RIVAL FORCES IN POSITIONS AT TANCHENG

CHINESE REPORTED ENCIRCLING VILLAGE

Shanghai, May 2 (AP)—Three Chinese columns were reported encircling Tancheng, strategic walled town 20 miles north of the Lunghai railway, today while 10,000 fresh Chinese troops were being rushed to that sector.

In a desperate effort to halt the reinforcements, Japanese warplanes subjected them to almost continuous bombardment. The Chinese attack on Tancheng, however, already had developed into a battle of major proportions, threatening communication lines of the Japanese advance guard near the Lunghai.

The question of whether the Japanese were approaching their second major military disaster in Shantung was being discussed openly by foreign military experts, who expected decisive action within a week.

Need Reinforcements—If the Chinese can hold their lines a week longer, these experts declared, the Japanese—already wearied and battered—will need heavy reinforcements both in men and guns to prevent a complete stalemate which would be tantamount to defeat.

Such reinforcements must necessarily come from Japan since further demobilization of other provinces in north and central China is judged impossible. Withdrawals of Japanese troops from Shansi and Honan provinces already have enabled the Chinese to establish a buffer zone 50 miles wide on the north bank of the Yellow river, halting the Japanese threat on that front.

The significance of the present deadlock, foreign military experts pointed out, is the constant drain of Japanese munitions which must be transported hundreds of miles.

While not minimizing the possibility that the Japanese may yet break through, these experts regard each day of deadlock as a new gain for the Chinese.

Father And 3 Sons Drown; Murder And Suicide Indicated

Bedford, Ind., May 2 (AP)—Four persons were drowned here today in what Dr. R. E. Wynne, Lawrence county coroner, said apparently constituted three murders and a suicide.

The dead are Lester Etchison, 32, and his three young sons, Max, Donald and Russell.

The four were drowned when Etchison drove an automobile containing himself and his sons off the road at Williams, a small town near here, into White river.

Dr. Wynne said two letters, addressed to Mrs. Etchison and Lewis Etchison, a brother, were recovered from the car with the bodies. The letters, Dr. Wynne said, told of a determination by the father to end his own life and those of his sons because of domestic troubles.

French Taxes Are Boosted To Care For Armaments

Paris, May 2 (AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier's "national defense" cabinet today decreed sweeping tax increases to meet the enormous expense of the nation's armaments.

It was the first group of decrees written under the government's new dictatorial powers and followed the premier's warning every Frenchman would have to dig deeper into his pocket for defense of France.

Here is a brief outline of the essential points of the decrees as given by semi-official quarters prior to their publication: A ten per cent increase in income taxes—now ranging from one per cent for taxable income of 10,000 francs ($300) to 40 per cent for taxable income of 1,500,000 francs ($45,000).

A ten per cent increase in other direct taxes. A five per cent increase in indirect taxes.

Hurried Changes Made—The cabinet meeting with President Albert Lebrun, made a number of last-minute changes in the decrees.

At a second session they were presented to the president for signature, the last action before they became law by publication in the official journal tomorrow.

Besides the drastic tax decrees, the cabinet was understood to have approved others to bolster the nation's credit and to stimulate production.

Among those signed by Lebrun was a measure to tighten police control of foreigners living in France. Members of the cabinet were unanimous in their approval of Daladier's outline of the newly framed Anglo-French agreements. They expressed the "greatest satisfaction" at the pending two-power accord.

Metal workers, meanwhile, announced the signing of a new collective contract. This action dispelled a threat to production in that section of the armaments industry.

The 500,000 workers returned to work April 18 after a 23 day strike, but the agreement was not completed until last night.

ROYAL HOUSES HAVE WEDDING

Hohenzollern, Romanoff Dynasties Joined in Marriage

Potsdam, Germany, May 2 (AP)—The houses of Hohenzollern and Romanoff, once among the most powerful dynasties of Europe, were joined today by the marriage of Prince Louis Ferdinand and the Grand Duchess Kira.

The union of the two throneless royal families was proclaimed by former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm of Prussia, father of the bridegroom, who said in a brief address to the young couple:

"The old traditional ties between the Russian imperial house and the Prussian royal house once again have been tied. Unfortunately they have been rent asunder by the world war, but you have brought us together again."

The 30-year-old prince, who once was a Detroit automobile mechanic, and his 29-year-old bride, daughter of Grand Duke Cyril, pretender to the lost throne of old Russia, were married in two ceremonies in Cecilienhof castle this morning—a civil ceremony and an elaborate Greek ceremony.

Tonight they left by train for the home of the exiled Kaiser Wilhelm at Doorn, The Netherlands, where they will be married again Wednesday in a Protestant ceremony.

Among the numerous presents the royal couple received was a leather-bound copy of Adolf Hitler's "Mein Kampf," presented by the marriage clerk under Nazi law; a cabriolet presented by the Ford Motor company's German plant at Cologne; and a poem inscribed on parchment and composed by former Ford workmen who were associates of the bridegroom.

Baby Dies In Fire At New Hudson, Mich.

New Hudson, Mich., May 2 (AP)—A year-old baby perished in a fire which destroyed the home of Fred Campbell today.

The mother, Mrs. Mabel Campbell, discovered the fire in a bedroom where four of her six children were playing. She was able only to rescue Eileen, 6, James, 3, and a baby of three months.

Flames drove the mother back when she tried to return for Marilyn, one year. Two other children were in school. Authorities said they believed the children may have been playing with matches.

Shadowed Her

The romantic troubles of Thomas Warner, Jr., heir to millions and blond divorcee, the former Mrs. Jean McDonald, appeared to be all over when this affectionate picture was taken a few seconds after their marriage in Las Vegas, N. M. Warner once employed detectives to shadow Mrs. McDonald to test her love for him but now all's well because it has ended well.

FOUR CONVICTS MAKE ESCAPE

Indiana Authorities Intensive Search for Prisoners

Indianapolis, May 2 (AP)—Indiana state police broadcast a report over the state police radio that Melvin Breining, kidnaped by four convicts who escaped from the state prison at Michigan City today, had been found tonight near Kankakee, Ill.

Michigan City, Ind., May 2 (AP)—State prison authorities said four long-term inmates of the Indiana state prison here escaped late today.

The convicts who escaped are: Ernest Powell, 35, serving a ten-year robbery sentence from Marion county.

Ernest Grigsby, 33, serving a 5-21 year robbery term from Vigo county.

Wilbur Dawson, 36, serving a ten-year robbery term from Grant county.

Frank Mears, 34, serving a 10-25 year robbery term from Randolph county.

The prisoners were missed when officials made their 6 o'clock roll call. It was the second break from the state prison this year.

Commandeer Auto—The convicts commandeered the automobile of Melvin Breining of Michigan City, near the prison and took the young man with them.

Deputy Warden L. G. Schmul expressed the belief the four men made their way out of the prison in a freight car.

Schmul said the car was brought to the prison today, unloaded and then was pulled outside the grounds. Nye said a hole in one side indicated the convicts had cut their way out after the freight car had been removed from the prison grounds.

Jackie Coogan Wins First Round In Suit Against His Mother

Los Angeles, May 2 (AP)—Jackie Coogan emerged the victor today in the preliminary battle to regain his childhood earnings when Judge Emmet H. Wilson overruled demurrers to his accounting suit against his mother and his stepfather and confirmed the appointment of a receiver.

The judge also granted a preliminary injunction, preventing disposal of any of the assets of the Arthur L. Bernsteins, Jackie's mother and stepfather.

During arguments over the demurrer to the action, which demands the Bernsteins, render an accounting of his fortune, Judge Wilson pointed out that the allegations of undue influence on Bernstein's part must be carefully considered by the court.

Attorneys for young Coogan said today's rulings mean he has a "legal cause of action" and can demand an early trial of his suit.

FOUR STATES TO TEST OUT VOTE TRENDS

PRIMARY ELECTIONS MAY HAVE SOME SIGNIFICANCE

Washington, May 2 (AP)—Primary balloting tomorrow may indicate what influence if any, the economic slump and other events are exerting on 1938 political trends.

Four states will have primary elections. Prospects for an indication of voter sentiment toward sending Roosevelt supporters to next year's new congress appeared best in Florida.

Senator Claude Pepper had the endorsement of the president's son and secretary, James, in his campaign in that state for the Democratic nomination to succeed himself. His opponents included Representative J. Mark Wilcox, a foe of last year's court bill and certain other Roosevelt measures; former Governor Dave Sholtz, allied closely with the White House in the past; T. C. Merchant, publisher of a weekly newspaper, and Finley Moore, head of a Florida abstract company.

Other Contests Today. Indiana, Alabama and South Dakota also have primaries tomorrow, but they offer no contests comparable to the Florida senatorial struggle in potential material for national political speculation. There was considerable interest in the capital, however, in the proportions of the total Democratic and Republican vote to be cast in Indiana and South Dakota.

In Alabama, Senator Lister Hill, an administration stalwart, had the field all to himself in his race for the Democratic nomination to succeed himself. Among the Alabamians seeking Democratic nominations to the house of representatives were all of the nine incumbents.

In Indiana, where the voters will nominate candidates for 12 seats in congress and for city and county offices, local contests have overshadowed the congressional contests in popular interest and are expected to bring out a heavy vote.

Halleck Unopposed—Unopposed for renomination were Representative Charles A. Halleck, the state's only Republican in congress, and seven of the eleven Indiana Democrats now in the house of representatives. Most of the latter group, in the main, supported administration measures.

Representative Virginia Jenckes, Indiana Democrat who is one of the few women members of the national legislature, was opposed for renomination by Paul Sturm, (Continued on Page Two)

Two Million Dollar Love Theft Suit Is Dropped By Actress

Los Angeles, May 2 (AP)—The $2,000,000 love theft suit filed by Judith Allen, film actress, against Mrs. Dolphine Dodge Cromwell Baker Godde was dismissed today.

Miss Allen charged the wealthy automobile heiress stole the affections of her then husband, Jack Doyle, boxer and singer.

