RIVER CRESTS RECEDE; FLOOD LOSSES HEAVY

ABOUT 3,000 LEFT HOMELESS IN ALABAMA

Montgomery, Ala., April 11. (P)—Flood waters receded in the south today baring thousands of dollars damage to crops and property.

There was damage, too, in sections to fruit and truck from the nipping cold wave which followed rains responsible for the floods. Georgia counted 13 dead, Alabama 2, and Mississippi 2 from rampaging streams.

Most Replant Crops As river crests leveled off in Alabama, efforts were concentrated on aiding the thousands evicted by high water. The Red Cross estimated 3,000 homeless were under care in this state. Rivers were falling from Rome, Ga., to below Montgomery.

County Agent L. A. Edmonson estimated today crop damage from floods in the Montgomery area alone would amount to $70,000 to $80,000.

In Georgia crops will have to be replanted in certain sections and general planting operations were slowed by the rains of last week. In the north portion of that state some damage to orchards was reported from wind, rain and hail.

Highways also suffered from the inundation. The Dallas county engineer at Selma, Ala., estimated high water damaged roads and bridges in that area to the extent of $100,000.

More Bodies Found Refugees headed homeward in the vicinity of Meridian, Laurel and Hattiesburg, but other sections of southeastern Mississippi still were on guard. J. C. Hight, Mississippi commissioner of agriculture, asserted tomatoes, peas, cabbages, and fruit trees were hurt slightly by cold. Light damage was reported to vegetables in Louisiana and to berries in Arkansas. All Arkansas streams were receding.

William Carl Hunt, Red Cross area director here, said the property and crop loss from floods in Alabama would be "tremendous." There was also damage to household goods. Hunt estimated the state's present disaster relief program, which included rehabilitation of victims of last week's tornado which killed 13 in Pickens county, Ala., would cost $50,000 to $60,000.

Two more bodies, bringing to a total of eight the number recovered, were found today in the search for the thirteen persons swept away at Whitestone, Ga., by a cloudburst-born mountain torrent.

SOUR CHERRIES SUFFER East Lansing, April 11 (P)—H. D. Hootman, Michigan State college extension expert, said today the unseasonable return of winter last week caused extensive damage to the buds on sour cherry trees, and less severe damage in sweet cherry orchards.

Hootman, returning from a survey, said half of the sour cherry buds had been frost-nipped in some orchards. Those that were frosted will produce no fruit.

Apple and peach orchards survived the cold without much damage, he asserted, adding that it seemed probable the frosting in sweet cherry and pear orchards would not materially affect the harvest.

Jobs for All

Absolute termination of direct relief throughout the country and substitution of social security aid and WPA jobs for every able-bodied worker, was proposed by WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins, shown above after he had gone to the White House to confer with President Roosevelt on the New Deal's forthcoming four-billion-dollar "pump priming" spending program.

FRENCH STRIKES SPREAD RAPIDLY

Premier Daladier Works on Plan for Cabinet Dictatorship

Paris, April 11. (P)—Premier Edouard Daladier, determined to strike before the opposition could consolidate against him, drew a revised plan today to make his "national defense" cabinet dictatorship of France's destiny for the next three months.

As the new premier worked on his program, rapidly spreading strikes paralyzed the metal industries in the Paris region despite his appeal to the nation for discipline. Workers from a dozen of the capital's largest factories joined some 60,000 strikers already out, swelling the total to nearly 130,000.

Leaders of the strike, which up to tonight had closed nearly 100 factories including a number of nationalized plants working for the national defense, appealed to workers in other industries to join the movement. The huge Renault automobile motor plant was occupied by its 35,000 workers.

Red flags flew from many factories while heavy forces of police and mobile guardsmen moved in to industrial districts in the Paris region to preserve order.

Employers said the strikes were purely political, designed to show leftist workers' discontent at the resignation of Leon Blum's people's front government. Strikers, however, blamed the walkouts on the employers' failure to keep wages up to the rising cost of living.

Girl Refuses Date; Boy Kills Himself Owosso, Mich., April 11. (P)—Deputy Sheriff Ray Gellatly, investigating the shooting Sunday night of 17-year-old John Courtier, said today the youth killed himself because a girl acquaintance refused him a date.

Courtier, a high school freshman, was found dead in his home Sunday night when his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Courtier, returned from church.

Earlier in the evening, Deputy Gellatly said, Courtier had been turned down in his request for a date.

Eagle To Decorate New Airmail Stamp Washington, April 11. (P)—President Roosevelt and Postmaster General Farley chose an outspread American eagle today as motif for a forthcoming air mail stamp.

The six-cent stamp, printed in red and blue, will be issued first May 14 at Dayton, Ohio, and St. Petersburg, Fla., to observe National Air Mail Week. Dayton was the home of Orville and Wilbur Wright and St. Petersburg was the scene of the first passenger-carrying flight.

Grand Rapids Plant Ends 3-Week Layoff Grand Rapids (P)—Production was resumed at the Nash-Kelvinator Corp. plant here Monday after a layoff of three weeks. A total of 1,200 men returned to their jobs.

OFFICIALS CUT GENERAL FUND TO AID RELIEF

STATE BOARD WILL TAKE ACTION ON SHIFT TODAY

Lansing, April 11. (P)—Members of Governor Murphy's "cabinet," faced with the fact that direct relief funds have dwindled to less than $300,000, shelved their objections today and voted to transfer another $1,000,000 from the general fund for relief purposes.

The recommendation of the state officials, who compose the finance committee of the administrative board, goes before the full board for formal action tomorrow. The board has approved similar transfers totaling $3,000,000 since January 1.

Accounting Revised The finance committee also decided to recommend a revision of the state's accounting system to conform "substantially" with a comprehensive financial survey completed recently by a Chicago firm.

The new setup, advocated by Budget Director Harold D. Smith, would become effective with the start of another fiscal year July 1. Smith contended the revised system would:

- 1. Speed up the entire accounting procedure so that transactions would be recorded more promptly, vouchers go through with less delay and financial reports be issued more promptly at the end of fiscal periods. He said the accounting system at present lagged six weeks behind transactions.
2. Simplify financial reports and adapt them to the needs of administrative officials.
3. Make the accounting system a means of controlling transactions, "rather than merely recording them."
4. Co-ordinate the functions of the accounting division and the budget office.
5. Reorganize the accounting division to assure effective supervision of each phase of the division's activities.
6. Clarify the state's fund structure and reduce the number of funds from 230 to 75.
7. Reduce the number of general ledger accounts from 2,400 to fewer than 600, and make them more readily understandable.
8. Tie in the accounting work of departments and institutions with activities of the central accounting division, reduce duplication and establish departmental accounting as an integral part of the state's accounting system.
9. Provide for central control of amounts due the state.
10. Tighten control of commitments by providing that no purchase order be issued without a commitment.

MURPHY PLANS CAPITOL VISIT

Governor Considers Trip to Washington on Welfare Laws

Lansing, April 11. (P)—Governor Murphy said today he contemplated a visit to the national capital, to fight for welfare legislation that would solve Michigan's emergency.

He will leave tomorrow night to address a Jefferson day celebration in Wichita, Kans., Wednesday, and said he might extend the trip to Washington.

Murphy said his visit to the capital would depend on congressional developments said he felt "very sure" following a telephone conversation with the White House, that President Roosevelt would "have a strong and comprehensive program" for meeting welfare needs, but that he was "not altogether sure" it would solve Michigan's problem.

The governor said it would be impossible for him to address an unemployment conference in Grand Rapids tomorrow.

Studies Complaint Murphy also studied a complaint from Wayne County Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea that accumulations of real estate by banks, holding companies and insurance companies have created a "monopoly of homes" that has led to unreasonably high rents.

The governor said the state banking department has enforced a law limiting to five years the period for which banks may hold real estate not used in their business. Only when extenuating circumstances are shown have exemptions been granted, he said.

Murphy wrote to McCrea that under the law the real estate holdings of three state banks in

Loyalists Flee to France, Before Last Stand

Cut off from the main body of the Spanish Loyalist army as insurgent Franco's rebel drive to the Mediterranean neared final victory, thousands of government troops fled to safety across the French frontier, marching into border towns as shown here at Bagneres de Bigorre. Later, in a secret plebiscite, the troops voted to return to Spain to wage a last-ditch fight against Franco's forces.

World Wonders What Hitler Will Do Next

Berlin, April 11. (P)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's next step was debated tonight in the wake of the greatest vote of confidence ever accorded him.

His creation of a greater Germany by annexation of Austria March 13 drew the approval of more than 93 per cent of the nearly 50,000,000 persons who voted in yesterday's plebiscite.

Germans in every walk of life speculated whether now he would be inspired to take rapid-fire action on other Nazi "unfinished" business.

Issues seen as particularly pressing in this connection were: 1. The minority problem of the 3,500,000 Germans in Czechoslovakia.

2. The reunion with Germany of former German territory, such as Memel, now a part of Lithuania, and the Polish Corridor with the free city of Danzig.

There have been frequent references in the last two months not only by Hitler but by his right-hand men, such as Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering and Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, to Germany's determination to protect German minorities outside her boundaries.

Germans in Danzig and even in Memel meanwhile have left no doubt that they long to become a part of the greater Germany.

The question heard most frequently therefore is how long Hitler will take before his next move.

Some observers feel he may allow some time to pass while he and his aides direct their full attention toward consolidating Austro-German union.

FRANCO'S ARMY TAKES KEY CITY

Spanish Insurgents Make Ready for Drive to Mediterranean

Hendaye, France (at the Spanish Frontier), April 11. (P)—Spanish insurgents striving to open a direct way to Barcelona today swept into La Rapita, controlling important crossroads in Lerida province.

La Rapita is a short distance east of Balaguer, 14 miles north-east of the City of Lerida.

The fierce government resistance which disputed the insurgent crossing of the Segre river at Balaguer yesterday diminished as Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces pushed east.

Dogged bands of militiamen still were clinging to mountain positions, however, making clean-up operations necessary to protect the flanks of the advancing column.

With La Rapita the heights commanding Balaguer on the east were taken, putting that city outside the range of enemy bombardments.

La Rapita is a key point on the road connecting Balaguer with Argamunt, 15 miles to the east, where another road angles southeast to Cervera and thence, in serpentine fashion, to Barcelona.

Insurgents reported minor successes by troops operating south of this sector, in the region of Tortosa, where a final drive to the Mediterranean was being shaped.

Founder of Audubon Society Dies At 88

New York, April 11. (P)—Dr. George Bird Grinnell, 88, who often was called "the father of conservation authority" on the plains Indians, died today after several years' illness.

An heir to the tradition of John James Audubon, artist and pioneer American naturalist, Dr. Grinnell founded the Audubon Society for the protection of birds in 1886 and participated in organizing the Boone and Crockett club in 1887 and the American Game association in 1911.

WHITNEY READY FOR SING SING

Ruined New York Broker Gets 5 to 10 years on Grand Larceny

New York, April 11. (P)—Richard Whitney, slightly haggard but nonetheless composed, waited in a cell in dingy old Tombs prison tonight to be taken up the river to Sing Sing tomorrow to begin a 5-to-10-year term for grand larceny.

Pride and urbanity unshaken, the ruined broker stood in general sessions court today, heard his counsel, Charles H. Tuttle, plead for leniency, heard Judge Owen W. Bohan briefly and acidly summarize his peccadilloes, and finally pronounced the sentence that will keep him behind bars for at least three years and four months.

Throughout the whole proceeding, which consumed about forty minutes, Whitney, five times president of the New York stock exchange, scarcely moved a muscle.

Before Judge Bohan lay the report of the chief probation officer of the city, describing Whitney as "proud, egotistical and obstinate," as a man to whom the notion of personal and financial failure "was apparently inconceivable."

On the judge's bench also lay a psychiatric report which stated Whitney possesses "superior intelligence," is unimaginative, and never believed "he could run afoul of the law." An intelligence test, the report said, showed Whitney rated so high that only "one per cent of the people of the world could score as well."

BRIGGS PLANT REOPENS TODAY

Agreement Is Reached in Dispute After Shut-down of One Day

Detroit, April 11. (P)—Spokesmen for the Briggs manufacturing company and the United Automobile Workers announced late today that the concern's Mack avenue plant would reopen at 7 o'clock tomorrow after having been closed since early this morning because of a dispute.

The company sent 3,100 employees of the huge body building plant home, charging that 41 members of the union had started a "slow-down" in the cushion building department. An hour later the Plymouth division of Chrysler Corp., which gets its bodies from Briggs, was forced to close because of lack of bodies, putting 5,000 men out of work.

Conference between union and company officials started immediately after the plant had been emptied of workmen.

The company issued the following statement at the conclusion of the conference: "To Resume Work

"At a conference between the company and the union, it was agreed that operations will be resumed at the Briggs Mack avenue plant in the morning. The men requested to supply the production requested by the company in the cushion department, which was the only department affected, as there could not be proven any evidence of 'speed-up' in this department. However, the company agreed to consider any further evidence that the union might submit with respect to this complaint."

Romeo Pair Admits Holding Up Farmer

Mt. Clemens, Mich., April 11. (P)—Plea of guilty to a charge of holding up a 62-year-old farmer and taking his wallet containing $8 were entered in circuit court today by Mrs. Bernice Vaughn, 31, and John Geneo, 38, both of Romeo. John H. Frischkorn, victim of the holdup, told officers he was driving on a lonely road near Romeo March 26 when the pair halted him and staged the holdup.

Circuit Judge Neil E. Reid said he would pronounce sentences later in the week.

Sault To Detroit Airmail Bids Asked

Detroit, April 11. (P)—Bids for airmail contracts on a proposed 310-mile route between Detroit and Sault Ste. Marie by way of Flint, Saginaw, Bay City and Cheboygan, were asked today by Postmaster Roscoe B. Huston. Service on the new route is to be daily except Sundays and holidays, Huston said.

Ruling Of NLRB Fought By Inland

Chicago, April 11. (P)—The Inland Steel Corporation announced today it would petition the U. S. circuit court of appeals to set aside last week's national labor relations board ruling, which ordered the company to sign any collective bargaining agreement reached with C. I. O.'s Steel Workers Organizing Committee.

ANGLO-ITALIAN PACT DRAFTED

Britain Hopes to Wean Mussolini Away from Hitler

London, April 11. (P)—Great Britain laid the groundwork today for a new friendship with Italy which she hoped would wean Premier Benito Mussolini from his working agreement with Adolf Hitler.

She showed her willingness to recognize the conquest of Ethiopia against which in 1935 she led the League of Nations' 52-country boycott of Italy.

Recognition of Italy's African empire is one of the chief terms of the Anglo-Italian friendship agreement being drafted in Rome.

Without waiting for formal signing of the pact, the British government asked the League of Nations to put the question of Ethiopia on the agenda of the league council meeting opening May 9.

That will be the second anniversary of Italy's annexation of the country.

Britain intends to request that the league free its members of the pledge not to recognize the results of the Italian conquest.

Formal recognition of Ethiopia as Italian then could follow.

Britain's action today took the form of a note to Geneva in which she called attention to an "abnormal situation" which should be "cleared up."

Chicago Expects Big Grain Shipping Year

Chicago, April 11. (P)—Grain men predicted today the 1938 movement of grain out of Chicago by water would be the heaviest in more than a decade.

Their forecasts came after the Steamer Standard Portland Cement had cleared port here with 300,000 bushels of corn for port Colborne, Ont. They said demand for vessel space was the greatest it had been in many years.

Grain boats leaving Chicago in the next few days, however, will not be able to reach Montreal until after the Lachine canal reopens on April 28.

Roosevelt May Go On Air Thursday In Appeal For Program

Washington, April 11. (P)—President Roosevelt may go on the radio Thursday night with an appeal for his new multi-billion-dollar recovery and relief program, aides indicated tonight.

Stephen T. Early, his press secretary, said the chief executive would send a message of the general economic situation and relief to congress at noon Thursday, if he had time to prepare it between conferences in the meantime.

If the message went to Capitol Hill on Thursday, Early added, it was possible the president would read and explain it to the country by radio that night.

Indications of the probable trend of the message came today in a round of White House conferences on relief and public works, and a press conference statement by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

Program Incomplete Morgenthau, a White House visitor earlier in the day, told reporters conditions had changed radically since he came out November 10 against federal "pump-priming" expenditures.

He said business conditions were worse now than in February, when he called them "serious," and that they call "for some kind of government aid."

But Morgenthau said the administration's program was still incomplete, and that he could not discuss the possible means of financing it, such as using the treasury's $1,000,000,000 fund of inactive gold.

