

BIG CUT MADE IN PHILIPPINE EXPENSE BILL

He contended the proposed expansion of the United States fleet might cost far more than the $1,156,000,000 which officials have estimated, and warned that sound national credit was "just as vital a part of the national defense as a navy."

Vandenberg and other critics of the administration program held the floor most of the day, but Senator Connally (D-Texas), entered the debate briefly to declare the legislation was democracy's answer to "land-grabbing, swash-buckling dictators."

The Michigan Republican said, on the other hand, that the bill called for a "super navy" for which "there is absolutely no justification."

"If we arm to be impregnable against all other powers," Vandenberg shouted, "then even the super navy would not be enough. We would need a super super navy—and no one has even dared to mention that."

Ratio Tempts Rivalry Discussing an arms limitation conference, he said that if the old 5-5-3 ratio of naval strength for the United States, Great Britain and Japan were tossed overboard a "free conference" could be conducted.

"Any realist will recognize that reliance on the old 5-5-3 ratio is not justified today," Vandenberg said. Such a ratio only promoted international jealousies and tempted nations to build navies beyond treaty limits, he added.

Both Vandenberg and Senator Bone (D-Wash.), said the naval expansion program might cost much more than $1,156,000,000. Bone said the program might cost $2,000,000,000 "by the time we pick * * * bids out of the air."

Vandenberg and Senator Lundeen (R-Minn.), estimated that the proposed program, together with existing authorizations for navy shipbuilding, might entail a $4,000,000,000 outlay.

Interrupting his debate, the senate approved a conference report on the $546,866,000 regular naval supply bill. That appropriation measure goes now to the White House.

TIPS ON BANANA BUYING

Bananas intended for shipping are harvested while still green and allowed to ripen after picking. This method does not in the least detract from the flavor or food value of the fruit. When buying bananas select plump, full-grown fruit, the skins rich red or yellow dotted with brown. A full, plump banana indicates that the fruit was allowed to mature longer before picking and it therefore has a more mellow flavor. Avoid bruised fruit or fruit that has a dark, discolored skin with soft, mushy flesh or moldy spots on the skins. Bananas which have been frosted have darkish skins and less flavor. This fruit is high in food value and comparatively inexpensive all year around.

The investment in road and equipment per mile of U. S. railroads is estimated at $105,451, now the highest in their history.

Was Wise Decision When She Decided To Try The KruGon

Had Not Known What A Good Night Rest Was For Many Years; Unbearable Pains of Rheumatism Driven From Her Body.

"Only those who have suffered as I have can understand what this new KruGon has meant to me," said Mrs. George Hornick, 104 Hinman Street, Marshfield, Wisconsin. "I had been in a miserable condition for so long with rheumatism, was badly constipated, had dizzy spells and headaches continually. I put every known medicine to the test in my case and met with failure time and again. My body was so full of pain I could hardly stand it and could not rest or sleep for my disordered kidneys constantly disturbed me. My stomach would not digest my foods properly, I lost weight and strength, lost my pep and energy and felt miserable... until I learned of KruGon and decided to give it a trial.

"It is actually remarkable what KruGon accomplished for me," continued Mrs. Hornick. "Those awful rheumatic pains have been driven from my body, kidneys and stomach are regulated and even my stubborn case of constipation yielded easily to this new remedy. I got up of a morning refreshed and with renewed strength and energy. I eat and enjoy my meals too, am gaining in weight and am convinced that no one who gives KruGon a trial could help but be a 'booster' for it."

KruGon is sold by West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., this city.

COUNCILMEN IN LONG MEETING

Firemen Request Raise; Proposed Waterplant Is Discussed

For more than three hours last night, members of the city council considered a slate of more or less routine business matters which had accumulated over a period of two weeks. Well populated when the meeting began, the council chambers found only eight loyal stragglers when the session was concluded near midnight.

A grievance committee of the firemen's union presented a demand for a salary increase greater than the $5 being considered in the proposed budget for next year. The committee struck somewhat of a snag in their demand, however, being informed by the council that their request was untimely, in view of the fact that the fire department had received greater consideration in salary and working conditions than any other city department.

While the firemen urged that they have not received pay increases comparable with the rest of the city employes, City Manager Bean and members of the council pointed out that last year the firemen accepted the two platoon system in lieu of a 10 per cent raise. After considerable argumentation, the firemen were told that their raises would come when city finances warranted and would be similar to those of the rest of the city employes.

Discuss Waterplant M. R. MacNamee, representative of a firm of consulting engineers, discussed general features and costs for the proposed waterplant. He said one could be constructed with WPA labor for about $275,000 over a period of four years.

The council passed a resolution to be sent to the Interstate Commerce Commission asking that the mail contracts should not be taken away from the Soo Line in order to insure retention of trains 88 and 87 from Gladstone to Sault Ste. Marie.

Ivar Johnson was advised that he would have until fall to dispose of the contents of his ice house on the outskirts of the city near the railroad underpass to remove the building. The move was requested by taxpayers from surrounding territory.

No action was taken on the traffic and safety commission's suggestion that one-half hour parking between 2 a. m. and 6 a. m. be continued throughout the summer months in order to prevent a congested condition. The suggestion was referred back to the commission for further consideration.

Fire Truck Available An assurance was given Wells township that the city fire trucks would be available on call at the regular rate of $15 per hour.

Request for a water main on the 2400 block on Ludington street was referred to City Engineer A. V. Aronson for investigation. Aronson also was instructed to prepare cost and specifications for paving the 900 block on South 15th and laying sidewalks between Ninth and Twelfth avenues on North 18th street.

Club license renewals were granted to the B. P. O. E. and Escanaba Golf club while a dance permit was given Charles Bonamer.

The council approved an arrangement whereby Dr. H. J. Defnet would be given free office room in return for caring for city compensation cases.

A letter of appreciation from the Delta county ERA commission for the splendid work of the city fire department in controlling the fire which damaged the relief offices several weeks ago was read.

A resolution was adopted urging granting of leniency to borderline cases on relief.

City Manager George Bean reported that utility collections for the first three months of this year were $4,820.79 greater than for a corresponding period of last year. No action was taken on renting the tourist park for another year.

At It Again

Preparing for a tennis campaign that will include the Wimbledon tournament for her eighth appearance in the British women's championships, Helen Wills Moody is shown above as she arrived in New York on the first leg of her trip abroad. The well-known "little poker face" refused to predict how she would fare in international play.

Puzzle: Find the Candidate

Flashing his best campaign smile, Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio is pictured above surrounded by cheering supporters at Youngstown, O., where he announced that he would be a candidate for re-election. Although Davey had launched his campaign in the steel city as a defiant gesture toward his arch-enemy John L. Lewis and the C.I.O., he surprised the crowd of 3500 by not once mentioning Lewis or the labor body. Davey was in the headlines last summer when he repudiated the strike-bound Youngstown steel mills under the protection of the national guard.

RAIN AND COLD HARASS TURKS

Survivors Of Earthquake In Desperate Plight; 1,000 Killed

Ankara, Turkey, April 21 (AP)—Biting cold and almost continual rain tonight added to the desperate plight of tens of thousands of survivors of earthquakes which devastated a prosperous area of central Turkey and killed nearly 1,000 persons.

The government dispatched scores of planes carrying physicians, nurses and relief workers to the distressed regions. Shipments of blankets, tents, clothing, food and medicine were hastened by air and rail.

Thousands of persons saw their homes leveled by series of tremors that made Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday periods of terror. Eighteen villages were destroyed and 22 others badly damaged. Whole families were buried alive.

Underground rumbling through a wide area of western Asia bordering on the Aegean sea accompanied the shocks. Gaping crevices appeared.

Salvage and relief squads were organized throughout the stricken area. The greatest damage and loss of life occurred about Kirsehr, Yozgad and Tokorum.

The whole country responded readily to an appeal for relief funds.

MURPHY PLANS MORE HOUSING

Governor Interested In Extending Benefits Of Legislation

Lansing, April 21. (AP)—Governor Frank Murphy indicated today he is interested in extending the low cost housing act to increase home construction in the major cities of the state.

Declaring that the 1933 legislation should broaden the act to this end, Murphy criticized the lackadaisical program of the Detroit housing commission. Detroit is the only city in the state eligible for assistance under the existing act.

However, the governor turned a cool shoulder to the suggestion of Rep. George G. Sadowski, chairman of the Michigan Democratic delegation in the house, that he call a special session of the legislature to clip the Detroit commission's authority. The governor said the Detroit body is a local agency, responsible to the mayor.

Under Murphy's announcement, the housing program would be extended to Flint, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Muskegon, Lansing, and cities of similar size.

The governor reiterated his belief that a guaranteed annual wage for labor and a low cost housing program would be of prime benefit to the American people in the next ten years.

Theatres

AT THE DELFT "Maid's Night Out" and "Casey of Bar 20" are features at the Delft theatre today and Saturday.

A double case of mistaken identity leads to amusing complications and motivates much of the hilarious action in "Maid's Night Out," RKO Radio's romantic comedy with Joan Fontaine and Allan Lane in the leading roles.

Miss Fontaine is seen as the daughter of a fortune-hunting society mother, while Lane portrays the role of a young scientist interested in the study of tropical fish.

Through a series of unusual circumstances, the two meet while the boy is fulfilling the terms of a unique wager by working as a milkman in his father's dairy. Although she is engaged to a rich young man of her mother's choice, the young lady falls in-love with her milkman, never realizing he is a scion of wealth, while he in turn falls in love with her, thinking she is a maid.

Romance hits Hopalong Cassidy again in his latest adventure story, "Casey of Bar 20", but, in line with his good luck of the past, the stalwart rancher escapes cupid's well-thrown lasso at the last minute.

William Boyd playing the role of the Clarence S. Mulford hero has made famous, runs into high adventure when a gang of rustlers tries to overrun the ranch of his lifetime sweetheart, Nora Lane. Hopalong and his buckaroos from Bar 20 answer her call for help.

The love story is woven into a hard-riding, red-blooded story of rustlers-wars on the frontier.

AT THE MICHIGAN

Based on a young doctor's redemption of a girl convict at a women's prison, "Condemned Women" comes to the Michigan Theatre screen as what has been acclaimed one of the strongest and most dramatic film offerings in recent months.

Sally Eilers, Louis Hayward and Anne Shirley head the cast of the picture, which discloses much of the plotting and "politics" that take place in such institutions.

Hayward, as the doctor who is pursuing his psychiatric studies among the inmates, is attracted to Miss Eilers, a sultry and embittered girl who has lost all ambition.

How his interest in her awakens her to a new life, and in turn leads to her gripping sacrifice to keep from wrecking his professional career, make up the action theme of this unusual film, which reaches tense dramatic heights in its thrilling prison break and in the girl's subsequent trial.

City Is Restrained From Selling Coal

Munising, April 21—The city of Munising was forced to discontinue the sale of coal here yesterday afternoon when Sheriff Louis Pelletier served an injunction on City Clerk William L. Dore restraining the city from the sale of coal direct to consumers. City Commissioners Nelson and Burrows and Mayor John Hannah also served notice of the injunction.

Serving of the injunction was the outgrowth of the year old case between the city of Munising and the Munising Coal company in which the city was ordered to refrain from the sale of coal. In a verbal agreement with the city last fall after the supreme court decision had been given, Walter A. Toebe of the coal company agreed that they would not serve the injunction if the city adopted the same price level as the coal company. This would enable the city to dispose of the stock which they had on hand.

