FRANCE READY TO SIGN PACT WITH ITALIANS

CLOSER ASSURANCE OF BRITISH AID IS SOUGHT

Paris, April 15. (AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier and his cabinet advisers laid plans today for a "double duty" Franco-Italian agreement.

Sources close to the foreign office said conversations would be started next week to reach an accord along the lines of the Anglo-Italian pact to be signed tomorrow in Rome.

Strike Peace First

The proposed agreement would be designed to do double duty:

1. Settling Franco-Italian differences.
2. Bringing France a closer assurance of British help in event of trouble in Europe or North Africa.

Communists Deny Blame

The government proposal was issued last night in a thinly veiled ultimatum to the strikers to return to their jobs by next Tuesday or face the use of the government's "authority for the common good."

Points of the proposal included evacuation of factories by strikers, resumption of work by Tuesday and cancellation of the question of a collective agreement at a meeting of employers' and employees' representatives tomorrow.

French Premier Reported to Have Told the Communists

that if they wanted a strong France ready to fight with their Soviet Russian ally they must keep peace within the nation.

Communist labor leaders began to do their utmost to get strikers back to work while the party denied it had anything to do with the strikes.

Exchange of Guarantees

Besides recognition of the status quo in the Mediterranean and a solution of Spanish issues, France wants Italy in the proposed pact to agree to the following in exchange for French recognition of the conquest of Ethiopia:

1. An exchange of guarantees concerning Syria.
2. An end to alleged Italian encouragement of the Neodestour (nationalists) in Tunisia and of Algerian and Moroccan nationalist movements.
3. An exchange of guarantees to halt radio propaganda designed to promote unrest among the natives in French and Italian possessions in North Africa.
4. Settlement of the status of the French-owned railroad from Djibouti, French Somaliland, to Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

In the French View, the Anglo-Italian and proposed Franco-Italian accords would put Franco and Great Britain into similar positions so that Italy should back down from any part of her agreements, the two nations certainly would act together.

Spain Split In Two By Insurgent Armies

Hendaye, France (at the Spanish frontier), April 15 (AP)—Insurgent General Francisco Franco's armies split government Spain in two today.

They drove a wedge to the sunny Mediterranean port of Vinaroz, just south of the Catalan border, and then spread out to occupy 22 miles of coastline.

Catalonia, Spain's northeastern corner, was cut off from the rest of government Spain and the first grand objective of Franco's eastern campaign was realized, little more than a month after it got under way on March 9.

His next major objectives—Insurgents have referred to them as the "dominoes we will topple"—are Barcelona, Catalonia's seaport and government capital, Valencia and Madrid.

In a single day's action, veteran Spanish and Italian troops blasted their way into Vinaroz, then swiftly consolidated their coastal foothold by seizing Belcaro, on the south, and Udicon and Alcanar, to the north.

For nearly two weeks Insurgents had had the coastal road linking Catalonia with government territory to the south under artillery fire.

All land communications—telephone, telegraph, highways and railroad—between Barcelona, 108 miles to the northwest, and the greater part of the Barcelona government's territory, including Madrid and Valencia, was severed.

Where yesterday there was united government Spain, now there were two areas, connected only by radio and airplane.

North of the Insurgents wedge, about 10,800 of Catalonia's 12,000 square miles still was in government possession. On the south lay the main part of government Spain, its frontier unchanged from Insurgents' terms only last year. Now, however, the government was stripped completely of all of Aragon and large parts of Castellon on the north.

Government dispatches from the battle zone said their forces put up a desperate stand before Vinaroz in the morning, but were crushed under the superior strength of the Insurgent attack.

Fighting planes strafed the government's militiamen, who found shelter only in ditches, houses and crude trenches.

Kidnap Target

Moving in extreme secrecy G-men sought clues which might crack St. Paul's latest kidnap threat—a note demanding that W. P. Kenney, above, 63-year-old Great Northern Railway president, pay $100,000 or face abduction and bodily harm. The federal operatives believe the note may have come from the same men who have demanded $5000 from a St. Paul brewmaster. St. Paul was the scene of the $100,000 William Hamm, Jr., and the $200,000 Edward Bremer kidnappings.

CHINESE TURN TIDE OF WAR AGAINST JAPS

GOVERNMENT FACES SERIOUS CRISIS IN TOKYO

Shanghai, April 16 (Saturday) (AP)—Chinese asserted today that their victorious army in southern Shantung had smashed Japanese defenses on three sides of Yihlsen and that capture of the battered city was certain.

This report came as Chinese still were celebrating their recent victory at Talerchwang, 20 miles away, where foreign military experts estimated 7,000 to 10,000 Japanese were killed and 20,000 wounded.

At Suchow, goal of the Japanese drive in central China, the Chinese ended a three-day celebration with a huge lantern parade and a display of captured Japanese war equipment.

(In Tokyo, Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye was said to be ready to resign because of a split among his ministers over conduct of the war in China. The issue was said to be whether Japan should mobilize her full military strength in an effort to achieve a quick and final victory.

New Artillery Effective.—(The army and navy were reported strongly opposed to any cabinet resignation at this time, fearing the effect upon troops now in China.)

Chinese reports said their Shantung forces, aided by new artillery units, had broken through Japanese defenses on the eastern, southeastern and northeastern sides of Yihlsen and that flying columns were operating against Japanese units in the surrounding highlands.

Japanese reinforcements were reported counter-attacking heavily three miles west of Yihlsen in an effort to break the Chinese cordon, but were hampered by swiftly moving flank attacks.

Japanese continued to deny Chinese gains. An army spokesman said a series of "minor engagements" was going on in southern Shantung with "Chinese being driven back all along the line."

CABINET DIVIDED.—Tokyo, April 16 (Saturday) (AP)—Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye today faced the first genuine Japanese government crisis since the start of the Japanese-Chinese conflict, now in its tenth month.

The cabinet was sharply divided into two rival camps and the premier was reported threatening to resign over whether Japan should mobilize her full military strength in an effort to achieve a quick victory.

Rigid censorship of news from China kept the people of Japan ignorant of developments at Talerchwang, southern Shantung province city.

Pushed to Limit.—It was learned reliably from sources in the War General Gen Sugiyama, Navy Minister Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai and Home Minister Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu led the faction demanding immediate enforcement of the national mobilization war and heavy reinforcements program for the army.

It was believed Konoye, who has been attempting to steer a liberal course since assuming office June 3, had been pushed to the limit by this faction and had refused their demands.

Prior to passage of the national mobilization bill Konoye promised the people the drastic law would not be invoked unless the situation became serious enough to warrant.

The law gives the government unlimited power to draft Japan's manpower and economic resources in a war emergency.

HILL ANSWERS MURPHY CRITIC

W. S. Kellogg Is Called Mere Disgruntled Job Seeker

Lansing, April 15 (AP)—Democratic administration leaders today struck back at critics who protested the selection of Governor Murphy as Commencement Day speaker at Michigan State college.

Yesterday, W. S. Kellogg, a so-called "old-line" Democrat, and Rep. Elton R. Eaton, Plymouth Republican, sent messages of criticism to President Robert S. Shaw of the college.

In the absence of the governor, Norman H. Hill, his executive secretary, dismissed Eaton's complaint with the statement, "as for 'General' Eaton, I see that he is still handing out mush."

This was a reference to Eaton's leading role in promoting Republican "meat and side-pork" dinners recently to burlesque expensive Democratic Jefferson Day dinners.

Hill said Kellogg was a "disgruntled job-seeker" and asserted Kellogg "has been perfectly willing to go along with Governor Murphy and be identified with his administration—if there was a salary attached."

Hill said Kellogg had applied in writing for the post of superintendent of the Boy's Vocational School at Lansing and that "on at least a dozen occasions he has visited the executive offices and reiterated his admiration for the governor and his willingness to serve him—at a price. I am glad that he finally got himself a connection with the Republican state central committee."

Kellogg's letter was issued to the press by James M. Thomson, chairman of the Republican state central committee.

Mrs. Mashunka-shay claims her father was part Indian.

'SEE MICHIGAN' OUTINGS URGED

Many Do Not Know the State's Beauties, Hill Believes

Lansing, April 15 (AP)—A "See Michigan First" campaign was signalled today by Norman H. Hill, executive secretary and director of the State of Michigan Tourist bureau.

Hill asserted that "hundreds of thousands of dollars are spent by Michigan people on vacations outside the state yet most of these people have never seen half the beauties of their own state."

He made the point in discussing funds which are being spent in national advertising to attract tourists to Michigan's vacationland.

Hill said the state would not spend its promotion funds this year to impress upon Michigan residents the attractiveness of their own state, but he said such a program had been suggested for another year.

"There are thousands of Detroiters who travel to Canada or to the east for their summer outing, yet have never seen the state north of Bay City," Hill said. "At the same time, many northern Michigan vacationers go to other states for their vacations, yet have never visited the many beauty spots in the lower peninsula."

George Dinwoody, brother of the drowned man, succeeded in saving two of the six boys, who became panic stricken when their canoe began leaking 200 yards from the shore of Minnow lake, two miles from here.

The four who drowned crawled out on rotten ice coating the lake. The ice failed to hold and they fell through.

The two children who remained in the canoe were saved by George Dinwoody.

ALLEGED TRIPLE KILLER IN JAIL

Housewife's Tip Causes Arrest of Ohio Farm Hand

Youngstown, O., April 15 (AP)—A tip from an observing housewife caused the capture today of Norman Smith, 23-year-old farm hand sought since Jan. 4, for the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baumeister and Baumeister's aged father, Theodore, at their farm home at North Lima.

The tip, Sheriff Ralph Elser said, was supplied by Mrs. Lue Anderson, who told officers that a young man visiting her home resembled Smith.