Some members of congress expressed belief that one purpose of a presidential broadcast of the program would be to overcome opposition of such economy advocates as Senator Byrd (D-Va.).

The latter group contends increased federal spending would be dangerous and would disturb business instead of stimulating it.

Slum clearance and low cost housing projects may have a $400,000,000 or $500,000,000 place in the president's program, administration leaders reported.

They said Mr. Roosevelt might ask congress to increase by that amount the sum the federal housing authority already is authorized to lend and grant to local public bodies for clearing slums and erecting new dwellings for low income tenants. The housing authority now is authorized to use $500,000,000 for this purpose, lending public bodies 90 per cent of the cost of projects and making annual contributions afterward to bring the dwellings within the reach of low income groups.

TRAFFIC TOLL

Muskegon (P)—The fifth traffic fatality of the year was registered in Muskegon county Sunday night when Reuben Albin Nelson, 46, was instantly killed when struck by an automobile driven by Bart Rypstra, Jr., 21, on US-31 north of here.

Port Huron (P)—Injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile driven by William Reifurth, of Smith's Creek, proved fatal Sunday to Eugene Isabel, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Isabel.

Onaway, Mich., April 11. (P)—Three young men were killed and a fourth severely injured when their automobile swung off the road and crashed into a tree at the city limits of Onaway early tonight.

The three, believed to have been killed instantly, were Ralph Zempel, 27; Ray Smith, 22, and Keith McDonald, 26, all of Rogers City. The body of one was hurled from the car.

HOUSE REVOLT NOT PLEASING TO PRESIDENT

CAPITOL ADVISERS PROPOSE LOAN TO AID CARRIERS

Washington, April 11. (P)—President Roosevelt told congress, in effect, today to figure out for itself how to cure the ills of the nation's $21,000,000,000 railroad network.

Pointedly, he refrained from sending any recommendations of his own to Capitol Hill, where his reorganization bill was defeated and where he received other blows.

He did transmit a mass of recommendations from his advisers, including proposals for lending $300,000,000 for the purchase of railroad equipment and other millions to rescue the carriers from their plight.

Roosevelt impatient. Displaying perhaps a trace of impatience over the recent house vote on government reorganization, he suggested it would be the part of "common sense" to consolidate the seven federal agencies dealing with transportation into two, one handling executive functions, and the other all activities of a judicial, or legislative character.

He also chided past congresses for clothing the interstate commerce commission with "purely executive functions," declaring that this was, "in all probability, unconstitutional."

However, he did not press the point, declaring it was "more important for all of us to cooperate in preventing serious bankruptcies among a large number of railroad companies, great and small." He said immediate legislation was necessary pending formulation of a "permanent program."

In No Hurry Congress seemed in no hurry to act. One leader said there probably would not be much in the way of legislation this session, unless it was a bill dealing with court procedure. Some Roosevelt advisers suggested speeding up of reorganization procedure, and the possible establishment of a single court in charge of reorganization.

However, Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont.) of the senate commerce committee indicated he might call the railroad management and labor spokesmen into conference to study the idea of emergency legislation. Arguing that many railroads have already borrowed too much money, he said he was opposed to granting subsidies or loans on inadequate security to forestall receiverships.

Drawn Up In I. C. C. Some of the recommendations Mr. Roosevelt submitted were drawn up by three members of the interstate commerce commission, Chairman Walter M. W. Splawn, Joseph B. Eastman, and Charles D. Mahaffie. The president summarized them as follows: "For immediate relief:—

"(1) That approximately $300,000,000 be made available from government funds for the purchase of railroad equipment, the equipment to be the security for

HEATING DEVICE FRAUD CHARGED

Pontiac and Detroit Men Held for Using Mails to Misrepresent

Detroit, April 11 (AP)—Five men pleaded innocent today when arraigned before Federal Judge Edward J. Molton on an indictment charging them with conspiracy to use the mails to defraud in connection with the sale of electric heating devices.

The men are Roy C. Jenner, president of the Jenner Manufacturing company, Pontiac; William DeLapp, president of the Jenner Sales company, Pontiac; H. E. Ryder, Lansing; John Cort, Detroit, and A. W. Sutton, field representatives of the companies.

All were ordered held for trial. Jenner and DeLapp were placed under bonds of $2,000 each; Ryder and Cort under $1,000 each, and Sutton, $500. A sixth defendant, E. D. Wilhelmsen, is being sought.

The government charges that Jenner and his associates collected $20,000 by advertising that for $50 they would deliver 24 heating units to be sold at retail from $2.50 to $5 each. It is charged that the units were not of the value advertised, and in several cases were not delivered. The indictment also states that Jenner misrepresented the firm by giving the impression he had a manufacturing plant, when he only assembled the heating appliances in the basement of his Pontiac home, it is alleged.

Relief Load Rises 10 Per Cent Since February In Cities

Lansing, April 11 (AP)—George F. Granger, acting emergency relief administrator, reported today a 10 per cent increase in the direct relief load in Michigan's three largest cities, and a 9.5 per cent increase the costs.

The load in Detroit, Grand Rapids and Flint rose from 67,861 cases in February to 74,630 in March. Costs shot up from $1,830,352 to $2,004,206.

The Detroit load rose from 57,353 to 62,648 cases, with costs up from $1,569,425 to $1,727,164; and Flint from 6,721 cases to 7,771, with costs up from $169,742 to $200,212.

Granger asserted "the financial plight of the city of Grand Rapids is indicated by the fact that while the case load increased 11.2 per cent from 3,787 to 4,211, total obligations decreased 5.4 per cent from $81,185 in February to $76,830 in March."

Two Block Vessels Head For Superior; Stop Over At Soo

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 11 (AP)—The steamers Joseph Block and Phillip Block reached the Soo at 8 o'clock tonight, the first to open navigation to Lake Superior for the 1938 season. The Joseph Block, after attempting passage at DeTour this morning, decided to wait for the Phillip Block which reached DeTour at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The run to the Soo was made in average time.

Both steamers remained at the Soo tonight as no navigation lights have yet been placed. Conditions are reported to be favorable for the remainder of the trip to the head of the lakes.

Evangelist To Hold Meetings This Week

Evangelist and Mrs. E. W. Rolfe have returned from Gladstone to conduct a series of meetings at the Salvation Army building, the first of which was held last evening.

The meetings will be held up to and including Good Friday and will start at 7:30 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

OFFICIALS CUT GENERAL FUND TO AID RELIEF

chase orders may be released to vendors until they have been entered in the accounting records to assure an available balance.

11. Control "blanket" purchase orders, wiping out unused portions of such orders.

12. Control expenditures.

13. Provide a procedure to account for the sale of commodities or services by one agency to another.

14. Simplify expense ledgers.

15. Revise the budget document "so that it will give a better picture of the state's finances, and at the same time will be easier to understand."

Smith pointed out that the present accounting system has survived practically without change for 17 years, from a time before the inauguration of the state budget department. He criticized its method as "chiefly historical," describing transactions that were "water over the dam" instead of providing a sound basis to control future transactions.

The finance committee had deferred decisions on both recommendations since Thursday. State Treasurer Theodore L. Fry objected to continuing relief expenditures, declaring that "we have got to call a halt to this sometime," and Auditor General George T. Gundry agreed. Fry did not renew his protest today, explaining that he would "await future developments" in the welfare situation.

State Sets $25,000 Aside For Barracks, Marquette Prison

Lansing, Mich., April 11 (AP)—The finance committee of the state administrative board today approved a $25,000 transfer from a revolving fund of the division of prison industries for the construction of a barracks to house first offenders committed to the Michigan branch prison at Marquette.

The barracks, a one-story frame structure, will provide sleeping quarters for youthful "trusties" outside prison walls and away from associations with hardened inmates of the institution, Corrections Director Hilmer Guellen said. One wing of the building will constitute a rustic furniture factory designed to provide convicts with employment as a part of the correction department's general rehabilitation program.

If the administrative board endorses its finance committee's recommendation at the meeting tomorrow, the barracks will be erected on a 300-acre tract two miles from the prison which recently was acquired by the corrections commission.

Bonus Of Civil War Soldier Claimed By Veteran's Daughter

Lansing, April 11 (AP)—A Civil war veteran's daughter today claimed the $150 bounty, which the legislature of 1885 voted men who served in the conflict, years after the state had ceased to provide funds for the purposes.

Members of the state finance committee, which referred the claim of Martha Blanche Carr to the claims committee of the administrative board today, said her father, Daniel W. Carr, of Grosse Pointe, enlisted in company K, ninth Michigan Infantry on February 23, 1865. He was mustered out of the service at the end of the war and died in 1900 without having claimed the legislative bounty.

The county law, attorneys for the daughter said, provided that the statute of limitations should not apply. They filed the claim although the legislature has long since failed to provide an annual appropriation with which such obligations might be paid.

WAYNE SOLDIER IS SHOT DEAD

Hospital Patient Failed to Obey Command to Halt, Says Sentry

Detroit, April 11 (AP)—Detroit police and United States army officers today were investigating the death of Private John D. Fero, 25, who was shot and killed this morning when he failed to obey a command to halt after escaping from the hospital at Fort Wayne.

Fero had been a mental patient and had been confined to the post's psychopathic ward, according to army officers. They said the shot was fired by Private Francis Ward, who was on sentry duty at the time. They added that Fero eluded his guard about 6 a. m. left the hospital clad in pajamas, and ran across the post grounds. Private Ward told Deputy Coroner Foster Knobloch that he saw a running man and fired when his command to halt went unheeded. The bullet struck in the back and passed through Fero's heart.

Fero had been attached to Fort Wayne about a year. He was the foster son of James Cronin, Marshall, Mich., merchant, and had attained a reputation as an athlete at Hillsdale college under the name of James Cronin.

MURPHY PLANS CAPITAL VISIT

Detroit declined from $2,858,914 on June 30, 1933, to $1,996,014 on December 31, 1937.

Murphy said he felt Michigan's constitution forbidding it to borrow more than $250,000 without a referendum would limit its benefits under the president's proposed relief program.

State Needs Grant

"What Michigan needs is a direct federal grant," he said, "and perhaps also an additional work relief program that would enable the federal government to provide for all employables as it undertook to do in 1935."

He asserted the fact that 60,000 employables receive direct relief in this state despite expansion of the WPA program is "the best illustration I know of the defect in the present set-up."

He said he felt his presence in Washington might become advisable because "I can't take any chance of Michigan being in an impossible situation in September, when fiscal officers have said its welfare funds would be exhausted unless the welfare burden was materially lighter."

Murphy demanded that the new capital planning commission assist his campaign to "halt the decentralization of agencies of state government." He said he objected to a tendency to move more branches of state government to Detroit, declaring that "I want them to concentrate the government in Lansing, where it belongs, just as soon as they can."

Tri-State Attack On Cutover Lands Problem Proposed

Lansing, April 11 (AP)—State Conservation Director P. J. Hoffmaster said today he would join experts from Minnesota and Wisconsin Thursday in a study of the problem of restoring cutover forest lands to productivity. Hoffmaster said he would lead a delegation to Milwaukee to participate in a preliminary conference, which, if successful, would result in the launching of a tri-state attack on the problem at a subsequent meeting in St. Paul.

He said large areas of cutover lands in the three states are reverting to state ownership, worthless in their present condition because they hold no marketable timber and the soil is too poor for farming.

Pierce-Arrow Firm Ordered Liquidated

Buffalo, N. Y., April 11 (AP)—Federal Judge John Knight today ordered final liquidation of the Pierce-Arrow Motor corporation, once thriving high-priced automobile manufacturer, which also supplied a large number of army trucks for the American Expeditionary Forces in France.

The concluding chapter in the corporation's half century of eminence in the transportation field was written at the request of creditors and stockholders who obtained an order two weeks ago, asking interested parties to show cause why the company should not be liquidated.

Today's order quoted the estimated realizable value of assets at $1,187,771 with liabilities of $1,892,443.

Attorneys indicated that trustees in bankruptcy will be elected at a meeting within a month.

Fast Time Takes Effect April 24

New York, April 11 (AP)—The Merchants association of New York made public today a survey showing that Daylight Saving Time would be, universally or partly observed this year in 17 states.

Daylight Saving Time will become effective in New York state and in most of the other states observing it at 2 a. m. on Sunday, April 24, and will continue to Sunday, September 25.

Mayflies spend from one to three years as water crawlers, only to die after the first night as a winged adult.

Logan Elected Mayor To Succeed Johnson

New Faces To Be Seen as Delta County Board Holds Session

Peter N. Logan was unanimously elected mayor of Escanaba to succeed Carl B. Johnson at an organization meeting held at the city council chambers at the city hall last night. Carl W. Richter, other newly elected councilman, was unanimously named mayor pro tem.

In accepting the mayor's gavel, Logan expressed his appreciation of the various labor organizations and individual citizens of Escanaba for their support in the election of last week. He pledged continued support of the constructive governmental program administered during the past several years.

In relinquishing his chair, former Mayor Johnson expressed his pleasure at working with members of the council during his tenure of office. He commented upon the work of City Manager George Bean and congratulated Logan upon his election.

Following election of the mayor and mayor pro tem, the councilmen named C. J. Burns, incumbent, Charles Priester and Ralph Kennelly as members of the board of supervisors for a two year term. Priester and Kennelly replace John S. Back and John Fisher Jr. Burns is at present chairman of the board of supervisors while today will be the first experience of Priester and Kennelly as members of the board, which will meet at the county courthouse.

The council took under advisement a request of C. M. Towson for permission to erect an amusement park near the present tourist camp on the south side.

A request of several weeks' standing of the NRS for $25 per month for rent was denied, the council feeling that that office had sufficient income to support its expenses.

M. J. Kessler was given a beer and wine license while the Victor Johnson estate was permitted to hold dancing in a tavern, only phonograph music being allowed.

COOGAN WANTS HIS PROPERTY

'Kid,' Now 23, Sues His Mother, Stepfather for 4 Million

Los Angeles, April 11 (AP)—Jackie Coogan, the "Kid" of the silent screen, filed suit today against his mother and stepfather, demanding that they turn over to him four million dollars worth of property and assets he earned as a film star.

Coogan, now 23 year old, set forth that he was virtually "broke," dependent upon his small earnings in occasional pictures.

His mother, he charged, was under the undue influence of her present husband, Arthur L. Bernstein.

"I have waited patiently for some time for my mother and Mr. Bernstein to make an accounting to me of my property," Coogan set forth. "I am satisfied if she were not under the influence of Mr. Bernstein, she would have made a proper accounting to me long ago."

Coogan's father was killed in an automobile crash in 1935. Jackie was married recently to Betty Grable, film actress.

Superior Judge Emmet Wilson appointed a temporary receiver for Coogan's assets and those of his mother and Bernstein and set April 20 as a date for a hearing.

Future Postmaster Appointees May Be Under Civil Service

Washington, April 11 (AP)—The senate voted today to base all future postmaster appointments on civil service, turning a cold shoulder to a proposal that it abolish existing merit system restrictions.

By 49 to 20, the chamber substituted an amended house bill for legislation offered by Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn) of the senate postoffice committee, which would have returned postmaster appointments to the field of congressional patronage.

As passed by the senate, the bill would require competitive civil service examinations before appointment of any first, second or third class postmasters. The president could appoint any one of the three candidates receiving the highest ratings in such an examination.

Postmasters would serve for eight years, instead of for life as the original house bill provided, and their appointments would be subject to senate confirmation, a requirement not contained in the house bill.

Provisions relating to fourth class postmasters, who are appointed without term under civil service rules, were not changed.

Warrants Issued In Painting Theft

Detroit, April 11 (AP)—Warrants charging Albert Jones, Jr. and John Messian, both of Detroit, with conspiracy in connection with the disappearance of paintings valued at $25,000 were recommended today by Assistant Prosecutor Thomas J. Donahue.

Dearborn police say that Jones has confessed that the disappearance of the paintings, which he left in his car outside of an inn while he ate lunch, was a hoax.

He also said he added several paintings to the list reported to police so that he might collect the full $80,000 for which the group was insured, officers declare. Police claim they found the paintings in Messina's home and that they were valued at $25,000.

Injunction Blocks Detroit Pay Raise

Detroit, April 11 (AP)—Three Wayne county circuit court judges today granted an injunction that restrains the city of Detroit from allowing $1,100,000 in pay increases for hourly and daily workers.

The injunction was obtained by Frank J. Weber, a taxpayer, acting on behalf of the Detroit Citizens League. The pay raises, voted by the city council September 9, 1937, never went into effect, having been held up by a temporary injunction obtained by Weber.

Weber contended that the council violated the city charter in voting an increase in the wage scale in September. The charter states that the budget must be made up in April. The contention was upheld by Judges Clyde I. Webster, Arthur Webster and Allan Campbell.

