Spain

Congratulations on your saint's day... Message sent from Tetuan, Morocco, to Madrid, in July, 1936.

Even the insiders, to whom it was the signal that a rebellion had begun in Morocco, did not expect to be fighting yet 20 months later.

That message was ordered sent by Colonel Yague, a Spanish commander in Africa.

This week, General Yague, having fought across Spain, led Moroccan, Navarrese and Italians on into Catalonia—his bleeding country's northeast corner.

There, in Barcelona, only 80 miles ahead of him, were the headquarters of the loyalist government, driven from Madrid long ago.

But first Lerida—textile town and key military center since the days of the Roman Empire—had to be taken. Its people fled. Its buildings burned. Its surrender was rumored. Yague's men stormed the gates.

But the loyalist government found fresh recruits and fought on.

Non-Intervention ...

"Every day we hold out is a step toward victory," Loyalist Premier Negrin argued.

Defeat, Negrin continued, would mean that Spanish boys would have to fight and die in future wars for Germany and Italy.

Loyalists issued detailed reports of German and Italian aid to the insurgents.

Italians chimed in that France and Russia were blocking withdrawal of foreigners—and that ruckus apparently was holding up an Anglo-Italian pact.

Thursday the non-interventionists' subcommittee met again in London to hear new British proposals.

Caudillo's Dream

To plump, hard-bitten Caudillo Franco, triumph over Negrin's government would mean Spain could go forward to regain her ancient glories.

Destined to be Spain's top man if his side wins, he is said to want to make his country a good bit like Il Duce's Italy.

Scolded diplomatically for his airman's bombardment of Barcelona he retorted formally that the city contained important military objectives.

This week, Franco, at the front with Yague and the other generals as they closed in on the Catalans, had his airman concentrate their fire on smaller towns.

Italian Idea

Mussolini, meanwhile, was busy describing Italy to the Italians. He emphasized his military mightiness, but warned that "war from the sky is destined to assume an even greater importance in tomorrow's war."

So, he thought, Italians should live in small towns rather than big cities, for safety's sake.

"We reject illusions and utopias," he summed up, "and for that reason we left the shop that sells them, in Geneva.

"That which always has counted and still counts among people is their war-making ability."

Spanish Insurgent Forces Are Almost To Mediterranean

(By The Associated Press)
Hendaye, France (at the Spanish Frontier), April 2.—Seizure of strategic Gaudesa by the Spanish insurgents today capped the concentrated drive in eastern Spain which has added an estimated 2,600 square miles to their conquests in a week.

The fall of Gaudesa placed the on-rushing insurgents within 21 miles of the blue Mediterranean, their objective in the offensive to split in two the territory controlled by the government.

The official insurgent announcement of the city's fall said 2,000 prisoners were taken and other government troops were surrendering.

Only six miles of mountains that make up the Sierra de Pandos southeast of Gaudesa separated its Navarrese captors from the wide valley of the Ebro river which forms a natural highway to Tortosa and the sea.

The advance was described by some military observers as one of the most important of the civil war, now in its 21st month.

At the northern end of the insurgent front, Benabarre, important road center in the northern Aragon, also fell to Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces.

At no point on the 50-mile insurgent front in the southern sector of eastern Spain were Generalissimo Franco's troops more than 37 miles from the sea.

General Miguel Aranda's soldiers were approaching Morella, southwest of Gaudesa, where there is a route through the mountains leading to the Mediterranean by way of San Mateo and Vinarzo.

Only at Lerida, almost due north of Gaudesa and 80 miles from Barcelona, was Franco's advance slowed by the government militiamen whose resistance forced the insurgents to use the full strength of their mechanized equipment.

Bagneres de Luchon, France, April 2 (AP)—Four special trains loaded with more than 4,000 refugee Spanish government troops rolled out of here tonight in anticipation of a French cabinet decision to repatriate them to Spain.

The government militiamen, who fled to France to escape advancing insurgents, were headed for Cerbere, French port on the Mediterranean, where they likely will be returned across the frontier into government territory.

A thousand additional refugees were left behind. Some of them will follow tomorrow.

In compliance with preferences expressed in secret balloting, 185 of the refugees made ready to go to Generalissimo Francisco Franco's territory in insurgent Spain.

DEFEAT THREATENS Administration Lieutenants, reportedly with President Roosevelt's consent, proposed a compromise on the government reorganization bill today in an effort to save that bitterly-fought measure from threatened house defeat.

The compromise would give congress the right to veto presidential reorganization orders by a simple majority ballot. As the bill now stands, a two-thirds vote of both houses would be necessary to block such orders.

The concession on this point, and another which would keep the education bureau in the interior department, followed success for opponents of the bill in stalling off any attempt to end debate.

Terms of the compromise were announced to a packed and wildly cheering house by Rep. Warren (D-N.C.), a member of the special reorganization committee. Reliable persons said his declaration was decided upon after house leaders had conferred by telephone with President Roosevelt, who has been vacationing at Warm Springs, Ga.

This is what the compromise on congressional overruling of executive orders would do: give congress the right, within a 60-day period, to accept or override a presidential reorganization order by adopting a resolution which would not require the president's signature to become effective.

The guarantee to keep the education bureau in the interior department, thereby assuring that it would not be transferred to a proposed new department of welfare, was an outgrowth of protests that the bill would let the government control the education of the nation's youth.

The two features of the compromise must be passed upon as amendments to the bill after the house ends debate and starts considering changes. That will not be until some time next week, leaders said.

Warren said the amendments would have the approval of the reorganization committee but made no reference to the floor to the president's attitude toward them.

Henry And Clara Ford Near Golden Wedding

BY DAVID J. WILKIE
Detroit, April 2 (AP)—Almost fifty years ago a gangling young man and the attractive daughter of a Greenfield Village farmer stood in the parlor of the young woman's home and spoke their marriage vows.

They promised, in the Episcopal service of the time, read by the Rev. Stephen W. Friable of St. Paul's church in Greenfield, to "love honor and obey."

"They were Henry Ford and Clara Bryant, whose fathers owned adjoining farms, in the Detroit suburb.

On April 11, next, there will be an observance of the golden wedding anniversary at Fairlane, the Ford estate in Dearborn. There also will be a birthday observance, for it was on Mrs. Ford's twenty-first birthday that she was married to the farm youth who was destined to become one of the world's most noted industrialists.

Ford said he did not know just what form the anniversary observance would take.

"Edsel and Eleanor are fixing up something," he said.

Edsel is the Ford's only child and Eleanor is the younger Ford's wife.

