

YOUTHS CONFESS NEWBERRY MURDER

TAX REVISION BILL IS SENT TO PRESIDENT

REPUBLICANS FIGHT PROFITS TAX TO BITTER END

Washington, May 11 (P)—The new tax bill, reducing the much criticized undistributed profits tax to a tattered remnant of its self, received final congressional approval today but house Republicans opposed that remnant to the very end.

Goes To White House

"We have done our dead level best," said Representative Vinson (D-Ky), an administration tax spokesman, "to bring to the house a bill that will be helpful to business."

The house interrupted a spirited discussion of the administration's lending-spending program to adopt—242 to 89—a compromise conference report on the tax bill. The measure now goes to the White House for President Roosevelt's signature.

The bill, reenacting much of the existing law, is estimated to yield the revenues of $5,000,000,000 annually. It exempts corporations with incomes of less than $25,000 from the tax on undistributed profits. Corporations with income above that figure would pay an income tax of 15 1/2 per cent of all profits were disbursed to its stockholders and of 19 per cent if all profits were retained. For a partial disbursement of profits the rate is graduated between the 15 and 19 per cent figures.

By comparison under the present law—upon which business has laid a major share of the blame for the present depression—all corporations pay a tax of eight to fifteen per cent on their earnings, and an added impost of seven to 27 per cent on such portions of those earnings as are not converted into dividends.

While the smaller corporations are exempted by the new law from the operations of the undistributed profits tax, they are required to pay a flat corporate income tax of 12 1/2 to 18 per cent, graduated in accordance with the extent of their profits.

The new bill also drastically revised the tax on capital gains—which also has been blamed for depression. Instead of the present graduated tax on capital gains, it would impose the regular income tax rates upon gains from assets held no longer than 18 months. A flat 20 per cent would be levied upon gains from assets held from 18 to 24 months and a 15 per cent rate would be applied to gains from assets held longer than two years.

SPENDING DEFENDED

Washington, May 11 (P)—Republican denunciations of the Roosevelt spending-leading program drew from Rep. Maverick (D-Tex) the reply today that "violent criticism of the president" does nothing to solve economic problems.

Defending the measure as "much better" than previous re-

Barn Near Munising Burned; Owner Finds Note Of Explanation

Munising, Mich., May 11 (P)—Alger county authorities are searching for the person, or persons, who dislike Stanley Gurski and his barn, destroyed by fire last night. Near it was found the following pencilled note:

"We don't like you or your barn, so we hope you enjoying seeing it burn."

The person responsible for the blaze, which destroyed many farm implements, chickens and other contents, as well as the building, were foiled in an attempt to set the fire yesterday morning.

ANOTHER BANK PAYOFF READY

Old First National of Detroit Mails Out $5 Millions

Lansing, May 11 (P)—Governor Murphy said today he had received assurances from the federal government that checks for $35,000,000, representing a 10 per cent payment to 140,000 depositors in the old First National Bank of Detroit, would be placed in the mails Monday.

Murphy said Marshall Diggs, acting controller of the currency, had agreed today in a telephone conversation to release the payment immediately "as planned."

The governor said he had been conferring with federal officials from time to time this week in an attempt to end "squabbling over plans" of procedure that had threatened to delay a payoff.

Deposits in the bank were tied up in 1933, when it closed its doors and a receivership was declared. Under the receivership, depositors had received 70 per cent of the money due them. Monday's payment will bring the total to 80 per cent.

DIRECT RELIEF LOAD REDUCED

Detroit, Grand Rapids and Flint Report 59,385 Cases for April

Lansing, May 11 (P)—George F. Granger, acting state emergency relief administrator, said today the direct relief load in Michigan's three largest cities, Detroit, Grand Rapids and Flint, decreased 29.4 per cent in April, as compared with March.

Decreases in the Detroit and Grand Rapids case loads more than offset an increase in Flint.

Granger said 59,385 cases were listed on the rolls of the three cities in April, compared with 74,638 in March. Welfare costs decreased 21.2 per cent from $2,001,425 to $1,526,304.

The Detroit load declined 24.5 per cent from 62,556 to 47,288, and costs dropped 26.6 per cent from $1,731,454 to $1,270,807.

The Grand Rapids load dropped 17.9 per cent from 4,211 to 3,456, with costs down 36.4 per cent from $78,759 to $50,098.

The Flint load increased 11.2 per cent from 7,711 to 8,641 cases, and costs rose 2.6 per cent from 200,212 to $205,399.

Great Britain Puts Duties On Pig Iron

London, May 11 (P)—Great Britain today reimposed a 33 1/3 per cent duty on pig iron, effective May 13.

The United States supplied 210,000 tons out of a total of 395,000 tons imported to Great Britain during 1937. There was no duty then.

The reason advanced was that British production is now sufficient for the nation's needs, whereas it had been insufficient during 1937.

Sanitarium Patient Dies; Bomb In Room

Detroit, May 11 (P)—Attaches at Maybury sanitarium were mystified today upon finding gunpowder and a crude bomb among the effects of Louis Carter, 34, who died at the hospital Tuesday night. Suffering from tuberculosis, he had been a patient since 1934.

Detective Michael McGowan of the homicide squad was assigned to investigate the case.

Ex-Republicans Run As Democrats

Climaxing one of the most hectic primary campaigns in American political history, Pennsylvania voters go to the polls May 17 to select Democratic and Republican nominees for governor and U. S. senator. In the race for the Democratic nomination for senator, Gov. George H. Earle is opposing Mayor S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia. Both are former Republicans. Governor Earle changed his politics in 1932 and Wilson professed to have become non-partisan after election to his present office on a G.O.P. ticket.

Japanese Blue-Jackets Capture Port Of Amoy

Shanghai, May 12 (Thursday) (P)—American authorities early today reported Japanese blue-jackets had captured the important port of Amoy, 600 miles south of Shanghai, driving the Chinese defenders off Amoy Island where the city is situated.

The Japanese landing forces, backed by warships anchored off the southeast Chinese coast, forced China's Cantonese detachments to retreat to the mainland. Reports from Americans in Amoy said all United States citizens, including those on Kulangsu Island—the principal foreign settlement—were safe.

The United States gunboat Asheville was standing by to evacuate them if the Chinese-Japanese conflict endangered their lives.

Fifty thousand Chinese refugees fled to the foreign settlements to escape bitter fighting in the narrow winding streets of Amoy. The American reports said there were no disturbances, however, on Kulangsu which is half a mile off Amoy Island.

The sudden Amoy attack, launched Wednesday, was Japan's first thrust into south China. Chinese declared it was aimed to prevent the flow of munitions, men and supplies from the south to central China where Japan's war machine is stalemated with bitter fighting against Chinese armies.

The gunboat Asheville carried a complement of 40 marines and at least 50 blue-jackets ready for service. United States authorities said the 7,050-ton cruiser Marblehead was standing off at sea between Manila and Hongkong to proceed to the scene if necessary.

The destroyer Edsall reached Shanghai from Tsingtao and took aboard fuel preparatory to steaming toward the Fukien coast. It was considered likely it would go to Foochow, 150 miles north of Amoy, as a precautionary measure against a similar Japanese landing there.

Mattson Kidnaping Suspect Viewed By Brother And Sister

Port Angeles, Wash., May 11 (P)—Sheriff Charles W. Kemp said today William Mattson, 16, and Muriel, brother and sister of the kidnaped and slain Charles Mattson of Tacoma, viewed John Mansky, 34, at Tacoma yesterday and that William said the man was taller than their brother's abductor.

The sheriff said Mansky would be held here a few days on an open charge. Mansky was arrested at his wilderness home in the western Olympic peninsula after neighbors reported he acted peculiarly.

Harper, Charles Roberts and Jasper Perry were committed to solitary after the three are said to have taken part in a knifing in which the deputy warden was killed and the warden fatally stabbed. They were charged with murder, but never brought to trial.

ARMED BRAZIL REVOLT ENDED IN BLOODSHED

Dictator Crushes Green Shirts; Many Killed

Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, May 11 (P)—President Getulio Vargas crushed an armed revolt of Brazil's green-shirted Fascists today and apparently strengthened his position as dictator.

There were many dead. Official casualty figures early tonight placed the known dead at 12 and the wounded at 22. Police headquarters said 500 alleged plotters were arrested.

Organization Smashed. Pistol in hand, Vargas helped fight off green-shirts attempting to invade his presidential palace. A few hours later he started military and police court action to smash completely the outlawed integralist green-shirt organization.

The revolt, which apparently was wholly Brazilian in character, was smashed by a combination of police and army thrusts. An undetermined number of rebels were killed and wounded in abortive assaults against the government buildings and residences of principal army generals. Hundreds were arrested.

Martial Law Declared. The three-and-one-half hour uprising ended at 5:30 a. m. with the arrest of the last groups of roaming Fascists. Vargas set to work at once to clean up the situation politically.

He declared martial law, which took effect at noon. Plans were said to have been started to have the national security court, the nation's highest, hear charges against those implicated within the revolt within 24 hours. The maximum penalty is death.

Presidential palace spokesmen predicted a "purge" in the navy would result from the rebellion. It was pointed out that Admiral Eduardo Taveres was arrested as a participant in the uprising.

Leaders Jailed. Belmiro Valdeverde, field commander of the rising by Fascist integralists whose organization was outlawed by President Vargas after he grasped authoritarian control of Brazil last Nov. 10, was lodged in jail.

Pilino Salgado, leader of the integralists, was said to be the leader of the rebellion. He has been a fugitive since the government announced March 18 that a green-shirt plot had been smashed.

Eight bodies were removed from the presidential palace court yard, the scene of spirited gun-fighting in which Vargas took part.

Vargas' household staff gave warning of the attempt on the presidential palace. Soon after green-shirts dressed as soldiers and sailors marched up to the palace as regular relief for the palace guard, Vargas was notified.

Arms His Family. The "strong man" president called for help from the war, navy and police department, and handed out guns and ammunition to his family and the staff.

Without waiting for reinforcements to arrive, Vargas opened fire on the disguised rebels. Soon military and police detachments arrived and overpowered the integralists, 30 of whom were arrested in the palace grounds.