Her suit was filed after she had obtained a divorce from Doyle, but she declared that had it not been for Mrs. Godde, there would have been a reconciliation.

"I am sure that Mrs. Godde had no intention or desire to injure me," Miss Allen said in a statement, made in New York and released by her attorneys, S. S. Hahn and W. O. Graf, who authorized dismissal of the suit.

La Guardia, endorsing the lending-aid program, said all bills having to do with recovery efforts could be referred to the committee which he proposed.

"They (the committee) could stay here this summer when congress goes home and present one bill, with all phases of recovery covered in it, in September or October at a special session. We've got to get the best minds of the country on this thing and do it damned quick."

Cannot Criticize—Mr. Roosevelt, in his letter to Mrs. Norton, said first of all that the rules committee was within its rights in voting not to submit the wage-hour bill to the house, and that he himself had no "right" to criticize the rules of the house.

"There are, however, certain types of measure in each session which are of undoubted national importance because they related to major policies of government and affect the lives of millions of people."

"It has always seemed to me that in the case of these measures, few in any one session—the whole membership of the legislative body should be given full and free opportunity to discuss them. This discussion may end in drastic amendment, or in recomittal, or even in complete rejection."

In the case of the wage and hour legislation, the majority party of the house is committed to legislation by its national platform. (Continued on Page Two)

Magazine 'Social Justice' Tied Up By $200,000 Damage Suits

Detroit, May 2 (AP)—Father Coughlin's "social justice" magazine and the firm that had printed it filed suits for $200,000 damages against each other in circuit court here today.

The magazine did not appear on schedule today, and the publishers ask that the Morris Press, Inc. of Detroit be assessed $200,000 for not getting it out.

The printing firm, in a bill that it claimed was filed earlier today, asks the same amount because the publishers allegedly failed to get copy to the printers in time for the May 2 issue. Both complain charge breach on contract.

Earlier, a statement issued by the publishing firm said, the issue of April 25 would be the last to be handled by the Morris firm, giving as a reason the fact that a

Green Extends Labor Battlefront

A major engagement in the developing labor war between the C.I.O. and the A.F. of L. opened in Washington when the A. F. of L.'s executive council chartered a rival miners' union which will attempt to cut away John L. Lewis' support in the United Mine Workers. The photo above shows President William Green, right, handing the charter of the new International Union, Progressive Mine Workers of America to the union's temporary president, Joe Ozanic.

Green And Lewis Okeh Huge Spending Program

Washington, May 2 (AP)—Leaders of the embattled factions of organized labor, the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. found common ground today in calling upon congress to approve President Roosevelt's $4,500,000,000 lending-aid program upon the depression.

Like Mayor La Guardia of New York—who proposed the creation of a permanent congressional "recovery committee" to submit a program for action at a special session of congress—William Green and John L. Lewis appeared before the house appropriations sub-committee to argue that the extent of unemployment made the president's program necessary.

Meanwhile, Chairman Norton (D-NJ) of the house labor committee made public a letter from President Roosevelt dealing with another part of the administration's economic and social program, the wage-hour bill. The letter urged that the bill, again bogged down in the house rules committee, be brought before the house by petition. Mrs. Norton arranged to submit such a petition on Friday, and administration leaders were already at work in an effort to line up the 218 signatures which would automatically bring the measure to the house floor.

Two Disagree—While Lewis and Green were in agreement that appropriations should be granted, they differed on just how many workers were without jobs. Green said 11,200,000. Lewis put the figure at 13,000,000 to 14,000,000.

"The gravity of the economic situation we are facing today exceeds our worst expectations," said Green. "x x x the proposals you are considering are an essential part of the action which must be taken without delay, for even more important than the measures designed to stimulate business revival are those which serve to relieve the distress of unemployment brought about by this new crisis."

La Guardia, endorsing the lending-aid program, said all bills having to do with recovery efforts could be referred to the committee which he proposed.

"They (the committee) could stay here this summer when congress goes home and present one bill, with all phases of recovery covered in it, in September or October at a special session. We've got to get the best minds of the country on this thing and do it damned quick."

GANGSTER PUT UNDER BONDS

Harry Fleisher and Wife Arrested for Having 'Young Arsenal'

Detroit, May 2 (AP)—Bonds of $100,000 each were set by United States Commissioner J. Stanley Hurd for Harry Fleisher, former Purple gangster, his wife, Nellie, and Sid Markman, New York hoodlum, at their arraignment today on charges of illegal possession of unregistered guns and a machine gun.

All three pleaded innocent and were held to await examination May 12.

They were arrested last Wednesday by Highland Park police, who found what federal authorities called the "largest gangster arsenal ever discovered in the middle west" in the Fleisher apartment in the Detroit suburb.

Markman is wanted in Brooklyn in connection with the slaying of Sidney Franks, a poultry merchant, during a holdup. Henry R. Sunball, special agent of the internal revenue department, said the federal charges would be pressed before Markman is returned to Brooklyn. Detectives Clare Davis and Homer Shearer, of Highland Park police, said Markman had confessed the slaying of Franks.

The complaint against the three charges that they had in their possession five guns, one sub-machine gun, five pistol silencers, two circular clips and one rifle silencer, none of which was registered with the department of internal revenue. They face maximum prison terms of 80 years and maximum fines of $32,000. It convicted, according to United States District Attorney John C. Lehr.

Detroit police had sought Fleisher for questioning in connection with the disappearance of Jak Ekelman, general organizer for the Master Barber association. He has been missing for two weeks.

Aldrich Scores Gov't Policies; Raps Spending

Washington, May 2 (AP)—Winthrop W. Aldrich, one of 16 big businessmen who recently offered President Roosevelt their help in restoring confidence and normal business, denounced tonight the new administration plan for promoting recovery by vast federal loans and expenditures.

Aldrich, chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank, told the American section of the International Chamber of Commerce the program was based upon economic fallacy, derived from the writings of Karl Marx, holding possibilities of a "crash of the government credit and a debauch of the currency."

Lumping the lending-spending plan with its allied program for making some $2,000,000,000 additional lendable funds available to the banks, Aldrich said "we appear to be throwing away all safeguards, removing all brakes and heading for disaster."

He blamed the depression upon governmental policies which, he said, in the last few years had been directed at increasing the income of the consumers and at the same time diminishing savings for use in investments, in creating new capital and in maintaining existing capital. Meanwhile, he said, reforms have come too rapidly.

"I think that nothing is more needed at the present time," he said, "than a prolonged period of (Continued on Page Two)

THOMSON RAPS AT GOVERNOR

Murphy Criticized for His Association With Detroit Lawyer

Lansing, May 2 (AP)—James F. Thomson, chairman of the Republican state central committee, described Harry Mead, Detroit attorney in an address here today as the "crown prince" of favor in Governor Murphy's administration. Mead was Murphy's Detroit campaign manager in the 1936 election.

Asserting he intended his remarks for the attention of Murphy, Thomson said in his address to Ingham county Republican women:

"Harry Mead is your crown prince, or your little silver eagle, or whatever you wish to call him. The commission who would turn him down wouldn't have a job the next morning—and you know that, governor."

Thomson said it was Mead who obtained the appointment of Irvin (Cy) Huston as secretary of the liquor control commission, a post the speaker described as "liquor czar."

He asserted that Hale G. Knight, Republican member of the liquor commission, had obeyed instructions from Murphy and reduced the state's liquor inventory to a point around $4,000,000, when Knight was in charge of liquor purchases.

"On November 27, 1937," Thomson told the rally, "Mr. Knight was called to Detroit with Mr. McFarland (Edward W. McFarland), the chairman of the commission, to talk with Governor Murphy. Knight had the holiday liquor orders with him. He showed them to Mr. McFarland and Mr. McFarland asked to keep them overnight. A short time later Mr. Knight discovered that they had been raised."

"x x x We think that if you will look into the records you will find that Mr. Mead got most of that $3,000,000 raise."

Neither McFarland nor Knight would comment on Thomson's charges.

Mrs. Barker's Trial Postponed By Judge

Detroit, (AP)—Circuit Judge Ira W. Jayne announced Monday that he would set a trial date for Mrs. Julia M. Barker Wednesday. She is accused of the slaying of Mrs. Edith Mae Cummings, her former business associate, near Belleville, Mich., last January. The extension to Wednesday was granted by the court in order to give the accused woman time in which to obtain an attorney. It was the third extension granted in the case. Harry F. Kelly, counsel for Mrs. Barker at her examination, withdrew from the case last month.

Imlay City, Mich., May 2 (AP)—Cecil Boeneman, 14, was struck and killed by a Grand Trunk passenger train on a trestle today when he crossed over to other tracks to avoid a freight train. His twin brother, Edsel, abouted a warning too late. The boys were going swimming.

Traffic Toll

Adrian, Mich., May 2 (AP)—Mrs. Ludie Green, 52, was killed instantly here tonight when she was struck by an automobile driven by Chauncey Rudolph, 29, of Morenci. Rudolph was detained for questioning by police.

The accident occurred at an intersection near the Green Motor Sales filling station. The woman's husband, Albert T. Green, is president of the motor sales concern.

Officers said Rudolph apparently lost control of his car. He was accompanied by a woman and another couple.

Bad Axe, Mich. (AP)—James Greene, 67, of Alpena, died here Monday of injuries received in an automobile accident two miles east of Sebawaing Sunday. Greene's car left the road.

Cheboygan, Mich. (AP)—Injuries suffered when his automobile left the road and struck an embankment near here Sunday proved fatal Monday to Ivan Elliott, 23, of Cheboygan.

TWO FAMOUS DICTATORS IN CONFAB TODAY

ITALIANS TO GIVE HUGE WELCOME TO FUEHRER

(By The Associated Press) Rome, May 2—Italy's square-jawed duce and greater Germany's determined Fuehrer will meet tomorrow to symbolize their unity.

It will be the third meeting of these European pace-setters in their eventual working partnership.