"He was in the barn loading a sled when we got there," the sheriff said. "One of the first things Smith asked was whether those people he had beat up at North Lima had died."

Smith told Elser that he had slept in 15 jails since leaving the scene of the killing and that in Milwaukee his picture with the word "wanted" was on a desk when he was finger printed.

"You can't blame me for thinking cops are dumb, can you?" Elser said Smith told him.

The triple slaying was discovered by an itinerant salesman who, falling to get an answer to his knock, looked into the window of the Baumeister home to discover the body of Henry Baumeister lying on the floor. The hacked body of his wife was found in the barn and Theodore Baumeister nearby.

LEVIES PROPOSED ON GOVERNMENT SECURITIES

Washington, April 15 (AP)—The Roosevelt administration determined today to take a slice of public jobholders' salaries and income from future government securities to help pay for its proposed $4,500,000,000 program of lending and spending to combat the depression.

President Roosevelt disclosed at a press conference that he would send these taxation proposals to congress, along with recommendations for strengthening the laws against monopoly.

Treasury Gets Busy.—A flurry of activity at the treasury immediately after the conference indicated no time would be lost in pushing the taxation program. Experts went hurriedly to work preparing estimates or probable revenue from the new taxes.

White-Hill-Roosevelt's lieutenants on Capitol Hill arranged for what they hoped would be early passage of the lending-spending program, the federal reserve board hastened to carry out a major phase of the administration's plan to expand potential bank credit in the hope of stimulating business. The board added $750,000,000 to the lendable funds in the nation's banks by reducing the percentage of deposits the institutions must place in reserve for the protection of depositors.

More Credit Available.—Yesterday, the administration carried out another phase of its credit policy by "de-stereotyping" $1,392,000,000 worth of gold lying unused in government vaults. Altogether, it was estimated by officials that the two actions increased the possible expansion of credit to about $3,720,000,000.

Whether banks and business men would take the cue and avail themselves of the credit opportunities was a question only the future could determine. Administration men hoped, however, that their action would have psychological effects immediately.

The Roosevelt tax proposal involves the removal of tax exemptions from all future issues of government securities—federal, state, municipal, etc. The federal government, which taxes salaries of its own employees now, would levy upon salaries of employees of other governmental agencies. States, in turn, would be expected to tax federal salaries.

Would Raise Millions.—Roswell Magill, undersecretary of the treasury, recently estimated the federal government could raise $15,000,000 a year by taxing state and local public salaries. He figured the government could garner a total of $155,000,000 annually if all existing federal, state and local securities and salaries were subject to tax.

Officials said that, in general, income from government bonds and notes is now exempt from normal income taxes but is subject to income surtaxes, estate, inheritance, gift, excess profits and war profits taxes. Income from holdings of less than $5,000 also is exempt from the income surtaxes.

Bonds for the most part are securities maturing in five years or more; notes those maturing in from two to five years.

BURNING BOAT'S CREW RESCUED

Captain and Eight Men Picked Up All Safe Off Nova Scotia

Boston, April 15 (AP)—The crew of the Diesel trawler Exeter of Boston, whose frantic call for help broke off with mysterious suddenness during the morning, was picked up late today by coast guards, who reported the Exeter was burning south of the Nova Scotia coast.

The coast guard cutter Algonquin reported she picked up captain James V. Nickerson and the eight men in his crew all were well and uninjured.

While Captain Nickerson said he would make no statement about the cause of the fire, coast guards reported the after part of the Exeter was burned to the water's edge, and that her mainmast was gone.

Coast guards expressed the belief that oil was feeding the flames, which still swept the vessel, and said an explosion of oil in her tanks was possible unless the fire died down.

The Algonquin delayed starting for Boston with the rescued crew pending arrival of the cutter Cayuga, ordered to relieve the rescue cutter.

Coast guards said the Cayuga should arrive early tomorrow at the scene, about 250 miles east of Boston, and 50 miles south of Cape Sable, near the southerly edge of Browns Bank, a fishing ground.

government borrows for from 90 to 180 days, are totally exempt from taxation.

Hearings Start Wednesday
The house appropriations committee announced today that hearings on the $4,500,000,000 spending program would begin next Wednesday.

While one omnibus appropriation bill was expected to carry the bulk of the Roosevelt proposals, it was decided to attach several of them to other measures.

Thus, the senate appropriations committee approved an additional $50,000,000 for the CCC today as part of a separate bill, and leaders announced that the president's proposed additional $37,000,000 for flood control would be attached to the war department non-military appropriations bill and $100,000,000 for highways to the agriculture department appropriation bill.

These maneuvers would, however, leave the bulk of the recommended appropriations in one measure, obviously destined to become the center of another spectacular congressional controversy over Roosevelt policy, and more specifically over the proposition that government can end the depression by pouring its billions into the channels of commerce.

Hiding Their Time
An obviously small, but none-the-less determined and vocal group, declaring that to curtail expenditures and balance the budget would do more to encourage business, was biding its time and pondering its strategy.

It consisted in both houses of a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats. Frankly not very hopeful of defeating the program, its leaders were concentrating on reducing the amounts and stipulating their exact use, instead of leaving their allocation to the discretion of the president, the practice in the past.

Any hope opponents of the public works program may have had that Rep. O'Connor (D-NY) would join them vanished today. O'Connor, a leader of the successful opposition to the government reorganization bill, said he was "most heartily in favor" of the works proposal.

This was the second pronouncement O'Connor had made on the subject in two days. Yesterday he said "Priming the pump won't do any good if there's no water in the well."

Today, he explained in a letter to President William Green of the American Federation of Labor that he "in no wise intended the impression to get out that I opposed the president's program."

"The purpose of my comment," he said, "was to state that it did not go quite far enough to suit me; such as in the nature of reinsurance to business, which has at least six times as much capital as the government has available to spend to put people to work."

Kansas City Grand Jury Indicts 257 In Election Fraud

Kansas City, April 15 (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted 257 more persons on vote fraud conspiracy charges in the 1936 general election. It was the largest list returned by any one of the three grand juries and brought to 257 the number of persons indicted.

All those named today were from the twelfth ward and included two policemen, Gilbert Hunt and James G. Gildea.

Maurice M. Milligan, U. S. district attorney, said a new jury would be called next month to continue the investigation.

In the 14 vote fraud cases which have come to trial there have been 61 convictions without an acquittal, four pleas of guilty and 20 of no defense. Two men are serving terms in prison and 12 more face early commitment, the U. S. supreme court having refused their final plea.

Passover Matzoth Scarce In Vienna; Synagogues Open

Vienna, April 15 (AP)—The traditional Matzoth was scarce tonight at the Jewish observance of Passover in Vienna.

For ages this unleavened bread has been an essential part of the Jewish feast the world over, but in sterner Nazi Vienna few bakeries dared to make it.

At others the staffs were so depleted by new regulations the bakeries could meet only a small part of the demand.

The Jews, however, had two reasons to be thankful. One was that their synagogues and prayer houses, closed since March 15, were permitted to reopen in time for Passover.

The other was that, partly because of letters from the Jewish Charitable League in Berlin, impoverished Viennese Jews were invited to participate in the feasts of their richer acquaintances.

Lansing—Many of the hundreds who visit the state's forest fire towers each year are possessors of a card which attests to the fact that they have by "their own efforts risen to a high position in connection with conservation affairs."

The 1938 supply of these cards has just been distributed to the men who will man the towers. In addition to serving as testimony to high climbing the cards call for public cooperation in preventing forest fires.

SEAMEN WALK OFF STEAMER

Canadian Sailors Start Strike Ahead of Schedule

Toronto, April 15 (AP)—A strike by the Canadian Seamen's Union against seven Great Lakes shipping companies started ahead of schedule tonight when the 14-man crew of the steamship F. E. Massey walked off the vessel.

The crew left the ship a few hours before the midnight deadline set by J. A. Sullivan, union president, for the companies to sign collective bargaining agreements with the union's 1,800 members.

The unlicensed crew of the F. E. Massey walked off as the vessel was about to clear Toronto harbor. Union officials said they immediately set up a picket line.

The ship is owned by a subsidiary of the Union Transit company, one of the seven Canadian companies affected by the strike call.

The companies remained silent on the union demands as the midnight hour approached.

Sullivan said he had heard nothing from the operators. He announced plans to picket boats at eight lake ports.

Sullivan said picket lines would be established at Toronto, Owen Sound, Kingston, Goderich, Port Colborne, Fort William, Port Arthur and Montreal.

The union head said the companies affected, operating a total of 150 boats, included Colonial Steamships, Ltd., Toronto; Corporation of Canada, Montreal; Norris Steamship Company, Ltd., Montreal; North American Transports, Ltd., Toronto; Paterson Steamships, Ltd., Montreal and Fort William; Union Transit company, Toronto; and Keystone Corporation, Ltd., Montreal.

Several vessels were scheduled to clear during the night.

Sullivan charged the companies sponsored company unions and "discriminated against the C. S. U. membership."

Police Force Gate To Serve Papers On Mother Of Coogan

Los Angeles, April 15 (AP)—Sheriff's deputies broke through an electrically controlled gate today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bernstein, stepfather and mother of Jackie Coogan, former film star, and served her with a summons in Jackie's $4,000,000 accounting suit.

The summons requires her to appear and give a deposition to be used in trial of the action.

Superior Judge Ruben S. Schmidt issued the order for forcible entry after process servers had tried unsuccessfully for three days to see Mrs. Bernstein.

Coogan filed suit against the Bernsteins in an effort to recover the millions he claims he earned as a child film star.

The Bernsteins deny Jackie ever earned $4,000,000, as he contends, and declare that under California law he is not entitled to what he did earn because he was a minor at the time.