Another anniversary celebration lies ahead for Henry Ford, for on next July 31 he will be 76 years old and Detroit's city council has initiated plans for an observance to start a fortnight in advance of that date. If the plans materialize, it will be the first time in Ford's career that one of his own birthdays has been marked by anything like a formal observance.

Ordinarily, birthdays are just additional days for accomplishment to Henry Ford.

An irrefragable optimist, he believes achievement has only begun. "An era of real prosperity lies ahead," he said. "You need no quality that with an 'if' for there is no 'if' about it."

Approaching the three-quarter century mark, Ford appears in the very best of health. He stoops a little, but might easily pass for 65 years of age. Unusually agile, he nonchalantly tosses a leg over the back of a chair to prove the years have taken from him little of the wiry strength that always has been his.

Mrs. Ford, who finds her greatest outside interest in the farm and garden movement and in social welfare work, apparently is also enjoying good health.

An indisposition a year ago kept her confined to her home. More recently, however, she has been able to accompany her husband on his vacation jaunts, the most recent of which took them to the Ford plantation near Ways, Georgia.

Whatever other observance there may be of the wedding anniversary it is more than probable there will be reminiscences of the first meeting of Henry Ford and Clara Bryant. They were introduced at a dance at Greenfield in 1886.

"It was a case of love at first sight," Ford afterward remarked.

"He made absolutely no impression on me at the time," said Mrs. Ford. "I didn't see him again until a year later."

It was at another dance.

"Then I went home and told my parents about him. He was different from other young men."

Mrs. Ford explained that at their second meeting they "sat out" two dances while the young man showed her an unusual watch. It had two sets of hands that recorded standard and "sun time," both of which were in use in Detroit at the time.

Ford has always referred to his wife as "his greatest supporter. He calls her "the believer."

When Ford was trying to put together his first horseless carriage in a little brick barn back of their home in what is now downtown Detroit, most of his acquaintances scoffed at him. Mrs. Ford kept telling him the vehicle would go. When it finally did go to the accompaniment of much backfiring and clattering, she sat in the seat beside him.

Taxis In Jackson Are Normal Again

Jackson, Mich., April 2 (AP)—Taxi service was on a normal basis in Jackson again today for the first time since March 12 when drivers of the Yellow Cab Co. went on strike.

The management and a committee representing the United Transport Workers Union (C. I. O.) reached an agreement covering working conditions for one year after a 16-hour conference presided over by Joseph Ashmore, commissioner of the state department of labor and industry.

The agreement covered a rate of commission percentages and deductions, said Victory A. Leavy, company official. He added that reinstatement of six drivers who had been discharged would rest upon union recommendations.

The strike started March 12 and Jackson was without taxi service until March 19 when the cabs resumed operation under police protection.

ment, he denounced those who he said had tried to delay action on the bill and those who had brought "propaganda" to bear on it.

"Propagandists have been going to every length and extreme," he asserted, "as a vehicle to annihilate and destroy our present."

He held up a telegram, which he said had been tucked under the door of every congressman; that was "so vile, so shocking, so horrible" that a member would be expelled for attempting to put it in the congressional record.

On the subject of the education bureau, Warren said one section of the bill had been "portrayed as meaning federal control over education."

"A vile, malicious whispering campaign has surged against the country to arouse and disturb a great church," he went on. "To the eternal credit of some of the outstanding members of this house, who belong to this great church, this damnable propaganda has had no effect whatever."

Even some opponents of the bill said the decision of administration leaders to compromise made passage of the measure probable.

"The chances of passage have been improved," said Rep. Mapes (R-Mich.).

Courthouse Project Up
Whether Delta county will have a new courthouse will be decided by voters on two separate ballots. All qualified voters are eligible to vote on the first ballot, which provides for an increase in the mill tax of 1 1/2 mills. A two-thirds majority is necessary for this ballot to pass. The second provides for a bond issue of $100,000 to furnish funds for the building program, and may be carried by a majority. Only property holders, their wives and husbands, can vote on the bond issue.

The courthouse proposition has the backing of the county board of supervisors, the heads of county departments and various civic leaders. If it is passed, about $200,000 will be spent in the county on the building. Under the proposed plans, half the cost will be paid by the county and half by the federal government under a WPA project. Local labor will be employed, under WPA supervision. Plans for the proposed building, which is laid out to house all county departments in one building, have been drawn by Derrick Hubert, Monominee architect. Costly repairs and alterations of the present structure are inevitable if the new building is not to be built, according to J. Burns, chairman of the Delta county board of supervisors.

U. S. Steel Fleet Plans Putting Sixty Percent Of Ships In Operation

Sixty percent of the U. S. Steel corporation's ore-carrying fleet will be put in commission for the opening of the ore season, according to an announcement made yesterday by the Pittsburgh Steamship company which operates the corporation's fleet. The entire fleet consists of 73 steamers and six barges. No information as to the arrival of the first vessel into the Escanaba port has been received here.

The first trip in the new season will begin about May 16, officials of the steamship company predict. Forty vessels will be in commission for the start of ore-carrying operations on the Great Lakes.

With a record tonnage of iron ore on docks and at furnaces, estimated at $3,000,000 tons for May 1, movement of the ore fleet on the Great Lakes will start late and tonnage transported will be much smaller than last year, according to observers of "Steel" at Cleveland. Estimates vary, but center around 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 tons, which is less than half the 1937 shipments. Nothing has been done as to price, and no inquiries for the coming season are current, according to "Steel."

Demand Advances
General demand for steel is making a steady advance, though at a slow rate, as consumers in a wide variety of channels increase their commitments as inventory becomes exhausted, "Steel" reports. Failure of two important industries, automotive and railroad, to take any considerable part of their ordinary tonnage is a severe handicap to the upward movement usual at this season.

Manufacturers of stoves, refrigerators, air conditioning equipment and agricultural implements are carrying forward programs of sufficient importance to require larger steel supplies. Miscellaneous products for farm use are moving well, as agricultural prospects are excellent.

Some large structural tonnages are coming out, backed by a gratifying background of smaller projects. Bids will be asked within a few days on 10,000 tons of structural steel for the Main avenue bridge, Cleveland. Prices have been asked on 16,855 tons of the Delaware aqueduct, New York, and on 3650 tons for buildings at Penn State college, Pennsylvania. Steel has been awarded for the Flushing river bridge, New York, 1200 tons.

