended, however, that work be started this year on some of the vessels it would authorize—two of the three battleships and two of the nine cruisers. To make this possible, congress would have to approve a separate appropriation bill.

Just before the house approved the program, Representative Church (R-Ill) urged that the bill be sent back to the house naval committee with instructions to eliminate its provision for three battleships. His motion was defeated, 276 to 114.

More "Mystery Ships" In addition to providing for the new ships, the bill would authorize the navy to: 1. Build a $3,000,000 dirigible to replace the Los Angeles.

2. Spend $5,000,000 on the development of small, swift "mystery" ships similar to the "mosquito fleets" of foreign powers, and $22,000,000 on other experimental work concerning aircraft, bombs and torpedoes.

Among the ships the bill would authorize are the battleships and cruisers previously mentioned and two aircraft carriers, 23 destroyers and nine submarines. The 46 men-of-war would cost $731,095,000, experts have estimated.

The 22 auxiliaries, to cost $246,451,000, would include five destroyer tenders, three submarine tenders, 11 seaplane tenders and three repair ships.

"Purely for Defense" Officials said the 950 additional planes would cost $106,000,000 and give the navy a minimum of 3,000.

House approval came after five weeks of committee hearings and a week of general debate. Foes of the measure charged it was designed to help the United States "quarantine" aggressor nations, and would lead this country into war. Advocates said it was purely for defense.

President Roosevelt had recommended a 20 per cent increase in the fleet, asserting it was necessary specifically and solely because of the piling up of land and sea armaments in other countries.

PECULATIONS GO BACK TO 1932

Whitney Says Thefts of Securities Were Made as Exchange Head

New York, March 21 (AP)—Richard Whitney, 49, head of the bankrupt Wall street brokerage firm of Richard Whitney & Co., admitted at a public hearing today that his speculations "presumably" went back as far as 1932—at a time when he was president of the New York Stock Exchange.

He said his brother, George Whitney, a partner in J. P. Morgan & Co., came to his rescue with a personal loan of $1,082,000 last November when he was in serious financial straits, but that pyramiding factors led to the ultimate collapse of his firm.

Intermittently reddening as he testified, the grey-haired financier, who was expelled from the stock exchange last week after he had pleaded guilty to two grand larceny indictments, took sole blame for the crash.

  5. Failure of Whitney & Co. to make much money in its operations.

Potato Plantings Reduced For 1938, Crop Service Says

Lansing, March 21 (AP)—The state cooperative crop reporting service today predicted a reduction of 14,000 acres in Michigan potato plantings. Michigan farmers harvested 278,000 acres of potatoes in 1937, but Verne H. Church, senior statistician, said yields were disappointing.

Church said early surveys have indicated little change in the planting of other crops. Weather conditions, price changes and the amount of available labor may exert an influence later in the season, however.

The service predicted a five per cent increase in the acreage seeded to beans, with 537,000 acres under cultivation as compared with 511,000 acres planted last year. Church said the 1937 bean acreage was below average and yields were encouraging.

A decline of 13 per cent in barley was noted. The acreage devoted to corn and oats will be the same, but seedings wintered well, and the acreage available for cutting will be approximately five per cent greater than last year.

Two Men Escape Kent County Jail, Captured In Hotel

Reed City, Mich., March 21 (AP)—Joseph Waskells, 19, Grand Rapids, and Ray Miller, 28, of Lowell, who Sunday morning sawed their way out of Kent county jail, were captured in a local hotel room Monday afternoon by Sheriff Royal E. Girlich and Sgt. Jack Spencer of the state police.

The fugitives were recognized by Harold Vander Wyden, Grand Rapids salesman who was sitting in the lobby when the pair signed the registry. They were unarmed and offered no resistance. Both had been sentenced to Jackson prison for burglary and were awaiting transportation there.

Pending additional investigation by the attorney general, Whitney's next scheduled appearance was set for tomorrow when he will be required to submit to a psychiatric examination in criminal courts—a procedure made necessary by his plea of guilty of grand larceny.

The broker will be sentenced March 23. He faces a possible maximum of 20 years in prison.

TATTOO MARKS PUZZLE POLICE

Strange Symbols on Arm of Dead Man Found in Rouge River

Detroit, March 21 (AP)—The "tattoo mystery" which befuddled police today after they found the body of a man in the Rouge river yielded to an apparently satisfactory solution tonight.

Official investigators had frowned over what manner of symbolism was meant in strange-appearing letters and figures on the arms of Gabor Toth, 60, of Detroit until relatives came to their aid.

Toth, they said, had been an officer in the Hungarian army, and the tattoo marks were for identification purposes. An autopsy showed Toth had drowned. Bruises on the man's head and face indicated to police he either had struck himself while falling from the bridge or had been beaten by assailants and thrown into the river.

The body was identified by Toth's son-in-law, Paul Supernik, who was unable to explain the tattoo marks. On the left arm was a large sunflower, detectives said. Below was the word "Patrol Furer" and below that the figure of a horse head. Ranging in order under the figures were the symbols: C. O. N., T. O. T. X., Gabor, 15-H-E, 2-S-Z and 3-Z. The left arm bore the following initials, S-Z 1882, O. G. S., a rifle and sword, and the letters S. S. L. Inspector Paul A. Wineel, of the homicide squad, ordered copies of the man's fingerprints sent to Washington. He expressed the belief the markings may be those of a secret order, or that the men may have been a secret agent.

Large 'Ifs' Stand In Way Of Merger Of National Roads

By THOMAS E. FLANAGAN
Washington, Mar. 21 (AP)—Several large "ifs" spike the track that leads to national railroad consolidation, observers of the White house railroad studies said today.

Although government officials and railroad executives who favor consolidation believe $600,000,000 could be saved every year through combining routes and systems, they admit the job would be difficult.

Personal pride—an intangible factor—is not the least obstacle to working out the solution, observers said.

Veteran rail executives would be unlikely to take kindly to losing their jobs or being absorbed into larger networks. Many of them have grown up with their roads and have a strong pride in tradition.

Another stumbling block would be providing work for all employees who would lose jobs through consolidations. President Roosevelt said last week some way would have to be found to take care of them.

The Association of American Railroads estimates operating and nonoperating workers at about 1,000,000. Government estimates indicate 200,000 to 400,000 might be forced out of work.

A third problem would be working out valuations of properties so that each system would get a fair return. And more difficult than working out ratios, some observers say, would be the job of getting interested parties to agree on the financial details of consolidation.

Regardless of all difficulties, some government analysts think consolidation will be pushed through, through not at this session of congress.

down 56 to 28.

Senator Byrnes (D-SC) floor manager of the bill, said it would be impossible to accomplish such a reduction in expenditures. Byrd amended his resolution before the vote to exclude fixed charges.

Byrd contended that the measure's statement of policy should carry such a provision but Byrnes argued that any reduction in the $1,400,000,000 "regular" expenditures would have to be taken out of the funds provided to pay for personnel.

It was the third major defeat suffered by opponents of the measure, the senate previously having rejected an amendment which would have preserved the commission member civil service commission and another which would have restricted the president's power in organizing bureaus.

ROGERS' SON WEDS
Los Angeles, March 21 (AP)—James Blake Rogers, 22, son of the late Will Rogers, filed notice today of intention to marry Marguerite Astrea Kemmer, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kemmer, of Los Angeles. The couple said the ceremony would take place on March 26.

a series of experiments in hybridization between man and anthropoid apes.

He raised a storm of religious and scientific furor in 1933 when he announced to the American Association for the Advancement of Science that a Russian biologist was then in the wilderness of Turkistan and was proceeding with attempts at cross-breeding of man and chimpanzee. Mail from many parts of the world flooded his Detroit office, but it was never learned, and England never revealed, to what extent the Russian scientist was able to pursue his experiments.

England believed that the origin of man could be traced only if the problem was attacked in reverse.

Six Men Lost As Giant Raft Of Logs Crashes

Williamsport, Pa., March 21 (AP)—Darkness tonight ended the second day of fruitless searching for the bodies of six men who disappeared in the crash of an ill-fated giant log raft.

A seventh man, W. C. Van Scoyoc of Philadelphia, died after being rescued.

At sundown, scores of volunteers and state policemen had only one ray of hope for their day's work—a momentary hold on some men's clothing which slipped away and was lost in the swirling current of the Susquehanna river.

The searchers decided to try again tomorrow morning at a spot three miles below the railroad bridge at Muncy, where the raft crashed and dumped most of the 48 passengers and crewmen into the stream shortly after noon Sunday.

The spot, leaders of the party agreed, was the most likely place because of the peculiar turn of the river and the current. They issued appeals for outboard motorboats to aid in the search.

The "last raft"—launched to recall the bygone timber days on the hazardous Susquehanna river—was moored today awaiting a coroner's inquest in the wreck.

Aided by an airplane, state police and veteran rivermen searched the rain-swollen stream for bodies they said might have been carried miles by the current.

The missing were among the passengers hurled into the water when the 112-foot bundle of big sticks crashed Sunday against a bridge after riding safely over dams and past saw-tooth rocks in more dangerous parts of the projected 200-mile trip.

Only one person remained clinging to the raft.

Levy (Bud) Connor, of Glenn Campbell, builder of the raft, said it would be repaired and sent

Automobile Sales Tax Receipts Are Watched Carefully

Sales tax accounts of Michigan automobile dealers are being closely checked by the State Board of tax administration in a drive to wipe out any delinquencies that have occurred during the past few months. It was revealed today by Deputy Managing Director Ed L. Williams.

With the opening of spring sales Williams believes that the automobile industry will be in a position to make up any tax delinquencies that have occurred during recent months when the trade suffered heavily. During the peak buying season the department will scrutinize every auto dealer's account with a view to forcing collection of delinquencies and making certain that current taxes are paid in full and promptly.

"Realizing what the automobile industry means to Michigan and that it has been under a terrific handicap recently, we have not used the drastic enforcement measures at our command during this period. In the collection of the sales tax we do not wish to inflict hardships on any business where it can be avoided," Williams said. "In cases where a business faces bankruptcy we are reluctant to use methods that would force that business to close its doors if we can make satisfactory arrangements and receive a guarantee that delinquent taxes will be paid in full.

"This has occurred to some extent in the automobile industry during the past winter but we are now satisfied that the auto dealers are again in position to keep up their payments and we will use every provision at our command to force prompt collection.

"In a recent conference with representatives of the Michigan Automobile Dealers Association, they assured me that National Used Car Week was highly successful and had apparently accomplished its purpose. As a result of the reduction of used car stocks, they were very optimistic and were looking forward to a large volume of new car sales in the near future."

RAIL MERGER IS 'POSSIBLE'

C.&N.W. Would Assume Run of Milwaukee and Northern

Washington, March 21 (AP)—A railroad official told the interstate commerce commission today that co-ownership of the Milwaukee and Northern railroad from the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific for operation as an independent line would be "entirely possible."

The official was Lawrence Richardson, of the Boston and Maine railroad. He testified at a Milwaukee road reorganization hearing on behalf of the City Farmers Bank and Trust company, New York, trustee of the first and consolidated mortgages of the Milwaukee and Northern.