Ford Boat Beached In Florida Channel Following Collision

Jacksonville, Fla., April 11 (AP)—The motorship Lake Oswego was beached late today after it collided with the freighter Can Mateo in the St. Johns river between here and the Atlantic ocean.

Coast guard divisional headquarters said no one was injured in the crash which occurred as the two boats maneuvered to pass in the river channel.

The Lake Oswego, operated by the Ford Motor Co., sank by the head after shipping water through a hole stove in its prow.

The craft was beached on a small island in the river.

Coast guardsmen said the San Mateo, operated by the Refrigerated Steamship line, was damaged in the collision but proceeded under its own power to Jacksonville.

SUPERVISORS TO CONVENE TODAY

New Faces To Be Seen as Delta County Board Holds Session

Several new faces will be among members of the Delta county board of supervisors when that body holds its annual organization meeting this morning at the county courthouse. Among them are Ralph Kennelly and Charles Priester of Escanaba, elected by the city council last night to replace John A. Fisher, Jr., and John S. Back.

Other new appointees are Joseph LaFramboise, Gladstone's new mayor; Milton Berg, appointed from the Gladstone city commission to succeed C. E. Hawkins; Wesley Anderson, who replaces George Peterson as supervisor of Bay de Noc township and Jerry Fenlin, succeeding Joseph Rademacher as Ford River township supervisor.

Committees to be formed at today's session are finance and taxation; auditing; roads and bridges; equalization; poor; aviation; mileage and per diem; agriculture; legislative; sanatorium; building and grounds; land zoning; county health; committee to meet with welfare; conservation; physicians, surgeons and hospital.

BRIEFLY TOLD

Helps Desired—All boys and girls who desire assistance in making kites in order that they may enter the contest next Saturday are invited to attend either the City Recreation Center or the Webster Annex. Bud Wellman and Clifford Moreau W. P. A. recreational leaders who are supervising the work shops, will be very glad to assist them. A supply of boxes have been received at the Center and boys and girls are welcome to enough material for kite sticks.

Webster P. T. A.—The Webster P. T. A. will meet at 4 p. m. today, with the kindergarten class putting on the program. Miss Knauf will give a talk on farm security.

Movies Shown—Senior high school students were shown a movie Monday on Junior High's special education as part of an Easter Seal campaign for the benefit of defective and crippled children. Preceding the movie was the presentation by some of the students of the new dance craze, the Smelt Run.

Gets 15 Days—William Zarkleki was sentenced to 15 days in the county jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny in the theft of a cigarette lighter from an automobile at a local garage.

Bicycles Stolen—Lawrence Gerou, 1504 First avenue south, and James Boucher, 220 South 17th street, reported to police that their bicycles were stolen over the week-end.

Automobile Burns—An automobile owned by Charles J. DeGrande, 620 South 13th street, was badly burned in the 700 block on Ludington street yesterday afternoon. Fire, which was believed to have started from a short circuit, was extinguished by the local fire department.

HOUSE REVOLT NOT PLEASING TO PRESIDENT

the advance.

"(2) That for 12 months the Reconstruction Finance corporation be empowered to make loans without certification by the interstate commerce commission that the railroad can meet its fixed charges.

"(3) That other forms of government credit be considered from the point of view of public policy.

"(4) That government traffic pay the full rate by eliminating land grant concessions. (As a means of stimulating railroad building years ago, the government gave tracts of land to the roads, in return for a stipulation that government freight, troops, etc., be transported at reduced rates).

"(5) That the commission does not feel justified in expressing an opinion for or against reduction of railroad wages.

"(6) That reorganization procedure under section 77 of the bankruptcy act receive the attention of congress, and they suggest consideration of the establishment of a single court in charge of reorganizations."

Long-term proposals by the ICC were:

"(1) That a federal transportation authority be created for two years to plan and promote action by railroad companies to eliminate waste, aid consolidation and coordination.

"(2) That the interstate commerce act be amended to broaden the powers of the commission with respect to pooling of earnings or traffic, to eliminate the consolidation plan" and to approve unifications; that the authority be permitted to intervene in such proceedings before the commission, and make recommendations through the commission to the president and the congress.

"(3) That the authority investigate economy and all types of transportation, encourage special fitness and abate destructive competition.

"(4) That attention be given to railroad financial abuses now under investigation."

Morgenthau Disappointed

While Mr. Roosevelt expressed no opinion on the advisability of these proposals, various of his aides did so in letters to the president which the latter attached to his message to congress.

Secretary Morgenthau said he was "disappointed" and thought the program represented an "over-cautious approach." He opposed the creation of the temporary federal transportation authority and urged instead the creation of a permanent department of transportation.

Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC generally concurred, but suggested government loans to help the roads reduce their fixed charges, such loans to be at interest rates "substantially" below those the roads now pay. He stressed a need for the elimination of "cut-throat competition" and unnecessary duplication of services.

Chairman William O. Douglas of the securities and exchange commission, thought the long term program "sound" except where it concerned the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission. He said the recommendations for immediate action "fall short of meeting the immediate crisis."

TOWNSEND WILL SERVE 30 DAYS

Old Age Pension Booster Must Pay Penalty for Contempt of House

Washington, April 11 (AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend, elderly advocate of old age pensions, must serve 30 days in a District of Columbia jail unless President Roosevelt intervenes in his behalf.

The supreme court declined today to interfere with his conviction, of contempt of the house of representatives, thus removing his last hope of reprieve by the courts.

The gray, 71-year-old Californian had appealed to the high tribunal after the court of appeals of the District of Columbia had upheld his sentence and fine, imposed by the District of Columbia district court.

Townsend walked out of a house committee room on May 21, 1936 during an investigation of his pension organization. He accused the committee members of being "unfair" and "unfriendly."

Representative O'Connell (D-Mont.) recently asked President Roosevelt to pardon Dr. Townsend, asserting that to "persecute a man who, with sincerity and honesty, attempted to give security to old age in the country was undemocratic and un-American."

RECORDS ARE BEING CHECKED

Status of Recipients of OAA Re-examined by Administration

Reexamination of the status of all recipients of Old Age Assistance to determine actual need and to meet requirements of the law is now underway under direction of the Bureau of Old Age Assistance.

This program was originally planned to go into operation July 1, 1937, but due to legislative changes thousands of new applications had to be acted upon immediately and the reexamination program temporarily dropped.

During the period March 1 to April 5, 1938, the amount of the individual grant was reduced due to various causes, including a policy of spreading fuel costs over the full twelve months of the year rather than the restrictive six month winter period.

Increase Granted

The bureau during the thirty-six day period increased the amount of grants in 142 cases to $647.50. New grants totalling 1,425 were approved amounting to $24,439, while, in the same period, 2,944 grants were decreased by a total of $13,852 largely due to decreases in fuel allowance, and decreases in the cost of living.

The average decrease amounted to approximately $4.62 per grant as against an average increase of $4.50 per grant.

A total of 1,198 grants were cancelled during the period amounting to $20,707. Of these cancellations 628 were automatic due to the death of recipients. The remaining, 570, were cancelled due to return to state or local institutions, removal of recipients to other states, increase in the amount of income of the former recipient, care by relatives, or other causes due to ineligibility under the law.

Spread Fuel Costs

It is emphasized that the general policy of the bureau has been to spread fuel costs over the twelve month period but the urgent need for sufficient fuel for applicants approved since October, 1937, compelled the bureau to extend the full monthly fuel cost each month during the winter to recipients. Had this action not been taken the new recipients would not have been able to purchase an adequate supply of fuel during the cold months.

Roughly the cost of fuel per ton runs from $8 to $10, the recipient receiving the full amount each month. It is now possible, starting

May 1, to reduce this monthly amount to one-half by extending it over a twelve month period. Actually the grant is not reduced but rather extended allowing the recipient to save and purchase fuel at lower costs during the summer months.

That the recipient does save and does purchase fuel during the period when costs are lower is evidenced by the fact that NO complaints have been received from recipients about lack of fuel.

There has also been evidenced a slight decrease in food prices permitting a lowering of costs on the basis of actual need.

During the month of March, 1938, a total of 71,310 cases were accumulated. The total payment was $1,342,163 or an average of $18.82 per grant.

These figures may be compared with February with an accumulated total of 70,487 cases, total amount paid $1,331,920 for an average of $18.90 per grant.

Scouts To Attend Board Of Review

Board of Review for all Scouts of Escanaba will be conducted in the stage music room of the Jr. high school at 7:30 p. m., Wednesday, April 13.

An eleven page outline of procedure has been prepared by the Scout office to aid all troops in the advancement program. Certain definite requirements are made of the Scouts who plan to attend the Review.

Scouts must bring test card or Merit Badge forms completely filled out by proper persons and approved by the Scoutmaster. Only Scouts who appear at the Review will be eligible for the Court of Honor. Only boys ready for review will be permitted to attend the Board of Review.

It should be borne in mind that the review is not a re-examination and does not require the repetition of actual demonstrations of the skills and knowledge called for in the examination. The review is calculated to reveal whether in the examination as given the proper standards were maintained. It is the check-up to ascertain that what should have been done has been done.

Former Resident Of Escanaba Dies Monday Afternoon

Mrs. William Sharp, a former resident of Escanaba and a sister of Daniel J. Murphy, 505 South 13th street, passed away at her home in Proctor, Minn., at one o'clock Monday afternoon, according to word received here. Mrs. Sharp, who was formerly Catherine Murphy lived in Escanaba before her marriage.

D. J. Murphy and son Kevin left last evening for Proctor to attend the funeral services.

CYCLISTS TO MEET MONDAY

Boys and Girls Invited to Join Safe Rider Club Here

All boys and girls, who wish to qualify for membership in the Safe Riders club, a bicycle safety campaign sponsored by the Escanaba Kiwanis club, are invited to meet at the Wm. W. Oliver Auditorium at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The purpose of the program will be explained, following which the boys and girls present will be given the opportunity to join the club by signing the safety pledge. Each signer will be given a membership card. A safety movie, "Spinning Spokes", will be shown by a representative of the Employers Mutual company.

All members are then on their honor to live up to the rules of the club. All those living up to the safe rules of the club for sixty days will be presented with an honorary membership button or pin. Any member violating his or her pledge must repledge themselves and begin their 60 day period anew.

This club will have the sanction of mothers and fathers throughout the city as well as all officials - and it is felt that it will be the means of solving a very complicated and dangerous traffic hazard which exists at the present time in this city. Membership in the club will be without expense to the club members, all expense being born by the Kiwanis Club. Besides the receiving of honorary membership buttons the honor members will receive other benefits later in the season.

It is expected that there will be up to 500 boy and girl bike owners at the first meeting this afternoon and the Committee expect to enroll the whole group

Michigan In Washington

Esther Van Wagoner Tufty On All Sides, the Defeat of the Reorganization Bill in the House is Still the Talk of the Day. A Narrow Margin Vote was Predicted but Not on the Wrong Side for the Administration.

Our Michigan congressmen buzz as they probe the significance of it all.

Carl E. Mapes, Grand Rapids, Dean of Michigan Republicans: It is an indication that Congress is going to resume its proper function.

John D. Dingell, Detroit Democrat, who made one of the most comprehensive defenses of the bill in the House: It is a victory for misrepresentation through which a mighty good bill was murdered. It delays a much needed general reorganization bill for another generation.

The seventeen Michigan men lined up strictly on party lines with the one lone exception of Louis Rabaut, Detroit Democrat, who voted for recommitment.

On the same day of the momentous House vote on the Reorganization bill over in the Senate or Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg was forced by the new socialist senator from Massachusetts, Henry Cabot Lodge, to meet an embarrassing situation.

For two years Vandenberg has studied the problem of setting up a "pay-as-you-go" social security system based on the belief that a full reserve fund is not necessary.

Lodge walked right in, picked up his "pet", adding a substitute formula to lessen the tax payments and asked for a year and a half vote on his amendment. Thus forcing Vandenberg to vote against his cherished theory, because he could not fully embrace the attending in one hour, so that everyone can be home before supper.

substitute formula provision in the Lodge amendment.

The amendment was defeated—with such senators as Borah, and McNary lined up with Lodge.

An Ann Arbor lawyer, George J. Burke, chairman of the Michigan State Civil Service Commission, heads up the 300 men and women on the National Labor Standards Committee, now holding frequent meetings in Washington as the Wage-Hour bill comes up for consideration by the House Labor committee.

Mr. Burke, who participated in national labor affairs in 1935 on the Regional Labor Board, believes that the passage of a federal Wage-Hour bill right now is of the greatest importance in view of the disastrous reductions in wages and grave increases in unemployment.

Unlike many who think a recession is a bad time to consider wage-hour reform, Burke says such legislation can never be put through when times are rosy.

"Low wage competition is not limited to any one section," says Burke, adding however local wage scale may be, its competitive effect is always national.

Burke makes clear that he does not come to Washington "with instructions from Governor Murphy."

More than half the farm families of Michigan and Wisconsin spend some money on the movies. In fact 13.8 per cent of total recreation expenditures go to the movies—but this is the lowest per cent for any area recorded by a special federal study of consumer purchases.

"Apparently the home talent play, baseball, game equipment, outdoor sports and the radio put up a lively competition with the movies for the farm amusement dollar," says Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the Bureau of Home Economics.

Two members of the Roosevelt family are expected at the Testimonial dinner honoring Senator Prentiss M. Brown on May 12. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has tentatively accepted pending an expected shift of a previous engagement. Her brother, J. Hall Roosevelt, formerly of Detroit, now located in New York, has made a reservation.

DEATH CLAIMS LOCAL WOMAN

Mrs. Nellie Verheyden Dies Following Stroke

A stroke which she suffered Wednesday resulted in the death Sunday afternoon of Mrs. Nellie Verheyden, 67, of 1800 Tenth avenue North. Mrs. Verheyden passed away at 5:45 o'clock at St. Francis hospital.

She was born in Green Bay October 3, 1870, and formerly lived at Cornell, moving here twelve years ago, following the death of her husband, Frank Verheyden, to reside with her daughter, Mrs. Henry Charlebois.

She was a member of St. Joseph's parish and of the Altar Society of the church, and also of Trinity Circle, Daughters of Isabella.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Charlebois the following brothers and sisters, Mrs. Albert Detrie, Mrs. Gust Watermolen, Mrs. John Hartinger and George Tuys, Green Bay; Mrs. Theodore Van Hoven of Miles City, Montana; Joseph Tuys, Denver, Colorado, and Frank Tuys, of Cornell; and five grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Alto Funeral Home to be prepared for burial and was removed to the Charlebois residence 1800 Tenth avenue north, Monday afternoon.

Services will be held Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at a solemn requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church, with Rev. Fr. Edward Leary, O. F. M., celebrant. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Members of the Daughters of Isabella will meet at the home this afternoon at four o'clock to recite the rosary.

ROTARY HEARS GUNNAR BACK

Problems in Radio Are Discussed By Speaker

A very interesting talk on "What Radio Faces in the Future" was presented at the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club by Gunnar Back, who discussed the problems and difficulties radio broadcasting stations now face and what the industry is attempting to do to bring out all the possibilities that radio presents.

The speaker told of the many angles concerning the fight for more educational program time on the air. Educators have felt for a long time that broadcasting systems and individual stations should not betray their public trust element by not giving educational programs ample time. Station managers now are beginning to believe these programs have a true place in radio today.

A slight conflict between newspapers and radio is taking place in regards to what medium plays the most sustained part in bringing the news to the public. This problem is still in its infancy and what the outcome will be is unknown, he said.

Television is another radio unknown for the present but all chains and individual stations are planning and equipment and arrangements to meet television when it appears, probably within a short time.

Howard Thurber was elected a new member. Guests at the club were Rotarian James Wells, Marquette, and Bill Clark, Jr.

Luecke Welcomes Relief Spending

Washington, D. C.—Plans of the administration to spend between one and a half and three billion dollars for relief and work giving projects were welcomed today by Representative John Luecke.

The Michigan Congressman said: "I feel, however, that this should have been done last year, instead. We would not have experienced this great business recession."

Luecke said he would go carefully over the situation in his district and see what projects he will bring to the attention of WPA authorities so that when the funds will become available speedy action may be taken on them.

Disappointed over the defeat of the government's reorganization bill, Luecke said, "at least if we'll get these work giving relief funds the conditions generally will improve throughout the country."

Irving Cass Passes Course In Chemical Warfare With Army

Irving Cass of this city, a musician with the Third Field Artillery Band, Fort Sheridan, Illinois, recently completed a course in chemical warfare at the post school, it was learned here yesterday.

