READING URGES MAYORS' LOBBY

Solution of Big Relief Problem To Be Sought In Washington

DETROIT, May 25 (AP)—Richard Reading, mayor of Detroit, said today he would ask mayors of the country's major cities to appoint representatives who would lobby in Washington for a solution of relief problems.

Reading said he would discuss the plan by telephone today with Mayor Edward Kelly of Chicago and Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York.

Reading said such a committee would ask the federal government to make a direct grant to the cities of 50 per cent of their relief expenditures. The states, he said, might provide an additional 25 per cent and the remainder could be provided by the cities affected.

The mayor decided to launch his plan after learning that the Detroit welfare case load has remained almost stationary at 41,444 families in spite of transfer of relief employables to WPA projects. On Tuesday 1,300 applicants filed requests for welfare aid in Detroit.

Detroit's appropriation for welfare relief was estimated in the 1938-39 budget on a basis of a 16,000 case load. The mayor said that if the case load continued at its present level, the city would be without funds by November.

Elsewhere losses were generally heavier and included Babcock & Wilcox, Cuono Press, Jones & Laughlin Steel, National Sugar Refining, Creole Petroleum, Newmont Mining, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Sherwin Williams.

Great Atlantic & Pacific and McWilliams Dredging were among the few gainers.

CUT IN SCHOOL AID DISCUSSED

Escanaba Gets $4,839 Less From State Next Year

LANSING, May 25 (AP)—Budget Director Harold D. Smith discussed prospects for a 20 per cent reduction in school aid, to offset a 32 per cent increase in the primary interest fund with school superintendents and Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, today.

Smith informed the conference of educators that school aid probably would be cut to $20,130,000, bringing the total to $21,000,000 the primary fund will contain to approximately the same total as this year.

Elliott pointed out, however, that the decrease in the school aid fund would work some hardship on poorer districts. Under the tentative plan, he said, Detroit will receive $10,688,511 in the year 1938-39, an increase of $373,938 or 3.62 percent. The reductions for poorer districts, on the other hand, will range to more than six percent.

Communities tentatively receiving increases include Grand Rapids, $29,107, or 2.62 percent; Bessemer township, $1,171, or 3.68 percent; East Grand Rapids, $712, or 2.65 percent.

Decreases include Muskegon, $12,371, or 2.74 percent; Escanaba, $4,839, or 2.08 percent; Iron Mountain, $9,740, or 6.54 percent; Ironwood, $8,480, or 4.82 percent, and Muskegon Heights, 5.47 percent.

FALSE POWER RATES ISSUED, SAYS MORGAN

chairman charged these activities:

"Inaccurate and misrepresentative reports to the president, the congress, and the public.

"Mismanagement of the power program.

"Lack of candor in statements to the congress and the public concerning the power program.

"Improper and misleading accounting, reporting and publicity in reference to the 'yardstick'.

"Collusion, conspiracy and mismanagement in administration.

"Subservience to political and other special interests."

"I have not charged that any director of the T. V. A. has taken bribes or stolen money," he said. "Nor have I charged that any director has profited financially through any transaction of the authority. There are other and more subtle forms of failure to meet a public trust which are not less a menace to good government.

Lillenthal Next

"My charges relate to the execution of public duty and responsibility by the majority of the board. This has not been open, candid and straightforward, and hence, it has not been an honest administration of a great public trust."

Not far from the witness, and one of several hundred highly interested spectators, sat Lillenthal, seemingly unconcerned by his former chief's accusations. His turn before the committee, together with Dr. Harcourt Morgan, will come tomorrow and Friday. Lillenthal, his broad high forehead deeply tanned, chuckled in amused fashion at some of Dr. Morgan's statements, infrequently jotted down notes, and for the most part sat placidly with arms folded or chin cupped in his hand. Dr. Harcourt Morgan was not present.

The "hidden subsidies" which Dr. Morgan mentioned in connection with the "yardstick" had enabled T. V. A., he said, to sell its power to consumers at a rate much below that which would have been possible otherwise. In explanation, he said that T. V. A. sells power at wholesale to municipalities or cooperative associations by a contract which at the same time prescribes the rates at which it is to be resold to the consumer. These resale rates, he said, constitute the "yardstick."

Public Fooled

The "hidden subsidies" have been kept hidden by "misrepresentation," he said, adding: "The public has been led to believe that those retail yardstick rates more than cover all the costs any private or municipal utility would incur, and still leave substantial profits to the municipalities and cooperative associations."

The fundamental requirement of such a comparison is that it shall be fair, honest and representative," he said. "If it lacks those qualities the people are deceived. A false 'yardstick' is worse than none."

As a result of extensive publicity given the 'yardstick' idea, he added, people all over the country had come to regard the rate charged in areas served with T. V. A. power as the rate which private utilities should charge in their own communities.

With a prefacing statement that because the success of a low rate power policy depended upon an increased use of power, the cost of expanding the use of power was "as much a real cost of power as the poles and wire," he said the "hidden subsidies" were the cost of increasing power usage in the T. V. A. area.

Agents of the electric farm and home authority have gone from house to house in the T. V. A. area promoting the use of electrical appliances, and the cost of their activities had not been added in.

County agents had done the same thing, and T. V. A. officials, members of congress and President Roosevelt himself, had all helped in promoting power consumption.

"If the yardstick communities had paid for this promotion, the resulting inflation of capital investment would have forced these projects greatly to over-capitalize, and to be severely condemned on that account," he said.

DETROIT EDITOR DIES SUDDENLY

Ralph Johnson of News Was Widely Known in Newspaper Work

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 25 (AP)—Ralph E. Johnson, state editor of the Detroit News, died in Butterworth hospital here today after a brief illness that followed a heart attack.

He was married last Wednesday at his home in Dearborn to Mrs. Edythe Damm of Grand Rapids, and they had just returned to Grand Rapids from Chicago when he became ill Saturday.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Rauschenberger chapel here, with burial in Greenwood cemetery. Pallbearers will be Detroit and Grand Rapids newspapermen.

Born May 4, 1894, in Hastings, Neb., Johnson came to Allegan, Mich., with his family when he was a child. Virtually all of his adult life was spent in Michigan newspaper circles and few men had a wider acquaintance among newspapermen in the state.

His first job was with the Kalamazoo Gazette. Then he was on the staffs of the Grand Rapids News, the Owosso Press-American and the Argus-Press, which succeeded it, and the Cadillac Evening News.

After working in Columbus, O., and Denver, Colo., he returned to Michigan and was with the Associated Press at Detroit for three years. For a brief period in 1924 he was publicity and convention manager of the Muskegon Chamber of Commerce.

In November, 1924, he became state editor of the Detroit News and he held that position until his death.

His first marriage was to Miss Lennie B. Coon, of Grand Rapids. She died Oct. 16, 1933. There are three children, Charles, a student at Michigan State college; Mary Lois, 18, and Barbara, 8.

His father, A. B. Johnson, lives in Long Beach, Calif. A sister, Mrs. Margaret Hanson, lives in Portland, Ore., and a brother, Harold, is an officer in the United States navy.

'Demoralized' Cards Deplored By Rickey

Four Big Guns Still In Field for British Championships

New York, May 25 (AP)—Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, came here today to discuss with Manager Frankie Frisch what he termed the "demoralized condition of almost the entire Cardinal team" since Commissioner Landis made the club put Pitchers Si Johnson and Roy Henshaw back on the payroll.

"It puts us in a spot," he said. "Now we must dispose of two players we want to keep and keep two players we do not want. It's a new day in baseball and I don't know what the answer is."

"That's the main thing that's wrong with the club now. Half of our young players are too worried about whether they are going to be released to play good baseball," Johnson and Henshaw were sent by the Cardinals to their Rochester farm, but refused to report and appealed to Landis, declaring they had not had a chance to make good with the Cards. He ordered their return to the parent team and gave the Cards until Saturday to cut two other men off their roster.

SETBACK GIVEN TO US GOLFERS

Four Big Guns Still In Field for British Championships

TROON, Scotland, May 25 (AP)—The United States forces suffered two vital setbacks in the British amateur golf championship today, but still had four big guns firing at a field of 32 reached the first real climax of the international battle.

Defeated were Walker cup Captain Francis Outmet of Boston and Reynolds Smith of Dallas. Survivors were U. S. Champion Johnny Goodman of Omaha, Charles (Chuck) Kocsis of Detroit, Charley Yates of Atlanta, and Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans. The only trouble now is that Goodman and Kocsis meet in the fourth round tomorrow morning in what looks like one of the decisive matches of the tournament.

Outmet was beaten, one up, in a third-round match by Cecil Ewing, burly Irishman who played on the 1936 British Walker cup team. Smith, beaten two up by Jocelyn Walker, former Cambridge star, went out in the second round, together with American-born Robert Sweeney, the defending champion, who lost to Dr. W. M. Robb, 5 and 4.

Goodman and Kocsis, who reached the third round yesterday, played only once today, the American champion swamping Albert W. Briscoe, Irish nationalist, 6 and 5, and Kocsis disposing of John S. Montgomery, 4 and 2. Yates beat Frank Pennick, English champion the last two years, by 3 and 2 in the morning, then beat Stanley P. Morrison, 5 and 4. Haas' victims were Dr. J. D. MacCormack, by 7 and 5, and Derek A. Drayson, 4 and 3.

In order to get an idea of just how tough the four surviving Americans are one must look at their cards. Yates, the man who made putting look easy, was three under 4's for the 30 holes it took him to eliminate Pennick and Morrison. Kocsis was two under par for the 15 holes he needed to thump Montgomery; Goodman was even par against Briscoe, and Haas shot even par for both his matches.

Fire Aboard Tanker Leaves Two Missing At Fall River, Mass

Fall River, Mass., May 25 (AP)—Fire and a series of explosions aboard the oil tanker Elwood, tied up here today, left two men missing and at least 25 others injured tonight.

Chief Mate Carl Bendrien said the two missing men were Michael Yorlo, a wiper, of Jersey City, N. J., and Walter Widner, of Boston. Widner, Bendrien said, had been paid off when the vessel was in Boston, but was visiting the ship when the blast rocked the waterfront and sent seamen, their clothes in flames, leaping over the side.

Bendrien said he jumped overboard with Widner, who was later seen to disappear beneath the water. Yorlo was presumed to have leaped into the water, also. The chief mate said a check of all hospitals and hotels failed to locate the missing men.

He said his conference with Murphy would include a discussion of candidates for the new judgeship in the eastern Michigan federal district court which would be created by a bill now on the president's desk.

District Attorney James R. Fleming said the investigation, from which the government seeks indictments against the three manufacturers and their associated finance companies, probably would require several weeks of day and night sessions.

The government alleges the companies coerced dealers and discriminated against independent concerns in the financing of cars.