Richardson said he believed the northern line's net income would be "increased substantially by co-ordination of operation with the northern line of the Chicago and North Western railroad." He proposed using the Milwaukee Northern road only as a freight line.

Henry A. Scandrett, president and trustee of the Milwaukee road, estimated the road would have a deficit of $482,000 for the first half of 1938 compared with net operating income of $4,361,639 for the like period of 1937.

Kidnapers Of Seder Die On Gallows In Moundsville, W. Va.

Moundsville, W. Va., March 21 (AP)—Three men died on the gallows tonight, the first to pay the extreme penalty in West Virginia for kidnaping.

James Travis, 25, and Orvil Adkins, 25, fell through the trap together at 9:02 1/2 p. m., and Arnett A. Booth, 46 year old World war veteran, was hanged 34 minutes later.

The trio, all from Huntington, W. Va., were convicted of abducting Dr. James E. Seder, elderly anti-saloon crusader, who was held captive eleven days, then died four days later of exposure.

The trap under Adkins dropped prematurely before the noose was adjusted, plunged him into a concrete pit beneath the gallows. Blood dripped from a small cut near his ear and he appeared dazed.

He was placed on a stretcher and handed back through the trap. On the gallows he stood erect.

Warden C. M. Stone said the trap dropped because of a slight mechanical defect.

Theorist On Man's Origin Called By Death In Detroit

Detroit, March 21 (AP)—Howell Stroud England, 73-year-old Detroit attorney, poet and scientist, whose theories on the origin of man were much discussed, died of a stroke at his home here today.

His interest in tracing the resource of human life began more than 30 years ago, when he undertook special researches in anthropology. Consultation and correspondence with other scientists resulted in erection in 1934 of a plant in Kindia, South Africa, for

Grandmother Of Local Teacher Is Called By Death

Funeral services for Mrs. Georgina Morrison, Copper Country pioneer, and grandmother of Miss Nina Ley of the Escanaba high school faculty, who died Friday, were held Monday afternoon in Hancock.

Rev. Frederick J. Clark, pastor of the First Congregational church officiated at the services, which were at 2 o'clock. Burial was in the family lot in Forest Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Morrison, widow of Roderick M. Morrison, was born in Kincardine, Ontario, January 10, 1851. She spent her early youth there and taught school in that city until her marriage to Mr. Morrison, which took place in 1873. Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Morrison moved to the Phoenix mine location in Keweenaw county and in 1881 located in the Quincy mine community where Mr. Morrison was in charge of construction work.

They moved to Hancock in 1902 and Mrs. Morrison had resided there from that time until her death.

Surviving are the following children: Mrs. A. S. Ley of Hancock; Mrs. A. R. Finster of Detroit; Corbett Morrison, Indianapolis, Ind.; Margaret, of Hancock; George of Calumet; Mrs. W. E. Madigan, Minneapolis; Mrs. E. M. Haskell, Lake Linden; Robert B. Morrison of Detroit and Dr. Roderick C. Morrison of Ontonagon; also two brothers, M. R. Corbett of Riverside, Calif.; and John Corbett, of Kincardine, Ontario, and one sister, Mrs. J. A. Holmes of Chicago. Mr. Morrison, who for many years held the office of county superintendent of the poor, died in 1916.

Interesting Items of Day Picked Up Around Town

A first day of spring, such as winter-weary souls dream of, and poets write about, greeted Escanabans Monday, the official opening of the season. Galoshes were discarded as the bright sunshine finished drying the sidewalks; workmen digging on Ludington street had their shirt sleeves rolled up; mothers and babies appeared for their afternoon stroll, adding a final touch to the picture, was the youngster with a big bunch of silvery-grey pussy-willows.

Pictures of Queen Jeanne Mikelson of the Kingdom of Spelantana and her ladies-in-waiting, Lone Winchester, Jewel Manthey, Estelle Vinetto and Marjorie Magnuson, have appeared in newspapers throughout the country, including the Milwaukee Journal, Milwaukee News Sentinel, Chicago Daily News, Chicago Tribune, Detroit dailies, and other newspapers. Queen Jeanne has been receiving much fan mail. One CCC boy wrote, sending a picture of himself, Husk O'Hare, well known orchestra leader, wrote from Chicago, asking the smelt queen whether she had ever considered going on the stage. He offered to grant her an audition, but Queen Jeanne appears to prefer her secretarial position at the First National Bank.

The Escanaba Smelt Jamboree has a real booster in Karl J. Kleiber, operator of a gas service station at Brillion, Wis., 27 miles south of Green Bay. Kleiber wrote the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce for 50 folders, which he promised to distribute to customers. He said he would run an advertisement in the weekly newspaper and a movie slide in the theater at Brillion, telling the public about the smelt fishing at Escanaba. "How do I capitalize on your smelt run," asks Kleiber. And then answering his question, Kleiber writes: "By selling them a tankful of gas and a change of oil when they start out for Escanaba."

Among the newspapermen men will be coming to enjoy the Escanaba Smelt Jamboree will be Mark R. Gray, editor of the Indianapolis (Ind.) Commercial. A dinner will be held for the visiting newspapermen Saturday evening, April 9.

An inquiry has been received from a business man in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, asking the names of fish dealers who handle smelt during the season. He also requested information from the Chamber of Commerce about bass and pike fishing in the Escanaba region.

Has Cupid gone on strike? Members of the office staff of P. A. LeClair, county clerk, are beginning to think so. In spite of a full moon, birds singing in the trees and fine spring weather, the number of marriage licenses applied for at the county clerk's office remains surprisingly low. Spring's in the air—but something's wrong somewhere. Members of Mr. LeClair's office force think something ought to be done about it.

FREED BY JUDGE

Detroit (AP)—George L. Nadell, former head of George L. Nadell and company, brokerage firm now in receivership, was freed Saturday of a ten-day contempt of court sentence imposed allegedly for evading questions during a civil suit. Taken back to court Saturday, Nadell answered the questions and was freed by Federal Judge Arthur F. Lederle.

FERA RECORDS ARE DESTROYED

Workers Cleaning Up on Damage of Fire in Lauerman's

A large number of records of the Delta county Emergency Relief Administration were destroyed in the early morning fire which caused heavy damage in the upper floor of the Lauerman building midnight Saturday.

Fortunately, most of the records destroyed were those which already had been audited, all of the current records being saved. Nothing was lost which cannot be duplicated, A. M. Gilbert said. A large number of the NYA records, also were destroyed by the blaze.

Executive offices of the ERA and the WPA, although untouched by fire, were badly smoked up but were open for business yesterday as usual.

Lauerman's store on the first floor, although untouched by the actual fire, suffered a heavy loss from water and smoke damage and was closed yesterday.

Only quick, effective work by the city fire department prevented a major catastrophe, officials said. No cause of the fire has been announced as yet.

Master Singers To Give Program Today

The Master Singers, a well known male sextette, will present a concert at the senior high school auditorium this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

All members of the group are highly trained, and experienced musicians—mature voices—and as an ensemble they have attained an enviable artistic ideal. They have, in six years, built up a fine library of varied music and have arranged a program designed to be popular with the general public.

Get at the Cause of Constipation!

You know that constipation often gives you that dopey, sunken, bogged down feeling. Why not get at the cause and fix it?

If you eat what most people do—things like bread, meat and potatoes—the chances are all that the matter with you is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean what you may think. It's a kind of food that isn't entirely digested, but leaves a soft, bulky mass in the intestines that aids elimination.

If this is your trouble, what you need is a dish of crisp, crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need, plus Nature's intestinal tonic vitamin B<sub>1</sub>, and iron.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and see if the old world doesn't look a lot brighter! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Highway Engineers And Commissioners To Convene April 1

The program for the fifth annual meeting of highway engineers and commissioners of the Upper Peninsula, to be held at Houghton April 1 and 2, has been announced by Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner. All project engineers and survey heads working out of the Escanaba office of the department, as well as highway officials stationed at Escanaba, plan to attend the sessions.

Col. Willard Chevalier of New York and Commissioner Van Wagoner, president and president-elect, respectively, of the American Road Builders' association, will be the banquet speakers the second night of the conference. Louis M. Nims, state WPA administrator, will be toastmaster.

Discuss Personnel
Grover C. Dillman, president of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology and former state highway commissioner, will give the address of welcome at the opening conference session April 1. After a response by Commissioner Van Wagoner, there will be a talk on highway personnel problems by L. C. Sauer, director of the office management division of the state highway department.

The afternoon meeting the first day will be devoted to a discussion of problems relating to construction, maintenance, land and legal matters, bridges, county highway administration and contractors. Speakers will be Harry C. Coons, deputy state highway commissioner; E. E. Blomgren, maintenance engineer of the department; J. M. Kane, director of the land and legal division; L. W. Millard, bridge engineer; Louis F. Levin, engineer of the Chippewa county road commission and Herman Holmes, Crystal Falls contractor and president of the Michigan Road Builders' association.

A smoker will be held the first night at the college gymnasium, with athletic entertainment. The theme of the second-day sessions will be the development of transportation in the Upper Peninsula. At the morning session, the speakers will be J. C. Cavill, superintendent of the Indian Service at Ashland, Wis.; James K. Jamison of Ontonagon, deputy auditor-general; Gilbert R. Johnson, secretary of the Lake Carriers' association and R. H. Altle, publicity director of the Michigan Railroads association.

Claude D. Riley, Ontonagon publisher and former president of the Michigan Press association will preside at the afternoon session. Speakers will be Prof. James Fisher, of Michigan Tech; K. I. Sawyer, Marquette county road engineer; Col. Floyd E. Evans, director of the state board of aeronautics and Deputy State Highway Commissioners G. D. Kennedy and H. C. Coons.

Dark Days for Democracy IT is the fashion to say that France and England are democracies, but a little reflection shows that this is not true in any real sense.

Britain and France are the world's greatest empires. They hold at bay millions of unwilling, sullen subjects in various parts of the world.

True democracy grants no privileges for itself which it will not extend to others. It comes as near to being a Golden Rule government as any ruling policy can be in an imperfect world.

The Bald Facts

ACCORDING to the town barbers, there is chicanery in Chickasha, Okla., where bald-headed men have joined themselves together in the Brotherhood of Burnished Browns and are vociferously demanding that barbers charge only for the amount of hair they cut.

Their demands at first seem eminently just, especially when they say they are willing to compromise and pay a nickel more than the 20 cents for a neck clip. But the snip decision that the bald-headed men are right and the barbers wrong just proves once more the fallibility of superficial reasoning.

It seems that the barbers don't like to cut bald-headed men's hair. One barber claims bald-headed men are too particular, afraid something will happen to one of their rare sprigs. Another declares that the glare from a bald pate is hard on the eyes and has made it necessary for him to wear glasses.

So if bald-headed men in Chickasha are going to insist on getting their haircuts at cut rates, they should at least be less persnickety and also try to do something about the occupational hazards they create in the ordinarily safe vocation of barbering.

Wildlife Restoration Week

Wildlife week has been proclaimed officially by the President of the United States as Wildlife Restoration Week.

