

SCOUT LEADERS PLAN COUNCIL

Applies for Charter to Form Red Buck Unit in This Region

C. M. Finnell, regional deputy Scout executive of Chicago, conferred last night with leaders from Escanaba and Gladstone on possibilities of forming a separate council for this region, with headquarters in Escanaba.

The group, which met at the Sherman Hotel, agreed to apply for a charter to the national organization. Various aspects of the procedure were discussed by Finnell, who will confer today with Scout Executive E. W. Phillips on organization plans.

Clarence Zerbel, junior high school principal, presided as the chairman of the meeting. Plans were made for another meeting within a few days of representatives of Escanaba, Gladstone and Manistique at which formal application for a charter will be presented.

Among those present at the meeting last night in addition to Scout Executives Finnell and Phillips and Zerbel were: Jack Hart, Joseph Mater, Edward Edick, A. V. Aronson, John Lemmer, Carl Sawyer and Charles Larson of this city, and A. R. Watson, Fred Schramm, Keith Campbell and John Norton of Gladstone.

First Airplane Of Season Is Visitor At City's Airport

The Escanaba Municipal airport's first spring visitor, a Lockheed Electra from Mount Pleasant, spent the week-end flying from the local field. The runways are reported in fine shape, with no soft spots, though the snow has been gone only about a week.

The ship, which is owned by Walter L. McClanahan of Mount Pleasant, was brought in by Pilot Paul Clough shortly after noon on Saturday. Sunday afternoon McClanahan made a round-trip to Mount Pleasant, taking with him Dr. Berger E. Johnson, Charles Stoll and son of this city on an inspection trip of the McClanahan Oil company properties at Mount Pleasant. They left Escanaba at 10 a. m. and returned at 4:30 p. m. Pilot Clough left for home yesterday afternoon.

The plane, which is one of the latest Lockheed ships, has twin motors which give a cruising speed of 225 miles per hour at 9,000 feet. Retractable landing gear and two-way radio are other features of the plane.

New License Test Law Goes In Effect Friday

East Lansing, Mich., March 28—Michigan's most sweeping safety measure whereby motorists are examined before being granted driving licenses goes into effect next Friday.

Two hundred eighteen stations will be open on that day to check ability of Michigan drivers to operate their cars with safety to themselves and others.

The law providing for driver examination was passed by the legislature in 1937 and various state agencies since have been busy setting up machinery for its operation.

During the past two months, Captain C. J. Scavarda of the state police has been in charge of instructional institutes held in all state police districts.

"We want to check qualifications of drivers as well as their capacity to maneuver a car on the road," Commissioner Olander said.

"It is realized that most of the drivers of the state are competent," he continued. "However, the only way to find those who are not competent and are unsafe is to examine all."

As a result of the instructional institutes, 670 examiners have qualified and received detailed instructions in the operation of the 218 stations in Michigan where driver license tests may be made.

One step in affording the public preparation for the tests has been publication of more than two million copies of a 24-page booklet entitled "What Every Driver Must Know."

Copies of this booklet have been handed motorists with their 1938 license plates. Copies also have been distributed by police departments, sheriffs, state police and through schools.

The fundamental purpose of this preparation is educational. The driver refreshes his mind on points of driving law and corrects misconceptions of his rights and privileges when behind the wheel of his car.

Operation of the driver examination law brings Michigan into the list of states which have revised motor acts to bring them completely in line with up-to-date practices.

The examination amendment to the Michigan drivers law makes it conform essentially to the uniform vehicle code which has the support of motor clubs, the National Safety Council and other safety groups.

The code was drafted more than a dozen years ago by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety. The complete code consists of five acts which respectively afford model legislation on vehicle registration and anti-theft law, driver licensing, civil liability, financial responsibility and the regulation of highway traffic.

Driver licenses in Michigan must be renewed every three years. Renewal may be sought any time after six months prior to the expiration date.