Rev. Evans To Deliver Baccalaureate Sermon

Rev. D. E. Evans, pastor of the First M. E. church, will deliver the baccalaureate address for Escanaba high school graduates at ceremonies to be held at the William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium Sunday night, June 5, beginning at 8:15 o'clock.

"Values of Personal Atmosphere" is the topic of his sermon. Rev. Evans followed his university work with a regular course in theology and following his graduation from the Boston School of Theology, he took additional work at Yale university.

His work in various types of churches gives him a wide range of experience. Shortly after graduating from the university, he entered one of the Methodist Conferences in Ohio, where he held charges, after which he took his work in Boston.

Upon graduation he became associate pastor with Doctor William Stidger at St. Mark's Church, Detroit, which position he held with success until Doctor Stidger resigned to take a large church in Kansas City.

Rev. Evans then returned to the east to do additional work at Yale. While in the east he was accorded the honor of several Congregational church appointments, as student pastor. Later was offered regular work in that denomination, and, after some years of experience with these churches, went back to the Detroit Methodist Conference to take up regular work in the Flint District at Walled Lake, before coming to Escanaba.

Michigan's Beer Production Rose 200,000 Barrels

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C.—Michigan's beer production increased last month more than 200,000 barrels over the production total recorded in January, as a million barrel increase in total nation-wide brewing activity during April was recorded.

This was revealed here today in the Internal Revenue Bureau's periodic statement on malt beverage production as based on its tax collecting proclivities.

General increases in beer production during April were recorded in most states, the nation's total rising principally because of the jump in spring brewing in Wisconsin during the month which threatened to steal the second place in beer production from Pennsylvania, which state has maintained that position for the past several months.

Michigan's 41 breweries last month turned out 232,750 barrels of brew, as compared with 167,665 barrels produced during January, the bureau report showed.

The brewery officials removed 122,534 barrels of beer for bottling, about 25,000 barrels more than in January, and kegged up 89,569 barrels, an approximate 35 per cent increase over the comparative month.

Stocks on hand at the Michigan breweries as the month ended were quite a bit higher than at the beginning of the year, it was shown, the total being 443,684 barrels, as compared with 335,602 barrels in January.

Total production amounted to 4,566,566 barrels, last month, while New York continued to hold the lead over all comers, her 62 plants producing 731,364 barrels during April.

Toy to Visit U. P.

HARRY S. TOY, former Wayne county prosecutor and justice of the Michigan Supreme Court, will continue his vigorous campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination with a swing around the Upper Peninsula during the first week of June.

Addressing rallies in the Lower Peninsula the past several days, Atty. Toy has been making some strong verbal attacks upon the Murphy administration. He has placed the blame for the continued industrial unrest on the shoulders of Governor Murphy, charging that the governor's attitude during the automobile sit-down strikes has encouraged a continuance of lawlessness.

It is quite likely that Atty. Toy will pursue this course throughout the campaign. There are indications, however, that former Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald will carry on a less pugnacious campaign, in an effort to woo the vote of the laboring class as well as those of the farmers and business men. During his many years of public service in Michigan, Frank Fitzgerald has made a lot of friends and he seems determined to keep them.

Former Governor Fitzgerald has entered the current campaign for reelection as governor with some disadvantage. He was the defeated gubernatorial candidate two years ago, and although he made a good showing in view of President Roosevelt's tremendous popularity in 1926, there are a considerable number of Republicans who feel that new faces are needed this year. Friends of Fitzgerald, on the other hand, will point out that Toy also is no newcomer in Republican circles.

Many Republicans are sitting back to watch how the gubernatorial candidates conduct themselves during the early stages of the campaign before committing themselves. Realizing that the Democratic party cannot help but present a strong front with all the political patronage at its disposal, they want to see the strongest Republican candidates nominated in the primary.

Seeking New Cure-alls

THE system of trial and error is the fundamental one used by most scientists. The chemist in his laboratory tries this combination and then that to produce a hoped for reaction. When a blank is drawn the whole process is started anew. As to everyday matters the homely phrase is: if at first you don't succeed, try, try again is applied.

The American people have seen two attempts at forcing economic recovery. The system of rugged individualism was attempted at first. President Hoover did not believe in large spending as a means of producing prosperity, although he did advocate a limited amount of crop curtailment. On the whole, however, he was a disciple of old-fashioned methods. Either because his system was wrong or because, as seems more likely, the whole world was engulfed in depression, that method failed and, during his Administration, the Nation sank to new depths of economic despair.

With the Roosevelt Administration there came into being a method new in the United States, now so far as putting it into practice was concerned. It was the system of government planning. With a National Planning Commission at the head, an intricate, bureaucratic structure of planning boards was set up for various industries and trades, for natural things and for artificial things, and for States and cities. The course of recovery was plotted as an ordnance officer plots the ground of an objective. This blow against depression was to fall here; that one there.

That too has, for the time being at least, failed. Thus the American people have seen their country pass through two separate courses of treatment for a major ill. Two trials have been made and, in each instance, so far as final results are concerned, the outcome has been error.

It is the usual system of the scientist, after a trial has been followed by an error, not to go back to the method which has once failed so, on that basis, neither system is to be further attempted. It must be a new trial. What the new method will be is a secret which has not yet emerged although there are indications that possibly a mixture of the two will be employed.

It now is generally admitted that the $15,000,000,000 spent for pump priming between 1933 and 1937 failed to bring recovery. It is impossible to say how much worse conditions would have been if this money had not been poured out. It is impossible to say what millions of unemployed people would have resorted to in the way of violence had not hundreds of millions been distributed in relief for both urban and rural populations. The rugged individualists declare that the hard times would have been harder for a while but would sooner have been over. That proved to be the case in Australia. That Commonwealth was very hard hit by the world depression but its government insisted on a belt-tightening plan. Rigid economies were introduced and taxes were increased from an already high point. The thing looked impossible, but the outcome was that Australia was the first large country to emerge from depression. It is questionable if the scheme would have worked in a nation so large as the United States. The entire population of Australia did not equal the United States. Would the scheme have proved successful if applied to such vast numbers? It is questionable.

Considered An Investment

THE city of Duluth again raised $25,000 this year to conduct an extensive tourist advertising campaign in Middle West newspapers and also to pay for the services of a publicity director, according to R. D. Handy, head of a Duluth engraving concern and chairman of the advertising committee of the Duluth Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Handy was a visitor in Escanaba yesterday.

Several years ago, the Duluth Chamber of Commerce had difficulty in raising about a thousand dollars for tourist advertising purposes, Mr. Handy said. It took almost all summer to collect the pledges from the business interests of the city. The profitable results of the advertising campaign were soon realized in a marked increase in the tourist traffic, and each year the advertising fund was increased.

Three years ago, Duluth stepped up its advertising appropriation to $15,000. Last year, the sum was increased to $25,000. This year, the same amount was collected in three days.

"Duluth people are glad to contribute to the advertising fund," Mr. Handy explains. "They consider it to be a good investment now."

Upper Peninsula communities are going through the same experience. There are still a lot of people who consider their contributions for tourist advertising as a donation to charity. As the results become apparent, however, they will be more inclined to look upon such expenditures as a good investment.

The Upper Peninsula tourist industry is growing rapidly. There are definite signs of this development in the building of new resorts and overnight cabins in many areas. It will keep on growing if the promotion program that has been started by the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau and various civic organizations continues.

How About the Future?

THERE is something about the class motto, "WPA, Here We Come," which was adopted by the seniors of a southern high school, that makes one think quite seriously about the opportunities that are ahead of the thousands of boys and girls who are graduating during the next few weeks.

Many graduates will have to make the decision as to whether they will go away to college next fall or immediately look around for jobs to start their careers.

You will hear a large number say that a college career is unnecessary. They will point out successful business men and industrial leaders who have made a success of their lives without a college education. In that there is no argument. But those men would have made a success anyway. A college career might have aided them in arriving at success earlier. If an individual has the right stuff he will be successful. If not a college education will not help him.

The American Iron and Steel Institute reports that of the men hired by the steel industry during 1932 and 1933, nearly one-half had high school or college training as compared to one-fourth who had such educational advantages among those hired in 1929. This shows a desire for educated men.

Before deciding whether you should go to college, it is well to take inventory of yourself. What is your aim in life? What qualities do you possess? What is your purpose in going to college? Will you earn at least a part of your college expenses?

There are some youths who never should go to college as college life will but hasten their ruin.

Look about you during periods of depression. How many college-trained men and women do you find on the welfare or totally unemployed? There are some, to be sure, but the percentage is very small.

There is as great need for well-trained men and women who are interested in their work as at any time in history and this need will be ever-present. Prepare for it. If a college education will aid you in such preparation, let nothing deter you from getting such an education.

43 YEARS AGO (Iron River Reporter)

After an absence of 43 years Carrie Jacobs Bond, beloved composer, returned to Iron River last week and found that only a few persons and a scattered land mark or two were all that remained of her collections of residence here. The span of absence is a long time and memories that far back are none too certain. People then young are now in the autumn of their lives and names, rather than faces, must be counted on for identification.

But what impressed the composer were the physical changes in the city of Iron River. A half century ago when Mrs. Bond and her doctor husband lived here, Iron River was a straggling village with life quite primitive from the complex civilization of today. It was nothing more than a mining and lumbering outpost celebrating the arrival of the railroad and closer contact with the outside world.

Physical changes in cities everywhere have been most marked during the last half century. This was the age of scientific and industrial advance, of electricity,

Washington, D. C.—As dictatorial governments become more extensive, democracies appear to become more appreciative of their independence. Their birthdays increase in popularity and the occasions are entered into by an increasing number of their citizens.

This summer Bolivia, the third largest of the South American nations, is to celebrate her 113th year of independence. It is one of the two countries of the American continent which possesses no seacoast, having lost that economic advantage by reason of the success of Chile in the war of 1879 to 1883.

Bolivia was named for Simon Bolivar, the George Washington of South America. The story of the republic is as dramatic and romantic as the life of the man whose name it perpetuates.

The country comprises an area of 514,595 square miles and has a population of over 3,000,000, about five persons to the square mile, being the most sparsely populated of any of the American republics.

The most noteworthy feature of the country is the vast plateau which includes over 40,000 square miles, at an average altitude of 12,000 feet above sea level. The mountains abound in mineral wealth. Tin, silver, copper and bismuth, with rubber, are the principal exports. Coffee, cocoa, tobacco, sugar cane, and other products of the tropical, as well as many of the temperate zone, are successfully cultivated. Coca, from which cocaine is derived, is grown and exported in large quantities, and the forests contain numerous species of valuable woods. Rubber and cinchona trees, the bark of the latter's being used for the manufacture of quinine, cover vast areas. Extensive petroleum deposits have also been discovered and their exploitation by large corporations is in progress.