Presidents don't issue nationwide proclamations every day. Used Car Week, a suggestion to help us out of the recession while undoubtedly of value did not receive similar presidential recognition. So Wildlife Restoration must be a serious problem. It is. Even the least observant of us know of instances where birds, animals or fish once were more abundant than they are today and it doesn't take much head work to figure out that if the depletion of our wildlife is permitted to continue that Michigan along with the other states in the Union will be a sorry place for our great grand children to live and play in.

But listening to speeches, buying a few stamps during the week and thinking about what is happening to our wildlife isn't going to help. Wildlife Restoration Week was proclaimed by the President and has received the support of all public spirited and forward looking citizens because its purpose is to focus attention on the needs of wildlife conservation. Now that we know about our problems let us have some action. Let Michigan be one of the first states to adopt, without fear or favor, a comprehensive conservation policy to the end that all forms of wildlife be restored to their former abundance and haunts insofar as that can be accomplished without interfering seriously with the activities of man to earn a living.

Wildlife Restoration Week should have a special significance for the Upper Peninsula. There is so much good that can be done for the development of our growing recreational industry through the rebuilding of our supply of fish and game and through other conservation projects.

World Affairs Reviewed

BY JOHN T. FLYNN Noted Author-Economist

If you read the feverish, ominous news which floats to us daily from Germany, you are aware chiefly of dramatic episodes, marching brown-shirts, artillery passing in review for saluting Nazi chiefs, vast multitudes roaring under the spell of the Fuehrer's oratory, Goering and his uniforms, the Spanish invasion, the conquest of Austria.

But you never see and seldom even hear of a human money-bag who has exercised a profound influence over all this hectic movement. He is about 62 years old, rugged, yet stooping and looking more like a herr professor than the most powerful industrialist in Germany. He is the great, steel-master, Fritz Thyssen—lord of the Ruhr—a German J. P. Morgan and Andrew Carnegie rolled into one.

Thyssen did not invent Hitler or discover him. Hitler rose up out of the muck of the disorder and disintegration of a nation breaking up a second time since the war. Thyssen picked him up when things were so black for Thyssen's Germany that he saw in Hitler his only escape from extinction.

Thyssen saw Germany drifting to revolution and perhaps communism. Hitler, roving over the land with his brown shirts, talked the language of socialism. Thyssen hated socialism. It meant the end of all to him and his fellow industrialists. But Thyssen, though not in intellectual, thinks in a plodding German way about the world in which his industrial empire squats. He soon came to the conclusion that Hitler's radical talk was a covering of words—that Hitler underneath was for property, for German nationalism, for German imperialism, for teutonic racial domination—just as he was. He made up his mind to absorb him.

For a long time before Hitler's rise to power he financed the Nazi movement. He brought the Nazi leader to the Ruhr, introduced him to his fellow steelmasters and sold to these hard-headed money-grabbers the Austrian house-painter as their only hope in a crumbling world. But his support remained secret. It consisted chiefly of money.

The moment came when Thyssen saw his steel business on the brink of disaster. In 1931 the great Donat bank failed. Germany faced a collapse such as we had in 1933. The state had to step in and save the Steel Trust. Steel Trust shares were at desperate lows on the Bourse. The government, then headed by Brüning, bought half the shares of the holding company which controlled the trust. It paid 90 for them, though they were selling on the Bourse at 22. The shares were bought from the insiders. It was a means of pouring government funds into the trust and rescuing it. But—and here's the big point—from that moment the state controlled the Steel Trust.

Then came the battle to control the state. Thyssen was not yet master of steel. Otto Wolff, leading Catholic industrialist and a group of Jewish steel men actually had larger holdings. The two groups had warred for years for mastery. Wolff was nearest to Brüning. Thyssen needed to control the state. Hence he put all his resources behind Hitler. He and his colleagues put up three million marks for Hitler's campaign in 1933. When Hitler was elected the Nazi government carried off a piece of skull-gery which reminds one of Wall Street—1929 model. A new corporation was formed. It was transferred the shares of the state in the Steel Trust. Also shares of certain small companies of the Thyssen group were delivered. But to Thyssen and his friends were issued 40 per cent of the controlling shares of the new company. The state got 22 per cent, although it owned half of the Steel Trust shares and poor Otto Wolff and his friends got only 9 per cent. Thyssen with his 40 per cent and control of the state's 22 per cent had the Steel Trust finally in his hands.

The Capital Parade

BY ALSOP AND KINTNER

Washington March 21.—In Europe, a savage amateur presentation of Wagner's "Twilight of the Gods" is now in progress. Here in the United States a horrified audience watches the drama, almost unanimously desirous of continuing in the spectators' seats, and almost unanimously convinced that parts in the drama's last act are reserved for it.

Until the nazification of Austria and the onward surge of Franco's moors and foreign mercenaries became facts, most people here in Washington could not believe they would occur. Even in the state department, the best informed men continued to hope against hope. They can scarcely be blamed, since their self-deception seems to have been accurately paralleled by the self-deception of the Prime Minister of Great Britain, that eminent "realist," Neville Chamberlain.

In this space, not so many days ago, was presented the official state department view that the fall of Anthony Eden represented a triumph of fact-finding, and was the prelude to a general appeasement. How foolish that view was has been tragically demonstrated.

A GLOOMY VISION

Now that the tragic ironies of Chamberlain "realism" have been brought brutally to everyone's attention, the state department has had to revise its views. In his recent speech, Secretary of State Cordell Hull said, in effect, that the American course would be based on a continued insistence on the preservation of international law, coupled with a continued refusal to become more than orally entangled in the affairs of Europe. What is important in the American course is the new vision of American foreign problems which dies behind it.

The vision is a pretty gloomy one. The outcome of the European situation is impossible to foresee, but many of the most foresighted among the state department's high officers believe that the choice lies between a general European war, and the nazification of most of Europe and Italianization of the Mediterranean.

The effect of a general European war on the American economy, already suffering as it is from a major depression, can well be imagined. The effect of the nazification of most of Europe and the Italianization of the Mediterranean would be scarcely less pleasant.

In A FASCIST WORLD

A triumph of fascism all along the line would certainly do irreparable damage to the reasonably free capitalism which is the American system. Furthermore, America would be left in a state of desperate isolation in foreign affairs. As one official put it, unless Hitler and Mussolini are stopped, "England will be reduced to the status of the Netherlands," and this country will not have a friend left in Europe capable of important joint action.

Thus, economic disruption at home and humiliation abroad are the agreed prospects held out before the United States. While the country's internal commerce attempts to function in a world where the free markets have been closed, its foreign policy will have to be carried on, notably in the Far East, with nations which have no inducements to heed American protests.

FIRE BRIGADES

The argument is, of course, advanced that the way to avoid the consequence of a fascist triumph is to join an international fire brigade to put out the fascist conflagration on the spot. But, in the first place, the state department realizes that Congress and the country would never stand for such an expedition, and in the second, even the most belligerent department officials doubt such an expedition's utility.

The way the thing adds up is a choice between two impossible alternatives—the same ones which seem to have afflicted British foreign policy with a cheeping paralysis. Yielding to the fascist nations means, four chances in five, a general collapse. But war, in the opinion of those who have inspected the alternatives carefully, offers five chances in five of a general collapse.

Moreover, with our protecting oceans, our chances of avoiding involvement in the General collapse are better than those of Democratic nations in Europe. We are better able to wait it out against the fascist nations. At the moment, they may be strutting like so many cocks on manure piles. But their conquests are huge and indigestible. The intoxication of a mad nationalism will not dull their conquered peoples into forgetfulness of oppression and want. Their new empire must, sooner or later, disintegrate, and then the United States can breathe again.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch's OUR BETTER SIDE

The dog that travels at one's heels is more than that, it is what one feels. And thinks, and is—our better side. The kitten on another's knee is what another longs to be. But for our reticence and pride. To dogs we show the lovely mind. To cats, but not to humankind.

Yes, to the animal we own How many loving looks are thrown. How many gentle words are said. We cannot pass without a pat. A tender touch, and all of that. To our own kind prohibited. Ashamed to be so kindly to The others when we say or do.

We all are kinder than we dare Appear, we all more greatly care. More deeply love, than we dare say. And so upon the brute we show. Our hearts' affection every hour. And from our kindred turn away— Humanity our love denied. Show cats and dogs our better side.

Yes, to the animal we own How many loving looks are thrown. How many gentle words are said. We cannot pass without a pat. A tender touch, and all of that.

Yes, to the animal we own How many loving looks are thrown. How many gentle words are said. We cannot pass without a pat. A tender touch, and all of that.

SMELT FISHING MEET PLANNED

Escanaba Jamboree Will Pick World's Champ Fish Swallower

Who is the smelt eating champion of the world? Nobody knows for there never has been any real attempt made to decide the supremacy in this new indoor sport, but this year the Escanaba Smelt Jamboree committee is setting up the machinery for the holding of a far-flung fish devouring tournament.

This year, about five hundred sportsmen's and civic organizations, fraternal and service clubs will be sent souvenir smelt in sufficient quantities for holding banquets in various communities of the United States. To each club will be sent a diploma to be awarded to the banquet guest, who eats the largest number of smelt.

These organizations will be asked to notify the Queen of Smelt, who won the local titles, along with their respective scores. To each local champion, Jeanne Mickelson, who will reign as queen of the Escanaba Smelt Jamboree April 7 to 9, will send an autographed picture of herself. The various scores will be checked over by the smelt jamboree committee, and the local champion who is credited with eating the most smelt at a single sitting will be awarded the world's championship crown.

Ice Crusher Not Expected Here This Season

The Escanaba, U. S. coast guard cutter sent to break a channel to the ore docks here last spring, is not expected to be used on ice-breaking work here this year. Iron company men and railway officials predict a later season this year, as demand for steel is low and huge stocks of ore are on hand at the smelters. The Escanaba is shown above in an aerial photo made while she was breaking ice off the local harbor on April 8 last spring.

It should be regarded as a necessity to properly conduct the affairs of the county and for the safe keeping of public records.

BRAMPTON SCHOOL MANAGEMENT

Referring to an article of March 18th, concerning Brampton school situation and personnel; I, speaking for a large group of affected school electors, wish to thank the writer (Erick Snelh) for his acknowledgement that we have three members out of five on the school board.

Referring to tearing down an American institution, we contend several efforts have been made to tear down American constitutional right of the people. As to wrecking a system, it is rather hard to wreck something that has been in the process of wrecking for some time back. It is gratifying to have the admittance of as far back as two years of this wrecking charge; yet the real change of school board personnel was effected at last July's school election, not because of promises of building a new school, but because of disgust with the loop hole out of which certain school board members evaded "Recall Procedure."

Kipling school ought to be in pretty good shape as practically all revenues for operating the township schools was put into Kipling; thus the rural schools suffered to the extent of becoming ramshackle quarters. These conditions were in effect long before last July. Our school quarters have been in a delapidated and shameful condition in the country; the old board hired three teachers for some 56 resident children at Kipling, at Brampton with two teachers some 65 children were schooled. Also including the Kipling number, the small children of Days River have been hauled gratis by the high school bus driver otherwise some could have walked three miles one way to school.