Steamers Menaced By Blaze At Pier In San Francisco

San Francisco, April 15. (AP)—Two moored steamers and cargo valued at $200,000 were menaced by flames which spread through creosote covered pilings today at a waterfront pier.

Thirty firemen, including Chief Charles Brennan, were treated after breathing smoke. Forty longshoremen, trapped aboard the freighter Massmar, were rescued by a tug.

The Massmar and the freighter Point Coleta of the Calmar line were moored at the dock when the fire broke out. Both were towed to safety, although the bow of the Massmar was scorched by the flames.

Boasting Burglar Gets Prison Term

Grand Rapids, (AP)—Speaking of his robberies, Douglas Anderson boasted in court that "I can do it standing on my head." "I'll see that the prison officials hear about that," said Superior Judge Thaddeus B. Taylor in passing a sentence of 10 to 20 years on Anderson in connection with a series of gasoline station robberies.

Complete Stop At Corner Necessary, Police Chief Says

An absolute complete stop at all arterial intersections must be made by motorists in the city if they wish to avoid being arrested in the strenuous campaign being conducted by the city police, Chief M. F. Ettenhofer said yesterday.

"Too many motorists are satisfied with merely slowing down at intersections," the chief said yesterday. "That is not enough, and we will not hesitate to arrest those found failing to stop. Too many accidents are caused from motorists falling to come to a complete stop and residents of Escanaba may as well become resigned to the idea of observing the law to the letter."

A patrol car will be kept on the streets at all times during day and night to watch for violations.

Air Rifles Banned For Escanaba Boys

During the last few days the Escanaba police department has received reports of boys shooting birds with airguns and other small rifles. Such shooting is a violation of the city ordinance, and violators will have their guns taken away from them if caught, the police department warns.

ESKLINEN SENT TO MARQUETTE

John Uzo to Serve Four Months in Delta County Jail

Adam Esklinen, pleading guilty to a charge of larceny from a building, was sentenced by Judge Frank A. Bell to serve 1 to 3 years in Michigan state prison at Marquette at Delta county circuit court yesterday. John Uzo, who pleaded guilty to assault with a dangerous weapon, was sentenced to serve 4 months in Delta county jail and to pay costs of $100. He was also placed on probation for a period of two years.

Esklinen's offense was the theft of money from the Rock tea room, on April 6. Uzo pleaded guilty to an attack on John Youkenovich at Indiantown, near Nahma, in which Youkenovich suffered severe scalp wounds about the head which were caused by a blow from a double-bit axe. Both men at first pleaded not guilty, but later changed their pleas.

Judgment Set Aside

A motion for a new trial in the case of Edward Frasher vs. Herman Hawkinson, in which a decree was given at the January court term, was heard by Judge Bell. The previous judgment was set aside, and the original sum awarded the plaintiff was reduced from $3,400 to $1,500. A new trial will be granted the defendant, the judge stated, if the claimant does not accept the reduced judgment.

In the case of Ulrich and Eva Parent vs. the American Surety Co., of New York and Gordon F. Craig, the attorney for the plaintiff moved for dismissal. The defendant was awarded costs of $26.60, to be paid by the plaintiff, and the case was dismissed.

All cases to be brought before circuit court during this term will be on call Monday morning.

Communication

ENJOYED SMELT JAMBOREE

To the Editor, Escanaba Daily Press, Escanaba, Michigan.

Dear Sir: Having put my affairs in order since returning from your wonderful country, I now have time to write you a few lines.

First of all, I want to thank all of you for the grand way in which you received me and the hospitality up there is better than anything I have ever experienced before.

Since arriving home, I have told all my friends about it and, from present indications, I believe there will be a good many of them will take in the Smelt Jamboree with me next year.

The Show Thursday night was very good and all the young folks who participated are to be complimented for a splendid performance.

I could go into detail, but as there is so much to cover, I would not have time to write it all, however I do want to say, that you have the right idea, and as long as you follow this practice, you will find that your town will be unable to accommodate all the people who will come up.

Looking forward to seeing you again next year,

Yours truly, Louis Plough, Supt. Harvester Press, Chicago, Ill.

Marinette Boys Are Marooned On Island

Menominee, April 15—Four Marinette boys were rescued from an island in the Menominee river above the second dam yesterday afternoon after they were marooned for four hours. Rising winds prevented their return to shore in an old skiff for which there was but one short paddle.

Deputy John Wood of the Marinette sheriff's department, and George Pashos, proprietor of Riverview Knight club, performed the rescue in a borrowed row boat. Pashos reported the boys' predicament to the officers.

Gerald Anderson, 13, of Hattie street; Vernon Dausay, 11, of Ella Court; Herbert Wickman, 15, of South Raymond street; and Marvin Rupert, 17, of Verne street, went to the island about 1 p. m. in the leaky old skiff. Rising winds prevented their return to shore.

The island is located in the lake formed by the second dam, is 550 feet from the Wisconsin side, and the water between the island and the river bank is about 1) feet deep.

SEAL CAMPAIGN IS SUCCESSFUL

Last Year's Quota Will Be Surpassed By Small Amount

The Easter seal sale campaign, which is in its closing stages, will surpass last year's mark by a small margin, it was announced yesterday by John A. Lemmer, county chairman of the campaign.

William Warmington, treasurer, said that a total of $450.37 had been collected up to yesterday, the amount being just exactly five dollars less than last year's total. However, it is expected that this amount will be increased before final returns are filed early next week.

Boy Scouts of Escanaba were largely instrumental in the success of the drive, contributing $157.96, which they collected throughout the city as their good turn.

Thirty-one Scouts of Troop 57 took part in the campaign as did the following numbers from other troops: 18 of Troop 54; 11 of Troop 48; eight of Troop 53; five of Troop 55; four of Troop 49; three of Troop 50; and two of Troop 52.

HASTE URGED BY COMMISSION

Liquor Licensees Asked to Hurry Applications Along

All persons whose application for liquor licenses have been approved by local bodies are urged to execute their blanks immediately and return them to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

This admonition was received in a communication by local legislative bodies from Charles A. Parrish, chief enforcement officer of the liquor commission. The communication said:

"On March 15th, renewal applications for contracts of licensees with the Liquor Control Commission were released to all individuals not disapproved by local governing bodies.

"However, up to date we are in receipt of approximately 30 per cent of the applications released. Inasmuch as the Michigan Liquor Control Commission will not extend the 1937 expiration date beyond April 30, we are requesting your cooperation in encouraging all persons approved by your honorable body for renewal of license to execute their blanks and return same immediately to the commission.

"If properly executed renewal application blanks are not received in this office by April 26, we cannot assure the 1938 licensees of obtaining his license before May 1, thus necessitating the discontinuance of his business until license is received.

"Again may we request you to carefully consider applicants for renewal keeping in mind the sincere request of the commission that you permit only those licensees to operate who will not be offensive to the citizens of your community."

Police Department Purchases Camera

A camera, for use in preserving evidence found at the scenes of crimes and accidents, has been purchased by the Escanaba police department. Equipped with an F 4.5 lens, the new camera can be used day or night. It includes a photo-flash synchronizer by which night pictures can be made with flash bulbs.

Chief Michael Ettenhofer predicts that the camera will prove of great assistance to the officers in performing their duties. By making pictures upon arrival at the scene of an accident, the police will be able to give the prosecuting attorney undisputable evidence as to the conditions existing at the time of the crash.

The new camera is the second one to be put in service by the local police department. A special camera for the photographing of fingerprints is also a part of the department's equipment and is used by Assistant Chief Jack Finn, fingerprint expert.

A record of pictures of persons brought in by officers of the local police department will also be made, to aid in their identification if they are suspected of other offenses.

Stop the Sparring

CONSERVATIONISTS will applaud the announcement by the state conservation department that a vigorous campaign will be waged this spring to prevent the illegal taking of wall-eyed pike from the head waters of Little-Bay de Noc during the spawning period.

In past years, tons of wall-eyed pike have been either speared or netted during the spawning season, although the vicious practice has been curbed to a great degree of late as a result of the vigilance of conservation wardens.

But right now, there are some so-called sportsmen who are planning nightly excursions to the streams to do some sparring. "It's great sport," they say. But really it's poor sportsmanship. Those who take wall-eyes during the spawning runs are robbing the community of a potential supply of fish of great value from the standpoint of sport fishing.

If the wall-eyes at the head of Little Bay de Noc are given the proper protection, there is no reason why that area cannot become the most popular fishing spots in this north country. As the lumbering industry in Delta county declines, Escanaba, Gladstone, Rapid River and the other communities will become more and more dependent upon the sincere efforts that various interests are now making to promote the tourist business.

Even those who now engage in poaching may someday derive a goodly portion of their livelihood from this tourist business.

With all this in mind, clear-thinking citizens should give all possible cooperation to the conservation department in its campaign to curb the destruction of the valuable wild life resources of this region.

"Pump Priming" Again

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, in his special message to Congress, admits finally that American is in the grip of another depression, this time known by the more polite term, "recession", and proposes another spending spree as the solution to the problem.

Since 1933, the New Deal administration has been spending the taxpayers' money with a lavish hand, but still we have a mounting figure of unemployment and business men throughout the country that times are getting harder. After all this, the national debt has increased by billions, and we are about as far from stable, real prosperity as we have been since the stock market crash of 1929.

With the congressional elections approaching, the President has apparently taken the easiest way out to save the face of the New Deal. There will be more spending in the hopes that those who will reap its benefits will pour in enough votes of appreciation to win another election.

Gradually, the paying of this New Deal political campaign bill will become harder to do. The pump is being primed, but it is also being pumped dry. A spending spree has been demonstrated to be merely a temporary palliative. For the time being, it is the easiest way out of the difficulties that the Roosevelt administration has chosen, but it can also develop into being the hardest way.