With increased operations at seven steelmaking centers and one decline the national operating rate last week rose 3 points to 35 per cent, the level predicted for the end of March. This is the highest rate since the week of Nov. 26. At Chicago the advance was 1.5 points to 31.5 per cent. Wheeling 3 points to 41, Buffalo 2 points to 30, Birmingham 5 points to 66, New England 3 points to 18, Cincinnati 20 points to 45 and Youngstown 2 points to 29. Detroit dropped 5 points to 27 per cent. There was no change in activity at Pittsburgh 30 per cent, Eastern Pennsylvania 29, Cleveland 30.8 and St. Louis 37.

Courtship Is Futile After 11,000 Notes; Case Is Dismissed

New York, April 2 (AP)—A marathon of unrequited love, punctuated by 11,000 (count 'em) love letters, was gently but firmly ended by a Brooklyn magistrate today.

Four years ago, according to the court testimony, David Brothman, 24, a bookkeeper, sat down at a desk next to Dorothy Hochman, 24, took one look at her, and wrote her a letter. "I love you," he said. She said nothing. He wrote her again. "I worship you," he said. She said nothing. He wrote her again. "I adore you," he said. She said nothing. That went on for thousands of letters. Finally she got a summons against him.

"Received summons," he telegraphed in reply. "I love you."

Today, clutching 600 of the 11,000 epistles as evidence, she brought him to court on a disorderly conduct charge.

Magistrate Jacob Ellperin talked to Brothman a while. Brothman agreed to stop writing, and the complaint was dismissed.

The courtship, they agreed, was beginning to look a bit futile.

LOCAL OFFICER IS TRANSFERRED

Belfy Goes to Traverse City; Fire Wardens Put on Staff

Conservation Officer Ervin Belfy, who has been working in the Escanaba district for the past several years, has been transferred to Traverse City. It was learned at district headquarters of the conservation department here yesterday.

Belfy, whose home is at Garden, will be assigned to the department's patrol boat No. 1, which has headquarters at Traverse City and commanded by Captain C. J. Allers. Announcement also was made yesterday at local headquarters that four fire wardens have been added to the local staff, effective April 1. The principal work of the fire wardens at this time will be of a preventative nature.

Persons desiring to burn grass or brush are required to have permits from the department, which urges burning at this time as much as possible in view of the favorable conditions. Later in the year, it is pointed out, ground cover will be dry and the danger will be much greater.

Conservation department officials are hoping to have as successful a season with forest fires this year as last, when a new record for low acreage was set in the state.

Courthouse Favored By Escanaba Lions

Resolutions favoring the construction of a new Delta county courthouse were adopted by the Escanaba Lions club at their last meeting.

The resolutions called attention to the fact that the present courthouse is an "eyesore," a firetrap, and is inadequate for county official business. It was also pointed out that by building at the present time the county would be aided by federal funds in a project which eventually would have to be built, probably with the county bearing the entire expense.

The pioneers did not invent the sod house. Indians built sod houses before the appearance of the white man.

DEATH CLAIMS STEVE MURPHY

North Western Railway Veteran Will Be Buried Tuesday

Stephen J. Murphy, retired veteran of the Chicago & North Western Railway, died at 11:15 o'clock Saturday morning at the family residence, 302 South Thirtieth street.

Mr. Murphy had been in poor health for the past several years. Three weeks ago he suffered a fall, which resulted in a paralytic stroke with which he was stricken on Sunday, the direct cause of his death.

He was born in Whitewater, Wis., January 1, 1861, and had been a resident of Escanaba for seventy years. He was in the service of the Chicago & North Western Railway as a conductor for forty-six years, retiring with pension ten years ago.

He was a charter member of Escanaba Council, Knights of Columbus, and was a member of the Order of Railway Trainmen.

Surviving are two sons, Harriett of Chicago and Stephen of this city, and three grandchildren. The body was taken to the Degnan funeral home to be prepared for burial and will be returned to the family residence this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Services will be held Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's church, the Very Rev. Fr. Thomas A. Kennedy officiating, and burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

SMELT PARADE NEXT SATURDAY

Gay March To Be Led by Three Bands; Starts at 2:30 O'clock

The fourth annual Escanaba Smelt Jamboree parade will be held next Saturday afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, and will be led by the Escanaba Municipal band, the Escanaba high school band and the Gladstone high school band. The parade will begin formation at the foot of Ludington street at 2 o'clock.

Scores of floats have been entered in the demonstration. Built to emphasize smelting and other phases of the jamboree, the decorated floats will make a line down Ludington street.

The gay Mardi Gras figures, so popular at last year's celebration, will again join in the line of march. Registration for the parade is still open at the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, where arrangements for securing the Mardi Gras figures may also be made.

This year's parade will contain entries from outside the city as well as floats representing local establishments. A float from Crystal Falls and another from Rapid River have already been registered. A huge float bearing the king and queen of Smeltania will lead the procession, which will march the length of Ludington street.

23 Delinquent U. P. Children Are Reported

Six counties in the upper peninsula reported that 23 children in schools were delinquent in January, 1938, as compared to 17 in five counties in the same month in 1937.

Thirteen counties in the U. P. made reports in January. Marquette and Keweenaw being the only two that did not send a report to state officials. Only six of the thirteen had delinquents involved in new complaints.

Houghton and Delta counties led the U. P. with seven delinquent cases each. Baraga reported three, as did Chippewa; two cases were reported from Mackinac, and Menominee had one.

15 Boys, 8 Girls
Delta county showed an increase of two over the same period in 1937, while Houghton county made no report last year.

Of the 23 cases reported in the upper peninsula, 15 were boys and eight girls.

In the entire state, 53 identical counties reported a net increase of 40 individuals involved in new complaints, or 15.6 per cent, in January, 1938, as compared to the same month in 1937. Sixty-seven counties reported this year. It was said, as compared to 64 last year.

City Has Largest Cash Reserve Since Present System Went In Effect

A cash balance of $14,164.04, in addition to a cash reserve of $12,000 for workmen's compensation, will be shown on the books of the city of Escanaba at the opening of the new fiscal year, the largest cash reserve in the history of Escanaba's city manager form of government, according to a statement from E. E. Peterson, city comptroller.

County Courthouse Proposition To Be Voted On Tomorrow

Two ballots on the proposed Delta county courthouse will be voted on by qualified voters at the polls tomorrow. One ballot proposes to increase the mill tax from 15 mills to 16¼ mills, and all qualified voters are eligible to vote on this proposal. The other ballot proposes to bond the county for $100,000 for the purpose of building the courthouse. Only taxpayers, and their wives and husbands, are eligible to vote on this proposal.