It is most gratifying to learn that the medicine which was supposed to be such a good cure for the rural ill, and to make us well, seems to make the prescribers so horribly sick. I hope they will recover, and will have been cured, so that reasonably well people can live with them.

To the people of Kipling, let me say, you will be given a chance to put your school on wheels as well as ours and enjoy with us the pleasant as well as unpleasant daily outings; then also you will be given a chance again to vote for the building of a two room school building at Brampton, so our children can be schooled and have the same advantages as you have and want for your children in Kipling. Is this unfair? Think it over.

We don't want to injure you, but give us the same consideration as you want for your children and all will be well. It is up to you entirely.

What do you want and what will you do. Think for yourself, we are nearing the crossroads. Think seriously which is the best for all concerned.

NEW COURTHOUSE NEEDED

Dear Sir:
I am opposed as much as anybody to an increase in county taxes at the present time. That is why I have studied carefully the proposal to bond Delta County for a new courthouse.

It seems to me that this new courthouse plan should be looked upon as a necessary investment, not a tax burden. It should be looked upon as a wise investment at this time, since the WPA is contributing so much to its cost and giving the community the additional benefit of employment. That a new courthouse is a necessary investment has already been pointed out. It has served the county well for a half-century, but now it is a fire risk. If it burned, it would cost the taxpayers more than the estimated $96,000 Delta County will spend for the new structure. Courthouse business, I know, is today being conducted in a cramped manner that is causing waste and inefficiency. The individual taxpayer will be assessed a very small sum for great benefits. Let's have the WPA leave in Escanaba some lasting evidence that the money for Escanaba's relief has been usefully spent.

Very truly yours,
John S. Back,
Member, Delta County Board of Supervisors.

The Water Plant Proposal THE COUNCILMEN HEAR ABOUT PROPOSED NEW WATER PLANT of your Friday Press issue bids me call the attention of our councilmen as well as our citizens to what here follows:

You will agree with me in saying that the kind of water which we drink is of far greater importance than all the water pumping plants which we can build. Another point you will agree on is that the water we now must drink is way far from what it should be. Would it not be well and wise therefore Escanaba to look into and see as to whether or not we could have better water than we are drinking before we spend another cent on improvements for pumping water which is not and never can be the water we should and can have.

The Petterson oil test well drilled a few years ago two blocks north and one and one half mile west of Chicago Milwaukee ore dock points the way for Escanaba's safe, sane and most feasible water supply. Escanaba should drill from 4 to 6—8 to 10 inch artesian wells on a north and south line from 3 to 5 miles west of town; build concrete reservoirs on hill south and another one on hill north of town. Run the water from half of your wells into south reservoir other half into north reservoir. Connect your present water mains with your concrete reservoirs and you will have the best water there is on God's earth. You may never require another pumping plant other than those attached to your fire trucks, as long as water is caused to run down hill. And going down hill this water may even furnish you sufficient electric current for pumping. Such wells, should at some future day your artesian wells tire of running their water gratis into your reservoirs such a line of wells will do a great deal more to Escanaba than give us water fit to drink—they will even give us something to eat and wear. Not so very long ago your Louis M. Schemmel proved up on millions of tons of Bessemer Iron ore but 4 miles west of Escanaba. Iron ore would have been mined in your back yard just a few years ago had it not been for the unfortunate statement—made at that time that the company which was going to mine Schemmel ore would be unable to keep the water out.

Put Rice to work sinking your artesian wells—have water fit to drink and start mining some of the same iron ore which help make Milwaukee, Chicago, Gary, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and then some, and some day when you get to be good and ambitious to do something really worthwhile you might mine and smelt electrically the Schemmel Iron ore without carry north a single pound of coal. Millions of Bay de Noc rich in coal shales will do all electrically.

Star Route Begins Carrying Mail In Temporary Service

Daytime mail service by star route between Escanaba and Ishpeming went into effect yesterday as C. & N. W. Trains 216 and 217 took up their new schedules with Escanaba as their northern terminus. A temporary permit has been granted Harold Kello, Ishpeming, for transportation of the mail.

Carrying all first class mail and daily newspapers, Kello is scheduled to leave the Ishpeming post office at 7:45 a. m., Negaunee post office at 8 a. m., and the Negaunee railroad station at 8:10 a. m. Stopping to leave and pick up mail at Forsythe, Turin, Lathrop, Rock and Brampton, he is due to arrive at the C. & N. W. depot, Escanaba, at 10:50 a. m.

Leave at 1:00 P. M.
On the northbound trip he will leave the Escanaba post office at 1:30 p. m., and the Escanaba railroad station at 1:50 p. m. He is due in Ishpeming at 4:50. If the northbound train due here at 1:50 is late, he is to wait until 3:30 when he is scheduled to leave whether the mail is in or not. The same stops are made on the northbound trip in the afternoon as are made southbound in the morning. Northbound mail for the stations between Escanaba and Negaunee is made up at the local post office at 10:45, and is sent out on train 216. It is sorted on 216, and transferred to 217 which makes up pouches to be taken north by the star route. Mail for Ishpeming, Negaunee and Marquette can be mailed at the Escanaba post office until 1:30 p. m., when pouches for these cities go out on the star route.

- 2 Famous artists—McClelland Barclay and Neysa McMein—consider Plymouth's clean-flowing lines and luxurious interior appointments outstanding among low-priced cars.
- 3 Plymouth's seats are deep-cushioned, "chair-high." And Plymouth's "radio studio" sound-proofing absorbs tiring road noises.

- 5 Driving a 1938 Plymouth is a new experience. It steers faster, handles easier than ever. And clutch pressure is greatly reduced.
- 6 Plymouth's double-action hydraulic brakes are self-equalizing...give the smoothest, safest stops of any type of brakes made. And the handbrake is a completely separate system.
- 7 Still more safety for your family—Plymouth has an all-steel body, a Safety Styled interior, and Safety Glass at no extra cost.
- 8 The new 1938 Plymouth's big "L-head" engine gives you full-powered performance—yet owners report 18 to 24 miles on gas.
- 9 Plymouth's oil bills are kept low by 4-ring pistons, full-length water jackets, directional cooling. No other low-priced car offers all these economy features.
- 10 Plymouth "stands up best"...needs least repairs. For Plymouth has patented Floating Power engine mountings, a Hypoid rear axle, a massive, X-braced frame.
- 11 Read the used-car ads, and you'll find that Plymouth has a higher resale value than either of the "other two" low-priced cars.
- 12 The big, beautiful 1938 Plymouth has an amazing new ride. Telephone any Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer for a demonstration today. No obligation.

Coats Headline Easter Fashion News

The grace of the new emphasis on skirt fullness in spring coats is admirably illustrated in these subtly tailored Hawes models. The creation of David Copperfield inspiration at the left is the fine wool gabardine in deep blue-green. Wide pointed revers give an illusion of greater width at the shoulders, and the full skirt flares from a tiny, nipped-in waist. The poke bonnet in sandalwood straw is finished with brown ribbons. At the right is a coat flatteringly to all figures. Of copper colored wool, it has a wrap-around skirt with fullness concentrated at the front in unpressed pleats and a collarless bodice which is fastened, surplice fashion, with a diagonal row of buttons at the waist. The grey-green straw hat has a crown band and motor veil in navy blue.

but when the second round of spades revealed the bad break in that suit, he began to wonder whether six could be made. However, he now knew that West had held five spades at the beginning, and the heart opening appeared to be "top of nothing." If West held three diamonds and three clubs, the contract was still safe. Playing the hand on this assumption, declarer next led three rounds of diamonds.

He then cashed the remaining high heart in dummy, then the king and queen of clubs, and returned to his own hand with a low club to the ace. West meanwhile had followed suit, so South now led the three of spades. This trick was won by West, who could do nothing but return another spade up to declarer's ten-ace. The same line of play gave another declarer six spades for the second high score of the board.

Seven of the season's most successful hit songs join with outstanding favorites of screen and radio to bring zip and color to Paramount's big song-and-gar musical comedy romance, "The Big Broadcast of 1938," which opened Sunday at the Delft theatre.

Starring W. C. Fields, "The Big Broadcast of 1938" boasts a supporting cast which includes such outstanding personalities as Martha Raye, Dorothy Lamour, Shirley Ross, Ben Blue, Bob Hope, Lynne Overman, Leaf Erickson, Grace Bradley and Tito Guizar, with specialty routines by Mme. Kirsten Fragstad of the Metropolitan Opera and Shap Fields and his Rippling Rhythm orchestra.

AT THE MICHIGAN
Lavish theatrical sets, which strained the capacity of the famous "Phantom" stage at Universal studios, were used in the staging of the elaborate dance numbers seen in "You're a Sweetheart," which stars Alice Faye with George Murphy and which is showing at the Michigan theatre. It's the biggest stage in Hollywood and the first built of structural steel.

The popular Miss Faye leads the dance choruses in two of the numbers, "My Fine Feathered Friend," and "Oh, Oh, Oklahoma." She also does two specialty dances with George Murphy, "Scrapin' the Toast," and "You're a Sweetheart." The production was directed by David Butler.

Travelogue By Fern Fontanna Features Meeting

At the regular meeting of Chapter Z of the P. E. O. sisterhood, held at the home of Miss Mary French with Mrs. James E. Frost as assistant hostess, on Thursday evening, Miss Fern Fontanna gave a most interesting and entertaining travelogue on her trip to Iceland and the Land of the Midnight Sun.

The tour started from England on the cruiser "Stella Polaris." At that particular time Reykjavik, the capital of Iceland, was celebrating the one thousandth anniversary of Althing, or Parliament, which is the oldest parliamentary body in existence. The celebration was being held on Thingvellir Plain, noted all over the world for its unsurpassable beauty. Here the government was formed and here it held its meetings from 930 to 1843. Five warships sent by France, England, Norway, Sweden and Denmark were at anchor in the harbor, lending added interest to the occasion. Likewise there were representatives from many different nations. The United States had sent five delegates as well as presenting a statute of Liefl Erickson to commemorate his discovery of America in the year 1000.

Miss Fontanna spent three days in Iceland viewing the antagonistic marvels of frost and steam, of ice and fire, or darkness and light. Iceland has been called the land of ice and fire in reference to its glaciers and geysers. In most places it is inhospitable to human life, but is a land of wild magnificent scenery.

After leaving Iceland, Miss Fontanna's next port of interest was Hammerfest, Norway, which is particularly famous because it is the most northerly incorporated town in the world, it being 300 miles north of the Arctic circle. Located in the "Land of the Midnight Sun," the town is visited by thousands of tourists every year.

The high point of interest in the tour was viewing the midnight sun from the summit of North Cape, in the Arctic ocean. From there the Stella Polaris turned southward and made its way down the coast of Norway which is indented by hundreds of deep and winding fjords, reaching into the land between high precipitous cliffs.

The final point of interest was the quaint, old city of Bergen, which is situated amidst picturesque scenery at the head of a deep bay with a background of lofty mountains. Here the cruise ended, many passengers leaving the boat to go to other countries while others returned to the starting place in England.

VOTE FOR LIGHT PLANT
Menominee, Mich.—Menominee's city council with only one dissenting vote last night bought a site for the projected city light plant, created an electric division of the board of public works to operate the utility, set up a rate schedule 10 per cent below the existing schedule here, ordered the advertisement for sale of $623,000 in revenue bonds, asked the PWA for an advance of $10,000 on a promised grant of $208,000.