R. P. Bowers expressed his appreciation in presenting John Hebert, student activities treasurer, with a check to purchase more choir robes. This sum was given to the capella choir by the Escanaba Business and Professional Women's club.

The movies were shown by George Ruitich for the first time from the newly constructed projection booth.

CHAIN STORES STORY IS TOLD

Mass Distribution Work Is Described Before Kiwanis Club

The part played by the so-called "chain stores" in the present economic system of mass distribution was told to members of the Kiwanis club yesterday by James Jackson and Robert Gregory, managers of local J. C. Penney and S. S. Krogs stores.

Jackson traced the history of chain stores, saying that they were first known in England about 600 years ago as Merchant Adventurers and were protected by royal charter. They were known in Japan as early as 1643 at the Mitsui system, forerunner of the present highly influential system in the Nippon state.

In America, the movement was known in pre-revolutionary days in the form of Hudsons Bay company, which still operates some trading posts in western Canada. Jackson said there are three stages in the life of chain stores: the pioneer, stage from 1858 to 1900, when food and variety stores started slowly; the development stage, from 1900 to 1919, when the movement was accentuated by the rapid changes in social, economical and industrial conditions due to the mass production of world war days; and the expansion stage since 1919 when the movement has grown by leaps and bounds.

Gregory told about the successful methods employed by chain stores in merchandising on a large scale. He said, contrary to popular belief, "five-and-ten" stores are not painted red and not within the same block out of spite for each other. Instead, he said, they are painted red because it is the best color for advertising and the reason why so many chain stores are in the same block is that national concerns always choose the best locations for their businesses.

Popular, moveable stock, attractively displayed in clean, well lighted stores is the big secret of the success of chain stores, Gregory said. Rapid turnover of stock, due to the availability of it, is another great asset. Experience in savings, handling of "hot sellers," and avoiding of pitfalls gleaned from member stores is a big help to the individual stores, Gregory said.

In the absence of President William Duchaine, who is in Chicago on the Smelt tour, Edward Rudness presided. Two new members, follow.

Stay Of Laws—An appeal was issued by Chief of Police M. F. Ettenhoffer yesterday to bicyclists to refrain from taking "short cuts" across people's lawns. In their present softened condition, the lawns suffer much damage.

Cast Rehearses—Members of the orchestra and chorus and soloists of the operetta "Smelantia" will rehearse at the senior high school this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Approximately 1,100 trucks of 5-ton capacity would be required to carry as much coal as a 100-car freight train.

JOHN LEMMER NEW MEMBER

Accepts Membership In Delinquency Prevention Council

Ann Arbor, March 28—John A. Lemmer, superintendent of schools of Escanaba, has accepted membership on the Michigan Delinquency Prevention Council of 100. It was announced here today by Dr. Lowell J. Carr, director of the Michigan Child Guidance Institute of the University of Michigan, and Elroy S. Gluckert, director of the Flint Institute of Research and Planning president of the council. Having as its objectives organization, education and leadership in the direction of more effective community action for child welfare, the organization of the Delinquency Prevention Council was authorized by the second state conference on delinquency held in Detroit last

May. The 67 who have already accepted membership on the council represent 34 counties. Thirty-three more members will be appointed before the council's first meeting early this spring. The present list includes five members from the upper peninsula and multiple representation from twelve lower peninsula counties.

County ults of the state body will be organized in Monroe county, and a second is in process of formation in Oakland. Hillsdale county is expected to form a third. The activities of the Child Guidance Institute at the university will be unified with those of the state and local bodies.

In every case, the steering committee of the council is urging local groups to make child welfare and mental hygiene definite objectives since these are basic to an effective attack on delinquency.

Recent inquiries from foreign countries for the purchase of a wide variety of American merchandise, ranging from marshmallow topping for ice cream sundae to poker chips, are reported by government trade representatives abroad.