The increased mill tax requires a two-thirds majority to pass, while the bond issue requires only a majority.

In the event that either proposal fails, the entire courthouse project will be dropped, according to statements made by the county board of supervisors.

Plans for the new building have been drawn up by Derrick Hubert, Menominee architect, and provide quarters for the various county agencies which are now occupying rented offices on Ludington street.

Under a WPA set up which has been promised by federal officials, the cost of erecting the new building is to be shared between the county and the federal government. The county's share is about $100,000 and WPA would provide between $110,000 and $115,000. Delta county labor would be used on the building, which would be supervised by WPA officials.

According to figures supplied by the county board of supervisors, the cost of the project to the average taxpayer of Escanaba and Gladstone would be $1.80 per year, while the Delta county farmer would pay an average of 75 cents per year. The proposed issue is to be retired in a period of five years.

SALMON GET AROUND
Nanaimo, British Columbia (P)—The salmon is no speed king, but he gets around. Records of the Pacific Biological Station indicate a spring salmon covers nearly 600 miles in 18 days. The spring is the speediest variety, averaging 10 to 35 miles per day, according to studies of specimens tagged with dated aluminum straps on their tails.

Freight train speed of American railroads has increased 37% in the last 10 years.

SEWAGE PLANT ISSUE

Escanaba, Mich., Mar. 31, '38
Editor,
Escanaba Daily Press,
Dear Sir:

The letters of Mr. Roddy and Mr. Bean in the issues of March 30th and 31st of your paper were read with concern. Since the construction of the Sewage Treatment Plant, I have followed with interest its operation and while the matter is under discussion, I would appreciate space in your columns to state a conversation I had with Mr. Bean, in connection with the subject discussed in the letters referred to above.

On learning that Mr. W. J. Roddy had tendered his resignation as operator of the Sewage Plant, I called on City Manager George Bean and discussed the possibility of filling the position with a local man. Mr. Bean stated that the position must be filled with a man qualified by the State Health department, who had jurisdiction in this matter. I suggested that he (Mr. Bean) offer the same in-judgment to Mr. Roddy, as he would to an outside man. I did this with the knowledge that Mr. Roddy was qualified with the State, had successfully operated the plant for five years and had satisfied all operating conditions required by the Michigan Dept. of Health. Mr. Bean replied that he would not consider Mr. Roddy under any circumstances, because he had resigned. I then pointed out that he resigned because of his low salary, as compared with other department heads. I also stated that the manner in which he was handling this issue would indicate prejudice toward Mr. Roddy. Mr. Bean admitted that Roddy was an efficient man, nevertheless, he would not be considered. Then I told him that he would not always have this council, he replied, "I will do as my council wish."

As a life long resident and taxpayer of Escanaba I am always favorable to the hiring of qualified local men for local positions. It is in their interest and the taxpayer's that I submit this letter as an aid in clarifying the case under discussion.

I would prefer not to discuss this in your column and as Mr. Bean has made his statement at a public meeting of Labor's Voting League, I feel that all the facts should be brought out.

Yours truly,
Chas. E. Lloyd

DEPLORES MUDSLINGING.
Escanaba, Mich.
April 1, 1938.

Editor,
Escanaba Press,
Dear Sir:

I know you are tired of all the communications that have flooded your columns of late, and I believe the public is too. So I apologize for asking you to print the following remarks.

At every city election some person or persons begin agitating one question or another with the result that a great deal of excitement is caused and much harm is done to the cause of good government, besides our town is made the laughing stock of the peninsula, and no material good is accomplished.

This year we have the spectacle of an old fashioned "mud slinging" contest. And at the bottom of it all is the pitting of opposing candidates against each other. The ones who are in office are trying to hold their places, while the ones on the outside are trying to get in. Personally, I believe that any of those men would do everything in their power for the welfare of the city, and should be considered from a business stand-point, that is each man should be considered on his merits. He should ask himself is this candidate, or that, possessed of the proper training and common sense to handle such an important position as he is seeking? and then follow the dictates of one's conscience in voting. And not be led astray by the ballyhoo, or agitating of any person or group, of persons no matter how skillfully they plan their campaign. For after all they are only working for some candidate or candidates, and will forget all about the public just as soon as election is over. Any of those men, the new as well as the old are liable to make mistakes, but if the voters get excited over such things our city will always be in turmoil, so let us get behind our officials and back them to the letter as long as they are doing their best, and everything will be lovely.

Thank you.

ALL EMPLOYEES TO BE LISTED

Even Part Time Workers Should Have Social Security Numbers

All employees, even those engaged in casual or temporary employment, should have social security account numbers, according to advice given recently by Wheeler P. Chamberlain, manager of the Marquette social security office. Chamberlain said it had been brought to his attention that a number of employers, particularly garages, hotels, and retail stores of all kinds, do not consider casual employees as being covered by the social security act.

"Some employers have informed us that many of their temporary employees do not have account numbers. Employers should require employees, who do not have account numbers, to fill out Form SS-5, Application for Social Security Account Number, at the time of employment."

"Under the social security act employers are required at stated intervals to submit reports to the United States collector of internal revenue," Chamberlain says.

Must Report Deductions

"These reports must show the names of the persons from whose wages deductions have been made for social security. They must also show the amount of these wage deductions and the social security account number of each worker. These reports are posted to the old age insurance account of each employee at Baltimore, Md. If the employer does not know his employee's social security number he must submit an application for the person who is employed."

"In cases where the employee has left the service of an employer, this is often difficult."

Chamberlain's office serves all 15 counties of the upper peninsula. Persons residing in the upper peninsula should apply to the Marquette office for their account numbers.

Winter dust storms of Oklahoma and Kansas often cause "brown snowfalls" in Vermont and New Hampshire.

HOME PLANTING

Too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the usefulness of planting as an adjunct to the design of the small home. Trees and shrubbery should be used to improve the architectural character and are frequently more effective than the decorative use of material. They provide charm, essential to the attractive home.

Furthermore, planting may add directly to the living qualities of a property. Shade trees are best placed so that they will provide shade from the hot afternoon sun and frame the house. Trees need room to grow and should never be planted too close to the house. A few fruit trees are always desirable, both for their fruit and their flowers, and should be included in your planting selection.

BUILDING SPECIFICATIONS

A specification for building a home is an understanding in specific terms of what you expect and require from your contractor, and what he intends to give you. It is a mistake of many home builders not to have a complete set of specifications when they start to erect their home. The specifications are used to supplement the plans and to take up the building operation where the plans leave off. It is obviously impractical and impossible to describe every detail of a building operation on a set of plans. Grades and quality of materials and methods of workmanship are set forth and made definite in the specifications. This assures the home builder of having the grade and quality of materials and workmanship in his home that he expects from his contractor when he awards him the work.