Then it heard City Attorney Kenneth O. Doyle say:

"Powers are still trying to block the federal loan and grant to the city to build a light plant. But I am satisfied that if no obstacle gets in our way you will have a power plant under construction in 90 days."

ATTRACTIVE VEGETABLES

Luecke Introduces Bill In Congress To Aid Custodians

Washington, D. C.—Cong. John Luecke, of the 11th Michigan District, yesterday introduced a bill, H. R. 9913, which is designed to clarify the status of custodial employees in Post Office Department buildings. The bill provides that all custodial employees of Post Office buildings would be declared employees of the Postal Service. Luecke explained that his bill would separate custodial employees of the Post Office Department from those of other departments and thus make it easier to enact legislation to improve the working conditions of the former. The bill was referred to the House Committee on the Post Office and Post Roads, of which Luecke is a member.

On the Record

New York. Share and Commodity markets all over the world are fluctuating in the wildest manner. The normal course of business is choked and obstructed. One day a country exists and the next day it disappears. Contracts have been made in its currency and that currency suddenly no longer exists. Nowhere on earth can men make contracts involving international trade with the certainty that they will be carried out. Great governments are bankrupting themselves in the impossible effort to pay their international debts, meet the social services which a staggering burden of armaments.

It takes no prophet, therefore, to predict that this impossible situation if continued must result in the bankruptcy and collapse of all governments except the dictators.

They will not, in my opinion, collapse immediately from internal economic reasons because they have already cut themselves off from international economic repercussions, in the only way in which a nation can thus cut itself off: by changing their whole populations into a soldiery and slaves who support the soldiery.

One of four things can happen:

1. There will be a general war, or a continuation of sporadic wars in which we do not become directly involved, that will bring about the collapse of our economy and force upon us an economic dictatorship at home, in which case this system of civilization is finished.
2. There will be a war in which we are all engaged, in which case this system of civilization is finished.
3. There will be a gradual conquest of the world by Germany, Italy and Japan. If they win, we will be alone against the world, facing three strong empires on the march.
4. There will be a prolonged attrition of all economic life in the member.

At present the lowest paid of all government employees are those in the custodial service; their wages and salaries being insufficient, in many cases, to provide their families with the minimum necessities of life.

midst of civil war and international violence, in which case all civilization is finished.

Eighty per cent of the power, national resources and manpower of the world is nevertheless in the hands of the United States, and the British, French and Dutch Empire plus Scandinavia and Belgium. These countries want peace, international trade and a chance gradually to adjust their social and economic orders to twentieth century conditions.

But eighty per cent of power is not earthly good unless its owners are prepared to use it, nor does it do any good to accuse the dictators of being madmen.

If they are mad, there is consistency and method in their madness, which is more than can be said of the sanity of the rest of the world. In a contest between twenty per cent of organized madmen and eighty per cent of disorganized paralytics the mad men will win.

If this analysis is correct, or even approximately correct, then there is only one thing that can be done and done now. And that is to declare ourselves.

To declare: That the fate of free governments, free institutions and the freedom of the seas and the air for peaceful trade is not a matter of indifference to the United States of America.

That the United States is in solemn covenant with all major nations to renounce war as an instrument of international policy, whether that war is declared or undeclared, or is civil war fomented for purposes of aggression.

That where peaceful nations, engaged in working out their own problems, become the victims of any of these forms of aggression, the moral and material support of the United States will be given exclusively to the victims.

That, specifically, if France or Great Britain who, in the last months, have demonstrated their will to peace under conditions of extreme humiliation, and by almost superhuman patience, are embroiled in war, declared or undeclared, either as victims of armed aggression against their borders, or by reason of their defense of solemnly and publicly announced treaties, the United States of America will consider their cause its own.

This and this alone is capable of calling a halt to the destructive process already so far advanced.

This and this alone can serve the cause of the highest American interest: the preservation of our own social and economic system, and its modification by decision and not by modification by decision and not by force.

FSA LOANS AID TENANT FARMER

85 Families Are Helped in Schoolcraft and Delta Counties

Although tenant purchase loans to be made by the Farm Security Administration will not be available in Delta and Schoolcraft counties this year, loans to the 85 farmers who are operating under the Farm Security Administration rural rehabilitation program are adding these farmers to advance toward eventual farm ownership, according to LeRoy D. MacKellar, the FSA's county supervisor. The three counties in Michigan designated by Secretary Wallace for tenancy loans this year under the Rankhead-Jones Act, are Antrim, Berrien, and Gratiot.

A large part of the funds borrowed by farmers under rural rehabilitation loans was used for livestock, equipment, and other operating needs. The primary purpose of the rural rehabilitation division of the FSA is to help farm families on or near relief to become self-supporting. Tenants who have their own livestock and equipment will be given preference when the farm purchase program is expanded, as it will be in the next two years.

This county's farmers operating under the FSA rural rehabilitation program, now show average net assets of $2,423.70 as compared with $1,836.26 in 1935, according to a report completed this week. They now have 160 horses, as compared with 82 on hand the year before they entered the program. Their dairy cows have increased from 3.1 percent to 6.45 percent; hogs from 2.6 percent to 3.2 percent, and poultry from 22.8 to 50.1. (Fruit and vegetables preserved last year amounted to 49 quarts, as compared to 21 quarts before these farmers were taken into the program.) Most of the farmers have improved their tenure status through longer leases and 22 farmers changed from a verbal to a written lease.

No Early Ore Traffic Expected This Season

An early ore season, with ice breakers crashing their way into Little Bay de Noc as they did last spring, is not looked for this year by iron company men or railway officials. Although it is early in the year for any exact estimate, indications are that ore handled through Escanaba this year will be from one-half to three-quarters of the amount shipped last season.

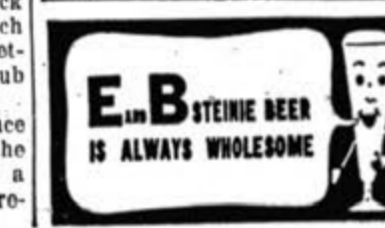

Huge reserves at the smelters, built up during the 1937 shipping season, preclude the possibility of a need for ore early this spring. Last year the first ore for shipment through the C & N. W. docks at Escanaba was loaded at Penn mine, Vulcan, on March 12. This year there are still no signs of loading activity.

On April 7, 1937, the U. S. Coast Guard Cutter Escanaba was sighted about seven miles out from the Escanaba docks, slowly breaking its way through the 18-inch ice of Little Bay de Noc. Three days later, on Saturday, April 10, the car ferry Chief Watam crunched its way through the ice sheet and led the Escanaba and four Cleveland Cliffs Iron company ore carriers through to the docks. The early arrivals were the Pontiac, Pam Schneider, Angelina and Munising.

Ice Holds Thick The ice this season still holds thicker than last year, making it even more certain that the ore carriers will not be in early. Weather Bureau measurements made on Saturday showed a thickness of 23 inches, two inches less than a week ago. The ice was slightly honeycombed and water-soaked. A year ago it was less than 20 inches thick.

Ice 16 to 27 inches in thickness still extends beyond vision into both lakes from the Straits of Mackinac, except in the south passage into Lake Michigan, where open water extends up to Isle Aux Galets lighthouse. Lake Superior is still frozen tight, with ice extending beyond vision from the American ports excepting Grand Marais and Marquette, where there is open water three miles out.

Buying Increases According to a summary of iron and steel markets issued yesterday by "Steel" of Cleveland, the steel market continues to experience slight increases in buying, particularly in heavier lines. "Conditions are irregular and some sellers find sales so far in March have exceeded all February.

1,908 PERSONS ON WPA ROLLS

List Is Largest in History of County; New Projects Okehed

A total of 1,908 persons were employed on WPA projects throughout Delta county on March 15, the largest in the history of the local organization, according to J. H. Stephens, area engineer, yesterday.

The majority of these persons, approximately 1,400, are employed on county road projects in various points in the county.

Approval was received by WPA officials here over the week end for the extensive sewer project on the southeast section of the city. The project calls for the installation of sewers at various points between Sixth and Twelfth avenues South and Thirteenth and Twentieth streets. Approximately 150 men will be employed on the project, starting April 5.

A supplement was received for funds on the St. Joseph cemetery pipeline project and approximately 42 men will be employed sometime before April 5.

"Yes, Ben, I think that Camels are a lot different. That's why they're the racing drivers' favorite cigarette. You see, a cigarette has to have something out of the ordinary to score such a hit with fellows like us. As I always say, there are so many things that mean a great deal in smoking. One big angle that carries weight with me is that Camels agree with me! I've smoked a good many thousands of Camels in the past 10 years, so I know that from experience."

On The RECORD

By Dorothy Thompson

Now or Never!
Yesterday Cordell Hull, the American Secretary of State, made a momentous pronouncement on American foreign policy.

It was cautiously couched in diplomatic language, but its meaning is clear to all who read it carefully.

It repudiates the doctrine of isolationism which lies behind America's neutrality legislation.

It declares that wars anywhere in the world inexorably affect the United States in our most vital interests.

It asserts that respect for treaties and regard for international law are and have been consistently the bases of American foreign relations, and that these bases presume that we assume full responsibility.

It denies that this country can exist under its present form of government, as a free democracy if the present anarchy and resort to violence continue in the world, and we attempt to isolate ourselves.

"The momentous question is whether the doctrine of force shall become enthroned once more and bring in its wake, inexorably, international anarchy and a relapse into barbarism, or whether this, and other peaceful nations, fervently attached to the principles which underlie international order, shall work unceasingly—singly or in cooperation with each other—as circumstances and enlightened self-interest may dictate—to promote and preserve law, order, morality, and justice as the unshakable bases of civilized international relations."

Everybody in the United States who agrees with this speech ought to make himself vocal within the next twenty-four hours in messages to his Congressmen and Senators, because for a year and a half Congress, like the people of the United States, has been confused about what has been going on in the world.

The passionate desire of this people for peace has led us to take measures which, today, have demonstrably been against the interests of peace. While we have talked about the prevention of war, and while we have moralized, war has begun. The question is no longer whether there will be war. There is war. It is already worldwide in its scope. That its technique has not been that of a general conflagration, breaking simultaneously as the war did in 1914, is beside the point. There are half a billion people in the world actually fighting at this moment. Last week seven million people, by a frontal assault, were absorbed in the territory of another country. The purpose of that absorption is to add to the manpower and to furnish a strategic base for further aggression.

The German government will next offer an ultimatum to Czechoslovakia. That ultimatum will resemble the Austrian ultimatum which, although complied with, was followed by invasion. It will demand the reorganization of the Czech government in order to de-centralize and weaken it. It will demand the abrogation of the Czecho-French-Soviet pact made for the protection of this state. It will demand the "liberation" of the German-speaking citizens of Czechoslovakia. If the ultimatum is complied with, the Germans will send a force in to organize German Nazis in Czechoslovakia and will use the inevitable disorders arising from such an invasion to conquer the country. If the ultimatum is opposed, conquest will be attempted in some other manner, and in either event we shall either have a successful coup d'etat on the Austrian model or war capable of involving all Europe.