While Italy prepared a spectacular welcome for the Nazi leader, attention was focused on what new events in Europe Benito Mussolini and Adolf Hitler might plan in the few hours for private talks they will have in the crowded program.

Hitler and his entourage left Berlin this afternoon.

His special train will nose through the Brenner Pass shortly after 6 a. m. (midnight E.S.T. Monday) tomorrow. It will follow a tightly-guarded route and arrive in Rome at 8:30 p. m. (2:30 p. m. E.S.T.) tomorrow night.

Movements Unleashed? His state trip in Italy, repaying Mussolini's visit to Germany Sept. 25-29, 1937, will end May 10. Before their meeting last year the fascist and Nazi leaders conferred June 14-16, 1934, in Venice.

Officially Hitler's visit among the ruins of imperial Rome, dressed up in his honor, is heralded as a demonstration that fascism and national socialism are united in effort and that attempts to becloud this unity are destined to fail.

It follows Hitler's annexation of Austria, the Anglo-Italian agreement of April 16 for settling Mediterranean, African and Spanish issues between Britain and Italy, France's move for a similar accord with Mussolini and the strengthening of the Anglo-French entente.

Information Lacking—Many reports circulated as to what Mussolini and Hitler would discuss but authoritative information was lacking.

Some circles said a military alliance would be developed but others said they doubted that fascist-Nazi collaboration would go that far.

The authoritative commentator Virginia Gayda declared the Fuehrer's coming had a three-fold significance:

"First, it will affect the course of the fascist-Nazi rejuvenating revolution.

"Second, it will affect the combined protection of Italian and German interests.

"Third, it will affect the development of world foreign policy to which Italy and Germany now are such inspiring, collaborating parties."

Public comment ignored the greatest factor in Italo-German relations since Mussolini visited Germany—the Nazi absorption of Austria.

This move found little sympathy among many Italians, as it brought German troops to the Brenner Pass, but everything has been done to assure Hitler a rousing welcome.

GOERING IS NO. 1 Berlin, May 2 (AP)—Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Adolf Hitler's right-hand man, had charge of the German government tonight as his chief speeded toward Italy for a ten-day state visit.

NORTH DAKOTA PAPER HONORED

Pulitzer Prize Awards In Journalism Are Announced

New York, May 2 (AP)—A North Dakota "dust bowl" newspaper, a Pittsburgh reporter who revealed Justice Black's one-time membership in the Ku Klux Klan and a Washington correspondent who obtained an exclusive interview with President Roosevelt tonight shared journalism's highest awards for 1937.

Trustees of Columbia university, awarding the annual Pulitzer prizes in journalism, arts, and letters established in 1917, gave the Bismarck (N.D.) Tribune a $500 gold medal for "the most disinterested and meritorious public service rendered by a newspaper" during 1937. It campaigned to restore confidence of its state's dust victims.

Arthur Krock of the New York Times, a 1935 Pulitzer prize winner, was cited for distinguished service as a foreign or Washington correspondent, and given a $500 award for his exclusive, authorized interview with the president on Feb. 27, 1937. Krock's interview related the president's political philosophy.

The trustees selected as the most distinguished example of a reporter's work during the year Raymond Sprigle's series of articles in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette disclosing the former affiliation of the new supreme court justice with the Ku Klux Klan.

Sprigle was awarded $1,000.

Departing from the prescribed list of awards, Columbia's trustees recognized the leadership of the Edmondton Journal in defense of freedom of the press in the Canadian province of Alberta with the presentation of a bronze plaque.

Six dailies and 90 weeklies in the province which joined with the journal in 1937 in fighting an act which the trustees said would have abolished the freedom of the press in Alberta, received engraved certificates.

A $500 award went to W. W. Waymack, associate editor of the Des Moines (Iowa) Register and Tribune, for outstanding editorial writing throughout the year. The trustees did not select any one of Waymack's editorials as the prize winner.

Columbia's trustees selected the Pulitzer winners today on recommendation of an advisory board provided under the will of Joseph Pulitzer, the publisher who established a fund to perpetuate the awards.

The winners were announced formally at a banquet celebrating the silver jubilee of the Columbia school of journalism.

The following reelections to the advisory board, for three years, were announced at the dinner: Arthur M. Howe, editor emeritus of the Brooklyn Eagle; Robert Lincoln O'Brien, former editor of the Boston Herald; William Allen White, editor of the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette.

Elected to vacancies on the advisory board were: Sevellon Brown, editor of the Providence, R. I., Journal, and Walter M. Harrison, managing editor of the Oklahoma City Oklahoma and Times.

One of the other members of the board is Stuart H. Perry, publisher of the Adrian, Mich., Telegram.

It was the second time in less than two months that the number two Nazi held the reins. When Hitler went to Austria March 12 and absorbed that nation into Germany, he made Goering acting chancellor.

Hitler left the Anhalter station at 4:45 p. m. (10:45 a. m. E. S. T.) in a special train which is due in Rome tomorrow night.

Thousands of persons jammed into the decorated station to give him a rousing send-off. Another special with Nazi officials followed Hitler's train.

Issues of great importance to Europe were expected to be discussed by the Fuehrer and Premier Benito Mussolini.

It was taken for granted that the implications of the tightening of Anglo-French bonds last week in London would be one of the main topics.

Modest Pole Envoy Ducks Ceremony As He Leaves Detroit

Detroit, May 2 (AP)—Count Jerzy Potocki, Poland's ambassador to the United States, left Detroit today after a two-day visit, eluding his police escort and hundreds of fellow countrymen who planned to wish him farewell.

Close friends said that the count, who is extremely modest, thought it best to leave without ceremony. He engaged transportation on a plane bound for Washington under an assumed name and it was not learned that he had gone until an hour after his departure.

He was welcomed by thousands of Poles Sunday. Today he was the guest of honor at a program at St. Mary's college at Orchard Lake, Mich.

McPherson Testing Political Strength Through Postcards

Lansing, May 2 (AP)—State Tax Commissioner Melville M. McPherson said tonight he had not decided whether he would run for governor, although petitions to qualify him as a contestant for the Republican nomination were filed with the department of state today for approval as to form.

McPherson said an intensified "post card campaign" to determine sentiment would decide whether he would run. He said thousands of cards were being mailed to many sections of the state asking the recipients to list their preference for himself, Frank D. Fitzgerald, and Harry S. Toy, two other candidates for the party's nomination.

Parts Of Body Are Found In River

Cleveland, May 2 (AP)—The headless, armless trunk, upper legs and left foot of Cleveland's eleventh "torso murder" victim were found floating in the Cuyahoga river today.

Coroner S. R. Gerber said today's remains match the portion of a leg found in the river April 5.

The victim was a woman of small build, the coroner said, and had been dead for about four weeks.

Coroner Gerber asserted the "identification marks" made in cutting off the left foot show beyond doubt that the foot found today was severed from the leg discovered on April 5.

Parts of the bodies of ten other persons, all apparently killed by the same person, had been found in Cleveland previously in the last four years. Only three have been identified.

Warden At Alcatraz Visits In Michigan

Jackson, Mich., May 2 (AP)—Warden James A. Johnson of Alcatraz prison visited at the state prison of southern Michigan today. An old friend of Warden Joel Moore of the state prison, Johnson stopped in on a trip to Springfield, Ill., for a conference of federal prison wardens and officials. He was accompanied by Arthur D. Wood, chairman of the federal parole board.

Photographer Found Dead Near Muskegon

Muskegon, (AP)—Russell W. Cole, 30, staff photographer for the Muskegon Chronicle, was found dead in a wooded area north of Muskegon Monday. The body was slumped in his car and the motor had been shut off. There was no sign of violence. Cole left home about 9 p. m. Sunday, telling his father he was going to church.

Confiscated Pelts Are Sold By State

Lansing—Approximately $1,000 was received by the state from the sale of 709 pelts conducted last month by the department of conservation. Some of the hides had been turned in to the department by hunters and trappers for bounty while others had been confiscated for violations of the game laws.

The batch included 448 muskrats which brought a total of $281.60; 235 coyotes which were sold for $627; 13 beavers; seven raccoons; three bobcats; two mink; one fox.

Promoters Disappointed at Size of Crowd at Chicago Fight

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer
Chicago—Having defended the world championship twice in six weeks—unprecedented among modern heavyweight titlists—Joe Louis is taking a real rest.

After a week of idling in Chicago, Louis will spend another week or so at the summer home of one of his managers, Julian Black, at Stevensville, Mich. Then the Alabama-born Negro and his retinue will pack off to Lafayetteville, N. Y., where he'll soak up a lot of mountain air before beginning serious training for his second edition with Max Schmeling, around May 1.

Meanwhile New York, Chicago, and Detroit clamor for—and claim they'll get—the big battle of June 22.

Joe Triner, chairman of the Illinois boxing board, was pretty certain the Windy City would get the match up until the time of the Thomas bout.

But if Mike Jacobs was pleased about the attendance of 10,466 which sat in on a heavyweight title bout a few nights back, he deserves the academy award for life acting. The bout drew only $45,600, also a new low for modern heavyweight championships.

Must Be Contest

Chicagoans were frank in their lax interest in the affair.

Harry Thomas, they admitted, had adapted Chicago for his headquarters, but who, they ask, was Harry Thomas?

The show proved that even Joe Louis has to be shown in something that can be passed off as a contest.

But Mike Jacobs now could give the Louis-Schmeling fight to either Detroit or New York and maintain stoutly that he wasn't giving the Windy City the run-around.

He could claim the Louis-Thomas fight was a test of Chicago's good faith. And if the maintains Chicago failed in its test, who is there to say him nay?

The class in fistie mathematics has the Louis-Schmeling problem all figured out.

Whereas Joe Louis put the business to Thomas in five rounds, and:

Whereas Schmeling need an extra three heats to accomplish the same end:

Be it resolved that Louis probably will emerge a winner when the bomber and the Teuton meet for the second time.