THE SQUARE HOUSE

A square house is the most economical home to build, for the following reasons: First, it is compact; second, it takes less roof and less excavation and less foundation walls than a picturesque, rambling type of house that covers the entire lot. It also is an easier house to heat, consuming less fuel.

Funds Available to Finish Homes

Roughed-In Upper Story Subject for Modernization

A somewhat common practice among home builders of moderate circumstances has been to erect a story-and-one-half or a two-story house and leave the top floor in an unfinished condition, the idea being that as the space was needed and money to carry out the work could be obtained the home would be completed.

The Property Improvement Credit Plan, which operates under the Title I of the National Housing Act, now makes funds available for this type of completion work. A loan of as much as $10,000 may be obtained and repaid in equal monthly installments over a maximum period of five years and thirty days.

It is possible to carry out all of the work needed to make the unused space tenable. Flooring may be laid, wiring completed, heating and plumbing fixtures installed, and the room partitions built.

The increase in value that the completion of this work will give to the home may often be in excess of the actual expenditures necessitated.

Even when there is no occasion for finishing the space for immediate family use, it is often a worthwhile improvement.

All of the millions of fingerprints, no two of which have been found to be alike, come under three principal classifications, arch, loop, and whorl.

Position of Window Feature of Lighting

The size of windows is not really as important as the position of the windows in the wall. The best light comes from the upper part of the window, as that is thrown farther back into the room and increases the reflected light of the room itself. As far as ventilation is concerned the high window again has the advantage, as it allows the warmest air to escape.

A SMALL BATHROOM
 In Most Homes Space Can Be Found For The Extra Bath
 One of the most serious deficiencies of many of the older houses is the lack of an adequate number of bathrooms. If there are children of school age who must be on time to school, a father who has definite office hours, the problem of bathroom congestion is likely to be one of the foremost topics for discussion in the family council.
 Too often the decision is in favor of the older folk and adverse to the children. Someone has to be given precedence.
 It is unfortunate and unnecessary to disturb the family harmony because there are not enough bathrooms in the house. There are other and more satisfactory ways in which this problem may be solved. In most homes it is possible to find a place for an additional bathroom. There may be a spare bedroom that could be utilized, or a closet that is big enough to accommodate at least a lavatory and closet combination. If there isn't enough room for a tub, a shower may be installed in a water-tight compartment.
 Many persons have been needlessly depriving themselves of the conveniences of additional bathroom facilities because they have the impression that a bathroom must be large. If necessary, all the three essential bathroom fixtures can be placed in a room as small as 5'x5'. Bath-tubs are made in a variety of sizes. Some are only 43" long. 60" and 66" are popular sizes for both small and large bathrooms. With a 60" tub fitting into the end of a room 5' wide, the other two fixtures can be easily arranged opposite each other in the rest of the space. There is ample room for a commodious

Up-to-Date Bathroom
 This bathroom is a splendid example of the modern type of bath. Three of the walls are of pale green and the fourth, as the illustration shows, is of black vitrolite. Against these walls have been set soft pink plumbing fixtures. The floor is of linoleum in shades of brown—a light tan, shading into a dark brown—with a mottled finish.

PLYWOOD USED FOR FINISHING
 New Material Meets All Needs for Paneling
 Plywood panels are becoming increasingly popular in homes, stores and other types of buildings. They make inexpensive paneling where utility or insulation are requisites.
 Modern machinery, large scale production and the development of water-resistant glues and gluing technique, have made it possible to produce panels of practically any size, kind of wood, degree of beauty or utility and price.
 The popularity of plywood panels has been increased because they are not likely to shrink and warp. Their ability to stay in place and hold their shape results from plywood being made of three or more layers, always an odd number, with the grain of each layer running at right angles to the grain of the adjoining layers or plies. Each layer in the plywood is of correct thickness so that shrinking and warping is counteracted. As a result there is little danger of the wood checking and ruining highly glossed or enamel finishes.
 Plywood panels are highly resistant to the transmission of heat and cold which cuts down the fuel bill in winter and reduces interior temperatures in summer. They are easy to cut to any shape or size desired, take nails and screws easily and in large sizes can be installed quickly and cheaply. They may be painted, covered with wallpaper, or given a natural or stained finish. Individual patterns made by the texture and grain of the wood to be visible.

Refrigerator Needs Space Above for Air
 If a kitchen cabinet is to be installed over a mechanical refrigerator, it must be hung so that there is at least six inches of space between the top of the refrigerator and the bottom of the cabinet. This is to allow the heated air from the refrigerator to escape.

medicine cabinet in the wall. In fact, a 5'x5' bath may be as colorful and as charming as a larger room. The lavatory, of course, should be of the wall hung type. There are many styles and sizes and it need not project far into the room. The home owner who wishes an extra bathroom but finds himself puzzled as to just where it can be worked in should call an experienced architect or plumbing contractor for advice. A man who understands plumbing may suggest a convenient and economical location for bathroom fixtures that the home owner himself might not think of. If there is no space at all available for a complete bathroom, there are various alternatives that present themselves.
 1. A downstairs lavatory in the hall, hall closet, or some room near the hall;
 2. A lavatory in the kitchen;

Is Mexico a Good Neighbor

Just ten year ago Mexico, in response to efforts by the late Ambassador Dwight Morrow, Aviator Lindbergh and the late Will Rogers, began to be a good neighbor. A decade of difficulty growing out of the radical Mexican Constitution of 1917 was ended in 1928 when the Mexican Government amended the confiscatory oil and land law.

Today there is a new crisis over the confiscation of American oil properties. This time we are represented in Mexico City by no such able diplomat and conciliator as Dwight Morrow, Colonel Lindbergh in England and Will Rogers in the immortals. Yet the difficulty between the two governments is just as real as it was a decade ago.

Perhaps it is even greater. At this time a Mexican President who needs and desires good relations with the United States has been forced into unneighborly action by a politically powerful labor syndicate.

Most Americans sympathize with the Mexican Government's desire to have its own people control and develop Mexico's natural resources. For too many decades foreigners have exploited Mexico's wealth and Mexico's workers. From the days of Cortes until 1917 they bribed and bulldozed their way, carrying abroad the riches that should have been used to develop the country.

