FARLEY BACKS CIO CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

BOTH SIDES CLAIM INTERFERENCE IN PENNSYLVANIA

(By The Associated Press) Philadelphia, May 16 (AP)—The Democratic party's high command stepped into Pennsylvania's new deal factional war today in an election-eve move for harmony.

From both sides came retorts decriing "interference" in the state fight.

National Chairman James A. Farley, fearful that wounds of the clashing campaign would hurt the party's chances in the November general election, proposed a fusion slate of one major candidate from each of the opposing factions.

Test for Lewis One upshot was new emphasis cast upon the role of Labor Leader John L. Lewis, whose political power receives a test in tomorrow's primary balloting.

Farley made his plea in a statement from New York.

The "only solution," he said, is to nominate CIO-backed Thomas Kennedy for governor and Governor George H. Earle for senator.

The battle for party supremacy in the state, Farley added, "imperils the success of the Democratic party in the November election."

Farley's proposal, in effect, was to sacrifice Philadelphia's Mayor S. Davis Wilson, running for the senate nomination on Kennedy's slate, and Charles A. Irvin Jones, Pittsburgh lawyer, candidate for the gubernatorial nomination with Earle.

"Double Cross" Claimed Earle quickly condemned Farley's interference as "unwise," reaffirmed support of his ticket mate, Jones, and fired a blast at CIO Chief Tom Lewis who with Senator Joseph P. Guffey is backing the Kennedy-Wilson lineup.

Wilson asserted Farley's statement would be "resented." He cried "double cross."

Said Earle: "I regret that Mr. Farley has unwisely seen fit to come in at the eleventh hour and interfere in a purely local primary. That is not the function of a national chairman... every man on this ticket is a 100 per cent Roosevelt Democrat."

"I am certain—Mr. Farley to the contrary—that the Democrats of Pennsylvania will not turn their party over to John L. Lewis in the form of Thomas Kennedy."

Intervention Resented Mayor Wilson warned: "If Earle should be nominated it would mean certain defeat for the entire Democratic ticket at the November election. If I have accomplished nothing else I have eliminated Governor Earle as a presidential candidate. I consider that a great public service."

(He has attacked the Earle state administration bitterly throughout.) David L. Lawrence, state democratic chairman said Pennsylvania "resent" Farley's endorsement.

Atlanta Hotel Fire Takes Lives Of 27; Score Are Missing

Atlanta, May 16 (AP)—A pre-dawn fire that turned the 30-year-old terminal hotel into a flaming horror in ten minutes killed 27 persons and left a score more missing or injured today.

Engineers estimated it might be two days before the wreckage was cleared and the full toll determined. The hotel register was lost.

George F. Jones, hotel manager, said at a hospital he was "too sick to talk," but estimated at least 75 persons were in the structure. A negro porter awakened him and his wife, asleep on the third floor, and firemen rescued them with a ladder.

The blaze broke out in the basement of the 5-story, brick and frame building about 3 a. m. when most of its guests were asleep. Flames and smoke shot skyward and in a moment every floor was ablaze.

Home to many railroad men, the $1 and up a day hotel, was situated opposite the terminal station on Spring street, in downtown Atlanta. Traffic for blocks around was jammed today as police roped off the area against danger of falling walls.

Thousands, some of them anxious relatives, pressed against the fire lines, throughout the day.

Bellhop Charles Labon, a veteran of 20-years service, was in the lobby when the blaze caught. He said he heard a kitchen messboy scream, "Oh Lawdy, fire!" Then there was a muffled blast below, and flames puffed upward.

Labon dived for the elevator and Ben L. Berry, 78-year-old clerk, turned to the switchboard to warn the guests. But the blaze burned out the connections.

"The flames spread so quick I had to jump from the elevator cage on the second floor and run," said Labon. "Berry got burned trying to ring the phones. There wasn't anyone got out except those that jumped or got down the stairs."

Several were killed in leaping from the flaming building. The fire choked off fire escapes and stairs a few seconds after it caught.

Heavy Rains No Bother to Insurgents at Teruel Front

Hendaye, France (At the Spanish Frontier), May 16 (AP)—Spanish insurgents smashed their way through government lines east of Teruel today despite heavy rains and flooded ground.

Driving toward Mora De Rubielos, insurgent forces reached the outskirts of two villages, Valdellinas and Alcala De La Selva, in the general offensive against the coastal provinces of Valencia and Castellon de la Plana.

Alcala De La Selva is 20 miles east of Teruel and approximately 10 miles north of Mora De Rubielos, Valdellinas is six miles northeast of Alcala De La Selva.

Insurgents attacked government positions between the two villages with tanks, airplanes and heavy artillery.

Warplanes which flew despite mist and intermittent downpours dropped tons of explosives in the ranks of militiamen entrenched in the sector on the slopes of the 6,624-foot Penarroya peak.

The insurgent objective was conquest of a road which runs 17 1/2 miles from Alcala De La Selva south through Mora De Rubielos to the broad Teruel-Sagunto highway.

State Gives $2,500,000 For Relief Emergency

Lansing, May 16 (AP)—The state administrative board tossed another $2,500,000 into the relief hopper today and told the emergency relief commission there would be no additional funds until July 1 ushers in a new fiscal year.

George F. Granger, acting emergency relief administrator, said May requirements would eat a $900,000 hole in the new reserve. He said a survey of case budgets and a "general tightening up all round" would be necessary if the remaining $1,600,000 is to meet June requirements.

"That means it will be harder for new applicants to obtain welfare aid," Granger said. He expressed the belief that the new allocation, borrowed from next year's budget, would suffice but added, "Nobody can predict these days what is going to happen two weeks from now."

The administrative board acted at Governor Murphy's request because the relief balance, padded with piecemeal allocations until the year's outlay now totals $16,250,000—twice the legislative appropriation—had dwindled to $65,000.

DIGGS CRACKS AT BROWNRIGG

Says Civil Service Is Being Violated by Dismissals Lansing, May 16 (AP)—State Senator Charles C. Diggs, Democrat, Detroit, today criticized the threatened replacement of 3,000 state employees in a letter to William Brownrigg, state personnel director.

Diggs' open letter said he considered wholesale dismissals would violate the intentions of the 1937 legislature, which enacted the civil service law.

"I understood when I was voting for the bill, and I think other members of the legislature understood," the letter read, "that we were voting for qualifying examinations commensurate with the work the employees were doing in their particular departments, and not 'Einstein theories.'"

"It was the opinion of most of the members of the legislature that state employees are better qualified than someone who passes a theoretical examination, and that on the basis of their experience they should be given every opportunity to retain their positions rather than be discharged in favor of less experienced employees."

The senator also criticized plans to revise downward the salaries of some employees.

English Cabinet Is ReShuffled To Speed Up Aircraft Program (By The Associated Press) LONDON—Prime Minister Chamberlain reshuffled his cabinet to meet insistent clamor that Britain surpass Germany's air rearmament.

Chief change centered on air ministry from which Viscount Swinton resigned to be replaced by Sir Kingsley Wood, heretofore minister of health. Resigned of parliamentary attacks on lagging air program.

NEW CABINET IS SELECTED BY MINISTER

CHAMBERLAIN GIVES REPLY TO CRITICS OF AIR FORCE

London, May 16 (AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain met the insistent clamor that Britain surpass Germany's air rearmament tonight with a reshuffle of his cabinet.

Viscount Swinton resigned the post of secretary of state for air, where he had been the center of parliamentary attacks charging the air program was lagging, and was succeeded by retund, energetic Sir Kingsley Wood.

Sir Kingsley's portfolio as minister of health went to Walter Elliot, who was secretary of state for Scotland.

Elliot's former post went to Lieut. Col. John Colville, who entered the cabinet for the first time. He had been financial secretary to the treasury.

The former William G. A. Ormsby-Gore, who went to the house of lords as Baron Harlech on the death of his father, resigned as colonial secretary.

Malcolm MacDonald, national laborite son of the late Ramsay MacDonald, took the colonial ministry and his former post of dominions secretary went to Lord Stanley, heir of the Earl of Derby.

Lord Stanley's appointment placed two brothers in the cabinet as Oliver Stanley is president of the board of trade.

It was estimated Britain's air program would have to be more than tripled if the nation is to reach the level given Germany by Field Marshal Herman Goering.

Last Thursday, when the air ministry was attacked in parliament, the government pledged it would have in the neighborhood of 3,500 first line planes by April 1, 1940.

This is double the number it planned to have in active military service by April 1, 1939. Unofficial estimates credited Germany with having 2,100 first line planes at the present time.

Lord Winterton, who acted as Lord Swinton's deputy in the house of commons, was understood to have been relieved of all air ministry duties.

He faced criticism from all parties for what was called "weak handling" of last Thursday's air debate, which was one of the causes of Swinton's resignation.

Winterton remains in the cabinet however as chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster.

Five Persons Hurt In Speedboat Crash

Detroit, May 16 (AP)—A police investigation of a speedboat accident Sunday night in which five persons were hurt opened today. The boat, estimated by bystanders to have been traveling about 40 miles per hour, struck a dock.

David Outhouse, driver of the boat, made a statement to police Sunday night in which he said he had been asked to take the wheel for a brief run to diagnose a mechanical difficulty reported by the owner, Julian Meier.

Spectators rescued the occupants from the wrecked vessel. The boat was once owned by Edsel Ford and raced in gold cup regattas under the name Albatross.

'Gold Digger'

When 109 chorus girls agree unanimously on the beauty and talent of one of their number, the young lady must really have something. Well, that's precisely what happened to Ethelreda Leopold, pictured above in a classic gown, who was named by her fellow chorines in the movie 'Gold Diggers in Paris' to take a trip to New York and Paris with all expenses paid by Warner Brothers.

And it's easy enough to see why Ethelreda was picked.

JAPS CONVERGE UPON SUCHOW

Drive Toward Railway Terminal to Hit at Chinese

Shanghai, May 17 (Tuesday) (AP)—Two hundred thousand Japanese converged from all sides today on Suchow with one force of the invaders poised for a direct attack on the vital railway junction.

Japanese troops fighting from the southwest reported they were within 10 miles of Suchow, which is 80 miles northwest of Shanghai and that it was "only a matter of hours" before they would unlimber their guns on the city itself.