Pizarro, having conquered the Inca Empire, invaded the territory of what is now Bolivia, in 1535, finding there a race of Indians, whom he subdued with comparative ease. He divided the country between his brothers, Hernando and Gonzalo Pizarro. When the rich silver mines were discovered, the country was rapidly settled by numerous adventurers, but the Indians, in the year 1780, led by Tupac Amaru, the last of the Inca chiefs, killed the Spanish authorities and drove some of the settlers out of the country. After a struggle, lasting upwards of a decade, the Indians were finally overcome, and Tupac Amaru and all his family executed.

The contest against Spain for independence began on May 25, 1809, when the inhabitants of Chuquisaca deposed the Spanish authorities, and ended when independence was finally achieved in the year 1825. The battle of Ayacucho, December 9, 1824, in which the Spanish forces were almost annihilated, practically decided the fate of Bolivia.

A constitutional congress met at Chuquisaca on August 6, 1825, and declaring that Upper Peru should thereafter be free and independent, adopted the name of Bolivia, in honor of General Simon Bolivar. The constitution, which had been drafted by Bolivar, was adopted with some amendments and formally proclaimed on November 19, 1826. General Sucre was elected the first president.

The republic has a democratic representative form of government, with three distinct and coordinate branches—legislative, executive, and judicial. The legislature consists of two houses, the senate and chamber of deputies; the former consisting of sixteen and the latter of 72 members, both houses being elected by popular vote, the former for six and the latter for four years. Every male citizen over 21 years of age, whose name appears on the electoral register, who can read and write, and who has a fixed independent income, has the right to vote. The senate is retired by thirds, every two years, and one-half of the chamber of deputies is renewed every two years. Congress meets annually on August 6, the session's lasting for a period of 60 days, which may be extended for 30 days. It may also be convened in extraordinary session by the president.

The president and two vice-presidents are elected for a term of four years and may not be re-elected for the term immediately following. The president is assisted by a cabinet consisting of six ministers. The legal capital of the republic is Sucre, though the capital so far as the seat of government action is concerned is La Paz, the most important commercial center, and the leading metropolis. Sucre is the seat of the national supreme court and the archbishopric. The city has approximately 40,000 inhabitants and is unconnected by rail with other centers.

concrete, the automobile, and radio. It marks, in industry, the age of mass production; urban concentration, and specialization. The distance traversed in these years exceeded all those before. No wonder then, that Mrs. Bond found Iron River, not the village of her early memories, but a modern, bustling little city, full grown from its infancy to manhood.

Had Mrs. Bond lived in Europe and returned after 43 years departure it is likely she would not have found conditions so radically changed. Community advance in towns hundreds of years old is still behind America where democratic forces and free competition and every man's opportunity for gain accounted for an unprecedented development of our resources. The impress of age would be on the faces of old friends and on the community landmarks—but, the landmarks would be there for her to freshen her memories of the deep past. Probably only in America would the span of 45 years have so completely transformed a community.

There's supposed to be a law against cruel and unusual punishments, but the United States recently deported an Ethiopian.

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—The biggest and most brilliant cabaret show in Manhattan at the moment is on Ice.

It is the "Ice Frolics" at the International Casino, that behemoth of cafes which spreads over three flights of chromium-plated premises. Two dozen Sonja Henies (or thereabouts) are proving that sex appeal and skating go well together, and the prima donna, Evelyn Chandler, is statuesque on skates.

A great many thousands of dollars were spent on this ice carnival and a large risk was taken for a rink show in a wine and dine palace isn't the surest investment on Broadway. But the International's hunch was correct. The public, sensing something new in night life, is flocking to it and agreeing that a double somersault off the ice by an acrobatic figure skater goes pretty well with a sip of the extra dry martini.

Not that the Ice Show is an innovation in night life. The New Yorker Hotel has presented one in its grill room for the past two years; has melted down and refrigerated enough ice to keep the North Pole cool, and has kept a troupe of skating professionals in employment almost without interruption.

It all began, one of the impresarios confides, when Sonja Henie introduced sex appeal into the ice world. Anyway, the cabaret boys have learned that ice has other uses in a night club, apart from its necessary presence in a highball glass.

Hitlerized

There will be few more memorable evenings for this department than one spent in a darkened projection room amid an audience that included two of the great men of the world, Professor Albert Einstein and Dr. Thomas Mann.

It was a preview of the moving picture called "The Fight for Peace," newswreels collected, edited and explained by Hendrik Willem Van Loon, the corpulent historian; and it was a film fraught with the grim horrors that have overtaken countries under the Fascist yoke.

Particularly memorable was that scene depicting the burning of the books on the towering pyre in Nazi Germany, and glancing down the aisle toward those eminent refugees in the front rows, a mood of inward calm. Their looks were in the flames and with them much of the cultural glory of Germany.

The good Professor and the good Doctor witnessed the photographic horror silently and a profound quiet fell over all others present in the room. They were the most tense moments I can remember while film-watching.

Are You Going to the Fair

Howard Hughes, the millionaire movie magnate and aviation pioneer, thinks that he ought to chip in his talents toward helping the New York World's Fair. And so, leaving cinematic concerns behind, he proposes to get into his own plane some time next month, taking off from Le Bourget near Paris, and paying a personal call upon each European capital, with an invitation to participate in the international exposition.

After extending his invitations via the air routes, Hughes wants to circle the globe and fly back to the United States.

The Capital Parade

BY ALBION AND KINTNER

Washington, May 25.—The shrewd strategy which bore its first fruit in the House vote on the Wage-hour bill was conceived one evening several weeks ago. The time was shortly before the President's departure for his most recent fishing trip; the place, the dinner table of a powerful official; the occasion, a meeting of the President's general staff.

The meeting was initiated by James Roosevelt, acting, as usual, as his father's personal representative. The President had not decided just how to cut through the strange tangle in which the wage-hour measure was then involved. Some decision had to be reached before he left Washington. And, through young Roosevelt, the President had given plenary authority to make the decision to the men around the table.

Of an accretion of such small incidents, history is made. But for us, at this moment, the incident has more than an historical interest. To the simple question, who runs the government? The capital's whispering galleries give fifty "inside" but contradictory answers. In the quiet dinner of the President's general staff, a concrete and authentic answer may be found.

THESE RUN IT

The staff-members are: Harry L. Hopkins, the obscure social worker who rose with Roosevelt. The President listens to him more often than to any other, and is personally more attached to him. He is serious, intensely partisan, imbued with a sense of public service, but almost malignant in his dislike of New Deal opponents. He is the doyen of the New Deal left wing.

Harold L. Ickes, the administration hatchet man, whose angry adjectives are a chief weapon against New Deal enemies. From the purple of Illinois liberalism, he has risen, by chance and an amazing power hunger, to be one of the most influential men in Washington. He is the New Deal left wing's only real and trusted ally in the cabinet. He was not present at the dinner, but he was invited.

Joseph B. Keenan, assistant to the attorney general. Under the genial exterior of the sort of politician one sees in droves at race tracks, he conceals much kindness and good sense. His rise in the New Deal has been slow. From dispenser-in-chief of Justice Department patronage, his functions have been broadened until he now does many of the jobs which used to be assigned to Postmaster General James A. Farley. He is the practical politician on the general staff, and a rising star.

David Niles, an obscure official of the WPA. A protégé of Felix Frankfurter and a friend of Jimmy Roosevelt's Boston years, he is the least known and least important general staff member. A plump, dark little man, with an ingratiating manner, he is well fitted for his duties, which are those of orderly and message bearer. Such tasks as soliciting the C. I. O.'s huge 1936 campaign contribution from John L. Lewis are assigned to him. He used to run a left wing forum in Boston, and is still, interestingly enough, officially connected with the La Follette Progressive committee.

James Roosevelt, who arranged the dinner meeting. He has solved for his father the ancient problem of men in power—finding subordinates whose interests are completely identical with their masters. He is amiable, personable, shrewd and ambitious. After a period of strain, when big-wigs rebelled at accepting "an unlicked boy" as his father's representative, he is now doing his job efficiently and well. He is more a detail man than a policy maker.

Two youngish leaders of the New Deal left wing, notable for their intellectual brilliance and fondness for anonymity. They are the idea-men of the general staff, and as important as any other staff member except Hopkins.

ARMY ORGANIZATION

Such is the general staff. Besides the two men mentioned above, there was an official or so from the Labor Department, present only because it happened to be the wage-hour bill which was under discussion. With or without such casual additions as the Labor Department representatives, the group frequently foregather. In the group's discussions, general policy is settled, subject, of course, to the President's direction and approval. Members of the group are charged with such delicate tasks as changing the vote of the Louisiana representatives on the wage-hour bill.

The position of the group is precisely that of a general staff in an army. Other high officials—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, Chairman William O. Douglas of the SEC, Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Secretary of State Cordell Hull—have great influence. But their positions are similar to the positions of a quartermaster general or a chief of artillery. Their influence is confined to their own fields, except for brief excursions.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

THE LOSING DAY

Today means little at the end, Today is given to a friend, I'll have to lay my work, my sorrow, Aside to wait until tomorrow. But he must travel with a crutch, I guess he hasn't very much. And so we thought we'd get together, Would meet today, and see if whether— Well, I don't know, but anyway, We'll try to lend a hand today. He isn't very lucky, is he? Of course, right now I'm rather busy With things I hope to put across. Looks like today would be a loss, For I am needed, needed direly— And yet it may not be, entirely.

4-H Club Buildings Are Being Erected At Chatham Station

Munising. — Construction of permanent quarters for Camp Shaw, headquarters for the annual summer outing of upper peninsula 4-H club members, at the state experimental farm at Chatham, is underway, the Reniger Construction company, of Lansing, general contractors, pouring the first foundations for dormitories this week.

The Reniger company was awarded the contract for the job on a bid of $38,725. Levine Brothers, of Marquette, were awarded a contract for installation of plumbing equipment, and the Washington Street Electric shop, of Marquette, was given the contract for electric fixtures and wiring.

Will Be Ready In August

Clare Road, state 4-H club leader who is assisting in administration of the building work, at the state experimental farm at Chatham, already has been installed and if there are no unforeseen delays the camp will be completed in time to accommodate 4-H club members of the U. P. at their annual roundup in August.

The camp buildings will be constructed on the site overlooking the valley of the Slapneck river. The two principal units will be H-shaped dormitories for boys and girls. The center of the "H" will have 40 by 80-foot lounge rooms, with large fireplaces at one end, these rooms serving as general indoor headquarters. The two dormitories will accommodate approximately 400 club members.

Between the dormitories, to the north, will be a 150 by 50-foot dining hall, and adjacent to each dormitory will be cabins for the state club leaders in charge, a canteen and an infirmary.