Saturday the city commission lowered the price of the city coal, voting to carry the case to the United States supreme court, and the injunction was served today. The city has about 1400 tons of coal on hand.

GAME PERMITS SEE INCREASE

More Folks Hunted and Fished in State Than Before

Lansing—More people hunted and fished in Michigan last year than ever before in the history of the state, tabulations at the department of conservation show.

Sale of virtually all types of hunting and fishing licenses reached an all-time high in 1937, giving proof of both improved economic conditions and the increasing popularity of Michigan as an outdoor recreational state.

More than 600,000 fishing licenses, more than 485,000 small game hunting licenses and more than 155,000 deer hunting licenses were sold last year according to conservation department records completed up to the first of this month.

Trapping licenses also increased, a total of 21,065 being issued last year compared to 12,106 in 1936.

With 1938 the previous high year, resident small game hunting licenses sold in 1937 totaled 485,537 as of March 31, 1938, compared to 435,950 the previous year.

The sale of licenses to non-residents also gained except for small game hunting in zone three embracing the southern part of the state and for which a fee of $15 was charged, compared to the $5 fee charged for hunting in the more remote northern zones of the state.

Non-resident deer licenses, however, increased from 846 in 1936 to 1,213 last year.

A large gain also was noted in the demand of non-residents for fishing licenses. Last year the sale in this classification reached 92,083 for temporary non-resident fishing licenses compared to 75,499 in 1936; 43,982 annual non-resident permits compared to 35,490 in 1936; 45,041 non-resident wife licenses, for which no fee was charged, compared to 36,369 in 1936.

Iron River—A five-man jury in Justice Papin's court yesterday afternoon found Irving Schultz, 27, of City Cab, guilty of violating the new city ordinance providing that taxi lines must carry liability insurance for the protection of patrons.

The hearing attracted considerable attention, and an overflow crowd listened to the proceedings, which, at intervals, were enlivened by clashes between Howard J. McDonough, city attorney, who prosecuted the case, and A. J. Waffan, counsel for Schultz.

The jury deliberated for 50 minutes. Papin assessed Schultz a $25 fine and $23.60 costs.

STRAITS SPAN IN LIMELIGHT

'Pump Priming' Expected To Provide Money For Project

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C.—That revival of the Public Works Administration under the President's proposed pump-priming legislation will bring with it a revival of efforts by Michigan interests to secure $30,000,000 from PWA for a Mackinaw City-St. Ignace bridge which would rival San Francisco's Golden Gate span, became a virtual certainty in Washington today.

Senator Prentiss Brown, Democrat, who claims to have originated the idea insofar as active Washington participation is concerned, said today that Congressional approval of the President's proposal for a revival of PWA would justify renewed efforts to realize the gigantic bridge project, and that he will make further efforts toward that end immediately when, and if, the proposal is approved.

Vandenberg Opposed

That the proposed bridge will also be the battleground for a legislative fight within the Michigan delegation to Congress may be also taken for granted. Authoritative sources here reveal that members of the Michigan delegation are already lining up for the fight. It is understood that Representatives John Luecke and Frank E. Hook, of the 11th and 15th districts, are already committed to support Senator Brown in any effort toward realization of the project.

Opposition is expected from Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg and Congressmen Carl Mapes, of Grand Rapids, Shafter, of Battle Creek and Hoffman of Allegan.

To Governor Frank Murphy is also attributed support of the proposed bridge project. Governor Murphy was in Washington over the week-end and mentioned his desire for a $12,000,000 hospital program in Michigan, and is understood to have conferred with members of the Michigan delegation relative to possibilities of successful pushing of the bridge project.

Desirable, Says Brown

Senator Brown is definitely of the opinion that the proposed eight-mile span can be classified as a desirable project from every viewpoint. Engineering reports indicate that construction of a bridge similar to the suspended San Francisco span, with towers strong enough to withstand ice pressure, is possible. Upon that possibility hinges the engineering handicap. Upon the commercial possibilities of the span hinges its consideration as a PWA project.

Senator Brown and others who support the idea are confident that such a bridge could be a paying proposition. It is understood that opposition will attack both of those salient points.

Renewed activity of the Mackinaw City Bridge Authority, which was created when the bridge was first proposed, is expected upon Congressional approval of the President's proposal for revived activity of the Public Works Administration, and it is understood that the authority will act as the agency which will sponsor the gigantic project.

That construction of such a bridge will contribute much to the development of the northern peninsula of Michigan, to which travel is often difficult during winter months, and to the expansion of the tremendous tourist trade of which Mackinaw City and St. Ignace are focal points, are principal factors in the support of the project.

Revival of PWA itself has become highly problematical in Congressional circles as the relief bill is being written, but as the lines form in Washington for the legislative battle Michigan lines are being formed for the probable battle over the gigantic bridge project, which, if the PWA is revived, will probably be the largest single project to be proposed under the new setup.

Would Improve Fair

ESTABLISHMENT of a complete program of running races, as contemplated by the board of managers of the Upper Peninsula State Fair, certainly would put the state exposition in a class by itself and would help greatly to increase attendance.

Old-timers are devoted to the harness racing sport, but it must be admitted that the running races are drawing the crowds at the big tracks in various parts of the country.

Properly managed, a racing meet of this kind would bring many outsiders to Escanaba to attend the state fair. There are thousands of fans who will go wherever there are horse races, and the cool climate here during mid-August should be an added inducement for their coming to the Upper Peninsula.

Harness races have not drawn well enough in recent years at the fair to justify the expenditure that is made for putting them on. It would be a good idea to give the running race sport an opportunity to sell itself to fair goers.

New Uses for Gas

THE gas street light was relegated to the realm of relics with the beginning of the present century. Baltimore, Maryland, was the first American city to use manufactured gas for street lighting. In a few cities this form of street lighting is still used, but electricity has about supplanted the street illumination that made many a Broadway in the gay nineties.

The amazing fact about gas is that it still leads electric power nine to one in producing energy in the United States. When the gas street lamp was in its glory, about a dozen uses were made of gas. More than 20,000 industrial processes now make use of it. In reality this is not the electric age, but a new age of the gas industry.

Production of gas by distilling coal is known to have been accomplished as early as 1570 by a man named Clayton, but to William Murdock, of England, is given credit for the invention of coal gas and artificial gas lighting. He illuminated his house with gas lights in 1792, and a very poor show it is said to have been. In 1802 Birmingham, in celebration of the peace of Amiens, brightened up a large factory with gas light. Thousands journeyed to see the wonderful sight which led to gas works' being established at that place, and in Manchester and Halifax.

In Murdock's early experiments of using gas for lighting purposes the gas was lighted just as it flowed from the open end of the pipe. One day Murdock desired to extinguish the light, but having mislaid the cap which fitted over the tube, he picked up an old thimble full of holes. This he placed over the end of the tube, and, to his surprise, the gas light burned the more brightly. This experience led to the development of the gas burner.

In the year 1810 the Gas Light and Coke Company applied for a charter. Murdock, as the inventor of coal gas, was connected with the company, and he and his associates were subjected to much ridicule when the application for the company's charter was placed before the House of Parliament. Sir Walter Scott is said to have made various jokes about the absurdity of lighting London with smoke. People implicitly believed that gas was carried through the pipes on fire, and they foresaw awful results from red-hot metal. Parliament had the charter under consideration for three years before finally agreeing to grant it.

From 1875 to near the close of the last century, gas was a leading industry in America. With the introduction of electricity, in many places the old gas-jet was turned off forever. Leaders in the industry knew they were facing a problem, and something had to be done. These leaders believed that the uses of gas could be transformed and extended—that the close of the industry had not come.

Out of this struggle for the survival of the gas industry came one of the most remarkable educational campaigns in the history of American business. Scientific studies were made to enable the housewife to perform her work more easily. The gas range has been transformed and streamlined until it is one of the prize pieces of equipment in the American kitchen. With automatic controls, and insulation against heat, less gas is used per heating unit, but volume consumption has been increased manifold. Gas furnaces, gas water-heaters, and many other gas appliances have grown in popularity so that last year 16,000,000 American homes helped to consume more gas than was ever before produced.

One of the marvels of the new uses of gas is the scientific arrangement of using one side of an equipment for heat and the other for producing ice. The idea of producing refrigeration by the use of a tiny gas flame was conceived more than 100 years ago by Michael Faraday. Before final development, however, Faraday turned his attention to electricity and it remained for two young Swedish students a few years ago at the Swedish Royal Institute of Technology successfully to accomplish the feat. Gas is one of the greatest of all American industries. The $5,000,000,000 invested in it is more than the capital invested in the steel industry. Last year its revenues amounted to more than $800,000,000, while the number of employees was estimated at over 135,000. With an annual payroll in excess of $213,000,000, a mystery of an ancient time has become a mistress of a new era.

Germany Gets More Iron

ANNEXATION of Austria by Germany augments the latter country's potential resources in iron ore by about 200,000,000 tons, according to STEEL'S European Editor. This ore contains about 30 per cent iron. This acquisition of ore deposits is of particular importance to Germany, which county since the Lorraine ore bed was returned to France in 1919, has to import about 20,000,000 tons of ore annually.

Austria's steel production in 1937 was about 650,000 tons, a post-war record. This is relatively small in comparison with Germany's output of 19,350,000 tons. On the other hand, there are in Austria two fairly important plants which can be used for armament work.

Thus, Germany, already the largest steel-producing country in Europe, has further increased its mineral wealth and productive capacity. Next to Germany, Russia is the most important foreign country in steel production. Its output last year amounted to 17,000,000 tons.

Ask the Boys

REFORM schools anxious to be in truth the instruments for moral repair which their name implies might do well to take a cue from the poll of opinion made in the reform schools of New Jersey.

The results of the poll disclose enough about the juvenile delinquent's cast of mind to serve as a realistic base for attacking the "bad boys" problem.

New Jersey found, among other things, that the majority of its reform school boys considered policemen their worst oppressors, with judges the closest contenders for that unenviable title. The poll found also that only one out of approximately 700 boys held his home environment responsible for his lawlessness.

It suggests a lot about the "bad boys" attitude toward the world he lives in, and a little about his ignorance of it. The conception of judges and cops as enemies is an old story come to light again, and one... among others... that needs changing.

War Games

OHIO'S Oberlin College students have subjected themselves to campus "war games" for the asserted purpose of becoming acquainted with the horrors they might encounter if war actually came.

National Guard troops have appeared on the campus as instructors in drilling, the handling of firearms, the use of gas maske, and similar subjects, and professors have done enlightening in the field of "theory." War rations have been served in the college dining halls. And that's about it.

Now why doesn't some other college carry on from there and give a little real horror instruction? Within certain limits, of course.

Have a class in marching, that lasts all day and covers 20 miles of ground. Have a six-hour class in the art of standing around knee-deep in water. Hold a night session in sleeping on a rock pile, and follow it up with a morning stretch of trench-digging. And of course the students ought not be allowed to take their clothes off for a week, and all the eating should be done with a bayonet, or maybe the fingers.

That might be a real education.