The Commander of this force said the Chinese defense along the strategic city were clearly visible from his newly won position on a low mountain range near the Suchow-Siaohaw highway.

Inside the ever-tightening Japanese movement were an estimated 240,000 Chinese defenders seeking desperately to stave off the fall of the nerve center of the Central China war front.

Spread out over a 40-mile radius were the Japanese whose spokesmen declared the Chinese must now "surrender or perish."

Sharply challenging them, Chinese army spokesmen in Hankow said the Japanese were still "remote both in strength and distance" from the vital east-west Lungal railway which crosses the north-south Tientsin-Pukow rail line at Suchow.

The Chinese denied flatly Japanese reports that the Lungal had been cut, although the spokesmen said the defenders were "fighting with their backs to the railway."

Prominent Michigan Oil Promoter Slain In Clare, Mich. Hotel

Clare, Mich., May 16 (AP)—Arraigned twice today, once behind locked doors, Jack Livingston, oil promoter, was held without bail in the Clare county jail at Harrison tonight for examination May 26 on a charge of slaying Isaiah Leebove, the New York lawyer who became the croesus of the Michigan oil fields.

Leebove, chairman of the board of the Mammoth Producing & Refining Corp., was shot to death Saturday night as he sat in the crowded grill room of a Clare hotel. Sheriff George Bates said that Livingston had made a full confession, asserting that Leebove had ruined him financially.

Livingston's first arraignment this afternoon was behind locked doors at the home of Justice of the Peace Fred Schuette, at Harrison. Sheriff Bates explained that the prisoner was hysterical with fear of reprisals by Leebove's friends and had asked that no one—not even three attorneys who had been retained by oil men to defend him—be admitted to the arraignment.

One of those attorneys, James Ryan, of Mt. Pleasant, interrupted that arraignment by insisting upon admittance to the justice's home and then demanding an examination for his client.

That was tantamount to a plea of innocent, and was entered upon the records.

Purple Gang Blamed Then Prosecutor Donald E. Holbrook, apprised of the locked doors, expressed doubt as to the legality of the proceedings, and a second arraignment was held before newsmen and others who had been denied admittance to the house. Ryan again demanded an examination.

Following the arraignment, Livingston conferred with his attorneys at the county jail and then talked with newsmen for the first time since his arrest.

In that interview, he said that Leebove had ruined him financially, then had put members of Detroit's notorious Purple gang on his trail to threaten him with violence should he institute court action.

He asserted that threatening letters sent to him by Leebove while he was visiting his mother two years ago so worried her that her death was hastened. That circumstance, he said, inspired his intense animosity to Leebove.

Within recent months, he said, members of the Purple gang seized him while he was stopping at a Detroit hotel, searched him and threatened him with violence. He said he complained to Detroit police.

Six Are Wounded In Mexican Clash

Mexico City, May 16 (AP)—Six persons were wounded seriously today in clashes at the University of Mexico, where rightist and leftist groups battled with pistols and knives for possession of four buildings.

Homer Gonzalez, the student most seriously injured in the rioting, died of his injuries tonight. The outbreak was the most recent development in growing tension between representatives of the country's two extremes of political thought.

Several hundred armed members of "Socialist Youth" groups before dawn seized possession of the main university building, the preparatory school and the schools of commerce and law. They defied efforts of police and firemen to eject them.

PRESIDENT WANTS HIS PET ISSUE TO BE PASSED

Washington, May 16 (AP)—Efforts to revive President Roosevelt's beaten government reorganization bill appeared to be balked tonight, temporarily at least, by a "let-George-do-it" attitude on Capitol Hill.

House leaders were suggesting that the senate take the first step to reopen the delicate and troublesome issue. Prominent senators promptly replied that the house should take the initiative.

There was little doubt that Mr. Roosevelt would like to see a reorganization bill passed. In fact, the possibility of doing so was a subject of discussion this morning at a White House conference attended by the president and congressional leaders. However, Representative Rayburn, of Texas, house leader said the president did not ask specifically that congress take up the legislation before adjournment.

Split Into 4 Bills The situation which the president faced was this: The house, some time ago, split his reorganization program into four bills, two of which were passed and now await action in the senate.

The senate meanwhile wrapped the whole program into one omnibus measure and passed it. The house, after a memorable battle, in the course of which the president issued his famous denial of dictatorship ambitions, voted 204 to 196 to recommit this omnibus bill.

Prominent house members were saying today the senate should go ahead with the two individual bills, and certain administration senators were asserting that the house should call up the bill it re-committed and take definite action upon it.

Want Six Assistants The two bills already passed by the house give Mr. Roosevelt general reorganization powers and would provide him with six administrative assistants. The senate bill included these provisions with some modifications, and the establishment of a one-man civil service administrator and the abolition of the office of comptroller general, both proposals which were bitterly opposed in the house and senate.

Senator Byrd (D-Va) a leader of the bloc which fought the reorganization bill, said today that the opposition to the two house bills would be just as intense as that which met the general senate bill.

"They give the president even broader power than the senate bill," he said.

Representative Warren (D-NC) a prominent advocate of reorganization legislation, was one of those who urged that the next step be consideration of the two house bills by the senate.

"They contain 85 per cent of the president's program," he said.

NEW AGENCY APPROVED

Washington, May 16 (AP)—The senate voted today to set up a new independent federal agency—the civil aeronautics authority—to regulate civil and transport aviation.

The bill now goes to the house where a similar measure, introduced by Representative Lea (D-Calif.), is awaiting action.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev), author of the measure, said the prepared agency would take all aviation control "from four political departments."

He enumerated the postoffice department, which controls airmail contracts; the commerce department, with its 2,600 employees of the air commerce bureau; the interstate commerce commission.

FRY CHECKS UP ON PENINSULA

State Democratic Chief Wonders How Fall Prospects Are

Crystal Falls, Mich., May 16 (AP)—High state officials of the Democratic party launched what Edward J. Fry, state central committee chairman, called a pre-campaign inventory of hopes and prospects at a rally of Upper Peninsula party leaders here tonight.

"I honestly want to know what the prospects are in your counties for us in the November elections," Fry said. "Where is our strength and where are our weaknesses? What can be done to help matters?"

The chairman will ask the same questions in a series of meetings in the Lower Peninsula. Charles F. Hemans, national committeeman, is accompanying Fry on his trouble-shooting tour.

Fry appealed for harmony within the party ranks, striving to avert a split such as that which ended in the defeat of former Governor William A. Comstock for re-nomination in 1934.

"The Democratic party has little to apologize for in its administration of state affairs during the last year and a half," he said. "We have much to be proud of. We have given the public good officials and good government."

"I think that, so far as we can be consistent with the welfare of our communities and the Democratic party, we as party leaders should give our support to the Democratic incumbents in state, national and county offices. I do not wish to place my self in the position of advocating nullification of the primary election, for it provides a wholesome method of letting the party rank and file choose the candidates in whom they have most confidence."

"Yet in a majority of cases I think that those who are now in office are deserving of another term, free from the embarrassment of bitter competition from those of their own party."

"Certainly we wish to avoid a spectacle such as the Republicans already are providing with two candidates splashing mud all over each other in their haste to get in the front row at Lansing. Thorough discussion of the issues which can adjust rates under airmail contracts; and the weather bureau, which collects and supplies meteorological data for flying. The McCarran measure would create a board of five members, each paid $12,000 annually, and give them broad powers to issue certificates of necessity, fix rates and promote air safety. A special air safety board of five members, each paid $7,500 annually, would be created under the authority to deal with all phases of safety in the air.

McCarran said authorized and operating air transport lines would automatically receive certificates to operate after a showing to the new agency of adequate public service. "The existing airmail contracts are cancelled by this bill," McCarran said. "Contract holders would continue to carry the mail at present rates until the authority looks into these rates."

FIGHTING DISEASE

Washington, May 16 (AP)—A nation-wide campaign against venereal disease was outlined by public health service officials today after the house passed a senate bill calling for the expenditure of from $3,000,000 to $7,000,000 a year for the activity.

Dr. Thomas A. Parran, surgeon general of the health service, called the measure "one of the greatest steps yet taken in the conservation of the nation's health."

Dr. E. A. Vonderlehr, assistant surgeon general, said present intentions were to use most of the funds for the actual treatment of syphilis and gonorrhea patients by local physicians, health officers and clinics. Under this program, federal funds would go to the states and communities for the purchase of medicines.

"We may now begin to fight syphilis and gonorrhea on a significant scale," Dr. Parran said, "after many years of acting as if they didn't exist."

The senate and house have yet to adjust minor differences over the legislation. After this is done it will go to the White House for the president's signature.

ANGLERS FACE ASSAULT CHARGE

Seven Bound Over to Circuit Court at Ludington, Mich.

Ludington, Mich., May 16 (AP)—Seven men accused of assault upon three state conservation officers when the trio had made an arrest on a charge of illegal fishing were bound over to Mason county circuit court today under bond of $1,000 each.

The seven, among them three sons of Robert Bennett, Free Soil village president whom the officers had arrested and who since has appealed from his conviction, were arraigned before Justice Lester E. Blodgett.

Bond was furnished for Bennett's sons—Jack, 35; Robert, 32; and Ross, 25. The other four defendants are Raymond Weaver, 34; John Furon, 31; Paul Morgan, 28, and Frank Shramski, 28. All seven are Free Soil residents.

The case, which led to recommendations before the state conservation commission that its officers be permitted to carry arms, came to court after Officers Chester Bonney, Henry Beadle, and Elmer Thompson reported they had been attacked upon arresting the elder Bennett. A hearing is pending for three other men. The alleged attack occurred April 23 on the Sable river.

Bennett was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and 60 days in jail on the illegal fishing charge.

Striking Workmen Are Still Employed, High Court Rules

Washington, May 16 (AP)—The supreme court decided by a 7 to 0 vote today that a workman who goes on strike is still an employee of his company within the meaning of the labor relations act and therefore is entitled to the protection of that act.

In so ruling, the court upheld an order of the national labor board instructing the Mackay Radio and Telegraph company to reinstate in its San Francisco office five strikers who, the board said, had not been taken back because they had been active in a labor union.