The Czechs are fortified on the border facing Germany. They are unfortified on the border facing Austria. The Germans already have an army in Austria. Bratislava, the Czech-Austrian frontier post, is one hour and a half by motor from Vienna. There are adequate munitions plants in Austria to supply such a Germany army.

It is impossible to believe that Mussolini has agreed to relinquish all Europe east of the Rhine to Hitler, except in return for active assistance in the Mediterranean. The key to the conquest of the Mediterranean is Spain. An Italian army of occupation in Spain will be at the back of France. Although France has a Maginot line against Germany, the frontier on Spain is unfortified, and submarine and air bases in Spain cut France off from her colonies in North Africa, and from the manpower and resources which they offer her.

If the Italians are successful, France will be surrounded on three sides by the Fascist powers and possibly cut off from access to North Africa.

This must inevitably mean either war involving France, and therefore Great Britain, or a peace dictated from Berlin and Rome, before a war. Such a peace would mean the end of French democracy and the rule of all Europe by Fascist military collectivism.

This will not happen. Before it happens there will be war.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
CONSTANCE MAIDWELL—heroine; the stand-in.
DEREK MANTHON—an artist who loved money first.
DR. ROGERS—he met his most difficult case.

Yesterday, Connie gets her first letter from Derek and elated she wonders if the people at Bartlett's are interested in her. She was to learn just how much later!

CHAPTER X
At Bartlett's next day things got off to a bad start.

Miss Letts, for whose customers Constance sometimes modeled gowns, was the saleswoman who, so short a time ago, had sold her many of the lovely things now hanging unused at home.

Though the woman never gave any sign of remembering that, Constance could not escape a feeling that Miss Letts did not like to work with her. She put this down to the fact, which everyone knew, that the red-haired Pauline was Miss Letts' favorite model.

The trouble began while Constance was showing some gowns before a customer for Miss Letts. Another customer, whose stocky ankles and sofa-pillow torso suggested an unwise devotion to cream dressings, insisted on trying on several slim models Constance had been displaying.

A good saleswoman, as Constance understood by this time, should have been resourceful enough to prevent the contretemps. The figure the woman saw reflected in the mirror was so great a shock to her vanity, that her self-esteem demanded a victim. Miss Letts was the victim.

Miss Letts, in her turn, vented her chagrin upon Constance.

It was Elsa O'Dare who rescued Constance and smoothed down the ruffled customer with a few tactful words.

To the saleswoman, who showed an inclination to sulk after the customer had gone, soothed and flattered, Elsa said crisply, "You must expect trouble if you don't know yet how to talk baby elephants like that out of trying on debutante models, Miss Letts."

Then she turned to Constance. "I'm sending you to Chester tomorrow," she went on. "We're having a preview at the Metropolitan Hotel there. . . . Just you and Gertrude. She will be in charge."

Bartlett's, Constance knew, was making a campaign to advertise its designing department in small outlying cities. Assignments to such work paid a little extra.

Pauline, who had just come into the room, turned upon Elsa, her eyes flashing.

"Listen," she cried. "It's been understood that I was to have this out-of-town work. You haven't any right!"

"We will not discuss my rights, Pauline," Elsa O'Dare answered silkily. "The last time I let you go, you weren't fit for work for three days afterwards."

"I don't know what Gertrude's been telling you," the girl blazed, "but—"

"Gertrude," Elsa's green eyes were dangerously bright, "told me nothing. I am capable of drawing my own conclusions from obvious signs. . . . And it's no use running to Mr. Anton this time. He and I have gone into this pretty thoroughly."

Pauline shrugged and turned away; but after Elsa had gone out, Constance heard her talking with Miss Letts in angry whispers.

Later in the day, Pauline approached Constance.

"I hear the gray coat was part of the trousseau, kid," she began, and behind her sultry lashes something avid and cruel lurked. "I suppose you won't be with us long?"

"I'm only standing in for Lucille, you know," Constance replied as evenly as she could. "So Miss Letts had not forgotten."

"Sure," said the girl. "I know all about it," and she laughed provocatively.

That things have come to such a pass can be attributed directly to the faltering weakness of the British, French and American foreign-policies. In the face of what has been a clear menace for the past five years, we passed in 1936 a Neutrality Act, which in Spain has actually operated to aid the aggressors, and had it ever been applied in the Far East, would have operated to aid Japan there. And it leaves us in a thoroughly ambiguous position vis-a-vis Europe. Worse than that it gave notice to the world in a most critical moment of something intrinsically false and misleading; namely that the United States would not act anywhere outside its own borders to protect its own most vital interests.

Largely because of America's ambiguous isolationism. Great Britain adopted an isolationist policy toward Europe, exclusive of France and the Low countries, and the result of British isolationism is before our eyes.

The basis of our policy has been the widespread belief of our population that war and anarchy outside of the United States would not be disastrous for us.

But the continuation and acceleration of the present condition of anarchy will destroy the American economy and bankrupt all free governments.

Ever since the invasion of Austria, a few days ago, panic-stricken capital from all the countries of the world has been flowing into

It was just at closing time that Constance was summoned again to display some garments for a late customer of Miss Letts. When she went into the show room, she found the plump elderly woman who had inquired about the gray coat that first day at Dalmer's. With her was the man who had been with her. He was not, Constance thought, in the least like the type of sleek, super-sophisticated men who most often came to the shop. Yet he showed none of the discomfort of the mere male who finds himself in an utterly feminine setting.

Constance resented the quietly amused curiosity with which he was looking about him. As if this were a flea circus, she thought. He was older than she had supposed, with a deep line between his alert brown eyes, and a fine web of wrinkles at the corners.

The woman was voluble and friendly.

"After afraid we're keeping you after hours," she smiled apologetically to Constance.

Miss Letts—perhaps reflecting that she, too, was being kept after hours, and nothing said about it—shrugged faintly.

"But I'm going away tomorrow," the lady went on, "and my son and I want to select some things for a young niece who's stranded in a small town."

"We're always glad to accommodate you, Mrs. Rogers," Miss Letts put in effusively. "If Constance is too tired, we have other models who—"

"Oh, but we want her," Mrs. Rogers objected, and went on to Constance. "My son suggested that day we saw you at Dalmer's that you are about my niece's size and coloring."

Constance displayed several garments, and Mrs. Rogers selected a racy hand-knitted frock and a furred evening wrap.

When they rose to go, she said to Constance, "You do look tired. I am hurrying off with a friend for dinner; but my son has his car outside, and—Mark, why don't you take this obliging young lady wherever she wants to go. . . . Oh, don't look at your watch. My son," she explained proudly, "can't forget, even when he's on vacation, that he's a busy doctor. . . . You're not rushing off to any deathbeds this evening, Mark."

A doctor, Constance thought. Of course it can't be any novelty to him to see a little lingerie strewn about.

When Constance hesitated, Dr. Rogers said, arching one eyebrow at her. "Doctors are notoriously bad insurance risks, but if you're willing to take a chance, I'll be very glad."

"I don't think he'd burst into tears if I refused," Constance thought wryly. But she was tired and she knew that by this time every car and bus would be jammed to the doors.

"Thank you," she said. "I'll hurry."

He was walking up and down before his car when she went out. Constance almost laughed when she noticed that he had just returned his watch to his pocket.

"This is a record," he announced. "I've never known a woman to get dressed so quickly."

Constance wanted to ask, "How many women have you timed?" But she said instead, "That's part of my job"; and then in response to his questioning eyebrows, "Twenty-two forty Blanchard street, please. . . . You go out the Boulevard."

They did not speak again until they were out of the worst of the traffic. Then he said, "Do you know, the other day at Dalmer's I thought the joke was on Mother. I'd have sworn at first that you were there for a more frivolous purpose than modeling gowns."

"I should have supposed," Constance suggested, "that to a busy doctor, modeling might seem the most useless and frivolous business possible."

"Useless?" He seemed to consider the question. "Maybe. But highly decorative. And God knows, we need all the frivolity and beauty we can get in this sordid world. . . . I'm not so sure that a lot of the women I have to deal with wouldn't be better off if they were doing anything half so useful."

Superior male, hm? Constance thought. Aloud she said, "I gather you don't think too highly of women?"

"On the contrary," he said. "I've often thought women might be rather good company if you didn't always have to see them at their worst."

"Well, I suppose being physician to the idle rich must be a disillusioning business," Constance said, wondering if there would be a letter from Derek waiting for her at home.

"You are tired, aren't you?" he said in an entirely new tone, glancing sidewise at her. "If I were you I'd get to bed as early as possible. There's nothing like—"

"I'm so tired," Constance cut in, "that if you turn on your best bedside manner, I'll probably spend your vacation by bawling on your shoulder. . . . That's my house—the third on the right. . . . And thanks a lot."

The first person Constance talked to when she went back to the store after the showing in Chester was Miss Letts.

"Miss O'Dare asked to see you as soon as you came in," Miss Letts told her with a furtive satisfaction in her manner that made Constance vaguely uneasy.

Constance, vaguely uneasy.

Retired Local Merchant Succumbs Monday at Family Home

Jay Austin Baker, 81, retired Manistique merchant, passed away Monday morning at 12:30 a. m. at the family residence, 527 Oak street. Death was caused by an apoplectic stroke which he suffered last Wednesday. Mr. Baker had been in ill health for some time, however.

Communication

Having been presented with the delinquent tax list, some, perhaps all of our property owners are worried. A few have come to me for advice, what shall I do? pay my tax, or let them go. In some cases there is no money to pay out for taxes. To give advice in a case of this kind is impossible for the simple reason that I am at a loss what to do with some of my own. It is evident that we have to guess what the future is going to bring us, from the present outlook we can not expect any industrial activity, while conditions in general are as they are now. This condition should bring home to us the fact that we are all in the same boat, to wit, You can not hurt one class of our population without harming us all, what is good for the goose is good for the gander. We got to have a protective tariff high enough to offset the less costly foreign goods. The industrial employer should be given a chance to keep the wheels of industry in motion by allowing a fair earning on capital as well as pay for his laborious planning.

It is fair then to assume that we can not expect so much from industries, unless things change. But fortunately we have some natural resources, which should not be overlooked, our lake frontage. We have miles of this frontage on the east shore of Little Bay de Noc owned principally by lower Michigan men, who I am told aim to develop same sooner or later. Then we have the Hiawatha National Forest at our back door—or perhaps I should say front door—that will mean recreation and timber, and perhaps blueberry raising by control and supervision. This fact, that should make us remember, that we here in this county should make a united effort to support any and all worthy endeavors for outdoor recreational activities. It may mean a good deal to our communities, should be in addition get industrial help also, so much the better. So when we look over Delta county's delinquent tax list, don't get the impression that we are all alone, practically the whole county is in the same fix. Chicago with $280,000,000 back taxes—how will that compare with Delta county's tax list based on population and valuation?

—E. M. Johnson.

IRISH HISTORY IS DESCRIBED

Clyde McGonagle, Pupils Are Rotary Club Speakers

An interesting address on the history of Ireland was presented before the Gladstone Rotary club yesterday noon by J. Clyde McGonagle, assistant county prosecutor.