AROUND THE PENINSULA (Ironwood Globe)

Democratic politics of the Peninsula is due for an injection of pop next month when Edward J. Fry, state central committee chairman, and Edmund C. Shields, national committeeman, make a swing into the Peninsula. Their chief stops will be at widely separated points, Crystal Falls and Sault Ste. Marie. It would be fun to find out what they learn confidentially in their hotel room interviews with leading Democrats of the Peninsula. All of it will not be rosy, by any means.

If reports from Washington are correct, civilian conservation corps camps at Iron River, Manistiquette and Wetmore will not be discontinued next month. It depends on whether congress approves the suggestion of the President for an additional appropriation of $50,000,000 to keep the corps at its present strength of 1,500 camps. Retention of the Iron River camp has been vigorously fought for by Iron River business men. They apparently appreciate the business derived from it.

One of the heaviest sentences in years was imposed by Judge Herbert Runnels of circuit court on a resident of Schoolcraft county the other day. The man was given 25 years to life with a recommendation of 50 years at hard labor in state's prison at Marquette. He was charged with criminal assault of a 14 year old girl. Said the court in sentencing him, "This crime of yours is one of the most hideous in the state. I'm going to see that you are removed from circulation for the protection of the girls and women of this county."

How is lumbering these days? Ask M. J. Fox of Iron Mountain. He says his company has "four billion feet of hemlock on the Superior shores that isn't worth a dollar with the present labor setup and yellow pine competition form the south." His statement comes in connection with

World Affairs Reviewed

Mexico, with which the United States is attempting to iron out business troubles, is Uncle Sam's best customer among the Latin American republics and ranks sixth or seventh among all nations in the world that buy American products.

Trouble in either the oil or the silver business means trouble indeed for Mexico, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. Not only is Mexico the world's largest silver producer, and the seventh most important source of petroleum, but mineral extraction is the nation's most highly developed and best organized industry.

—UNDER FOREIGN OWNERSHIP— In recent years minerals and ores have formed half the value of Mexico's exports; while mining machinery has accounted for much of her imports. Yet, while mining is the principal Mexican industry, practically 97 per cent of the 31,000 mining properties in the country are owned by foreigners, mostly Americans and Britons.

Nearly every one of the 28 States of Mexico has mines of some kind, and almost all the mines produce silver. Some of these "diggings" have been worked for centuries. Spaniards took them over from the Indians, and for 300 years, from 1521 to 1821, a steady stream of silver floated to Spain. A single chunk found in Sonora (northern Mexico) weighed 2,750 pounds!

—MINES IN SIERRA MADRE— After Mexico became a republic the output of silver doubled and trebled. Baron von Humboldt, famous German geographer, called her the treasure house of the world. In two centuries as the world's chief source of the precious white metal, Mexico has produced more than five billion dollars' worth of silver. Nearly a third of the silver dug last year came from the rocky veins of Mexico's dusty mountains.

Most of the silver mines of Mexico are found in that rugged double backbone of ranges, known as the Eastern and Western Sierra Madres. Some are mere holes in the hills, worked by a few Indians with picks and shovels. Others are elaborate enterprises, with steel tripes, electric cars, and overhead conveyor systems to transport ore to a central reduction or refining plant. They are operated by workers from big company towns.

Streets of several Mexican mining towns are literally paved with silver. Early Spanish processes of separating the metal from the ore were crude and left much silver in the tailings, often used for road surfacing. In some places these tailings are being dug up and reworked. Silver mining has brought wealth and world fame to such Mexican cities as Pachuca, San Luis Potosi, Guanajuato, Chihuahua, Torreón, Durango, and Oaxaca.

Silver is not the only important source of Mexican mineral wealth, although a few of the other minerals are obtained as byproducts in refining silver ore. In recent years Mexico has been the second most important producer of antimony; third of lead; fourth of mercury; fifty of zinc; sixth of gold; and seventh of petroleum and graphite. In addition Mexico has valuable deposits of tin, molybdenum, copper, platinum, cadmium, tungsten, iron, coal, sulphur, bismuth and other minerals.

Mexico's oil industry, while young, represents an investment of over 500 million dollars, mostly American and British capital. With some of the world's largest and most modern refineries, Mexico has become an important producer of gasoline and products derived from raw petroleum. In normal times about two-thirds of Mexico's oil production is exported.

Mexico came into the world race for oil production late. Its first producing well, yielding a modest 50 barrels a day, was brought in thirty-seven years ago. Between 1901 and December, 1935, however, more than one and three-quarter billion dollars worth of liquid gold was produced, chiefly in the Gulf coast sections of the States of Tamaulipas and Vera Cruz, and the northeast part of the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. Roaring gushers and smoking refineries have boomed such once quiet Mexican seaports as Tampico, Tuxpam and Puerto Mexico. Because Mexico has only one important coal field, in the State of Coahuila, many of her railroads use oil for fuel.

a plea for congress to consider the highly unionized situation in Michigan when it comes to writing a wage and hour bill. "All we want is to be put on a fair basis with our neighbors in Canada and the south," he says.

After Sheriff William Miron reported to the Delta county board on the activities of the highway department patrol car last summer, the board voted a salary of $110 a month from July to November for an officer to operate the car. The sheriff revealed that 450 traffic tickets were handed violating motorists last summer and that many drunken drivers were removed from the highways. The board was naturally convinced that the patrol car has its place in the scheme to reduce traffic accidents after hearing that report.

The city of Hancock last week observed the sixty-ninth anniversary of its worst fire in history; but naturally there were few persons who could recall much about it. Menominee also had a fire anniversary last week. Seven years ago the Wells Lumber Co. plant and property in its vicinity burned with a loss of a million dollars, nearly four times the loss that Hancock had. The Menominee fire loss was about the greatest in the country in 1931.

Answers To Questions

BY FREDERIC J. HASKINS

A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing The Escanaba Daily Press Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. Please enclose three (3) cents for reply.

Q. How many telegrams were sent to Washington protesting the Reorganization Bill? E. L. K. A. It is estimated that 330,000 were sent in connection with the bill, most of them opposing its passage.

Q. How many passengers were killed in railway accidents last year? C. J. B. A. Only three passengers lost their lives in 1937 in train accidents on the railroads of this country.

Q. Was Sarah Bernhardt a Jewess? K. L. A. She was of mixed French and Dutch parentage, and of Jewish descent. She was, however, baptized at the age of 12 and brought up in a convent.

Q. Is the chess table used by Napoleon at St. Helena in a museum? H. K. A. It is at Biltmore House, near Asheville, North Carolina, the home built by the late George Vanderbilt.

Q. What is the origin of Benedictine? J. H. A. The abbey of Fecamp, France, had in 1510 a learned monk named Dom Bernardo Vincelli who was interested in chemical experiments and was devoted to the preparation of medicinal beverages. He succeeded in producing an elixir which soon had wide fame as a refreshing and recuperative drink. Francis I visited the monastery in 1534 and named Benedictine, ad majorem Dei gloriam, for the greater glory of God.

Q. Where did Vienna, capital of Austria, get its name? L. G. H. A. The original Celtic settlement was called Vindobona by the Romans and the name probably comes from that. The present Austrian form is Wien. A thousand years ago the Avars, barbarians, occupied the place and built their typical camp in the form of a huge ring. Today the principal thoroughfare, circling important public buildings, is called the Ringstrasse or, for short, the Ring.

Q. Why does Samuel Riddle keep Man o' War at Lexington, Kentucky? D. N. A. At Man o' War's 21st birthday party, Mr. Riddle was interviewed on the radio and asked this question. His reply was: Because this is the only place in America to breed good horses. No matter what they say about other sections, if you want to breed good horses you must come to the Blue Grass.

Q. What is the largest artificial lake in the world? J. K. A. Lake Mead at Boulder Dam is the largest, man-made body of water in the world.

Q. Who first used the expression, Go West, young man? K. L. A. According to Bartlett, it was used by John Babson Lane Soule in an article in the Terre Haute, Indiana, Express in 1851. Horace Greeley was attracted by the expression, and used it in an editorial in The New York Tribune.

20 Years Ago

Ralph Carroll, Valentine Folio, Wesley Mallock, and Willard Peltho all of this city have safely arrived in France with the Twenty-Third Engineers.

Dr. Henry Hansen of Minneapolis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hansen of this city who was commissioned as a first lieutenant in the U. S. Medical Corps, has received his call to the colors.

Harry Moline, instructor in mechanical engineering and manual training at the Marquette Normal, has been selected to fill the place vacated by C. A. Strang.

The Swedish Lutheran church was packed to overflowing yesterday afternoon by people who went to pay their last respects to Walter Nelson, Escanaba soldier who died at Fort Slocum. The impressive sermon was preached by the Rev. C. A. Lund who also officiated at the cemetery.

Earl Essington, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Essington of Wells, was accepted yesterday by Corporal Roy J. Sliger for the cavalry branch of the service.

Miss Sylvia Richardson, instructor at the High school, has been selected as home demonstration agent for this country, it was announced yesterday by Miss Margaret Justin, leader of women's work for the extension bureau of the Michigan Agricultural college in the Upper Peninsula.

Alex Halsted and Mrs. Ralph Herlach of Jacksonport, Wis., and Mrs. Louis Martinson of Sturgeon Bay returned to their homes after attending the funeral of Mrs. L. Compher.

As the saying, "Go West, young man, and grow up with the country," gained popularity, Greeley printed Soule's article, to show the source of his inspiration.

Q. What was the real name of Francisco Villa? E. W. A. The Mexican revolutionist was named Doroteo Arango.

Q. Why are the fishes, Pisces, used as a sign of the Zodiac? A. V. A. The period, roughly corresponding to our month of February, was sacred to the Babylonian fish god. The Babylonian calendar had but 360 days and every six years the calendar was adjusted by inserting an extra month after February, and that, too, was sacred to the fish god, so two fishes were used to signify the double month.

Q. How does a cenotaph differ from other monuments? J. L. A. A cenotaph is a monument or tablet in memory of a person whose body is buried elsewhere. The custom arose from the erection of monuments to those whose bodies could not be recovered, as in case of drowning. The term is often used with relation to the monuments raised in memory of those who perished on the field in the World War, especially of the Cenotaph in Whitehall, London.

Q. Who has charge of the education of the Dionne quintuplets? I. O. B. A. The children have been educated thus far under the direction of Dr. W. E. Blatz, of Toronto, who has had them instructed by expert teachers from the St. George's School for Child Study in that city. Now that they are older, Duncan McArthur, Assistant Deputy Minister of Education for Ontario, will supervise their education. Whether they will be permitted to attend the public schools or be trained by tutors, rests with their Board of Guardians.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS New York—At long last, they are getting around to official recognition of the night club "steerer."

Of course, "steerer" is not the polite description of these suave-mannered, impeccably groomed young men whose office hours are 11 p. m. to 4 a. m. and whose addresses are the same as those of the smartest clubs in town. Society pages may refer to them as "sportsmen." Gossip columns may call them "gigolos."

The "steerer" is a comparatively new being around Manhattan. In Europe, the occupation is legitimate and the numbers who practice it are legion. The Europeans are drifting over his way where business is better, but many a local boy is making good at the job. If the majority of the steerers are of foreign origin, and of titled stock—the minority of American steerers hail from Mayflower ancestry, whose family fortunes have been ravaged by the recession (circa 1929). It's a livelihood, not a racket.

Sucker System Working hours for the "steerer" actually start at 10 p. m., unless he has been fortunate enough to snare a dinner invitation. His method of attack, while working, is so subtle that few folk sitting about a night club, seeing him calmly sipping a drink or cavorting on the dance floor, are cognizant of his presence.