There is small doubt but what the champion will enter the ring a favorite when he puts his crown on the block against Schmeling.

Despite the fact that in their first affair he crumbled like clay before the thundering rights of the German.

Louis Has Job Now

It was a purposeful and calculating young man who went to work on Thomas in Chicago Stadium.

Jack Blackburn didn't let Louis take any chances. He fought just the fight he planned.

When Schmeling looks across his gloves at Louis this June he'll probably be on guard not against the lethal, short right and left hooks and counters which Joe throws, but one of the most amazing left jabs any fighter ever possessed.

Louis didn't have the job two years ago that he has now. Against Thomas it was like a well-oiled piston, shooting out

MICHIGAN MAY USE RETURNS

State Gets Permission to Examine Records of Tax Returns

Lansing, May 2 (AP)—The state tax commission received word from Washington informally today that Michigan has been granted permission to examine federal income tax returns to assist in personal property tax collections.

Chairman John N. Fegan said the state board of tax equalization would employ the information for three purposes—to check assertions of taxpayers that they have been over assessed; to check charges that other assessments were too low, and to settle personal property assessment disputes among townships.

Fegan said he already has received word that personal property assessments of the General Motors corporation would be challenged before the state board of tax equalization, which is composed of the tax commission, the auditor general and the commissioner of agriculture.

It was understood the assessment of the Great Lakes Steel corporation, of Escore, also would be fought out before the board.

The chairman said the tax returns would be used to settle tax challenges arising in Detroit, Flint, Manistee, Battle Creek, Marine City and Mt. Clemens.

Fegan said Manning Shaw, secretary to U. S. Senator Prentiss M. Brown, had sent a telegram last week asking that Michigan's Commissioner Guy T. Helvinger would dispatch formal notification to Governor Murphy that Michigan's petition has been granted.

Former Banker, 65, Under Arrest For Adrian Embezzling

Adrian, Mich., May 2 (AP)—Sought since January on a warrant charging embezzlement, R. Herbert Watts, 65, former banker, was confined to the Emma L. Bixby hospital here today. Watts was returned to Adrian from Chicago Sunday night by Sheriff Fred R. Seger.

The warrant accuses him of embezzling $1,250 from the Oakwood Cemetery association, of which he was treasurer for many years. An audit of the association's books conducted after Watts' disappearance January 7 disclosed a shortage of approximately $64,000.

Sheriff Seger disclosed today that he received a tip that Watts was living in a Chicago hotel and went there Sunday. Watts appeared dazed and did not recognize him at first, the sheriff said. During the trip to Adrian Sunday night, Watts told him that he planned to give himself up. Watts had only a small amount of change on his person, Sheriff Seger said.

The men immediately after the break was discovered.

Five convicts saw their way to freedom from the prison last January. Following an extensive investigation the state department of institutions made recommendations to remedy "structural weaknesses" which purportedly permitted the convicts to escape.

Part of these recommendations have been carried out. Several guards were dismissed.

The prison has been the scene of several breaks in the last five years.

Ten convicts escaped in the fall of 1933, using guns believed to have been smuggled to them by John Dillinger, who was in Lima, O., jail on a bank robbery charge at the time of the break.

Several of them then raided the Lima jail, killed Sheriff Jesse Sarker, freed Dillinger, and formed the notorious Dillinger gang.

Vacations Ordered For 335 G-Men As Economy Measure

Washington, May 2 (AP)—J. Edgar Hoover has ordered 335 G-men assigned to 42 field offices throughout the country to take 30 days vacation this month "in the interests of economy."

The director of the federal bureau of investigation said 335 additional agents would be ordered to take leaves of absence in June.

Salaries will continue during the vacations. Hoover said the orders were issued chiefly to reduce travel and per diem expenses. He said an unusual number of costly investigations had caused a $107,000 deficit in his bureau's budget.

The first magazine to be issued was the Gentleman's Magazine, published in London in 1731.

GIVES ADVICE ON TREE PESTS

Tips On Control Issued By Noblet Of Tech Forestry School

Houghton, May 2.—This is the time of year when two of the worst Upper Peninsula ornamental tree pests can be dealt a severe blow by the application of sprays.

How to identify and cope with these pests is explained by Prof. U. J. Noblet, head of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology forestry department. At the college both pests have been very successfully controlled by the applications which Mr. Noblet recommends.

The white marked tussock moth is one of our most destructive leaf-eating insects. The caterpillars become so numerous at times as to completely defoliate elm, maple, basswood, horse-chestnut, and birch trees. The eggs are deposited in white masses on tree trunks, branches, eaves of houses, and in other sheltered places.

The head is red, and there are two tufts of long, black hairs rising from the back near the head and a single tuft near the rear end of the body. There are also four cream-colored, bristle-like tufts of hair on the back.

Although parasitism runs very high often 75 to 85 percent, even this high percentage does not seem to hold the pest in check. Birds destroy quantities of caterpillars but not enough to reduce the number materially.

Artificial Control Methods

Artificial control should be carried out along two lines: First, destroy the egg masses in winter and band uninfested trees in the spring; second, spray infested trees in summer. Egg masses may be scraped off and burned, or they may be destroyed by applying crude creosote by means of a brush or sponge.

In banding uninfested trees, apply a coat of tree tanglefoot around the trunk. The band should be about ten inches wide. Bands of cotton batting or burlap tied around the tree and turned down in such a manner that the caterpillars will crawl into them serve to turn them away. Spraying with paris green or lead arsenate is effective but expensive, and the other methods are to be preferred.

The scale insects, family Coccidae, include some of the most important pests with which the horticulturist has to deal. Almost all kinds of fruit trees and shrubs are subject to the attacks of one or more species of these insects. Most of the shade trees may also be seriously affected at times, and forest trees, while not often killed by the scale insects, may be so seriously weakened that they quickly become a prey to bark beetles and other pests. Young trees, particularly in nurseries or in areas being reforested, are very susceptible to injury from various scale insects.

The oyster-shell scale, in particular, attacks almost all kinds of deciduous trees and shrubs in all parts of the United States. The scales are shaped like an elongated oyster shell. The scale of the male is smaller than that of the female. They are often so abundant as to form a brownish crust on the bark of their host, and frequently kill the twigs and limbs and sometimes the whole tree.

These scales may be controlled in winter and early spring by using a combination of oil and nicotine, which should be applied just after the over-wintering eggs hatch and the young begin crawling.

Practical application of remedies like those given above, and research into new applications, is one of the functions of the Michigan Tech forestry department. Prof. Noblet stresses that these functions will be continued in the future, despite an increased teaching load made necessary by expansion of the Michigan Tech forestry curriculum from two years to three.

This expansion was voted last week by the college board of control. It becomes effective next fall. The full three years of work at Michigan Tech can be transferred without loss of credit to universities giving a four year course and a degree in forestry.

INSISTS ON ARREST

Dearborn, Mich.—Answering a radio call, two Dearborn policemen found Leo Pohutsky, who insisted on being arrested. The officers obliged him, taking him to headquarters. He was booked on a drunk and disorderly charge.

Recall Mayor's Words
Meanwhile it was recalled at the city hall that at the recent board of estimates meeting, Ald. Stormy S. Thompson, a meter advocate, spoke of the revenue producing features of the device.

According to several persons who were present, the mayor then said: "If you think that way, why don't you bring it up?" Hoan told reporters again Friday that he would take no action on the ordinance until Monday, and he again declined to disclose what his action would be.

Some observers at the city hall were confident that the mayor would veto the ordinance because of the widespread public opposition to it.

Group Reverses Stand
The parking committee of the Downtown Association, after listening to Ald. McGuire, reversed its previous stand on meters and voted to ask that the ordinance be rescinded. The committee held that the council had voted for parking meters, not as a solution to the parking problem, but because of the revenue they would produce. Previously the association, which is composed of downtown merchants, had decided not to oppose a trial of the meters provided they were installed in neighborhood shopping centers as well as the downtown district.

PARKING METER CAUSES FRACAS

Milton McGuire, Formerly of Escanaba, Criticizes Mayor Hoan

Milwaukee, Wis.—Mayor Hoan stoutly denied Friday that he had suggested installation of parking meters to produce revenue for the city, as charged Thursday by Ald. Milton McGuire. McGuire is a former resident of Escanaba, a Mich.

McGuire, one of the common council's two principal advocates of parking meters, made the accusation before the parking meter committee of the Downtown Association. The alderman said that the parking meter ordinance was "dead" until Mayor Hoan suggested several weeks ago at a board of estimates meeting that the measure be brought out again because of its revenue features.

Won't Take Blame
The mayor emphatically refused to take the blame for the council's "turn about face" last Monday in suddenly approving the ordinance to permit the installation of meters in any ward where the alderman approves.

"I have always told the aldermen to proceed cautiously on the question of parking meters," said the mayor. "I have urged them to take no definite action until there is a public demand. I have specifically told them not to install the meters even for a six month trial period, until there is that demand."

Largest Delinquent Tax Sale In County History Will Start Here Today

The largest sale of tax delinquent land in the history of Delta county will start at the county courthouse this morning, with 8,245 parcels of land to be sold for taxes. The State of Michigan, through the office of Ralph R. Olsen, county treasurer, is conducting the sale.

The sale will start at 10 o'clock this morning in the courtroom on the second floor of the county courthouse, and will continue until the complete list of land descriptions to be sold has been read.

If there is a purchaser for a parcel, the reading will be halted while the sale is made.

Parcels of land will be sold for the exact amount as listed in the sale list if they have not been taken off that list by the county treasurer. Just one bid can be made to acquire title; that is the total amount of taxes listed against the parcel; no more, no less. The purchaser does not acquire possession for 18 months. The owner of a parcel of land has preference during the sale, his bid being accepted before any other.

The last state tax sale was held in 1932, when 3,861 parcels of land were on the sale list. Taxes for 1933, 1934 and 1935 must be paid in full, and 1936 and 1937 are not on the sale list.