He passed a written examination with a grade of 100 per cent, and received a Certificate of Proficiency from Brig. General Peyton, commanding Fort Sheridan. The officers and enlisted men passing the class will be used to train the men in their own organizations, in the defense against Chemical Warfare, and also to instruct the C. M. T. C. and other military organizations that come to Fort Sheridan for summer training.

LABOR FORUM HERE MAY 11

Krogstad Will Be Main Speaker at City Hall Meeting

Charles Folio Jr., chairman of the publicity and lecture committee of the Escanaba Trades and Labor Council, announced yesterday that his committee had arranged a second labor forum to be held at the Escanaba city hall Wednesday evening, May 11.

George A. Krogstad, chairman of the Michigan department of labor and industry, will be the principal speaker. He will explain the workmen's compensation act, occupational disease bill and plans of his department for future legislation.

The forum is of special interest to labor, but an invitation is extended to the general public to attend. Invitations also have been sent to the central labor bodies at Menominee and Manistique and to unions in other communities in the district.

Chairman Krogstad is making a tour of the Upper Peninsula the week of May 9. A schedule of meetings at which he will appear is being arranged by Fred Peltier, Escanaba, deputy state inspector of the department of labor and industry. The schedule follows: Sault Ste. Marie, May 10; Escanaba, May 11; and Marquette, May 12.

RADIO WILL BE AID AT FIRES

Forest Service Training Enrollees to Operate Its Equipment

Short wave radio equipment again will play an important part in fire prevention and suppression work this summer in the forest service, Frank Crow, assistant supervisor, said yesterday.

"Because of our lack of large fires last season," Crow said, "we did not have to use radio very extensively last year but when we did use it, we found it exceedingly helpful. The year previous we used our wireless equipment to good advantage and we believe it is essential to good fire suppression work."

In preparation for the work this summer, a class of about 26 enrollees is being instructed in the art of using the short wave sets by M. R. Donette at Camp Evelyn near Munising. A class of nine was graduated in February and most of them are holding good positions in short wave work with the department at the present time. A miniature broadcasting station for use with short wave has been constructed to aid the class in their work.

A considerable amount of new equipment was purchased by the forest service last year for use in this district.

NEA Service Staff Correspondent London—Great Britain still makes her royal folk-earn their keep—even though she lost her star salesman when the last Prince of Wales passed out of his boyishly glamorous years into stolid middle age and a brief kingship.

As evidence that the British continue to recognize the magic of royal names in international affairs, it is not merely as a distinguished tourist but as an official ambassador of good will that King George soon will visit France to cement relations with that western continental power.

And, of perhaps equal or greater importance to England's fate in present hectic world affairs, was the recent visit of the soldierly-appearing Earl of Athlone, and his wife, Princess Alice, to King Ibn Saud, ruler of the greater part of Arabia.

There was diplomatic strategy behind it. There was a checkmate for various moves of Benito Mussolini in that quarter.

Oriental monarchs are ticklish people. When important events are afoot, it does not pay to dispatch ordinary, mine-run diplomats. For royalty, royalties. Hence the choice that was made.

The Earl of Athlone is a great grandson of King George III of England. He is also a brother of Queen Mary. His wife, Princess Alice, is a granddaughter of the late Queen Victoria. So they are doubly related to the royal house. Nothing less would do.

British statesmen are worried about the Arabs and about Moslem reactions. There is the strife in Palestine between Jews and Arabs with England trying to be the disinterested third party as holder of the mandate. There is the danger of repercussions among the 70,000,000 Moslems in India. There is the effect upon the Moslems of Iraq and Egypt, which England used to boss and which she has now set up as independent states.

But above all, there is Mussolini. Ever since the Italian dictator was angered by the sanctions the League of Nations imposed upon Italy when she made her war upon helpless Ethiopia, he has held England mainly to blame. He has challenged England's supremacy in the Mediterranean. He has made an open appeal to the Moslems, proclaiming himself their protector. He has given them special privileges in Ethiopia. He has filled the air with broadcasts in Arabic in which England got much the worst of it. He has made a treaty with the King of Yemen, an Arabic state which has ports right at the tip of the Red Sea where Italian submarines could threaten English ships if Italy and Britain were at war.

All these things being true, it was up to England to make a counter move. That is where the Earl of Athlone and Princess Alice came in. They had a grand Arabian Nights sort of experience. For the first time in his life, King Ibn Saud sat at meat with a woman—the Princess Alice. The meat consisted of ten whole sheep roasted over a slow fire. Fortunately the English royalties come from a country where mutton is a staple and prized delicacy.

Also, through an interpreter, they listened to Ibn's recital of his life—from the time when, as a soldier adventurer, he sought to regain his lost heritage as ruler of the Wahabias, until at long last he was leader of most of Arabia—the first man to achieve this since Mohammed himself. He liked his listeners.

It's not the first time the Athlones have won people by their charm and their affability. The Earl, who served in the South African and the World Wars, was sent out to the Union of South Africa in 1923 as Governor General. The term is usually for four years. Now the majority of the white people in South Africa are Boers and they have no exalted opinion of royalty as such. But the Athlones made such a hit with British and Boers alike that a demand went up for a continuance of their service. Hence the Earl was named for a second term as Governor General, only returning to England in 1931.

though the votes were scattered the evidence they present is sufficient to form the basis of fairly definite conclusions.

In Branch county the first countywide local option vote since repeal held major state interest. As an agricultural district it was expected this ballot would indicate a strong dry trend. But the count showed a wet victory of almost 2 to 1.

On the other hand the cities of Holland, Hastings and Allegan all overwhelmed proposals that sale by the glass be allowed, the margins being approximately 6 to 1 in Holland and Hastings and 7 to 1 in Allegan. At the same time Ludington voted 4 to 1 for much stricter regulation of the liquor trade.

Summed up it appears that Michigan is not ready to return to prohibition. But it is demanding stricter control and opposing any extension of the traffic. Unless there is rigid regulation and enforcement the sentiment for a return to a bone dry status is likely to increase.

The Capital Parade

BY ALSOP AND KINTNER Washington, April 11.—The cruelest incident of the defeat of the President's belated reorganization bill was not the rebellion of 108 fractious Democrats.

Since 1932, those men have served as the shock troops of the New Deal. With a handful of New Deal-Wingers like Representative Maury Maverick, of Texas, they have shared the peculiar distinction of being the only members of the House who really believed in the whole New Deal program. And now they have refused to give the President a "vote of confidence," as Speaker Bankhead called it.

Their action has only one meaning. In the months of stagnation since the new depression began, the President has lost his hold not only on the middle class groups represented by the 108 rebelling members of his own party. He has also fallen from favor among those left-liberal and progressive voters whom he has always most cherished, to whose desires he has always lent his most attentive ear.

There was a tragic irony in the Progressives' desertion of the President. The President had waited all winter to act, hoping against hope for better times, uncertain what his action should be and then, only two days before the vote on the reorganization bill, he allowed it to become known that he would spend again, that he would act at last. But action had been delayed too long.

POLITICIANS IN BUSKINS There was a deal of drama in the vote on the reorganization bill. That same afternoon, the Senate Finance Committee's tax bill moved toward passage in the Senate. While Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, whom the President had not thought obedient enough to be his senate majority leader, was sipping the cup of revenge in one chamber, Representative John J. O'Connor, of New York, who had suffered a similar rebuff, was draining the same delicious draught in the other.

The presence on the hill of every member of the administration capable of putting pressure on house members, the milling crowd on the floor, the mob of political voyeurs in the galleries, the worried leaders circulating among their men—all these lent a peculiar excitement, a special tenseness to the scene. But the most dramatic incident occurred unseen when the President's friends went to the progressives to make a last plea.

Such men as Representative Maverick, such friendly big-wigs as Majority Leader Sam Rayburn, worked hard to bring the Progressives around. Their theme was simple. "Roosevelt is our man," they said. "This bill means nothing. This is a vote of confidence, and, if you vote against the bill, you simply vote against your man."

The Progressives returned a simple answer. "You mean he was our man," they said. "But, after these last months, he is no longer. We haven't deserted him. He's deserted us." No doubt, politics being what it is, the administration's backing of a regular Democrat, senator F. Ryan Duffy, for re-election from Wisconsin, had something to do with the Progressive feeling. But that their basic motive was a bitter resentment against months of inaction in bad times is amply attested by the fact that they were joined by the Minnesota Farmer-Laborites.

THE FUTURE It is fruitless now to wonder why the President did wait so long. From the start of the depression, it was predicted in this space that the President would spend in the end, but that he would wait until he was forced to do so by the unkind pressure of events. He would not even have promised a spending program so soon, had not the latest and most dreadful collapse in the stock market really frightened both him and the conservatives around him who had held his spending hand.

But the important question is, what effect will his long delay have now? Will the fractiousness of the President's orthodox partisan followers resist the soothing influence of the spending program? Will his defeat cause the fumbling uncertainty of the last months to surge up again within the President, or will he be able to act decisively in spite of the shattering experience of public repudiation by his followers?

A Skidmore college student says in test that the North Pole was named after its discoverer, Marco Polo. Mussolini may seize upon this as grounds for a claim to the territory.

With European dictators, the ultimate objective is usually not the ultimatum objective.

DAIRYMEN DINE AT LIONS CLUB

Escanaba Group Is Host to Rapid River Co-op Creamery Members

Even though administrations at Washington may change, there probably will always be a farm problem and a farm program, members of the Escanaba Lions club and their farmer guests were told last night by J. G. Wells jr., head of the state experimental station at Chatham, who was a speaker at the club's annual farm cooperation meeting.

Mr. Wells, who was introduced by E. A. Wenner, county farm agent, traced the progress of agricultural legislation in Washington from 1920 to the present time. He mentioned the farm board of 1930-32, designed to absorb surpluses of farm commodities; hog control, wheat control, and the corn-hog program of 1934, financed by processing taxes. Due to the drought, combined with control measures, prices went up, Mr. Wells said, but potatoes and dairy products were not greatly helped. Then came the supreme court decision on features of the AAA, and the soil conservation domestic allotment act came in 1936-37. Soil conservation, the speaker pointed out, had an important function in preventing erosion loss, and the program was paid for by the public rather than through processing levies. In the Upper Peninsula, where about 60 per cent of the land is in sod crops, this program was not especially helpful, and was at odds with the extension program which had been attempting to induce farmers to plant more cash and cultivated crops. Woodlot improvements was one farm program idea which has been followed to some extent with good results.

All Experiments Unlike other farm benefit programs written by so-called "brain-trusters" in Washington, the 1938 farm program was written by Congress, Mr. Wells said. It carries the soil conservation provisions, and has a fund set aside for research to find new uses for agricultural products. The "ever-normal granary" plan of the new farm program, which provides that surpluses of several basic products be stored in warehouses, is one that has not yet been proven out, and whether or not it will benefit price levels is a matter for experimentation.

"Agricultural programs are not so much a political problem," Mr. Wells said in conclusion. "Some forms of farm product adjustment programs are here to stay, and they will benefit not only the producer on the farm but the consumer in the city as well."

Members, stockholders, officers and directors of the Rapid River Cooperative Creamery were guests of the Lions club at the meeting, which was in charge of James Frenn, H. F. Gustafson, representing the Rapid River Creamery group, gave a brief outline of the creamery's history. He said the organization had 68 stockholders, and the cream source for the creamery extended to Trenary, Masonville, Rock, Isabella, Stoughton, Cooks and Garden. The factory was originally started in 1910 to produce cheese, but swung over to butter in 1915, and in 1919 was organized as a cooperative.

The production of the Rapid River Creamery, Mr. Gustafson reported, is 230,000 to 275,000 pounds of butter yearly, valued at $75,000 to $110,000. Escanaba uses about a ton and a half of Rapid River butter weekly. Harry Ehnerd gave a talk on Lions education at the joint meeting, and President Gust Asp spoke briefly on the value of cooperation between farmers and city dwellers, particularly with regard to the boosting of products grown or manufactured locally. Three musical selections were presented by Al Provencher, accordion soloist.

Celebrate Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford, above, were entertained last night at a party commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding and Mrs. Ford's 71st birthday.

Henry And Clara Ford Wed Fifty Years Ago

Detroit, April 11. (AP)—Henry Ford and Clara Bryant Ford went to a party tonight—a party that commemorated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding and Mrs. Ford's 71st birthday.

Hosts were their son and daughter-in-law, Edsel and Eleanor Ford, in the younger Fords' home in Grosse Pointe Shores. Several hundred friends, old and new, were invited to honor the couple who began their married life in a farm house not far from where stands the parent plant of the great Ford Motor company.

In his 50 years of marriage, Ford said tonight, he never had an argument with Mrs. Ford—"not one."

"Who did the yielding?" he was asked.

"We never had any trouble; neither of us ever did any yielding," he replied.

CCC ENROLLS YOUTHS TODAY

35 To Be Selected from This District; 50 Have Applied

Thirty five young men from this district will be enrolled as members of the Civilian Conservation Corps today, it was learned here yesterday at the Delta County Emergency Relief Administration office.

It is expected that Captain Ray F. Bois of Camp Mormon Creek near Rapid River will be the enrolling officer. The young men will be taken by truck from the local ERA office to Camp Mormon Creek for examination. Those rejected will be returned to this city.

The enrollment is one of a series held regularly to replenish the corps personnel. At the present time, the camps in this region are slightly below the number considered best for reasons of efficiency and it is hoped that the enrollment today will bring the number near the minimum.

Preparations are being made throughout the region in CCC camps for the regular spring planting program. The program this year necessarily will be curtailed somewhat from that of the past few years because of the reduction in personnel and in the number of camps in the district. However, the forest service does plan on an extensive campaign of planting in spite of that fact.

FEDERAL COURT OPENS TUESDAY

Escanaba and Gladstone Residents Picked as Jurors

Marquette—A short session is in prospect for the April term of federal court which opens here Tuesday in the federal building. Among the few cases to be considered by the grand jury will be four involving illegal transportation of venison, impersonation of a federal officer, forging of a government check and theft of federal property.

Charles and Edward Schmidt, of Stephenson, are being held on charges of illegal transportation of venison in violation of the Lacey act. They were arrested by federal and state officers several months ago near Plymouth, Wis., while driving a truck containing several deer, which, it was believed, was headed for Chicago.

Charles Roberts, alias George Andrew Ford and Charles Smith, arrested in Detroit by federal bureau of investigation men after nearly a year's search, is alleged to have represented himself as an FBI agent and to have obtained $60 from an Ishpeming youth on the promise that he would obtain an appointment in the department for him.

Roy D. Truax, 20, of Elkhardt, Ind., is charged with stealing a .45 caliber automatic pistol and 100 rounds of ammunition from Fort Brady, U. S. army post at Sault Ste. Marie.

John D. Davis, 16, of Stambaugh, is alleged to have forged a government check for $19.20 issued to Walno Avenuen on the Commercial bank, at Stambaugh.

Escanaba Lions To Be "Big Brothers" To Boy Scout Troop

Scouts of the North Escanaba troop have found "big brothers" in the Escanaba Lions club. The Lions club will assist in the project of uniforming the Scouts of the troop.

Members of the Lions club will call upon the Scoutmaster, Norbert Vallind, to assist in the selection of Scouts to do extra work as cleaning yards and basements, cutting lawns and various other jobs about the home.

The money thus earned by the boys will be put to their credit and when sufficient funds are raised, a uniform will be purchased. The fact is stressed that nothing is given to the boy free. He is required to work for all that he receives.

There are over 30 Scouts in the troop at the present time. Clem Flanagan, Fred Bennett and Geo. Grab, the original troop committee, will be assisted by the addition of two members of the Lions club, Dr. W. R. Buttimer and Merton Jensen, to supervise the troop.

Evangelist At Salvation Army

The Rolfe Evangelistic Party, who recently conducted a three weeks' campaign at the Gospel Hall here in Escanaba, and who are closing a four weeks' campaign at the Gospel Hall in Gladstone tonight will be at the Salvation Army for a five days' campaign beginning Monday evening.

Major Nelson announces that the campaign will be known as "Five Days At The Cross."

Evangelist and Mrs. H. E. Rolfe are assisted in their musical programs by their ten-year-old daughter, Lois, and their wife will be a special musical program at every service.

All these services are open to the public. The services will commence at 7:30 p. m.

Science has not been able to explain satisfactorily just why some lightning flashes show up black when photographed. The only explanation, so far, is that the wave length of the light causes the unusual chemical reaction.