Dart Baseball Leagues Will Be Organized

At least two dart baseball leagues will be organized at the Webster Annex beginning today. There will be an afternoon league for boys in grade school and below the 9th grade, and an evening league for boys and men—9th grade, high school and those out of school.

Dart baseball has proven to be a very popular activity in many cities and states. In Wisconsin, there are not only city leagues but leagues comprised of several surrounding towns. State laws have been drawn up which will probably be adopted as the National Dart Baseball Rules.

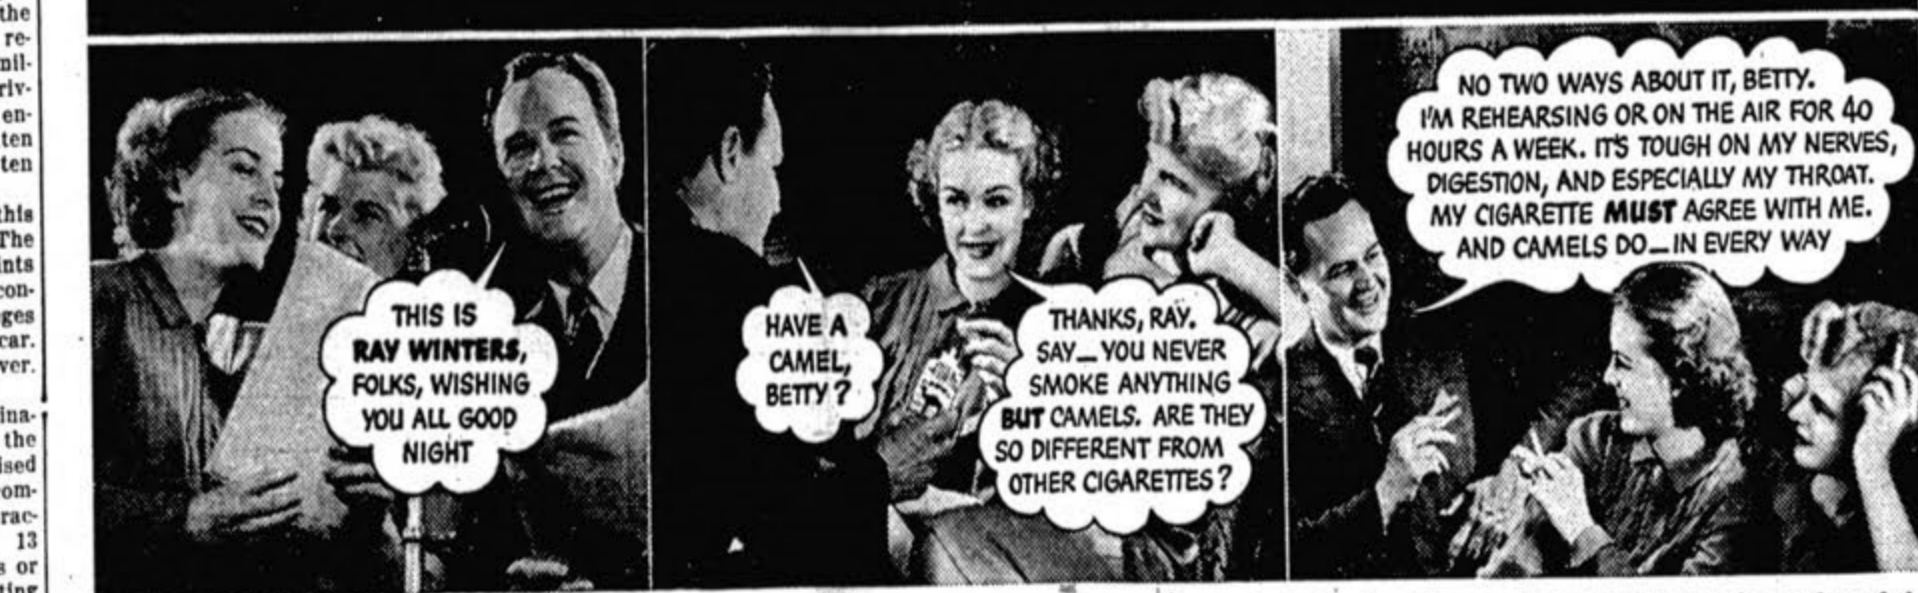

All boys and men who are interested are invited to form teams. If there are enough girls for a league, a girls and women league will be formed. Claude Fisher, WPA recreational leader, will be in charge.