He usually starts the evening alone, but invariably meets up with some Park Avenue denizens of more than passing acquaintance. Before anyone in the party realizes it, he has quietly, but firmly, injected himself into the gathering. He is not asked to "scream" politely. So he stays on. From that moment, his life's work is cut out for him.

For your usual Manhattan reveler, he is of the social strata or a tired-old-business man, is restless. One place bores him, is distraction after a couple of hours. The urge to move along to another costly oasis, another set of phoney palm trees and leather-back settees, beset these folk frequently in the course of the night. And this is where that soft-spoken gent we call the "steerer" steps into the breach. "Why not," he nonchalantly suggests, "move over to So & So's place. There's always a good crowd over there."

His victims acquiesce. They always do. Little prodding is required. And the next stop—another round of drinks, champagne, pails, et al, and another mounting check that sometimes looks like an annual statement for the national debt. Out of these cash receipts, the svelte steerer draws his pay. Not that night. But the next day, when, with the proprietor of that particular spot, he settles for a liberal "cut" of the cash he brought in the night before. On good nights, a persuasive "steerer" might steer his "friends" about to five clubs and clean up.

The Capital Parade

BY ALSOPF AND KINTNER

Washington, April 21.—In dealing with his congressional leaders, the President sometimes resembles old Chapin, the evil-tempered city editor of the New York Evening World. On one occasion, Chapin sent a reporter to ask a particularly dangerous and explosive man a particularly embarrassing question. The reporter presented himself was promptly beaten up and hurled out of the interviewee's office, and returned to Chapin.

"You go back," snapped Chapin when he had heard the story, "and tell that fellow he can't intimidate me." The presidential ukase to the house conferees on the tax bill, demanding the retention of the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes of their bill, was an order of the same sort. Representative Robert L. Doughton of North Carolina is not called "Muley" for nothing. He is tough, stubborn, and not given to mournfulness. But if there is any more uncomfortable man on capital hill than the chairman of the house way and means committee, it is one of his fellow Democratic tax bill conferees.

The fact is that house members have been hearing from their districts on the tax bill. Whatever the validity of the claim that the undistributed profits and capital gains levies are harmful to business, belief in it is widespread and religious.

FRYING PAN OR FIRE?

The unpleasant choice confronting the unhappy Mr. Doughton has often been explained in these last days. He can ignore the President and give in to the senatorial enemies of the two taxes. Or he can hold out and enrage the folks back home. Or he can return for instructions to the house. But his unwillingness to return to the house for instruction has not been explained. It may be traced to an informal poll conducted by the house administration leadership, which shows a clearly preponderate sentiment for the senate tax bill.

And while Mr. Doughton has pondered his horrid dilemma, a hot fire has been built under him by a group of the most expert fire-builders in American politics. Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, Senator James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, and the democracy's elder statesman, Bernard M. Baruch, are the men who laid the logs and applied the torch.

Senator Harrison and Senator Byrnes participated in the preparation of Mr. Baruch's famous testimony before Senator Byrnes's committee investigating unemployment. The Baruch attack on the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes was well weighed among them, and had much effect in the senate. Then Senator Harrison cheerfully voted for the reorganization bill, which Senator Byrnes was piloting anxiously through the senate. And now Senator Byrnes has brought out, on a day when Mr. Baruch happened to be in Washington, an unemployment committee report denouncing the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes as causes of joblessness.

Too cynical an interpretation may be put on this sequence of events, although the three fire-builders are as wily a set of Democrats as you would find in a very long walk around Washington. But the fact remains that the flames are singeing the seat of Mr. Doughton's pants.

THE MAP OF CHAOS

Just to make things a little bit harder for Mr. Doughton, there is a surprising division of sentiment on what to do about the conference deadlock. In private, the President has repeatedly described the agitation against the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes as pure smoke-screen, yet even he can hardly wish for no tax revision at all. On the other hand, in view of the senate's strong stand, he can hardly hope for the passage of the house bill. Thus, compromise is his object.

The word has gone out that he will approve a compromise in which the capital gains tax will be sacrificed, while the "principle" of the undistributed profits tax will be retained. It is on the undistributed profits tax that the public attacks have been concentrated, and thus such a compromise would have the appearance of victory. The President dearly loves the appearance of victory, as every man in the White House always has and always will.

Fantastically enough, the actual father of the undistributed profits tax, Mr. Herman Oliphant, is now trying hard to persuade the Treasury to accept an exactly opposite compromise. The Treasury's left-wing general counsel argues that, in times like these, the capital gains tax should be retained and the other sacrificed. He points out that a levy on capital gains is likely to be more productive than a levy on undistributed profits when there aren't any profits.

England's champion Average Man admits that "I'm in a rut, and I like it." You'll probably agree that many Americans really do cling to ancestral English traits.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

TO DISBELIEVE It must be very hard to live And not believe, on man depend For consolation man can give, Depend on mortals to the end, In fortune men may counsel well, In sorrow little have to tell, If earthly wisdom all they bring, Or you believe no other thing. It must be very strange to live And not believe, to have a soul And think it dies, have love to give And take, and think the grave its goal. It must be strange to do life's task And nothing more expect or ask. And nothing finally receive— It must be hard to disbelieve.

OFFICE CREW IS TRANSFERRED

WPA Finance Division At Iron Mountain To Go To Lansing

Iron Mountain, Apr. 21—Transfer of all records of the fifth district WPA finance division from the offices in the former Farragut school building, on the north side, to Lansing, in line with the move to centralize WPA accounts and finances in the state office, was in progress here today, according to Harold W. Gill, director.

The proposed transfer of the treasury accounts and disbursement divisions of the U. S. treasury office in the Iron Mountain city building is the result of the same move which affects the fifth district finance department.

The transfer, Gill said, which includes some employees who may be moved to the state office, will be complete by about May 10.

Heretofore the fifth district finance division has handled all time reports and preparation of payrolls for the fifth Michigan district, comprising 11 upper Michigan counties. The function of the U. S. treasury offices has included the auditing of payrolls and the issuance of checks.

In the future, Gill stated, all time reports will go direct from the field—or the separate projects—into the state office at Lansing. Payrolls will then be prepared in the state finance office and the checks will be mailed direct to the employees.

About 25 employees in the fifth district office will be affected by the change, the director stated. Some, it is expected, will be given the opportunity to transfer to the state office and an effort will be made to find places for others on projects within the fifth district.

Robert J. Kohlbeck has been in charge of the fifth district division of finance for some time.

Harold Van Horne Play Concert Here on Apr. 27

Harold Van Horne, pianist, whose artistic growth has closely paralleled the phenomenal expansion of radio will be heard here in concert on Wednesday, April 27, at the Wm. W. Oliver Memorial auditorium, with the Barthele Woodwind Ensemble and Maria Matyas, mezzo soprano.

A pioneer in the field of radio, Van Horne who is only now in his twenties, came to Chicago from his native Wyoming while still a boy, to complete his musical education and displayed such well defined technique that he was engaged by one of the leading Chicago radio studios as staff pianist. This was at the time when radio was still spoken of as being "in its infancy," and he has held a firm place in the affections of a countless audience ever since. Heard literally hundreds of times from several years ago, he has for the past few years reached an even larger following through his connection with the National Broadcasting company, appearing on many important network programs.

The addition of his name on the program is an added treat to music lovers of this city. Beside his solo appearance, Mr. Van Horne will play the Beethoven Quintet with the Barthele Woodwind Ensemble.

Another highlight of the evening will be the closing number of the program which includes the entire ensemble, with Miss Matyas appearing in a beautiful native costume, singing a group of Hungarian folk songs.

Production of 1939 Plates Begins May 1

Manufacture of 1939 motor vehicle license plates will begin at the State Prison of Southern Michigan, at Jackson, about May 1, immediately after completion of the last of the 1938 half-year plates.

Use of Michigan-made materials in the making of these license plates has increased by about a third because of the replacement of the old windshield "sticker" with metal plates.

The manufacture of 1938 motor vehicle license plates involved 1,245 tons of steel and approximately 10,000 gallons of paint. There were 2,489,600 pairs of plates made for 1938. To handle them required an equal number of envelopes, and 49,792 cartons for shipment from the prison to the branch offices of the Department of State. Plates for 1939 will show black letters and numerals on a buff background.

CAMPS NOT TO BE ABANDONED

New Appropriation By Congress Saves Evelyn, Raco

Newspaper dispatches from Washington yesterday indicated that civilian conservation camps Evelyn and Raco in the national forests of the Upper Peninsula will not be abandoned as was previously planned.

"Although we have received no official confirmation of the news," Frank Crow, assistant supervisor, said yesterday, "it was not unexpected. We had been advised previously to be ready to abandon camps Evelyn and Raco but believed the order would be rescinded on the basis of the proposed new appropriation. We are pleased to hear that the camps will not be abandoned because we will be able to go ahead with planting operations within a short time."

The civilian conservation corps will operate 1501 camps for another year. Director Robert Fechner said as a result of congressional approval of an additional $50,000,000 appropriation.

"The new funds," Fechner said, "will mean that we do not have to cut off 301 camps as previously ordered, and that we can proceed with an uninterrupted program."

The extra money, requested by President Roosevelt in his new recovery program, was authorized by the senate yesterday. The house previously had voted for it.

Sum for Supplies

Fechner estimated that more than one-half the CCC appropriation, now increased to $276,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, will be spent on supplies, including food, clothes and equipment. The remainder will be distributed in wages to about 271,000 enrolled men.

The camps, Fechner said, will be continued in their present locations with the exception of 31, which will be moved from army reservations to other sites.

Started slightly more than five years ago as Mr. Roosevelt's first recovery project, the CCC has given employment to approximately 2,200,000 persons at various times. When the president suggested the corps, he said he wanted to change disheartened, hopeless youths into self-supporting independent members of society.

Third Community Cooking School Great Success

Marked by another capacity attendance, with all available seating place occupied, the third community cooking school and appliance demonstration of the series of five, was presented Thursday afternoon at the Sherman hotel by the Home Supply company and Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Conducting the cooking class was Mrs. Mabel Hildebrandt, Westinghouse food economist and expert in electric cooking, and a thorough demonstration of the company's appliances was presented by its representatives in connection with the cooking class.

Mrs. Hildebrandt in her demonstration prepared an oven meal, a surface meal, and a number of favorite dishes, all showing the simplicity of operation in electric cooking, as well as the cleanliness, convenience, and economy of the modern methods of preparing food.

Among the recipes she used in preparing a number of delicious foods were: Broiled Steak, Mushroom Medley, Cream Puffs a la Mode.

Steak to be broiled should always be at least 1 1/2 inches thick. Trim steak and cut through fat around edges. Place steak on rack of broiler pan. Meat should be about 2 1/2 inches below the heat when broiling. Turn switch to broil control set at 500 degrees. Oven door ajar. Broil each side 10 to 15 minutes. Season each side when broiled. If not well done, turn and broil longer.

Mushroom Medley: 1-3 cup shortening, 1 pound hamburger, 1 small can mushrooms, 3 cups tomatoes, 2 green peppers, chopped, 4 medium onions, sliced thin, 2 cups noodles, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1 bud garlic, Pepper to season.