TVA Investigation

PROVISION has been made by Congress for the investigation of the Tennessee Valley Authority. The value of the investigation will depend in large part upon the personnel of the investigating committee and upon the thoroughness with which these men delve into the entire TVA.

If the investigation is to be a whitewash, it would be far better to call the whole thing off and save the money which must needs be spent in an investigation of this type. But if that happens and there is a whitewash of the entire TVA program, that cannot be ascertained at some future date and the Administration and the members of the investigating committee thrown into disrepute and arouse anger of the unsuspecting public.

One of the greatest critics of the TVA, a senator who was largely responsible for bringing about the investigation was not named as one of the investigators. This fact cannot but give some suspicion that there is desire that the investigation be not thorough and sincere, but instead a whitewash.

Why wasn't this critic named on the committee? Millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money have been spent on the TVA and other power projects. Do you not want to know where that money was spent and why?

Do you want on the committee men who will dig to the very bottom of the entire TVA and if there is a scandal bring it to light? Or do you want men who will scratch a little on the surface and if they find a piece of rot, try to put a coating of whitewash over it?

Charity on Wheels

DO you suppose that during the Attoons, Pa., convention of the Hoboes of America the delegates read the news about the attitude of the country's drivers toward hitch-hikers? The "ho's" use the highways nearly as much as the train tracks these days.

More than half the motorists in the United States make it a rule never to pick up a hitch-hiker, according to a nationwide poll. The rest give a lift only "once in a while."

It seems a shame that the pounders of transcontinental pavements have something less than half a chance of taking the weight off their feet without cutting down on their mileage. The heart goes out to the migratory workers who develop blisters on their toes. (Note: The true hobo, as distinguished from the tramp, occasionally does work.)

But the heart goes out also to those motorists who have paid for their generous impulses en route with their lives or their possessions.

The next time you find yourself about to respond to a crooked thumb at the road's edge, remind yourself that all the highway tragedies are not caused by careless driving.

The hoboes are taking care of themselves. They don't hold conventions just to renew old acquaintances. The hoopla gets the publicity, but the "ho's" in business session get their heads together on the problems of the road... whether railroad or automobile road.

Dear Teacher

MANY Pennsylvania college students studying to become teachers know less than the high school students they are preparing to teach. The average grade of the prospective teachers as a group is below the average of most other college student groups.

The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, which makes this report, adds that "there is no good reason for believing that the conditions described are confined to Pennsylvania."

The situation is alarming for more than one reason. Consider, for instance, the wild state of affairs that the publication of the news itself is likely to bring about, once the findings become matters of general knowledge.

Consider an awareness of this situation asserting itself suddenly in the brain of a high school student on the return of a graded examination paper. How many teachers are going to find the papers shot back at them now with such students notes as, "This grading shows that you have absorbed nothing of what I have been trying to teach you all semester," and, "You will remain after school and write 100% on the blackboard 100 times."

AIR MAIL WITHIN OUR GRASP (Sault Ste. Marie News)

The long fight which friends of air mail and Mrs. Mary Ripley, postmaster of Sault Ste. Marie, have made to interest the postoffice department in the real need of this city for air mail service has been won—and the United States government is advertising for bids to carry the mail by air between the Sault and Detroit. The bids are to be opened on May 3, and it is believed that possibly by fall Sault letters will be winging across the Straits of Mackinac, toward the far corners of the nation.

Accomplishment of the efforts to obtain air mail here is a source of particular happiness to Mrs. Ripley and to Louis Levin, chairman of the aviation committee of the Chamber of Commerce. The chamber has taken many steps to aid in the struggle. Citizens who have been watching the work of the postmaster and the assisting committees are gratified. For it means a speeding up of mail service that will mean a great deal to business. The Sault will be not more than three or four hours from Detroit. Letters from the Michigan metropolis will be received and the reply in the hands of the sender all within the course of a business day.

As train service is curtailed, the need for other means of mail transportation to this section of the nation become more serious. The air is the logical answer. The Sault airport gradually has been made ready during the last several years until now it is hoped that with only minor expense the port is ready for the mail planes. Coming of the first mail by air to this port rightfully will be the cause of real celebration, and the quick recognition of the Chamber of Commerce of this fact is pleasing to the citizens. A ceremony that shall attract wide attention is called for. There is no doubt but that the purchase of air mail stamps by Chippewa county citizens will be up to the expectation of those who want to make good on their promise to Congressman Luecke that if he would use his influence to obtain the air mail for us, that service would be put to the greatest use.

EMERGENCY TAXES STICK (From the Springfield Union)

A Pittsburgh tax expert expressed the obvious in saying that "the danger of all emergency taxes, including a sales tax, is that, while the emergencies pass, the tax remains." With rare exception, this is true. Once a tax is levied on something, it is worse than pulling teeth to get rid of it.

No matter how loud our legislators shout for economy and reduced taxes as candidates for office, once elected their principal concern seems to be to find new sources of revenue, new things to tax. Instead of lowering the level of expenditures, the idea is to increase revenues.

THE WRONG BOTTLE (Baltimore Sun)

The need, in brief, is a fair and stable field in which free, private enterprise may operate. That is what we need if we intend, while giving lip service to private enterprise, to slump vaguely into state capitalism or state socialism. We do not need, we cannot risk, if we intend to rely upon free, private enterprise, more medicine out of the wrong bottle—more of such devices as spending our way into prosperity. For we ought to know, if we are able to learn anything from reason and

World Affairs Reviewed

BY ROY PORTER AP Foreign Service Writer

Paris—The question in the minds of many Frenchmen today is: "When is war coming?" rather than: "Is war coming?" A great many "white collar" workers believe it may be soon. Their predictions—tempered by the political views of the moment, the trend of international developments and the complexion of the government in power—range from months to years.

Talk of impending war has increased with France's attempt to speed up her armament program. It reached a high point during the tense moments following Hitler's recent speech before the Reichstag. Nazification of Austria, and the resignation of former British foreign secretary Anthony Eden.

Frenchmen may talk excitedly of a new rise in the price of newspapers, income tax rates or the increased cost of living. The price of beans may be today's subject; it will be replaced tomorrow by an angry discussion of new subway rates. But underlying all subjects is war—its possibility and nearness.

For example, take Raoul. He is a reserve officer, 38 years old, with a brilliant record in the "Blue Devils." He is also an earnest member of Col. Francois de la Rocque's French Social Party which he denies vehemently has any connection with European Fascist movements.

Raoul is the Paris representative of an American company importing large quantities of silk. He earns better than an average salary and spends part of it for books and maps which he uses for military studies.

—WAR SETS TEMPO—

"We know the last war was not really a war to end wars," Raoul says. "We know that another war is coming. When it comes we want to be ready. We may argue and fight over politics during peace—I've been in several riots myself when Communists tried to break up our meetings—but when the enemy is from outside our country, we'll stand together to defend France."

—KNOWS IT'S COMING—

Politically opposite is Georges, 31 years old, an architect married to an American woman who came here to study. Georges is a socialist, an ardent supporter of Leon Blum and the People's Front government but radically opposed to the political opinions of his father who is a leader of the Communist party.

His views of war are fatalistic. He makes no predictions. Ask him to analyze the international situation and he will reply quietly: "We will fight when it is necessary." But he has encouraged his wife to keep her American citizenship and has made plans to get her and their son out of Europe the moment hostilities begin.

—SEES 'DEVASTATING' CONFLICT—

Frantz has still another viewpoint. He is 32, unmarried and devotes a large part of his time to sports. The last seven years of Frantz' life have not been easy. His family, formerly wealthy, lost a great deal of money through business failures. Frantz, with an excellent classical education but entirely lacking in practical business experience, was forced to find a job. He worked hard and is achieving success.

But his principal worry is that his private business recovery may be interrupted by war. He talks little about internal politics. He belongs to no party. "Financial insecurity—both of governments and of individuals—is one of the greatest obstacles to war today," Frantz says. "The armament race has cost millions and millions and the pace is getting faster and faster."

"The French government admittedly is in desperate need of funds. The public will undoubtedly subscribe to new national defense loans. But the chain must be broken some time and when the time comes—when the war machines of each nation are ready—the result will be the greatest and most devastating conflict the continent has ever known."

—HITS RUSSIAN PACT—

Ernest, a young lawyer and a reserve officer in the tank corps, begins his discussion of the possibility of war with a review of France's diplomatic alliances which he—like many others—believes should not be based on the principle that Germany is the French Republic's eternal enemy.

"France and Germany—together with England—could, if allied, exert a powerful influence in Europe which would preclude all thoughts of war in the near future," Ernest argues.

"I believe in the People's Front government but I also believe France is continuing to commit one of her gravest diplomatic mistakes when she holds to her alliance with Russia. That military assistance pact will, in my opinion, eventually turn out to be one of the motivating forces behind any war which may develop. The possibility of war under the present lineup of nations is granted in advance."

And, like the rest, Ernest himself formed the sentence which is being debated among those of his class today: "The question now is not 'will there be war?' but rather, 'when is it coming?'" from experience, that spending scares and paralyzes private enterprise at the bottom while giving it a nervous and excited flush at the top. Let us feed the hungry and clothe the naked. But let us do that as a humane duty of civilized society, and not once again mix up duty to the suffering with the exploded panacea of spending a people into prosperity.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—Your First Citizen will be throwing; out the first baseball before you can turn about and trim the lawn. And that brings me right around to the case of Jack White, the prince of snarls along 52nd Street, the Swing Alley of America.

Jack White is a high-strung comedian who presides over the hysterics at a place called the "18" Club, which is all swing and a thimbleful wide. And when he is attending to business or away from it, ebullient Jack White is the official No. 1 Fan of the New York Giants.