BETTY MIDDLETON ASKS RAY WINTERS, THE ANNOUNCER: "RAY, ARE CAMELS REALLY SO DIFFERENT FROM OTHER CIGARETTES?"

WHEN RAY WINTERS signed off (above) he had a long, hard day behind him. Ray has thought a lot about which cigarette best fits in with the acting, nerve-and-energy-consuming work he does. "Camels are distinctly different from other cigarettes," is his verdict. "Camels agree with me. In all the ten years I've been enjoying them, I've never known Camels to make my throat feel scratchy. Or my nerves ragged. That speaks pretty well for Camel's mildness, doesn't it?"

Camels advertisement with text: 'And many millions of other smokers find what they want in Camels, too.', 'MORE and more experienced smokers are concluding: "Camel is the cigarette that agrees with me."', 'BOWLING is one of Ray Winters' pastimes. He's pretty good at it, too. "Put me down as a chap who certainly appreciates Camels when I'm tired," Ray says. "I get a "lift" with a Camel.', 'PEOPLE DO APPRECIATE THE COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN CAMELS. THEY ARE THE LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA.', 'ON THE AIR MONDAYS E-D-D-I-E C-A-N-T-O-R', 'ON THE AIR TUESDAYS BENNY GOODMAN THE "KING OF SWING"', 'Camels are a matchless blend of finer—MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.'

"The majority of tobacco growers favor Camels because we know what choice tobacco goes into them,"

TOBACCO PLANTERS REPORT

"The favorite with most men who grow tobacco," is what Vault Snowden, veteran planter, calls Camels. "Camel doesn't buy just any tobacco—they get the best. The Camel buyer bought all the choice grade tobacco of my last crop. I've been a steady Camel smoker myself for 19 years."

B. F. Bivins, another experienced tobacco grower, knows what cigarette pays more for the choice leaf tobacco. "The Camel people sure do get the best grades," he says. "Take my own crop last year. Camel bought the best lots. And other planters will tell you the same. You bet, I smoke Camels."

He's been growing tobacco for 10 years. "I'm in a position to know a lot about the quality of the tobacco that goes into various cigarettes," James Graves, another well-known planter, says. "Most of the growers around here—myself included—sold the best leaf tobacco of their last crop to Camels. I know tobacco so I smoke Camels."

The Reorganization Bill

Dorothy Thompson

At the outset it is only fair to state that there is no dispute about the need for reorganizing the Executive Branch of the Government. The real dispute is about the means used, which, whether intended or not by the President, are calculated to transform our democracy into a variant of authoritarianism. Moreover, the composite drift of the Bill is the more dangerous and the more insidious because the major transformation is combined with certain minor satisfactory elements of reform.

Starting then with the minor features, there is no reason why the President should not be provided with a sufficient personnel to enable him to meet his obligations. But in the light of the conduct of affairs under the Third New Deal, care must be exercised that this "Selfless Six" do not usurp the functions of the Cabinet and, indeed, of congressional committees. So far the source of legislation has been this cabal of presidential secretaries, who have carried on their functions with such Machiavellian cunning that in the case of the Seven T. V. A. Bill they drafted one bill for Senator Norris and a milder-looking but actually no different bill for Representative Mansfield, so that if opposition developed to the ruthless method of destroying states rights the spurious compromise bill could be reroad through the Senate. Similarly, a great deal could be said in favor of the suggestion for the separation of judicial functions from the investigatory and inquisitorial functions of several commissions. With appropriate safeguards this could become a very real improvement on the present unedifying practice of the same body or Government organ playing the role of prosecuting attorney and court—of which we have had a shocking illustration in the President's authoritarian trial of Dr. Morgan. The need for reorganizing the Government, which goes back to the proposals of President Taft, is and must be accepted. When stated in general objectives it evokes almost universal sympathy and support so that the strictest adherent of our democratic institutions and practices can subscribe to the broad terms of a program that would include (a) expanding the White House staff to simplify the President's work, (b) strengthening and developing managerial agencies of Government, (c) extending the merit system, (d) overhauling the miscellaneous agencies, boards and commissions and (e) coordinating the accounting and auditing functions.