Heat shortening in fry pan. Shape hamburger into patties and brown; remove to plate. Sauté onions, mushrooms and peppers. Add tomatoes and seasonings. On top of this mixture place hamburger patties, then noodles. Cover and cook on high until steam comes from the vent in the cover.

Cream Puffs a la Mode: 1/2 cup butter, 4 eggs, 1 cup water, 1 cup flour (sifted before measuring).

Put butter and water into saucepan; when mixture boils, add flour. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Cook until mixture forms a solid ball. Remove from range and add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, beating each one in thoroughly. Place in mounds on greased baking sheets. Bake with oven door open one hour at 375 degrees.

Church Events

Christian Science Churches "Probation after death" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, April 24. The Golden Text (I John 5:25), is: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God; and they that hear shall live." Among the Bible citations in this passage (I Cor. 15: 19, 20): "If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable. But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first-fruits of them that slept." Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 427): "If man is never to overcome death, why do the Scriptures say, 'The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death'?" The tenor of the Word shows that we shall obtain the victory over death in proportion as we overcome sin."

Ford River Services Services will be held next Sunday afternoon at two o'clock for the Lutheran church at Ford River Mills, Rev. C. Albert Lund, pastor. Mrs. Ernest Gustafson, who visited here with Mrs. William Viau, has returned to her home in Carney. There are between 70 and 80 known species of squirrels in the world.

Declarer Rueful Over Heart Contract When No Trump Game is Laydown, but Goes to Work.

Duplicate bridge has taught more than one valuable lesson, one of which is that in hands in which both the declarer's and his partner's holdings are evenly split between the suits, no trump is generally the best contract at a match point score. No wonder.

he made five hearts, one spade, two clubs and two diamonds, winning a top instead of the bottom score he had feared.

I still think three no trump was the natural contract, but there is no point in giving up when you find you have reached an unusual contract. Play the hand out and hope for the best, which may be very good indeed.

Contract Problem

South opened the bidding with one spade, North responded with two clubs, which West doubled. North, with South always passing, reaches a contract of four spades over West's four hearts. Should West pass, double, or bid again?

On The RECORD

Raising Tiresome Questions

The President's friends chat was conciliatory in tone, and will be taken by most of us in the spirit in which it was uttered. "I m o d e r a t e statements, appeals to p r e d i c t i o n s of unkindness" are, indeed, "offensive against t h e whole population of the United States." A n d "bitterness i s never a useful instrument i n public affairs."

Bitterness has been rampant on both sides, during the past years, and much of the debate has spread more heat than light. But the President must not confuse his personal enemies with opponents of certain of his policies. It has been the Administration's mistake—form the viewpoint of an effort to consolidate the national will—even to confuse opponents of policies with opponents of objectives. The larger objectives of the New Deal have become a part of American thinking. But there is, and there will continue to be, great divergence of opinion as to how these ideals and objectives can be realized.

If we go on the presumption—and I think we may—that what we all want is a great increase in the national income, its more equitable distribution, and greater economic and social stability and security, and that to achieve these ends most of us are willing cheerfully to make considerable personal sacrifice, in the conviction that such sacrifice will pay us, even individually, in the long run, since we do not live in isolation, but as part of a social order, then the question is whether the policies proposed are likely to further that end, or not. That is a matter of analysis and judgment. It is perfectly true that "to reach a port, we must sail, not lie at anchor; sail, not drift," but it is also true that to reach a port we must sail in the right direction. You don't get to Southampton if you are headed under full steam for Havana, and the intention of getting to Southampton is not enough. Even the best sailors, with the surest instincts, use charts and a compass.

Therefore, before we can agree upon a program for recovery, we must agree as to the cause of the present depression. The cure has to begin with correct diagnosis. Now, it would appear that the Administration's diagnosis has been faulty, and that that is where the trouble started. The Administration still hardens on its theory that in April, 1937, there was overproduction and a danger of inflation. "Fearing just such an event," says the President, "the Federal Reserve System curtailed banking credit, and the Treasury commenced sterilizing gold, as a further brake on what it was feared might turn into a runaway inflation."

They did, indeed, and by those measures they started the present depression. Obviously, the measures, on the scale and with the vehemence that they were undertaken, were wrong. And at the time, this column, and a number of other commentators, doubted the wisdom of the measures and predicted what the results would be—this column as long ago as October 18th. While still defending them, the Administration, by implication, admits its error, because the new recovery program completely reverses the policy of last spring, and this is the most constructive single thing in the whole program.

The Administration lightens the reserve requirements which it unwisely and unnecessarily stiffened; and releases the gold that it unwisely and unnecessarily froze.

As far back as last March and April, liberal economists, among them Mr. Alexander Sachs, who set forth his views in early autumn before the Price Conference of the National Association of Manufacturers, were predicting that radical deflationary monetary measures were fraught with grave dangers.

But the government chose to listen to other advisers. So the ship didn't sail. It didn't even drift. It started with great speed in the direction of an iceberg.

And was their overproduction in 1937? And what does the phrase mean? It is a very important to ask, because if another recovery starts, and is going happily, in, let us say, 1939 and 1940, what assurances have we that the government, still sticking to its present theories, will not again radically reverse the trend?

If the cause of the 1937-'38 depression was overproduction, and the same cause accounts for the depression of 1929, then the New Deal turns out to be the same thing as the Old Deal, and Mr. Roosevelt's mistakes the same as Mr. Hoover's. But, since the entire procedure and strategy of government have been very different since 1933 from what they were before, isn't it reasonable to enquire whether this may not be a different kind of depression?

If you enforce sudden and radical deflation, of course you get overproduction! If a man is starved even a regular meal can make him sick.

On every known ground we have not even begun to take care of the normal demand for new

Yesterday: Five miles out of Port-au-Prince, hearing the last whistle of the Empress, Mr. Gregory remembers the importance of a silly bracelet.

CHAPTER XIV

"Do you think we should venture out of the city?" Mr. Gregory asked uncertainly. They were finishing their lunch at the British Club, and he seemed loath to leave its cool splendor and its conservative protection.

"Why not?" Joyce asked lightly. "We have plenty of time and Dr. Gray remarks particularly that the drive to the Pettenville Club was a worth-while sight."

"I darsay the road takes us through the jungle," he stood up, unwilling. "Well, if you really would like to go, we'd better start."

His tone conveyed the suggestion that she might say, "Oh, never mind, thank you," but she didn't say it. She wanted to go, terrifiedly, if only for spite.

Their three faithful guides were waiting attentively for them. Mr. Gregory mentioned the Pettenville Club to the driver, and he grinned in quick understanding. In less than a few moments they were out in the country, climbing a mountain road which overlooked the harbor. Here and there tiny cottages dotted the scenery; makeshift affairs they were, some of narrow shafts of bamboo or sugar cane, and some of bits of second-hand lumber, but all of them were white-washed in flashing elegance. Against the abundant background of tropical shrubbery they were quaint and picturesque.

This afternoon the only traffic along the road was an occasional native, astride his burro, his long legs hunched up in front to prevent their dragging on the ground. The animals seemed no larger than good-sized dogs, and Joyce visualized the rider dismounting by the simple method of standing up and letting the animal walk from under him.

A mile or two out they passed a section of roadway undergoing repairs, unusual because it lacked the attendant bustle of concrete-mixers and steam rollers. Along the shoulder were piles of small rocks, on top of which stalwart men sat in tranquil indifference, chattering cheerfully and breaking the rock into smaller pieces with occasional cracks of their hammers. Their efforts were unhurried; if this highway were not improved this year, there was all of next year and the year after that. As hunger touched them, they would reach into the bushes and pluck a banana from a bunch growing wild, or send one of the younger members to scale a nearby coconut palm and shake down its abundant fruit.

"Here's your Utopia, Mr. Gregory," Joyce commented. "What matters capitalism down here, with three meals a day ripe for the picking?"

Her companion frowned. "Even here the wealth is not shared."

"But the bananas are. And the coconuts. And there's a place to sleep under every shady tree."

Now the road, high up on a mountainside, followed the shoreline, and they could see the Empress lying at anchor in the harbor, her white outline a dazzling contrast to the opalescent blues of sky and water. Below them, the city was a cluster of spotty white buildings surrounded by a protecting horseshoe of verdant hills.

At the club, they sat on a cool veranda which overlooked a colorful world of tropical splendor, and sipped frosted drinks from tall glasses. Here they saw other Americans, residents of Port-au-Prince, no doubt, and army officers, and representatives of various consular services. A native string orchestra played at intervals, delightful when it offered the gay and unusual melodies of the country, yet strangely ridiculous in its misguided attempts to interpret the popular swing music of the States.

"I wonder why none of the other passengers discovered this place," Mr. Gregory remarked.

"The women are never willing to stir off the main street," Joyce reminded him. "The minute they're off the ship, they swarm into the shops to bargain for all sorts of things they'd never buy at home. That's all they seem to go ashore for—to buy things."

"As a testimony, when they get home, that they were actually abroad."

Across the hills the colors were beginning to deepen in the late afternoon shadows, and already the heat haze which blurred the horizon was being dissipated by the cool breeze from the sea. Mr. Gregory looked at his watch.

"We mustn't stay too long. The ship sails at seven."

"What time is it now?"

"Five-thirty. Suppose we have one more drink."

It was nearly six when they left the club, and now the sun hung low over the farthest rim of the mountains. Night would fall quickly in the valley.

This time they did not have to search for their three musketeers; the boys were in front of the club, awaiting them expectantly.

"Big ship go soon," their interpreter reminded them, with an air of responsibility.

"Yes. We must go fast," Mr. Gregory settled himself beside Joyce. "Quarter past six," he noted, glancing at his watch. "We've plenty of time."

"Some car," the driver announced with experience as they drove off, "some car go seek mile in six minutes." He placed the accent on the second syllable of "minutes."

"That's right," Mr. Gregory conceded.

The interpreter shook his head. "Not these car," he pointed out disparagingly.

"Some time, these car," the driver corrected him sharply.

"Non. Not these car." The interpreter was emphatic.

Now the third boy, the guide who spoke no English, raised his voice in question; in deference to him they resumed the argument in their native tongue. Words flew fast.

"Our chauffeur seems to be fighting for the honor of his car," Joyce laughed.

"I'd rather he kept his eyes on the road," Mr. Gregory replied morosely.

Presently the boy at the wheel bent forward, jiggled a few levers, and waited expectantly. There was a quick response to his efforts; the tune of the motor changed from a rumble to a deep, threatening roar, accented by staccato back-firing. But the car leaped forward to a new lightning pace of about 50 miles an hour.

The driver bent forward to catch the eye of his doubting associate. His words were unintelligible, but his tone said distinctly: "There! What did I tell you?"

The car shook under the tremendous pressure, and in the back seat the customers were jolted about until their teeth chattered.

"Hey!" cried Mr. Gregory. "Wait a minute!"

The driver turned and smiled, mistaking the order for a compliment.

"Stop, I say! Stop!"

It was the motor which obeyed his command. It gave one deep spasmodic shake, followed by several puny put-put-put gasps; then, with a long whistling sigh, it died out altogether. The three boys looked at each other in consternation. Mr. Gregory groaned.

"Sounds like we're out of gas," Joyce remarked woefully.

Their driver quickly disapproved that theory by the old expedient of poking a stick down into the tank to measure. It was half full. The other boys peered uncertainly beneath the hood, their black faces long in distress. Their magic wagon had stopped!