Confiscations by the Mexican Government brought foreign protests, with Washington taking the lead. Finally in December, 1927, the Mexican Supreme Court changed the atmosphere by a decision which favored a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. The Mexican Government had canceled drilling permits on the ground that the American company had not complied with the new oil law.

But in recent months the unions made new demands which went too far. A compromise offered by the companies was rejected and the arbitration board gave the unions everything they asked.

British, Dutch and American companies operating in Mexico announced they were unable to comply and closed down their plants. The labor unions took them over and the Mexican Government announced it would expropriate and operate them.

If the United States Government had intervened more energetically a few weeks ago things might not have gone so far. If President Cardenas had been told just how the United States would most regretfully cease being a good neighbor if Mexico confiscated American property.

No one denies Mexico's right to the over foreign property. But with that right goes the obligation to pay for such property. Mexico is bankrupt. She has previously expropriated one million acres of American agricultural land worth eighty million dollars.

Mexican oil workers are already discontented since they are not being paid the higher wages they were promised. Oil wells and silver mines are being closed down and thousands of Mexicans are losing their jobs.

If this situation continues it will lead to revolution. No Mexican Government engaged in economic war with the United States has ever maintained itself for long. Mexico is full of discontented politicians ready to take advantage of this economic crisis.

The expression "stone-broke" originated from the old custom of breaking a craftsman's stone when he failed to pay his debts.

At the end of 1935, the total capacity of all freight cars owned by Class 1 American railways amounted to 85,877,106 tons.

LOVE LAUGHS AT THE DOCTOR

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS: CONSTANCE MAIDWELL—heroine; the stand-in; DEREK MANTHO—an artist who loved money first; DR. ROGERS—he met his most difficult case.

Yesterday, Slowly Constance and Derek are breaking from each other. And then one day Hilda suggests that they go for a gallop together into the mountains.

CHAPTER XXI In response to Hilda's suggestion Derek was on his feet at once with one of his most winsome smiles—the perfect guest, eager to oblige his hosts. But the glance he flashed at Constance was triumphant.

Constance said, her voice sweetly regretful, "It would be lovely, Hilda. But I have a letter I must write for the next mail. Perhaps I shan't ride this morning, either." Derek's smile set into a mold not quite so winsome as at first; his face went red and then white.

"Sorry," he said stiffly. "But there's some work in the studio I probably ought to attend to, anyhow." Hildegarde Thorvald glanced from one to the other in a kind of amused exasperation, shrugged slightly, and said to the maid at her elbow, "You may tell Miguel to take the horses back, Rosita. I won't have him handed to me on a platter. Constance thought, How delighted he was to have it all made so easy for him! ... That's the trouble with Derek; he's too willing to get things the easy way. ... But I needn't have been so smug.

A few minutes later she was hidden in the library, indulging in a few remorseful tears when Mark Rogers came in.

"Well, is this the way you write letters?" he asked, lifting a quizzical eyebrow. Then at sight of her tempestuous face, he added with an unaccustomed gentleness, "Anything the matter?" "It's my nose," Constance said between tears and a wicked impulse to startle him for once. "Your—what?" ... Definitely she had his attention now.

"My nose. Perhaps you haven't noticed, but I've just cut it off—to spite my face. And it's beginning to hurt." "Humph!" he said musingly. He sat down on the edge of a table, his hands in his pockets, and looked at her with a curious brooding behind his steady brown gaze. "It was necessary," Constance told him, "for my general well-being. Isn't there something in the Bible about plucking things out? ... Doctor Rogers, how did you feel the first time you performed a major operation?" "Feel?" he repeated absently. "Oh—sick as the devil. Lost my dinner, as a matter of fact."

He continued to watch her thoughtfully for a moment, his hands in his pockets, whistling gently to himself. Finally he went on, "The trouble with operations is that so often people only imagine they're necessary. I had a patient once who was sure she had something growing inside of her. She insisted she'd had it for years. I was sure after I examined her that she didn't have any growth—or much of anything else wrong. Finally it leaked out that when she was a child, she'd swallowed a peach seed, and some fool had told her it would grow. She hadn't been conscious of recalling the incident for years; but somewhere in that mysterious region we call the subconscious, the idea of growth had persisted. As soon as she realized what was behind her symptoms, the pain stopped. ... Pains, he finished, arching one eyebrow at her, "are tricky things. They even hang around sometimes long after the real trouble is healed. ... You've got to have more than a pain before it's wise to operate."

"I wonder," Constance stood very still, remembering a great many aspects of her feeling toward Derek for the past weeks. ... A few months ago, Derek had been to her a radiant young god who could do no wrong. Now—was there really nothing left but pain?

Mark Rogers got up from the table and stood, looking down at her for a moment gravely, as if he were going to say something more. Then he smiled a wry little smile, shook his head, and turned away. "Well, anyhow, she thought, that's the first time for weeks that he's really looked at me as if he saw me. She watched him go down the corridor with a sense of loneliness she was at a loss to account for. But somehow the brief had rested and steadied her, as she had sometimes been steadied by a walk in a bracing wind. He is something like a fresh wind, she thought. He ruffles you up a bit sometimes; but when he gets behind and pushes, he certainly helps.

Eight weeks had passed, and still George Thorvald continued to ask for Constance; and his father and sister appeared to take it for granted that she would not leave so long as he needed her. It had all been easier after those first weeks. Derek was absorbed in the portrait to the exclusion of all other interests—as he always was in his work when it was going well. And the portrait was going well now.

Constance was glad. Since the success of that portrait was the thing Derek seemed to want most she wanted him to have that Hildegarde's attitude toward him seemed to have changed. Instead of treating him as she had seemed to at first, with just the degree of hospitable solicitude she might have accorded to any chance guest, she began to spend hours with him in the studio even when she was not posing for him. Sometimes she sang to him while he worked, accompanying herself on the piano she had had moved to the studio for him—the strange, barbaric songs she loved so much. Sometimes she sat reading, preferably one of the books on travel of which she seemed always to have a new one; and recently a scientific treatise on the cosmic ray—which she laughingly declared would be swell if she could understand a single word of it. And sometimes she just lounged, saying little, as was her way, musing, or watching Derek with a lazy, speculative amusement.

After the first eight weeks, George Thorvald's recovery began to be as rapid as it had been slow before. Constance was puzzled and sometimes a little embarrassed to find him watching her with a strange expression in his pin-hollowed eyes. Several times since he had grown stronger there were times when he seemed about to say something but despaired of a suitable beginning. Once or twice she had caught the nurses watching them with covert speculation.