Parcels of land are not subdivided at the sale. Purchasers must buy the largest parcel as assessed in any one year. Sales are for cash, and the purchaser or his representative must be present to make his bid. The county treasurer or any member of his staff is prohibited from bidding except to bid for the state if there is no other buyer.

The county treasurer's office has been crowded daily during the past few weeks as property owners have come in to pay up delinquent taxes and avoid the additional charges which must be paid on all descriptions which remain on the sale list.

BIRTHRATE HERE HAS DECLINED

Contrasts With Increase Shown Throughout Michigan

A slight decline in the birthrate in Delta county during 1937 over the previous year is in contrast to the general marked increase throughout the state of Michigan.

Records of county clerk P. A. LeClaire show that there were 795 children born in Delta county during 1937 as compared with 810 for the previous year and 793 for 1935.

School population during the past several years has been very stable, varying not more than 50 per year although there has been a slight increase due largely to the increased transporting of children from outlying districts.

In the state as a whole, there were 18.02 births per 1,000 population in 1937 with a total of 91,566 births compared to 88,457 the previous year. This is the highest birth rate noted since 1931.

For the determination of rates, the population of the state is estimated at 5,050,000.

An indication that the school population is increasing is found in the decreasing infant death rate, which dropped to 47.82 per 1,000 live births. This rate is second only to the 1935 rate of 47.71, the lowest ever recorded in Michigan. A total of 4,379 infants died in 1937 before they reached their first birthday, compared with 4,490 infant deaths in 1936.

Weather Important Factor In Forest Fire Prevention

Lansing—The weather man has again demonstrated what an important figure he is in how many forest fires occur in Michigan each year.

With the 1938 "forest fire season" scarcely begun, as many as 20 fires have occurred in one day, fire wardens and towermen were called back to duty a week to 10 days ahead of usual schedules and more than 1,300 acres had been burned over by the middle of April whereas ordinarily the worst of spring fire hazards do not develop until May.

Whatever difference results between the forest fire loss this year and last year's new low record of less than 15,000 acres burned, will be found largely in a comparison of weather conditions. The state's fire control organization which is the field administration division of the department of conservation is even better equipped this year than last, with such additions as more auxiliary field stations, extended communication lines and improved equipment. But thaws late in March and early in April this year, brought on early fire hazards. As the snow departed, the ground was uncovered to winds from new growth had started with the result grassy "plains" dried out.

The majority of alarms responded to by the fire crews thus far have been grass or plain fires of comparatively small losses, in most instances being brought under control quickly. One of the dangers of grass fires, however, is the rapidity with which they may spread. And, of course, the area they cover must be added to the annual record of "acres burned over."

Records tabulated to date show that 82 fires occurred during the first half of April, 46 in the upper peninsula and 36 in the lower peninsula. The acreage in the lower peninsula was 1,206 and 147 in the upper peninsula.

Reciprocal Trade Treaties

ENLIVENED interest in the operation of the reciprocal trade treaties which have been negotiated during the Roosevelt Administration has been noted because of the pendency of conversations looking to one of these agreements with Great Britain, our oldest stakeholder and our oldest customer.

These treaties have been the chief preoccupation of Secretary Hull from the time he took his chair at the head of the Cabinet. He has succeeded in concluding treaties with 17 nations since he took up the work in 1933 and is pressing for a further extension.

The theory of the Hull reciprocal trade agreements is that the United States shall let down the tariff bars in favor of other nations provided those nations will let down their bars in favor of American exports.

While sales abroad are supposed more especially to bring prosperity, enlarged imports also are considered desirable by those not forced to meet the prices of the foreign competitors.

The gain in imports from non-treaty countries exceeded the imports from every single treaty country with the exception of Haiti.

In 1933 the United States showed an unfavorable balance of trade with the countries which were to become trade treaty countries amounting to $29,819,000.

In 1933 the United States had a favorable balance of trade with the non-treaty countries amounting to $198,819,000.

Various American industries have benefited largely by some of the trade treaties. An interesting example by the treaty with Canada, one of the earliest, Canada agreed to favor American citrus fruits with the result that there has been an important multiplication of sales to the Dominion people, enabling hundreds of thousands there to add this fruit to their regular diet whereas formerly it was a luxury.

In the treaties with all the signatory countries some groups have been gainers and others losers. For example, New England, often called the workshop of the United States, has voted, by industries, seven to one against admission of foreign goods made by labor employed at lower wages than those paid here.

Gladstone Goes Ahead WINTER sports enthusiasts of Gladstone undoubtedly will be looking forward anxiously to the time when the snow will be falling again.

Members of the organizations propose to hold beds during the summer and fall to clear trails and make other improvements so that all will be in readiness for the next season. It is also hoped to secure approval of a WPA project, which will make possible a more extensive improvement program.

Gladstone's success with its winter sports park promotion campaign, no doubt, will be viewed as a challenge to the Escanaba boosters, who have their eyes set on an ideal site for skiing, tobogganing and snowshoeing near Pioneer Trail Park.

Commencement time is still a number of weeks away, but the orators might well start in now to think about what they are going to say.

What can a man say to these youngsters, anyhow? He can't paint a rosy picture for them, because the plain facts are mostly the reverse of rosy.

He can't, in short—if he is an honest man—tell them much of anything except that the world is in a bad mess and that they have drawn the unenviable assignment of stepping out into it at the worst possible time.

Yet even to say that much is better than to say nothing. For youth is not cowardly. It can stand it to hear the worst; indeed, there is something about the resiliency and the dauntless energy of youth which makes a bad situation act as a challenge.

And there is nothing we need right now more than a frame of mind in which we can see in our troubles a challenge rather than a reason for rushing to the nearest wailing wall.

We have had our fill, or ought to have had it, of drifting along in the pious hope that sooner or later things would right themselves without our help.

For it is our world as well as their and we are at least partly responsible for the shape affairs are in these days.

The commencement speakers, then, may do us all some service. If they can get away from the blind, unthinking optimism traditional to commencement day, and can provoke an honest and fearless discussion of our ills and their solution, they can give us something well worth remembering.

VOFES OUT CARNIVALS

Rhineland's city council set a good example in no uncertain terms the other day when it voted unanimously to deny a license to a carnival company which had appeared in the city every summer for many years.

Local organizations which sponsor carnivals to raise funds for their various activities obtain those funds at the expense of business interests in their cities. It should be obvious to most anyone that carnivals take a lot of money out of a community and most of them offer only cheap, tawdry entertainment, much of which is offensive and would not normally be tolerated in the community.

Carnivals are just a "gyp" and other cities ought to take action similar to that of Rhineland.

THE BACKBONE OF POWER

There is a widespread belief that water power is rapidly supplanting coal as the chief source of power. This is shown to be erroneous in the preliminary statistics gathered by the International Labor Office at Geneva, where the world coal conference is to be convened next month.

The statistics for recent years show that coal and lignite provide 60.3 per cent of the world's power, as compared with 74.1 per cent in 1913. But water power has not gained what coal has lost. Indeed, water power has come up from 2.4 per cent in 1913 to only 6.6 per cent. Coal has lost place, relatively, but to other fuels rather than to water power.

Germany and Great Britain are far more dependent on coal than is the United States, for coal supplies nine-tenths of the energy output there. In America coal

World Affairs Reviewed

BY WILLIS THORNTON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent Mexico, D. F.—The political party which keeps President Lazaro Cardenas in power and which will attempt to elect him or some one else with the same program in 1940, is like nothing else on earth.

It is called the Partid de la Revolucion Mexicana (PRM), just reorganized from a predecessor called the Parto Nacional Revolucion (PNR).

It is the only political party in Mexico at the moment—that is, the only one that polled more than a handful of votes at the last election, and the only one given a chance of polling more than a bushel-basketful at the present time.

The change in the reorganization just now being completed is greater than the change in name from the National Revolutionary Party to the Party of the Mexican Revolution might indicate.

The great change is this: a Mexican now has no political existence as an individual. His party membership comes to him not as an individual but as a member of a group, such as his labor union, his community farm group, his co-operative, or his trade association.

—THE REORGANIZATION— This is how Mexico arrived at such a political point: from 1911, when the revolution was made, until 1928 when President Obregon was shot, Mexico was run by a succession of "strong men".

To prevent anti-revolutionary forces from seizing power, to back up the elected president, and to consolidate the principals of the revolution, a convention was held in 1929, and a plan laid out saying what was to be done to solve the farm problem, the industrial workers' problem, the middle classes' problem.

But under Calles, the party tended to become a tool of the head man, according to present leaders, and it was decided to reorganize on the new class basis in an effort to overthrow state and federal "bosses" and former professional politicians.

A new convention was called with representatives of the following elements: 1. Labor. The CTM (radical and dominant group), the CROM (more conservative labor group), the CGT (Communist, the electrical workers and miners independent).

2. The ejidatarios, or farmers and village-lads to whom the government has given land for communal working. 3. Middle class groups, co-operatives, small business men, small landowners, marketmen, distributors, and the like. 4. Soldiers in the army.

Each group has a general secretary. While the soldiers vote just as the other groups in the party conventions, they may not run for office in national or local political elections as soldiers, but must have the support of some other group.

—NOMINATING CANDIDATES— The manner of nominating party candidates at elections is ingenious. If a certain district shows that a majority of the party affiliates in that district are, say, peasants, then the peasants choose the candidates for the party in that district; the other groups must support him.

Though women do not vote in national elections, the party has convoked them on equal terms with men, and its leaders give definite assurance that within a few months an amendment to the constitution will give women equal rights with men at the polls at national elections. A bill for equal civil rights is also in preparation.

—"CLASS STRUCTURE"— Antonio Vargas MacDonald, one of the party leaders, expresses thus the principle behind the manner of its organization: "The former party conceived people abstractly and theoretically. Now we have a class rather than an individualistic structure. We conceive people politically as the productive classes—in the others we are not interested. While we expressly acknowledge the class struggle, our aim is to utilize it legally and peacefully to gradually achieve a classless society, a peaceful change by evolution, rather than by violence with all the disruption of economic life which this brings."