Farley entered the controversy with apologies. Declaring he intended to keep "hands off" primaries in other states, the national chairman added: "Ordinarily, it is bad judgment for a national chairman to indicate his interest in a primary contest in a state other than that in which he, himself, is a voter. x x x However, x x x I am voicing my opinion simply in the hope that the voters of that state will do what is best for Pennsylvania and best for the United States."

CALLED DICTATOR

Washington, May 16 (AP)—John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, charged today that Postmaster General Farley's request that Pennsylvania Democrats nominate Governor George H. Earle for the senate and Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy, an ally of John L. Lewis, for governor.

Farley was trying to "dictate" to the voters of Pennsylvania, Hamilton declared. "The Democratic chairman apparently has such little faith in the ability of the Democrats of Pennsylvania to select candidates for the governorship and the senate that he believes they should be guided by the advice of the master-minds in Washington," he continued.

Union Official To Reimburse Comish

Detroit, May 16 (AP)—Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers, disclosed today that Paul Treadway had resigned his position as UAW welfare director in Flint, and that the union would reimburse the emergency relief administration for welfare funds Treadway allegedly received while employed by the union.

The disclosure was made in a letter from Martin to George F. Granger, administrator of the state emergency relief commission.

Martin said "we have asked for and received the resignation of this man and it is our desire to see that restitution is made to the E.R.A. in Flint for the complete amount which this man improperly received from relief."

The amount Treadway received was not revealed.

RAILROADS GET TAX REDUCTIONS

Escanaba & Lake Superior Reduced from $800,000 to $500,000

Lansing, May 16 (AP)—The state tax commission announced an $11,408,000 reduction in the assessed valuation of railroad properties in Michigan today.

The reduction, allowed after board of assessor hearings and a conference with Governor Murphy, upset a scheduled $16,000,000 increase in the taxable value of public utility properties operating in the state.

The commission announced the assessed valuation of telephone and telegraph company properties was increased $4,831,000 to $126,391,000.

Chairman John N. Fegan estimated the utilities would pay a total property tax of $8,875,000, an increase of $241,000 over last year. The money goes to the primary school fund. He said total valuations were fixed at $339,178,000, approximately $1,289,000 higher than a year ago.

Fegan explained the railroad valuation reductions were granted because of a "great crisis" in the industry's finances. He said the revision would reduce the railroads' tax burden approximately $700,000, asserting wage cuts and further unemployment would have resulted had the reduction been denied.

The commission reduced the assessed valuation of the New York Central railroad from $79,175,000 to $75,000,000; the Grand Trunk system from $20,800,000 to $20,000,000; the Ann Arbor railroad from $5,500,000 to $5,400,000; the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific from $3,400,000 to $3,000,000; the Chicago and North Western from $9,000,000 to $7,500,000; the Copper Range from $150,000 to $125,000; Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic from $3,500,000 to $3,300,000; Escanaba and Lake Superior from $800,000 to $500,000; Keweenaw Central from $10,000 to $5,000; Gogebic and Montreal River from $190,000 to $150,000; Manistique and Lake Superior from $25,000 to $20,000; and the Wisconsin and Michigan from $25,000 to $20,000.

It increased the valuation of Pere Marquette railroad properties from $27,000,000 to $27,500,000; the Pennsylvania from $8,800,000 to $9,300,000; the Detroit and Toledo Shore

"His majesty's government can only express their surprise and regret at the decision of the Mexican government. x x x I cannot forecast any further action which will be taken."

A barrage of questions followed but Butler declined to elaborate on the government's position. He drew cheers, however, in stating that "I hope that any efforts we shall make will be supported in all quarters of the house."

Trial Postponed For UAW Worker

Detroit, (AP)—After requests from attorneys representing both the city of Dearborn and the United Automobile Workers, Municipal Judge Ila M. At the Delft Gracie Allen, George Burns and Martha Raye, who panicked audiences in "College Holiday," head the all-star cast of the new Paramount musical comedy "College Swing," which will open today at the Delft theatre.

The story of "College Swing" is the high-geared fantasy which has always provided Burns and Allen with their most successful material. It opens in Puritan times with a wealthy old New Englander making a will bequeathing the college he has founded to the first female member of his family who passes an examination in it.

In its literal sense "Mikado" meant the Gate of the Imperial Palace, and then came to signify the emperor himself.

Scott, president of the Chicago club and former vice president of Kiwanis International, at a joint meeting of the Escanaba Kiwanis club and the Business and Professional Women's club held at the Ludington Hotel last night.

In discussing the work of Kiwanis International, Scott told of various projects undertaken by different clubs throughout the United States and Canada. He dwelled especially on the peace work conducted by the International between the two countries, pointing to the erection of the Harding Memorial in Stanley Park in Vancouver, B. C.; and the boundary tablets erected at various points between the two countries by individual clubs.

Study Forest Problem
MICHIGAN, Wisconsin and Minnesota, through their representatives, will again give consideration to the forest land problem at a conference to be held next week-end in St. Paul.

Now millions of acres of cut-over land in these three states present a knotty problem. Unfit for agriculture, these vast areas have been abandoned by their owners and a large portion has reverted to public ownership.

But the development of these cut-over areas to a point where they again will be of some worth to the people requires the appropriation of public moneys for this work.

The tri-state conference at St. Paul, undoubtedly, will bring out some new angles of the problem that has been vexing local and state governments for many years.

AFTER THE SHOW
(Signor Mussolini's assertion that "Germany and Italy have left behind them the Utopias to which Europe had blindly entrusted her destiny.")

Signor Mussolini's assertion that "Germany and Italy have left behind them the Utopias to which Europe had blindly entrusted her destiny," and Herr Hitler's pledge to recognize only those natural frontiers "that Providence and history have patiently drawn for our two peoples," are in keeping with the accepted pattern of modern intercourse between the two nations.

And there, apparently, the matter must rest for the present. Il Duce invited a whole regiment of foreign correspondents to Rome to tell the rest of the world of the splendors of Fascism.

What was said by one dictator to the other concerning the new Anglo-French pact, the Italo-English accord in the east, the attempts at Franco-Italian reconciliation, the prospects of a four-power pact and the fate of Czechoslovakia remains the closely guarded secret of the "new" diplomacy.

Yet there is a feeling that Herr Hitler may have been moved by the show of Italian strength. The demonstration may have convinced Der Fuehrer that despite the protestations of brotherly love, "durable collaboration" and "mutual assistance and co-operation," very little pressure on the Rome-Berlin axis would strain its tenuous strength.

It is reliably reported that President Roosevelt is now convinced the embargo on arms shipments to Spain was a mistake and is supporting the Nye resolution to repeal that measure, passed early in 1937 to deal with the special case of Spain.

Our embargo against Spain is a flat contradiction of our historic policy, which is to sell armament to any friendly government which faces rebellion. It stands out as a discrimination against the Spanish people because the same law has not been applied against Italy and Germany, and because it has not been invoked in the Sino-Japanese war.

London—Now that the Roman love-feast is over and the Fascist head-men of Europe have separated to go about the serious business of remaking Europe and the rest of the world in accordance with the new agreement they apparently made between them, a number of the Continent's smaller countries are developing the jitters and bad cases of Nazi spots before the eyes—the spots being those localities where Hitler may decide to strike next.

For there can be little doubt that Hitler and Mussolini mutually agreed to grant each other what neither owned. The Mediterranean, it is reported, was once more converted into a Roman "lake" by consent of Adolf Hitler, who gave Mussolini an exclusive sphere of influence in that region.

"Sphere of influence" is diplomat's jargon for an area where economic and political control is something often followed by outright conquest.

As a result, several small Central European countries which contemplated the absorption of Austria with complacency, are themselves fidgeting.

Yugoslavia and Rumania are two Balkan countries which are wondering just to what extent they will become enforced economic satellites of Germany.

An independent Austria used to be a buffer between Germany and Yugoslavia. Austria's control of her part of the river Danube acted as a buffer for Rumania.

But today, by incorporating the Austrian commercial fleet on the Danube with the German, Germany has by far the biggest set of ships plying the 1800-mile river. Furthermore, the Nazis have announced they are going to have a fleet of light war vessels on the Danube.

With Hitler as their new neighbor, Hungarians are now of two minds. If he smashed Czechoslovakia, many would not care, provided Hungary were allowed to be one of the vultures to feast on the carcass.

Their idea of a fair deal would be for Hitler to acquire all those parts of ancient Bohemia and Moravia inhabited by 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans. But they would themselves like to get back Slovakia, which was lost through the 1919 peace treaties.

Anti-Nazi Hungarians have something to worry about, however. It is not so much that they fear Hitler will march in and occupy their territory as he did Austria. But they fear economic pressure and also the danger of a Nazi regime in Hungary which would align itself with the Nazi regime in Germany.

Lithuania—a Baltic state with a population of 2,500,000 and an area slightly less than West Virginia—is in the position often classically described as "between the devil and the deep blue sea." In other words, between Germany and Poland.

Only a couple of months ago Poland made political and economic demands upon Lithuania and threatened war if she did not accede. Lithuania yielded.

The March ultimatum of the Poles was designed to put an end to this. Lithuania was not in a position to resist a militarily powerful nation of 34,000,000. At the eleventh hour, Lithuania yielded.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—Traveling around and playing here, there and everywhere, jazz musicians are a little like reporters—they meet such interesting people.

And those interesting people do funny things when they're dancing to the red-hot music of a band like Artie Shaw's. Shaw recently pulled aside the curtain for us to let us view the great and near-great as he sees them at play.

Recently, Shaw fulfilled an engagement on the hallowed grounds of Harvard. Among the dancers in the audience were King Zog's sisters. They sat out the close of the evening they cast restraint to the winds and got up to waltz. Apparently an Albanian custom, the girls described wide arcs as they danced—so to avoid confusion, several of the other dancing couples left the floor.

Toward the close of the evening, a man in the Zog party approached the bandstand and asked Shaw to play a Cole Porter tune. It may please that composer to know that he is an Albanian favorite.