St. Patrick whose memory is revered by the Irish on March 17 returned to Ireland in 432 and brought Christianity to a barbarous nation, the speaker said.

The Norman invasion in 1160 started the eternal feud between Ireland and England which has continued to this day. Besides the strife between mother nation and Ireland there has for many centuries also been internal dissension between Ulster and South Ireland or at present the Irish Free State.

Leaders in the movement to gain independence for Ireland and what they accomplished were described by McGonagle.

Oliver Ohlen and Morris Riley, high school students, as representatives of a group of students who are promoting the bathhouse project, described the need for the project, told what benefits may accrue and how the work would be financed.

U. S. AIR MAIL 20 YEARS OLD

Anniversary of Service To Be Observed May 15

The 20th anniversary of the inauguration of regularly scheduled air mail service is to be observed through National Air Mail Week beginning on May 15, according to a notice given over the signature of Postmaster General James A. Farley, contained in a recent postal bulletin.

The text of the notice follows: "On May 15, 1938, the Post Office Department will celebrate the 20th anniversary of the inauguration of regularly scheduled air mail service.

"There was no transport system and no air mail service 20 years ago today. The first route inaugurated on May 15, 1918, was only a short line between Washington and New York, a distance of 218 miles. Service was operated in two relays with planes having a speed of only about 80 miles an hour. One pilot would fly from New York to Philadelphia, a distance of 96 miles, and another pilot would relieve him and continue the trip from Philadelphia, a distance of 128 miles. Today flights of 1,000 miles with full loads of mail, passengers and express are a common occurrence. The Little 218-mile air mail system has expanded to a system of 62,326 miles on which planes flew last fiscal year a total of over 70 million miles.

"The record of such remarkable progress should be properly commemorated. Through these two decades the Post Office Department has been closely associated with the pioneering work that has been done to give us the wonderful air transportation system which we have today, and it is most fitting that we should appropriately observe National Air Mail Week beginning on the anniversary date of the inauguration of the service.

"It is my desire that every postmaster, and every official and employee of the postal service, give his whole-hearted support to make this campaign in which the public is being invited to participate a complete success. I know that it is only necessary to request your cooperation."

Tigers Step Out With Long Distance Clouting

HEAVY HITTING HARD ON BEES

Three Triples, Double Give Detroit 4 to 3 Win at Camp

Bradenton, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Long distance clouting—the kind of hitting that made them the scourge of the American League in the pennant winning days of 1934 and 1935—gave the Detroit Tigers a 4 to 3 victory over the venerable Boston Bees in an exhibition game here today.

It was Detroit's second straight win in the "grapefruit league" and the credit must go to Henry Greenberg, Rudolph Preston York and Roy Cullenbine, who belted out triples, and Jo-Jo White, who smacked a double.

Detroit got but eight hits off Danny MacFayden and Lou Fette, Boston's aging hurlers. The Red Sox got seven blows off the Tiger moundmen. George Coffman, who started, did not allow a blow in three frames. Young Joe Rogalski, his successor, gave up five blows and two runs in the next three frames. Alton Benton, also a recruit, was tagged for a pair of blows and one run in his three inning stint.

This 3 out of 4 Cullenbine, the hero of Detroit's 13 to 0 victory over the Senators in their training game held Sunday, captured his share of the honors today. He got three hits in four trips. Sunday he had the same record. That kind of batting is likely to give him one of the vacant outfield jobs. (Fred (Dixie) Walker and Ervin (Pete) Fox appear certain for the other garden berths.

Detroit got away fast, getting two runs in the third when White doubled to right. Cullenbine fled out. Tony Piet singled to left and York tripled to center.

The Bees knotted the count in the fifth. After Al Cucchiello had popped, Moore singled. West doubled to right. Fletcher scored Moore with a scratch single and West came home when Greenberg made a bad throw to Rogalski. That ended the rally.

Put Game On Ice The Tigers put the game on ice with some power hitting in the seventh. Cullenbine tripled to right. Piet rolled out. Greenberg tripled to center, scoring Cullenbine and Hank came home when Roy Johnson muffed Moore's relay. George Tebbetts and Chester Laabs went out in order.

Benton's wildness (he walked four men in three innings) contributed the final Boston run in the eighth. After two were out, Reis singled and Johnson, Cucchiello and Moore walked in order, forcing in a run. West then forced Moore.

Detroit has an open date Tuesday but on Wednesday will travel to Orlando to play the second game of their series with Washington. The Brooklyn Dodgers come to Lakeland Thursday. On Friday Detroit goes to St. Petersburg to play the Cardinals.

Greenberg was the sole regular in the Tiger infield today. Don Ross sporting third, Frank Durocher shortstop and Piet second base. Billy Rogell, regular shortstop, went to a hospital today to have an infected bruise on his left hand lanced.

Crisler Gathers Aides For Talk On Building '38 Team

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 21 (AP)—Head Coach Fritz Crisler, soon to get down to brass tacks in developing Michigan's 1938 football team, grouped all his aides about him today for the first time.

The newest appointee to an assistantship, line coach Clarence Munn, arrived today from Syracuse, and he, Crisler, backfield coach Earl Martineau and end coach Campbell Dickson conferred at Crisler's home.

Tonight the four made their initial public appearance together at a campus rally in Hill auditorium. Munn will return to Syracuse this week to clear up affairs, but he will be on hand for the start of spring practice next Monday.

Response to questionnaires sent out by Crisler indicate upwards of 160 candidates, a potential record at Michigan, would report for the start of drill.

Drunken Man Ends Fear Of Jail Break

Denver (AP)—Jail officials suspected there had been an attempted jailbreak when they found the lock on one of the huge steel doors at the county jail had been "limbed."

Locksmiths were called to repair the damage. One of the inmates in the nearby "bullpen," charged with drunkenness, discovered their presence. "I'm sure glad you are fixing that gum machine," he said. "The thing is foxy. I put three pennies in it and it wouldn't work.

Former Eskymo Aces Will Meet All-Stars

Ten former Escanaba high school cage stars have been named to oppose the world renowned Oshkosh All Stars at the junior high school gymnasium here Friday evening. The game is being sponsored by the high school athletic association and proceeds will go toward the fieldhouse fund.

The boys, most of whom have played this year either on the Looners or Eagles, two of the strongest teams in the city, will be as follows: George and Job Anderson, Roy, Eddie and Del Johnson, Stan Jensen, Dick Christensen, Cliff Beaudin, Bob Embs and Cooney Hogan.

The Andersons, Christensen and Beaudin are members of the Eagles, who won the Garden independent tournament two weeks ago while Roy and Eddie Johnson, Stan Jensen and Bob Embs are from the Looners, who were city champions and who won the independent tournament at Hermansville last week end. Del Johnson and Hogan played with the Bevenocs during the past season.

Principal Edward Edick yesterday predicted one of the largest crowds in history to see the game, reports coming in that neighboring towns are sending large delegations here Friday night.

A limited number of reserved seats will be available at the junior and senior high schools starting Wednesday morning. Officials for the game will be announced later.

New World Record Set By Rutherford In Gold Cup Racer

Miami Beach, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Jack Rutherford of Palm Beach broke his own world record twice with the gold cup boat Juno today and his wife Maude, not to be outdone, borrowed a 225-class hydroplane and drove it to a new record.

Rutherford barely missed his 90-mile-an-hour goal with the Chinese "suicide squadron." Two hours after cracking his previous record of 84.6065 miles an hour, set last September at Washington, Rutherford came back and sent the non-supercharged 12-cylinder boat roaring over the mile course at 97.76 miles an hour.

Mrs. Rutherford, given the wheel after one attempt had failed, drove George C. Cannon's Gray Goose to a new 225 record of 73.5445 miles an hour. Hugh Gingras of Rockledge, Fla., figured the smaller Mrs. Rutherford might get more speed out of the boat, relinquished the Gray Goose after his best effort, 73.435, had fallen short of the record 73.171 set by Jack Cooper of Kansas City in the tops 2nd at Red Bank, N. J., last August.

Rutherford first broke his old record with a speed of 88.670 miles an hour. Dissatisfied, he made an unofficial test run alone at 90.339, then set up the new record with S. Mortimer Auerbach of Atlantic City in the boat with him.

The Juno was rebuilt here after capsizing it last September in the second heat of the President's cup regatta at Washington. The boat was designed to carry a prototype, with the idea of ramming a large vessel with it, the driver sacrificing his life. The Juno was converted into a racing boat when the persons who ordered it failed to produce the money.

In Camp With Big Leaguers

Orlando, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Owner Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators said today Leon "Goose" Goslin, former Detroit outfielder, "looks like he could get in pretty good condition."

The veteran Goslin, once ranked among the bet hitters of the American league, has been working out at the Senators' spring training camp here.

"However, it won't be until we leave here (April 7) before I'll know definitely whether we'll sign him with Washington," Griffith said.

Goslin was given an unconditional release by Detroit after last season.

Basketball's Daddy To Give Talk Here Tonight

Dr. James A. Naismith, "daddy" of basketball, the most highly popular sport in America today, will tell of his experiences in starting and developing the cage sport at the William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium here this evening beginning at 8 o'clock.

Members of the high school teams which competed in the district basketball tourney here last week, persons holding season's tickets to Escanaba high school games and to tournament games will be guests of the high school athletic association. The meeting is open to the general public.

Cliff Drury, Upper Peninsula Hi-Y leader, will accompany Dr. Naismith here.

Not Born In Indiana Strange as it may seem Hoosierdom wasn't the birthplace of basketball. It almost seems to bear up with the tradition that Indiana should have been the mother state of our cage game. Just the same as it now is the mother state of many of the finest players in the country.

It was while Dr. Naismith was an instructor in a Y. M. C. A. at Springfield, Mass., that the only pure and undiluted United States of America sport was born. Higher-ups asked the genial doctor to devise some sort of a game that could be played indoors during winter. He got busy, tacked up some tall cone-shaped peach baskets (hence the name) and used a soccer football for a ball.

The game found favor and grew with unprecedented speed. Now today it has more players than any other indoor sport in the world and probably exceeds all outdoor sports in the number of athletes involved. And further than that it draws more paid admissions annually than any other sport in the small places where football teams aren't sponsored because of school size, fans are ardent cage fans from early fall until late spring.

Prose Gain In Favor On the upswing with basketball and football comes the increase in favor toward pro basketball performers. The boys who play-for-pay are made up largely of college grads who played through high school and college before entering the pro ranks.

The pro cage team can't be just a winning aggregation—not just a team that has collected a squad of men who can turn back other teams with monotonous regularity. A pro team has to have class besides. Such is the power needed for drawing the fans through the gates.

Even a good high school team in football or basketball that plays the game along straight and staid lines can't catch the eye of the fan who demands something extra to please the sport fan of today—there are too many average players in the world.

STAHL GOES TO SECOND PLACE

Bowler Rolls Up Total of 713 Individual at Chicago Meet

Chicago, March 21. (AP)—One brilliant singles game and three ranking doubles scores were contributed to the American Bowling Congress records tonight.