While Vargas was fighting the Fascists personally, General Pedro Aurelio De Goes Monteiro, chief of staff of the army, was defending his own residence against Fascist invaders. The hall of his home was covered with blood, but the rebels, when they fled, carried away their dead and wounded.

'Babe In Woods' Kidnap Victim, Mother Fears

BY EDWARD STRODE
Bradford, Pa., May 11 (P)—The mother of four-year-old Marjorie West, missing since she wandered into the woods to pick violets last Sunday, expressed fear today the child had been kidnaped and promised "No questions will be asked" if the girl is returned.

Pennsylvania and West Virginia police pressed a search for an unidentified man and a small girl who stopped early Monday at a hotel in Thomas, W. Va., while haggard, sleepy-eyed men and boys doggedly doubled back through the northern Pennsylvania woods they had searched fruitlessly for three days.

The man and a small dark haired girl wearing a blue dress, red hat and dark coat similar to Marjorie's left the Thomas hotel without registering and hurried away in a green sedan.

Corp. L. V. Minnick of the West Virginia state police, said he received a report a similar sedan stopped today at a gasoline filling station near Thomas and refueled. On the rear seat of the car, Minnick said the station agent told him, lay a bundle wrapped in a gray blanket. A description of the driver tallied with the appearance of the man who stopped at the hotel, Minnick said.

Mrs. Shirley West, appealing for the return of her daughter, said: "I want notice given that anybody who has her should return her to any American Legion post anywhere or bring her home. No questions will be asked."

BABY HELAINE'S TUMOR STUDIED

Jury of Doctors Ponder Next Step to Halt Blindness
Chicago, May 11 (P)—A second conference of doctors was arranged today to determine the next step in efforts to save Baby Helaine Colan from blindness.

Samuel A. Hoffman, attorney for the family of the infant, said the meeting would be held tomorrow.

Dr. Robert H. Good, who removed Helaine's left eye Monday, declined to predict whether the vision of the right eye could be preserved. Both were affected by glaucoma.

Specialists called to the conference will be asked to decide whether the tumor in the remaining eye can be checked with X-rays.

Specialists formed the first "jury" in the Colan case last Monday. After examining the child and discussing the diagnoses, they ordered the operation to save the baby's life.

Murphy Will Live In Bachelor Hall
Lansing, May 11 (P)—Governor Murphy said tonight that he would set up "Bachelor Hall" in a house on the Michigan State college campus "within a few days."

Murphy said he planned to divide his time this summer between Lansing, and his campus home, and a "summer capitol" in northern Michigan, which probably will be on Mackinac Island.

AGED CHINESE KILLED DURING $64 ROBBERY

HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR ARRESTED WITH PARTNER, 21

Two Newberry youths, George Ketrivits, 19, and George Duchey, 21, yesterday confessed to the killing of Charlie Hoy, 67, Chinese laundryman, on the night of December 29 or 30, 1937. The confessions were obtained through efforts of Trooper John C. Carstensen, Michigan state police, who is stationed at Newberry. The pair insisted yesterday that the killing of the aged laundryman was accidental, but they admitted binding and torturing Hoy.

Ketrivits, a quiet boy in his senior year at Newberry high school, was the first to break down and confess under the trooper's grilling. He was arrested on Monday, and immediately admitted his part in the crime. He stated that he would have told it sooner had he not been afraid of Duchey, his confessed accomplice, who stands 6 feet 2 inches tall and starred on the Newberry football squad before graduation from high school last June.

Needed More Liquor. Shortly before Christmas, according to Ketrivits' statement, Duchey came to him and asked if he would like to get some money for Christmas and New Year's. Ketrivits, the younger of the two, stated he asked "Where?" and that Duchey answered that Charlie Hoy, the laundryman, had about $1,000 or more. The pair then decided, according to their confessions, to go in and talk to Hoy, hit him over the head, tie him up and force him to reveal the hiding place of his money, and then leave him tied.

On the night of Tuesday, December 29, at 6 or 7 o'clock, they decided to rob the laundryman. They walked past his shop several times, but agreed that they had not had enough to drink, and put it off until the following night.

The next night Ketrivits met Duchey at his home at about 5 o'clock, according to his statement, and the two had a pint of whiskey and some wine. They drank about half the whiskey and the wine and then decided to rob the Chinese.

Carried Revolver. Leaving Duchey's house at about 6 o'clock, they walked to the Chemical company's sawmill and then south down the railway tracks to the D. S. S. & A. warehouse. There they stopped and took a drink out of the pint bottle of whiskey, leaving it in the snowbank. Then they walked past Edgar's tavern and through the front door of Charlie Hoy's laundry.

Duchey said in his confession that he borrowed a gun for the robbery and gave it to Ketrivits, who wore old clothes when he came in to accost the aged Chinese.

"Charlie was in the front part reading a paper," Ketrivits stated in his confession. "I sat down and George (Duchey) stood talking with him. George asked him how business was. Then George grabbed him from behind and shoved him into the kitchen."

"There were three stoves and a lot of coal or coke on the floor," Ketrivits said in describing the rear of Hoy's shop.

Gagged With Coat-hanger. "George hit Charlie and knocked him unconscious," Ketrivits stated, "and I tied his feet with a piece of wire or something. George told me to go and look for the money. All I could find was a roll of dollar bills in a small wooden table."

When he returned to the rear of the shop, Ketrivits declared, he found Duchey standing over Hoy and shoving a gag into his mouth. "He shoved the gag into the Chinaman's mouth with what I thought was a coat-hanger," he stated.

At this time the laundryman had regained consciousness and (Continued on Page Two)

LABOR LAWS ARE DISCUSSED

History of Department Traced By Chairman George Krogstad

Labor laws, their history and defects, were discussed at a meeting of labor organizations at the city hall last night by George A. Krogstad, chairman of the Michigan department of labor and industry.

Krogstad traced his labor connections, telling of learning the pattern making trade in Wisconsin and later being sent as an organizer to Detroit. He served as deputy commissioner under Governors Groesbeck and Brucker and was named commissioner, and later chairman, of the department by Governor Murphy.

He told of the history of labor legislation, recalling that the first labor law was passed in 1885. The skeleton of the present department of labor and industry, he said, was created by legislative act in 1909. At present, he said, the department is greatly undermanned, having but 13 inspectors for the whole state of Michigan.

Fred Peltier of this city is the only labor inspector in the Upper Peninsula. Krogstad expressed the belief that industry should be taxed to pay the cost of operating the department of labor and industry. In that way, he said, industry would be more eager to see that working conditions were bettered.

The speaker told of the workings of his department in conducting hearings. Cases are first heard by a deputy commissioner, who hears testimony from both factions and then renders his decision. Both factions then have the right to appeal. These appeals are heard before a full board of four commissioners, the Upper Peninsula hearings being held at Marquette.

In discussion of the features of the state compensation laws, Krogstad declared that the present legislation with relation to compensation is entirely inadequate. He urged local unions to get busy and suggest legislation to remedy these defects, mostly monetary in character.

Other phases of the department's work and features of labor laws were discussed by Krogstad and in open forum after the address.

He moved to Chicago in 1925, served four years as a member of the board of directors of the Chicago Kiwanis club and was elected president this year.

More than a hundred persons are expected to attend the dinner. The K. of C. choir will sing several songs. Other entertainment numbers are planned.

Chief bills, the Texan said the most vehement critics had no proper program of their own to offer. "Back to the Wolves" The chamber of commerce and other business associations "view with alarm," he said, but make no suggestions except to "repeat the Wagner labor relations act and throw labor to the wolves."

Republican suggestions that relief be turned back to the communities, he added, would result in a "saturnalia of mismanagement and corruption throughout the country." He urged the creation of a federal department of public welfare to handle the relief program.

Warned of Dangers He spoke after Republicans, continuing an attack begun yesterday, warned colleagues that there were serious dangers in the pending bill, which would appropriate some $3,000,000,000, major part of the $4,500,000,000 program of loans and direct expenditures to combat the depression.

A Republican minority report, prepared by Representatives Taber and Bacon of New York, and Wigglesworth of Massachusetts, members of the appropriation committee, presented a counter-program of 12 points. Among them was:

"Administration of relief by a federal bi-partisan board aided by local bi-partisan boards, federal grants to be limited to 80 per cent of each state's relief needs."

Dope, No Cure They also demanded: An inquiry into charges that WPA money has been used politically; outright repeal of the undistributed profits tax, an end to "harassing restrictions and assaults on business;" revision of the Wagner labor act to promote capital-labor "harmony;" and other steps.

In the house, Rep. Treadway (R-Mass) said the country was "in the midst of the Franklin D. Roosevelt depression," and that the pending bill offered no remedy for it. He said the measure was comparable to doping a patient instead of curing him. Business, he said, had been held back by the administration's own "policies and lack of policies." He asserted that President Roosevelt could reverse the trend "without spending one cent on pump priming;" by taking "proper steps to instill confidence in business."

Wartime Commander Of Leviathan Dies After Long Illness

New York, May 11 (AP)—Rear Admiral William Woodward Phelps, 68, died at his home today after a long illness of heart disease.

Forty-eight years in the navy, a veteran of two wars, he probably was best remembered as the wartime commander of the Leviathan, which transported 98,000 troops from Hoboken, N. J., to France in 1917-18 and brought back more than that in 1919.

The admiral, once commandant of the third naval district and of the navy yard in Brooklyn, is survived by his widow, Susie Southwick Phelps; a son, Southwick; and a brother, John, of Baltimore.

He was graduated from the naval academy at Annapolis in 1885 and retired in 1931.

Admiral Phelps commanded the transport Great Northern eight trips and the Leviathan two through the war zone.

was groaning, Ketrivits stated. Tortured With Poker "Then George Duchey picked up a small iron poker 18 or 20 inches long with a little iron knob on the end and stuck it into the box stove and heated it," Ketrivits confessed. "Then he burned the Chinaman on the leg. Charlie hollered and groaned, but we couldn't hear what he was saying because of the gag. George heated the iron and burned him twice."

"Duchey told me to burn him some more," Ketrivits said, "and I took the iron and burned his foot once. He hollered, but the poker wasn't very hot and I don't think I hurt him much. Then we decided to stop. George took the gag off. Hoy was groaning and breathing hard."

"George called me a coward," Ketrivits stated, "and picked up the Chinaman and tried to carry him upstairs but he was too heavy. He dropped him at the foot of the stairs, with his head up."