Having played at leading hostilities, Shaw has observed some dancing idiosyncrasies of the famous. James Cagney, for example, never converses when he is dancing. Fred Astaire goes to a night club, sits there for hours and rises to one dance—or two at the most. William Gaxton mixes his dancing with plenty of conversation. Jack Benny likes to dance "on a dime," never moving out of the area of a few feet of floor space.

Incidentally, it appears, from what Art says, that musicians are so carefree a crew that they—just like baseball players—are encouraged to bring along their wives, if any, when the band goes on tour. It's a little expensive, all right. But then the stern influence of the little woman is an irrefragable guarantee that an irresponsible musician will turn up for rehearsal and program. One might even call it band-master's wife-insurance.

The Goldfish Bowl
Joyous days when the women of New York fainted in the aisles waiting to get a glimpse of Clark Gable as he recently made a personal appearance; when they stepped on each other's toes to see Rudy Vallee and waited hours in line outside the theater to pay admission for the privilege of gawking with envy at the crisis of Buddy Rogers—are being recalled here at a local theater where Gene Raymond, handsome blonde star and bridegroom of Jeanette MacDonald, is on view in the flesh.

In fact, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond's sabbatical in Manhattan has been, in its entirety, an eventful one, to put it mildly. One of their more hilarious experiences occurred when in some strange way, they arrived at the conclusion that they were a couple of unknowns among Gotham's seven or eight million, and tried to take a drive through Central Park in one of those open Victorias.

The immediate result was a terrific tangle in which Rolls Royces and taxis participated, all occupants peep-eyed for a peek at the famous couple. Only the driver of the carriage, fusing in memories of other days and other stars, failed to recognize his fate and may still wonder about the identity of the red-headed girl and broad-shouldered boy who tossed him a bill and bounced from his too-revealing equipage into the shadow of a cab.

The Capital Parade

BY ALBON AND KINTNER

Washington, May 16. — If Alben W. Barkley wins his Kentucky primary contest against the ebullient A. B. "Happy" Chandler, the size of his majority will not only be a test of the popularity of the New Deal. It will be the supreme test of what the Federal Government can do in the line of rigging local elections.

Barkley was hand-picked by the President for the post of senate majority leader—not so much for his statesmanly exterior, as for his engaging habit of telephoning Jimmy when in doubt. The prestige of the White House is involved in the fight between Kentucky's senator and governor, as it never has been in any previous state primary, and the strategists of the New Deal fully recognize how vital a Barkley victory is to their cause.

The New Deal strategists are prepared to do anything in their power to put Barkley over. It's already been reported that the President will visit Kentucky, to utter his own August endorsement of his worthy and obedient friend. By itself, this is an extraordinary step. But the administration is not going to stop there, by any means.

All the immense resources of patronage, public money and the PAP that public money buys will be lavished on the Barkley campaign. It has been decided to go the whole hog, and credible estimates of the share of taxpayers' funds now being allocated to help Barkley run as high as $52,000,000. The by-products of battle ought to make Kentucky a national beauty spot.

LITTLE MEETING
Not long ago the plan of the PAP, patronage and projects campaign was laid out at an inconspicuous gathering in the senate majority leader's capital office. The chief men present were Barkley; Tom Rhea, a Chandler victim in the last Kentucky primary, who is now supporting Chandler's enemy; Selden Glenn, the Kentucky collector of internal revenue, who is the behind-the-scenes Barkley manager; and a representative of the Works Progress Administration said to have been George H. Goodman, the Kentucky administrator.

Long ago, the Treasury loudly commanded its collectors to keep out of local politics. The WPA has always insisted that it is non-political. And only a few days ago, WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins wrote a letter to all workers on the WPA rolls, telling them they were free to vote as they pleased.

Possibly the Kentucky collector and the WPA representative met in Senator Barkley's office to trade tips on the Kentucky derby. Possibly the purpose of the meeting was to find a way to prevent WPA workers from being dragged into casting Barkley votes. Possibly a nice game of lotto or penny ante passed the time away.

Cynics will doubt these possibilities, however. They will suspect that the meeting's object was to lay plans for rallying the federal jobholders to the Barkley cause; to choose suitable projects on which a suitable number of millions of dollars might be spent; to decide how WPA workers might be persuaded to vote right. And the suspicions of the cynics will find support in evidence already appearing in Kentucky, where a sudden secrecy shrouds new personnel on WPA rolls, where Barkley precinct workers are said to be enjoying a life of new abundance on federal bounty, where rumors of huge new projects are common talk.

POOR JOE
The contrast between the fate of Senator Barkley and Senator Joseph P. Guffey of Pennsylvania suggests that it is better to be a president's servant than a president-maker. Joe Guffey's claim to be a president-maker is even better than James A. Farley's. Guffey and his docile Pennsylvanians really started the bandwagon which Jim Farley steered to triumph.

Joe Guffey's fortunes will depend on the outcome of the Pennsylvania Democratic primary, which is having its voting climax Tuesday. When the contest began, Guffey sought New Deal help for his candidates. He was thrown a few post offices, and permitted to retain his control of the Pennsylvania WPA. Even so, he was not satisfied.

Some days ago, he matched confidently into the Justice Department, pointed out that there was a vacancy on the Federal Circuit court in Pennsylvania and demanded that district court Judge Albert B. Maris be elevated to fill the empty place. He remarked that he wanted the appointment announced before the primary's end, as a testimonial to his own continuing power in Washington.

Ernest Hemingway's latest novel has been banned in Detroit. The district attorney told the public in effect that some books they could have, but To Have And Have Not they could not have.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malleck

WE SHALL REMEMBER

You will remember, in the years to be, Remember many things, and even me, Try to remember where it was we went, And what was said, and what the saying meant.

Though now you lightly put them all away, I know there yet will come another day, When new tops tarish, toys that never last,

When you will try to recollect the past, I shall remember, I shall not recall, I who would gladly now forget it all, For they remember most the most forgot, They will remember, if they would or not, And so the years pass other things for you, And things for me, 44 years forever do, We shall be thinking of the day we met, You trying to remember—I forget.

Tours To Happyland

A SURVEY of the Upper Peninsula now being conducted by disinterested Chicago tour managers, reveals that during July and August each year it will be difficult for them to find adequate sleeping accommodations for 150 to 200 extra visitors, whom they propose to bring to the scene weekly during that period.

The peninsula can be both glad and sad over that fact—glad because it indicates that our present facilities are being used to capacity, and sorry because we cannot properly accommodate what would be merely an extra handful in many another resorting region.

The promoters, who have been successful for years in the handling of tours to other points in the country and abroad, are looking this way because of our surpassingly cool summer climate and infinite variety of interesting things to see. They realize, too, that the Chicago metropolitan area, like the rest of the country, is in none too good shape financially, and that Chicagoans will go for short trips this season rather than long ones.

Here is a week's tour that is ideal for Chicago folks. It will by no means cover the entire district, but is projected for operation through the center of the peninsula to Copper Harbor, with one day each in Escanaba, Menominee, Iron Mountain and Ishpeming, Marquette, and the rest of the outing in Keweenaw Land. It would be in the nature of an experiment, and if successful would no doubt be extended later to cover more of the Land of Hiawatha.

These vacationists, most of whom are members of Chicago's 50- or 60 golf clubs, will have to sleep in Pullmans if the tours are scheduled as desired. That is something of a drawback, but the outcome should be worth while. We are passing through the same period of transition here which Florida and California endured at a certain stage in their resorting development. When the pressure for more and better accommodations became enough, outsiders saw the chances and invested their funds with profit in hotel and other tourist services. Something like that will happen here before long, and the projected Pullman-golfing tours are straws showing the wind's direction.

Land of the Rainbow

KNOWN far and wide as the land of the red buck and the silvery smelt, the Escanaba region now may rightfully lay claim to a new distinction—the land of the rainbow trout.

Last year, Gust Soderberg, one of our enthusiastic Escanaba fishermen, caught a large rainbow, which was awarded fourth prize in a national fishing contest.

STATE DRIVERS ARE IMPROVING

Accident Rate Declines With Enforcement Improvement

East Lansing, Mich., May 16.—Michigan motorists are doing a 35 per cent safer job of piloting their cars than last year, Oscar G. Olander, Commissioner of the Michigan State Police, reported to Governor Frank Murphy in a letter this week reviewing results of the first five months of the state's intensified safety campaign.

The reduction in accident rate is based on a 1.8 per cent reduction in highway travel as shown by gasoline consumption.

Figures given the governor represent averages for the five month period. A break-down by months shows even greater improvement. The March summary, for example, shows a 4.4 per cent reduction in travel but a 45 per cent reduction in accident rate.

The upward sweep of traffic fatalities of last year was stemmed in November. In that month, there was an 18 per cent reduction in the accident rate. This figure has improved steadily in the intervening months.

"Increased enforcement is unquestionably a dominant cause of this improvement," Commissioner Olander stated, his report continuing with an account of state police activity in increasing and scientifically assigning highway patrols.

Program Effective
In commenting on a phase of his selective enforcement program, Commissioner Olander pointed out the improvement in orderly traffic movement and decreased accidents through traffic control zones. In this connection, the commissioner's letter says:

"The effectiveness of this program is convincing. Telegraph Road, in the Detroit area, is a typical example. In 1937, there were 29 persons killed in traffic accidents on that highway. In the first six weeks of 1938, there were nine killed. On February 16, a 50-mile-per-hour traffic control zone was established and an active patrol set up. In the first six weeks following this action there was one accident, in which two persons were killed."

The addition of 30 troopers is requested by Commissioner Olander to complete the present schedule of highway patrol. "No greater inducement can be given the prospective vacationist from out of the state," the letter says, "than assurance of safety on our highways for him and his family on his trip to our parks and lakes."

License Plan Helps
Success of the driver license examination program in the early weeks of its trial, the cooperation of other law enforcement agencies in safety efforts and the cooperative attitude of the driving public were contributing factors to the sensational improvement in highway safety, the commissioner said.

"The Michigan plan," he said, was receiving national attention and parts of it were being incorporated in safety movements of numerous other states. He said that Michigan would undoubtedly finish in one of the first positions among the states in safety program tabulations of the National Safety Council this year.