The reason for bringing up his name at all now—aside from the fact that he is our favorite clown and a lovable fellow—is many White's recent return from the Giants' southern rehearsal field and the inside dope he brought along. Don't let on where this information came from, but if anyone should ask you diamond fanatics about the season's prospects, you can quote Jack White anonymously as saying that the Giants are going to win the pennant and walk away with the World Series.

Greater devotion to a team hath no bleacherite. No frustrated follower of the frustrated Brooklyn Dodgers can claim the loyalty that White generously expends upon the denizens of the Polo Grounds. One half of his hilarious cabaret spiel is about his team, and woe unto the customer who undertakes to heckle him about the southpaw or third baseman, Bill Terry is his demi-god, regardless of his demi-god's unpopularity with certain members of the Fourth Estate who patronize the "18" Club.

When the training season starts White posts a scoreboard prominently on the wall which lists only the outcome of Giant games. And only the victorious results. When the Giants, Heaven forbid, lose, the scoreboard carries no figures but this announcement, instead: "No Game Today."

And on such nights, the customers have to help the ebullient master of ceremonies out of a blue funk.

Tough Speaking of blue funks, a pulchritudinous young lady named Margie Young apprizes me that she has been in one, ever since an item about her in a previous column called attention of movie scouts in her direction. These "weary, old eyes," as Dr. Woollcott was wont to say, found Miss Young out in the chorus line of girls at the International Casino; and she developed, upon inquiry, to be a college alumna with dramatic ambitions, besides an exceedingly stunning showgirl. So she was mentioned as a film possibility, forthwith, and movie scouts came about to woo her with offers and an immediate screen test. Everything was rosy for Margie.

The evening before her appointment at the film studio, Miss Young's eyes declined to remain wholly open. A doctor was called in a hurry. He diagnosed her optic condition as "makeup poisoning." Nothing to be alarmed about, but something to require daily treatment. He directed that she was not to apply any kind of cosmetics to her complexion for one month. So the screen tests were hurriedly called off and the poor girl still is waiting for her perfect vision. The film men haven't been around since then, however.

Wild-eyed truck drivers are more dangerous than falling bombs, Will Rogers, Jr., reports on his return from the Spanish war front. If this be true, what terrors can war hold for the American pedestrian?

Lyrics of Life

HANKERING

What makes you glad? What you ain't had—

Though that looks hard to figger. I'm glad when I was just a lad. Our income wasn't bigger. We talk of class a lot, aias; I'm glad I'm not the upper; I'm glad through days I had to pass I wasn't sure of supper.

I'm glad I had, when just a lad, A little bit of trouble. For nothin' now looks very bad, And somethin' good looks double. I'm sorry for these youngsters more, These later ones, and thinner, With nothin' much to hanker for, And always sure of dinner.

The Capital Parade

BY ALSOP AND KINTNER

Washington, April 16.—John Nance Garner, officially vice president of the United States, has openly emerged this week as the unofficial leader of the Democratic opposition to the President. Well-informed persons have known that only party loyalty has restrained the vice president from open rebellion on several issues of the past year; now, on spending, his rebellion has virtually become public.

In view of the wild talk provoked by his spending rebellion, it's interesting now to have a look at Garner, to see what sort of fellow he is, and, especially, to see what his relations with the President really are.

Mr. Garner had, from the start, a personal affection for the President, whom he usually addressed as "Captain" or "Old Top." The friction of constant disagreement may have worn his affection rather thin of late. It has certainly altogether worn out his earlier attitude, that all Democrats must go along with the President because he is the leader of the Democratic Party. He expressed it admirably once himself, when certain house leaders came to him to complain bitterly of the brutal treatment accorded them by the President in the Holding Company bill fight.

"It doesn't matter what kind of a guy he is," snapped Garner, to a representative who had criticized the President in personal terms. "You're a Democrat, and so long as he's President of the United States, he's the leader of your party, so he your guy."

SQUIRE BROADACRES

Nowadays, unhappily, the President is no longer the vice President's "guy." The break between them must be traced to Garner's fundamental conservatism. Some liberal commentators like to picture the vice president as a venomous toy plotter. He is nothing of the sort, but he is a conservative.

His conservatism is, after all, quite natural. His land-holdings in Texas are enormous. He is the squire of avalde. He has a handsome "stake in the country," indeed, he is undoubtedly at least once a millionaire. And, being a squire, his conservatism is squirearchical. He frankly detests Wall Street and the men of money. He is a strong trust-buster. But he is also a budget-balancer and aggressive policies in the labor movement disturb him greatly.

As everyone knows by now, his real rebellion began last winter, in disagreements with the President about the sit-down strikes and the budget. It may not, however, be generally known, although the story has been printed, that the sit-down strikes occasioned his bitterest quarrel with the occupant of the White House.

WHITE HOUSE SPAT

When the sit-downs began, Garner was greatly agitated, and extracted from the President a promise to act against them if they grew worse. In March, 1937, while the President was in Warm Springs, the sit-downs did grow a great deal worse. Garner summoned undersecretary of the Interior Charles West, then White House lobbyist on the hill. He made a rousing speech on the sit-down problem and demanded that his views be transmitted to the President. They were transmitted, but no action came.

Thereupon Garner stirred up the senatorial excitement in regard to the sit-downs, which finally brought the President hurrying back to Washington for a conference with Garner and Senator Joseph T. Robinson. At the conference, Garner exposed his opinion in such forcible language, and the President used such sharp words in reply, that the horrified Robinson shouted the two men down and called a halt to all conferring for that day.

From the moment of that quarrel on, Garner has constantly made trouble for the president on the hill. In the court fight, his attitude was one of passive distaste for the President's great measure, and it may be suspected that he took some delight in playing undertaker for it in the end. But all last spring he was agitating for smaller grants of money to the White House, and poking other wasps' nests.

Then, in the wage-hour fight, he is said to have given private aid and comfort to the enemies of the bill. In the row over reorganization, he let it be privately known that he favored the drastically restrictive Wheeler amendment, although his friendship for the bill's sponsor, Senator James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, prevented his taking an active part. And so it has gone.

Permits Required For Brush Burning

Munising, April 15—Persons who burn brush after Sunday, April 17, must have burning permits, Arthur O. Schafer, forest ranger of the northern district of Hiawatha Forest, said today.

Persons desiring burning permits may obtain them by writing, personal contact, or by telephone to camp superintendents at CCC Camp A-Train at Forest Lake, Camp Evelyn at Wetmore, or from the forest ranger's office at Munising, giving the description of the area to be burned, material to be burned, and dates of burning.

Practically all of our fires last year were man caused," Mr. Schafer stated, "and though we have secured good cooperation from the local people in preventing fires we have not reached a possible minimum in this class of fire."

Tower and guard positions will not be occupied until the latter part of next week. At that time the full force will be placed on duty for fire detection and suppression work.

All people are requested to report forest fires to the nearest CCC camp, ranger's office, conservation office or telephone operator who will see that crews of fire fighters are dispatched to the fire.

Saul did not indicate what action he would take prior to the recount. He stated that he protested against the recount since the petition for the recount was not filed within the proper time limit or before the meeting of the board of canvassers and that ballots from the three city precincts had been all placed in one box and that the box was not properly sealed and was easily accessible to possible tampering.

The Nazis Dominate Europe

Too many persons underestimate the importance of the April 10 plebiscite. The approval by a unanimous people of Austria's annexation means that no matter who succeeds Hitler, the union of Germany and Austria is finally accomplished. Not even another world war is likely to undo it. The terrible mistake of enforcing the separation of Germans and Austrians who implored and needed unity will not be repeated by tomorrow's peace-makers.

A word about this Hitler plebiscite. We are apt to discount its significance because it was conducted by an autocratic instead of a democratic regime. In most polling places the voting was actually secret. The Nazis were so sure of the result that the official ballot even carried a circle for the "No" voters. It is a safe guess that if this election had been conducted like that in the Saar by an international plebiscite commission, the vote for union would have tottered from 80 to 90 percent. Our landslide Presidential elections give the victor less than two-thirds of the popular vote. In 1936 Franklin D. Roosevelt won 46 out of 48 States but secured only 61 percent of the ballots cast by the people.

Sunday's vote is the final consecration of Anschluss. It was brought about by a triumph of efficient propaganda organization and represents a pledge of faith that has enormous psychological and political value, even though it comes from a regimented people. In the face of manifest divisions in France, Britain and the United States, the German people are united. At least they are united on those issues on which their rulers give them a chance to express themselves. They are not likely to be asked whether they really prefer cannon to butter. And even though Germans may prefer butter, they lack that tradition of revolution which might persuade them to defy their rulers to obtain it.

Dominates Central Europe

Adolf Hitler's regime has now achieved the dominant position in continental Europe. The German Ruhr has annexed Austria's heavy industry and added Austria's rich supplies of iron and lumber to those of the Reich. The Danube River has become a great German highway. By confronting Czechoslovakia on a new undefended frontier, Germany can have her way in that country by military threat and without military action. As the dominant partner in the Rome-Berlin axis now stationed on the Brenner Pass, she can exercise greater influence on Italy. The Duce knows enough history to recall that since the days of the Barbarians invasions of Italy have moved down from the Alps.

Germany's common frontiers with Hungary and Yugoslavia, give her control of new food supplies that assure self-sufficiency. Rumania and Bulgaria will gravitate toward Germany as their natural defender against Soviet Russia. Poland can no longer rely on France. A country so disunited that it could not co-operate with the legal government of Spain to prevent a military apert—creating a Fascist State beyond the Pyrenees will not break through Rhine-land fortifications to help distant Poland.