PHEASANT VISIT CAUSES STIR

Grand Rapids Business District Is Host to Game Bird Monday

Grand Rapids—Maybe it was the snowstorm of Sunday. Anyway, something drove a lousy cock pheasant into the heart of the downtown district Monday afternoon and the pheasant game conservation officer John Kroll and two news photographers a lively half hour.

The bird first came to public attention when he alighted with a bang on a window sill at the office of Rindge & Rindge, architects, on the seventh floor of the Michigan Trust building, barging into the glass with some force.

Showing strong signs of punch drunkenness, the ringneck hunched down on the window sill to get his breath and think things over. A call went into the district office of the conservation department at 88 Ionia-av., N. W. Conservation Officer Kroll was dispatched to rescue the bird from the sill.

Then the Chase! Two cameramen reached the scene simultaneously, with Kroll panting at their heels.

It quickly developed that the bird couldn't be photographed from the office. The window frame hid him from the cameras.

So, the photographers raised a window a few yards away, crept out onto a fire escape and leaned over the iron railing for a picture. The pheasant likewise leaned out from the window-sill, contemplating the traffic noises rolling up from Ionia-av., and apparently uncertain whether to risk a cross-city flight or brave the camera men.

When one of the latter started up a spiral ladder leading from the fire escape, seeking a better vantage point for pictures, the bird made up his mind. He took off, flew a few yards and alighted on the roof of the Shepard garage.

The camera men moved to the garage and reached the roof by way of a spiral stairs. Then Kroll called a halt.

"After all," said he, "I'm supposed to catch this bird."

Turns Self Loose By that time the pheasant was huddled in the shelter of the coping. Kroll made a circuit of the roof and began a cautious approach. Leaning over the coping at an angle that he hoped would hide him from the bird, the officer inched nearer. The camera men stood with cameras poised and ready.

Kroll was within three yards of his quarry when the pheasant discovered he was being hunted. He poked his head cautiously around the coping, surveyed the situation briefly and took off in the general direction of the Crescent-st. hill

Some Anglers Are Fit To Be Tied When That Prize Trout Escapes

Camerman caught this gorgeous picture in snapping Ten Lebetter of Blittmore, N. C., going where big trout lurk—beneath a mountain waterfall in Buncombe county, N. C.

BY JIMMY DONAHUE

NEA Service Sports Writer Fishermen have been proven prevaricators. Now, with the trout season open or on the verge of opening everywhere, a cynic might easily convince a jury that all anglers are more or less balmy, too.

Fishermen ignore kith and kin for a month before trout season opens to browse around fishing catalogs, overreach the family budget to buy $50 featherweight rods, gaudy flies, wading brogans, special scissors for snipping off leaders, and fancy creels to hold fish they seldom catch.

Trout streams in early season frequently are high and discolored. Despite the fact that such a situation calls for use of live bait and spinners, or at least streamer or bucktail, the angler waits a dry and Butterworth hospital. "Well," Kroll commented philosophically, "I guess he didn't need to be caught and turned loose. He'll turn himself loose."

fly on the stream's bosom with only one chance in a hundred of hooking a fish.

Picture him on a mountain stream that rushes down a rather stiff grade at considerable speed. It's full of rocks and the footing is precarious.

Does he take the easy way out and fish down stream? No, he laboriously works his way up, stumbling over boulders, fighting a current that threatens to sweep him off his feet, and, after catching one puny trout, exults exceedingly because he believes he caught it through throwing a perfect curve cast to the left—while in truth, he was just plain lucky.

Fishermen Go Berserk You should see him vent his spleen when his backcast catches an overhanging tree, or a big one gets away! I've seen fishermen, who, on breaking a leader on a big trout, outdo any golf club breaker by whacking fine $50 rods over knee and thrashing themselves and the stream into a foam.

If you get a peek at one who spies a worm fisherman dunking in his favorite hole, you'll think he needs a strait jacket instead of a wading jacket.

The angler carries a thermometer to ascertain water temperature when he should be taking his own when he nears apoplexy after losing a good fish. He talks of barometric and solar influence on the feeding periods of fish when he knows darned well that fish feed when they're hungry, and that you find them where they are, and in no other place.

If he is a trout angler he belittles the bass fisherman; and if a bass plunger, he derides the fly caster.

If the sun is shining and he catches no fish, then the day is too bright for trout to feed. If the day is cloudy and the fish aren't biting, the barometer is falling, the day is too dark, and he should have fished last week when it was sunny. In the same way water too roily or clear, or too high or low, produces a contrasting alibi.

Put Up With Anything If a finished fisherman, he declares nothing less than a $X leader of 12-foot length will do, because he is a sportsman and wants to give the fish a chance; yet when this flimsy gut parts under the thrashing of a two or three-pound trout, he makes the air indigo with self condemnation over being such a fool to use such a light tackle.

He'll exaggerate the truth exceedingly. He'll go to any end to steal away from job and family for a week-end trip, deliver himself to the ravages of hordes of voracious mosquitoes, and sleep on hard, damp ground.

He'll eat potatoes with sand in them, risk pneumonia to wade a stream all day after submersion to his neck, roast all day under a hot sun, and freeze all night under an inadequate pile of blankets.

He'll go on a fishing trip for a vacation and rest, and get up at 4 in the morning for the early feeding period, and be out the stream until midnight casting for the nocturnal feeding big brownies.

Sure, he's insane. But it's swell to be crazy that way!

West Virginia's conservation commission offers a reward of $50 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone guilty of causing an incendiary forest fire.

Sportsman's Garb Is Of Importance To Enjoyable Trip

BY OZARK RIPLEY

Whether it be fishing or camping in summer, game, or duck hunting in extreme weather, the clothing you wear is of major importance.

The problem is to find one outfit that meets your needs on all kinds of outings with only minor changes. A wise choice of clothing not only saves expense but also makes it unnecessary to carry along a load of extra clothing for different kinds of sports and for weather changes.

Until a couple of years ago when I went on a fishing trip I took along an oversize suitcase jammed with extra clothes. If the weather was hot, I changed for it. If it turned cold, I changed to a warmer outfit. If the mosquitoes were bad, I had a suit for that. If it rained, I had another change, etc.

On a fall duck and deer hunting trip to the Lake of the Woods in Ontario I really went in for clothes in a big way. It gets pretty cold around there in late October and early November. But with a duffel bag full of heavy woollens and a windbreaker I got by all right.

Likes Leather However, there's where I learned my lesson on clothes. I hunted with a fellow who wore a waterproof horsehide outfit. With one suit of wool underwear beneath it, he was comfortable in a blizzard on a deer run while at times I shivered under so many clothes I could hardly get my gun up to shoot. Neither rain or biting wind could penetrate his leather outfit!

Shortly afterward I began wearing waterproof leather garments and have learned a lot more from their use. I find they are just as practical for fishing, camping, boating or hiking as they are for hunting. In bait casting, for instance, even if the boat seat is wet, I stay dry—and no matter how much spray from the reel, or splashing when a muskie is hauled aboard, my legs are dry and comfortable. The leather remains soft and pliable under all weather conditions and is mosquito proof which has appealed to me a good many times on fishing and camping trips. These garments are not heavy and I was surprised to learn, with light underwear, are very cool and comfortable in summer weather.

It takes a lot more than "wrong clothes" and a bit of discomfort to dampen the ardor of a real sportsman, but I've enjoyed the outdoors even more since I reduced my clothing to one suit which keeps me comfortable in all kinds of weather.

Wildlife Stamp Sale Nets About $15,000 In State Lansing—Michigan residents purchased approximately one million and a half wildlife stamps as part of their contribution to national wildlife restoration week, March 20-26.

Although all reports have not been completed, Prof. Paul A. Herbert of Michigan State college, who headed the Michigan committee for the nation-wide event, estimates total sales will probably total in the neighborhood of 1,500,000, representing total receipts of about $15,000.

Setting up machinery for sustaining interest stimulated during the week's activities, Prof. Herbert has arranged a plan through which individual groups may obtain rebates from the amounts they received and turned into the state committee through the stamp sales, the money to be used for financing conservation projects. Letters and forms have been sent to the campaign workers, outlining the procedure for taking part in the plan.

Permits Suspended For Law Violation Lansing—Suspension of 12 commercial fishing licenses last month marks the first application of an amendment to the fishing laws adopted by the last state legislature.

The licenses were suspended because of the failure of the licensees to report to the state monthly as required by laws governing commercial fishing. Suspension of a license prohibits use of the boats and nets for which it was issued.

Previously the law provided only for denial of license renewal as penalty for failure to make monthly reports. This was found ineffectual and the amendment was voted, empowering the state director of conservation to suspend licenses if the licensees become two months or more delinquent with their reports.

Before licenses are restored, the department requires the delinquent reports under oath.

Believed Extinct, Rare Gray Fox Is Taken Down State

Lansing—The first gray fox reported taken in Michigan in 16 years and only the second in more than a quarter of a century has been added to the mammal collection of the state department of conservation.

The fox, which weighed nine pounds, 13 ounces, was taken by Clarence Maskey of near Allegan who turned the specimen over to Conservation Officer Harry Plotts. The last record, known either to the department of conservation or University of Michigan museum investigators, of a gray fox being taken in Michigan was shot by J. H. Stephenson, assistant chief of the game division, in 1922 in Charlevoix county. Previous to that the last known take of this animal was in 1912.

The Allegan specimen was turned over to Durward L. Allen of the game division who prepared it for addition to the stuffed mammal exhibit.

The gray fox was believed to have joined the wolverine, the Michigan grayling and the passenger pigeon in the limbo of the state's past. It probably was common in southern Michigan during primitive times, but with the clearing of the land for agriculture it was largely replaced by the red fox which apparently increased its range and numbers after the advent of man. There are numerous records of gray foxes up to 1912. The Allegan county specimen, however, is the only one in any of the state collections and its measurements are the only ones recorded for this animal in Michigan.

Predator Kill Is Nearly 500 So Far For Year Of 1938 Lansing—Close to 500 predatory animals have been eliminated from competition with game animals thus far this year.

Records of the department of conservation to which predator kills are reported show that 249 animals were turned in for bounty during January and February while 82 more were bagged by conservation officers during the same two months. Officers are not paid bounty. Figures for the March kill have not been completed but the take for the month ran about average.

Last year the bounty system netted a total of 3,110 predators for which bounties of $42,795 were paid.

In addition to coyotes and wolves, which comprise the largest share of animals turned in for bounty, the non-bounty haul taken by conservation officers has thus far this year included foxes, owls, hawks, crows, porcupines, weasels, nuisance dogs and cats.

Find Lung Worm Common Parasite Among State Deer BY KENNETH REID National Director of the Isaak Walton League

The present session of Congress has three bills of national importance affecting conservation of our national resources.

The first, on which there was a hearing before Secretary Ickes on November 12, is Senate Bill 2881, known as "The Colorado Big Thompson Trans-Mountain Water-Diversion Project, sponsored by farming interests in north-eastern Colorado and approved by the Reclamation Service, a bureau of the Interior Department, which would do the job if the bill should be passed. The spearhead of the opposition comes from the National Park Service, another bureau in the same Interior Department, which gives it the aspect of a strange family quarrel. Joining the Isaak Walton League of America, American Civic Planning Association, Wilderness Society, and other National conservation organizations.

The project proposes diverting water from the headwaters of the Colorado on the west side of the Continental Divide to the eastern slope by means of a 13.1 mile tunnel under Rocky Mountain National Park, and combines hydro-electric development with irrigation. The estimated cost, including only one of the five proposed power plants, is $35,000,000.

Without going into the obvious adverse effects to fishing and recreation of the upper Colorado River by the proposed diversion of 320,000 acre feet of water, or even the question of whether it makes sense to encourage with Government subsidies increased farm production when the same government is paying other farmers to raise less, the opponents based their objection on the routing of the diversion tunnel right through Rocky Mountain National Park as a violation of National Park Standards. The basic principle that our great primeval National Parks are not subject to commercial utilization or encroachment has been recognized and maintained for more than twenty years in the face of many attempted raids on them by local interests. The opponents maintain that the proposed tunnel would violate this basic principle and precedent that would be eagerly seized upon as such by other local groups who covet water and other natural resources of other National Parks.

The second important bill is S. 2970, known as the reorganization bill, sponsored by Secretary Ickes, and proposing to transfer

Getting Rid of Insect Pests

BY DONALD GRAY Daily Press Gardening Consultant NO. 3 IN A SERIES

All plants are prey of some insect pest or disease. Do not let these pests take the joy out of gardening. Take their eradication as a matter of course.

There is no one insecticide spray that can be put on plants that will kill every insect and disease. It is necessary to keep a close watch on growing plants and when the plant shows signs of being eaten, or is wilting or drooping, or has curling leaves, then is, when its leaves are a sickly green, and there is no sign of eating or chewing insects, the trouble may be due to insects at the roots or to a disease. If the plant has maggots around the roots, water with corrosive sublimate (bichloride of mercury) in solution at the rate of 1 ounce to 10 or 15 gallons of water. A half cupful to each plant is usually sufficient.

If there is no sign of worms then the plant may have the wilt disease. There is no remedy except to destroy the plant to keep the disease from spreading. Whenever possible buy wilt resistant seeds.

Scales, unless very numerous, do not kill plants. They only retard their growth. Before the leaves come out in the spring it is a good plan to spray all trees and shrubs with winter strength Bordeaux mixture. This chemical can be purchased at any garden supply store and the directions are on the container. This spray will kill scale and insect eggs.

Evergreens with brown needles may be infested with red spider. Spray with an oil emulsion, or 1 pound of ground glue to 10 gallons of water to which wettable sulphur has been added at 1 pound to 10 gallons of water. A strong stream of water will also help to get rid of them.

Learn to hand-pick bugs and worms whenever found, and collect them in a can partly filled with kerosene. Encourage birds because they will eliminate more pests than spray guns.

Next: Rules for Planting Shrubs and Trees.

Ants The ground where I intend to plant my garden seems to be infested with ants. How can I eliminate them?

Answer: Ants on plants do no damage. When they have honeycombed nests in the ground it is best to eliminate them. Use one ounce of carbon bisulphide in the opening. This chemical is a liquid but when it comes in contact with the soil forms a gas that penetrates downward. Be sure to cover the opening with mud and place a wet blanket or bur-lap over the entire top of the nest.

When a leaf curls and shows a sickly color it is usually caused by plant lice called aphids. These insects have elongated mouths that suck the juice from the plant. The remedy is to cover the insect's body with an oil emulsion or a mixture of Blackleaf 40. When a plant is off-color, that

CARE IN TACKLE CHOICE NEEDED

Understanding Selection of Rod, Line and Reel Bring Added Joy

BY BEN C. ROBINSON Successful fly rod fishing depends largely upon two choices the angler might have made. That of his rod and that of his reel. With the proper and fitting line for the rod, then fishing with a fly for either bass or trout becomes a real pleasure and a science, and the same thing might be said regarding choice of reel. If this, however, has been slighted, the careful and understanding choice of Ben Robinson these parts of the tackle, then the pastime becomes not only a failure in the matter of catch, but as well a disappointing and a bore-some kind of amusement.

Dry Fly Outfit For floating or dry flies the line that the fly caster reels on his spool must be carefully and considerably chosen. First of all, it must be a tapered line, for a tapered leader is essential to the casting of a properly laid down floating fly, and a tapered leader on a level line would be about as consistent as a shotgun sight on a high-powered rifle. There are several kinds of tapered line. The long, even tapered line, the short or "quick" taper and the three diameter taper. Any of before mentioned tapers are suitable to dry fly casting.

The double-tapered line, however, is the most preferable, for the simple reason that double-tapered lines signify that both ends of the line are tapered and when one end is unfit longer to use, then the line can be reversed on reel and a new taper is at hand. However, if a level and tapered line is wished for in combination on the same line, then the single tapered line is the proper one to buy. This gives the fly fisherman two types of line in one, a level line, for wet fly casting and for the casting of spinning and light spoon fly rod lures and as well, on opposite end of line, a tapered line for floating and dry fly casts. The three diameter tapered line is tapered only on one end. The main line at a distance of a few feet from end is enlarged to about three sizes larger than main line, then it is again tapered off to a size smaller than the main line at tip. This permits the large section to carry forward and drag at end of cast so that tapered end and leader and fly whip over and alight on water first. It is also a good line for casting into strong winds.

Wet Fly Line The level fly line in enameled or oiled silk make is intended for wet or sinking fly casts and for casting spinner and spoon fly casts. It costs about one-half what a tapered enameled or oil finished line will and is absolutely proper for wet or sinking flies or spinner casting.