After the Titanic disaster, the international ice observation service was formed, and it has functioned so well that many sea captains have not seen an iceberg in more than 20 years.

Warned of War

Declaring that keeping the U.S. out of war is the vital concern of all mothers, Mrs. Horace B. Blake, above, national president of the American Gold Star Mothers, warned 125 fellow-members gathered in Philadelphia for their fourth biennial convention that they must fight "subversive elements". The war mothers dedicated a bronze plaque and garden plot at historic Betsy Ross House to the memory of their sons, killed in the World War.

Interesting Items of Day Picked Up Around Town

It may have been yesterday's warm weather, or it may have been the full moon of Sunday night. Anyhow, County Clerk P. A. LeClaire reports that the business of issuing marriage licenses is definitely on the upturn. Three pairs of prospective newlyweds made application for licenses yesterday. They are Harry V. Hogan, Escanaba, and Irene Larson, Ironwood; Alex Bouchard, Garden, and Avis Lehdahl, Fayette; Arthur Levesque, Schafer, and Pearl Lantagne, Route 1, Escanaba.

State Political Gossip

Murphy Found Sympathetic Audiences on His Upper Peninsula Trip

BY GUY H. JENKINS (Grand Rapids Press)

Lansing—On his swing through the western end of the upper peninsula Gov. Murphy had very sympathetic audiences. They were responsive to his appeal for support of his philosophies of government and what he is trying to accomplish for the state.

And, too, the crowds were large. He had capacity audiences at Ironwood, Escanaba and Menominee. The governor was well satisfied. From the standpoint of crowds the trip was a huge success. From the standpoint of the local politicians—well, much could be written about reactions.

One of the partisans told the governor after he had finished his Ironwood address:

"Swell oratory, but poor politics."

If the reactions of the crowd meant anything, instead of being just oratory the governor's speech was tops in politics. The governor believes in party organization but he is not overwhelmed with the vote-producing importance of individuals.

He does not think that the issuance or denial of one liquor license will win or lose an election. Neither does he believe that if someone is dropped from the state pay roll the party in power is certain of defeat.

FITZGERALD AND TOY CONTINUE THEIR TOURS
Former Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald has half a dozen meetings scheduled for the week in his speechless campaign for the Republican nomination for governor.

He will be in Paw Paw at 2 Monday, and in Allegan at 7:30 Tuesday, he will tour Shiawassee county with an evening reception in Owosso. An afternoon meeting Wednesday is scheduled for Ionia and an evening meeting in St. Johns.

Harry S. Toy will have afternoon and evening meetings in Bay City Tuesday and an evening meeting Wednesday in Stanton.

POLITICIANS ROAR OVER BROWNIGG STATEMENT

No one knows better than Gov. Murphy the kickback the administration is going to receive from the politicians when the several hundred—It may be as many as 3,000—state employees are dropped from the public pay roll by July 1.

William Brownrigg, personnel director of the civil service commission, has estimated the pay roll cuts as high as 3,000 and the roar went up. The loss of but one from the top-heavy personnel which is costing the taxpayers $1,000,000 every two weeks, Murphy has been told, will mean his defeat.

It's surprising how much importance the partisan politician places on the loss of Mary Lou's job. To drop her from the pay roll because she did not pass the qualifying examination will just cost the Democratic party the county she calls home.

All of which is considered by Gov. Murphy and the real friends of civil service as just so much hocus-pocus. The dead wood must be removed and civil service is going to do just that job for the taxpayers. At least Murphy believes so.

The governor takes the position state pay rolls are far overloaded, "which is not in the public interest."

CIVIL SERVICE MAY SAVE $3,500,000 ANNUALLY
He also feels, as does everyone else interested in state finances, that replacements should be made only after a thorough study of the needs of the department has disclosed more help is needed.

Through reduction of personnel and adoption of a uniform wage plan there will result a cut of state expenses estimated as much as $3,500,000 annually.

Anyone who is familiar with the operation of state government under the patronage system knows that Mary Lou draws a larger compensation for less work simply because she happens to be the daughter of a county chairman who once shook hands with James A. Farley, postmaster general.

The holdovers from the Fitzgerald administration can tell you, if they will, that they have continued to work for the same wage scale while inexperienced friends of the administration, after a three-month tutoring, were given raises of as much as $300 a year more than that received by veteran employes doing superior work.

This condition is true not because the holdovers are Republicans and the new administration is Democratic. Should civil service fall and Murphy be defeated for governor, the Republican administration will repeat just what has taken place under Gov. Murphy since Jan. 1, 1937.

SEVERAL DEPARTMENTS IN NEED OF GOOD BROOMING

There are several departments that would improve under a good brooming. The condition of the state treasury also would be materially helped when equal pay is given for equal work instead of tacking on a $100 or $200—on someone's pay check just because she remembers one of the boss' young children with a first edition of "Snow White" for Christmas.

And the raid on state pay rolls is not confined to the clerks, stenographers, etc. Heads of boards, departments and commissions are equally responsible. Many of them have the idea attachment to a state pay roll first calls for an elastic expense account, a personal affairs, not last but rather first, the purchase by the state of a fine automobile to transport the individual to and from work.

In many instances a chauffeur, who is tucked away somewhere on a pay roll as a clerk, inspector or what have you, also is added.

Politically, of course, Brownrigg was not very smart when he sounded off in Detroit. He just gave the boys and girls the jitters.

RATES ARE REDUCED

Sault Ste. Marie—Thomas Chandler, president of the Edison Sault Electric company announced today that a voluntary reduction in the company's rates of approximately 10 per cent for residential and commercial lighting affecting customers in the City of Sault Ste. Marie and the villages of Dattor, Brimley, Rudyard, Kinross, Pickford, Cedarville, Hessel, Trout Lake, Rexton, Engadine, Gould City and Curtis, as well as resort and all year residential and commercial lighting outside of the villages and cities served by the company were approved by the Michigan Public Utilities Commission on May 10, 1938.

WATER PLANTS ARE IMPROVED

United States Cities in Heavy Spending for New Equipment

During the past decade an average of more than $150,000,000 annually has been spent by American cities in extension and improvement of water works facilities, reports the American Water Works Association, national organization of municipal water officials and operators. Needed construction projects during the next few years are estimated to total more than one billion dollars. Many cities, especially in the eastern part of the country north of the Mason-Dixie line, will soon be in urgent need of greater water facilities. New York City plans to spend approximately one-quarter of a billion dollars during the next decade to obtain more than 400,000 gallons daily from the Delaware River. Expanding population and industrial development of northern New Jersey may soon force municipalities in that area to reach out for additional supplies.

Unlike most other municipal activities, the supplying of water to the public is a self-supporting undertaking, points out the association. A properly planned and operated water department pays for itself and the investment in such a project is self-liquidating. For that reason cities should not hesitate to plan for the future needs of their communities. Good water makes satisfied citizens, enhances realty values, and attracts industries to a municipality.

Besides the large cities which must expand their water facilities during the next few years, the association calls attention to the need of small villages and towns for improvement of their water supplies. More than 10,000,000 persons live in communities of less than 5,000 population, and many of those communities depend still upon wells and cisterns to furnish water of doubtful quality. The excessive typhoid death rates in some sections of the South result, it is believed, from lack of adequate water facilities in small communities.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

A number of Congressmen's wives in Washington are learning to "public-speak." Just so their voices won't quaver when they are called on to say a few words at banquets and political meetings.

Their predicament suggests a new type of graduate course our colleges might give. A course in "specialized wife training."

The students could be divided into groups, those engaged or married to professors in one group; future doctors' wives in the second; ministers' helpmates in the third, and would-be wives of politicians in a fourth. And so on—through all the professions.

The wife of a future professor could be taught how to coax an air of good taste and ease-of-living out of an instructor's salary. And how to play second fiddle to her husband in all social gatherings. She could learn, before it is brought home by bitter experience, that sloppy speech and slang are not for her. And that if she reads any lightweight magazines, she must not leave them, out in plain sight on the living room table.

The doctor's wife could be taught how to deal with hysterical patients who telephone when the doctor is out. How to be respectful enough of him in public so that his patients will feel their trust is warranted, and how to keep her name in the society columns of the local newspaper—his only legitimate means of advertising.

The minister's wife could be taught how to win friends and alienate no one, and just how active she can be in church affairs to show the congregation that she is an interested and tireless worker—but not a busybody.

The politician's future bride would be taught how to make charming talks—preferably short ones—and how to shake hands as convincingly as the present First Lady.

With colleges rushing into the business of informing their students of the physical aspects of marriage, it's a wonder some progressive school doesn't go into the social aspects.

Who would teach such a course? Why, guest lecturers—women who have been successful wives to successful men.

FORMER CHIEF SEES VICTORY

Fitzgerald Says State Is Veering Back to GOP Standard

Lansing, Mich.—A prediction that Michigan in the fall election will return to the "normal Republican column" was issued today by Frank D. Fitzgerald, former governor and candidate for the Republican nomination for that office, after a tour of 23 lower Michigan counties.

Fitzgerald made no speeches during his tour, but shook hands and talked to determine the trend of sentiment. He reported keen interest among the voters for so early in a campaign, but said he found a noticeable split in Democratic ranks, with a marked defection from the current majority party in labor and agricultural ranks.

Prefer Responsible Government "Labor feels," Fitzgerald said, "that it has gained some ground in recent years but has had little chance to consolidate its position due to spectacular and continuing disturbances. Many leaders told me they desired a return to responsible government which would assure all groups of working men—that those who desire to work rather than be constantly embroiled in situations which forbid work—fair and serious consideration."

"The general impression seemed to be that 'experiments' in state and national government have proved costly and fruitless. This year the decision evidently is to be made on the basis of proved types of government."

The former governor, who led his ticket when defeated by the present Democratic governor, Frank Murphy, in 1936, said the elimination of President Roosevelt's personal following from next November's election might make the difference between a Democratic and Republican victory. Fitzgerald polled 144,122 more votes than Landon, the Republican presidential candidate, in 1936, while Murphy won by less than 50,000 votes, polling 124,020 fewer votes than Roosevelt.

Silent on Own Chances Fitzgerald made no comment on his own chances of landing the nomination against his appointee to the supreme court bench, Harry Toy, Detroit lawyer and former attorney general, who is making a strong campaign as a gubernatorial aspirant. Toy was defeated for reelection to the Supreme bench in 1936.