After Hoy was dropped at the foot of the stairs the youths left his establishment and went to Duchey's home on River Road. Ketrivits stated that he received about $32, which he said "was about half of the amount that the aged laundryman had in the drawer of the wooden table."

Then each went on about his business as usual. Duchey has been employed as an attendant at the Newberry state hospital since his graduation last summer. The two had been members of the same football team, each playing three years, Ketrivits as guard, Duchey as tackle. Duchey had considerable trouble and was before the probate court several times, was expelled from school twice for minor violations. Ketrivits, while rather surly at times, has never given any trouble.

Officers Find Body The disappearance of Charlie Hoy, who was Newberry's only Chinese resident, was first noted on December 31 by Robert Sommers, 15, who was employed as an errand boy by the laundryman. Sommers called at the shop on December 30 and found the stove cold and the kitchen in disorder and Hoy nowhere to be seen. The following day, when the laundryman still was absent, Sommers called the state police.

Officers found the body of Hoy at the foot of a stairway at the rear of his shop. A cloth was Eurico Gaspar Dutra, was wounded slightly. Struck by a stray bullet, Prince John of Orleans and Braganza, member of what once was the Brazilian imperial family, also suffered a minor wound.

Little Damage Done Police declared Valdeverde, in his jail cell, made a statement that the revolutionary movement was "100 per cent integralist." There was no mention of any foreign connections with the integralist action party, which has been abolished politically but was permitted to retain its social features.

In their search for Galgado today, police arrested General Bertholdo Klingler, leader of a revolution in Sao Paulo state in 1932, at the house where Galgado had been reported in hiding. Francisco Campos, said the revolt failed because it "lacked impact." The climax of the scattered fighting came when police arrested 300 Fascists at their headquarters in a downtown building.

Police announced they had seized a large quantity of grenades and bombs, but said actual terrorist attempts of the greenhirts did little damage. One large bomb exploded in the national security tribunal quarters, another at the national telegraph headquarters.

Three radio stations which the rebels had seized were restored to their owners shortly after the revolt ended. For a brief time, the rebels had broadcast a report that they were in power.

Pan-American Airways officials said police thwarted easily an attempt to seize the Pan-American airport.

Topped Ethiopian Throne Has Little Hope From League

Geneva, May 11 (AP)—Government Spain upsetting a majority of the League of Nations council, tonight prolonged its bitter battle to remove control of intervention in the Spanish civil war from the hands of the non-intervention committee.

Supported by Soviet Russia and New Zealand, Julio Alvarez del Vayo, the Barcelona delegate, won further consideration of the Spanish issue which Great Britain and France sought to dispose of tonight.

Halle Selassie's fight to save the last, legal trace of claim to his toppled Ethiopian throne, however, appeared crushed under the weight of British and French influence.

Two of his backers, China and Soviet Russia, decided not to oppose Anglo-French efforts to win the league's permission to recognize Italy's conquest of Ethiopia, a necessary preliminary to French and British friendship pacts with Italy.

Flint Man Admits Torture Robberies In Lansing, Pontiac

Detroit, May 11 (AP)—A confession in which he admitted participating in two "torture robberies" has been obtained from James Gordon, alias Ronald De Ber, 28, of Flint. Detectives Leon Goodhue and Frank Thompson, of the police holdup squad, announced tonight. The robberies occurred at Lansing and Pontiac and bullet wounds that he received in the former holdup led to Gordon's capture, the officers said.

Joseph Matkin, 17, also of Flint, was arrested in a downtown theatre a few minutes after Gordon was apprehended as he was leaving a downtown physician's office where he had gone to have his wounds dressed. The officers said that Matkin had admitted taking part in the Lansing robbery Tuesday with Gordon. In this holdup Frank Stevens, a filling station attendant, shot Gordon after he had been thrown out of the bandit car at Charlotte, officers said. The pair had neglected to search Stevens and he retained possession of a pistol.

McGuire, who were convicted by a jury yesterday of participating in the $33,000 robbery of a branch of the National Bank of Grand Rapids, were sentenced to serve 25 years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas. Ray C. Stephenson, 40, of Kokomo, Ind., their partner in the robbery which occurred in April of 1937, is serving a 40 year term in the same prison.

For robbing the People's State Savings Bank of Bloomhdale, three weeks ago, Harry Murphy, 25, and Richard Huribut, 20, both of Allegan, were sentenced to eight and six years imprisonment, respectively. Both men had pleaded guilty.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning! It's So Good!

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest, your stomach, you get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks blue.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. No substitutes refuse anything else.

W&M RAILWAY QUITS JUNE 1

Permission Already Has Been Granted by I.C.C.

Menominee—John Marsch of Chicago, president of the Wisconsin & Michigan railroad, Saturday told a committee of Menominee and Marinette freight shippers that he will not abandon the W-M railroad line before July 1, and that he will "cooperate 100 per cent" with the shippers in their projected purchase of the line.

The freight shippers approached Mr. Marsch on purchase negotiations because of expressed fear that if the line is abandoned local freight rates might increase and freight service be curtailed.

Mr. Marsch told the freight shippers and their representatives at a meeting in the Wisconsin & Michigan office Saturday that he will definitely abandon the 70 miles of line in Menominee, Dickinson and Marinette counties, and the terminal in Menominee. The abandonment will not take place before July 1, he said.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has, on the railroad's petition, authorized abandonment of the line. The authorization does not make abandonment mandatory, but permits abandonment if the railroad so desires.

Present at the conference with Mr. Marsch Saturday were: Lewis Larsen, manager of the Lloyd Manufacturing company; R. W. Wells of the John W. Wells Lumber company; John E. Henes of the Henes & Keller company; W. A. Shockley, president of the Northern Hardware & Supply company; M. J. Anuta, manager of the Menominee & Marinette Traffic bureau; P. F. Neverman, secretary of the Marinette Industrial Board; J. F. Asell and H. V. Higley of the Ansil Chemical company; M. C. Dickoff of the Southern Kraft corporation; A. J. DeLoers of Lanerman Brothers; and W. H. Wright, vice president of the Wisconsin & Michigan railroad.

Freight shippers of the Twin Cities are expected to hold a meeting later this week for further discussion of the purchase proposal.

FISHING CASE HEARD

Menominee—Menominee county circuit court this afternoon was occupied with the case of Robert Ruelau and John Williams of Cedar River, who are charged with setting smelt nets in the mouth of Cedar River in early April. The case was expected to go to the jury today.

Tomorrow the court will have before it the case of Arthur Faquette, Hermansville, charged with grand larceny in the alleged theft of $98 from Antone Sklenar of Hermansville on March 5.

In the Ruelau-Williams case, an appeal from a conviction by jury in Justice William J. Oberdorfer's court at Stephenson, the state charges the fishermen set their nets closer to the main channel river mouth than is permitted by state law. They were arrested by Conservation Officer Clarence Lienna of Stephenson.

Harbor Project Approved

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has signed a WPA project application providing for the allotment of $34,820 for continuing work on Escanaba's municipal yacht basin on the south shore. The project awaits final confirmation by the comptroller general, which is expected in the very near future.

Escanaba citizens, who for years have been hoping that this community would take advantage of its waterfront possibilities, are viewing with much satisfaction the progress that has been made along the Ludington park beach.

While the yacht basin is far from completed, the harbor has been the scene of much yachting activity during the past year. Interest in boating has climbed to new heights, and appears destined to become even greater.

Final approval of the new WPA project will make possible the driving of more piles and the continuance of dredging operations in the yacht basin. When completed, Escanaba will have one of the finest pleasure boat harbors on Lake Michigan, and it is certain that it will be visited by many members of outside yacht clubs.

The city administration is also giving thought to the development of the other portion of the Ludington park beach, which is now covered with weeds and debris. A landscape plan is being drawn up. A bathing beach, new bathhouse, playgrounds, lagoons, canoe trails, rustic bridges, bandshell, skating rinks and other park facilities would eventually be established under this long-range development plan.

Besides enhancing the scenic values of our south shore, the development would add to the utility of the property, furnishing the citizens of Escanaba and vacationists an opportunity to enjoy water and land sports amid delightful surroundings. The mere thought of the immense possibilities for making Escanaba an outstanding summer and winter resort community excites the imagination and makes one anxious to see the improvement work begin.

It Can Be Done

WHEN we reflect on the prospect of a big Air Mail Week for the Upper Peninsula just ahead, we recall some of the difficulties which beset the pioneers in that line not so long ago. The creative mind of man had been toying with the idea of aerial transportation long before the first flight of the Wright brothers on the North Carolina coast in 1903. But all along the way were the croakers who did their best to clog the wheels of progress with their sour old wheeze: "It can't be done."

Even in 1912 Congress refused to lay aside its own skepticism. When officials of the Postoffice Department asked for an appropriation of $50,000 that year, with which to start an experimental air mail service, the request was disallowed on the ground that such an outlay would constitute an absurd, if not criminal waste of public money.

We know the final outcome. The "can't-be-done" boys in Congress were overborne by those who saw the light, and today air mail service is available in every American State. Foreign services cover Mexico, Central and South America, the West Indies, the Philippines and other isles of the sea, and the Orient, with extensions to Europe in the offing.

Are the advocates of a bridge at the Straits of Mackinac going through the same phase that air mail boosters encountered in 1912? Are the detractors of the plan suffering the same blindness that afflicted air mail opponents then? Since it appears that federal funds may be available for bridge building, is Michigan warranted in holding back, thus losing a chance for an all-state investment which other commonwealths would be only too glad to grasp? Are we suffering from the same old lack of vision, or shall we welcome the opportunity which is sticking out like a sore thumb in our direction just now?

The Safest Way

TWO boys were killed in traffic, in Memphis, Tenn., the other day. Because of its extraordinary safety record, that city has been called "America's safest city."

Junior Safety Councils were introduced in Memphis 15 years ago. For 15 years not a child was killed going to or from school. The first to be killed were two boys riding on the same bicycle. This is contrary to Junior Safety Council rules, but an exception had been made in the case of these two, who were brothers.