HUDSON

Birlers Practice for Escanaba Roleo August 12 to 14

The above sketch of Paul Bunyan and his Blue Ox, watching from a hilltop as two lumberjacks engage in a birling contest, was drawn by R. D. Handy, a veteran cartoonist and now president of the R. D. Handy Engraving Company of Duluth, Minn.

Mr. Handy was a visitor in Escanaba, and expressed much interest in the plans for staging another world's championship log rolling tournament here August 12 to 14.

Born in Minneapolis, Mr. Handy became a reporter on the Minneapolis Tribune in 1898, soon after leaving school. He stayed two years with the Tribune, excepting for four months he spent with the Chicago Herald & Examiner, and in 1900 became a cartoonist for the Duluth News-Tribune. He did a daily political cartoon for the News-Tribune for 20 years, without missing a single issue. From 1920 to 1928, he was treasurer and general manager of the Duluth News-Tribune and then went into the engraving business when the newspaper was sold to the Paul Block interests.

During the past 10 years, Mr. Handy has been toying with the idea of a Paul Bunyan cartoon strip to be syndicated with newspapers. He believes that with the nation-wide publicity that is now being given to Paul Bunyan, and other lumberjack lore a comic strip would have much popular appeal.

About a year ago, Mr. Handy wrote a booklet, "Paul Bunyan and His Blue Ox," which is being published by Rand and McNally. The sales to date total almost a half million copies. Mr. Handy also has gotten out a pictorial map of Paul Bunyan's exploits in various parts of the United States.

"There is a wave of interest in Paul Bunyan of late," said Mr. Handy. "I believe the Paul Bunyan and lumberjack festivals at Brainerd, Bemidji, Stillwater, Bayfield, Washburn, and Manistowish, and the birling tournament at Escanaba have had much to do with this revival of interest. A number of lumbering towns are erecting mammoth Paul Bunyan statues, while museums of lumbering relics have been established at Wisconsin State Capitol in Madison, Rhineland and Eau Claire."

Mr. Handy plans to return to Escanaba in August to attend the log rolling tournament. He left yesterday afternoon for Marquette.

FERRIES STEP UP SCHEDULE

Extra Service To Begin Friday for Memorial Day Traffic

The summer ferry schedule at the Straits of Mackinac will be advanced this week by Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner to take care of the expected Memorial Day week-end traffic rush.

The new schedule will go into effect Friday night (May 27) when three additional round trips will be made during the night and early Saturday morning by the two boats now in operation. A third boat will go into service Saturday morning and continue in operation throughout the summer. The summer schedule usually begins June 1.

Final trips are now made at 9 o'clock from both Mackinaw City and St. Ignace. On Friday night there will be trips from the former port at 11 p. m., 2 a. m., and 5 a. m. From St. Ignace there will be departures at 12:30 a. m., 3:30 a. m. and 5:30 a. m.

On the summer schedule, boats will leave Mackinaw City every hour between 5 a. m. and 9 p. m. with additional trips at 11 p. m. and 2 a. m. The same hourly schedule will be maintained at St. Ignace beginning at 5:30 a. m. through 9:30 p. m. with additional trips at 12:30 a. m. and 3:30 a. m. Commissioner Van Wagoner announced that traffic at the Straits is slightly ahead of the volume at this time last year.

W. G. Robinson, Ann Arbor, district representative of the National Recreation Association, came to Escanaba yesterday to survey the local recreational program.

Mr. Robinson said that the supervised recreational movement is making gains in Michigan. The city of Albion will engage a full time playground supervisor, effective June 15. Monro has appropriated $8,000 for its new program, and Saginaw is reinstating a full-time recreation program after a lapse of several years. Marquette also is considering the employment of a trained recreational director.

Michigan In Washington

Esther Van Wagoner Tufty
Some 382 veterans of the war of 1861-65 can take a free trip, if they so desire, to Pennsylvania on Uncle Sam, to be present at the observance of the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg.

Roosevelt, who has just signed the act providing for the observance, will speak on July 3 at this ten day reunion of Union and Confederate soldiers. (Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg may be stealing some of the attention away from the President as he speaks at Gettysburg on May 30th.)

The surviving veterans number approximately 10,000 out of which the War Department estimates 5,000 will accept the invitation, although the average age is 94 years.

The Michigan list includes only veterans of 90 days or more service, but as the invitation is extended to veterans with shorter war records, the War Department is seeking names of such survivors.

Each Michigan veteran who attends, and his attendant, selected by him, will be provided with railroad tickets. In case a private conveyance is used, an amount equal to the cost of the railroad fare will be refunded. Incidental expenses are included. Upon arrival at Gettysburg, shelter, subsistence and medical attention and all other necessities will be provided.

Secretary of State Hull formally announced this week, the appointment of Murray D. Van Wagoner, State Highway Commissioner as one of fifteen representatives of the United States on the Permanent International Commission of the Permanent International Association of Road Congresses.

The President has approved the designation of Mr. Van Wagoner as President of the American Road Builders Association, which is permanently represented on the commission.

The next Road Congress is scheduled for June 15 at the Hague, Netherlands.

Congressman John Luecke of Escanaba, has been worried that the new bill setting up a Civil Air Authority, already passed by the House, would interfere with his proposed air mail extension into Northern Michigan. The inclusion, however, of an amendment to exempt proposed lines, on which bids have been taken, eliminated this worry—unless the Senate strikes it out.

North Western Ry. Asks Approval Of Trucking Routes

BY PAUL MAY
Washington, D. C.—The Chicago and North Western Railway Company today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve its five interstate motor truck routes including service to Council Bluffs, Iowa, Marinette, Wisconsin and Escanaba, Michigan, on the ground that these routes are merely subsidiary to railroad service, and are not in competition with established truck operators.

The railroad contends that each of the five routes was established before June 1, 1935, date required for qualification under the grandfather clause of the Motor Carrier Act, and that trucks operating over the routes carry merchandise traffic only as a supplement for railroad service to provide store-door delivery.

The routes in question, part of a system of 23 motor routes operated by the railroad, are: Council Bluffs, Iowa, to Omaha, Nebraska; Marinette, Wisconsin, to Menominee, Michigan; Marinette to Escanaba, Michigan; Green Bay to Menominee; and Hurley, Wisconsin, to Ironwood, Michigan. Various large truck companies protested against approval of these routes.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

Can a woman keep her mind on justice when the woman sitting next to her has on a brand new spring hat lush with flowers, and the one further on is wearing a poke bonnet tied under the chin (though it is a little young for her)?

That is the question that Justice Zoller of White Plains, N. Y., has raised with his rule that women jurors mustn't cover their crowning glory with the latest in feminine headgear, or even a last season's bonnet.

Justice Zoller recently asked his ten women jurors—all hatted, according to etiquette—if they would in the future remove their hats before they took their places in the jury box.

The women agreed docilely enough. They were even a little bit flattered at the request for the Justice made it seem that their hats had enough of what hats should have to be attractive.

But maybe they'll change their minds about the justice of the gallantly-worded request when they get home and start thinking it over.

To begin with, some of those women probably bought new hats for the occasion.

Others may bemoan the necessity of having to keep hair looking particularly "nice" day after day when a hat would have covered it up.

Then, too, the married ones are due for a lot of kidding from their husbands.

But each woman's real reason for resentment is the fact that she is being treated like a child from whose hands one takes a toy in order to get his full attention.

It doesn't speak well for the feminine mind, or will power, to imply that a woman won't be able to concentrate on a law suit in which thousands of dollars are involved, if there is a good looking hat in sight to give her a lift.

But in all fairness to the Justice, the ten women should look back and see if there haven't been Sundays in their lives when they came home from church able to describe in detail what all their friends were wearing, although a bit hazy on the sermon.

On the Record By Dorothy Thompson

Germany and Russia will spring at each other's throats and weaken themselves in war. But these circles are small. Nobody is afraid of Russia armed aggression against any democratic Western power, and what sympathy there is for Russia Communism derives from this fact.

The only advantages which the dictatorships possess today derive from the clearness of their policies and from the fact that the imaginations of their leaders encompass a wider range of possibilities.

The failure to comprehend the dictatorial mind is the greatest weakness of democracy. Democratic governments cannot wholly accept the possibility of war.

The dictatorships do not weaken themselves for the sake of maintaining peace. They strengthen themselves at the risk of war.

The Fascist powers do not put any limit whatsoever upon their possible expansion. Hitler dreamed in 1924 of making Germany the sovereign of the Continent of Europe, and there is not the slightest reason to believe that he has ever abandoned that dream or ever will abandon it unless it is perfectly clear that he can't realize it.

The dictatorships shrink before no methods, nor do they dream of asking for universal rules to apply to themselves as well as others. They will arrest and condemn to death any foreigner who attempts intervention in their internal affairs, but they openly announce a policy of intervening in other countries' internal affairs.

And at not a point do they meet organized unequivocal opposition. On the contrary, and because of the hope of maintaining peace, they receive collaboration. Hitler did not annex Austria until he was perfectly sure that nobody was going to oppose him. He got the equivalent of that assurance, as far as Britain was concerned, from Lord Halifax.

The effect of all this is not only to fill the Fascist powers with a sense of arrogance, but, what is much worse, to fill the democratic countries with a sense of defeatism. They are vastly overrating the actual power of the dictatorships, and vastly underrating their own, and by this fact they are contributing to making the Fascist boast a reality.

HOW LAWS ARE MADE

When a member of the legislature desires to have a law regarding a certain matter enacted he must introduce a bill setting forth just what he wishes to be covered by that law.

He must then deliver it to the house clerk who will place the makers name and a certain number on it and at the next sitting of the House he will announce the introduction of Bill number so-and-so and read it twice by its title, whereupon the presiding officer will say referred to committee so-and-so. It then is sent to the clerk of the proper committee and it becomes State Property until he is perfectly sure that nobody was going to oppose him.

When a bill is reported out in the regular way it then goes to the committee of the "whole" and the speaker must vacate his seat and call another member to preside. This member is addressed as Chairman. After the bill has been considered by the committee of the whole it is then passed to the order of Third reading where it must be read in full. If it passes it is then sent to the other house to be advanced in the same manner. If it passes there it then goes to the Governor who will either sign it or veto it.

I have often been asked how do the members vote on a bill. In the House of Representatives there is an electrical voting machine and the members vote as follows: When a bill is presented for a vote the presiding officer will say "We will now prepare to take the vote." If a member wishes to vote "yes" he will press the button on his desk. If it shows red to the right of his name he has voted "no". If it shows green he has voted "yes". If a member does not wish to vote he does not touch the button and he is then reported as being present but not voting.