It is when we return to the specific provisions of the reorganized Byrnes bill that the cleavage develops between those who want to preserve our democratic and constitutional government and that small minority which has sought to exploit needs and emergencies for inaugurating a totally different system which, for all of its paternalism and alleged humanitarianism, is authoritarian in functioning and destructive of the rights of the majority as well as the minority and of the liberties of future and present generations.

LOVE LAUGHS AT THE DOCTOR

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS — CONSTANCE MAIDWELL — heroine; the stand-in. DEREK MANTHON — an artist who loved money first. DR. ROGERS — he met his most difficult case.

Yesterday: As a stand-in for Camilla Wynne, Constance spends her first day at the Thorvald ranch. Advised by the doctor not to take her acting too seriously, Constance is about to reply scathingly when he speaks again.

CHAPTER XVII "You committed Miss Wynne to a rather large slice of humble pie, didn't you?" Dr. Rogers went on, his eyes coolly amused on hers. "I wonder whether she'll accept her dismissal so gracefully in her own person. Her 'Jo-Jo's' daddy has a lot of money, you know. However, from what I've heard of the lady's adventures in romance, she should be the last to question your philosophy on one point at least. As you so wisely observed, 'No one can help not loving some one any longer.'"

"It's flattering to know you consider my philosophy sound," Constance said stiffly, and knew before the words were out how childish they sounded.

She was beginning to realize that her hands were cold, and that she was tense and shaking with the nervous strain of the past hours. "I can't help wondering," he went on, "whether your conclusions are based on observation or experience."

"Really?" Constance asked. "I didn't suppose there was anything left about me for you to wonder about. You've had me under the microscope for quite a while. By this time you ought to know how to take me to pieces and put me together again."

His quizzical look faded, and he said with an abrupt resumption of brisk, professional concern, "You're terribly tired, aren't you? Now I think you'd better go to your room and let me arrange to have your dinner sent up. Then go right to bed and get a good night's rest."

Constance's lip curled in angry amusement. Rest. When, somewhere in the house was Derek. And so much to be said between them.

He was going on, "I shouldn't be surprised—" but Constance interrupted with dangerous smoothness. "You are about to say that you wouldn't be surprised if I had another difficult day ahead of me?"

Suddenly all the resentments and frustrations of the day flared up in a need to thrash about and hit out at some one.

"You don't miss a single detail, do you, Doctor? Life to you is an orderly pattern of nurse and obedient patients who trot off to bed when you send them, so that at dawn they may be up and doing—nice and adult, the way you like them."

Tearing at her throat she was beginning to feel an irresistible urge to laugh and laugh and laugh. He was so funny—standing there with that look of incredulous amazement in his eyes. Everything was funny—so funny that it hurt.

noyed with me tomorrow; but as a matter of fact, I have given orders that she must sleep as long as she can, because—

"Don't tell me why. I know already," Constance cut in, her voice rising recklessly in a kind of triumphant chant, "because she's likely to have a difficult day tomorrow."

She was rolling on now with the rising tide of hysteria, without a chance of stopping herself, even if she had cared to try.