Automatic Reel There are two separate and distinct models of fly rod reel, the Automatic and the Crank or Single Action Reel. The Automatic type is used by a great number of both trout and bass fly anglers, and, once it is learned and the caster becomes a member of the fly fisherman's tackle, the reel, as the name implies, takes up all slack line automatically, by merely pressing with one of the fingers of the rod hand on a metal lever. This releases a tension on the drum of reel and the line is spooled up without the angler further concerning himself. This is merely to take up slack or long loops of line when casts are being retrieved and fish being played. The fish can be played, of course, with this tension, but for small fish it is not always advisable. It is slightly heavier, as a rule, than the single action or Crank Style Reel.

Single Action Reel The single action reel is a narrow spool, crank-action metal line holder that usually balances the rod very nicely when it is placed on the reel-seat. Most anglers pick this type because of its simplicity of action, its freedom from springs and breakage and its fine balance to the rod. It is especially well suited to the trout-rod for small streams and light fish and for small bass streams. It holds from 30 to 40 yards of enameled size B to F line very nicely, and is a good all-around fly fishing reel for both level and tapered lines. AMERICA OUT-OF-DOORS

Conservation Issues Before Congress

BY KENNETH REID National Director of the Isaak Walton League

The present session of Congress has three bills of national importance affecting conservation of our national resources.

The first, on which there was a hearing before Secretary Ickes on November 12, is Senate Bill 2881, known as "The Colorado Big Thompson Trans-Mountain Water-Diversion Project, sponsored by farming interests in north-eastern Colorado and approved by the Reclamation Service, a bureau of the Interior Department, which would do the job if the bill should be passed. The spearhead of the opposition comes from the National Park Service, another bureau in the same Interior Department, which gives it the aspect of a strange family quarrel. Joining the Isaak Walton League of America, American Civic Planning Association, Wilderness Society, and other National conservation organizations.

The project proposes diverting water from the headwaters of the Colorado on the west side of the Continental Divide to the eastern slope by means of a 13.1 mile tunnel under Rocky Mountain National Park, and combines hydro-electric development with irrigation. The estimated cost, including only one of the five proposed power plants, is $35,000,000.

Without going into the obvious adverse effects to fishing and recreation of the upper Colorado River by the proposed diversion of 320,000 acre feet of water, or even the question of whether it makes sense to encourage with Government subsidies increased farm production when the same government is paying other farmers to raise less, the opponents based their objection on the routing of the diversion tunnel right through Rocky Mountain National Park as a violation of National Park Standards. The basic principle that our great primeval National Parks are not subject to commercial utilization or encroachment has been recognized and maintained for more than twenty years in the face of many attempted raids on them by local interests. The opponents maintain that the proposed tunnel would violate this basic principle and precedent that would be eagerly seized upon as such by other local groups who covet water and other natural resources of other National Parks.

The second important bill is S. 2970, known as the reorganization bill, sponsored by Secretary Ickes, and proposing to transfer certain bureaus from the Department of Agriculture and others to Interior, and rename that department, the Department of Conservation. This bill is likewise opposed by the Isaak Walton League and other conservation organizations, and by the Forest Service, one of the bureaus to be transferred from Agriculture.

While many conservationists feel that it would be highly desirable to have a real Department of Conservation with a full-fledged secretary to the President, combining the various conservation bureaus that are now scattered in practically every department, they feel that the proposed reorganization would create such a department in name only and would lead to greater confusion and duplication of bureaus, and to an increase in the spoils system of patronage without consideration of qualifications in the more important positions. There is almost universal agreement among conservationists that the proposed bill is not the answer, and that until such a bill is introduced, natural resources will fare better under the present setup.

The third important bill is House Bill 2711, known as the Vinson Pure Streams Bill, which will be before the House conference for concurrence in the Senate amendments. In the last session of Congress, the Isaak Walton League and other conservation organizations, actively supported Senator Loneragan's pure streams bill, and as actively opposed the Vinson bill, as a subterfuge measure that was merely a meaningless gesture. The result was practically a stalemate, when Senator Loneragan and Senator Barkley got together after the bill had been passed by the House and agreed upon certain amendments that would make the bill operative, after which it was passed by the Senate. It now remains only for the House to agree to the Senate amendments.

Fur, Fin and Feather

By George Rintamaki

SEEK PROTECTION OF FUR TRADE

One of the aims of wildlife restoration is the preservation of the nation's trapping trade which is a billion dollar industry in the U. S. A strenuous fight against different factors which are helping to destroy the fur trade is planned.

One of the objects of this battle is the bounty systems of various states, including that of Michigan. Bounty hunters, it is held, are responsible for a big share of the decrease in wildlife, especially during their summer operations.

However, whether Michigan's bounty system is depleting the state's wildlife supply is debatable. No concrete proof has thus far been advanced to indicate this definitely. The system of predatory animal control such as exists in Michigan is probably one of the best in any state in the union. It is, in reality, necessary in a program of game restoration.

A bounty system can be carried too far in that it may become a real threat to wildlife. There is little fear for wildlife, however, if the bounty system takes in only wolves and coyotes, for these are forms of wildlife better exterminated than restored to harass man and other beneficial and essential forms of wildlife.

That Michigan must have some form of predatory animal control has long been demonstrated. The bounty system as first inaugurated more than a score years ago had its drawbacks in that too much graft was possible under the old system and the system was costly and inefficient.

Operatives of the U. S. Biological survey then had a stab at predator management and control in Michigan, but under that system wolves and coyotes continued to harry deer and other game in ever increasing numbers. It was almost a necessity that a new and more efficient system of predatory animal control be evolved. Hence the inaugural of the present system about four years ago.

It was suggested, at the time the present bounty system was planned, that fox, skunk, woodchuck, porcupine, crows and various other animals and birds be brought under the bounty system, but this motion was wisely sidetracked, for Michigan's game men knew that therein lay the evils of the bounty system of predatory animal control.

Would-be conservationists, not thoroughly conversant with the state's wild-life situation, and a certain faction of trappers are bitterly opposed to the present system of bounty payments in Michigan and agitate continually for the junking of the entire system.

Fur is a valuable resource in Michigan and an industry worthy of cultivation, and has been, in reality, much neglected on the part of the state's conservation authorities, but we cannot see where Michigan's present bounty system is a threat to the state's fur industry.

THE BEAVER IS RARE CULINARY TREAT Few people have an opportunity to taste Michigan beaver, but epicures are advised to contact trappers whom they know and give themselves a treat of an outstanding game delicacy. The flesh of the beaver, is in fact, ranked ahead of venison by many. If you are lucky enough to get a beaver carcass, here's how to prepare the meat to the best taste. The meat, which is dark, tender and well-flavored, often has a peculiar odor resembling some species of duck before it is cooked and may be offensive to some people not familiar with it. The beaver should be dressed out as fat free as possible. When dressing, segregate the castors and oil stones, or sacks, from the body and the ducts leading from the body with string before cutting off to prevent scents, which may contaminate meat from draining out while dressing. Roasting is the favored mode of preparing beaver, though the meat is also delicious when fried in butter and onions. Onion imparts a tasty flavor to the meat and it is well to roast a whole onion in the carcass. A few bay leaves and some sliced placed on the roasting meat is the secret of well-flavored beaver. The meat may be parboiled before trying or roasting, if preferred, but it is important that all fat be removed from the meat as the beaver flesh itself is rich and oily.

Lightner's Opening Bid of a Club Gives Partner Added Chance to Find Best Suit

This is the tenth of a series of articles portraying the play of the greatest bridge players in the United States during 1937.

Bridge hand diagram showing cards in North and South hands, including a table with suit symbols and card ranks.

United States, describes the manner in which a frequent partner, Theodore A. Lightner, who also has a brilliant record of achievement, bid and made a slam.

BY WALDEMAR VON ZEDTZWITZ Theodore Lightner, who sat South, was looking far ahead when he made the opening bid of one club.

I will forestall any criticism from those who play their hands on a double dummy basis by admitting that the slam could have been defeated with a heart opening...

Now a heart was returned, and East's queen forced Lightner's ace. Next the spade finesse was taken, and the ace of spades cashed.

A low spade was returned, which Lightner ruffed, East discarding a diamond.

A low diamond was led to the ten in dummy. The last spade was ruffed with the ace of trumps.

Contract Problem (Solution in next issue) South is playing the contract at four spades. After winning the opening lead, Oswald Jacoby, who played the hand, cashed the ace of trumps.

Henry Naumann of Cornell has returned from Green Bay, where he attended a medical clinic.

A delightful treat for two members of the Daily Press staff, who were guests at the affair, was the breakfast served Friday noon by girls of the Junior high school...

The menu was planned, prepared and served in family group style by the girls of Section 7-1 and Section 7-2, under the supervision of their instructor, Miss Florence Johnson.

One of the attractively appointed tables was covered with a Mexican cloth, hand-woven, with a low bowl of ivy as its centerpiece, and on others, bowls of fruit gave a gay color note to the appointments.

The girls in their class work wore with their school frocks, neat aprons and head bands, of checked plaid, each with the owners' initials, which they made during the first semester.

What's Wrong With France?

Once again France faces a cabinet crisis. Premier Blum's second Popular Front Government is facing defeat. His radical financial proposals have proved unacceptable to most members of the Radical Socialist party, which is the backbone of his support in the Chamber of Deputies.

French cabinets have been lasting no more than six months. They have fallen not only each time it was necessary to devalue the franc but each time the government has proposed measures to prevent further devaluation of the franc. France's financial difficulties have been chronic since the World War. Yet, as the French Premier assured this writer not long ago: "It is largely a matter of confidence." France needs a cabinet in which the people have confidence to meet such a combination of financial and political problems as now faces Premier Blum's Government. The same problems faced his predecessor and they will face his successor. Throwing soap to politicians by making a few changes in cabinet personnel solves no difficulties.

Ten months ago Prime Minister Chautemps faced a relatively secure situation. The number of men on strike had been reduced from 1,000,000 to 10,000. Confidence in the franc had been restored. The Popular Front program had been successfully completed and attention was centered on recovery. Co-operation with England was complete, the Spanish War had reached a stalemate, democracy appeared united against dictatorship.

The Budget Remains Unbalanced
Almost everything that has happened since has weakened France—economically and politically. Business has had a setback with the result that confidence in the franc has again been shaken. The export of capital has reached the enormous total of eighty billion francs. Despite strenuous efforts and sacrifices the budget remains unbalanced.

In foreign affairs every important event has weakened France. Mussolini and Hitler are rapidly completing their conquest of Spain, which means that France will have another hostile Fascist neighbor. Hitler has seized Austria, giving Germany the dominant position on the Danube. Soviet Russia's internal difficulties have seriously weakened the Franco-Soviet alliance. Britain's pro-Fascist policy has weakened the Anglo-French understanding.

In the face of all these threats France has continued as a house divided against itself. Irreconcilable elements on the Left and Right bedevil every effort at national union. There are only 20 outright Fascist members in the Chamber, but they have a nuisance value that is disproportionate to their number. The 60 Communist deputies have been counted as supporters of recent Cabinets, but Communists are notoriously difficult to work with. They turn against a government at the very moment when it most needs their support. "My Socialist friends keep stirring up trouble," Prime Minister Chautemps complained to me. "They destroy confidence and play politics regardless of results."

A Test for Democracy
The weakness of the present French Government is best illustrated by the failure of Premier Blum's effort to organize a government of national union last month. Europe was in turmoil. Hitler's invasion of Austria found France in the midst of a cabinet crisis. Here was one situation that called for a united front in France. Yet even then the irreconcilable elements frustrated Premier Blum's attempt at union.

His new financial program includes a capital levy, control of foreign exchange, revaluation of the gold reserve and other stringent measures. It was bound to meet strong opposition. If the Government wanted to go out of office it could not have framed a program more likely to insure its defeat. Only a cabinet of national union could secure majority support for such a program.

Democratic government faces a critical test. Petty party bickering can no longer be tolerated. France must organize effective democratic unity or she will be forced by the pressure of events to achieve singleness of purpose by dictator methods.

DAIRY DATE SET
Menominee, Mich.—Menominee county's third annual Dairy Day will be held Thursday, July 28, with an all-day program at Shaker Lakes county park. It was decided at a meeting of the Menominee County Dairy Herd Improvement association held last night in Stephenson town hall.

Albert Kipper of Stephenson, head of the Improvement association, is to name committees to have charge of Dairy Day program arrangements. About 20 persons will be named to the group.

Easter Cruise

BY MARION WHITE Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JOYCE MILNER, heroine; she took an Easter Cruise.

DICK HAMILTON, hero; he bumped into the heroine.

ISOBEL PORTER, traveler; she sought a mate.

Yesterday: In Bermuda, Joyce is separated from Dick by Mrs. Porter. But one just couldn't be jealous of a man she had known only 48 hours, Joyce tells herself!

CHAPTER V
Joyce returned to the Empress on the 5:30 tender. It had been a delightful day ashore, in spite of Mrs. Porter.

She went to her cabin, considering a brief rest before dressing for dinner. But she found a note on the stationery, tucked in the corner of the mirror.

"Joyce," she read, "will you meet me in the indoor swimming pool at 6 o'clock?" She did not need the signature to tell her that it was from Dick.

Immediately the thought of rest was forgotten; a swim, she decided quickly, would be far more refreshing after a warm day ashore.

She found him alone in the blue tile tank, watching for her. "Come on in!" he invited cheerily. "The water's fine."

"Cold?"
"Warm as your own bathtub, after you're wet."

She walked around to the ladder. "It's always the getting wet that hurts." But she jumped in quickly. And as she swam the length of the pool, warming up, she felt Dick's eyes upon her.

"Boy!" he cried appreciatively. "You swim like a fish!"

"I ought to. They threw me in the ocean before I could walk."

The lided around the pool, matching each other's strokes. "I thought we were all going to be together today," he said finally.

Joyce hesitated to speak of Mrs. Porter's trickery. After all, it might have been an error. So she explained vaguely: "There was some mixup in the carriages."

For a moment he regarded her out of the corner of his eye, speculatively. "You're a cold, proud princess," he declared aloud, "and I don't understand you at all. But I've got to take one more chance. . . . Joyce, will you come ashore with me tonight?"

Her head popped out of the water and she nodded eagerly. "I'd love to!"

"Just you and I," he added. "I'm tired of Mrs. Porter's managing. She takes me back to my first year at prep school. There's a dance out at the Mid-Ocean Club tonight. A friend in New York gave me special guest tickets."

"It sounds exciting. . . ."

"There's usually a good crowd out there. It's a private club, you know." He said it modestly, for her assurance than in any attempt to set himself up.

"We haven't much time to dress and dine," Joyce pointed out. "The last tender leaves the ship at 8:30."

"I've a better idea," Dick offered. "Forget the tender. It will be too crowded with Mrs. Porter and her special arrangements."

"How do we get ashore then?"

"We'll get a launch. As a matter of fact, I made a tentative date on the wharf this afternoon. With a young darkey named Obadiah Jones, believe it or not."

Joyce laughed. "It sounds like a very promising evening. I'll wear my very best dress, to meet Obadiah."

But it was more than that thought which prompted her to dress with special care this evening. For one thing, it was her first appearance at dinner. And secondly, she had a little victory to celebrate. For all of Mrs. Porter's well-laid plans, Dick would be hers for this evening.

After dinner Dick and Joyce waited until the last passenger boarded the tender and she heard the shrill blast of its whistle. Then they went on deck to watch it disappear in the darkness.

"There goes our faithful chap, Mrs. Porter," Dick remarked without regret. "Now to find Obadiah."

The Negro was already waiting for them, his tiny motorboat edged up close to the side of the ship. A moment later they were drifting away from the big ship, their motor was sputtering to life, and Obadiah turned towards the lights of Hamilton.

The mile and a half seemed an incredible distance across this stretch of inky-black water, and Joyce stared back with misgivings at the security of the Empress, so quickly disappearing from their reach. She sat quite still, holding her breath, and hoping that Mr. Jones could find his way around these impenetrably black waters.

"Obadiah," Dick said presently, "do we have to go all around the buoy? You'd save half a mile going in straight."

The boatman hesitated. "The water's pretty shallow in spots, boss," he pointed out. "These are all coral reefs."

"I know. But your boat doesn't draw much water, does it?"

"Two feet. Maybe I can cut across up past the water tower. I know my way there."

"Good. We're on our way to the Mid-Ocean Club, and that's an hour's drive."

So beyond the water tower, Obadiah turned out of the channel and headed straight across the harbor. To their left the buoy sounded its warning toll.

"Cold?" he asked solitiously. She shook her head. "No—not very. I guess I'm afraid of the dark."

He laughed. "You could swim this mile and a half without taking a long breath. . . ."

"In the daytime, perhaps." "The water's no different at night."