Those appointed to the committee were Clarence Lahay of Bark River, Dave Phalen of Nahma, Mrs. Zola Beauchamp of Brampton, William J. Miller of Rapid River, James Jones of Gladstone, Dr. A. J. Carlton of Escanaba, Edwin P. Johnson of Baldwin township, Albert Norden of Maple Ridge township, Walter Stellwagen of Garden and Richard Collins of Fairbanks township. Escanaba and Gladstone school boards, as well as the rural boards, are to be a part of the proposed organization.

The session was called by C. P. Titus, county school commissioner, to bring the board members together for the cooperative purchase of sets of readers which can be exchanged by the various township units of the county.

The books are supplementary to the regular texts, and are graded in increasing difficulty. The first volume of the series requires the knowledge of only a few words, and as the series is read the pupil becomes familiar with more and more new words.

To Start Later Members of the boards voted that rural schools of the county shall open on September 7, the Wednesday following Labor Day, which is a day later than the usual opening date.

"In many communities, the custom of opening school the day after Labor Day has made it necessary for parents to travel on Labor Day in order that their children might be enrolled promptly. This travel over already crowded highways has often resulted in serious or fatal accidents to children." The measure is calculated to help ease the Labor Day highway congestion.

Legislation Needed Members of the rural boards, in discussion of the proposed county school board association, brought out the point; that such legislation is needed by the schools of the state. "The M. E. A. has heretofore been the only active body to sponsor school legislation," one member declared, "and the proposed association will enable the school boards to voice an opinion on school needs in cooperation with the M. E. A. legislative groups."

Other ways in which the county schools may be benefited by the proposed association, according to Commissioner Titus, are through the cooperative discussion of common problems, some group buying, and general consultation on matters of policy. George Gilbert, regional director of the state department of public instruction, was on hand at the meeting to give advice on financial and legal moves made by the boards.

Ironwood — Jerome Nadoiney, Ironwood, today was informed by Jay Mertz, clerk of the state supreme court at Lansing, that he had successfully passed the state bar examination and has been admitted to the practice of law. Nadoiney, a graduate of the Luther L. Wright high school, attended the University of Chicago and from 1935 to 1937 was city assessor. Recently he attended review classes conducted by Circuit Judge Leland Carr at Lansing.

On The RECORD

By Dorothy Thompson

Henlein in London III

Dorothy Thompson see that those moral principles were enforced unless American interests were specifically involved.

It is admittedly difficult for an American to criticize British foreign policy, because for twenty years this country has been the world's moral mentor, and often a common social. Except for Mr. Hull's trade policy, which has had a clear line, our foreign policy has largely consisted of affirming moral principles, and at the same time making it clear that we would do nothing whatever to see that those moral principles were enforced unless American interests were specifically involved.

Now, the very people who have supported our own isolationism are hugely indignant when Great Britain adopts something of the same attitude. The people of the United States would undoubtedly like to see Fascism checked in this world, and when Great Britain shows a disinclination to check it at the possible cost of war, our very isolationists grow indignant and begin to tell Great Britain what she ought to do.

This attitude on our part undoubtedly arises from the unconscious thought that British institutions are seriously threatened by the increasing victories of Fascism, while ours are not. This, I believe, is a supreme illusion on our part. Specifically, the triumph of Fascism in Spain will, without the shadow of a doubt, have repercussions on the whole Spanish-speaking world, and the most important outposts of that world are in South America. If a victorious Franco goes into cahoots with the Germans and perhaps the Italians to exploit that world, with the political and economic devices which Fascism has so ingeniously perfected, our trade with South America and our influence there will be seriously affected, and the Monroe Doctrine, which is our only consistent and traditional foreign policy, will be challenged.

The American attitude toward Europe consists in the comfortable belief that all countries and notably Great Britain are trying to trap us into an alliance—that "England expects every American to do his duty." That we may some day wish somebody else to do his duty by us never seems to cross our minds.

Having said these words about our own ostrichism, one can with better grace regard the ostrichism of Mr. Chamberlain. Great Britain is rearming. The object of that rearming is Germany. The British population does not start in its beds if an automobile backfires in the streets because it fears that a Russian bomb, or a French bomb or a Czechoslovak bomb has exploded. It starts because it fears a German bomb.

It is not the fear of Russia or Czechoslovakia that has led Mr. Chamberlain into making the most uncompromising military alliance with France that has ever existed in history. It is the fear of Germany. The British military policy is based on the assumption of a possible war with Germany. But this does not seem to be the assumption of the diplomatic policy. For while arming for war, the Chamberlain government is apparently working toward setting up a new Holy Alliance, a pact of tyrannies, which will, it is fondly hoped, maintain peace, and which will strengthen at the same time the only potential enemies.

The internal political results of this dual policy begin to be apparent. The Chamberlain government is deeply unpopular. The British people, while called on to sacrifice themselves to arm England, begin to wonder for what purpose they are arming her. When they think of defending England they think not only of English soil and the British Empire, but of those British institutions associated with the words freedom and democracy.

Once they think that the "defense of these things" is being abandoned they wonder why he so zealous to defend. The political disaffection is being shown in the by-elections.

In the House of Commons there are complaints that the rearmament program is going along too slowly. There is difficulty with labor, and the Labor party indicates why this is so: while labor is being asked to be prepared to defend democratic England, the British government is selling out democratic principles in all directions in the hope of maintaining peace.

While it is rearming it is making every conceivable concession to the only powers that threaten peace, and each of these concessions strengthens those powers.

The argument is made that Britain is not yet prepared, and that some day in the future, with more airplanes and other weapons, she will be able to take a firmer stand.

But meanwhile Mr. Henlein feels it quite in order to go to England to try to get British support for pressing the Czechoslovak government into greater concessions to his German Nazi movement, despite the fact that if Henlein gets what he wants, Czechoslovakia will be delivered over, either to serious internal

TRIAL FLIGHT

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JACKIE DUNN—heroine; she wanted to fly.
ROGER BRECKNER—hero; he wanted to test the stratosphere.
BERYL MELROSE—wealthy widow; she wanted Roger.
EVELYN LA FARGE—Jackie's mother; she wanted a son-in-law.

CHAPTER XXI
 Well, that was that, Jackie thought grimly, as she waited impatiently in the little station for the noon train. That was the end of that ridiculous trial engagement. An end in which the last laugh was bitter-sweet, indeed. For Jackie supposed that the last laugh was on her. She had thought she could laugh at love, refuse to have any part of it—and now it was laughing at her.

Only this laughter was terribly close to tears. It was aching misery, filling her whole being, an ache that would turn to dull emptiness, no doubt, in time. For this farewell was the end of everything for her. It would be as Evelyn had said: Jackie knew she never again would love anyone as she loved Roger. First love was the sweetest; the saddest, too. She knew now, of course, that Roger did not love her. She had been a little fool to think that he had ever. He had been only staging an act, even when he had played up to her act, at the end, even when he had kissed her that night in the garden, when he had asked her to wear his pin.

She opened the palm of her hand and there, cradled in its grasp, was Roger's pin. In her flight from the hospital she forgot that she had still clutched it in her hand. She had tried to give it back to Roger. But he had refused to accept it. He had said he would like her to keep it. As though she would need anything for remembrance! She started to pin it to her lapel again, over her heart, as Roger had. But no, she could not bear to do that. She opened her purse and put the pin out of sight.

The little station took on an air of importance, a flurry of excitement. Within a few minutes now the noon train would come thundering in. The platform would quiver, the building shake; people would press forward, porters strife or to becoming an out and out vassal of Germany.

A Germany that can depend upon the neutrality of the Czech army, and that can get access to the grain fields of Hungary and the oil and mines of Rumania, will be an enormously strong country, and an extremely uncomfortable and domineering friend.

And, as it happens, Czechoslovakia has right now more troops, airplanes, and equipment than Britain can train, build, or buy, in any foreseeable future, and has announced that she will use them if her sovereignty is threatened.

The only thing that might persuade her not to use them would be if she were deserted by everybody. Even then, she might use them. And in that case even the peace-at-any-price policy of the British, would prove to be futile.

The Czechs are among the most realistic people in the world. They are passionately quiet patriots, who marched half-way around the world in the last war to fight on the allied side for their national freedom. At that time they took a very long risk. Right in the heart of the German orbit, they joined the allied cause at the moment when it looked weakest. And it is by no means certain whether having waited and worked three hundred years for independence, they will give it up without a fight.

And if Czechoslovakia is turned into another Spain, there will be a great many people who will march more than half-way around the world to defend her cause. Mankind as well as God love those who help themselves.

So, if Britain writes off Czechoslovakia, she has no guaranty of peace, but barbers away arms that she might use.

It may be that Great Britain has written America off her books as any potential source of help in a crisis, but it ought to be put on the record that the Chamberlain policy has brought British stock to an all time low among the people of this country, and that French docility to that policy has had the same effect on the attitude of Americans toward France.

This country has no love for the British empire. We do have affection for certain British institutions which were the parents of many of our own; the same institutions which the British people are still prepared to defend. They are the most powerful bonds that unite the two countries. But I don't think this country would ever fight in any show down for an England sympathetic to Fascism or in alliance with it.

A great many Americans who were in favor of the embargo on arms to Spain, because they believed that Great Britain and France were ready to enforce genuine non-intervention there, feel that we were sold out, and became unwittingly the ally of one side in the civil war.

Of course, there are circles in the United States who, though they might prefer to preserve democracy, proved it can be kept sufficiently antiseptic, are so scared of Communism that they prefer Hitler to Stalin, and like their British brethren, hope that Hitler will eventually "clean up the Bolshevik menace" or that would scurry by, the stationmaster would sing out his rhythmic chant, "All aboard, all aboard. Eastbound train, stopping at Bellefonte, Lewisburg, Harrisburg. . . All aboard. . ."

It could not come too soon for Jackie. She still felt impelled to flee; she still wanted to run away, and keep on running, if only it were possible, as far as she could. She wanted to hide her head, her injury from the world; she wanted to give it to this aching misery, to let it sweep over her, carry her away. She wanted to cry in her mother's arms.

Yes, she could tell Evelyn everything now, knowing that she would understand, knowing that she would give comfort and forgiveness as well. Her mother, who was wise and kind and dear. . .

The rumbling of the approaching train, first a distant, faint murmuring, grew louder and louder, swelling in volume. The platform quivered; the building shook. Jackie picked up her bag and pressed forward with the others, as the train came to a stop. She was about to put her foot on the first step when suddenly someone caught her arm, swung her around swiftly.

"Jackie. . . wait! Oh, I did catch you. . . stop you in time. . ."

It was Beryl Melrose, clutching Jackie's arm, holding her back. A strange Beryl indeed, flushed, hatless, hair wind-blown, dark eyes bright.