"I suppose," she rushed on, "that every evening when you're through playing with your funny little test tubes, you say to the squirmy things in them, 'Now just stop wriggling, my dears, and settle down for the night, because—'"

"Will you get into your room and keep quiet!"—with an apprehensive glance toward the door of the sick room, he advanced swiftly to carry you in and hold you down in a tub of warm water?"

"—Blast it!" Constance brought out on a high, triumphant note before he smothered her hysterical mirth against the shoulder of his coat. "You may have a difficult day tomorrow."

He picked her up unceremoniously, carried her into her own room, and closed the door. For a few moments she laughed uncontrollably; then laughter gave way to tears. Wrenching herself free from his arms, she dropped face downward upon the bed, and sobbed as if trying to release, in a few brief minutes, the pent-up tears of the last month.

When it was over, she looked up with a defiant, shame-faced stare to find Mark Rogers standing over her, his eyebrows raised, his hands in his pockets, his lips pursed in a thoughtful whistle.

"Well," he said grimly, "you win. You're a better doctor than I am, Gunga Din. . . . You know what you need, and you want and did it. . . . I wash my hands of you. Go to bed when you get damn good and ready."

Nevertheless, Constance's dinner was served in her room that night, and there she ate it. She spent the evening hopping at every movement in the hall outside that it would be Derek coming to find her. It was very late, however, when a knock sounded at her door. When she opened the door, one of the Mexican servants stood outside with a note.

The señor Manthon, the man said, had told him that la ama de la casa wished this letter given to the Senorita.

"But I don't understand," Constance said. "Who?"

"La senorita Thorvald, the señor told me," the man explained with a half smile. "In English la ama de la casa is mistress of the house."

Something in his look as he turned away—something furtive—puzzled and irritated Constance. It was as if he were secretly amused—tolerantly indulgent—as a Spaniard and a man of the world, at the incredible lack of subtlety of these naive Gringos.

When Constance glanced down at the sealed envelope in her hand, she thought she understood. The envelope was one of the kind Derek habitually used—as the servant must have known—had used ever since she had known him.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES Table with columns for Net change, Monday, Previous day, Month ago, Year ago, 1938 high, 1938 low, 1937 high, 1937 low, and 1936 high.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER (Associated Press Financial Writer) New York, March 28 (AP)—For the first time in eight consecutive sessions the stock market today managed to finish on a recovery note.

The list was at its best in the morning, after absorbing light selling of impaired margin accounts at the opening, with gains running to a point or more, being widely distributed. Volume also was largest at this time.

The buying urge faded to some extent in subsequent proceedings and extreme advances were reduced before the close.

Trading forces found the news to their liking in several respects but there were sufficient cloudy elements to promote much wariness in the expansion of commitments.

Hesitancy was partly attributed to a desire to see what the senate would do with the administration's hotly debated reorganization bill after the conclusion of dealings.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .4 of a point at 36.4. Rails and industrials accounted for the advance.

Weakness of a single stock, American Telephone, put the utilities composite down a shade to a new 3-year low.

Transfers amounted to 1,249,400 shares compared with 1,677,340 Friday.

Steels did well for a time as this week's mill operations were estimated at 35.7 percent of capacity, up 2 points at high mark since November.

American Telephone lost 1 1/2 at 116, apparently hit by fresh fears of an unsatisfactory forthcoming federal communications commission's report on the corporation.

Bonds slipped and commodities were uneven. Wheat futures at Chicago fell to new lows for the season, but received late support and ended unchanged to up 1/2 cent a bushel.

Cotton was 15 cents a bale lower to 10 cents higher. The French franc softened and the Paris bourse was substantially off, as the financial troubles of the Blum government once more were an unsettling influence.

Shares of mining companies with interests in Mexico were exceptions to the upward tilt. These suffered a relapse on the move of the treasury to discontinue silver purchases from the southern republic, ascribed to retaliation for the Cardenas regime's expropriation of foreign oil properties.

At the same time thought was given to a possible general alteration of the government's silver buying program which would affect the world price of the metal.