The boys were riding home at the time. They ordinarily followed a route that was guarded by Safety Council guards, but this time they did not. They were struck by an automobile at the intersection of two streets. The driver of the car said she made it a rule always to look both ways at an intersection, but she could not say positively that she had done it this time. School guards are not enough. Traffic regulations are not enough. A safety campaign is not enough, without the consciousness of every man and woman behind every wheel, in every home, and at every school, of the full measure of his or her own responsibility every day in the week.

Old Stuff

THE tourist industry isn't a modern invention, by any means, although we are inclined to think so in the Upper Peninsula. It may be new to this region, but that's all.

Actually tourist business was a big factor in the great days of the Roman Empire. Travel was much safer than it would be in the western world for many centuries after. It was a peaceful time, many people had wealth and others had leisure, and as a result there was much travel.

Furthermore, the reasons for travel were about the same as those of today. The Roman author of a poem about the volcano Etna says that the lure of history and legend drew him from home to seek the highways and byways of travel. The Roman tourists went to see the Pyramids or the ruins of Greece just as we show them the Big Spring or Old Fort Wilkins at Copper Harbor. And no doubt they kicked on the price of a dollar and a half room and said it was altogether too much, just as their descendants do today. Quite likely the visitor's wife swelled around and said they were accustomed to so much better meals at home, and little Augustus picked a fight with another tourist's kid and got the tar knocked out of him, just like little Willie of today. The summer tourist business really hasn't changed much in twenty centuries, after all.

Lucian wrote that if legends were banished from Greece, the guides would starve. There's a lesson for us in that statement. We do not make enough of our greatest heroes, Hiawatha and Paul Bunyan. The Upper Peninsula is exceptionally fortunate as the background for the only two sagas which America has produced. They can be played up to an infinitely greater degree with benefits to everybody. Everybody wants to know more about these characters, where they were born, their great deeds, and how they ended. It is too bad that we cannot produce the graves of Paul and Hiawatha, in fact they may be still alive. We know that Paul bounced out of the world and landed on the planet Venus, while our Oldway Indian here boarded his birch bark canoe and sailed away on Gitchee Gumees, Lake Superior.

Another Roman tourist calls attention to the appeal of nature and her massive works. We have them here in infinite variety,—mountains, lakes, rivers, forests, sand dunes, Pictured Rocks, springs, and all the other attractions which travelers come a thousand miles to see, and which we take as a matter of course. Best of all, they can enjoy these sights under a superlative summer climate, whereas we know that the old Romans who went a-summering spent most of their time looking for a cool spot.

The fullest appreciation of the Land of Hiawatha is still to come, the biggest books about it are still unwritten, and the best poems unsung. We accept its beauties as commonplaces, largely because we are so close up as to fail in perspective, and perhaps because we are ourselves commonplace. Our ancient tourists lauded travel as something which broadens the mind. If more Hiawatha Land people got out and around the world to a greater degree, they would come to appreciate more fully the advantages and attractions of the land in which they live.

replaced by a new structure made possible through bequests of the late William Bonifas. Meantime services will be held in the recently completed Bonifas Memorial auditorium and gymnasium. The first St. Joseph's church was built nearly 70 years ago and two years later the congregation had grown so rapidly that the church had to be enlarged. The new structure will be one of the most modern edifices in the northwest.

In the absence of detailed information, the action of the United States senate last week with respect to Isle Royale seems strange. The senate passed a house bill making available for development all lands within the boundaries of Isle Royale national park. Presumably that means the island will be open to settlers, but why there should be any settlers on the island, except the fishermen now there, is difficult to understand. The island is so remote from the mainland, especially in the winter, that additional settlers should not be encouraged.

Police of Marquette are commencing to "war" on stray dogs that tear up spring gardens are offered shrubbery. The police are offered a good excuse by the fact that the last census showed Marquette to have 916 dogs and only 13 had been licensed this year. If a dog is licensed, they can check with the owner and warn him. The plan to keep dogs under control has been in effect in Menominee for several years. Each spring the chief of police solemnly announces that stray dogs will be taken in tow by the police and disposed of unless owners put them on leash or keep them locked up.

World Affairs Reviewed

BY MILTON BRONNER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

London—The economic dictator of France—absolute ruler of the marts of high finance as well as custodian of the little man's shabby pocketbook—seldom knew the sound of more than two francs jingling together in his jeans when he was a boy.

Edouard Daladier, whose title of Premier is almost secondary to his possession of full powers to "save the franc", is the son of a humble banker in the ancient town of Carpentras. And this stocky, pugnacious-contented man who now holds the purse-strings of all France and was able just the other day, by personal decree, to raise State taxes eight per cent, was so poor in his youth that, except for the aid of hard-won scholarships, he would have had no higher schooling at all.

After studying in the gymnasium of Lyons and, later, the university, Daladier practiced law until the war broke out. He went in a subaltern. He came out a Colonel.

In 1919 he ran for the Chamber of Deputies in his native department of Orange and has been continuously re-elected ever since. Five years after he took his seat in Parliament, he became Minister of Colonies. In more than half the many cabinets that have been formed since then, he has held office.

—FEARED FASCISM— In the troubled days of 1933, when French finances were going to the bad, Daladier formed his first cabinet on January 28. It only lasted till October 23 of the same year.

He was back as Premier on January 25, 1934, at one of the stormiest and most dangerous periods in French history. The Stavisky financial scandal had occurred. The extreme parties of the Right were demonstrating in the streets of Paris. Prefect of Police Chiappe had seemed over-tolerant of them and Daladier promptly fired him. On the night of February 6, 1934, an enormous clash occurred between police and rioters. Twenty were killed. A thousand rioters and 600 police and mobile guards were injured. Daladier and his colleagues were called assassins. They resigned on February 7.

But the riots had one immense result. Fear of Fascism brought together Daladier and Socialist Leon Blum, who had often fought each other. The Radical Chief, the Socialist chief and Thores, head of the Communists, appeared on the same platform in July, 1935, laying the foundation for the "Popular Front" which swept France in the next parliamentary elections.

—TAKES BOLD STEP— In May, 1936, Blum became Premier. Daladier became his Minister of War. In the second Blum cabinet, which fell just a few weeks ago, Daladier was once more War Minister.

Faced by the menace of the totalitarian states, Daladier took a bold step. He gave to Field Marshal Gamelin the supreme control of the army, the air force and the navy.

This "democrat stuffed with republican prejudices", as an opposition newspaper calls him, is aced up now with the soldiers. He is like them — short on speech, but long on action.

And France hopes Daladier may prove to be the "strong man" she has sought ever since losing Clemenceau and Poincare.

Q. What was the first unemployment and recovery measure put in force by President Roosevelt? W. G. H. A. The Civilian Conservation Corps, recommended to Congress on March 20, 1933, was the first unemployment and national recovery organization initiated by the President. Usually the sums sent are small. No special use is made of the money. It simply goes into the general funds of the Department.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—Front pages sizzled with the news that the Independent Theater Owners' Association is tired of losing money on such Hollywood stars as Mae West, Greta Garbo and Joan Crawford. It was a story called from a trade journal, the Hollywood Reporter, which had plenty more to say about certain stars who "are poison at the box office."

There were no holds barred in that blast against Hollywood practices. For a $300 ad, it got a million dollars worth of publicity and, no doubt, it made Harry Brandt happy.

Harry Brandt is the president of the Independent Theater Owners Ass'n. and on his own account, owns a string of New York City talkie houses. Naturally, he likes to hear the steady tinkle of cash in his numerous box offices, and Mr. Brandt doesn't believe that the stars who get the highest salaries in Hollywood have drawing power. He believes that the millions paid over to them are taken out of the quality of the product. As an exhibitor, he says it hurts his business.

And though the business-like Mr. Brandt may not be the actual author of the paid advertisement that precipitated such a public storm, he subscribes to every word of it. Film folk now call him the fire-Brandt of the picture industry.

Foe of Dog Races The right or wrong of Mr. Brandt's lambast still is being contended in this vicinity. No drawing power, huh? Well, the management of Loew's State Theater, the sole surviving vaudeville theater around here, submits in evidence that when Mae West recently made a personal appearance there, the week's take was $42,000; Rudy Vallee drew $44,498 in 1935, and Phil Regan, who is there currently, is no slouch at the box office, either. Well, that's vaudeville, retorts Mr. Brandt; pictures at the neighborhood house are different.

An outspoken exhibitor, Mr. Brandt, as president of a group of competitors—or on his own—he has volubly come to the aid of the box office before. With less attendant publicity than he accumulated this time (Names make News!), he once attacked dog racing in New York State for various reasons, one of which might have been cruelty to animals. Yet at the back of Mr. Brandt's mind might have lingered the thought that dog racing could catch on; and if dog racing caught on, the box office of the local movie house would be the first to suffer.

The Capital Parade

BY ALSOP AND KINTNER

Washington, May 11.—Just how is the taxpayers' money used to buy votes for administration candidates? It's time to answer that question, with primaries involving the New Deal's prestige fast coming on, with an election which will make or break the President only a few months off; above all, with a new blank check spending bill before Congress.

The answer, in all its rather ludicrous sordidness, is to be found in Pennsylvania. There the forces of the great allies, John L. Lewis and Senator Joseph F. Guffey, are conducting a fantastic primary contest against the rebellious Guffey creatures, State Chairman David Lawrence, the Philadelphia bosses Kelly and McCloskey, and the paunchy and loquacious governor, George H. Earle 3rd. THE GUFFEY PROGRESS ADMINISTRATION

From the start, the Works Progress Administration in Senator Guffey's state might well have been renamed the Guffey Progress Administration. When it was established in 1935, it was turned over to him, lock, stock and barrel. He was permitted to appoint Edward N. Jones, a faintly malodorous ex-Republican publicity man, as state administrator. And Mr. Jones was allowed to put in practice the old Guffey maxim, "A Democratic party worker always does the best job for the Government."

Political clearance—the indorsement of the Guffey machine—was not demanded of actual relief clients seeking Pennsylvania WPA employment. But every one of all the thousands of foremen, supervisors, time-checkers and the like were required to be faithful Guffey workers.

The method of hiring these well-paid WPA officials was simple indeed. When the egregious Mr. Jones required men, he notified the state committee in Harrisburg. The committee checked over its lists of deserving Democrats, supplied "clearance papers" to the best vote deliverers, and sent them along to Mr. Jones. After that, a life of federal bounty was their fortunate lot.