The Republican leader's comments were in contrast with the silence of Gov. Murphy, who, back from his first campaign tour of the upper peninsula, refused to make an unqualified prophecy of party victory, although claiming the meetings he addressed were the largest and most enthusiastic he had ever seen in northern Michigan. Murphy, during the last week appeared threatened with a strong fight for the Democratic nomination when petitions appeared seeking to qualify Leo G. Nowicki, Detroit, present lieutenant governor, as a gubernatorial candidate in the September primary. Nowicki has been a constant critic of Murphy's labor policies.

Consistory Will Meet On May 20 Marquette Temple

Escanaba members of the Francis M. Moore Consistory were advised this week of the annual meeting and election of officers which will take place Friday, May 20, at the Elks Temple in Marquette. The Francis M. Moore Consistory is the governing body for the Scottish Rite Masons in the upper peninsula.

The Consistory is mapping out plans for rebuilding of the cathedral which was destroyed by fire on January 25 and officials hope to have the new edifice ready for a Consistory reunion in June, 1939. Destruction of the cathedral forced cancellation of last winter's program of activities and officials said no work is at present contemplated until completion of the new building.

However, plans are underway for a large class and outstanding celebration when the new cathedral is formally opened and has been assured of the attendance of George E. Buchnel, deputy commander of Michigan, as well as the tentative acceptance of Melvin M. Johnson, sovereign grand commander.

Ore Shipments To Date Less Than 5 Per Cent Of Those Last Year

Iron ore shipments to date through the Chicago and North Western railway company's docks at Escanaba are less than 5 per cent of last season's shipments up to May 17, according to figures obtained yesterday from F. M. Fernstrom, dock superintendent. Only 35,000 tons of ore have gone through the docks so far this season, while last year at this time 726,000 tons had been shipped to the smelters.

Only two ore carriers have whistled in at the local docks since Captain J. B. Routhier brought the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company's Harvester in to open the season on April 20 of this year. A fourth boat is scheduled to arrive on May 24.

Record Last Year An all time record was set during the month of April last season, when 514,165 tons of ore were shipped out of Escanaba. The season opened 10 days earlier last year, when the ferry Chief Wawatam of St. Ignace broke through 29-inch ice to make a path to the docks for the Angeline, Munising, Pan Schneider and Pontiac on April 10.

The four ore carriers making port here that Saturday last year took out almost as much ore as has been shipped so far this season. They took on 30,000 tons, only 5,000 tons less than the amount carried by the three ships to dock here this year.

The record of last April was made in the face of many adverse circumstances. While steel mills clamored for iron ore, the bay remained frozen solid to a depth of 30 inches. Ore was frozen at the stockpiles and had to be dynamited loose, and it froze in the cars and in pockets of the docks as it was held for loading into the boats.

The ice had been out of the bay for over a week when the Harvester came in to open the port to navigation this season, but there was no fleet to make use of the open water. Last season there were seven ore carriers tied up at the local docks at one time, while this year there have been intervals of as long as two weeks with no arrivals at all.

Buying Is Slack Steel buying continues to show no signs of improving, according to a bulletin received yesterday from Steel of Cleveland. The situation is complicated by the general tendency to await announcement of prices for the third quarter. Steel says:

A year ago steelmakers made their announcement for third quarter April 21, during a wave of heavy buying. Buyers feel they have nothing to lose and the possibility of gain if prices should be reduced. No definite intimation has been given as to the result. High wage rates enter into the picture, some steelmakers asserting reduced steel prices must be accompanied by lower wages.

Developments in the plate and structural markets give promise of better mill activity in the summer and fall as pending work accumulates and ship tonnage is placed, on which deliveries will keep pace with construction. Tankers, cargo ships and navy work aggregate a large tonnage which will spread over several months. New York is considering bids on 30 dump scows which will require 9000 tons of plates and angles, for fairly prompt delivery.

Prospective work involving structural steel includes a number of fairly large lots, some of which are near closing, Manhattan land section of the Queens-Midtown tunnel at New York will require 6500 tons and repair and widening of George Washington bridge 1560 tons. The Delaware aqueduct will take 14,750 tons for shafts and tunnels. Tennessee Valley authority is inquiring for 2200 tons of transmission towers and 1200 tons for a powerhouse. A manufacturing building at Toledo, O., involves 1500 tons and a mercantile warehouse at Washington 1400 tons. Main avenue bridge at Cleveland has been awarded, $175 tons of steel.

Railroads evince little interest in buying either rails or rolling stock, the order by the Southern railway being the only one recently. An indication of the situation is found in the fact that only 15 freight cars were placed in April, the smallest monthly total since May, 1935, when only two were bought.

Placing of 10,967 tons of rails by the Erie constitutes the only rail business recently. Most rail buying has been for immediate delivery and mills are operating steadily at a low rate, with business for 30 to 60 days.

Operations Drop Operations dropped 1 point to 30 per cent last week with indications for this week not clear. There was no change of rate at Pittsburgh at 25 per cent, Eastern Pennsylvania 27.5, Buffalo 28, Birmingham 66, New England 30 and Detroit 18. At Chicago there was a loss of 1 point to 31.5 per cent, at Youngstown 3 points Automobile production declined 6470 to 46,915 units, the lowest weekly output since the 1938 model season compared with 23,285 the week before; Chrysler fell to 9850 from 11,400; Ford assembled 12,385, compared with 11,885; and the Independents produced 4980, compared with 6815. Shipments of finished steel by the United States Steel Corp. in April were 501,972 tons, 12.2 per cent less than in March and 62.6 per cent less than April last year. Four months shipments this year total 2,067,216 tons, 59 per cent less than 5,041,685 tons shipped in the corresponding months of 1937.

Great Britain has reimposed an import duty of 33 1-3 per cent on all pig iron from abroad, except charcoal and some special grades and the government is considering accumulation of stocks for emergencies, in an effort to aid the declining demand for domestic use. Production of pig iron and steel both fell off in April.

For the first time since the abortive rise in mid-March the composite of steelmaking scrap prices failed to decline last week, holding at $11.59. Resistance has been developing and an apparent bottom has been reached. The iron and steel and the finished steel composites were unchanged.

at the Sherman Hotel in Escanaba. Special cachet envelopes received here from Marquette were disposed of quickly and a new supply of stamped air mail envelopes and the new issue of stamps has been received here.

Patrons are asked to remember that letters intended for the plane leaving the peninsula Thursday must be in the local office not later than 10:15 o'clock Thursday morning. WALLEYED PIKE TO BE PLANTED

More Than Half Million Fish Scheduled for Bays de Noquet

State Senator James Dotch was notified yesterday by the state conservation department that two tank-truck loads of walleyed pike would be planted this week in Little and Big Bays de Noquet. The fishing rodeo will be held on Little Bay de Noquet on June 26.

The plantings are being made from the Thompson hatchery at the request of the Wolverine Conservation association and the Commercial Fishermen's Protective association, who have been conducting a joint campaign to secure the restocking of Lake Michigan waters.

It is estimated that the two tanks will have more than a half million walleyes.

While digging for fossils in England, geologists unearthed a new seam of coal, two miles in area, and estimated to contain 20,000,000 tons.

Henry Picard

LOOKS THE SITUATION OVER!

"I've never favored one particular cigarette, Mr. Picard. I can see you do though. Do you find Camels different?"

Picard's game seems effortless. He's a long driver—in a tight spot, a heady strategist. "A cigarette, too, has to be sized up from a lot of angles," he says.

FAMOUS GOLFERS—men who need iron nerves and steady hands for that winning stroke—and millions of other people under the strain of everyday life—all appreciate this fact: Camels suit your cigarette taste from every angle. Naturally, CAMELS SET YOU RIGHT! There's a world of enjoyment in a cigarette like that. Smoke Camels yourself. See why they are so different. And note particularly the greater pleasure and contentment you experience from Camel's costlier tobaccos!

TOBACCO PLANTERS SAY:

"We smoke Camels because we know tobacco"

At auctions, Marvin Holloman, well-known planter, sees Camel buyers pay top prices for the finer grades of his crops. Mr. Holloman says: "At auctions the Camel buyers pay more and take the real choice lots of tobacco. That's why we tobacco planters, who know tobacco quality inside and out, make Camel our cigarette. Then we're sure we're smoking finer, COSTLIER tobaccos, and they sure make a big difference!"

"I'm a tobacco planter," says Mr. T. Strickland, who sold his highest grade tobacco to Camels. "Last year those Camel buyers bought up the finest lots of my tobacco. And they sure bid up to get them. There's a big difference in those expensive Camel tobaccos—so I smoke Camels myself. And there's your reason why most planters I know smoke Camels."

John T. Bone, who cultivates some of North Carolina's choicest leaf tobacco, remarks on the sale of his last crop: "Yes sir! I saw my best lots go for Camel cigarettes, and you can bet those Camel buyers paid top prices for them. It's no wonder I smoke the cigarette made of finer, more expensive tobaccos—Camels! Most planters smoke Camels too, for smokers who grow tobacco know tobacco."

KALTENBORN

"Views the News"

By H. V. Kaltenborn

League of Nations Still a Forum

Whatever else it may have lost the League at Geneva still serves as a sounding board for appeal to world conscience. The appeal may not bring immediate results. But the fact that it is spread upon the record, that it still reaches men's ears in all free countries is enough to justify the continued existence of the Geneva organization.

This week three victims of Fascist aggression appeared at the meeting of the League Council to plead their cause. China asked for help against Japan; Ethiopia begged not to be deprived of her last shred of national sovereignty; Spain asked Britain and France to cease a policy of non-intervention which tolerates the crushing intervention of Italy and Germany.

The three powerful aggressor nations are no longer members of the League. But, by the irony of fate, democratic Britain pleads their cause at the Council table. And by a further bit of irony China does not oppose Britain's plea for Italy because she is in desperate need of Britain's help against Japan. By striking simultaneously in the East and West the aggressor nations have paralyzed their peace-loving opponents.