Facing the Facts

These are realities. Hitler will disappear tomorrow or in a few years. The German menace to the peace of Europe will remain. It is certain now that it cannot be removed until Germany receives back some of her colonies and until Danzig and the Polish Corridor again fly the German flag. Only when these things have been done will Nazi intolerance lose its force. Not until then, will reunited, powerful Germany return to normalcy and resume its place in the family of nations.

Another decade of Nazi dominance is a sorry prospect for the world, but it is better to face it frankly than to deny its reality. Even an internal revolution which substitutes a military regime for the Nazis will not change a strong German's determination to break the remaining links in the "chains of Versailles."

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JOYCE MILNER, heroine; she took an Easter Cruise.
DICK HAMILTON, hero; he bumped into the heroine.
ISOBEL PORTER, traveler; she sought a mate.

Yesterday, matters turn for the worse when Mrs. O'Hara accuses Joyce of friendliness with her husband during a ship dancing party.

CHAPTER IX

The Empress was due to land at Nassau in the Bahamas early Thursday morning. All day Monday and Tuesday, the weather had been mild and clear, without a cloud in the sky to dim the colorful beauty of Bermuda. But late on Wednesday afternoon the ship rode through a series of sudden, tropical squalls, sending the passengers scuttling off decks.

The rains came up suddenly, almost without warning. At 3:30 Joyce and Dick and several other young people were swimming about in the outside pool, marveling at the warmth of the water being pumped in from the Gulf Stream. Then, quite suddenly, the water began to chill, and 10 minutes later the sun was hidden behind a wide, deepening range of dark clouds which had appeared from nowhere.

"I guess that's the end of our swimming," Dick remarked, pulling Joyce up the ladder. "The thermometer must have dropped 20 degrees in the last few minutes."

She climbed over the edge of the pool and wrapped herself quickly in a large bath towel. Now the rain was pouring down upon them in torrents.

"You'll be sneezing at dinner again tonight," she warned Dick. "I will not!" he contradicted with emphasis. "It's an allergy . . ."

Across the deck they heard Mrs. O'Hara's peevish voice raising a fuss with one of the deck stewards because he couldn't move her chair quickly enough.

"There's someone else on the boat who has an allergy," Joyce remarked grimly.

Dick grinned. "Don't tell me she can't eat lemons!"

"No. It's more personal. I think she's allergic to me."

"What does that mean?"

"I don't understand myself. But every time she looks at me she has a seizure."

"I can explain it," he said. His eyes rested on Joyce, trim and youthful and eager, lovely to look at even in the distorting folds of a Turkish towel. "Every time she looks at you she sees a picture of what she'd like to be."

Next morning the weather was worse, if anything, with heavy easterly winds churning up the waves. At the breakfast table Dr. Gray held out little hope that they would touch at Nassau that day.

Joyce's face clouded for an instant. "I did want to see Nassau," she admitted.

"It's terribly disappointing, really it is," Isobel assured her with superiority. "Except for the British Colonial Hotel and Dirty Dick's, there's not a thing in Nassau. And Paradise Beach—it's a joke."

Dick smiled. "The whole trouble is that we New Yorkers compare every beach in the world with Jones Beach. We're spoiled."

"What is Dirty Dick's?" Joyce asked.

"A saloon," Isobel said flatly. The doctor shook his head. "Oh, come now, Miss Porter, it's better than that." To Joyce he explained: "I guess you'd call it Nassau's 'hot spot.' A friend of mine is the proprietor, one of the finest gentlemen I've ever met. It's a great gathering place for tourists."

"Sort of a night club?" Joyce inquired.

"Not exactly. Though you can have your own entertainment. There's always a darky about, with a guitar in his arms and rhythm in his feet, ready to serenade one through the open windows."

"And the famous song of the islands," Dick added, "is a soulful ballad called 'Mama no want no rice nor beans nor cocoanut oil.'"

Dr. Gray laughed. "It must have 50 different verses. . . . We'll have the orchestra play it tonight, Miss Milner, so you won't feel so completely cheated out of Nassau."

Nevertheless, she did regret missing it. The Empress skirted the island, and through binoculars the passengers were able to get only a fair view of certain points of interest.

The morning brought its bright spot of good fortune to Joyce, to make up for the treachery of the weather:

Mrs. Porter, with an extra day to fill in with entertainment, hastened to arrange a bingo party in the main lounge.

rain continued, an undercurrent of irritation developed among the passengers. They chafed at the weather and made a big disaster of their disappointment that they had come this far and not visited Nassau. What was the matter? Why couldn't the captain enter the harbor from another angle? Why did they advertise a stop at Nassau? The ship was a veritable kindergarten of spoiled children who could not go out in the rain to play. Most of the men had drifted to the smoking room, to seek consolation in tall glasses, and there the steward kept them, contented with new and improved games of chance.

Noticing the apparent cheer in that quarter, Mrs. Porter hurried to the main lounge, where the other passengers sulked and commiserated with her.

If the games work for the men, she was thinking, perhaps we'd better get up something like that for the women. It couldn't be bingo again; not after the whole morning session of it. Perhaps the women always enjoyed that. It was better out on deck, of course, where there was ample room, but it was worth the effort, even though it crowded a few people back to the wall.

So long strips of canvas were laid down on top of the carpet, and the whole length of the lounge became a track where wooden horses were raced along the marked canvas in paces determined by the fall of the dice. Spectators crowded the room on either side of the canvas strips, and at times when the Empress hit an especially strong wave, they threatened to topple over on top of the horses. But it was amusement and there was always the chance of winning, and contentment reigned again.

"You might as well take another chance," Dick advised Joyce as they watched the game through the window. "This is your lucky day."

"And risk my $22?" Joyce demanded with a touch of Aunt Martha's practical Yankee shrewdness. "Besides," she pointed out, seeing how people were crowded back to the wall, and sitting cross-legged right up to the very edge of the canvas, "there's not room for a mouse to squeeze in there."

"We'll find a spot," Dick promised her.

They went into the lounge, and because Mr. Hamilton was a good patron of every ship's game, the steward managed to discover a few inches of floor space, close to the canvas, where they, too, might sit cross-legged and play their ponies.

"I'll take No. 6," Dick decided, as the next race was called. "What about you, Joyce?"

"I don't expect two good fortunes in one day," she decided. "So I'll take No. 6, too, and let you keep the winnings."

Now the bets were all in, and the race was on. Five and one, the first throw of the dice brought forth. So Horse No. 5 moved forward one pace on the canvas. Six and two, said the dice. And their horse moved up two paces. Soon all six horses were half-way down the track, directly in front of where they sat, and Horse No. 6 was closest to them, and lagging behind the others.

Underneath her weight, Joyce felt pins and needles in her left foot, and she shifted to the right. "I'd be more comfortable," Dick remarked, "if I'd been raised in a harem. Sitting on chairs makes a fellow soft."

He started to shift, too. And the Empress shifted with him, and because they shifted Joyce's way, her sleeping left foot skidded out from under her.

"Another such shift," she cautioned, "and I'll be riding our horse at the finish."

They laughed and settled back into their square inches.

Immediately a voice which Joyce was beginning to associate with disaster called out from somewhere behind them.

"Wait a minute, steward!" Mrs. O'Hara ordered sharply. "Those people in front are cheating. Their horse is No. 6 and I saw that girl deliberately kick it forward."

Joyce looked at the canvas. True, their horse had slipped forward another pace. She must have kicked it, not noticing because her foot was numb.

"Sorry, steward," Dick called cheerily, moving the wooden horse back. "I meant to kick it over the goal line."

Mrs. O'Hara's caustic tongue disturbed him not at all; in fact, recalling the picture of a large dripping woman being pulled aboard, he saw only the humor of the situation. Her intimation that he tried to cheat just did not register in his honest mind, so he could not be offended.

But Joyce, feeling the sharp eyes upon her, flushed uneasily. She could almost hear the curious whispers behind her back. "That's the same girl she pulled away from her husband last night . . . didn't you see it?"

DECLARER LOSES THIRTEEN Weak Hand Further Damaged Here by Opponents' Brilliant Defensive Play

While the tendency in playing rubber bridge is to strengthen the high card requirements for an opening bid, many duplicate players are inclined to lighten the required strength of high cards for making the first bid. They consider that the chance to speak first should never be passed lightly, and that the lighter the hand, if it has the semblance of a bid, the more essential it is to bid before an opponent has made a call which may be difficult to overcall with safety.

Opening bids should have a sound basis in defense, so that the partner may have some sound rule to guide him in determining his course should the opponents decide to sacrifice. Here, as a horrible example of a light opening bid, which resulted in spectacular disaster, I cite the hand discussed today.

While South had a weak hand, he felt that his opening bid was fairly safe. Rarely is the double of a bid of one left in for penalties.

but this was such a case. East won the spade return with the ace and returned the diamond five. South finessed and West's king won.

A diamond return was ruffed by East, who now led the spade nine. South should have conceded the trick, but ruffed with the six of trumps and West won with the nine.

East won the diamond return with the trump three. He led the jack of spades, and South trumped with the eight. West winning with the ten of trumps.

Now West led a low club, which East won with the king and returned a low club. West winning with the ten and then cashing the ace. The club jack was ruffed in dummy, but East overruffed.

Now, with everyone down to two cards, East underled the ace of trumps. South, who had not taken a trick, played the jack and West took the trick with the queen.

East's ace, of course, won the last trick. South, down seven at a contract of one for a penalty of 2,000 points, thereupon decided to strengthen his requirements for opening bids, especially when vulnerable.

PLANS LAID FOR EASTER SERVICE

Community Sunrise Program 6:30 Sunday at Stadium

"Alleluia! Christ is Risen!" will be the theme of the Sunrise Service at the stadium on Easter morning at 6:30 o'clock. It is requested that all who plan to attend, both those who participate in the program as well as those who worship from the stadium, be present before the hour of worship so that all will be in readiness when the hour of service approaches.