"I don't mind the water. But in the darkness I think of the horrible things that lurk beneath the surface—sharks and barracuda."

"There's nothing like that in these waters." He called on Obadiah for confirmation. "You never have sharks here, do you?"

The Negro nodded. "Yassah, we do. Now and again. Folks say dey ain't man-eaters. What we do have—and what we doan like—is devilfish. Dey's bad, suh!"

Devilfish. That was the same as an octopus. Joyce, shivering, felt Dick's grip tighten on her arm. "Don't talk like that, Obadiah. You'll scare us—"

Suddenly his pilot throttled the engine down; swerved the boat quickly. "Comin' close to a reef," he said, pointing out a dark patch to the right. "It's low tide now."

They proceeded cautiously, skirting the reef which projected above the water for a length of 10 or 12 feet. Then, out in open water once more, he let the engine out. Hamilton was still almost a mile off, and around a sharp peninsula, the Empress was out of sight.

"We're almost there," Dick said, reassuringly. "We'll be at Mid-Ocean—"

There was a jerk, a terrific grating, and in that instant Joyce felt icy water surging up to her ankles.

Obadiah cried out piteously: "We're struck, boss! We're struck!"

Now the water was pouring into the boat, its bottom ripped wide open. Dick had Joyce in his arms.

"We'll have to swim," he said quickly. "Back to that small reef we just passed. Don't be afraid, Joyce." He pushed her, gently but surely, over the edge of the boat and into the water. "Come on, Obadiah. To the big reef."

Now the three of them were in the water, and Dick was swimming ahead, hoping to see the darker outline they had passed by a moment before. In the blackness it was practically invisible. Joyce and the colored man swam after him, close at his heels. The current, she noticed, was running strongly against them.

Strangely, now that the worst had happened, she was no longer afraid. The one misery which loomed above all others was that her lovely white dress, with the glamorous feather sleeves, was completely and unalterably ruined.

And Obadiah, fighting his way alongside of her, moaned sorrowfully each time he took a breath. "Mah boat! Gawdamighty, save mah boat!"

Ahead of them, Dick cried out: "Here's the reef. Straight ahead." Then he turned back to the others, guiding them to it.

A moment later they were standing on it, three lone, bedraggled figures in an open expanse of black water.

Dick looked down at the sorry figure of Joyce. Even in the darkness he could see the ostrich feathers clinging to her wet arms. She looked for all the world like a poor poodle dog picked out of a flood. "You poor kid!" he said contritely. "I got you into this."

He still wore his white tie and tails; in his anxiety to get back to this reef he had not even slipped off his coat.

"We'll have to shout, Obadiah. We'll have to shout with our lungs, so one of the other boats will pick us up. It's too long a swim to Hamilton, and we couldn't fight the current back to the ship."

"Yassah," Obadiah agreed helplessly. His eyes were still on the spot where his boat was being slowly swept to the bottom of the harbor.

So they stood there on the narrow reef, and they shouted. One at a time they called out; then all three together. But long minutes passed, and their cries brought no response from the surrounding darkness.

Now Joyce could feel the black waters licking at her feet, and she remembered Obadiah saying that the tide was low. She wondered how much higher it would rise, yet she did not dare put the question into words.

Two hours later, their throats sore and dry from useless shouting, they were still standing there, and now the water was up to their knees. Off in the distance they could hear the occasional put-put of other motorboats, but none came this way.

Suddenly, despite her tired throat, Joyce began to sing silly little jingles, remembering the words carefully, to keep her mind from thoughts of devilfish with greedy tentacles.

HEADS JUNIOR C-C

Iron Mountain — Art Fortier, tentative chairman of the Iron Mountain Junior chamber of commerce since the first meeting about a month ago, was named president at the organization meeting held last night in the Elks club.

Other officers are James Goulette and Rudolph T. Mahlberg, vice presidents, and James Vandehay, secretary-treasurer.

To my mind, the work of a grand jury ranks first in the machinery of the law of the land.

BASEBALL FILM HERE TONIGHT

Official League Movies To Be Exhibited at High School

Two American league sound films, "Batter Up" and "Heads Up Baseball" will be exhibited at the Manistique high school this evening, starting at eight o'clock. A showing planned in the afternoon for school students has been cancelled because of a conflict with the grade school opera. All persons interested in seeing the baseball films are invited to the eight o'clock showing. There will be no admission charge.

"Batter Up" is the latest official American league film and is being shown here through the courtesy of the high school.

"Heads Up Baseball" is the 1937 official league film and was secured for presentation here by the Manistique Lions club. Both films are equipped with sound tracks and each will show for about 45 minutes. Styles of the leading pitchers, batters and fielders are revealed in the film.

In "Batter Up," Connie Mack makes a unique disclosure, telling in his own words how he employs his famous score card to direct his team from the bench.

Included in the film are views of the baseball school maintained by the American league for boys under 17 years old, the All-Star game in Washington and the World Series. There are also several problem plays to sharpen the eyes of spectators.

"Batter Up" was written and directed by Lew Fonseca, director of promotion for the American league, and recorded by Ted Hugin, ace sports announcer.

CITY TO JOIN IN AIRMAIL WEEK

Special Plane Service for Upper Peninsula Being Planned

To stimulate participation in National Air Mail Week, which will be observed May 15 to 21, plans are now under way to effect an Upper Peninsula route by two planes and to have the mail flown to one of the cities on an established air route. The expenses, estimated at $300, will be shared by the various towns participating, so that each town will be assessed only about $15.

Postmaster Frank Gierke is in receipt of a letter from Postmaster John S. Courtney, of Marquette, in which the proposed plan is explained. An appropriate Upper Peninsula cachet is being designed to stimulate the event. In this way the value of covers to collectors is considerably enhanced and a larger volume of air mail from each town is assured.

Promotion of the plan is considered not only an effective manner in which to observe National Air Mail Week but also as an opportunity to warrant consideration for direct air mail service in this area in the near future. The Upper Peninsula Development Bureau is sending releases to postmasters and civic organizations throughout the peninsula in an effort to promote the special air mail service for the Upper Peninsula during the National Air Mail Week.

MAGOON TELLS OF TRIP SOUTH

Oil Developments Proved Interesting to Speaker

An interesting travelogue on his recent trip to Florida and other points in the south was presented before the Gladstone Rotary club yesterday noon by M. J. Magoon.

The Magoons spent three weeks at Winter Gardens, Fla., where some of the finest black bass fishing in the country is to be found. It is reported, Mr. Magoon said, four- and five-pound black bass were the rule rather than the exception. The citrus industry of late years has also come into prominence in this section.

Magoon later visited Texas where on the Alamo he saw the famous "Buckhorn," noted for its collection of steer horns and taxidermy. One set of horns had a spread of 3 1/2 feet, it was stated. The KMA oil fields were also visited near Wichita Falls.

Oil developments at Centralia, Ill., proved interesting, the development being one of the latest and largest in the country. Almost every other lot bears an oil well. Mr. Magoon said, and at the present time contractors have been engaged to sink eight wells in various parts of a beautiful city park.

MAGOON TELLS OF TRIP SOUTH

Oil Developments Proved Interesting to Speaker

An interesting travelogue on his recent trip to Florida and other points in the south was presented before the Gladstone Rotary club yesterday noon by M. J. Magoon.

The Magoons spent three weeks at Winter Gardens, Fla., where some of the finest black bass fishing in the country is to be found. It is reported, Mr. Magoon said, four- and five-pound black bass were the rule rather than the exception. The citrus industry of late years has also come into prominence in this section.

Magoon later visited Texas where on the Alamo he saw the famous "Buckhorn," noted for its collection of steer horns and taxidermy. One set of horns had a spread of 3 1/2 feet, it was stated. The KMA oil fields were also visited near Wichita Falls.

Oil developments at Centralia, Ill., proved interesting, the development being one of the latest and largest in the country. Almost every other lot bears an oil well. Mr. Magoon said, and at the present time contractors have been engaged to sink eight wells in various parts of a beautiful city park.

THEATRES

Two great stars, Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck, achieve their true greatness together in "This Is My Affair," which opened Sunday at the Rialto Theatre.

That they should do so is not exactly surprising, for producers of the picture the world is talking about, have cast as co-stars the screen's most talked-about, real-life sweethearts, regarded in Hollywood as the film colony's Number One off-screen romance.

"The Perfect Specimen" with Errol Flynn and Joan Blondell in the leading roles is the second feature.

Gertrude Kee, Jane Neveau and Mary Claire Clark are home from Muskegon, Mich., to spend the Easter vacation at their respective parental homes.

Steve Carriere is confined to the home of his parents on Delta avenue by illness.

STOCKS SLUMP; DEALINGS QUIET

Table with columns for Stock Market Averages, including Net change, D-1, D-2, D-3, D-4, D-5, D-6, D-7, D-8, D-9, D-10, D-11, D-12, D-13, D-14, D-15, D-16, D-17, D-18, D-19, D-20.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER (Associated Press Financial Writer) New York, April 11 (AP)—Stocks put on an orderly retreat in today's market, leaders generally dropping fractions to 2 points with a few suffering wider declines. Dealings were quiet throughout.

While the news was not particularly disturbing, the sharp Friday-Saturday upswing apparently inspired traders to cash in part of their gains. Some short selling was also in evidence, the theory here being that last week's recovery was a bit too speedy and that a set-back of at least technical proportions was due.

The principal development of the day, the president's railroad message to congress, was viewed as moderately favorable in financial quarters, but failed as a prime stimulator for carrier shares as well as for other categories.

The urgency of immediate emergency legislation to prop up shaky roads, as voiced by the chief executive, apparently found doubt in congress that much in the way of transportation legislation could be worked out at this session.

Shareholders noted the comment of Chairman Wheeler of the senate interstate commerce committee that he was unable to see how reprivileges for some lines could be avoided except by government subsidies or loans on inadequate security and that he was opposed to both courses.

Market joy was evinced at the announcement the president and congressional and departmental leaders had placed work relief needs for the first seven months of the next fiscal year, beginning July 1, at $1,250,000,000 instead of the $1,000,000,000 originally budgeted.

Reports from Washington that congress, in its present mood, might shy at putting over any great "pump-priming" program as an anti-recession move, also tended to dim Wall Street's inflationary thinking.

Bonds and commodities were uneven. Wheat at Chicago was off 5-8 to 1-8 cents a bushel. Corn gained 1/4 to 3-8 and cotton was 5 to 10 cents a bale higher.

Foreign currencies, especially the French franc, exhibited strength against the dollar.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 9 of a point at 39, compared with Saturday's upswing of 2.01 points. Transfers totalled 1,100,254 shares.

The list was steady at the opening, dipped shortly thereafter, came back around noon and again turned backward to close around low levels of the session.

A boost in the scrap copper price of 1/4 of a cent a pound was only a momentary buying influence for metals. Well under water were Anaconda at 76 1/2, Kennecott 32 5-8 and American Smelting 35 1/2.

Jacobs Prices Briggs Stadium For Joe Louis Bout

DETROIT'S FIELD SEATS 57,000

Tiger Owner Sends His Proposal for Big Fistic Battle

Detroit, April 11 (AP)—Detroit's hopes of staging the heavyweight title bout between Champion Joe Louis and Max Schmeling boomed slightly today.

The reason for the revival of interest was an announcement by Owner Walter O. Briggs of the Detroit Tigers in which it was disclosed that Mike Jacobs, New York boxing promoter, had made an inquiry concerning the rental fee Briggs would charge for use of Briggs stadium if the bout was held here.

"I am submitting our proposition in writing to Jacobs at New York," Briggs said.

Several weeks ago Briggs said that if the bout were held here, Jacobs would "not have to pay any more for the use of Briggs stadium than he would for any other baseball park in the country."

That announcement came after Jacobs had paid a visit to Detroit and praised the seating arrangement of the rebuilt stadium which now seats 57,000 in the regular stands.

Jacobs said at that time that he planned to communicate with Briggs concerning rental fees. Informed that Jacobs had queried Briggs about rental of the stadium, John Roxborough, co-manager of Louis, said:

"That's the best news we have had so far. It's the first real step that has been taken to bring the fight here and I think we eventually will get it."

In the event that Jacobs should pick Detroit for the bout, the proposed date of June 22 would have to be shifted because the Tigers face the Boston Red Sox here that day. Detroit plays at home from June 14 to June 26, except for two open dates, so the bout would have to be held either the first or last week in June if it is to occur in Detroit.

Philadelphia Pair Leads ABC Doubles

Chicago, April 11 (AP)—Charles Cohan and Jules Edmond of Philadelphia, with 1273, led the doubles competitors in the American Bowling Congress today.

Only one other score of 1200 was posted by the first three squads in action: Lawrence Meyer and Peter Frohauer of Columbus, Ohio, tumbled 1250 maples. Walter Cameron of Philadelphia paced the keepers in singles competition with a 688 series. Only two pins behind came Edward Schroeder of Cleveland.

It was Edmond who did the heavy scoring for his team in the two-man event. With game totals of 223, 248 and 212, he rolled up a 683 series. Cohan accounted for 590 pins. Edmond followed with only 525 in the singles and lost any chance for a high all-events rating.

WELTERWEIGHTS BATTLE

Detroit, April 11 (AP)—Fritzie Zivich, Pittsburgh welterweight, will fight Remo Fernandez, claimant of the 147-pound championship of Mexico, in a 10-round bout at Arena Gardens here Tuesday night. Four other contests complete the card.

Escanaba K. C. Defeat Bowlers From Manistique

Two teams of the Knights of Columbus League spent a grand afternoon on the local alleys, spilling the pins with brother Knights of Manistique council. The local Knights were on a bowling spree to the tune of 5123 while the Manistique council wound up with 4874.

The local brothers scored by a wide margin on grand total pins, but were very evenly matched between opponents of each team, the local keepers taking advantage of breaks in the game. After the local brothers gathered at the local council for refreshments, and a few games of ping pong, followed by a banquet supper given at the Pratt tea room.

Buckets Goldenberg Will Quit Football

Green Bay, Wis., April 11 (AP)—Charles (Buckets) Goldenberg, guard and blocking back of the Green Bay Packers of the National pro football league, traded to Pittsburgh, said tonight he was quitting the game.

"I want to quit before I'm told to quit," Goldenberg said. "I thought I had a good year in 1937, although guard position was new to me, but a back injury received in the all-star game hasn't healed yet. I don't care to risk further injury."

The 223 lb. Milwaukeean, who is a professional wrestler, yesterday was traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates along with Chester (swede) Johnson, fullback, for Ray King, 1937 Minnesota captain and end, and Pat McCarthy, graduating Notre Dame center.

Bears Refused Cash For Detroit Reunion

Lansing, April 11 (AP)—The state administrative board's finance committee refused today to turn over to officers of the Michigan Polar Bears association in cash a $2,000 legislative appropriation for their Detroit reunion May 29-31. The committee decided that bills incurred by the association should be forwarded to a state for payment up to the limit of the appropriation.

HAWKS BATTLE LEAFS TONIGHT

Chicagoans Within Game of Possession of Stanley Cup

BY CHARLES DUNALEY
Chicago, April 11 (AP)—Within one game of winning the Stanley cup and the hockey championship that goes with it, the Chicago Black Hawks battle the Toronto Maple Leafs tomorrow night in the fourth and perhaps final game of the series.

If the Hawks lose—and they say they won't—the teams will move on to Toronto for the deciding game Thursday night.

Victory for the Hawks tomorrow night would end it. Defeat would force the teams to play the limit of five games.

The Hawks go into the game holding a two-to-one edge.

With prospects of a nerve-ringing battle similar to one of Sunday night, when players on both teams engaged in numerous fights and wrestling, another record-breaking crowd surpassing the paid attendance of 13,498 at last night's battle may pack the Chicago stadium to standing room.

Hawks Are Ready
Manager Bill Stewart of the Hawks, who in his first year has injected enough of his personal fire into the team to bring it up to its present status, declared his players were ready for another bruising conflict. Stewart was particular in his praise for Mike Karakas, the goalie, who played with a broken big toe encased in a cast and Elwyn "Doc" Romnes, veteran center, who used a Purdue football helmet and nose guard attached to protect his schnozzola which had been broken in three places.

Romnes, regarded as one of the cleanest players in hockey, today explained that he saw red when he first caught sight of "Red" Horner, Toronto defense star, at the start of last night's game and clouted him with his stick. Romnes had been working up to a grudge against Horner. Earlier in the season Horner whacked him on the head, laying open a gash that required seven stitches to close, then last Thursday night in Toronto the same Horner broke Romnes' nose by clouting him with the butt end of his stick.