Other candidates at national and local elections beside those of the PRM may of course be nominated and voted for by members of other organizations. In fact a straw vote on the 1940 election now being conducted by a small and rather obscure opposition paper, shows General Saturnino Cedillo far in the lead.

But this is not regarded as significant. For practical purposes, Mexico right now has only one party—the PRM.

is used for about three-fifths of the total. Oil is a much greater factor in our national economy. The Soviet Union, just entering upon industrialization, is one of the few countries where coal is providing a larger percentage of power output each year.

The conclusion is inescapable that coal not only is, but will continue for many years to be, the principal source of energy for this country and others. How much can be done to stabilize the coal industry and better conditions for its workers through international action, is problematical. But the long future of the industry justifies the attempt.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—"Putzy" Haefstangol, the Harvard man who climbed high into Nazi circles, has been back in Manhattan the past few weeks, living the quiet life, apparently in an unofficial capacity.

The rumor persists that he left Berlin for New York, where once he ran an art shop along Fifth Avenue, in official ignominy. And that he no longer is held in the highest affectionate regard by Hitler.

The other night, Haefstangol appeared in the audience at a play entitled "Escape to Night," a murder melodrama which depicts, by implication, the assassination of certain refugees from a persecuting country.

Charming, M'Deah Those men's shops on the purses of Fifth Avenue are assuming as many salons. So chi-chi, in fact, that a few begin to oppress the masculine eye. Soft-leather back chairs, chromium-edged glass and upholstered counters and salesmen.

The haberdasher, Charvet, is so shy that no display is set out in the window off the street; and inside, the staff speaks of this cravatt cloth or that in reverent, modified whispers.

At Sulka's, one expects living models to strut forth with the latest vogues in cuff-links, in the manner of the fashion salons.

I shudder, though, at the thought of the Bridegroom's Trouseaux conceived by Albert Francis Tree, beau drummel of all haberdashers. The Bridegroom's Trouseaux means exactly that: Like the little woman, the groom is expected to line up his shirts and shorts under Mr. Tree's vigilant, connoisseur's eye before the nuptials.

Indeed, the fastidious female cavorting at Mile. Modiste's begins to have nothing on the dandified male.

Frustration Here we are, hotly indignant about the autograph hounds, and worn out from crusades against the pest, on the behalf of this or that celebrity—and what happens? The police step in and take the signature snatcher's part.

It seems that a band of marauding "digs" have been working the Times Square streets lately, queuing after the "priceless" John and Joan Hancock's.

Now three men from the Broadway precinct are on detail, protecting the dear, sweet pen-pushing hounds from theft. That is what we mean by columnar fertility.

Hollywood Holdup The next time you hear about a movie star giving up a lucrative practice in Hollywood for a gambler's fling on the legitimate stage, give it the usual grain of salt. A film veteran tells us that such sacrifice is often exaggerated. In fact, some glamor boys and girls have been making quite a racket out of it. These are the ones whose picture contracts are up for renewal shortly. They get a wire from New York offering them a stage role and ignore it. Another wire follows and then a few more, each one growing progressively desperate.

Armed with these documents, the player then descends upon his employer.

"Apparently," the argument runs, "I'm pretty popular in New York." And it usually ends in a handsome "up" in the actor's movie salary.

The Capital Parade

BY ALBION AND KINTNER

Washington, May 2.—In the past thirty days, the managers of the $13,500,000 of capital invested in American Public Utilities—Willkie, of Commonwealth and Southern; Groesbeck, of Electric Bond and Share; Fogarty, of the North American company; Carlisle, of Niagara Hudson, and their lesser fellows—have journeyed to Washington to pay their allegiance to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

They have come, like the elders of Calais, with halters around their necks. They are the men who led the utilities bitter fight against government regulation. They are the men who joined in the utilities' costly lost-cause stand against submission to the Holding Company Act, which ended when the Supreme court spoke a month ago. They had no reason, these rulers of the great utilities empires, to expect kind treatment from the SEC.

It's unusually interesting to know what treatment they did get, in these days when the disastrous results of prolonged warfare between government and business are at last being recognized. And it is reassuring to be able to report that even Mr. Carlisle and Mr. Groesbeck, Fogarty and Mr. Willkie themselves are pleased with the SEC's behavior toward them.

This is, to be sure, only an interim report; the SEC may go berserk tomorrow, as government agencies sometimes do. But, thus far, every effort has been made to enforce the Holding Company Act, to prepare for the simplification and integration of the immense corporate structures of the utilities in the simplest, most intelligent and least disruptive manner possible.

The men who have most often received the utilities executives have been the left-wingers of the SEC, Chairman William O. Douglas and commissioners Jerome N. Frank and Robert E. Healy. These three—the sandy-haired, tough-minded Yale law professor, the brilliant, urbane intellectual, and the leathery and hard-hitting Vermonters—have been most feared of all by the utilities executives. Yet the bogeymen have turned out to be surprisingly friendly and accommodating.

"It's up to you," Chairman Douglas has colleagues have told each of their callers. "We're ready to let the Holding Companies themselves take the lead in complying with this law. If you work out something reasonably satisfactory to us, we'll take your plan and not bother you with ours."

There have been, moreover, important tangible proofs that this reasonable attitude meant something. One example was the amendment to the tax bill, inserted at Chairman Douglas' personal request, exempting holding companies complying with the law from the taxes which would have operated when the companies were dissolved. Another, which will soon come, is a message to the utilities business which the SEC has already prepared, promising that the bitterness of the past has been forgotten, and urging the friendliest and most cooperative relations in the future.

IN CORPORATE LABYRINTHS

The SEC's conciliatory attitude has also been extended to the actual application of the Holding Company Act's provisions. For example, it is customary among government agencies to pass, adversely or approvingly, but once and for all, on proposals submitted for their consideration. Legally, this is the only unassailable procedure. Yet the SEC has not followed it in receiving the plans of the integration of their structures, and so forth.

Instead, the SEC has accepted the plans on a tentative basis, examined them, and, if some fault was found, avoided making a definite finding. Where faults have been found, they have been privately pointed out to the utilities executives, and then the corrected plans have been approved. The greater cooperativeness of such a method is obvious.

Again, the General Electric Company is technically under the sway of the SEC, since it has some operating utilities subsidiaries. Yet the SEC has done the unheard-of thing among government agencies; it has refrained from exercising its power, preferring to promise the General Electric a two-year exemption, in return for a General Electric promise that the operating subsidiaries will be disposed of.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

OUT OF TOWN

I shall not seek for happiness, Because I might be out. Right when it came, And that's a shame, Yet often true, no doubt. Some travel after happiness, And far away they roam; It passed their way That very day, But they were not at home.

I shall not search for happiness, For searchers never find, Walk other sands In other lands And leave it far behind. Some wander after happiness And find it nevermore, When all the while Its gentle smile Was waiting at the door.

I shall not ask for happiness, And so I shall receive, Who asks for such Will ask too much, And what he has will leave, Some even have their happiness, And even put it down, And it must wait, Perhaps too late, While they are out of town.

LUECKE FILES I.C.C. PROTEST

Opposes Closing of Three Stations on South Shore Railway

BY PAUL MAY
Washington, D. C.—Representative John Luecke today sent a strenuous protest to the Michigan Public Utilities Commission against the closing of three railroad stations along the line of the Duluth South Shore and Atlantic Railroad.

Application has been made by the road for permission to cease operations at the Shingleton, McMillan and Brimley stations.

In a letter to Joseph M. Donnelly, chairman of the state utilities body, Congressman Luecke opposed the application on the grounds that approval will further handicap the lumber and fishing industries which are already hard pressed in those districts.

The large forest products industry about the McMillan station would be hardest hit by such a decision, Mr. Luecke said. Action on the application of the railroads would necessitate truck shipments from those industries to Newberry and the additional cost of handling in transfer to freight trains. The cost would perhaps be prohibitive and squeeze out some important industrial operations.

Mr. Luecke criticized the railroad for making application to the state commission for elimination of those freight loading stops, inasmuch, he said, as the roads are applying for public funds with which to carry on their operations.

It was further pointed out in the protest that if the railroads press the application for approval it will increase the truck tonnage which is already detracting from railroad revenue.

In the cases of McMillan and Brimley, a serious set back to the fishing industry would be affected, he said.

MANISTEE WILL HOLD FESTIVAL

Lumbering and Forestry Will Be Featured July 1 to 4

Manistee—The third annual Manistee National Forest Festival will be held here this year July 1, 2, 3, and 4, the Festival association announces, and a program including many new features is being completed.

Keynote of the celebration which is one of the major events of the state's tourist and resort season, of course, remains the same, with stress being placed upon the importance to Manistee and Michigan of the virgin forests in the years gone by and upon the rebuilding of the forest areas through a program of reforestation, conservation and recreation.

Lumberjack events again will play an important part in the festival, with the historical float parade on July 4 being completely revised. A sprit of carnival will reign Saturday night, July 2, with a Mardi Gras parade, mock meeting of the Banana Belt Timber Co., and Forest Festival costume ball.

Throughout the four days outstanding bands will play, amateur acts will be presented on the streets, children will parade and many other events will fill the program, including costume folk dances, tours through the Manistee National Forest, tree planting ceremonies, Sunday vesper services, ox roast at Gooley bridge in the forest, baseball games, animal acts, skeet shoot, beach sports, maneuvers by the Great Lakes naval training fleet and tours through the festival museum.

WILL ERECT RESIDENCE

Menominee, Mich.—Menominee will have one more beautiful home erected on Sheridan road, it was learned today. Howard S. George, of 335 Sheridan road, has purchased the W. S. Carpenter residence located just across the street from his present domicile.

Mr. George expects to have plans drawn for the new building in a short time. The large Carpenter home will be razed, and work started on the new one, which will be located next to the present E. A. Meyer home.

Michigan In Washington

By Esther Van Wagoner Tutty
For the third time Senator Prentiss M. Brown backs the Administration—in the big Navy bill.