One day, when she was chatting outside the door of the sickroom with Miss Wilcox, Dr. Rogers came up with a cheerful, "Well, how's the patient this morning?" "Well, Doctor," Miss Wilcox answered, "he's reached the stage when they always fall in love with the nurse. ... Only," she finished, with a sidelong glance at Constance, "I have a premonition that my nose is going to be out of joint this time."

Dr. Rogers said after an instant in which he looked not entirely pleased, "But I understood that that aspect of the case was all neatly taken care of in the beginning."

Oh, yes?" said Miss Wilcox on a faintly rising inflection as she turned away. The next day, while Constance was reading aloud to the patient, as she often did now, with what she considered one of her outstanding impersonations of Miss Wynne as the sympathetic nurse, George Thorvald interrupted her in the midst of a sentence.

"There's something I've been going to say to you for a long time," he began abruptly. "You might as well hear it now, because I can't go on this way any longer."

SYPHILIS BILL GIVEN BACKING

Gudakunst Urges Passage of Measure Against "Enemy No. 1"

Passage of the amended LaFollette-Bulwinkle bill providing for a nationwide attack upon syphilis, "U. S. Public Health Enemy No. 1," would prove a tremendous boon to Michigan's venereal disease campaign, declared Dr. Don W. Gudakunst, state health commissioner, yesterday as he urged local health officers to support enactment of the bill.

As passed on favorably by the committee on commerce, senate bill 3250 provides $3,000,000 for the first year of the syphilis campaign; $5,000,000 the second year; $7,000,000 the third year; and "for each of the ten fiscal years thereafter; such sum as may be needed to carry out the purpose of this act."

Hearings before the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce are scheduled for April 14. This bill carries out the recommendations of the National Conference of Venereal Disease Control and has been approved by the Conference of State Health Officers, said Dr. Gudakunst. In his circular to local health officers, the commissioner urged them to convey to Michigan's congressional delegation the sentiment of their districts regarding the passage of the syphilis bill.

"The appropriations for a nationwide attack upon syphilis are not extravagant," said Dr. Gudakunst, "when it is considered that every year more than $30,000,000 is spent for care of the nation's syphilitic, and another $10,000,000 for care of the syphilitic blind. The toll of misery cannot be estimated for those 150,000 persons who are treated annually for syphilitic heart disease, the 40,000 who die annually of syphilitic cardiac conditions, or the 500,000 persons who contract the disease for the first time each year."

"We have every weapon necessary to combat this disease which attacks some 60,000 new-born infants every year and is the major cause of stillbirths. Michigan is ready with the doctors, the knowledge and the drugs to join the nation in this campaign to wipe out the scourge of syphilis."

The syphilis bill provides for the same type of cooperation between the U. S. Public Health Service and the state and local health departments which has operated so effectively under the Social Security Act in improving health services throughout the nation.

Based on the number of absent voters' ballots already in, Monday's election is expected to bring out a record total vote. Normally about 1800 ballots are cast in a city election here, but political procrastinators are predicting a total vote of between 2100 and 2500 in the election Monday.

The candidates for the city council are:

The position of justice of the peace is held by W. G. Stephens, who is a candidate for reelection.

Candidates endorsed by the Manistique Labor Council are John Nessman and Clarence Cowman, for the council, and Alex Walker for justice of the peace.

Although only two council positions will be filled by the election, a third council seat will depend upon the outcome of the election. There is no one complete fertilizer that will supply the necessary food for trees, shrubs, grass, flowers, and vegetables. ## DRIVERS HERE GIVEN TESTS

Alvin Bjorklund Is First to Apply Under New Law

Alvin C. Bjorklund was the first to make application for an operator's license under the new law which provides for examination by qualified examiners. It was learned yesterday from Chief of Police Torvald Kallstrom, one of the two local examiners. William L. Marble was the last to obtain approval of an application locally before the new law went into effect on Friday.

Others who took the drivers' examination the first day were John Swan, 909 Wisconsin Avenue, and Arthur Leroux, 7th and Superior avenue.

Evan Johnson, 504 Wisconsin, was the first to pass a test with a perfect score.

Of interest is the fact that a 15-year-old youth, Harold Hillman, made application and had a perfect score in a shorter time than any other person who took the exam. He received a temporary permit and in 7 days returns to take his road test.

Bathhouse Proposal Before Taxpayers Monday

Taxpayers of Gladstone will vote Monday on a proposal to bond in the amount of $5,000 to finance material cost for use in construction of a new and modern bathhouse at the local bathing beach.

If approved, the project, the architect's sketch of which appears above, will be set up for house facilities, which are free to all.

There will also be a concrete porch and walk along the entire front of the building facing the bay, giving ample and comfortable space for spectators.

The Cost

Materials required for the building, all to be bought locally, will cost about $5,000.00. The City portion being slightly under $5,000.00 including architect's fees and other costs. Fifty local men will be given WPA work for about four months.

The proposed issue of $5,000 in bonds is to cover all of the City's portion of the cost. They are to be paid off at the rate of $500.00 per year, beginning in the second year.

Including interest, the total cost would be $1.25 per person in the City. Over a ten year period this would be equal to a pack of cigarettes a year or a trip to the movies every other year.

As the city tax rate is at its maximum it cannot be increased because of this bond issue. The issue will have to be paid from the regular income of the city. This can be done, partly because of the yearly decrease in interest being paid on bonds now outstanding, without too much strain on other necessary items.

While WPA may continue for some years it is changing each year and this may be the last chance the City would have to secure any materials from the Government. It is an opportunity which should be taken to secure a permanent attractive $12,000.00 building for less than half of its total cost—giving Gladstone something of which it could be proud rather than what we are now ashamed of.

Construction under the WPA, Derrick Hubert, Menominee, is the architect.

Yesterday a pamphlet giving reasons for a "Yes" vote on the question was distributed at the direction of a special committee representing the City Club.

The text of the pamphlet follows:

"Gladstone has the finest open lake bathing beach in the entire Upper Peninsula. Lying close to U. S. Highway 41 and bordered by a fine tree-shaded park, it offers ideal conditions for both the residents of the city and the summer traveler—except that it has no bathhouse facilities. True, there is a shack on the beach which offers some shelter and a little privacy but its appearance is such as to repel strangers and little use is made of it by local people.

"The City Club, appreciating the need, has had plans made for a modern, roomy and attractive bathhouse and has secured for the taxpayers of the City an opportunity to vote the necessary bonds for its construction with the aid of the WPA.