Jack Stahl of Detroit, scoring consistently at well over a 200-clip, rolled up a grand total of 713 in the individual event and went into second place.

Merritt (Buzz) Wilson and Fred Taff of St. Louis became the latest pace-setters in the wide-open two-man team scramble when they compiled a 1,292 count. Fifth place in the doubles standings was jointly taken over by Carl Brehobol and Robert Bollinger of Indianapolis and Ervin Brunsmann and Harry Frederic of St. Louis. Each pair scored a 1,269.

Taff and Brunsmann earnings pairings of ninth and tenth respectively in the all-events. Stahl's individual effort was the high-light of the scoring. The youthful member of the Columbia Coal company started his singles effort with a fine 242. In his second game, he raised his figure to 256. He struck out in the tenth frame for 215.

Only Knute Anderson of Moline, Ill., with his near-record 746, tumbled more pins than Stahl.

Wilson and Taff, members of the Witek Forests who hold the unofficial world's team record of 3,797 exceeded by 13 pins the best previous two-man figure as they took the lead. Taff tumbled 247 and 258 in his first two games, and though he fell off to 194 in the final, had a 699 series.

Their score: Wilson 184, 211, 198; Taff 247, 258, 194—totals 431, 469, 392—1,292.

Among the disappointments were the showings of Otto Steis, of St. Louis, former match champion and winner of the all-events in 1929, and Nelson Burton of Dallas, who shared the two-man championship a year ago. Steis rolled but 549 in the singles after 627 in doubles. Burton failed to reach par either time with counts of 571 and 587.

Standings for individuals: Knute Anderson, Moline, Ill., 746. Jack Stahl, Detroit, 713. Frank Koloy, Brockport, N. Y., 689.

Ted Seiner, Indianapolis, 688. John Duthora, Arlington Heights, Ill., 686. All-events: Don Beatty, Jackson, Mich., 1,978.

HARRIS PWA GRANT KILLED

Allocation of Fund for New High School Is Rescinded

Harris, Mich.—The Harris board of education has received word from the PWA office at Chicago that the allocation of PWA funds made to the Harris Township School District for the purpose of constructing a new high school was rescinded.

The Harris board of education made application for a PWA loan of $35,000 and a grant of $23,636 in June 1935. The Federal government approved of the loan and grant in October 1937. The board of education could not accept the offer of the Federal Government because of the strict provisions of Act 2, Public Acts of the State of Michigan, which was passed in the extra session of 1937. Under the terms of the act the State Public Debt Commission held that no Certificate of Compliance would be issued to any municipality whose bonds matured over a period greater than five years unless the municipality making the application for a certificate could show at the time of making an application for a certificate that it could meet its obligations over the five year period.

A Supreme Court Test case was initiated by Paris and Wyoming townships in Kent County who likewise could not accept their PWA offers to secure an interpretation of the act. The court ruled in favor of the Public Debt Commission.

Bonds could not be sold without first securing a certificate of compliance from the State Public Debt Commission; for that reason the Federal offers were rescinded. Noel Ronger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ronger of Harris, and senior at the Harris High School has been chosen to attend the boys summer conference which will be held at the Michigan State College Campus in July. The boys will have an opportunity to participate in a model state government called the "49th State" or "Wolverine State". The conference is sponsored by the American Legion.

Joseph B. Gucky, superintendent of schools at Harris, and J. C. Eidt, MEA delegate, Menominee, will motor to Lansing to attend the Annual Representative Assembly of the Michigan Education Association which will be held at the Hotel Olds Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, March 24, 25, and 26. School finance problems and proposed legislation will be discussed at the meeting.

had suffered from constipation and kidney trouble. It seemed nothing had the power to root out these stubborn ailments. This condition was so distressing that I was unable to get my proper rest and sleep at night. My food did not digest as it should which added to my discomfort. I read in the paper of so many who had received such marvelous help from this new laxative-tonic that I decided to buy a box of KruGon and give it a fair trial."

"In just one week's time, KruGon proved itself to me," continued Mr. Shelly. "My kidney trouble is much improved, I am now able to get good sound restful sleep at night and feel that KruGon has done wonders for me. Constipation does not bother me now and I eat and enjoy my food without any discomfort. It seems my entire system has been cleansed and set to functioning in the manner Nature intended. I am glad to recommend KruGon to anyone suffering as I was and assure they will not be disappointed."

Collector Of Wood Is Rotary Speaker

Probably one of the most unusual hobbies in the mid-west was explained and demonstrated at the regular Rotary meeting yesterday noon by Walter Fields, whose interests over the past 20 years has been that of collecting different specimens of wood from all over the world.

The speaker brought as many different types of woods as is possible to transport easily. His collection includes about 1,000 individual types ranging from native woods to those from the far corners of the earth and including the heaviest and lightest in weight per cubic foot.

Along with the showing of his collection the speaker had many souvenir pieces and native wooden musical instruments from foreign lands—that he has acquired through friends in foreign lands and collectors in this country who have traveled abroad.

Fields' hobby, that has now grown into his avocation, was started way back many years ago when he first was employed by the E & L S railroad. It was through his natural knack of collecting odd pieces of local woods that his collection originated. His fellow workers soon heard about the unusual ambition of Fields' and on every occasion helped him enlarge his "show." Once he became known to the other six large wood collectors in the U.S. his cabinet filled rapidly as they have an exchange list between them that enables each one to get specimens foreign to a particular territory by trading with each other. Fields has spent much time writing letters and communications to foreign collectors in order to enlarge his collection.

The speaker outlined briefly the interests of hobby starting that he not only enjoyed a thrill when he received an unusual piece of wood from a distant land, but also it was a hobby that was produced by nature, thus making it different from collecting history of acquisitions connected with them. One in particular, a wooden doll from India, was received in trade for a cigarette case with a zipper across the top. This case so fascinated one of the tribal rulers that he visited the ruler of the white man seven times in one day trying to discover how the zipper opened and closed the case. Another time one of Fields' collector—friends was traveling in a jungle and came across a native ruler sitting on a log looking forlorn because he had been bitten by a snake and that the medicine man had told him he had two days to live. The collector happened to be a doctor and with due respects to the chief he opened his kit and rendered medical attention for snake bite that saved the chief from possible death. The tribal ruler was so indebted to the doctor that on another occasion when the two met, the chief took the doctor to his hunt and in exchange for the medical services, offered the doctor three of the best wives he had for the doctor to take back to America with him.

Fields does not feel that he has anywhere reached his ambition of having a complete collection. At present he has 1,000 pieces and if his collection were complete he would have around 35,000 known different species.

LARGER PARISH GETS RESULTS

'Circuit Riding' Brought Up to Date in Rural Communities

Newberry, March 21—Pioneer work which is already bearing fruit, is being carried on in the Newberry Larger Parish in an unique plan which carried the church to the smaller communities and rural districts in the eastern end of the peninsula. The work of Methodist Episcopal pastors has been generally confined to well-settled localities which can support a pastor and a church. For years Rev. Alvin Doten, well known "sky pilot," visited these smaller churches, giving them services as often as the large district and the seasonal weather permitted.

Last year, under the direction of District Supt. Yeoman of Marquette, the Newberry Larger Parish was organized. Two assistant pastors were given Rev. John Lewin of the Newberry church. These two men, Victor Lome and Don Stubbs, have divided the district. Mr. Lome serving in the eastern end and Mr. Stubbs in the locality west of Newberry. Each of the smaller localities now have at least one service a week. Sunday schools are flourishing and Epworth Leagues are now organized and functioning where no young people's church work has ever existed.

and the school superintendent, Mr. Lind, was in charge of recreation. Following the roll call it was asked that those present who had ever been members of a young people's church group, to raise their hands. Only 16 did so, showing the need of such a program in the smaller localities.

The program was carried on by the young people, Dr. Yeoman presiding. Miss Diller of Germfask talked on "The Epworth League," going into the history of the organization. Robert Lome of Newberry talked on "The Marks of Youth." This young man insists that the youthfulness of a person is not dependent on "years." Open-mindedness, readiness to learn, sincerity, zealousness for service and a sense of honor makes the youthfulness person, and the lack of these qualities indicates age, no matter how many or how few years the person has lived.

Rev. J. E. Lewis, supervising pastor, presided at the business meeting. He discovered that Grand Marais was represented by eleven young men who drove 160 miles the round trip to attend the meeting. One car load of Germfask young people were able to attend because Mr. Morrison of that town cancelled an appointment at Munising to drive them over, when he found that their plans for transportation had failed. Mr. Lome used his panel truck to transport a group of Trout Lake young people to the meeting. The attendance at these meetings and the spirit shown there indicated that a real work is being accomplished through the Newberry Larger Parish. It is a type of "circuit riding" brought up to date.

LIONS CLUB ACTIVITIES

Tonight (Tuesday) a group of about 40 Newberry high school students, including members of both basketball squads and some members of the Hi-Y club, will go to Sault Ste. Marie to attend a banquet and listen to a lecture given there by Dr. Nainsmith, founder of the game of basketball and president emeritus of Kansas university. The local Lions club is furnishing transportation and paying for the dinner.

On Friday night, April 1, the Harlem Globe Trotters, colored basketball players, will make a return visit to Newberry, playing a picked team of Newberry stars under the sponsorship of the Newberry Lions club. This group was here a year ago and furnished Newberry fans an evening of fun and excitement. The young negroes are wonderful basketball players and every man is an expert entertainer. They have been making these tours for the past eleven years and have won 1300 of the 1400 games they have played, traveling 2500 miles last year. Money taken in from this entertainment will be used by the Lions to give the annual banquet the club tenders Newberry high school students taking part in extra curricular activities. Tickets may be purchased at Bill's and reserved seats obtained there.

NEWBERRY LOCALS

Many woods operations are now at a standstill because of the softness of the ground and impassible roads. The heavy snows kept the ground from freezing and the warm weather of the past week melted the snow and ice so that the "bottom has fallen out" of the woods roads. However, the soft ground permits the water to run off rapidly and lumbermen predict excellent working conditions much earlier than usual this year may be expected.

LEAVITT TALKS TO TWO CLUBS

Kiwanis and Lions of Escanaba Observe Wild Life Week

In observation of national wild life restoration week, Escanaba Lions and Kiwanis clubs held a joint meeting at the Sherman hotel last night and heard an address by Scott Leavitt, public relations director connected with the national U. S. forest service at Milwaukee, also conservation chairman for the Kiwanis clubs of this district.

Mr. Leavitt, who has been with the forest service for many years, continuously, except for a term served as congressman from Montana, told of the "multiple" use of national forests toward which the efforts of the forest service are now directed. Restoration of forests for practical and recreational purposes, as well as for the propagation of wild life are integral parts of the program.

"Wild life completes the forest," Mr. Leavitt said, and pointed out that in the national forests of the West wild life is actually increasing, and the same may be expected in the growing national

Things Are Not What They Seem

Man or woman, what do you think? Well, officials of a St. Louis hotel thought so too, and that's how Ann Brock fooled them for seven long years. Masquerading as a man—and she does it well, don't you think?—she worked as a bus boy until police just happened to learn her identity during a routine questioning session. Her job gone, 27-year-old Ann planned to return to the Missouri farm where she was raised.