Just as the foremen and supervisors in the steel plants used to tell the workmen to vote for Senator Penrose's Republicans, these WPA foremen and supervisors told the relief workers to vote for the Guffey candidates. In spite of the pious protestations of Washington WPA officials, all this is universally admitted by the franker Guffey henchmen. As Mr. Bailley, the senator's secretary, once said: "Those foremen are non-designated jobs. If good Democrats can have them, hell bells, why shouldn't they?"

COMES THE REVOLUTION The Guffey political juggernaut in Pennsylvania is now split asunder, however, and the split has even affected the Guffey Progress Administration. Since clearance for all the WPA foremen and the like went through the state committee, most of these servants of the people owe their allegiance to State Chairman Lawrence and his friends, Messrs. Kelly and McCloskey. In certain poor wards in Philadelphia, an actual majority of the Kelly-McCloskey committeemen hold WPA jobs.

It's possible to write this column at all because Senator Guffey's titanic efforts to recapture the Guffey Progress Administration have brought the whole business into the open.

The senator still retains the loyalty of J. Banks Hudson, successor to the efficient Jones. And he has been using Mr. Hudson to move in on Lawrence-sympathizing county supervisors and similar officials. Not long ago, one Schuler, who ran the WPA in big Luzerne county, was removed from his post. There have been other signs that the Lawrenceites and Kellyites in the WPA would be frightened into line for Guffey.

Thus the recent letter of protest to WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, from Philadelphia's boss Kelly, Mr. Kelly was not really deriding politics in the WPA. He was merely fearful that Guffey politics would be substituted for Lawrence-Kelly-McCloskey politics. And the chances are that they will be.

In the next few days, more shifts of important officials are said to be scheduled. More top men will have their heads cut off. And, above all, thousands of new foremen, supervisors, time-checkers and so on are being added to WPA's Pennsylvania rolls under the program of relief expansion. Before the primary on May 17, the political army on the WPA roll will probably have been increased from an original 8,000 to 11,000 or even 12,000. The new men will all be hand-picked Guffeyites, and, unless the senator is a great deal less smart than he seems, the WPA vote will be a Guffey vote.

If this is the sort of thing that can be done when the White House is not especially interested, one wonders what will happen in Kentucky, for example, where the defeat of Senator Alben Barkley would be a body blow to the New Deal.

An artificial blood vessel just invented for experimental purposes is made of rubber tubing, and so is quite lymph.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch THE ROAD TURNS EAST The road turns east, and east we go, Whether or not we'd have it so, And hope the east road is the best. Although our hearts are turning west. Perhaps it only is awhile: Let us trudge on another mile And bravely wait some moment when The road of life turns west again. The road turns east, and east we go, Whether the road is east or no. Today may seem the hardest day Of life, but life's a longer way. Perhaps today, against our will, Will save us from some harder bill. Better a sign for something lost Than grief the keeping might have cost.

Weekly "Golf Trains" to Escanaba and Other U. P. Cities Planned

Chicago Travel Bureau Proposes All-Expense Trips to This Region

Escanaba and several other Upper Peninsula communities have been placed on the itinerary of the proposed all-expense golf excursion tours to be conducted during July and August under the direction of Happiness Tours, Inc., widely known Chicago travel service agency, in cooperation with the Chicago and North Western, Duluth and South Shore Railway and the Milwaukee Road.

Plans for the novel all-expense weekly tours were explained yesterday by J. Stuart Rotchford, president of Happiness Tours, Inc., and Malcolm Lund of the Bozell & Jacobs Advertising Agency of Chicago. Attending the conference at the Escanaba Golf club also were: George E. Bishop and Stanley D. Newton, Marquette, secretary-manager and publicity director, respectively, of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau; Harold P. Lindsay, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce; C. J. Driscoll and Wm. J. Schmit, officers of the Escanaba Golf club; and George Walters and A. J. Goulais of the Highland Golf club.

150 to 200 on Tour

Mr. Rotchford and Mr. Lund came to the Upper Peninsula yesterday to determine whether the communities affected would lend cooperation in the way of making the golf courses available on a fee basis to the expense tour patrons, providing some local entertainment, and reserving a certain number of hotel rooms for the excursion party. It is estimated that from 150 to 200 persons would make the weekly trips. Besides the golfing facilities, the tour sponsors were interested in the possibilities for fishing, bathing, boating, riding, bridge and other pastimes as the tour is designed to appeal to all members of the family.

The Happiness Tours, Inc., is conducting this year six all-expense tours to Alaska, six to New York, one of which will be for the Schmelling-Louis fight June 22, and the S. S. Seasidebe tours on the Great Lakes. The travel agency operated a special train to the Kentucky Derby in Louisville last week. Trips to Hollywood, Canadian Rockies, Mexico and other points are being offered by Hiawatha Tours, Inc.

Snow Trains Probable

Mr. Rotchford expressed interest in the "ski train" possibilities in the Upper Peninsula, explaining that last winter was quite disappointing in travel circles because there was no snow at several places to which winter sports fans were sent. The Escanaba Smelt Jamboree, world's championship log rolling tournament, and the running race meet all offer possibilities for short all-expense tours out of Chicago and Milwaukee, he said.

Mr. Lund, who is the son of Dr. and Mrs. C. Albert Lund, pastor of Bethany Ev. Lutheran church, Escanaba, has been engaged in advertising work since his graduation from Augustana college. The Bozell & Jacobs agency, with which he is connected, specializes in public utilities and travel advertising. One of its accounts is the state of Nebraska, which is carrying out an institutional advertising campaign in the national field. Mr. Lund served as the contact man in lining up a dozen radio broadcasts in Chicago for the Escanaba Smelt jamboree good will party in March.

Wholehearted support of the all-expense golf excursion project was pledged in Escanaba. Mr. Rotchford and Mr. Lund left last night for Marquette to arrange for other details of the tour.

Itinerary of Tour

The tentative itinerary calls for the "golf tour" train to leave Chicago each Sunday night during July and August over the North Western railway for Marquette-Menominee, where the golfers would play on the Riverside, North Shore and Little River courses. The train would depart from Menominee in the evening, bringing the party an overnight stay in Escanaba. They would golf during the day at the Escanaba Golf club's and Highland Golf club's courses. Monday evening, the train would go to Ishpeming, and play would be resumed at the courses in Ishpeming, Negaunee and Marquette. The North Western railway would turn the special train over to the D. S. S. & A. at Negaunee for the three-day tour of the Copper Country where the golfers will be given an opportunity to play at the courses at Houghton, Calumet and the new Keweenaw county course on Brockway Mountain Drive. Saturday would be played in Iron Mountain, the train departing that night on its return trip to Chicago.

Optimistic About U. P.

Both Mr. Rotchford and Mr. Lund are optimistic about the vacation possibilities in the Upper Peninsula.

"The Upper Peninsula is the logical vacation land for the great majority of the residents of Chicago and vicinity," said Mr. Rotchford. "Most Chicago residents would like to plan their summer vacations in the western mountain states, on the Pacific coast, in the southwest, or in the eastern and southeastern mountain or coastal areas, but comparatively few of them realize these vacation trips because of too short vacation periods and financial inability. Still others, regardless of financial status, prefer simple vacations that insure rest and complete relaxation in Nature's own surroundings. To such people the Upper Peninsula has an appeal all its own."

Mr. Rotchford added that his travel bureau had decided to promote short tours this year because it has been noted that the inquiries concerning long, expensive trips have dropped off this year. The popularity of "snow" and "bicycle" trains in recent years leads him to believe that a "golf" train would be popular since Chicago people seem to have the golf mania nowadays.

"Golf in Chicago, as well as throughout most of America, is the outstanding individual participation sport," said Mr. Rotchford. "It is directly engaged in by more adults than any other sport. During 10 or more weeks of hot weather, Chicago courses are unpleasant and crowded. Regardless, Chicago has many thousands of fans, who eat, sleep and think their play may be far from professional. They constitute the largest single group of adult sportsmen in Chicago."

Mr. Rotchford said that Happiness Tours, Inc., and the railroads would advertise the Upper Peninsula golf courses extensively by newspapers, radio and magazines. Each tour would carry along a nationally known golf professional to give instructions to novices aboard the train and on the links. Special entertainment also would be provided aboard the train.

At The Deift

Glorious romance on a tropic South Sea Island, coupled with daring thrills and the beauty of Technicolor make "Her Jungle Love," which opened yesterday at the Deift theatre, a rousing "must" on your weekly movie list.

Dorothy Lamour and Ray Milland, the romantic team of "The Jungle Princess" are united again in the same type of picture that vaulted them to screen stardom. Miss Lamour turns in an impressive performance as the beautiful white "goddess" living alone on a jungle isle, and evidently liking it until fate, in the form of a typhoon, forces Milland, a trans-Pacific flier, to a forced landing on her isle.

Large Group Enjoy Knights Of Pythias Roll Call Tuesday

Escanaba Lodge No. 95 Knights of Pythias entertained a group of over a hundred at the Ludington Hotel on Tuesday evening as the lodge staged its annual Roll Call and Past Chancellor's night with appropriate ceremony and entertainment. In addition to local Knights and Pythian Sisters, a large delegation was present from Red Cross Lodge of Ishpeming. The Ishpeming group accompanied the choir of the Dramatic Order Knights of Khorassan, who delighted the audience with their singing.

The evening program opened with a 6:45 o'clock dinner at the hotel with the invocation by Rev. D. L. Cathcart, Charles O. Folio, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the evening gave the address of welcome and introduced the toastmaster, A. W. Moberg, past chancellor of the Escanaba Lodge.

Following is the program presented during the evening: "We'll Keep Old Glory Flying" "Bells of Saint Mary's" "Dreaming" (choir). Address by Grand Outer Guard William St. John of Ishpeming. Hymns "Thanks Be To God" and "Holy Art Thou" by the choir.

Introduction of guests by toastmaster. Remarks by Edward Mandley, Chancellor Commandant of Ishpeming, and Mrs. Viola Green, Past Grand Chief Pythian Sisters.

Solos accompanied by the choir: "Harbor Lights" by Emmet Kennedy. "Hour Town" by Harold Kelow.

"Sail Along Silvery Moon," by Miss Isabel Asplund. French, Swedish, German and Cornish stories and poems by Walter Gries.