For the last time, perhaps, the unhappy Emperor of Ethiopia steps for a brief moment upon the stage of history. The people of Geneva who had ignored the arrival of Lord Halifax, the British Foreign Secretary, crowded the station to cheer the exiled ruler of an ancient land. Once more his dignified appeal for justice on the basis of a forgotten Covenant strikes a responsive chord in the hearts of free men everywhere.

British Policy Reversed
It will not help Ethiopia, but at least it will make every true Englishman feel ashamed of the part his country is playing in wiping Ethiopia off the world map. Not for decades has any British foreign minister played the humiliating role assigned to Lord Halifax this week. One can imagine with what satisfaction Anthony Eden escapes it. For in 1935 Eden led the fight to impose sanctions against Italy, the treaty breaker. It ought to be and is a pro-Fascist Secretary who reverses Britain's policy.

The most direct rebuke to British policy came from Lord Halifax's imperial colleague, the High Commissioner from New Zealand, Spain's representative at the Council table, the eloquent Alvarez del Vayo, had made a moving plea for Spain's right to purchase arms. In plain language he pointed out the true meaning of British policy: "In this agreement the British Government has accepted a hypothesis according to which Italian troops and material now in Spain may remain there until the end of the war. Acceptance of such a hypothesis logically implies that the outcome of the war can be decided by active and direct intervention of those Italian troops and arms. I accordingly ask myself what remains of the principle that non-intervention was supposed to guarantee."

It was at the conclusion of this address that Commissioner Jordan, speaking for New Zealand, declared the Spanish delegate's demands "so amazingly moderate that surely we cannot hesitate for a moment in acceding."
But the Council did not accede. Britain and France guide the League today as they have guided it since it was born. When Britain and France decide to abandon the principle of collective security and return to the policy of making private treaties with aggressor States, the League of Nations is helpless. But though helpless it is not worthless, while it still serves to echo even a vain appeal to the conscience of mankind.

TRIAL FLIGHT

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES COPYRIGHT, 1938, BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JACKIE DUNN—heroine; she wanted to fly.
ROGER BRECKNER—hero; he wanted to test the stratosphere.
HERYL MELROSE—wealthy widow; she wanted Roger.
EVELYN LA FARGE—Jackie's mother; she wanted a son-in-law.

Yesterday: The stratosphere flight begins and Jackie, waiting for reports, knows the hours are the longest, most difficult she has ever experienced. It is fortunate she thinks that.

CHAPTER XIII
Jackie endeavored to make time pass until Roger's silver ship could be contacted direct, at the radio tower. At the little Airport Inn, where she and Roger had met so many times, she ordered coffee and hot, buttered toast. She would manage somehow to force down a little breakfast. She bought a paper and tried to read for a time, but since there was no news regarding Roger's stratosphere flight she really did not know what she read. She watched passengers coming and going for awhile, wondering if any of them were as preoccupied with such a tremendous matter as filled her mind and senses. Then she felt she simply could not sit still any longer.

At the hangar she talked with some of the men who knew Roger. She told them what news she had received so far, tried to find out if anyone had heard anything more.

"Gosh!" Jerry, one of the mechanics, said solemnly. "If he's as far on his way as you say, Miss Dunn, he must be breaking all records."
"He hopes to do better than 400!" Jackie boasted with pride and confidence.
"Don't you worry," Jerry said, as she left, "Roger's just the guy to show the world a thing or two!"

Jackie assured him she was not worried the least bit. She was just excited; so excited that she scarcely could contain herself.

On the way back to the tower she stopped at the weather bureau for the latest report. It was pretty favorable, unlimited ceiling and visibility most of the way; some scattered clouds in the vicinity of the Alleghenies. Of course, since the silver ship was flying so high in the stratosphere there was no danger of storms or fogs or that sort of trouble.

There were several messages posted now on the bulletin board. The last one was from Chicago. This report gave Roger's plane its same altitude of 35,000 feet; it was maintaining an estimated speed around 420 miles per hour. Jackie consulted her wrist watch, for the hundredth time, it seemed. The hands had never moved so slowly. But she had managed to put in those two hours. Roger had been on his way now about 5 1/2 hours, maybe a little longer. Surely before much longer they would be in direct contact with him.

She knew the moment she reached the top step to the tower that something important was happening. Mac signaled to her wildly to hurry, to come close, at the same time warning her not to say anything.

Jackie's heart hammered so painfully in her ears that the reports coming from the receiving sets were only a confused, indistinguishable jumble, absolutely meaningless. Then Mac twisted a dial, held up his hand.
"Listen!" he cried. "I think we've got him. He put a finger to his lips again."

Jackie pressed close, nerves taut, ears strained. If only her heart would not beat so loudly.
"JB... JBHLP..." Roger's call letters! Roger's own voice so very familiar, first faint, now growing stronger. "JBHLP calling DRK..." Those were the radio tower letters.

"Oh Mac!" Jackie could not restrain the words that would burst from her lips. Excitement now was fearful, heart-lifting. "Try to tune him in clearer, please! We must hear every word of it..."
"It'll be perfectly clear in a second," Mac replied. He twisted the dial once more, reached over to shut off another frequency. He picked up the microphone, that looked like any telephone into which one would ordinarily speak, repeated the radio's tower's letters several times.

Tom Truckey and Mrs. George Farley made high and low scores, respectively.

Then Roger's call letters came back, and Roger's voice, distinct and clear, almost as though he himself had stepped suddenly into the little glass tower with them. "JBHLP calling DRK... Estimated position entering border line Pennsylvania. Same altitude, 35,000 feet. Everything okay."

Mac glanced around triumphantly at Jackie's eager, flushed face. "How's that?" he asked. "You got it all, didn't you?"
"Perfect," Jackie said. She closed her hands together ecstatically. It was just as Roger had said it would be now, as though she were up there with him in his silver ship. The rest of the world did not exist. She had forgotten that she was supposed to be so angry with Roger that she hated him. Anything like that would have seemed too petty, too insignificant. This moment was supreme, outstanding the past, and even the future.

"He'll come in again pretty soon," Mac said. "Is there some message you'd like to have me slip in? May not be strictly within the rules," he flashed her a grin, "but under the circumstances I guess I could manage it."
"You mean you can say something to Roger for me?" Jackie gasped.

Mac nodded. "Only a word or two, of course."
Only a word or two—what could they be? Jackie's hand, instinctively sought and covered the pin that Roger had placed over her heart. "Could you tell him I'm wearing his pin—for luck? Or of that's too long, just say Jackie sends luck..."

Mac stopped her, holding up his hand again. He swung round to dial once more, and Roger's call letters came in. "JBHLP calling DRK..." there it was again! Once more Roger gave his altitude and estimated position.

Mac replied, giving the answering signal and report; then—with a jerk of his head toward Jackie— he ended by tacking on quickly, before the call letters, "Jackie sends luck—and love... DRK... Drk..."
"Just luck did not seem enough," he said, turning to her, with his wide grin. "That ought to make any fellow break all records, coming from the girl who's engaged to him."

Jackie merely smiled in reply. She did not care if he had tacked on "with love." All she cared now was for Roger's flight to be a success. It might have been 10, 20 minutes—or a lifetime—before she could again see the eagerly-awaited call letters come in.
"JBHLP... JBHLP calling DRK, calling DRK..." Time stood still, as Jackie leaned forward, her heart leaping up into her throat. "Oxygen giving out... leak in tube... oxygen giving out at 35,000 altitude."
"Oh, Mac!" Jackie caught the operator's arm and clung to it.
He shook his head, motioning for silence. "Once more... 'Oxygen giving out... Forced to nose down to heavier air, losing altitude fast... Then Roger's voice was cut abruptly; there was nothing but a humming sound instead."

"We'll pick him up again in a second!" Mac said reassuringly. "As soon as he can take time out to send word... Hold everything, Jackie! Stand by."

There was nothing else to do. But Jackie felt as though all the blood were slowly draining from her body. Roger losing oxygen! Roger forced to nose down! She knew, of course, that this might prove disastrous. If Roger did not get oxygen quickly he might lose consciousness. He would have to bring the ship down to eight or 10,000 feet...
"Listen!" Mac lowered the receiving set again. The silence was unbearable for that split second. Then—yes!—Roger's call letters, though rather faintly and indistinct... his voice, coming in stronger:
"Dropped to 8000 feet. Estimated position west leg of Bellefonte beam. Can you give ceiling? Motor logged..."
Motor logged! That meant Roger had had to cut the switch when he nosed down and that now it would not take again.
"Solid overcast..." Roger's voice, sounding matter-of-fact and collected, continued. "Motor dead..."
"Oh, dear God!" Jackie groaned. She could not stand this any longer.

"Shhh!" Mac silenced her sharply. But though they both waited, silent, tense, there was nothing more. Not even Roger's call letters, signing off.

Tigers Take Senators, 13-7; Waite Hoyt Dropped

KENNEDY GIVES ONLY 7 BLOWS

York and Gehring Both Hit Homers; 4 Hurlers All Ineffective

Detroit, May 16 (AP)—Vernon Kennedy, who came to Detroit in the trade with the Chicago White Sox last winter, registered his fifth straight pitching triumph as the Tigers hammered out a 13 to 7 win over the Washington Senators here today.

Kennedy allowed seven hits, holding the Senators in check until Detroit had built up a commanding margin.

Rudy York and Charley Gehring hit home runs for the Tigers, the former's clout coming with the bases full in the sixth. Buddy Lewis hit a homer for Washington in the sixth with the sacks empty.

Four hurlers toiled for the Senators and all save Harry Kelly, who worked the eighth, were ineffective. Ken Chase started but retired after two were out in the third. He allowed two runs and two hits and walked seven. Joe Kohlman followed Chase and worked through the fifth, giving three hits and as many runs.

Ray Phebus, former Tiger, replaced Kohlman and was almost as wild as Chase, granting four passes and allowing five hits and eight runs in a two inning tenure.

Four double plays helped Kennedy over rough spots that were created mainly through four errors and seven bases on balls.

Lewis was the only Senator to get at Kennedy for two hits.

The Tigers clicked for a run in the first and the third, but the big batteries roared later, firing for three in the fourth, four in the sixth and four in the seventh.