"Why did you want to stop me?" Jackie asked. Had something happened to Roger? Had he taken a turn for the worse? But no, she had left him only a short while ago. "You can't stop me, Beryl. Please!" Jackie tried to pull away. People were pushing past, getting on the train. In a minute or two it would pull out again.

"I had to stop you," Beryl said. She still spoke with difficulty, her breath coming in short gasps. "You can't go, Jackie. Not until you listen to me." She still held firmly to Jackie's arm, as though, if necessary, she would detain her by force.

"I've got to go!" Jackie said. Why must Beryl try to stop her now? Beryl had known she had said last night she would leave on this noon train. Beryl had even agreed that would be best. . .

"All aboard! All aboard!"

That was the last call. All of the passengers had boarded the train. If Jackie were to get on it she could not wait another second. She tried once more to pull away.

Beryl only clung to her more firmly. "No, no, Jackie. . . you must listen to me. . . to what I've got to say. . . Then if you still want to go. . ."

But it would be too late then. It was too late now. The train was beginning to puff and steam, the big wheels to turn, slowly, laboriously. The platform quivered beneath their feet; a roaring filled their ears. The train was gone.

"You shouldn't have stopped me," Jackie said. Why hadn't Beryl let her run away? Why must she make it this much harder. . .

"We must go somewhere so that we can talk," Beryl said. Her old poise had come back to her. She linked an arm through Jackie's, picked up her bag in the other hand, led the way back inside the station. The waiting room was deserted now. Beryl sat down on a bench, nodded to Jackie to sit down, too.

"I can't see what there is to talk about," Jackie said. She sat down reluctantly. She did not think that talking could change anything. She resented the fact that Beryl had prevented her from taking the train. "I told you last night I was leaving today," Jackie reminded. "You even said, Beryl, that you thought it would be best. And Roger, when I told him this morning—when I said goodbye—Roger said the same thing."

That should prove to Beryl that talking was in vain; that Jackie should have taken the train. Roger had wanted her to go. Roger had not tried to stop her.

"Yes, I know," Beryl inclined her dark head. "He told me, Roger told me everything you said to him, Jackie. That's why I had to come after you, stop you."

"But you shouldn't have! You shouldn't have let me go!"

"No, I think not. I did say—last night—that it might be best. I didn't want you to have to know the truth, Jackie. Not until you had to. . ."

The truth. . . what was Beryl talking about? Why didn't she say what she meant, what it was—right out? The truth was that Roger loved Beryl, and that Beryl loved him. Talking could not change that—or make it any different.

Perhaps Jackie still would have to put on an act—make believe. "I'm afraid you don't understand, Beryl," Jackie said. "I suppose Roger told you I broke our engagement. But what you don't know is that it never was a real engagement. It was only a sort of trial flight."

Beryl said, almost impatiently, "Yes, I know. Roger told me about that, too."

"He seems to have told you everything," Jackie said. "I still don't see what you mean by 'the truth.' I still don't see why you stopped me, what there is to talk about."

"I think that you should know everything," Beryl said. "Before you break your engagement. The truth, that I spoke of—from which I hoped to spare you, Jackie—is that Roger may never walk again."

COAST GUARDS AID IN SEARCH

Hunt for Body of Junior Tebo Still Without Avail

For the third successive day, the search for the body of Louis Tebo, Jr., believed drowned Sunday in Indian Lake, continued yesterday without avail.

A coast guard crew, consisting of Captain Thornton and two coast guardsmen of the Grand Marais station, joined with a coast guard boat to assist in the search.

Tuesday an airplane, piloted by Walter Arntzen, of Escanaba, accompanied by State Trooper Nels Friberg and several others, scanned the lake for several hours without success. The entire shoreline was easily visible from the air and it was ascertained that the body had not been washed to shore. Visibility in the water was satisfactory in shallow water and in other places where there is a sand bottom, but weed beds and deeper water blocked off visibility the remainder of the lake.

Tuesday night high powered search lights were utilized in an effort to scan the bottom of the lake, but this, too, proved ineffective.

The youth was last seen Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, when he left the shore of Harrison Beach in an outboard motor boat, planning to go to Cal Stevens' resort on Mountain Ash Beach. When he failed to report, a searching party was organized. Monday morning his overturned boat was found some distance off the shore at Harrison Beach Point.

William Barker spent Tuesday evening visiting with Mrs. Barker at St. Francis hospital, Escanaba. Mrs. Barker expects to return home Sunday.

$200,000 Coast Guard Station Here is Likely To Be Built This Year

The construction of a $200,000 United States coast guard station at Manistique became nearer a reality yesterday when Captain A. F. Glaza, of Green Bay, district commander, conferred with city officials regarding the site for the station, and gave assurance that the coast guard service is prepared to go forward with immediate construction plans as soon as the city provides a deed to the property for the site.

The coast guard service desires a site located just within the east breakwater, 1 1/2 foot water frontage and extended back 500 feet. The city now owns only 40 foot frontage at the location but proposes to make a deal with the Girvin Coal and Dock company for an additional 91 foot frontage. The city proposes to acquire this water frontage property in exchange for a larger piece of property now owned by the city extending in the rear of Girvin's present property limits.

Immediate Action

Because the property now owned by the city is classified as park property and consequently cannot be used for any other purpose without a vote of the people, it is proposed to quit claim the deed for this land back to the original owners provided, the original owners in turn, consent to quit claim the property to the government for the portion it needs for the coast guard station and another portion to the Girvin Coal and Dock company.

The coast guard service desires immediate action in acquiring its site and a delay which would result in calling a special election of the people may mean the loss of the station to the city.

Captain Glaza informed local officials yesterday that the coast guard service proposes to spend about $200,000 in constructing and equipping the Manistique station. A crew of 12 men would be assigned to the Manistique station, he reported.

The station itself would be built to accommodate a force of 30 men. Four runways into the water would be constructed from the boat house. In addition to the large building which would house the boats and other equipment, as well as the crew's quarters, a residence for the station commander will be constructed upon the property.

The capital outlay for construction purposes has been estimated at $130,000 and an additional $30,000 of equipment would be provided for the station.

Captain Glaza expressed complete satisfaction with the proposed site, declaring it was particularly ideal because it was located within the breakwater and that the harbor would not be ice locked in the winter. The harbor is kept open all winter by the Ann Arbor carefree.

The funds for the construction of the new station will be made available from the government's new "pump-prime" program. The work will be let by contract, with local labor being used. About 80 days will be needed to make blue-prints of plans and specifications. Approximately six months time will be needed for construction.

COMMISSION IN BUSY SESSION

Consideration of Golf Course as WPA Project

The annual tax levy ordinance, No. 229, calling for total appropriations of $62,425 of which $26,252 is to be raised by taxation, was introduced at a regular commission meeting Tuesday evening. Final action will be taken next Tuesday evening, the meeting being adjourned to that date.

Dr. O. S. Hult and Vincent Johnson appeared before the commission and asked that consideration be given construction of a golf course on the recently acquired winter sports site on the Days River as a WPA project.

Decline of payrolls through loss of industries and depletion of natural resources was cited and it was pointed out that more and more are coming to rely on tourist trade for revenue. The success of other small communities which result from golf courses were pointed to in asking consideration.

A probe of city payrolls to determine if any positions are being held by aliens is to be made and if any instances are found resignations will be asked effective June 1 and the positions filled with bonafide Gladstone residents.

This was requested in a letter from the United Workers Auxiliary signed by Mrs. Frank Schram as chairman and Mrs. James Huff as secretary. The motion on the resolution was offered by Mayor Joseph LaFramboise.

An application of the United Workers for a tavern license was approved by a three to one vote. Commissioners LaFramboise, Ole Peterson and Milton Berg approving while J. A. Sturgeon dissented. Commissioner John Erickson was absent from the meeting.

Bids on the special assessment bonds were opened and the joint bid of the Gladstone State Savings and First National Banks of par with half of one per cent premium was accepted on $5,500 worth of two of the issues. The city bid in the other two issues, one for $1,100, the other for $2,800, at the same terms for the sinking fund.

A motion by Sturgeon to purchase a new chlorinator for treatment of city water was lost when it had no support. Need of the equipment was declared to be shown two weeks ago when the present chlorinators failed to distribute sufficient chlorine to water in the middle section of the city and as a result considerable dysentery prevailed.

Explanation of a recent inspection of the Minneapolis sewer project by a Lansing WPA engineer was given by Sturgeon. According to the engineer the letter requesting the investigation bore the name of Sturgeon. Sturgeon had not written nor authorized the writing of such a letter.

Inquiry at Lansing revealed that the request had been put in by O. K. Fjetland following a talk by Sturgeon with the former Gladstone man now associated with the state WPA office.

An extra policeman is to be put on Saturday nights at the discretion of Chief of Police Kallerson. This was called for in a motion offered by Mayor LaFramboise.

GLADSTONE MAN JUDGED GUILTY

Irving Anderson Tried by Jury in Reckless Driving Case

Irving Anderson, Gladstone, was found guilty of reckless driving in Justice Henry Ranquette's court in a trial by jury. The case dragged on for almost two full days as 9 witnesses were heard for the people and 7 for the defense. The jury trial was requested by Atty. Alger Strom of Gladstone, who represented the defendant, William J. Miller, Delta county prosecutor, represented the people.

Costs of over $60 were incurred in the trial.

Those serving on the jury were John Gauffin, Walter Olson, Tom Kristo, Jacob Bink, Tom Gaborie and Helmer Groop.

The charge of reckless driving was placed against Anderson as the result of an accident on Masonville curve, in which an automobile he was driving collided with another car driven by Dudley Neveu of Masonville and owned by his mother, Mrs. Eva Neveu. The rear end of the Neveu car was damaged in the crash.

According to testimony during the trial, Anderson's car skidded over 50 feet forward and sideways before it crashed into Neveu's auto.

MAYOR URGES COOPERATION

Urges All to Wear Poppies Here Saturday, May 28

Saturday, May 28, was proclaimed "Poppy Day" in Gladstone in a proclamation issued yesterday by Mayor Joseph LaFramboise. The proclamation urged all citizens to honor the World War dead and aid the war's living victims by wearing the American Legion and Auxiliary memorial poppy that day. The proclamation reads:

"Whereas, in the World War of 1917-1918 the young men of Gladstone gave their service to the defense of the United States in an exalted spirit of patriotism and some were called upon to sacrifice their lives in that service; and whereas, many others were called upon to sacrifice health and strength, with resulting suffering and hardships to themselves and families which continue to this day; and whereas, the memory of these patriotic sacrifices should ever be kept fresh in the minds of patriotic citizens, while fullest aid should be extended to those still within the reach of human aid; and whereas, the wearing of the Memorial Poppy both honors the dead and aids the disabled and dependents; therefore, I, Joseph LaFramboise, mayor of the city of Gladstone, do hereby proclaim Saturday, May 28, Poppy Day in the city of Gladstone and urge all citizens to observe the day by wearing the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary Memorial Poppy."