Mr. Gregory loaned his superior intelligence to a study of the situation, but his knowledge of mechanics was quite obviously limited. They cranked the engine; they shook the car; they crawled under the chassis and looked up; they jiggled wires. But nothing brought a response from the exhausted motor. Minutes passed quickly, and now seven o'clock was not long off, and down in the harbor the Empress was blowing last-warning calls to come aboard.

"We'll have to get another car!" Mr. Gregory cried excitedly. "Where?"

He mopped his brow nervously; on all the road there was no sign of any other vehicle.

"But what will we do?" There was a tremor in his voice.

Now that darkness was almost upon them, the country was suddenly stripped of the glamour with which the sunshine had endowed it. The black depths of the jungle forest loomed before them, forbidding and oppressive. Strange eyes seemed to peer through the brush; vague figures darted through it silently.

All at once, in strange and terrifying comprehension, Joyce heard the sound which had haunted her imagination. Slowly it came through the air, as if echoed from some far-away hillside; then quickly it was unbelievably near, as if she herself were the center of it. The dull, primitive tomtom of the Haitian drums. She listened, straining her ears to locate the source of it, and as she stood there, shuddering in vague, unreasoning fear, she saw fires spring to life within the jungle, like signals in answer to the drums.

Mr. Gregory was walking about the car frantically, wringing his hands. "We've got to get away!" he cried. "I won't be marooned on this island."

There was a rustling in the bushes behind her, and Joyce turned quickly. A little girl stepped out babbling in excited French. Not until she held up her wrist, upon which the golden bracelet still jangled, did Joyce recognize her. She stooped down, to catch an idea of what the child was saying.

"Pa-pa... She caught that word; then something about "le navire," the ship.

And suddenly she was gone, back into the woods, as quickly as she had come.

"What was she saying?" Joyce asked their interpreter.

He shook his shoulders. "Something about her papa. We have not heard."

"We'll have to walk!" Mr. Gregory insisted again, his voice shrill and high-pitched. "It's five minutes to seven."

But at that moment the child was back, and following her Joyce saw a tall, tremendous Negro, his heavy features shadowed by the rays of a lantern he held aloft.

MOLASSES USED IN SILAGE HAY

Sugar Content Built Up To Make Fermentation More Certain

Farmers can now make hay whether the sun shines or not, by cutting up their grasses into silage and adding molasses to insure fermentation. Experiment stations in the United States and in northern Europe, where grass silage is already widely used by dairy farmers, have been conducting exhaustive tests of the process for the past eight years. Clover, alfalfa, timothy, green oats, quack grass or any mixture of grasses and legumes can now be made into excellent silage.

All that is necessary to produce hay silage, according to information from the process from B. A. Health, agricultural agent of the South Shore railway, is to run the hay through the ensilage cutter, adding 4 or 5 gallons of cheap stock molasses to each ton.

The chopped hay takes up much less room in the silo than in the mow, and makes a more concentrated feed. Many authorities predict that the dairy barn of the future will become a low roofed cow shed, with pit silos around it instead of a big hay mow above.

Corn silage was proven a success years ago. Grasses and legumes, however, not having the high sugar content of corn, would rot before they could ferment. The problem was to provide the proper balance of organic acids to cause fermentation. A Finnish scientist, Prof. A. I. Virtanen, patented an acid compound now used quite extensively in Europe for the production of grass silage. American investigators have found that the acid can be replaced by the addition of 2 1/2 per cent of stock molasses.

The procedure is usually to set up a barrel of molasses near the ensilage cutter, with a hose connecting the two to feed molasses as the grass is chopped up.

Less grain feed is needed as feed when hay silage is used, as the protein content is higher than that of corn silage or cured hay. Cows keep in fine condition and give a heavy flow of milk. Due

McMILLAN NEWS

J. NEWTON BOWEN

McMillan, Mich.—Impressive funeral services for J. Newton Bowen, 78, who passed away early Easter Sunday morning, were held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock from the Methodist Episcopal church with the Rev. Donald Stubb's, pastor of the church, officiating. Interment was made in the McMillan cemetery. Mr. Bowen had been a resident of McMillan for the past ten years, coming here from Ohio to make his home with his daughter, Mrs. William B. Harkness.

His death was not unexpected for he had been failing in health for the past two years. He was able to be about his home until six weeks ago when his condition became alarming. Death was due to a malignant tumor of the right arm. Despite his illness which necessitated so much attention he was of a most cheerful disposition and thought always of those who were waiting on him, trying to make their burden as light as possible.

He was held in high esteem by all who knew him and his passing will be mourned by his friends.

Lights Way to Safer Surgery

Through the 3000 germ-killing volts of this powerful ultraviolet ray lamp, demonstrated by its builder, Elmer Ries, above, of Cincinnati, science hopes eventually to achieve the completely sterile operating room and to reduce death by infection to an absolute minimum. The lamp, which will be used first in the Magee hospital in Pittsburgh, is the result of long research by Dr. Derry Hart, professor of surgery at Duke University, Durham, N. C. Working on the knowledge that the ultraviolet ray destroyed germs, Dr. Hart first placed an ultraviolet ray screen around an operating table, found that bacteria were almost entirely destroyed.

Will Dedicate Lake Gogebic Fish Hatchery

Lansing — The state's newest fish rearing unit in the upper peninsula, for which Gogebic county contributed the land and $2,000 of the construction cost, will be known as the Lake Gogebic state fish hatchery.

Approval of a resolution adopted by the Gogebic county board of supervisors, proposing the name, has been voted by the state-conservation commission. By the same resolution, the hatchery will be dedicated to the late Ted A. Kelly, a member of the Gogebic county board of supervisors for 27 years and an ardent conservationist. Dedicatory ceremonies with Commissioner Thomas J. Masterson representing the department of conservation, Clare Hendee the Ottawa national forest department and Gogebic county by the chairman of the county conservation committee, are planned for early this summer.

The hatchery, located on the shores of Lake Gogebic will be devoted to the rearing of walleyed pike and will be in operation soon. Total cost of the unit is approximately $4,000, the department of conservation matching the county's appropriation for construction.

The Sequoia tree is almost indestructible. The armor of thick bark acts as an asbestos protection against fire, and as insulation against frost and freezing. The wood seems to be almost immune against rot, and a thick healing sap quickly heals up any scar.

Among the highlights will be the annual convention parade Saturday night, July 30, when Legionnaires will march with bands and drum and bugle corps units from Legion posts throughout the peninsula. The parade is expected to be one of the most colorful ever seen in the copper country and many unusual features are planned by the Legionnaires.

Much Land Bought For Public's Use

Lansing — Stream and lake frontage, feed and cover for deer and forest growths of a half dozen different species of trees are included in the most recent land additions to state forests, game areas and public hunting grounds.

Altogether the acquisition of 31,061 acres was approved by the state conservation commission at its meeting this month at a total price of $42,344.

The largest acquisition embraces 23,134 acres in the Lake Superior state forest. It is covered principally with jack and norway pine and poplar second growth, with some cedar and hardwood, and affords more than 10 miles of frontage on the Betsy river. In addition the tract includes numerous small lakes and a dam site on the river which could be used for extensive flooding for waterfowl purposes.

Nearly one-third of the 9,000 streets in Greater Berlin have duplicate names. Bismarck is the name of 30 streets and Wilhelmstrasse the name of 26.

Michigan Mirror

Doings About Capitol

Lansing—Like a financial juggernaut rolling down upon Michigan is the unemployment or welfare problem.

Even with the federal government allotting 30 per cent of the WPA extra appropriation for use in Michigan, Governor Murphy was moved to release a statement to the press that he had talked directly to the White House and had appealed for a grant of 10 to 15 more millions. Cheerless newspaper headlines chilled the citizenry: "110,000 face starvation," says Murphy.

Last week-end the governor flew from Wichita, Kan. to Washington to plead personally for additional federal cash.

Gone long ago was the hope that the state treasury would be balanced and that a huge deficit could be diverted. Tearing the care of unemployment "the major responsibility of state government," the governor has let it be known that he insists upon full and adequate treatment of the jobless not only in food and clothing but in medical care.

12th MILLION

The state legislature appropriated $16,000,000 for welfare needs during the biennium ending June 30, 1939.

By the middle of April—the 10th month of the first fiscal year—the state had started on its 12th million dollars, and the end is not yet in sight. State revenues have been falling, general state expenses are the highest in history, and relief costs have been mounting steadily. The combination is enough to give any budget director the jitters.

Theodore I. Fry, state treasurer who follows a conservative policy, protests that state expenditures for relief "must stop somewhere."

Experience of other states has also shown that unemployment compensation, whereby temporary "stop gaps" are given to a worker when he becomes unemployed, has proved wholly inadequate to meet present living costs.

Men on WPA projects have been encouraged by CIO leaders to believe that collective bargaining with the government would benefit their lot—fewer hours and more wages—all through the payment of CIO dues.

To say that the present situation is bewildering and confusing is to put it mildly.

Perhaps you have a better name for it.

GASOLINE TAXES

Taxes are high enough, according to the governor, and yet additional money must be obtained in some manner to solve the present crisis.

First as a revenue-getter is the sales tax. Last year it raised over $54,000,000.

Second is the gasoline tax paid by motorists and truck and bus companies for building and maintenance of highways. This includes such costs as snow removal, sanding icy roads, and chemical treatment to lay the dust.

The gasoline tax is particularly profitable in Michigan because so many tourists visit us from other states. A sizable part of the $130,000,000 tourist income last year was paid by outstate visitors in the form of the little gasoline tax.

TAX DIVERSION?

The third major source of revenue is the automobile weight tax, also paid by the motorist. This income exceeded $19,500,000 during the past fiscal year.

Here are two financial walls that had a combined flow of $47,000,000.

In the quest for additional relief money it is inevitable that somebody at some time will rise to suggest: "Why not divert some of these millions?"

No official at Lansing has publicly declared himself in favor of motorist tax diversion. And the matter is a bit involved because 1938 happens to be campaign year.

GRAND RAPIDS RALLY

President Roosevelt originally proposed that Congress reduce the highway aid fund for matching state expenditures without a similar reduction in the federal gasoline tax. The reaction was unquestionably unfavorable. Local communities rose in protest against tax diversion because it would mean that projected local road improvements would not be undertaken.

In the spirit of "safety first," good roads promoters of Michigan—chambers of commerce, city officials, tourist leaders, county road commissioners and engineers, the road builders and the state highway department—will meet next Thursday, April 23, at the Grand Rapids Civic Auditorium.

The good roads movement has many supporters. The tourist business depends upon good highways for future development. Entertaining civic leaders see in the extension of concrete highways a hope for expansion of their trade territory.

In a state as motor-minded as Michigan it is inevitable that automobile owners should think also in terms of highways.

TAX SALE LIKELY

Attorney General Raymond Starr's recent opinion that public officials "must proceed with their duties" in connection with the May tax sale is believed to have clinched the certainty that delinquent properties will go on the block as scheduled.

The governor had previously hinted his intention of calling the legislature into session to authorize another tax moratorium. The idea fits in with labor's demands at Flint for a "debt moratorium."

Auditor General George Gundry discouraged Murphy. Few homes were involved in the tax sale, he said.

Starr's logic, however, is coldly irrefutable. Property owners will have 18 months to redeem property sold for non-payment of taxes.