BOND MARKET AVERAGES Table with columns for Net change, Monday, Previous day, Month ago, Year ago, 1938 high, 1938 low, 1937 high, 1937 low, and 1936 high.

New York, March 28 (AP)—The bond market, after a day of fairly brisk trading and several rallies, closed lower in all groups.

The foreign list, Austria 7s of '57, with a 1 3/4 point advance at 33 3/4 and Czechoslovak 8s of '52 with a 4 point rise at 76, were in contrast to the losses generally prevailing.

HARBOR WORK IS DESCRIBED

Improvement Details Are Explained in Hearings

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. D., March 28.—Details of improvements in navigation aids at North Graham Shoal and in the Keweenaw Waterway, proposed for installation during the coming fiscal year, and covered by a lump-sum item in the new commerce department appropriation bill, are explained by a transcript of hearings before the house appropriations committee, just made public.

Statements made to the committee by the lighthouse service, concerning two projects, show it is planned to spend $45,000 for navigation aids at North Graham Shoal, and $47,000 at the lower end of the Keweenaw Waterway.

Regarding the North Graham Shoal project, the lighthouse service statement said:

"This dangerous rocky shoal covered by a minimum depth of 8 feet lies close to the route of ferries transporting passengers, automobiles, and railroad trains across the Straits of Mackinac, connecting the lower with the upper peninsula of Michigan. The shoal is at present marked by a lighted sound buoy which serves satisfactorily during the open season of navigation, but which it is necessary to remove upon the approach of ice conditions in late November of each year. Traffic on the ferry routes continues throughout the winter, and particularly at times in the early fall before ice is formed solid, and in the spring when it is breaking up there is considerable danger of ferry steamers running aground of the shoal, because of the movement of heavy ice masses forcing them from their regular course and because of difficulty in holding to a prescribed course under obscured conditions during snow storms. Such an accident occurred through the grounding of the railroad car ferry steamer Wawatam on this shoal last year, with large damage to the vessel. "For the above reasons it is considered urgent that a fixed structure be erected on the shoal supporting an automatic light and sound fog signal or other alternate aids provided, which can be operated through the entire year, since this is the most direct connection between the upper and lower peninsulas of Michigan and since the traffic has become very large, requiring three ferry steamers operated by the Michigan State Highway Department in addition to the Michigan car-ferry steamer. In the fiscal year 1935 the total number of automobiles carried in both directions was 152,296; and passengers, 287,961. In addition to this the number of busses, trucks, and trailers was over 21,000 and the value of shipments by railroad car ferry was more than $22,000,000.

"It is proposed to erect a pier on the rock shoal approximately 40 feet in diameter, of concrete and stone, having sufficient mass and sufficiently well anchored to the shoal to prevent displacement by the extreme ice above which is encountered, carrying same up 16 feet above the water and upon its concrete dock erecting a structural-steel tower supporting an electric light supplied with current by low-voltage batteries and equipped with a minor fog signal adequate for warning vessels of the danger. The strong currents prevailing in the locality and the nature of the bottom make construction difficult and the extreme ice conditions make necessary a structure of considerable magnitude to serve satisfactorily. The project is considered urgent for the reasons state."

Concerning the Keweenaw Waterway Project, the statement said:

"The United States Engineers are engaging in a project for the widening, deepening, and straightening of the Keweenaw Waterway which cuts across Keweenaw Point and provides a short and protected passage from the east- and west-bound traffic through Lake Superior. Because of the limitations of the present channel this route has not heretofore been widely used, vessels being forced to take the exposed route outside of Keweenaw Point, where many have come to disaster in fall storms. With the improved channel, a great increase in the traffic through this canal is anticipated, particularly in the stormy seasons. The latest published revised estimate of the cost of this improvement project is $5,173,000, which will result in a channel 25 feet deep and with a minimum width of 300 feet.