BY FREDERICK GARDNER (Associated Press Financial Writer) New York, May 25 (AP)—Skidding prices for major farm products helped cut the ground from under the stock market today.

Share quotations slipped fractions to more than 2 points, with a few registering wider declines, in extension of a slow retreat from the recent spring recovery.

Traditionally a blessing, bumper crop forecasts in face of industrial stagnation failed to excite traders into a buying mood. On the contrary, a sharp break in wheat at Chicago and further deflation in other key staples seemed to discourage buying of stocks and to quicken the downtrend for industrial shares.

Farm implement, mail order, electrical equipment, chemical, motor and miscellaneous industrial stocks took the main force of the selling.

Fresh war jitters, aroused by news on the Czechoslovak situation, accompanied the fall of commodities, although war threats long have been associated in speculative circles with rising prices for raw materials and foodstuffs.

Reminding the financial district of tension over the central European crisis was a flow of foreign capital into the dollar, evident in a decline in European currencies, particularly the British pound.

May wheat, about to go off the board in Chicago, tumbled about 4 cents a bushel. Corn was off 3/4 to 1 1/8 cents. Hides, copper, and cotton futures were notably weak.

Cotton futures lost 20 to 25 cents a bale. The Associated Press index of 35 key staple prices sank to the lowest since May, 1934.

Accounting for the decline in some stocks and supplementing the drab business picture painted in trade reports were additional dividend omissions and cuts, including such companies as Crucible Steel, Republic Steel, Commercial Solvents, American Bank Note and American Safety Razor.

Union Carbide dropped nearly 3 points to 62 1/8 following the halving of the dividend rate on the stock.

Hopes for a late summer or autumn business pickup were relegated to the background by actual trade reports and apprehension the fall of farm products would cut into rural purchasing power and trade.

Traders were reluctant to step out boldly pending better indication the market was ready to emerge from the recent narrow range. Transactions totaled 555,460 shares against 416,700 yesterday. The Associated Press composite price of 60 stocks was off 5/8 to 3/8.

Most rails and utility shares held better than industrials, despite disappointment expressed in financial circles over the turn of Washington events which apparently ruled out early RFC financial aid for carriers and held out prospect of more WPA funds for power development. House approval of the wage-hour bill seemed to have little effect, having been expected.

Several rails proved vulnerable spots in a sagging bond market.

Ross-Armstrong Bout Booked For Garden Tonight

RAIN MAY HALT OUTDOOR FIGHT

Battlers Are Greatest Ring Has Produced In Last Decade

BY ALAN GOULD
New York, May 25 (AP)—Two of the greatest fighting men, pound for pound, that the ring has produced in at least a decade are primed to settle the first major argument of the 1938 outdoor season.

Unless bad weather beats them to the punch, Barney Ross and Henry Armstrong will give fistic fandom a much-awaited thrill over the 15-round title distance in Madison Square Garden's big wooden saucer in Long Island City, tomorrow night. If it rains, as the official forecaster suspects, the show will go on Friday night.

It's theoretically an unprecedented "handicap match," with Ross defending the 147-pound or world welterweight championship against the dusky young whirlwind who holds the featherweight title, at 126 pounds, but actually the bout is a "natural" in which the disparity in weight has been thoroughly minimized.

Ross is favorite. The agreement between the principals calls for Ross to make 142 pounds and Armstrong no less than 136 on the official scales tomorrow noon. When the pair finished light training today, Ross at a mid-town gym and Armstrong at his Pompton Lakes, N. J., camp, there was no indication either would have difficulty tipping the beam inside the prescribed limitations.

Though somewhat overshadowed by the forthcoming Louis-Schmeling world heavyweight title match and further handicapped, at the box-office, by an erratic spell of weather, the fight figures to draw 25,000 cash customers and gross receipts of $150,000. Promoter Mike Jacobs was optimistic both totals would be exceeded, especially if it warms up and the threat of showers disappears. But top price tickets, at $16.50, haven't been in as big demand as those at $30, for the ringside privileges at the Louis-Schmeling scrap.

Ross, confident, crafty and apparently in first-class condition, rules the seven to five choice to stop the winning streak of the negro who has been blasting his way through the little fellows for nearly two years. Notwithstanding some suspicion he has passed the peak and isn't the dynamic fighter of his days of rivalry with Irish Jimmy McLarnin in 1934-35, Ross has a flock of staunch backers. They figure the Chicagoan, ringwise and a sharp puncher, has the antidote for Armstrong's rushing, windmill style of fist-throwing.

Broadcast Scheduled. They may be right but there are just as many critics who doubt the ability of Ross to survive 15 rounds of the kind of punishment Hemlock Henry usually administers. Armstrong figures to throw three or four punches to every one of his opponent's. The negro's string of 37 consecutive victories, 35 of them by K. O., sounds more impressive than it actually is. But it emphasizes Armstrong's finishing ability and can't be entirely discounted.

Ross may, as some of his handlers assert, elect to stand and slug with the negro, in which case it may not last long. It is more plausible to expect that Barney will exploit cagier tactics. Armstrong knows only one way to fight—move forward and keep punching. So Barney should know what to expect. The big question is whether he knows how to handle it.

The title bout is scheduled for 9 p. m. (E.S.T.) and will be broadcast. The supporting card includes an eight-rounder between Davey Day of Chicago and Norment Quarles, North Carolina lightweight; and two six-rounders, pairing Frankie Blair of Camden, N. J., and Dem Wakerlis of Boston, welterweights; and Young Chapple of Albany, N. Y., and Phil Sirjani, of New York City, featherweights.

Isabella To Play Twice Next Week; Won First Battle
Isabella, Mich., May 25—Flushed with their 11-4 victory over the Cardinals of Nahma last Sunday, members of the Isabella baseball team booked two games for next week.

The boys will play at Ensen Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Tuesday night they will travel to Nahma to meet Sailor Bedard's team.

Gunkel or Gulon will be ready for mound duty for Isabella while Nahma is expected to use Warner. The Nahma game is scheduled to start at 6:45 o'clock.

Reds Score 2 to 1 Victory Over Bees In Eleven Innings
Boston, May 25 (AP)—Behind Deacon Danny MacFayden's seven-hit pitching, the Boston Bees today gained their fourth overtime victory in their current home stand by defeating the Cincinnati Reds, 2-1, in 11 innings.

Score by innings:
Cincinnati 000 000 010—1 7 0
Boston ——— 000 000 011—2 9 0
Derringer and Lombardi; MacFayden and Mueller.

SPILLING the DOPE

The two loudest cries of alibi of beaten baseball teams in small town baseball are "rotter" umpires" and "top-sided balls." So we were not a bit surprised when the Ford Twins of Iron Mountain set up a loud howl about those two vulnerable points after being unexpectedly beaten by the lowly Escanaba team here last Sunday. . . . Hap Willoughby of the Iron Mountain News has this to say of Iron Mountain's objections:

"Ed Kretzler lived up to his nickname, 'The Growler,' when he returned from Escanaba where his Ford Twins lost a heart-breaker of heart-breakers to the Eskymos. . . . Ed was growling about everything in general

GOBER LEAVES IRON MOUNTAIN

Pitching Ace Signs Up With Marshfield; Blow to Twins

Iron Mountain, May 25.—Tony Gober, ace of the Ford Twins' mound staff, leading hurler of the Northern Wisconsin Michigan league and one of the best pitchers ever to perform in this district, checked in his uniform today and prepared to leave tomorrow for Marshfield, Wis., where he will join that city's Central Wisconsin association club which is managed by Faust Ferzacca, former Twins player and coach at Green Bay West high school.

Gober, who has been unable to find employment here, had considered tempting Marshfield offers for several weeks and yesterday accepted one including cash and a steady job. He made his decision while in Marshfield, after he had hurled Ferzacca's team to a 1-0 victory over Mosinee Sunday. He was on leave of absence from the Twins with club approval.

The lanky right-hander, 27 years old and a native of Kenosha, Wis., came here in 1935 to pitch for Kingsford's V-8s in the first N. W. M. league campaign. Almost singlehandedly he hurled the V-8s to the title, winning 14 games and losing four during the regular season and beating Niagara twice in the championship playoff. In 1936 Gober won eight games while losing three during the regular season, and he lost one game to Niagara in the playoff. Last season he won 11 and lost four league games and defeated Crystal Falls once in the playoff.

Off to Big Season. Gober's record was equally brilliant before he came here. With Waterloo, Iowa, in the Mississippi Valley League in 1931, he won 12 and lost 12 games. With Burlington in the same league the next year, he won 15 and lost six games. In 1933 Gober was with Peoria, Ill., in the Three Eye league and won 13 and lost six games. He was with Wisconsin Rapids in the Wisconsin State league in 1934 and won 13 games while losing three.

Thus far this year Gober appears to be on the way to one of his greatest seasons. He won two victories in two N. W. M. league games and has batting average of .571, one of the highest in the circuit. In addition to Sunday's victory for Marshfield, he pitched an early spring game for the Wisconsin team in which he struck out 14 batsmen of the Grand Fords, N. D., Northern league club.

A sharp curve, a good sinker and a nice fast ball are the main pitching weapons that made Gober a terror to N.W.M. league batsmen and brought him an imposing strikeout record. Fine control and steadiness in the pinches, however, played a big part in his success. And he is one of the smartest pitchers to perform in this section.

Gober's departure came as no surprise to the Twins management, who made a desperate effort to keep him, but, failing that, wished him luck at his new post. "We intend to go along with the pitchers we have left," Manager Ed Kretzler said today. "In Howard Veins we have a hurler of proved ability. And we expect our rookie, Ken Jacobson, to come through for us."

Jacobson made his Twins debut at Escanaba Sunday and was forced to retire in the second inning because of wildness. This, however, failed to shake Kretzler's confidence that Jacobson will make good. "It was his first game and he was scared; that's all," asserted Kretzler. "He'll settle down. As for staff, he's got everything."

Both Kretzler and Twins President Harold Jones expressed regret at losing Gober and hope for his success. "He played square with the club and kept us informed of his negotiations," said Jones.

At Marshfield Gober will have another former N.W.M. league player, besides Ferzacca, for a teammate. Al Richards, of Crystal Falls, is catching for Marshfield. Ferzacca plays second base in addition to managing the team.

and trickery of the Escanaba team and partiality of its umpire in particular. . . . The umpire gave us some bad decisions," Ed said, "but we are not kicking so much about that. What made us sore was Escanaba's stunt of slipping their pitcher a soft, top-sided ball to throw when we were at bat. And we, the goofs that we were, didn't catch on until the tenth inning."