Solo, "Mammy, I Want to Make Rhythm," Wm. St. John Jr. Solo, "There's a Gold Mine in the Sky," Arthur Hammar.

Finale, "We're Showing Right Off" from Singing Marine by the choir. Peck Bettison, is the leader of the choir, and solos on the program were from a minstrel recently given by the Dramatic Order Knights of Khorassan at Ishpeming.

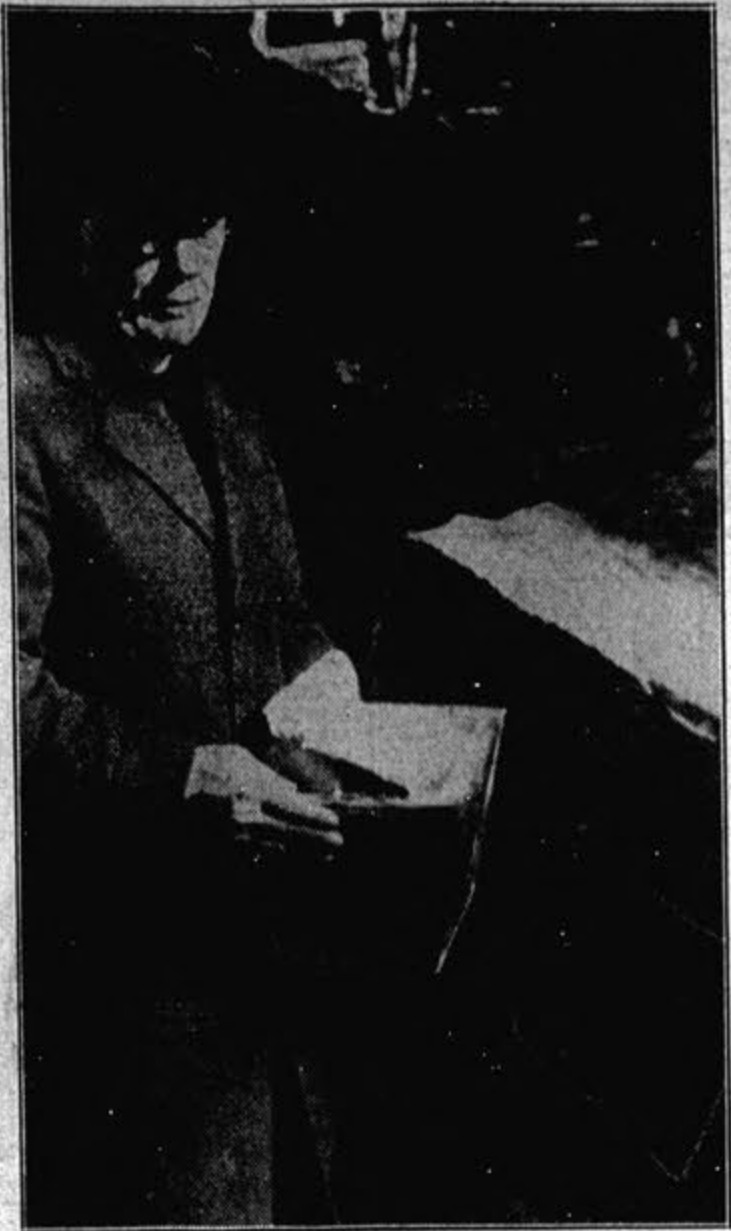

As a fitting climax to the evening's entertainment, James Christie, proprietor of the hotel, who is also a member of the Escanaba Lodge, entertained the audience with his trick dogs. The dogs went through their paces, presenting feats of intelligence and skill that amazed the audience and added to the enjoyment of the program.

St. Joseph's Cornerstone Opened

The cornerstone of St. Joseph's Catholic church, now being razed to make way for a new building to be constructed on the same site at the corner of First avenue south and Seventh street, was opened yesterday by Rev. Fr. Edward Leary, O.F.M., shown above beside the stone. A copper box within the stone, which was sealed on July 13, 1873, was found to contain newspapers of that date, several old coins and a document written in the hand of the Rev. Charles Langner, first pastor of the church, describing the laying of the cornerstone.

Cornerstone Sealed In 1873 Opened by Father Leary Of St. Joseph's

The cornerstone of St. Joseph's Catholic church, which was sealed on July 13, 1873, was opened yesterday by the Rev. Fr. Edward Leary, O.F.M., pastor of St. Joseph's parish. The church is being demolished to make way for a new building to be constructed on the same site through bequests of the late William Bonifas. Sealed in a copper box within the cornerstone were found a document written in the hand of the Rev. Charles Langner, first pastor of the parish; several newspapers of the date of the dedication and an assortment of old coins. A bit of wood, bearing an inscription stating that it was a relic of the Chicago fire of October, 1871, was also found in the cornerstone.

Document Found The following document was found in the cornerstone. The handwriting in which it was inscribed on parchment was proved to be that of the Rev. Langner by comparison with early records of the church which are known to have been written by him.

To God Sovereignly Great and Sovereignly Good Rev. Charles Langner, Pastor of St. Joseph's church of Escanaba, blessed this cornerstone of a new Church dedicated to St. Joseph this Thirteenth day of July A. D. 1873, Plus the IX being Pope; Ignatius Mirak Bishop of the Diocese of Marquette; Rev. M. A. Fox of Mononacne preacher; U. S. Grant, President of the United States of America and J. L. Pierce, President of the village board of Escanaba. The architect of this church was C. E. Struck of Marquette; the Mason Patrick Nary of Fond du Lac and the carpenter John F. Hartman of Escanaba. Several priests being present besides a vast concourse of people witnessed the blessing of this cornerstone.

May God prosper and bless the work undertaken. Among the old papers in the cornerstone, which were in an excellent state of preservation, was a copy of the Escanaba Tribune dated July 12, 1873. The paper, with Charles D. Jewell as editor, was published every Saturday.

One of the bits of local news it contains concerns a horse belonging to Mr. Clary, which fell into the water off Royce's dock. The horse was rescued, as a huge crowd gathered to contribute their ideas on how a horse should be raised from the water. Michael Gilligan, engineer of the engine Rockford, is reported to have fallen from the front end of the engine while oiling the valves. He fell outside the rails, and was slightly injured as the side rods of the locomotive passed over him.

Horse Race Described According to the Tribune, the "Steamer Equinox" refused to take freight from Detroit to Escanaba on its last trip, as there was only about 10 tons of it. Local patrons were disappointed. Maple Ridge made the news of July 12, 1873, with a story of the July 4 celebration held there. All went quietly until about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, according to the Tribune's correspondent, when a race was arranged between O'Callaghan's black and Rosister's grey, first half mile, for $25 a side. Old jockeys were in attend-

COUNCIL MEETS 2 CONSULTANTS

Engineers Recommend Changing Site of Water Plant

At an informal meeting held Tuesday night, several members of the city council conferred with representatives of a firm of consulting engineers from Chicago on preliminary plans for the proposed new waterplant.

The firm of Consoer, Townsend and Quinlan was represented by Arthur W. Consoer and Darwin W. Townsend. After making an inspection of the present plant and considering the distribution area and possible loads, they recommended that the plant be relocated in the industrial area between Ludington street and First avenue north east of the postoffice.

Both engineers said that the local set-up is ideal for a modern plant and that service can be improved greatly and costs reduced. They quoted prices for a preliminary survey and also for complete supervision of construction work when and if the project is accepted. They said the plant can be built with federal funds.

Consoer, Townsend and Quinlan is the fourth firm of consulting engineer which have expressed interest in the local waterplant project, others being from Chicago, Grand Rapids and Kansas City.

Provision has been made in the new budget for a preliminary survey, for which $2,000 will be appropriated if the present budget is approved by the council.

half-dollar, an 1872 Canadian quarter, an 1837 cent, an 1857 Canadian half-cent, an 1853 dollar gold piece, an 1859 Canadian cent, an 1868 nickel, several Belgian two centime pieces, an 1856 skilling, an 1873 cent, an 1857 quarter, an 1858 Canadian dime, an 1865 U. S. half dime, an 1870 Canadian nickel, an 1863 three cent piece, an 1853 dime and an 1846 12 skilling piece.

The names of many old-time Escanaba establishments are perpetuated in the copy of the Tribune which was found in the cornerstone. Among them are Day and McKenna's grocery, E. P. Barras' grocery and general store, F. D. Clark's harness shop, J. H. Hiller's furniture store, T. Killian's general store, Myers Ephram's tailor shop, S. Adler's dry goods emporium, J. Semer's grocery store, Mrs. John Stonehouse's Millinery shop and Elliott's livery stable. The issue announces the opening of W. J. Wallace's blacksmith shop.

Editorials in the issue berate the city of New Orleans for allowing dueling, referring to a recent duel between R. B. Rhett Jr., of the New Orleans Picayune and Ex-Judge William H. Cooley in which Cooley was killed on the second shot. According to the article, "The difficulty sprung out of an article in the Picayune headed 'Hawkins vs. the Picayune'; a reply to it by Judge Cooley provoked the challenge by Col. Rhett. The weapons used were double-barreled shot guns, loaded with ball—distance forty feet. Rhett's first shot ranged high, Cooley's to the right. At the second, both firing together, Cooley fell, the ball passing into his side and through his heart. Let the world blush for New Orleans that two such eminent citizens should be so lost to reason, and so blinded by passion, as to seek satisfaction in the barbarous practices of duelling."

On The RECORD

By Dorothy Thompson

Foreign Policy and Domestic Peace

Napoleon said, "Politics is destiny," and it becomes increasingly clear that the foreign policies of governments are coming to determine the way they live their lives and settle their internal affairs.

The most conspicuous example of this is perhaps Great Britain. The British foreign policy has been determined by the fear of war—and particularly the fear of modern aerial warfare which the British Isles vulnerable to attack, no matter how much British may control the seas—and by long-delayed rearmament, and reorganization of the army.

This fear of war has led Britain to abandon point by point every stand that might bring her into conflict with the more aggressive nations.

It resulted in the Chamberlain-Hallifax policy of steering Central Europe as easily as possible into Germany's maw; to carry on consistently the selling out process with other people's property rather than colonies; to give France the strongest military alliance that has ever existed while restraining her from backing any of her allies; thus to urge Germany against Russia in the east and Italy in the west; and, finally, by the policy of divide and rule, to get by for the time being.