"I don't know what ever possessed me to do what I did last night," Romnes explained, "I was flaming mad at the very sight of him. I am glad now that I didn't hit him in the face although I believe I had every reason to carve him up a bit."

Horner, the victim of a terrible razing from the crowd, said "Everything is okay by me. I have no beef and no grudges."

So Romnes and Horner may have settled their scores at last.

Wolverines Drop First Ball Game

Charlottesville, Va., April 11 (AP)—University of Michigan dropped its first baseball start of the season here today, losing to University of Virginia 5 to 4 when a 6th inning rally fell one run short of knotting the score.

Russell Dobson, Ann Arbor sophomore, started for the Wolverines but was driven to cover in the third. Herman Fishman finished, holding Virginia in hand most of the way. Michigan plays Washington and Lee at Lexington, Va., tomorrow.

Score by innings: Michigan 000 000 013 - 4 9 1
Virginia 202 001 00X - 5 9 1
Dobson, Fishman and Beebe; Pinder, Ashby and Regan.

SPILLING the DOPE

We were greatly pleased at the success of the organization meeting held by the sports writers Saturday night. . . the ground work was laid, we believe, for an association which can do a lot for athletics in the Upper Peninsula. . . visiting sports writers showed a great deal of enthusiasm and offered many fine suggestions for the group to work on. . . it is planned to have another meeting at Iron Mountain within the next two months or so after preliminaries have been laid to complete the organization. . . it is tentatively planned to hold a meeting at the end of football seasons and at the end of basketball seasons in order to make honor roll selections.

Tigers Head North For League Battle After Good Season

Lakeland, Fla., April 11 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers said good-by to Florida's winter sunshine tonight, heading north for the American League campaign after one of the most successful training seasons the club has ever experienced.

The Bengals, who play the White Sox at Chicago in their season opener one week from Tuesday, will stop at Atlanta Tuesday and Wednesday for contests with the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern Association. They will then join the Cincinnati Reds for exhibition encounters at Portsmouth, Springfield, Dayton and Cincinnati on successive days before arriving in Chicago next Monday.

Detroit did not miss a single practice day at Lakeland because of inclement weather, this fact contributing materially to the development of the team.

As the Tigers broke camp, the annual discussion of who will pitch the opening game developed. Bridges favored.

Camp-critics believe that either Tommy Bridges, veteran right hander, or George Gill, a second year slinger, will get the honor because of their excellent training camp performances.

Bridges was forced to take a two-week layoff because of an arm injury but is completely recovered now. He has shown as much speed and curve as at any time in his career.

"I feel better right now than I have ever felt during a training season," Bridges said today.

Gill, who won 11 and lost four in his first year in the majors, looks better than ever and his pitching in exhibition games has been flawless. Next in ranking on the basis of spring performances is Vernon Kennedy, who was acquired from the White Sox.

Hurlers Ready
Cochrane has three other starting hurlers available in Elden Auker, Jake Wade and Cletus Poffenberger.

Detroit's outfield is set with Roy Cullenbine, a rookie; Fred (Dixie) Walker, who also came from the Sox, and Ervin (Pete) Fox scheduled to do their stuff.

Hank Greenberg at first and Charley Gehringer at second are infield certainties, of course. Shortstop and third base depend on the recovery of Veteran Billy Rogell from an arm infection. If he is well again by opening game time, then he will be at shortstop with either Mark Christmas or Don Ross at third. If Rogell is still on the sidelines, Cristman will hold down shortstop and Ross third.

Rudy York is still the No. 1 catcher, as was expected before training started, with Ray Hayworth and George Tebbets in reserve.

All-Star Baseball Selection Is Made By Honus Wagner

Fort Smith, Ark., April 11 (AP)—Honus Wagner, one of baseball's immortals, now a coach of the Pittsburgh Pirates, named his all-star selection of National league players since 1900 for a Fort Smith civic club today.

JORDAN HOLDS SPRING DRILLS

Tom Harvey One of 12 Lettermen Out for Grid Practice

Menominee, Apr. 11—Footballers are again filling the air at Jordan College as the Angels prepare for spring training. For the present the gridmen are conditioning themselves in preparation for an intensive workout and drill which will follow immediately after their return from Easter vacation, Wednesday, April 20. A regulation game will be held on Sunday, May 1, with the squad being divided into two teams bearing the names of Menominee and Marinette.

Coach Gharrity has extended an invitation to the graduating men of the Marinette and Menominee High schools to attend this practice session, and local fans will again have the opportunity to see these gridsters in action.

From present indications, Jordan will put a football team on the field this fall that will be greatly improved over last year's squad that went through a stiff six-game schedule with four wins and two seven-point defeats.

To date 12 lettermen have turned out for practice. They are: Tom Harvey, Escanaba; Jack Bassard, Merrill, Wis.; Paul Kosob, Cecil, Wis.; Art Steffin, Shawano; Anton Anderson, Pulaski, Wis.; Eddie Wagner, Shawano; Art Petersen, Escanaba; Ray Jorgensen, Cecil, Wis.; Royal Meyer, Shawano; Ed Hienz, Milwaukee; Alvin McCormick, Kaukauna, and Richard Sperberg, Shawano.

However, these men will have to fight for their positions this fall and in some cases may have to make room for such fellows as Don Wagner, scrappy little guard of the past season's basketball team; Joe Puhek, hockey flash, Calumet; Buck McCleary, a rany lad from Roundup, Montana; Mike Morlarity, Bear Creek, Wis.; Helmo Waak, Rock; George Wyenburg, Little Chute; Richard Danner, Kaukauna; Leslie Maki, Rock; and Earl Quist, Channing.

Grapefruit League Attendance Lists Above Last Season

Tampa, Fla., April 11 (AP)—With the last major league team—the Detroit Tigers—pulling up its Florida training camp stakes today the grapefruit league attendance figures were reported as being high above last year's.

Chamber of Commerce officials in seven cities announced eight major league teams drew 95,087 fans at their spring training games.

At St. Petersburg the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals attracted 44,323 persons. The Detroit Tigers, training at Lakeland, were second on the attendance list with 15,286.

Other major league outfits training in Florida were the Cincinnati Reds, Tampa; Washington Nationals, Orlando; Boston Red Sox, Sarasota; Brooklyn Dodgers, Clearwater and Boston Bees, Bradenton.

Joey Greb Easy For Wes Ramey

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 11 (AP)—Wesley Ramey, Grand Rapids lightweight, defeated Joey Greb, of Herkimer, N. Y., in a ten round bout at the Civic auditorium tonight. It was Ramey's fight all the way and he was credited with winning every round. Greb was down for the count of nine in the sixth and ninth rounds. Ramey weighed 136 pounds, Greb 140.

Other results: Tony Petroskey, 147, Muskegon, knocked out Billy Bengol, 152, Detroit, one round; Floyd Brenner, 182, Grand Rapids, defeated Young Dempsey, 187, Detroit (4) Jack Glazier, 152, Grand Rapids, drew with Mickey Molnar, 146, Detroit (4); Frank Wrighten 274, Grand Rapids, knocked out Tommy York, 203, Mt. Clemens (2).

SOX TAKE PIRATES

Fort Smith, Ark., April 11 (AP)—Chicago's White Sox scored their first triumph in four exhibition starts against the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7 to 4, today by landing on Ken Heintzelman in the sixth and seventh innings.

Until the sixth, Ted Lyons of the Sox and Bill Swift of the Bucs had turned in three-hit pitching performances. Four Sox errors helped Pittsburgh build up a 2 to 0 lead in that period.

A single, a walk, Joe Kuehel's double and an error, helped Chicago to its first three runs, while three successive singles, Gerald Walker's double, an infield out and a wild pitch accounted for the remaining four.

In Camp With Big Leaguers

WIN SIXTH IN ROW

Asheville, N. C., April 11 (AP)—The Philadelphia National Leaguers won their sixth consecutive game today, blanking Asheville of the Piedmont League, 5 to 0.

The Phils put the game on ice in the third inning, combining two hits, two bases on balls and an error for four runs.

STEERS NOSED OUT
Dallas, Tex., April 11 (AP)—After setting up a comfortable lead the Cardinals were forced to shoot in two relief pitchers in the last three innings to nose out the Dallas Steers of the Texas League, 3 to 7, in an exhibition game here today.

Bob Weiland, the Red Birds' starting hurler, allowed 11 hits in six innings before he was relieved by Roy Henshaw. The Steers rallied in the ninth, driving in three runs after two were out. Howard Krist went to the hill and walked the first batter to fill the bases but the next man up forced the runner at second to end the game.

BOSTON WINS 19-12
Gastonia, N. C., April 11 (AP)—Boston jumped on a brace of Washington pitchers today for a 19 to 12 victory over the Senators.

Boston's Gene Moore slammed out a homer with the bases loaded in the second and Vince Di Maggio started off the sixth with another homer.

ATHLETES LOSE
Norfolk, Va., April 11 (AP)—Bunching all their runs in the fourth and fifth innings, Norfolk of the Piedmont league turned back the Philadelphia Athletics today, 4 to 3.

The Athletics scored twice in the second inning to take an early lead after a scoreless third inning Norfolk batters went to work on Lee Ross and raked him for three runs on three hits.

The next inning Jack Graham's out-of-the-park homer gave Norfolk the winning run.

INDIANS 8, GIANTS 7
Paducah, Ky., April 11 (AP)—Julius Solters' home run over the center field fence with two mates aboard in the last of the ninth gave the Cleveland Indians an 8 to 7 triumph over the New York Giants today and evened the clubs' exhibition series at five games each.

Harry Gumbert, bidding for a nine-inning victory, was on the mound when Solters' blow broke up the ball game. Until he hit his drive it was close with the Giants leading 7-5 as the teams went into the last inning.

Four home runs helped the Giants pile up the lead with Lou Chlozza, Hank Leiber, Jimmy Ripple and Mel Ott doing the slugging.

In 1935, freight revenues of Class 1 railroads in the United States amounted to $2,790,551,400, an increase of approximately $157,000,000 over the preceding year.

Only about 50,000,000 of India's 353,000,000 population are able to read any one of the dozen principle languages spoken there.

CROWLEY OPENS GRID PRACTICE

Nothing to Cheer at With Prospects

New York, April 11—Coach James H. Crowley, the old Horseman, will scrimmage his Fordham football squad Tuesday afternoon and that will be the end of Spring practice on Rose Hill. Jimmy and his able aides have been able to accomplish much since the seasons began in early March but he avers that whatever has been done to prepare the Rams for their arduous Autumnal course, and whatever can be done in September, will not give the followers of the Maroon as much to cheer about as they had last season.

Although he was a triple-threat backfield ace himself, Crowley has the natural basic belief that the "football game is played up in the line."

"Teams with great lines and only fair, even mediocre, backfields have won all their games," said Crowley last week in discussing Fordham's 1938 grid prospects, "but you never heard of a team with a weak line getting anywhere. Not that our line is going to be a pushover. We've got three experienced guards and one veteran end plus two or three rugged reserves from last season and a few sophomores who are fast and tough, like Kusman and Ungerer, and we'll have a line out of them by November. The point is, though, that men like Wojciehowicz, Babarsky, Franco, Druze and Bernard come along in a group only once maybe twice in a coach's lifetime. You simply do not replace them."

True on Offense
"It's particularly true on offense, Kazio, Granski and Holovak, before he was injured, were better gaited to our style of play than any of our predecessors during our five years at Fordham, but their ability to move the ball on the ground and in the air—we scored sixty-eight points on five defensively robust major rivals after the Pitt scoreless tie—was attributable to the blackout blocking up in the line by Druze, Wojcie and the others quite as much as to their own 'niftiness'."

"You won't see them really cleaning out this year until they've had one or two games behind them. Our 1935 team, which lost only to Purdue, was like that. Early in the season the boys couldn't move the ball against the Bollermakers but they were blocking like triphammers in November. Incidentally, it will be Purdue that will offer us our first test this year. We play Mal Edward's gang on October 15, our first major date."

REDS DRUB SOX
Winston-Salem, N. C., April 11 (AP)—Cincinnati's Reds drubbed the gold-painted Boston Red Sox under a barrage of 17 hits today, carrying off a one-sided 10 to 2 victory to even up their grapefruit league exhibition series.

Only a tremendous homer by Jimmy Fox with Joe Vosmik on base in the eighth saved the Sox from a shut-out. The blow cleared the distant center field wall.

KIWANIS HEARS DR. WALLENIUS

Need for Religion Told By Swedish Editor of Chicago

Real religion is needed more in these troublous times than ever before. Dr. Carl G. Wallenius, editor of the Swedish Messenger, said in an inspiring talk delivered at the meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Sherman hotel yesterday noon.

There are many people who earnestly desire to help to make a better America, Dr. Wallenius said, in paying tribute to the service clubs of the country. He added that no nations or communities are great and lasting because of their huge buildings and other physical assets, but rather because of the morals and the spirit of the people who live in them.

Education alone cannot save a civilization, Dr. Wallenius, in citing some examples of highly cultured persons, who were morally weak. He made it plain, however, that education is highly desirable. Explaining that there is no argument against science, the speaker pointed out that the scientists have given to the people many things that have added to human comfort and the joy of living.

"Scientific man, however, does not have control over his inventions, and much of science's work is misused," Dr. Wallenius said.

He told of the advantages of the automobile, and also cited examples where this mode of transportation is misused. The use of airplanes in war to destroy the lives of millions of people was also cited.

"We need to work on the hearts of men to make them more humane and considerate of the rights of others," Dr. Wallenius said. "There is more peace and happiness in countries where religion is taught and practiced. What is needed today more than ever before for happy living are the doctrines of the Bible, telling about God and his divine son, Jesus."

OBITUARY

CHARLES C. BESSETT

Final rites for Charles Calvin Bessett, pioneer resident of Isabella, were held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Butler, where the body rested in state, and at 2 o'clock at the Congregational church, Rev. Irwin Basler of Gladstone officiating. Burial was in the family lot in Isabella cemetery.

During the service at the church Fritz Wilson sang "Sunrise Tomorrow" and music of the church service included two solos, "Only Glory By and Bye," and "There Is a Gate That Stands Ajar" sung by Mr. Wilson, and a duet, "Beautiful Garden of Prayer," by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Windall of Gladstone.

Mr. Bessett was born at Waukegan, Illinois, March 2, 1854, and came to Isabella 50 years ago, from which time he has been engaged in the business of commercial fisherman until his retirement 10 years ago. He has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Butler for the past 23 years. He was a highly respected citizen and widely known for his philanthropic nature. His passing is mourned by the entire community.

Mr. Bessett is survived by: a sister, Mrs. Flora Powell of Waukegan, Illinois; a nephew, John Powell, of Cleveland, Ohio; a niece, Mrs. Marceline Frew of Waukegan.

Vernon Peterson, Harvey Sundin, Wallace Segerstrom, Carl Sundin, Wendell Sundling, and Herman Sundin were the active pallbearers. Honorary pallbearers were: Bert Peterson, Antone Abrahamson, John Wester, Arvid Sundin, John Nadeau, and Adam Budzis. Flower girls were Leoro Hall and Evelyn Hall.

Out-of-town relatives and friends that attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Reed of Oconto, Wisconsin; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lucia of Rogers City; Miss Norma Butler of Chicago; John Reinholston of Escanaba; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Windahl of Gladstone; Mr. and Mrs. John Finn of Escanaba; Dr. Berger Johnson and Miss Myrtle Johnson of Escanaba; and Vital Herbert of Nahma.

Car Crash Victims Are Near Recovery

Six persons injured in the double-header car crash near Days river on Saturday night are reported as near recovery. Vernon Long, Alfred White, and

City Council Goes To Dogs!

The city council went to the dogs last night! During the course of the weighty matters of an organization meeting, the subject of dogs was brought up. It was first broached by retiring Mayor Carl B. Johnson, who asserted that some drastic action must be done to curb the running of dogs about the city. He told of the heavy damage of the animals to young lawns and shrubbery and said that the ordinance governing control of dogs should be enforced strictly.

Asked what could be done about the matter, City Attorney H. J. Rushton jokingly said: "Why, nothing! Don't you know that I'm a great lover of dogs. I have three at home and it wouldn't be very consistent for me to condemn the canines."

"Sure, I know," said Councilman Johnson, "I've got two dogs home too."

Putting aside their joviality, all members of the council and the city attorney agreed that a drastic campaign should be started immediately to cause all dogs to be licensed and locked up. New licenses will be due June 1 and will cost $1 for male dogs and $2 for females.

The city police will be instructed to join the war on dogs—and pretty soon they'll be going to the dogs, too!

Approximately 191,000 dry oil wells have been drilled in the United States.