The rising sun at the background, and the morning sky as a gorgeous canopy, will complete the scene.

The combined choirs of the churches of about fifty voices will sing several resurrection hymns from a cross formation on the field. Rev. George B. King, pastor of the First Baptist church, will give a brief Easter message. A public address system will be installed so that all parts of the program can be heard distinctly.

FIRE PERMITS BEING ISSUED

Early Burning Is Urged By Forest Service Office Here

The early spring break-up and continued mild weather brought an early fire season, the Forest Service office here has announced. Cooks tower is now up and Steuben tower is being manned by the Forest Service. At the same time Steuben tower also operates a fire weather station which makes daily weather observations which are wired each morning to Chicago and are the basis for their predictions of fire weather.

Many burning permits have been issued this week to local people as conditions have been favorable for burning grassland, debris and brush piles which they wish to clean up. It is required of everyone who wishes to burn grass, debris and slash to have burning permits as the snow has entirely left the ground.

Burning permits can be obtained on the Manistique district in the following manner: By request at John Nepper's store at Isabella, who will call in to the Ranger Station, 92, for the permit. They can also be obtained at Isabella by contacting local keymen, Henry and Jacob Landis. In Cooks permits can be obtained by calling Cooks tower or by contacting George Gray at Cooks telephone exchange, or by direct contact of Cooks fire guard, Axel Mortensen.

Steuben area can obtain permits by calling Steuben tower or calling to the Manistique Ranger Station from Mrs. Hughson at Steuben. Permits may also be obtained by dropping a card addressed to Forest Ranger, Manistique, or call Ranger Station, 92. In any case it is necessary to tell the correct land description for which permit will be used and also kind of material to be burned and approximate acreage.

As the fire season advances there may be times when the weather is real dry or high winds are blowing that it will not be advisable to issue permits for a day or two. Therefore it is recommended that all permit burning be done now in the early part of the season when they can be readily controlled and give no difficulty. The public cooperation has been splendid in this so far and it is felt they will continue to work with us in our fire control program.

Manistique Council Will Meet Tonight

Appointment of a fifth member of the Manistique city council and the election of a mayor, major pro tem and member of the board of supervisors are matters scheduled for consideration at an adjourned meeting of the council at the city hall today at 2 p. m. The adjourned regular meeting was called last night, but lacked a quorum. Councilmen Dahms and Abrahamson were the only members present.

An informal meeting was held Thursday to discuss filling the vacancy on the council, but no agreement was reached. Appointment of supervisors must be completed today, because of a meeting of the county board Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Stephens left yesterday for Cleveland where they will spend ten days with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kanowski.

Public Must Aid To Combat T-B, Says Dr. Brenner

Public health authorities, well aware of the stupidity and tendency to procrastinate inherent in a large proportion of the population, are nevertheless amazed at the indifference of many who show, superficially at least, all the signs of early tuberculosis. Extensive and early campaigns have been launched to emphasize the fact that such indifference is suicidal. Elaborate programs have been formulated for determining the presence and extent of the disease in its early stages. Institutions have been established and are being maintained at public expense to treat victims and restore them to social usefulness.

Yet the response to these educational drives and campaigns of severance has been discouraging.

If the individual with active tuberculosis harmed only himself through failure to submit to diagnostic tests and proper treatment, the situation would not be nearly as deplorable as it really is. But ignorance and neglect is not merely suicidal; it is homicidal. Every infected individual can and generally does infect a large percentage of those with whom he lives in long and close contact. Perhaps in this fact lies the remedy. Perhaps it may be possible, ultimately, to regard failure to report tuberculosis symptoms as a felony for which society may inflict appropriate punishment.

As yet, that possibility is remote. Physicians and public health officers must continue, often without much hope of result, to call attention to the significance of:

A dry, hacking cough at night and early morning even without expectation. Loss of weight, strength and appetite together with frequent attacks of dyspnea.

Pallor, nausea, vomiting, heartburn with rise of temperature in the afternoon, especially about 4 p. m.

Increase in pulse rate at rest and on exertion.

Enlargement of glands in the neck or beneath the armpits. Frequent pains in the chest or on breathing.

A hoarse or husky voice. Two other common symptoms of the disease, usually marking its later stages are shortness of breath on exertion and the expectoration of bright-red blood.

AIRMAIL WEEK PLANS PUSHED

Manistique Will Participate in Special Promotion

According to information received by Postmaster Frank M. Gierke from the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, a concerted movement is being made to put the Upper Peninsula of Michigan "over the top" during National Air Mail Week, May 15 to 21.

National Air Mail Week has been designated as a means of marking the 38th anniversary of the historic flight of the Wright brothers at Kittyhawk, North Carolina, and also for the purpose of commemorating the 20th anniversary of the establishment of national air mail service.

According to information received from Col. Evans of the State Department of Aeronautics, Upper Peninsula pilots will be commissioned to make "pick ups" of air mail on Thursday, May 19, at the following airports: Ontonagon, Iron Mountain, Crystal Falls, Iron River, Watermeet, Norway, Houghton, Hancock, Calumet, Marquette, Ishpeming, Negaunee, Ironwood, Ewen, Sidsaw, Escanaba, Manistique, Menominee, Gladstone, Blaney, Newberry, St. Ignace, Munising and Sault Ste. Marie. These "pick ups" will be arranged so that mail can reach authorized south bound air mail transports at noon on Thursday, May 19.

The pilots will be properly sworn in for the day by the post office authorities. The entire expense of the "pick up service" is estimated at about $300, which will be pro rated at about $15 per town. In Manistique, civic organizations will be requested to contribute to this fund to permit this city to participate in the program.

A special cachet envelope will be designed as to be applicable to the Upper Peninsula as a whole, portraying the playground of the region. Manistique has already expressed its intention of participating in the program.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Crowe, who have been visiting in Knoxville, Tenn., for the past two months returned to the city Tuesday evening. While in the south they drove to Florida and along the Gulf coast to New Orleans returning by way of Memphis and the Tennessee valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Burns, M-94, are the parents of a 9 pound son, Macklin John, born Thursday, April 14.

Edwin Morrison has returned from Hot Springs and Chicago where he has spent the past eight weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. William Marin and son of Cheboygan and William Morrison of Munising are expected today to spend the week-end here at the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Morrison, Walnut street.

THEATRES

After playing at the Rialto theatre where it has been entertain- ing audiences immensely, "The Old Wyoming Trail", star- ring Charles Starrett, is leaving today. It tells a thrilling story of days when unscrupulous men tried to grow rich overnight by acquiring land by any means necessary. Featured in the cast with Starrett are Barbara Weeks, Donald Grayson, the single sen- sation, the Sons of the Pioneers, radio favorites, Art Mix, Dick Curtis, Ed Le Saint, Guy Usher and George Chesbro.

Second Feature A thrilling and courageous story of the billion-dollar slot machine racket in a big city, brought Claire Trevor, Lloyd Nolan and Akim Tamiroff to the screen of the Rialto theatre last night in "King of Gamblers".

With Tamiroff in the title role, the story daringly shows the link between the racket and officials in high places who receive a "cut" in the steady stream of profits from the "one armed bandits", as the slot machines are known to the underworld and the con- nection between this racket with other gangland activities.

Managers Debate Opening Game Pitching Choices

LEAGUE PILOTS PICK BEST BETS

Tommy Bridges Probable Tiger Starter; Grimm Not Decided

BY SID FEDER
New York, April 15. (AP)—Aces will be led from most big league decks for opening day pitching assignments next week, but Burleigh Grimes is going to do something different. He's calling on the "money" card, old Waite Hoyt, to go for Brooklyn.

Boiling Bolly passed Van Mungo, Freddy Fitzsimmons, and rookies Forest Pressnell and Bill Posedel to pick old Waite to take the first trick from the Phillies Tuesday. It will be the start of Waite's 51st year in the big leagues and his 67th game.

Otherwise, the big league pilots are putting their best pitching foot forward for the play ball signal Monday and Tuesday. Three of the nominees, Dizzy Dean for the Cardinals, Cy Blanton for the Pirates and Wes Ferrell for the Senators, are "repeaters" who on the same honor a year ago, although Ferrell then sported the Boston Red Sox colors.

Having Tough Time

Two others, Lefty Gomez of the Yankees and Hal Schumacher of the Giants, also may go to the post for the second straight time. Manager Joe McCarthy, however, may pick Red Ruffing for the world champions' debut against the Red Sox in Boston Monday, and let Lefty wait until the Yanks open their home park here Friday.

Terrible Bill Terry, too, thought about a week ago that Schumacher would get the call for his National league pennant winners, but right now he figures Cliff Melton is in better condition to go against the Boston Bees.

Three other pilots also are having a tough time making up their minds. Mickey Cochrane has about settled on Tommy Bridges to work against the Chicago White Sox at Chicago Tuesday.

Jolly Cholly Grimm hasn't quite decided yet on Tex Carleton, or his young ace of last year, Clay Bryant, and Connie Mack will either call on Harry Kelley or Bill Kalfass, likely looking rookies.

Here's the way the lineup looks now, with the pitchers' 1937 won-lost records:

MONDAY

American League
New York at Boston—Gomez (21-11) or Ruffing (20-7) vs. Wilson (16-10).

Philadelphia at Washington—Kelley (13-21) or Kalfass (1-0) vs. W. Ferrell (14-19).

TUESDAY

National League
Detroit at Chicago—Bridges (15-12) vs. Whitehead (11-8).

St. Louis at Cleveland—Newsum (16-14) vs. Allen (15-1).