The Lighthouse Service is seriously affected by this improvement at both ends of the waterway and throughout a considerable part of its length. Appropriation has already been made by Congress in the amount of $120,000 for improvement of aids to navigation at the upper end of the waterway, involving the rebuilding of the light station which is being dredged away in the course of the improvement, and $50,000 for the lower end, including changes in aids along the channel.

"The project at the southern end involves an extension to the break-water which will require the building of a light and fog signal station at its outer end. There is also involved straightening of the channel in its lower end, which will make necessary a complete rearrangement of aids to navigation in that section. To completely meet the cost of aids to navigation in connection with the improvement, the additional sum of $47,000 is necessary. It was first anticipated that this would be required in the fiscal year 1938, but because of less rapid progress on the War Department work than was anticipated, it has been possible to defer this item until 1939. The funds herein requested will be applied mainly to the construction of the outer light and fog signal station at the end of the break-water extension at the southern end of the waterway, and to completion of work of rearrangement of aids along the waterway itself."

Health a "Wreck" Before the KruGon

Acute Attacks of Indigestion Were Unbearable; Rheumatism Added to Distress; Laxative-Tonic Unfailing

"For the first time in years I am feeling my former self again, able to do my own work since KruGon regulated my entire system," said Mrs. A. P. Harbaugh, Henderson, Kentucky (just across the river from Evansville, Indiana). "Rheumatism settled in my limbs causing me such severe pain I could hardly endure it at times. A good night sleep was impossible as my kidneys disturbed me at all hours of the night. Then indigestion which would come on me after eating would cause me to lose consciousness they would become so severe. The toxic poisons over my body had crippled my limbs. It was not until I began KruGon that I found the medicine to fit my case."

"Suffering people are fortunate in being able to get a medicine with KruGon's ability," continued Mrs. Henderson. "I have not had a single attack of indigestion since I began this new laxative-ionic. That dreadful rheumatism has been driven from my body, my kidneys are functioning properly again and I can sleep soundly the entire night through. It is a real pleasure to feel so well again and to think a single medicine, KruGon, accomplished for me what all else had failed to do."

KruGon is sold by West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., this city.

HOME OWNING GETS POPULAR

Federal Finance Groups Get Big Demand for Loans

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C., March 28.—The 26 federal savings and loan associations in Michigan report a heavy demand for their home financing facilities as the 1938 "Own-a-Home" campaign gets underway, Preston Delano, governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank system, said today.

Substantial increases in direct reduction home mortgage loans for construction and purchase of homes in Michigan, made by these associations, are shown by reports Mr. Delano has received for the first part of March. Early in March, such loans totaled $11,732,100, an increase of $3,747,400 over the figure on March 1, 1937. A direct reduction loan provides for monthly payments which reduce the principal and interest.

Thrifty facilities of these insured associations likewise were in heavy demand, Mr. Delano stated. Savings invested in these local mutual thrift institutions aggregated $20,231,500 on March 1, the increase being $6,713,500 over the total 12 months ago.

Savings of each investor in these associations are protected up to $5,000 by the $110,000,000 Federal Savings and Loan Insurance corporation, an instrumentality of the United States government.

Federal associations in Michigan are located in Adrian, Battle Creek, Birmingham, Charlotte, Coldwater, Dearborn, Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Ludington, Midland, Mount Clemens, Muskegon, Niles, Owosso, Pontiac, Plymouth, Port Huron,

Rev. John Hughes Speaker At K. C. Meeting Tonight

Rev. Fr. John Hughes, a former Escanaba boy and at the present time assistant pastor of St. Peter's cathedral, Marquette, will address the local Council of the Knights of Columbus on "Faith of Our Founders," this evening in the council chambers. It is expected that a large number of Knights will be on hand to hear Father Hughes as they have never before had the opportunity to hear him.

Founders Week was officially opened last Sunday, when about two hundred Knights and an equal number of Daughters of Isabella attended holy mass and received communion at St. Patrick's church. Following the mass, breakfast was served by the Daughters of Isabella in the church parlors.