That this is not easy for the Junior Democrat senator is obvious and he made his objections crystal clear in the Senate a few days ago.

In brief, the burden of his opposition rests with his honest doubt whether the 5-5-3 ratio should be maintained; or that the battleship is the most efficient fighting unit.

Preparedness has not always been an assurance of safety proves Brown by the World War military preparedness of the German War Lords. Brown, not opposed to a reasonably adequate navy, pleads for time so the Senate can consider what is adequate before beginning on a naval race with other powers.

Congressman Fred L. Crawford, of Saginaw, Carl E. Mapes, of Grand Rapids, Frank E. Hook, of Ironwood and George A. Dondoro of Royal Oak, spoke in the House against the amendment to the Merchant-Marine act asking for a subsidy to benefit vessels operating through the Panama Canal. Michigan men were urged by railroad employees to fight for the elimination of this section which, they believe discriminatory against railroads, already having a difficult time. More shipping, instigated by cheaper rates, from the Pacific to the Atlantic instead of across country might injure inland industries.

Crawford made the point that the endowment funds of our churches, our education institutions and insurance reserves are invested in railroad securities.

Dondoro, that 47 colleges have expressed concern over the value of their railroad holdings. The subsidy proposal was defeated.

Mapes objected also to another provision which would take away from the President the authority to transfer any of the duties performed by the Maritime Commission to the Interstate Commerce Commission in any attempt to unify the regulation of all kinds of transportation in one governmental agency.

Mapes favors the putting of all phases of transportation under one regulatory body (the Interstate Commerce Commission).

This all has special significance for Mapes, as a member of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce committee, which has just voted out a bill creating a new commission to regulate air commerce.

If the Interstate Commerce Commission were given control of the shipping industry and air commerce as well as of railroads, trucks, and buses, it would take away suspicion that it was railroad-minded, claims Mapes.

A Wisconsin Democrat, O'Malley, found Mapes' position not without humor. He pointed out to the Grand Rapids Republican that he was actually against the removal of authority from the President.

GET THE "RIDE" SENSATION OF THE YEAR IN THE BIG PLYMOUTH

"Roadking"

Today's leading lowest-priced cars cost about the same...but one stands out!

That car is the big, beautiful Plymouth "Roadking"...with a remarkable new ride that's the year's sensation of the lowest-price field...

It has more room, more riding comfort...engineering's last word in safety features. It has amazing power and record economy...BOTH!

And it's easy to own...your present car will probably represent a large proportion of Plymouth's low delivered price...balance in surprising low monthly installments.

PLYMOUTH "Roadking" 6-PASSENGER SEDAN $685

—"Detroit delivered price," including front and rear bumpers and bumper guards, spare wheel, tire and tube, foot control for headlight beam with indicator on instrument panel, ash-tray front and rear, sun visor, safety glass and big trunk space (19.3 cubic feet). Plymouth "Roadking" models start at $645; "De Luxe" models slightly higher. Plymouth prices INCLUDE ALL FEDERAL TAXES. State, local taxes not included. Convenient time payments. TUNE IN MAJOR BOWEN'S AMATEUR HOUR, C.B.S. NETWORK, THURS., 9-10 P.M., E.D.S.T.

Airplane-Type Shock-Absorbers

Plymouth's double-action, airplane-type shock-absorbers swallow road shocks far better because they control both the up and down movement of all four springs!

Result? A new ride... plus faster steering, easier handling, and the extra smoothness of double-action hydraulic brakes.

Rubber-Cored Body Mountings

To prevent road "drumming" and vibration from reaching passengers, Plymouth engineers have developed "live" rubber body mountings to do away with metal-to-metal contact between body and frame.

Biggest of the 3

It's important to know that the Plymouth "Roadking" is easily the biggest of the three leading low-priced cars...it is nearly 7 inches longer than one; and more than 19 inches longer than the other.

Floating Power Engine Mountings

This advancement keeps engine vibration from being "telegraphed" to passengers.

Try Plymouth's New Ride

To know today's lowest-priced car values you must drive the big new Plymouth. Telephone your nearby Plymouth dealer for a demonstration today. There's no obligation. PLYMOUTH DIVISION OF CHRYSLER CORPORATION, Detroit, Michigan.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

Mother's Day is a sentimental gesture that probably does as much harm as good. The good is, of course, evident. The day prods inarticulate and lazy sons and daughters—as well as those who show their love at other times—into sending Mother a telegram, bringing her an armful of flowers, or a box of candy. Certainly even a misguided parent deserves that much attention once a year.

The harm comes in all the sentimental words spoken from pulpits and printed in our papers and magazines about mothers. They are enough, coming only once a year, to keep alive the old superstition that motherhood is a magic state. And that once a woman becomes a mother she takes on all the virtues, and from then on "knows best" about everything.

It is a foolish notion which we are even more foolish to foster. For any thinking person knows that a woman takes into motherhood only the traits of character she had before.

A selfish woman becomes a selfish mother. One who, perhaps, spoils her child for her own pleasure, or attempts to live her life through his, or even to use him as a hostage in a private war with his father.

A cruel woman becomes a cruel mother. An arrogant woman makes show-offs of her children. And a "do-less" woman lets her children grow up as best they can.

Motherhood doesn't often change women. It only gives them a chance to show what kind of people they are.

And it certainly doesn't bestow wisdom on them. Mothers have more need than anyone else to work hard at the business of learning—for all of them are teachers.

So instead of preaching his sermon to MOTHERS—as though they were all alike—we hope some minister stands up on Mother's Day and directs his praise toward the women who are making a success of motherhood.

And that some editorial writer will say in effect: "Mother is no more a descriptive word than woman."

McKenney On Bridge

By William E. McKenney, Secretary, American Bridge League

GLIMMER OF HOPE
Declarer Sees Slim Chance, Plays for Remote Squeeze Possibility, Makes "Impossible" Contract.

It was easy to count 10 tricks, but the eleventh and game-going trick looked impossible to South when his dummy went down. He had no losers in clubs, diamonds or hearts, but both his own and the dummy hand had three losing spades.

When the ace of spades was followed by the king—the "down and out" signal—South saw a glimmer of hope, and from that time on, he played for the remote chance of a squeeze. Without the spade suit blocked, North and South feared a no trump contract, and the game being rubber, South did not want to lose his honor count.

West cashed his two spade tricks, and made the natural shift to the heart queen. Declarer won with the ace, then led three rounds of trumps, upon which East discarded his remaining hearts.

Now the heart six was led. West covered with the ten and dummy won with the king. East discarding spade ten. South got the lead again with the diamond king, and now led three more rounds of trumps.

West gave up the eight of hearts and two diamonds. Dummy parted with his last spade—and then both hearts.

East also was in difficulties. In order to retain the high spade, he too discarded two diamonds.

Now South led his last diamond, and the ace and seven in dummy gave him his contract.

AERIAL SURVEY TO START SOON

Keweenaw Peninsula's Project Will Be Resumed

Lansing—A report sent to Washington recently by Dr. R. A. Smith, state geologist, that virtually all of the snow has gone out of the swamps in the northern part of Michigan, was the opening step of the year in the job of making an aerial survey of the Keweenaw peninsula.

Aerial photographers made several flights over the peninsula last fall but were interrupted by early snow before they were able to obtain satisfactory pictures.

A total of 3,200 square miles is to be photographed from the air to provide pictures from which photographic mosaic maps can be made. From these, base maps useful in geological exploration, in planning highway and other state projects, and to hunters and fishermen, will be prepared.

The survey is a cooperative job between the geology division of the conservation department and the United States geological survey. The state's participation was made possible by the last legislature which appropriated $25,000 for it.

With the snow having melted comparatively early, it is hoped that the work can be resumed this month.

New Safety Pin Industry Proposed

Marquette—Interested persons will meet here today for the purpose of forming a corporation which, it is expected, will set up a plant in Marquette for the manufacture, on volume production basis, of the Colby safe pin, new type of pin designed and patented by Dr. Woodward Colby, M.D., of St. Paul, Minn., noted child specialist.

At a preliminary meeting here Saturday, plans for the proposed corporation were outlined and Marquette was definitely chosen as the location for the plant.

The Colby safe safety pin, designed to reduce to a minimum the loss of life and injury to children caused by swallowing "safety" pins, has been patented in the United States and England and an expenditure of more than $50,000 has been made by the Colby interests in the perfection of a machine for the manufacture of their product. The machine has been developed after six years of engineering and it was stated at Saturday's meeting that its builder, C. Williams, one of the ranking mechanical engineers in the east, would bring the machine to Marquette and supervise its installation and operation.

Saturday's meeting was attended by Dr. Colby, inventor of the new pin, and Judge George P. Gage, of St. Paul, chairman of the Minnesota tax commission and one of the men interested in the project. They conferred here with city officials and others and said yesterday they were certain it would be possible to find a suitable building in this city in which to install the machinery.

The Colby safe safety pin, declared by its inventor to be the only new development in safety pins since that article was first invented, has been given the endorsement of medical associations, hospitals and doctors in the United States and Europe.

Finds Real Friend In KruGon—New Health Given Him

Man, Age 72, Given His First Well Days In Years; Nerves Quieted, Bowels Regulated, Pains Driven From His Limbs

"I am thankful I learned of this new KruGon for it has meant so much to me," said Mr. William Hufnagel, 5 Harriet St., Evansville, Indiana. "For years I had suffered continually with a stubborn case of constipation which had clogged my entire system with poisons. Severe pains would come in my joints and limbs, was very nervous and it was impossible for me to get my proper and much needed rest and sleep. It was so discouraging for me to try medicine after medicine and meet only with repeated failure time and again. I had about lost all faith in medicines in general when I was finally persuaded to give this new KruGon a trial. . . it did not lose any time in showing me remarkable results."