Leaving out of account the eventual results of this policy in the foreign field, it is having a decisive effect on British institutions at home. The people of England do not like this policy, and they realize that they pay it by the suppression of their own institutions.

I doubt if ever in times of so-called peace the British press has been so shackled, so paralyzed. The censorship exerted by the British government is of a different type than that exercised by the dictators, but it is extremely effective.

The British newspapers and publications are asked voluntarily to withhold articles that might be offensive to the fascist powers.

Since to be on hostile terms with the Foreign Office and with other branches of the government is disadvantageous to any publication, and since the government and the powerful financial City work closely together and have ways of bringing pressure on advertisers, the newspapers may tune internally but to a great extent they switch themselves into line.

This affects not only editorials, but news reports. To take an example, the factual story of the conquest of Austria was available to British newspapers, but it has never been told in complete detail.

A distinguished British novelist, contributions from whose pen usually welcome in the British press, and who happened to be in Austria at the time of the conquest, found it impossible to place in English newspapers either her own story of what she saw or her plea for Austrian refugees.

One of the most brilliant writers in England, who happens to be a special and expert student of affairs in southeastern Europe, finds it almost impossible to get the viewpoint or even the facts about the southeastern countries set forth in any British publication.

Now, freedom of expression, opinion, and news is a basic English institution. It is in this country, and on it rests as firmly as on any single pillar the strength of the parliamentary system. And despite this voluntary censorship, people do get news. They get it in all countries, even in the dictatorships. But the effect on the people of believing that their government shuts them off from facts is alarming. The public begins to believe the worst of the parliamentary system, and the result of this is the radicalization of people who have all their lives believed in the democratic process.

There is a terrific feeling that the foreign policy of England is leading to the degradation of English internal institutions.

The same is true in France, where it is the weakness of the government's foreign policy, rather than insoluble domestic issues, that has split the people into camps and led to a terrific moral and political disarray internally.

Now, Britain and France together, in an effort to conciliate Czechoslovakia and Germany, are demanding that the Czech government make every possible effort to placate the German minority—this in spite of the immediate illustration of Austria, where the attempts of Schuschnigg to placate the Austrian Nazis under the terms of the Berchtesgaden agreement of July 11, 1936, led, in less than two years, to German conquest.

The Czech government which, with the complete abandonment of collective security and the sagacity of treaties is on a fearful spot, dares not suppress the Nazi propaganda in the German areas against the advice of the powerful western countries. And the Nazi leader Konrad Henlein

TRIAL FLIGHT

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JACKIE DUNN—heroine; she wanted to fly.
ROGER BRECKNER—hero; he wanted to test the stratosphere.
BERYL MELROSE—wealthy widow; she wanted Roger.
EVELYN LA FARGE—Jackie's mother; she wanted a son-in-law.

Yesterday: For the first time Jackie realizes that Beryl Melrose in the picture has taken a lot of the joy out of her hopes and plans for Roger's flight.

CHAPTER IX
Jackie was glad now that she had a lovely new dress, purchased so reluctantly among her "trousseau-clothes," for the dinner-dance.

It was a dream of a dress, really; sky-blue tulle, yards and yards of it, glinting with silver. She wore silver sandals on her feet and a coronet of tiny, glittering silver stars held her hair back from her eager, flushed young face. For once she looked as feminine and alluring as even Evelyn could have wished. For once Jackie was willing to look that way.

Of course the fact that Beryl Melrose would be there had nothing to do with it!
Evelyn had seen to it that the setting for this evening should be as romantic as possible. Gay Japanese lanterns had been hung around the velvety lawns and terraces, near the outdoor swimming pool a platform for dancing had been erected and just in case there would not be any moon, an artificial one had been supplied. There were floodlights, as well, that would shine first gold, then rose, then lavender, thick backdrops of shrubs and masses of fragrant roses. As though the night itself had wanted to lend enchantment the air was as tender as a serenade.

"Dear me," Evelyn whispered in an aside to Jackie, as they received the long line of guests, "what do you suppose is keeping Roger? He should have been here ages ago. I can't understand it."

Jackie, the golden flecks in her eyes too bright, her lovely face flushed, her fair head held high, could not understand it, either. Surely Roger would not let her down on this important night. He had promised to come. He had promised to help her carry this crazy trial-flight engagement through, no matter what happened.

She had scarcely seen anything at all of Roger since that day at the field. That new silver ship had been the one in which he would make his flight. He had been taking it up every day, experimenting with what it would do. And Jackie knew that Beryl Melrose had been staying at a small hotel near the field so that she could watch his progress.

"Perhaps he had to go after Mrs. Melrose," Jackie answered her mother. "He will want to see that she gets here."

"I still can not understand why you felt you must invite her to your party," Evelyn reproved. "Remember what I told you! If I were you I would keep Roger away from such a fascinating creature, rather than deliberately throwing them together, my dear."

"I'm not throwing them together!" Jackie flared. "Oh, why didn't Roger come? There was simply no excuse..."

"Ah, there he is now—and with Mrs. Melrose, just as you thought! Not only Jackie, but everyone in the room, watched the entrance in the room, watched the entrance that Beryl Melrose made then. She was the sort of woman whose coming into a room would be is doing precisely what the Austrian Nazis did—staging one big Nazi festival and demonstration after another, receiving warm congratulatory telegrams from Dr. Josef Goebbels, and flaunting the Swastika in front of the Czech population, while the police, urged by Prague to be careful, show considerable tolerance.

Now, this is the most dangerous possible situation, because this happens in a state in which the majority are not Nazis and not Germans, and the papers over the Czech population is becoming outraged and excited and is likely to take matters into their own hands.

And the result of open clashes between the Czech and German populations would certainly not contribute to the conciliation and peace for which the Chamberlain government still hopes.

We certainly have a most fantastic situation in the world when certain powers are prepared to reject categorically and suppress ruthlessly any attempt to interfere in their internal and domestic affairs, while at the same time, they make a policy to interfere in the internal and domestic affairs of other nations.

The world simply cannot go on like this. For the operation of this policy will lead to civil strife inside all countries, whether it leads to armed conflicts between nations or not.

In a desperate attempt to avoid the risk of an international war, the democratic countries are taking upon themselves the far greater risk of internal revolution.

She was easily the most beautiful woman present. She was all in white tonight, even to the long string of pearls about her beautiful throat. Her big eyes looked larger and darker than ever, her skin mere gardenia-like.

"It's all my fault that Roger is late," she said in her self-assured, gracious manner, that made Jackie feel so gauche. "We were making some very important tests today and got so interested. I do hope you'll forgive him!"

"It doesn't matter in the least," Jackie murmured coolly. She felt that Roger should do his own apologizing. She knew instinctively that Beryl Melrose had purposely seen to it that they should be late.

"I'm terribly sorry," Roger did offer, additional apology of his own, as his strong arm circled Jackie's slim waist for the first dance. "It wasn't Beryl's fault, Jackie. It was mine. But you knew I'd manage to get here, didn't you, my love?"

"I have told you before that I am not your love," Jackie gave him a stern look. She had had to pretend before the world that she and Roger were a pair of turtle-doves when the announcement of their engagement had been made at the dinner table, but they could drop all that nonsense now.

"You look so sweet tonight, with those stars in your hair—and in your eyes—that I almost wish you were," he told her, with his gamin-grin. She had no right to look so desirable if she expected him to remember that this was all pretense.

"Don't be silly!" she admonished. But secretly she was pleased that he thought she looked nice. It was almost like flying, dancing with Roger, their steps matched so perfectly, the music carried them on wings.

"I suppose, Jackie said, after a few moments of this sheer bliss, "that I'm honored to have you spare me even this one evening. Since you're kept so busy getting ready for your flight—and with your new friend." After all, even if their engagement wasn't real, Roger could have managed to have called, or come to see her, if he had wanted to. Not that she cared, of course!

"I have been busy," Roger said. He gave her a whirl that sent her full skirt in a wide swirl and practically lifted the silver slippers from the floor. His blue eyes crinkled at their corners as they smiled down into hers. "Though if you mean Beryl—it isn't she who has kept me occupied. There's plenty to do, making ready for a flight of this sort. I don't want to slip up anywhere. I hope to be ready to leave for the west coast by the end of another week."

"Another week!" Jackie said faintly. Maybe because she had not quite got her breath. That was so very soon. "Is Mrs. Melrose going with you—to the coast, I mean?" How could she keep Roger away from this other woman—even if she wanted to—under the circumstances?

"She expects to," Roger said. "She certainly is a wonderful person, Jackie. What she doesn't know about aviation isn't worth knowing."

"Of course that's the only reason she's playing Mrs. Santa Claus to you!" Roger gave her a questioning look. "What do you mean by that?" he asked.

"Nothing. Nothing at all!" Jackie tossed this off lightly. If Roger did not have sense enough to know that Beryl Melrose was probably interested in him because he was young and handsome, Jackie would not put him wise.

"Why, see here!" Roger practically stopped in the middle of the floor. "I believe you're jealous, Jackie!"

"Jealous!" She drew back, glaring at him. "I believe you are!" He became closer to her, holding her so firmly that she could scarcely get her breath again. "Do you know I have a notion to kiss you for that, my love! In public this time, of course. So that everyone will believe in this ridiculous engagement!"

"If you dare!" Jackie gasped. She pulled away from him. She was trembling all over—from anger, of course. "Let me go, Roger—I don't want to dance with you, any more."

"Very well," Roger said. He let her go, too readily. He looked as he had that night when she had slapped him. He bowed stiffly, having escorted her from the floor.

And what was more, he did not dance with her again!

Communication

A point to remember is the change in demand for various services incident to the progress of civilization. For many years we have been turning the pages of our daily newspapers and letting our eyes rest on news of aeronautics. Deep in all of us is a passion for self esteem, which is largely the product of recognition.

Within a few weeks, Manistique will be recognized and we realize that there isn't any way of giving personal credit to all the men who helped to build the new lighting system or when completed, the main thoroughfare through Manistique, comparable to any.

Ten years ago 120 acres were purchased by the board of supervisors of Schoolcraft county for an airport site. August 6, 1936, a project was given a presidential order for improving the airport for material and labor amounting to $3,284 which has been mostly spent.