"The proposed bathhouse is to be built with concrete floors, walls and roof for two important reasons. First, the City Commission would not approve a wooden building because of the danger of fire and because of the high maintenance and repair cost. Second, a much larger proportion of the cost of the building could be obtained from WPA on a concrete building than on a wooden one.

"The building, with separate wings for men and women, will contain individual dressing booths, sufficient for several hundred people per day, with foot baths, showers and toilets. By means of a basket system handled by a full-time attendant it will be possible for a small fee, probably ten cents, to check all clothing and valuables while a bather is in the water, preventing losses by theft or damage by others. It should be understood however, that it is not necessary to use the checking system in order to use the bath-

Michigan In Washington

Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

A fantastic or an inspired remedy—is the suggested three year plan of the five Michigan Democratic congressmen to end the recession by subsidizing employment instead of relief?"

Spurred on by "lay-off of workers" stories from back in Michigan and fearing its resultant effect on their coming elections, Representatives George E. Sadowski, of Flint, John Luecke, of Escanaba, Frank E. Hook, of Ironwood, and George D. O'Brien, of Detroit, presented an outline of their proposed legislation to President Roosevelt through Secretary James Roosevelt on Wednesday.

In brief, the plan would exempt from taxation all industrial earnings used in extensions, improvements and renewals of plant during the three years. It would extend government credit to industry to finance increased stocks of raw materials and finished inventories. It would pay a proportion of the wages of "new" employees.

This payroll subsidy is the real heart of the remedy. This would mean that Uncle Sam would pay 40 per cent of the "new" employee's salary, and industry, 60 per cent. With such government assistance, they hope two million new jobs and 6 million collateral jobs might be created.

Instead of paying out more for relief, pay out on salaries for jobs, is the idea, thus aiding the unemployment situation and reducing relief appropriations.

Three Democratic congressmen and Senator Prentiss M. Brown did not join the others—John Dingell, Louis Rabaut, and John Linski, all of Detroit. They are quoted as "not unfriendly" but cautious and insistent upon more time to delve into the merits of the plan.

Transue, representing the Flint and Lansing areas, is really the leader and he has been assisted by Lucius E. Wilson, of Michigan, special counsel of the Unemployment Census.

Congressman Luecke in his sane quiet way summed up rather well the feeling of his colleagues. We want, he said, to do something about this acute unemployment in Michigan. By getting this proposal into a bill, hearings will be held and we can better ascertain if it will help.

BOY SCOUTS TO GET CCC CAMP

Escanaba Organization Will Receive Use of Building

Washington, D. C.—Rep. John Luecke, of the 11th Michigan district, was yesterday advised by H. E. Rollins, assistant director of procurement, department of treasury, Washington, D. C., that arrangements have been made to transfer buildings at the abandoned CCC Camp F-7, near Munising, Alger county, Mich., to the Escanaba Boy Scout Executive Council, Escanaba, Mich., for the use of the Boy Scout organization.

The Michigan WPA filed claim for the buildings at Camp F-7, unaware that the Boy Scouts were interested in obtaining them. At the instigation of Escanaba Boy Scout officials, Luecke requested the WPA officials in Lansing, Mich., to waive claim to the facilities in favor of the Scouts; a request that was promptly complied with. The procurement division was then asked to certify them as surplus to further usage by governmental agencies, which received priority in disposition of abandoned CCC camp facilities, and award them to the Escanaba Boy Scout Executive Council.

Communication

To Daily Press Readers:

In the "blue issue" of "A Glance at the Records" distributed to Escanaba homes on Friday, April 1, there was an issue brought out which we wish to take exception to and clarify to the best of our ability. This issue related to the fear and unrest in the city employees' ranks, due to espionage and an expected purge. The City Employees' Union, Local No. 78, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees wishes to state that this is the first time this condition has been brought to our attention.

If there were any such condition, we should be in a position to hear it from the city employees themselves, and not from outside sources. As far as we know, the "Taxpayers' Union" or whoever brought out the issue was very much misinformed about us.

The city employees do not at any time meddle in politics; but as we were unwillingly dragged into this issue we must clarify these statements. We will say, that to the best of our knowledge there is no unrest nor uncertainty in the city employees' group; also there has been no unfairness or espionage directed against us.

We expect no "free tickets" while in the employ of the city; but at the same time, we feel sure, that as long as we "deliver the goods" we shall stay in their employment.

"Yours for Increasingly Better Service"

new court house. It can not be disputed that our present court house is overcrowded. More room is needed. But we can enlarge the old one without building a new one. We have plenty of ground room to build a 20 or 30 foot addition to both the north and south sides of our present building, making it one or two stories high, with full basements. The basements could be used for minor county offices for the building is high from the ground. If we built it one story high and we used red brick to match with the present building the cost need not exceed $25000 if built 30 feet wide. Any architect can draw plans that will serve us for the next 50 years. One that will look well outside and none of us would be ashamed of it. Some of the advocates have called the present building a fire-trap. But the vast majority of us live in, and risk our lives and valuables in frame shacks (fire-traps) and we elect most of our county officers from these shacks so we need not worry about a court house that has some wood in it. It has been pointed out that the tax will be small. But it is a fact that the most of us are about ruined with excessive taxes. We can ill afford anything extra. If we remodeled we could no doubt get half the cost from the government and in that case we would not even have to submit the question to the voters. My advice is to vote NO and ask your supervisors to make changes as above suggested.

Stamp Collectors Meet At City Hall During Afternoon

The Escanaba Philatelic Society will hold its April meeting at the city hall council chambers this afternoon beginning at three o'clock. It was announced yesterday by President Earl Brown.

A number of approval books have been received from the S. P. A. and will be on hand for those members who wish to see the new selections of stamps. All members are urged to attend.

This meeting will be the first since the club members, at their annual meeting, decided to change the meeting day to Sunday from the former date which was the first Friday evening of each month. The change in meeting date was made in order to avoid conflicts with other organization meetings and to allow the stamp collectors more time to compare notes and do any trading and the like that they wish.

★ WHEN IS CREDIT TIGHT OR LOOSE?

The tapeline shows your waist line. Last fall it was 40 after a summer of golf. Now it is 45 after a winter indoors. But the tapeline is the same.

★ WHEN IS A TAPELINE LONG OR SHORT?

The loan tapeline does not vary either. Credit doesn't get tight or loose. Instead, business profits get better or worse in some years. And bank credit tells the story.

The real answer to the question is this: If a business is sound; if its customers are buying and paying, it will have little occasion to worry about so-called "tight bank credit," whether it be currently classed as a "big business" or a "little business."