A good share of the time Dixie Walker, the trade-mate of Kennedy, was on base waiting to be pushed over the plate on a fellow Tiger's hit, and he scored four times. He walked three times and doubled once.

In the fourth, a single by Rogell, sacrifice by Kennedy, Walker's double, Gehring's walk, a passed ball, and Greenberg's single accounted for three runs.

South Range Batters Hit With Men on Bases, Win By 5-1

The Escanaba baseball team is starting out the season in exactly the same manner as last year, with failure to hit with men on bases contributing to defeat in the first two games of the season.

Sunday afternoon on the local diamond, the boys failed to hit in the pinches and succumbed to South Range by a score of 5 to 1. The boys filled the bases twice, only to have double plays nip the rally in both instances.

The game was a beautiful pitching duel between Flath and Bukovich for the first six innings, South Range having a 1-0 lead by virtue of a run in the second frame.

In the seventh, the Rangers scored two more and topped it off with another in the eighth and a final run in the ninth. The only run by the Escanaba crew came in the last half of the ninth.

The locals garnered only five hits off the offerings of Bukovich while Flath yielded but nine. Flath struck out eight and Bukovich struck out five batters.

Commissioner Fry Will Solicit Detroit-Owned Stables to Race Top-Notch Horses at U.P. Fair

Talk Over U. P. State Fair Racing Plans Here

Good horses from some of the nationally known racing stables will be secured to make the first running race meet to be held at the Upper Peninsula State Fair August 9 to 14 an outstanding success, it was predicted by Edward J. Fry, Lansing, state racing commissioner, who stopped off at Escanaba yesterday to inspect the fairgrounds track.

"I have just completed an inspection of the track at the fairgrounds and I have found it to be in excellent condition," said Commissioner Fry upon his return from the fairgrounds. "The track itself is smooth and will present no danger to the valuable horses which we expect will compete. The stables likewise are adequate and in perfect condition."

Can Aid State Fair
"It is not the function of the racing commissioner to promote racing, but the case of the Upper Peninsula State Fair, a state institution, is an exception. I am particularly anxious to help the state fair board wipe out a deficit and we seem agreed that pari-mutuel betting will be the solution."

The board of managers of the Upper Peninsula State Fair will be granted permission to conduct a racing meet if I can be assured that the fair board will receive full and complete benefit from the proceeds without any strings attached by any other agency."

Commissioner Fry was assured that all revenues accruing from gate and grandstand admissions and the pari-mutuel betting would go into the state fair funds. The fair board will conduct the pari-mutuel betting itself, and it positively will not give a concession to any outside agency. The fair is entitled to take a 10 per cent share of the pari-mutuel receipts, it was explained.

Commissioner Fry said that members of his organization, including William J. Dowling, assistant commissioner, who was here last week, will assist in the management of the racing meet here. He promised that he would do whatever possible to publicize the meet in the Lower Peninsula and would personally confer with owners of horses that run at the Michigan State Fair track to induce them to help in establishing running races at Escanaba.

Wants Good Horses
"We must have good horses," said Commissioner Fry. "Just as was the case when the Detroit track was opened we will have difficulty in getting the big stables to send their horses. But generally they will realize that even from the small purses which will be offered, a regular, profitable meet may grow."

Commissioner Fry said that it was not altogether impossible that a two or three week racing meet might develop at Escanaba if the sport were given a good start here and were well managed in the future.

Will Ask Owner's Help
The commissioner said he would call on the following stable owners to enlist their support of the Escanaba meet: Frederick M. Alger Jr., Charles B. Bohn, T. D. Buhl, Charles T. Fisher's Dixiana Stable, Mrs. Ella Bartlett, J. B. Jones, Odessa Farms Stable, L. J. Lepper's Motor City Stable, Mrs. Frank J. Navin's Tall Tree Stable, Valley Grey Farms Stable, Henry Dattner, John N. Anshut's Imperial Farms Stable, Jack Keene, A. J. Abel, S. G. Baker Sr., Rome B. Respass, James L. Chesney, L. J. Collins, Kirby Ramsey, Tom B. Young, Rosedale Stable, James G. Ellis and Dan Mitkiff.

Some of these Detroit area stables own nationally known horses, including Star Boarder, Lilye Lad, Sun Charles, Detroit Bull, Odessa Plucky, Main Man, Last Message and Biscayne Blue.

Commissioner Fry, who is also chairman of the Democratic state central committee, was accompanied here by Claude Markie, committee publicity director; and John Gafner, former Escanaban, who is employed by the state in Lansing. Fry addressed a Democratic rally in Crystal Falls last night, and will speak at a similar meeting at Sault Ste Marie tonight.

No Time Wasted; Phils Win, 12 to 3
Philadelphia, May 16 (AP)—The Phillies, who hadn't played a ball game since last Tuesday, and the Giants, who hadn't played since last Wednesday, met in Baker Bowl today, and when the afternoon was over the Phils were on the long end of a 12 to 3 score and the Giants were aching.

They'd been waiting for a while, but the game was worth the wait. New York, 000 002 001-3 8 2

PITCHER GETS HIS PINK SLIP

Larry MacPhail Cleans House; 3 Veterans Are Released

New York, May 16 (AP)—Two great names of baseball were scratched from the big league box scores today with Brooklyn's outright release of pitcher Waite Hoyt, the 39-year-old "schoolboy wonder," and slugger Melnie Manush.

For Hoyt, the pink slip meant the apparent end of 18 years in the big show. A decade ago, with the Yankees, he was about the best in the business, and his decline has been gradual and grudging. Manush broke into the Detroit outfield 14 years ago, and in only five seasons did he fail to hit over .300. In 1926 he led the American league with a mark of .377, and last year, at the ripe old age of 36, he paced the Dodgers with .333.

Larry MacPhail, new business manager of the Brooklyn, promised some weeks ago there would be a "house-cleaning" if the club didn't show signs of life by May 15, and this was it. At the same time he released the veteran catcher, Roy Spencer, and sent pitcher George Jeffcoat to Kansas City on option.

Hoyt, who has played with seven clubs in the two leagues since he started with the Boston Red Sox in 1919, might have hastened his departure somewhat by a magazine article he wrote last winter, in which he asserted the American league was stronger than the national.

It created considerable resentment among the National leaguers, and the batters proceeded to pin the veteran's ears back every time he took the mound this spring. MacPhail, however, said he wasn't influenced by the article and that Hoyt simply didn't have it any more.

Loss of his player salary will not perturb Hoyt greatly, as he is in demand as a radio commentator and is an accomplished under-taker besides. He still holds the record of having won more games for the Yankees than any other pitcher. His best year, 1923, he won 23 and lost 7.

Bees Take Final Game From Dodgers
Brooklyn, May 16 (AP)—The Boston Bees, scoring three runs off Fred Fitzsimmons with two out in the seventh, won the final game of their series with the Dodgers today, 5 to 4, to take the series, two games to one. Danny MacFayden let Brooklyn down with six hits in gaining his second victory of the season.

The Bees' victory automatically wiped out a protest lodged by Manager Casey Stengel in the first inning, when Umpire George Magerkurth first ruled a drive by Vince DiMaggio a double and then, after a huddle with the other two arbiters, reversed his decision and called it a foul.

SPILLING THE DOPE

BY JOHNNY INKSLINGER

A continued critical attitude on widely varied subjects may earn for us the name "Cynical" (perhaps it already has) . . . but we believe that constructive criticism is justified and we will continue to offer criticism in any situation where we believe it may result in bettered conditions . . . the subject of our criticism today is the district track meet at Iron Mountain on Saturday.

To put it frankly, we seldom have seen a track meet conducted as poorly as the one was at Iron Mountain Saturday . . . in making that statement, we merely are voicing the sentiments of almost every visiting coach on the field . . . the afternoon portion of the meet started, or rather, was scheduled to start, at 2 o'clock and was not concluded until after 6:15 o'clock . . . a well handled meet can be run off in two hours as compared with the four hours plus on Saturday . . . coaches said the preliminaries in the forenoon were dragged out even worse.

We will say that, once the running events got under way, they were run off in good time . . . but there was an unnecessarily long delay before the first event was started . . . at 4 o'clock, after the final relay races had been concluded, the first call for the pole vault and high jump were issued . . . because of the time required to run these two events off, they are always started at the beginning of every well regulated meet . . . not the end . . . but, for some reason or other, no one was burdened with the responsibility of issuing the call . . . and everyone had to wait around two hours after the last track event was run in order to find out how the meet came out.

The one big factor in the inefficiency at the meet was the lack of designated responsibility of the officials . . . coaches continually wrangled with officials in hopes of settling differences but never got anywhere simply because no one knew to whom to take their problems . . . the referee sent them to the starter, the starter routed them to the judges, the judges sent them to the announcer—and no one got any satisfaction . . . particularly perplexing was the settlement of ties in the jumping events . . . after an afternoon of wrangling, officials ruled that ties should be settled by the least number of misses . . . in other words, if two boys jumped 10 feet in the pole vault, it wasn't considered a tie . . . one was given a first and one a second on the basis of their previous misses . . . we were just wondering what would happen should two runners finish in a dead heat . . . perhaps they would settle it on the basis of the least number of false starts (of which there were many) . . . or, perhaps, the least number of steps.

Unless there were some extenuating circumstances of which coaches and contestants were not aware, there was no excuse for the manner in which the meet was conducted . . . Iron Mountain officials must have known for the past few weeks that they were going to play host to visiting schools for the meet . . . other schools know it . . . and, certainly, after conducting the Upper Peninsula Invitational for the past decade, Iron Mountain should have had enough experience in running meets to know how to do it . . . we do not know who, if anyone in particular, is to blame for the

COPPER STOCKS UP

New York, May 16 (P)—Domestic stocks of refined copper at the end of April increased to 355,663 tons from 342,785 a month earlier, according to trade figures released today. Domestic apparent consumption of copper in April totalled 31,684 tons, a drop of 1,750 from March. Domestic mine, custom and secondary production of the red metal declined 5,588 tons to 50,611 last month. Refined output in April amounted to 55,749 tons against 61,117 in March. Foreign copper statistics for April are not yet available, it was understood in trade circles, due to failure to obtain figures from a large European nation.