Unless all signs fail, the tax sale will be held as authorized.

TELLS HISTORY OF BATH HOUSE

Persons Instrumental In Promotion Are Recognized

Recognition was given persons who assisted in promotion of a new bathhouse for Gladstone at a meeting of the City club this week.

Credit and expressions of appreciation were offered by William L. Marble, chairman of the Parks and Harbor committee, who gave a brief history of the campaign which had been successfully conducted and in which he had been highly active.

Ray Norton, Oliver Ohlen, Morris Riley, Howard Quistorf and Ruth Johnson of Gladstone high school were guests of the club and were lauded for their participation in the drive for the public improvement.

The project got under way here in 1936 when a committee composed of A. R. Watson, O. E. Anderson, G. E. Dohlin, J. T. Jones and G. A. LaFave were named to make a study and return a recommendation. After a survey of bathhouses in existence in the Upper Peninsula and Northern Wisconsin a composite plan believed best suited to Gladstone's needs was presented.

Promotion of the project was carried out by the Parks and Harbor committee composed of Wm. Marble, the late G. R. Emppson, Dr. O. S. Hult, George Boandry, William Fraiss and Roger Smith.

Detailed plans were drawn in the office of Derrick Hubert, Menominee architect, by Wallace Olson, of Escanaba.

The project was included in the city's WPA program and commission agreed to give property owners the opportunity to vote on a $5,000 bond issue to provide a means of financing material costs.

This was done at the April 4 election. The bond issue was approved and the project is now awaiting approval of WPA authorities at Lansing.

Charlotte Merwin, of Gulliver township; and Harry LaFleur, of Hawatha township, were named Schoolcraft county 4-H health champions at the annual achievement day 4-H club program here this week. Health champions were selected by Dr. E. J. Brenner, director of the Alger-Schoolcraft health unit.

It was announced that Elmer James, fourth work handicraft member from Seney, will have his handicraft work exhibited at the National 4-H handicraft contest at Chicago. Charlotte Merwin, Gladys Johnson, Ruth Merwin, Lorraine Hyland, and Lillian Merwin will exhibit clothing articles at the Upper Peninsula State Fair in August.

Local honors at Achievement Day were won by the following: Margaret Hyland, Ruth Hyland, Priscilla LaFleur, Goldie Hartman, Thelma McDonald, Gladys Johnson, Iris Short, Betty Johnson, Ruth Smith, Gladys Gray, Leona Mae Rice, Ruth Merwin, Lillian Merwin, Earl Kane, Vera Rice, Morris Laux, Glen Hyland, Clayton Latch, Donald Hyland, Charles Johnson, Buster Johnson, and Robert McDowell.

Mrs. Watson reviewed the history of 4-H club activities in this county and pointed out the value of the 4-H club program. X-ray Clinic For Tuberculosis Will Be Held Tuesday

A tuberculosis X-ray clinic will be conducted by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association in cooperation with the Alger-Schoolcraft health unit at the Schoolcraft county courthouse Tuesday, April 26, starting at nine o'clock. Dr. E. J. Brenner announced yesterday.

All persons who have been in contact with active cases of tuberculosis or who had positive reactions to tuberculin tests administered here recently will have X-ray examinations to determine definitely whether they are carriers of tuberculosis germs.

The work of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association is financed by the annual sale of Christmas tuberculosis sales. A portable X-ray unit and a qualified operator will be provided by the T-B Association to conduct the local clinic, with the aid of the health officer, Dr. Brenner.

Only by this means can an accurate check be maintained on the tuberculosis situation in this county. This district has long had an exceptionally high tuberculosis rate. By regular clinic examinations, it is hoped to reduce the tuberculosis rate in this and other counties of the state.

Drivers Need Old License Numbers For New Permits

All motorists making applications for drivers' licenses must have their old drivers license with them, or the number of the old license. Chief of Police Roy Anderson has announced. This is a requirement of the secretary of state's office in order to keep license files complete.

Many motorists applying for new licenses have lost or destroyed their old licenses and consequently must first write to the secretary of state's office to get the number of the old license before a new permit is granted.

SEWER PROJECT BEGINS TUESDAY

Installation of North Houghton Street Is Planned

Work will be started Tuesday morning on the installation of a 10-inch sewer main on North Houghton, between Center and Clark streets, it was announced yesterday by City Manager P. H. Beauvais.

The sewer installation will be constructed as a WPA project, the total cost of which has been estimated at $2545. The city's share, representing materials and supervision, is $881.50. About 15 men will be assigned to the job, being transferred from the city's other WPA project, the connection of all dead end water services. At present 30 men are employed on that project.

The Houghton street sewer was originally rejected as a WPA project because of WPA regulations which prohibited such work in communities which do not treat raw sewage. Later the city began the installation with its own crew, but the work was halted by cold weather at the beginning of the winter.

Since that time, WPA regulations have been modified to permit sewer installations in cities of which the state sanitation commission approves the sewer system, regardless of whether raw sewage is chemically treated or not. The project then was refilled and final approval granted by the Works Progress Administration.

The WPA crew working on the connection of dead end water lines will begin the installation of a four inch water main on Main street, between Cedar and Pearl streets, probably this morning, the city manager announced.

GREENBERG HAS SECOND HOMER

Anker Holds White Sox To Seven Hits For 9-3 Triumph

Chicago, April 21 (AP)—Detroit's Tigers won their first victory of the new American League season today, defeating the Chicago White Sox, 9 to 3, behind Eldon Anker's seven-hit pitching.

The Tigers, who dropped the first two games of the opening series to the White Sox, combined eight hits with passes and three errors in the last five innings for their winning total.

Bill Dietrich, who pitched the major league's only full-length no-hit game last year, held Detroit hitless for four innings, but weakened and was batted out of action in the seventh.

Hank Greenberg, the Tigers' slugging first baseman, hit a terrific smash off the left-field pavilion roof in the sixth for his second homer of the campaign.

The Sox' downfall came in the seventh. Bill Rogell had opened the frame with a single to short, but was thrown out at second on Anker's attempted sacrifice.

Ball Hits Walker
Charley Gehring then hit a grounder to Joe Kuhel who quickly threw to second in an attempted double play, Dixie Walker was at the moment sliding into second, and the ball struck him on the head, coming from there to left field.

Dietrich then walked Greenberg and York, forcing Walker in. Bill Cox came in for Dietrich and walked Pete Fox, forcing Gehring in. Don Ross hit into a double play. It was a 4-run inning.

Earlier, the Tigers had scored twice in the fifth to tie the score at two all, and once more in the sixth. The Sox had led with one run in the second. Kuhel walked, took third on Marvin Owen's single and came in after Cullenbine reached into a field box for a foul hit by Tony Rensa.

Kuhel scored again in the fourth. After getting a triple he came in on an infield out.

In the fifth Pete Fox doubled off the tip of Owen's glove, and went home on Ross' single. Rogell, on with a pass, took third on a bad throw by Kuhel, and scored when Rensa dropped a throw from Kuhel.

Gehring and Greenberg, who both got singles, gave the Tigers the final two runs in the ninth after a double by Ross, who, with Greenberg, shared the Detroit's team's hitting honors.

FALLS EXPECTS STRONG OUTFIT

Orphan Again Slated To Pitch; New Players Are Signed Up

Crystal Falls, Apr. 21—Crystal Falls expects to get off to its best start in years in the Northern Wisconsin Michigan league next month, it was asserted by Manager Ed Burling last night at a meeting of the local baseball association.

Cooperation of the city commission and merchants has been a great help in organizing for the campaign, Burling said. The commission has contributed $150 to the team, while business men have made possible the purchase of new uniforms which will be white with blue trim.

With the diamond at the athletic park already in good condition Burling has issued a call for the initial practice session for Sunday afternoon, when the group will begin serious preparation for the first game on May 8.

Orphan to Return
Several changes in the team's personnel from a year ago will be evident. Hugh Orphan, last year's "rookie" find, will be here Sunday and upon him most of the slab duties will fall, in keeping with the manager's plan to carry a roster of nine regulars and a few utility men. In addition all of the prospective players will be residing here and will therefore be able to practice more readily as a unit.

Three new faces will be seen on the playing field, according to the present outlook. Paul Soha, high school senior, a catcher in the twilight league here last year, will attempt to fill Al Richter's shoes and hang on to Orphan's speed.

Floyd Kilgus, with several years of experience at Amasa, may play first base in place of Ed Orphan who will move to center field in order to straighten the outfield. "Teaser" Colclough, formerly of Channing, will try out for shortstop.

Pirates Win First Series of Season

St. Louis, April 21 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates made a clean sweep of their season opening series with the Cardinals by taking the third and final game today by a score of 6 to 5.

The Pirates pounded Curt Davis for 13 hits in eight innings and added two hits in the ninth off Guy Bush and Max Macon to break a 4-4 tie. The Cards rallied in their ninth but fell short by one in the tenth.

Davis was making his first appearance in a Redbird uniform since coming here from the Cubs in the Dixie Deal deal, but the defeat was charged to Bush. Manager Frisch had to rearrange his lineup because of the absence of Pepper Martin, called to the bedside of a sick child.

TWINS TO HAVE ALTON KIRCHER

Gladstone Product Will Go To College Late In Summer

Iron Mountain, April 20.—"We will be at least as strong as last year, and maybe stronger," Manager Ed Kretzler asserted today in reviewing prospects of the Ford Twins for the Northern Wisconsin Michigan Baseball league campaign, opening May 8, in which the combined city-village nine will defend its championship.

The Twins held their first workout last Friday and Kretzler said he would call his men together this afternoon for a second drill. Daily practices will be held as soon as weather permits.

Kretzler was elated by word from Al Kircher, Marquette high school coach and nifty first sacker of the Twins, that Kircher would be with the team for the first month or six weeks of the summer. Kircher plans to attend summer school at the University of Iowa but will not leave for Iowa until in mid-June.

George Mason, Iron Mountain high school coach, who will be used either in the infield or outfield, and Harold "Sody" Soderberg formerly with the Niagara Badgers, will be new Twin players. Soderberg, who played with Niagara for several years, is now residing in Iron Mountain.

Only Two Absentees
Pitcher Howard Vines, new with Wausau in the Northern league, and Second Baseman Johnny Stelmig, who returned to St. Paul last fall, are the only 1937 team members who may not return. Kretzler indicated that Stelmig may be brought here if needed.

All other members of last year's pennant-winning combination will be available, including Catcher Harry Petroske, Pitchers Tony Guber and Tony Caruso, Kircher for a few weeks, Shortstop George Schultz, Third Baseman Baldy Anderson, and Outfielders Ell Enger and Tommy Lawrence.

Kretzler contemplates using Soderberg at second base in place of Stelmig and Mason in the outfield until Kircher leaves. Then Mason may be shifted to first base. A pitcher named Bakon, from the Land O'Lakes district of Wisconsin, has applied for a tryout with the Twins and Kretzler said "From what I hear of Bakon, he may be of use to us. I understand he is a good fast ball pitcher. I intend to give him a thorough trial."

ONLY 3 BLOWS WIN FOR HOSE

Yank Pitchers Wild, And Team Still Lacks Batting Punch

Boston, April 21 (AP)—The Red Sox made only three hits to the New York Yankees' 13 today, but those three safeties coupled with obliging wildness on the part of rival pitchers, were enough to give Tom Yawkey's Millionaires a 3 to 2 decision over the world champions.