"This new KruGon seemed to be made for cases just like mine," continued Mr. Hufnagel. "To think at my age of seventy-two, that a single medicine could give such good results, I am now feeling like a different person. My nerves have been quieted, bowels regulated and those awful aches and pains in my limbs have been relieved. I am much improved in every way and cannot help but tell others just how remarkable this new laxative- tonic formula has really been for me."

Franco-British Alliance

At this writing the Franco-British talks have not been completed. But already the world knows there is a new Franco-British military alliance. This means that today no possible combination of Fascist powers could attack either one of Europe's great democracies with any hope of success. Not only must Hitler avoid striking at France, but he must not permit the Franco-British alliance to be a threat to his own position.

The pre-war Anglo-French Entente lacked precision. It was a vague secret understanding that had not been ratified by the French Chamber or the British Parliament. When France and Germany suddenly found themselves at war, it was not at all certain that the British would or could intervene. Britain needed a more popular cause of war than the protection of France. Germany, with her usual lack of diplomatic vision, supplied this popular cause by invading Belgium. Here Britain was definitely committed by a half-forgotten neutrality treaty, and the defense of "poor little Belgium" caught the popular British fancy.

This establishes the contrast between the 1914 situation and that which will prevail when and if Germany once more invades France. Today there is a frankly acknowledged commitment by Britain to France. The British first accepted it when they signed the Covenant of the League of Nations. They particularly liked the special anti-German pact which failed then in the United States refused to sign. They did phrase and accept it in specific form at Locarno. That pledge remains, despite Germany's violation of that accord.

Instantaneous Action
What the French and British did in London this week is to discuss ways and means of making their Locarno pledges effective. If Germany strikes against Britain, France must come to her aid. If Germany launches an aggressive war against France, Britain must help France. But this is not enough. The German General Staff is planning the Blitzkrieg—the only kind of war in which she would have a chance of success. This means that she will strike instantly and without any such formality as a declaration of war. France and Britain must therefore be ready to strike back at once with their united, co-ordinated strength.

They have now agreed to prepare for just this emergency by cooperative action on land and sea and in the air. Next month the military experts of both countries will work out details. They will prepare plans not only for joint action but for joint command. The long and painful bickering which preceded the creation of Marshal Foch's unified and therefore victorious army on the Western Front is well remembered by both countries. In the next war France will command the entire armies and a British admiral will direct the united navies.

Having agreed on this fundamental issue it was easy for Premier Daladier and Prime Minister Chamberlain to settle all other British credits will help the French make purchases in Hungary, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia which will remind those countries that Germany is not their only customer. And the French will pay in gold instead of insisting, as the Germans do, on paying in goods.

The Spanish Situation
By agreeing to restore international control of the Franco-Spanish frontier to prevent supplies from reaching the harassed Loyalists, France is making an important concession to the Italian point of view. She does this in preparation for the forthcoming Franco-Italian conference. It will make little practical difference since it has never been possible for friends of the Spanish Government to smuggle more than a small amount of war material across the French border. And already advancing rebel columns have cut the chief lines of communication between France and Spain.

What worries the French in the Spanish situation is the presence of German staff officers and German technical units with those rebel forces fighting along the Pyrenees. It suggests that agreements with Italy to evacuate Spain may mean little unless pledges similar to Mussolini's can be secured from Adolf Hitler. As for Czechoslovakia the British have again told the French they are not prepared to lift a finger to defend the integrity of that war-born country. The Czechs have been advised to make their peace with the Germans and they are trying to do so.

They will not succeed. Some sort of explosion in that area appears inevitable. The most we can hope is that the threat inherent in the new Franco-British alliance will persuade Hitler to be less crude than he was in Austria.

John Carroll became the first Roman Catholic bishop in the United States in 1789.

TRIAL FLIGHT

By ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

CHAPTER I

"Where have you been all afternoon, darling?" Evelyn Dunn, or Evelyn La Farge, as she was known on the stage, inquired in the low throaty voice that had held many an audience tense in the last 20 years.

She was reclining in what she knew was a most graceful pose on her chaise longue with its profusion of lace, beribboned pillows and its luxuriant ermine throw. Now she extended her lovely white hands, coral-tipped in an appealing, if somewhat theatrical gesture, to draw Jacqueline down beside her.

"I presume you've been out with that young man of yours!" She shook a playful finger before her daughter's pretty, flushed, young face. "It seems to me you've been seeing him a great deal since we moved out from town." Evelyn was pleased now that she had let Jackie persuade her to close the Park Avenue apartment so early in the spring and move to their Westchester country place.

"Roger Breckner isn't my young man," Jackie protested, withdrawing her hands. They were as unlike Evelyn's as could be, in their contrasting sun-tanned color, with fingers short and sturdy, conspicuously minus lacquer of any shade. "He's a pilot—a darn good one—and he's teaching me to fly, which explains why I've been seeing him. But only today Roger told me I've had enough hours to begin to solo soon."

"Why you should want to spend the small-legacy-your-poor-dear-father-left-you-on-learning-to-fly is beyond me," Evelyn said for the hundredth time. She could not understand or share her daughter's enthusiasm for flying. Evelyn was far more delicate than any orchid. It was amazing she should have a daughter more like a snailflower, as straight and slim and tall, hair and skin as golden. Yet she could not help thinking how lovely the child was though she would not dress properly, insisting upon sport things or such outlandish costumes as the clumsy, khaki-colored flying suit she wore now. "But you can't be flying all the time," she added archly. "Take the evenings when you and Roger go dancing or driving these lovely moonlit nights..."

"We don't look at the moon. We talk about flying then." The warm color sprang up to the roots of Jackie's fair hair. "There's so much to learn. You've no idea. Mother. Besides just taking off and banking and keeping the horizon and landing, I mean. There's the mechanics and all the instruments, navigation and meteorology... Oh, it's too utterly fascinating!"

"I'm sure it must be." Her mother smiled on her fondly. The child could not pull the wool over her bright eyes. No girl could look so flushed and eager just over flying. "And you must find Roger fascinating, too—such a charming boy! Surely you must talk about something interesting some time. Now when I was a girl, all the young men..."

"Now, Mother!" Jackie protested. She saw what Evelyn was up to. She should have; bitter experience had been her teacher in this. "There's absolutely nothing between Roger and me." Her soft mouth set in its determined line, her eyes, not so incredibly blue as Evelyn's, but on the greyish shade with golden flecks borrowed from the sun, were direct and clear. "That's the only reason I've seen so much of him, outside of flying. Because Roger's the only man I've met who hasn't tried any nonsense. He treats me like a pal, another man. If he ever gets any sticky sentimental ideas I'll send him packing! So there's no use your trying to build up a romance, as you always do."

Jackie got up as she finished this somewhat lengthy speech to stand like an accusing angel, brows drawn together fiercely, manner defiant. She would need defiance and whatever other aid she could summon. She knew this from bitter experience, too. Evelyn had ruined every friendship with every young man Jackie had had in just this way. Because she was Romance Incorporated, off the stage as well as on, she was determined to inject the same spirit into Jackie.

"I do believe," Jackie accused further, "that you won't be happy, Mother, until you've got me married off! You know I mean to do something with my life. If you want someone to get married so much, why don't you do it yourself?"

"That's just it, darling," Evelyn's smile was patient, forgiving. She tried to understand her daughter, thought it was so difficult. "That's why I'm so anxious to have my little girl settled, why I was so in hopes you and Roger..." Her words trailed off in a sigh. Now she reached for a square of lace and chiffon, dabbed gently at her eyes. "You know I've been thinking of retiring from the stage, since I can't find vehicles any more to do my acting justice." Evelyn was smart enough to know she could not go on forever playing Romance, even with the aid of footlights. "Well," she wound up, dramatically now, since she always must play-act. "John Paul Scott has asked me to retire, darling. He has asked me to marry him!"

"He has!" Jackie forgot her resentment in a burst of interest. John Paul Scott was her mother's most persistent admirer, the most socially prominent, the wealthiest. Evelyn had been hoping, for years, that he would ask her to marry him. Jackie liked Mr. Scott well enough, though she could not imagine anyone wanting to marry him. His hair was too thin on top, he was too correct and polished and rich. "I don't see what you're crying for then," she said. "Or what I—or Roger—have to do with it."

"You have everything to do with it!" Evelyn's tears flowed more copiously. She could turn them on like a faucet. She knew that Jackie, who despised them for herself, could not bear them from others. "You know Paul has to live abroad the better part of the year; he travels extensively." As his wife, she would still be in the limelight. Evelyn thought complacently. But such a life never suited Jackie, even if Paul wanted to drag her about with them, which was doubtful since he had seemed more than willing when she had suggested Jackie's future ought to be settled first.

"I told him," Evelyn said with a tear to roll down her beautiful face now, "that I couldn't think of accepting him until I knew my own way was definitely engaged to someone, too."

"But that's ridiculous!" Jackie exploded. "That's disgusting—and utterly selfish, mother, as well." "Selfish!" Evelyn gasped. She looked as though she had been cut to the heart. "When I try to be the most unselfish mother in the world. When I put your happiness before my own..." She burst into real tears now, apparently unable to find more words.

Contrite, Jackie knelt down beside her. "I'm sorry I said that. She knew her mother actually believed herself unselfish. "But it is ridiculous, you know. You can't expect me to get married, just so you can do it, too." Yet, even as she said this, Jackie experienced a qualm of alarm, almost a strange foreboding. She knew her mother was capable of continuing to shed becoming tears and throw theatrics, as though she were in the throes of a third act; she was capable of sticking to her decision, no matter how ridiculous it might be, until she managed somehow, in spite of anything Jackie might do, to win out.

She knew this because of that same bitter experience that had taught her so much and made her distrustful of anything sentimental or romantic, even love.

many small fires, is something I shall never forget. Yes, I had good luck. A very kind resident let me use his platform, and with a borrowed net, I dipped 120 pounds in a little over an hour. These were shipped home, and my friends say they were the finest they have ever eaten.
"I hope it will again be my pleasure to visit with you and the many friends I made in the three days at Escanaba."