RUN OF HOMERS BEATS BENGALS

Training Slate to Wind Up Sunday in Tilt at Cincinnati

Springfield, O., April 15. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers continued to be "cousins" of the Cincinnati Reds here today, losing an exhibition baseball game, 10 to 7, during a roar of eight home runs.

It was the fifth win for the Reds in six training games with Detroit this season. The teams meet at Dayton tomorrow and then wind up their training slates at Cincinnati Sunday.

The Springfield park is considerably short of major league dimensions and was the direct cause of the home run epidemic, although the pitching was not exactly of airtight variety.

The four Tigers to hit homers were Hank Greenberg, Roy Culenbine, Rudy York and Charley Gehring. Greenberg, who now has hit four homers in two days, drove out the best blow when he pasted the ball over the center field wall in the seventh.

The Cincinnati siege guns were Ival Goodman, who drove out two homers, and Virgil Davis and Billy Meyers.

Auker Hit Hard

Detroit's pitching was shared by Elden Auker and Cletus Poffenberger. Auker toiled seven frames and allowed all of the Reds' 12 hits. Opposing the Tigers were a pair of southpaws, Lee Grissom and Johnny Vander Meer. Grissom worked the first four frames and Vander Meer finished.

Detroit started well with a four run assault in the first. Cullenbine walked and scored on Gehring's homer after Fred Walker had popped. Greenberg then walked and tallied on York's homer.

Auker stopped the Reds cold in the first three innings but was touched for three runs in the fourth. Harry Craft doubled, Bill Jordan singled and Davis hit a homer.

The Reds continued the attack in the fourth and went in front to stay on a four-run drive. Goodman led off with a homer. Bobby Riggs and Dusty Cooke singled. Craft and Jordan were retired but Davis homered again to bat in three runs.

Goodman hit his homer in the next inning to settle matters. The Tigers tried valiantly to catch up but weren't quite able to make the grade.

Score by innings:
Detroit (A) 400 000 210—7 12 1
Cincinnati (N) 000 311 208—10 12 1
000 311 208—10 12 1

Pitchers Hit Hard In Senator Victory

Washington, April 15 (AP)—The Senators hit Baltimore's pitchers at will today, beating the International leaguers, 9 to 1.

New men played a big part in Washington's victory. Leonard gave up but 8 hits and Outfielder Case hit 2 doubles and a single and stole second and third base in succession. Zeke Bonura got three doubles.

TENTH FOR PHILS

Danville, Va., April 15 (AP)—The Phillies today extended their best winning streak in 10 years, walloping the Danville club of the bi-state league, 15 to 3, for their 10th straight triumph. Chuck Klein, Morris Aronovich, Bill Atwood and Gene Corgett hit homers for the Phils.

Fair Enough

Competing against some of the best women shots in America, pretty Eleanor Lum, shown drawing a bead on a target, won the national women's amateur small bore rifle championship. Representing Beaver College of Jenkintown, Pa., Miss Lum, a resident of Madison, N. J., scored 599 out of a possible 600 shots.

Fans of Gastonia, N. C. knew better than to hold a "Buddy Lewis Day" when the Senators and Bees played an exhibition game there... They staged an official welcome for him last spring and Buddy made two errors, hurt his hand on a grounder that took a bad bounce and went hitless.

CUBS HUMBLLED BY SOX, 5 TO 4

Five Walks and 4 Hits Put Game on Ice in Two Innings

Chicago, April 15 (AP)—Combining five walks and four hits for all of their runs in the first two innings, the Chicago White Sox downed the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 4, today in the opening contest of a three-game city series duel. The battle was called in the last half of the eighth inning because of rain.

The Cubs' offense functioned effectively only in the third stanza when three runs scored on four hits and a walk. Tony Lazzeri appeared as a pinch-batter for Carleton in the eighth and was called out on strikes.

Either War Admiral or Seabiscuit Will Win $100,000

New York, April 15 (AP)—The match race between War Admiral and Seabiscuit was signed, sealed and delivered officially to Belmont Park today when the two owners, Samuel Riddle and Charles S. Howard, agreed to terms for the $100,000 duel on Decoration Day.

Under terms of the agreement for the mile and a quarter race, the winner will take all of the purse—the second richest in the history of the American turf. Whichever won a $105,730 purse in the 1935 Belmont Futurity. Each horse will carry 126 pounds, one less than scale weight for May.

The owners must inform the Westchester Racing association by 10 a. m. on May 30 that track conditions are satisfactory and that they will start their horses irrespective of what might happen after that time. If track conditions make a postponement necessary, the race will be run on the first day agreeable to the owners thereafter but not later than June 3.

The start of the race will be made out of a chute, so that the horses will have to negotiate only one curve. This means the start will not be visible to a part of the crowd of 50,000 expected to attend unless field glasses are used. However, it will give the contestants a half-mile run before taking the big curve leading into the home stretch.

Influenza and the common cold are responsible for nearly half the time lost to industry through illness.

Luecke Approves Relief Measure

Washington, D. C.—"Heaven help the poor sucker that is out of a job and will have to rely on relief this fall and winter if Congress doesn't pass adequate relief appropriations," Representative John Luecke announced today.

Luecke said he would await developments as regards the President's plan to make almost three billion dollars available for relief purposes before deciding on which projects he would push forward.

As a matter of fact the Congressman felt apprehensive about the entire relief measure, and didn't deem it at all impossible that the bill would not be passed because of the many reactionaries in Congress.

Many Democrats with almost all of the Republicans in the House feel that there is no need for further relief appropriations. If they prove as strong and as numerous as the group which defeated the president's reorganization bill, this coming fall and winter will be a tough one on those who now rely on relief, Luecke explained.

Interesting Items of Day Picked Up Around Town

MAIN STREETERS, who picked up their copies of the magazine TIME yesterday, were surprised to find a story about the Escanaba Smelt Jamboree on page 48. The story reads as follows:

The smelt takes its name not from its peculiar cucumber-like smell but from Anglo-Saxon smelt ("bright and shining"). It is a small, slender fish with a silvery belly and an olive-green back. Fried like a doughnut in deep fat, it is a distinct delicacy.

When smelts are running, they run in enormous schools, can be easily scooped up in hand nets. Last week 20,000 curious tourists were welcomed with open arms by the 15,000 natives of Escanaba, Mich., for that city's fourth annual smelt jamboree.

Each spring since 1918, when Benzie County (Mich.) Clerk Newt Ely found the creek near his house green with smelt struggling upstream from Lake Michigan to spawn, fishermen have flocked to the banks around the Great Lakes, have taken in 8,000,000 pounds of smelt annually. Soft-spoken, bespectacled William J. Duchaine, managing editor of the Escanaba Daily-Press and the town's unofficial pressagent, sniffed a chance for the town to recoup its losses in local mining and lumbering declines. Having initiated Escanabans to profit-making outdoor fun with logrolling contests, deer hunters' powwows, he sold the town its first smelt jamboree in 1935. Scooping smelt from streams has never concerned him as much as scooping up tourists. Wryly he says: "It has not yet been determined whether smelt in the Great Lakes are a curse or a blessing."

Last week the 1938 jamboree opened with a Graustarkian comic opera entitled Smeltania, followed by the coronation of a Smelt King & Queen. Next day jamboreers jammed banquets, watched smelt-eating contests, sang an official smelt jamboree song, learned to dance "the smelt run", a cross between the shag and the big apple. At week's end the festival wound up with an afternoon parade and a mammoth bonfire at a nearby river. To this last flocked natives and visitors alike, armed to the ears with butterfly nets, bird cages, sieves, kitchen strainers, washtubs and burlap bags, for the season's wildest smelt-dip.

With more than a million readers, TIME magazine gave some very valuable publicity to

COLLECTION TO START MONDAY

Annual Spring Garbage Clean-Up Is Begun; Rules Listed

Collection of garbage from city homes by the city employees will begin Monday morning, City Engineer A. V. Aronson said yesterday. In making the announcement of the resumption of the garbage collection service, Aronson issued a reminder of rules governing the service.

Garbage containers must not be larger than 30 gallon capacity. This regulation was designed to prevent injury to employees required to lift the containers onto the trucks.

The containers must be tightly covered and must be placed in the alley. It is pointed out that too much time is wasted when the containers are placed elsewhere and collectors must look around for them or open and close gates.

No holes may be punched in the bottom of the containers and garbage cannot be placed in baskets nor boxes.

All garbage must be wrapped and containers must have at least one handle. Containers also must have tops equal to the circumference of it in order to insure easy emptying.

A Daily Press reporter of Swedish extraction but with unmistakable signs of the sod of Erin in his makeup (especially the shade of his top appendage) was accosted on the street yesterday by a stranger.

"Say, buddy," said the stranger, "you look like a good Irishman. How do you spell Callaghan?"

"C-a-l-l-a-g-h-a-n," hesitatingly came the answer.

"Oh, there is a 'G' in it," asked the stranger.

Assured that there was, the stranger ambled off, mumbling to himself.

Escanaba Harbor Report Will Be Given New Study

Washington, D. C.—The board of army engineers for rivers and harbors will discuss the unfavorable report on improvement of Escanaba Harbor, Michigan, at a special meeting April 18, it was stated here today by officials of the board.

Although Col. L. V. Frazier, division engineer for the Great Lakes, recommended against the improvement and stated that he thought no further surveys of the project were necessary, the board will pass upon the report in closed session and forward it to the chief of army engineers with its comments.

The chief of engineers in turn will submit the report to congress which authorized the preliminary investigation in the River and Harbor Act of August 26, 1937. Usually he is guided by the decision of the rivers and harhors board in his own recommendations. Col. Frazier, ruling against the project, stated that he thought the benefits from the improvement of the harbor would not justify the large expenditure, and that additional facilities when necessary could be provided by enlargement of the existing fish boat basin by local interests at a comparatively minor expense.