Still minus any kind of consistent batting punch, the Yanks led 12 runners stranded on base, and hung on to Orphan's speed. Floyd Kilgus, with several years of experience at Amasa, may play first base in place of Ed Orphan who will move to center field in order to straighten the outfield. "Teaser" Colclough, formerly of Channing, will try out for shortstop.

"RED" POPULAR WITH GRID FANS

Grange Has Following Among Green Bay Packers

Green Bay, Wis., Apr. 21—The announcement that Harold (Red) Grange had again signed his contract to serve as assistant coach of the Chicago Bears stirred the memories of some of the Packer graduates who have long been out of action.

Grange always gave Green Bay lots of trouble in a football way but there never was a Packer grider who didn't admire Grange as a worthy opponent. When Grange left Illinois and joined the Halasmen with Charlie Pyle as his manager, it gave professional football a great boost and the gates soon started skyward.

Early in his pro grid career Red left the Bears and Pyle set up a New York club with Grange as the "king pin." In 1927, the Yankees were billed for a game in Green Bay but the Sunday before the New Yorkers jousting the Bears and Grange suffered a badly injured leg.

It was out of the question for Grange to play and the Packer management announced it far and wide in order to keep faith with the fans but the game drew such a crowd that spectators sought vantage points in trees around the park. Before the starting whistle blew, Grange hobbled on his crutches to the center of the gridiron and the crowd gave him an ovation which probably ranked second to none in his professional football career.

The first school in the city New York was started in 1863 by the Reformed Dutch Church.

OLD KING CARL HUMBLER BEES

Hubbell's Mound Debut Is 3 To 2 Win For League Champs

New York, April 21 (AP)—All's well with the Giants. King Carl Hubbell made his 1938 pitching debut today and was as masterful as ever in flinging the National League champions to a 3 to 2 win over the Boston Bees.

The Hub fanned seven, walked only three, and although having his usual trouble with Al Cuccinello, was generally on top as he gave the Giants a 2-1 edge in their first series of the season.

Each side collected eight hits and one homer. Cuccinello performed that chore for the bees in the fourth, and Hank Leiber landed on one of Lefty Milt Shoffner's slants and knocked it out of the park for the Giants in the same frame. Leiber later drew credit for driving in the winning run when he was walked with the bases loaded in the fifth.

The Giants got off in front in the second frame when Mel Ott tripled and scored on Johnny McCarthy's fly. Each club scored in the fourth, on the Cuccinello and Leiber homers, and in the fifth. The Bees tallied on a walk, an infield out and Roy Johnson's single. The Giants counted on consecutive singles by Hubbell and Jojo Moore, a sacrifice, and consecutive walks to Ott (which filled the bases) and Leiber (which forced in the winning run).

STADIUM RITES SET FOR TODAY

New Tiger Arena Will Be Dedicated; Crowd Of 55,000 Coming

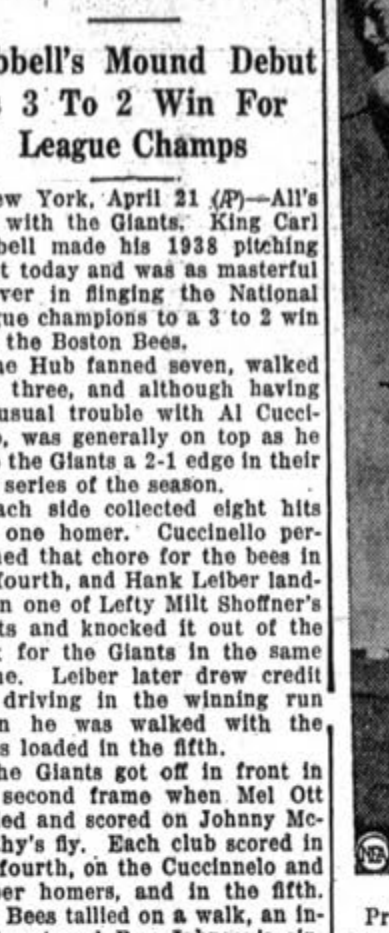

Detroit, April 21 (AP)—Briggs Stadium, successor to Navin Field and acclaimed as the second largest baseball arena in the world, will be dedicated impressively tomorrow.

The weatherman predicts sunshine. Treasurer Spike Briggs of the Detroit Baseball Co., predicts a crowd of 55,000 (this is Detroit, remember).

And Legion, which is the name of the Tiger fans, predicts a victory over the Cleveland Indians. The fans will be in for a lot of added attractions.

The Old Time Ball Players association will lead a parade from the downtown area to the ball park. Among them will be Oscar Stanage, Mary Kavanaugh, Wish Egan, Ed Egan, Bernie Boland, Clyde Manion, Davey Jones, Frank Shebeck, Bob Veach, Mike Menosky, Bert Lercher, Frank Fuller and others. With them will be Mayor Richard Reading and Police Commissioner Heinrich Pickert, both in peg top trousers, one 1938 Cadillac and Henry Ford's original automobile.

JOHNNY BLOOD IS NOT WORRIED

Believes Goldenberg Is In Mood To Play Football

Green Bay, Wis., Apr. 21—According to reports from Pittsburgh, Johnny Blood, pilot of the Pirates, isn't taking Buckets Goldenberg's retirement announcement very seriously.

Blood, who was a teammate of Goldenberg on the Packers for several years, thinks the former Wisconsin grider, will change his mind and report to Pittsburgh late in August.

Coach E. L. Lambeau of the Packers traded Goldenberg and Chester (Swede) Johnston, fullback, to Pittsburgh for the "rights" from Minnesota, and Pat McCarthy, Notre Dame center, two graders whom the Pirates caught in the draft.

Goldenberg, who moved his family from Milwaukee to Green Bay last fall, is associated with a local insurance company and has been doing nicely, it is said.

REDS GIVE CUBS FIRST DEFEAT

Chicago Limited To Four Hits As Cincinnati Collects 13

Cincinnati, April 21 (AP)—Paul Derringer of the Cincinnati Reds limited Chicago to four hits today while his mates garnered 13 off of Tex Carleton to win 6 to 2. It was the first Cincinnati victory of the season.

It was the Cubs' initial setback, after two straight triumphs, one credited to Dixie Dean.

In the fourth inning Derringer hurled four balls to retire the side. Carleton was hit in every inning.

Homers marked scoring for each side in the third. O'Dea connected to score behind Lazzeri who had walked to open the frame, and Goodman, first man up in the Reds' half, clouted another.

In the seventh the Reds filled the bases on Riggs' single, Cooke's double and a deliberate walk to Craft. Successive singles by McCormick and Lombard brought three runs across.

Pressnell Pitches Dodgers in Shutout

Philadelphia, Apr. 21 (AP)—Young Forest Pressnell, fresh up from the minors, made his major league debut today by pitching the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 9 to 0 shutout over the futility Phillies.

He gave up nine hits, fanned three and walked only two while the Brooklyners were coming Hugh Mulcahy and Harry Kelleher for 15 safeties to take the season's opening series, two games to one.

Pressnell looked particularly effective in the pinches, especially in the fourth inning, when the Phils connected for four hits and were unable to push a man across.

A two-run opening frame and a five-run spurge in the fourth skyrocketed the Dodgers way out in front. Rosy Rosen, with two doubles and a single, and Dolph Camilli and Cookie Lavogetto, each with three hits, were the batting heroes.

Indians Win 4 to 3 On Double by Lary

Cleveland, April 21 (AP)—Lyn Lary's double with the bases loaded in the eighth gave the Cleveland Indians a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Browns today. Cleveland won the series two to one.

Earl Whitehill, 32-year-old south-paw making his first start of the season, held the Browns to four hits in the eight innings he worked. One of the hits, however, was a seventh inning home run by Tom Heath, St. Louis catcher. This tied the score, as the Tribe had counted only once at the expense of Vito Tamulis, stocky left hander who started for the Browns and was recorded as the losing pitcher.

Lary got his double off Julio Bonetti, Tamulis' successor.

TOURIST WORK STUDY PLANNED

Schools Of Instruction To Be Conducted By State

Marquette, Mich.—The Michigan Bureau of Vocational Education is preparing to conduct schools of instruction throughout the state, where young men and women will receive at least the rudiments of instruction in the proper servicing of the tourist patronage which is reaching ever greater proportions here.

Some of the things to be imparted include the science of housekeeping for the tourist trade, beautifying resort premises, restaurant operation from the selection of foods to cooking and management, sanitation, and the exercise of courtesy. Intensive three-weeks' courses of four hours a day will be taught, as well as longer courses with two hours' instruction daily.

The teaching staff may consist of home economics teachers from public schools and colleges, instructors in the hotel administration course at Michigan State College, and others recommended by the Michigan Hotel associations and resort operators. The ideas and ideals in effect at some of the country's best resorts will be imparted in actual practice as far as possible.

The Need Is Acute
"There is a real need for such instruction in Michigan," said Geo. E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, Marquette. "We must admit that we are lacking in many of the services, and in the quality of those services, which are being offered in some of the other summer and winter resorting states. It is a common statement that Michigan's tourist and resorting industry has barely gotten under way, and one of the big elements needed for further growth is better service in housing, meals, personal contacts and recreation."

"We would not presume to criticize the larger operators who bring their trained staffs into Michigan each summer," continued Mr. Bishop. "Such staffs are necessary adjuncts to any large resorting business. But Michigan men and women can be trained to fill many jobs of the kind in a very satisfactory way, and after all we want the tourist business to provide as many jobs as possible for Michigan folks. There are sure to be more and more positions of the kind as time goes on."
"It seems logical, too, that the gist of these courses could be boiled down into booklet form and distributed in such a way that it would do a great deal of good. The day is not far away, also, when our colleges will probably find it advisable to offer such courses as a regular part of their curricula. Michigan is now the greatest resorting state in the Union. It can become still more pre-eminent by deliberately and carefully training hundreds of Michigan citizens for a service career in this line."

ICC Will Conduct Hearing On Rates

BY PAUL MAY
Washington, D. C.—Differences in freight rates of motor carriers operating in Escanaba and other Michigan cities will be ironed out as the result of a hearing scheduled for Chicago on April 25, officials of the Interstate Commerce Commission said today.

This will be part of the second big investigation into motor carrier rates authorized by the commission. This investigation will involve carriers in many cities of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin, particularly those carrying to points in Iowa, Kentucky, Missouri, New York, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Differences in rate charges of carriers operating through Escanaba have been filed with the commission by irritated shippers, it was learned. As a result the commission has decided to prescribe minimum charges for those carriers. Rates prescribed by the Middle Atlantic States-Motor Carrier Conference, it was said, will be taken as standard.

The only previous investigation of a similar nature involved carriers in middle Atlantic states.

Carp And Pine River Smelt Run On Wane

Newberry, April 20—The run of smelt on many of the streams in the eastern end of the peninsula is now on the decline, it is learned at the district conservation office here. The best streams at present appear to be the Carp and the Pine in the region of St. Martin's bay. On these two streams which empty into Lake Huron, the smelt run is now approaching its crest. In the waters entering Lake Michigan the silvery fish are now not running in as large numbers as last week and it is believed that the annual spawning season is past its crest there. However, big catches are still being reported from the Black River. Commercial smelt fishing in the region of St. Ignace has almost stopped, the reports say, because of the small market found for them.