The citizens of Manistique should unite in the support of the airport project which would have to necessitate additional funds to do so and when completed would be one of the finest landing fields in the upper peninsula.

Our special thanks are due Lieut. Colonel Floyd Evans, head of the Michigan Bureau of Aeronautics; Seb Weber, county highway superintendent, and Phil Beavrie, city manager, for the splendid work they have done to get the air field in shape to handle planes regardless of how large and now that interest is being stimulated to have mail service by air planes from Chicago and Detroit to upper peninsula cities, there is no reason why that Manistique should not be recognized as a leading city in transportation by railroad, water, good highways and last but not least air ways.

Charles Hansen.

Hearing Set on Assault Charge

Charged with feloniously assaulting Jesse Ballore last Sunday evening, Ed Cariffelle was arraigned in justice court Tuesday afternoon and a preliminary hearing was set for next Tuesday, May 17.

Cariffelle originally was charged with simple assault, but this warrant was substituted for the more serious charge of felonious assault when the defendant entered a plea of not guilty to the lesser charge.

Prosecutor W. J. Sheahan, who moved for the substitution of the more serious charge, declared the motive was simply to provide for a hearing so that all of the facts could be properly aired.

The assault was alleged to have been committed Sunday night at Babe's Tavern, in Thompson township.

Van Mungo Blanks Cubs, 7-0; Tigers Trip Senators

ONLY ONE MAN PASSES SECOND

Fireball Pitcher Fans Nine Chicago Men; Tex Hit Hard

Chicago, May 11 (AP)—The baseball season opened for Van Mungo today. After three straight setbacks, the temperamental Brooklyn right-hander came back today with everything and blanked the Cubs 7 to 0 with his baffling fireball and fine control.

Not only was it Mungo's first win of the year, but it was his first shutout since September, 1936. Oddly enough, these same Cubs were his victims on that occasion.

Big Van fanned nine today, walked only one and gave up but seven hits. So classy was his pitching, that only one runner passed second base, and only three got that far.

Meantime, his Dodger mates clubbed Tex Carleton and Newell Kimball for 16 hits.

Umps Just Catching On to Him, Says Boily

BY EARL HILLIGAN

Chicago, May 11 (AP)—The umpires—and you'll be shocked to learn it's "Bolling Boily"—Grimes speaking—are "catching on to me."

No one would expect such a statement to come from Mr. Burligh Grimes, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who won the National League umpire batting championship last season by getting himself booted out of 11 games. But Burligh, who has been kicked out of only one contest so far this year, has heard reports that he's slipping, and he's not the kind of fellow to let anything like that go unchallenged.

"When I say the umpires are catching on to me I don't mean I'm any different kind of fellow out on that field than I ever was," said Boily, as genial and quiet spoken a person off the diamond as he is a scrapper on it. "What I mean is that some of those young umpires who didn't know me, and the kind of ball I play, are beginning to learn that I'm out there fighting for all I can get, all the time, and not just trying to make trouble."

"Yes sir, I'm not a bushy man more—I'm in the big leagues now. You know, last year was sort of my baptism under umpire fire as a manager. The umpires, many of whom had never seen me as a player, got the idea I was playing too hard and so I was always getting sent to the showers. Because I've been sent out of only one game this year doesn't mean I've changed. As I see it, the umpires are finding out I'm just trying to win ball games."

Grimes paused a moment, gave his cigar a couple of quick chews, and then:

"When I took over this team the Dodgers had a reputation for being dumb and lacking aggressiveness. Right now we have only six men with who were on the club when I took charge. We've been building a hustling, fighting team and right now we're no setup for any club."

"I want my players to play as I do, and no one who ever saw me play called me a happy-go-lucky guy. I'm trying to earn my money all the time and my players are going to do the same thing, and I don't intend to change myself just to suit a few young umpires. The fans in Brooklyn like the way I play and they like the way the whole team is trying, so I guess I'll have my share of umpire trouble before this season is over."

"But heck, I'm not the only guy in baseball who gets tossed out of ball games. Do you know what I had to do to win the championship from Frankie Frisch of the Cardinals last season? Huh! I had to get booted out of our final game to take a photo-finish."

HILLTOPS NEED GOOD TACKLES

Paddy Driscoll Sends Out SOS Call for Big Bruisers

Milwaukee, Wis., May 11.—Tackle, tackle, who's got a tackle? That was the little game being played by Coach Paddy Driscoll and his aides at the conclusion of seven weeks of arduous spring football practice at Marquette university.

"Give us more power at the tackle positions," Driscoll declared, "and we may have something. And while you're giving, you might hand over a first class forward passer!"

The Marquette coach explained that two letterman tackles are back from last fall in Carl Siefert and Ray Busler, a pair of 210-pounders, but that more material is needed. Jim Cooper, veteran end, and Tom Woods, 225-pound first string guard of last fall, have been moved over in the emergency. Best of the frosh tackles are Benny Owens, Chicago, and Len Kramp, Springfield, Ill.

Driscoll has been serious in his search for a first-class passing expert. The spring squad numbered several "throwers," but a stand-out pitcher would be a real asset next fall because it is likely that the Marquette eleven will be exceptionally well-fortified with receivers—both in the backfield and at the wings.

The veteran ends, Herb Anderson and Bill Burke, will find themselves pressed by a fleet of sophomores, not the least of whom are Don (Huck) Vosberg, Gil Thompson, Len Brasch and Milt Dussault.

Weather favored Marquette's spring practice this year, so that the seven-week schedule was rushed through without a break except for the Easter vacation. The next gridiron call will be sounded on Sept. 10, when practice will get under way for the Wisconsin game at Madison, Oct. 1st.

KENNEDY HURLS STELLAR GAME

Detroit's 4 to 1 Victory Pushes Washington Out of First Position

Washington, May 11 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers, behind 7-hit pitching by Vernon Kennedy, chased the Senators out of first place today, winning 4 to 1.

New York moved into the league lead by defeating Cleveland. Kennedy's fine pitching snapped Washington's winning streak of 7 straight games.

The Tiger hurler had a shut out until the ninth, when Stone doubled and scored on Myer's single. Harry Kelley, recently acquired from the Athletics, was the losing pitcher.

Detroit scored all of its runs after two were out in the second inning. Three double plays helped Kennedy.

Kennedy, who came to Detroit in the trade that sent Gerald Walker to the Chicago White Sox, won his fourth victory, with no defeat so far this season.

Manager Mickey Cochrane again shifted the Bengal lineup, benching Roy Cullenbine and returning Jo-Jo White to the outfield. Pete Fox was moved up to fifth in the batting order, and Rudy York dropped to sixth.

York started the second by popping out, then Don Ross doubled. Ross moved to third when Kelley tossed out Bill Rogell. Kennedy's single scored Ross. White singled, and Kennedy scored and White reached third when George Case tumbled. Dixie Walker singled to score White. Charley Gehring walked and went to third when Hank Greenberg doubled, sending Walker home. Fox grounded out to Buddy Lewis, who made a nice play and threw him out.

BOMBER TALKS FOR REPORTERS

German Cuckoo Clock 'Biggest Thrill for Schmeling's Foe'

BY PAUL MICKELSON
New York, May 11 (AP)—After 15 minutes of coaching by his handlers and sly Mike Jacobs in the promoter's front office, sleepy-eyed Joe Louis was ready for the candid interview. Yanked out of bed at 8 a. m., four hours earlier than usual, the heavyweight boxing champ yawned and stretched like a tired hound dog but still came back with some excellent repartee and wisecracks.

Before opening up, the Brown Bomber explained the presence of a mustache with: "Aw, I ain't been near no razors yet." Then he invited reporters to fire away with emphasis on Max Schmeling, the man he hopes to make into a sucker when he defends his title come June 12.

Q. Is it true—as Schmeling is going around saying—that you still haven't shaken off a fear of him and his right hand?

A. I had long time to shake off their fears. It's almost two years since he done licked me and I got six weeks more to shake off scared stuff. Maybe I shake it off on him.

Q. Hear what Max is saying—that he softened up Harry Thompson for you?

A. And maybe Thomas softened up him for me, too.

Q. What do you think of Max's tuneups against Ben Ford, Harry Thomas and Steve Duda?

A. All of them just hand-picked fights but he came near doing wrong handpicking when he fought Ford. It took him 12 rounds.

Q. What was the biggest mistake you made when you fought Max?

A. Getting in the ring with him. I trained all right and didn't do no wrong but I keep my left hand too low so he can crack me on the chin. And then he take 10 rounds after hitting me good. He no one-punch knockout man and so I know I can lick him right this time.

Q. Why don't you lead a clean life like Maxie?

A. Don't see how I can live much cleaner. My big trouble is too much ice cream, I guess, and more ice cream. Never taste whiskey, beer; never smoke no how, and I gets plenty sleep.

Q. How about Max's statement that you're not the fighter you were—that you've gone back?

A. No man, I am not going to be the fighter I was when he licked me. I gonna be much better. I gone back? Well, I won the championship and I just guess that's most I can do now.

Q. Is Schmeling the hardest man to hit you ever fought?

A. He has peculiar style but I thinks Thomas harder to hit. They both fights lots alike though.

Q. Going to be any changes in your training program this time?

A. No sah, 'cept I ain't gonna play no golf. Jes lotta road work and plenty punching 'n timing. Gonna keep my left hand high and keep on punching.

Somebody mentioned that Schmeling's manager, Yussel the Muscle Jacobs, had brought back a German cuckoo clock for the bomber and Joe suddenly became wide awake as Manager Julian Black unwrapped the thing. Like a three-year old kid with a new, shiny toy, the heavyweight champion of the world fondled the clock as a wide grin spread across his somewhat fat, twisted face. "Hot dog and ain't that sump-in'!" he cried.

The same system will be followed in each class.

Since this week's meet will be the first district held, all marks will go down as records. And with a fast track promised and a large field of competitors assured, creditable time and distance are forecast. The track was reported in good condition and will be rolled smooth and hard Friday.

Gold team trophies for each class have been provided by the state, along with gold medals for the first three places in each event for each class.

On the great Arch of Augustus at Rimini, Italy, is carved the date "B.C. 271." The only question is, how did the men of that time know that the birth of Christ would occur in exactly 271 years?