We believe we can safely pass off the umpire protest as being just one of those things. . . . as long as baseball is played, an umpire is necessary. . . . and as long as there are umpires, there will be criticism of their work. . . . umpires are only human and, therefore, prone to err occasionally. . . . after watching officials work all kinds of sports for over ten years, it has been our observation that they are inherently honest, and, while they are very few exceptions, call things as they see them. . . . occasionally, we'll admit, they may be incompetent and not know the rules, but that, fortunately, is quite infrequent. . . . so, we'll disregard the umpire angle.

The charge of the non-regulation ball, however, is a horse of a different complexion. . . . not having been present at the game in question, we cannot speak with authority on the subject. . . . but the point is this: If Escanaba used inferior balls in that game, Iron Mountain has a just criticism. . . . and Escanaba should see to it that such a condition is not repeated. . . . the solution is simple for regulation balls cost but a small amount more than the cheap ones and any victory is worth a great deal more than the difference in cost between a good and a poor ball. . . . if, on the other hand, Escanaba did use proper regulation balls, it should pass off Kretzler's criticism lightly as just another alibi.

Hap Willoughby should be given a vote of thanks for calling long attention to Kretzler's complaints. . . . it gives Escanaba a chance to check on itself and, if wrong, to correct itself. . . . such criticism is genuinely appreciated in Escanaba. . . . we recall last year Hap's writing a stinging rebuke of the disreputable appearance of the Escanaba team. . . . what did the team do? . . . it just naturally took stock of itself, found conditions as represented and went out and purchased Detroit Tiger uniforms. . . . this year, Escanaba is one of the most attractive appearing teams in the league. . . . flattery furnishes an opportunity for ruination, criticism for improvement.

RUDY AND HANK TRAMPLE YANKS

Homer Twins Account for All Tiger Runs in 7-3 Decision

Detroit, May 25 (AP)—Those home-run twins, Rudy York and Hank Greenberg, hit a pair of four-baggers a-piece today to account for all the runs as the Tigers trampled the New York Yankees 7 to 3.

It was the Yanks third straight setback, the first time this season the world champions had been humiliated in that fashion.

Greenberg's home runs were his ninth and tenth of the season, giving him the American league lead. York's were his seventh and eighth.

York hit his first in the third with two mates aboard, and was followed by Greenberg's first poke. Rudy's second came with one on in the fifth, and again Greenberg followed with a round-tripper. Three of the homers were hit off Rookie Joe Begg, the Yankee starter.

Gill Goes Route
George Gill went the route for the Tigers and was touched for 12 hits. Five of them were made by Red Rolfe, who connected for a triple and four singles.

Seventeen thousand fans saw the Tigers win their first home engagement with the Yanks. The teams end the two-game series here tomorrow, when Laverne (Schoolboy) Rowe, once master of the New Yorkers, goes to the mound for his third pitching start of the season, still seeking his first victory. Red Ruffing, Yankee right-hander who has won four in a row, will oppose Rowe.

Gill won today by scattering the Yankee hits. New York took the lead in the first inning when Rolfe singled, stole second and went to third on George Tebbetts' wide throw to second, then scored on Joe DiMaggio's single.

With one out in the second, York singled and took third on a double by Greenberg, who had a perfect day at the plate with four hits in four appearances. Next defensive work by Rolfe on grounders by Tebbetts and Gill, however, kept the Tigers scoreless.

Beggs Fouted
They broke loose in the third, however. Walker walked and York hit the first pitch into left field pavilion for his first homer. Greenberg's first circuit blow followed, and the Tigers led 4 to 1. Rolfe's triple in the fifth accounted for the second Yank run, scoring Crossett who had singled. The Tiger sluggers pounded Beggs off the mound in their half of the fifth. With one out, Gehring singled, took second on a passed ball and scored on York's second homer, which hit the upper deck of the left field stands. Manager Joe McCarthy waved Beggs out, and Paul Andrews came in, only to throw a home run ball to Greenberg, after getting one-strike off the big first sacker.

That ended the Detroit-scoring and it was enough, as Gill bore down in the pinches to leave Yankees stranded on base in every inning. The final New York run came in the ninth when Crossett doubled and came home on Rolfe's fifth hit, a single. Henrich also singled, putting two on base with one out, but Gill retired DiMaggio, Gehrig and Dickey to end the game.

One of the greatest collections of trophies in any high school track meet in the country is in very grave danger of needing replenishment following the annual Relay Carnival here next Monday. No less than eight of the 13 trophies offered stand good chances of being won permanently by some school. In order to win a trophy permanently, a school must win the event three times. One of the trophies most likely to go is the Daily Press trophy for the hundred dash. Escanaba and Ironwood have two legs on it and Ironwood is given a good chance of taking permanent possession. Mildren of Ironwood, who won it the past two years and who holds the relay record of :10.2, is back again this year and favored to repeat. His teammate, Di Mario, also has a good chance of copping the event. Escanaba has two sprinters, Outmette and Abrahamson but neither is heavy favorite to win. Ironwood's heaviest competition will come from Johnson of Iron Mountain, Shampine of Munising, LaBrasseur of Nahma and Bourion of Menominee.

Several Relay Trophies In Very Grave Danger

Ironwood and Escanaba also have two legs on the one mile relay with Escanaba having a fairly good chance of winning the I. Stephenson Co. trophy.

Iron Mountain has two legs on the pole vault event but is not likely to do anything this year, not having any vaulter available. Deschaine of Menominee, Barron and Finch of Escanaba and Tromby of Rock have the inside track. The trophy is by Blomstrom and Peterson.

Trenary and Rock River (Eben) have two nicks on the Hansen and Jensen trophy for the class D medley but Rock River, being a class C school, cannot compete. Rock has two votes toward the class C trophy given by Brackets and has a fairly good chance of winning it permanently. Rock, although a class D school this year, will elect to compete in the class C medley event in order to try for permanent possession.

Blues Defeat Reds In Twilight League Golf Opener, 7 to 6

The Soo and Escanaba have an opportunity to cop the class B medley trophy, sponsored by Dr. John Walch. Negaunee won it last year.

Iron Mountain undoubtedly will concentrate on the two mile event, using Nelson, half miler, and Olds, miler, as their mainstays. These two boys are without peers in the peninsula this year. The cup is given by the Delta Hardware.

Ironwood, with its two speedsters, Mildren and Di Mario, stands a good chance of winning the Fair Store trophy in the class B half mile event.

Rock River and Hermansville have two legs on the class D half mile trophy given by the Escanaba National Bank but, both being in class C this year, will have no opportunity to annex the cup.

Other trophies and donors are: 440 yard for class C and D, Cleveland Commercial College; 880 in class C, Lauerman's; and low hurdles, Hoyler's Tea Room.

Larry French Allows But 3 Hits In 7 to 2 Cubs Triumph

Brooklyn, May 25 (AP)—Larry French, the Chicago Cubs' southpaw ace, pitched a three-hitter today to trounce the Dodgers 7 to 2 and win his third straight hurling victory.

In addition to his flinging, he struck the most damaging blow in the ten-hit attack the Cubs fired at Tot Pressnell by doubling with the bases loaded in the eighth inning to send the final three Chicago runs across. Ripper Collins hit his sixth homer of the year in the second inning.

Constipated? You Should Get at the Cause!

Lots of people think they can't be "regular" without frequent trips to the medicine chest. "I just dose up and get it over," they tell you. But doctors know they don't "get it over" at all—until they get at the cause of the trouble!

Chances are it's simple to find the cause if you eat only what most people do—meat, bread, potatoes. "It's likely you don't get enough 'bulk.' And 'bulk' doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If that fits you, your ticket is a crunchy breakfast cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the great intestinal tonic, vitamin B.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and just watch the old world grow brighter!

LEGEND TELLS OF SAND DUNES

Indians Had Explanation for Lake Michigan Nature Oddity

St. Joseph, Mich.—Indian legend tells the story of the origin of the sand dunes of Lake Michigan.

Shortly after the glacier retreated after gouging its way down over Michigan two large turtles, as tall as a ten story building, emerged from the big lake near here. They found the smooth sandy beach much to their liking and ranged from here to New Buffalo in search of food. The swale near New Buffalo was the place they turned around on the south end of their trip and the Grand Mere just below the House of David the "turn table" for the other end.

In due course they mated and buried their eggs in the warm sand to hatch. When they returned they discovered that the nest had been broken into and the eggs eaten by a family of bears. The next nest of eggs they buried under a great mound of sand, the first dune, and then surveying their handwork decided that the pile of sand would certainly lead any marauders right to the eggs. So they built several more decoy mounds.

As time went on their offspring built more and more mounds to hide their eggs and so the dunes from the Indiana line to the Straits came into being. But food became more and more scarce and the turtles, for that reason, became smaller and smaller until now the land turtle is seldom any larger than your hand.

The ancient Indian legend may have some basis of fact for a little more than a hundred years ago, a turtle shell, measuring 14 feet long and 12 feet across, was found near here, and inside the shell the skeleton of a human.

GARDEN NEWS

Garden, Mich.—The school year closed here Friday night with the presentation of diplomas to seven seniors by Supt. F. G. Tebo. Medals were awarded to Mildred Purtil and Van Deloria who were judged the best all around students of the year. Mrs. Josephine Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kauten motored to Flint to attend the funeral of Mr. Coggins, son-in-law of the first mentioned. Mr. and Mrs. Aleck Cooper visited at the Joseph Farley home Friday. A large group of young people accompanied by W. P. A. Recreational leaders Percy Joques and Albert Tatrow drove to Manistique Thursday where the evening was spent at the roller rink.

CUTWORMS ARE BIG NUISANCE

Formula for Poisoning Pests Given By Carl Dietz

Vegetable growers should not be disappointed by setting out a patch of cabbage or tomatoes and on the following day finding many plants cut off at the ground level by cutworms. The ravages of this pest are simple to avoid if precautionary measures are taken, according to Carl F. Dietz, the gardener at the Upper Peninsula Experiment Station. Use should be made of poisoned bran bait such as is advised for grasshoppers except that salt is omitted.

To prepare this bait, mix thoroughly:

Bran, five pounds;
White arsenic (not lead arsenate), four ounces;
Molasses, one pint;
Water, sufficient to moisten.
The bait works best when broadcast in the evening at the rate of 30 to 40 pounds per acre. This would be less than one pound on a garden spot 10 by 10 feet. The mixture should be scattered over the garden several times before planting the crops, Dietz says, in order to prevent injuries when the crops are planted. Bait should also be scattered on the borders of grass surrounding the garden plot. Two or three treatments are usually sufficient to do away with the cutworms.

Cutworms chew off corn, beets, beans, peas, cucumbers, lettuce, onions, tomatoes—in fact almost everything that grows in the garden. They are likely to appear early in the season and should be guarded against as soon as the first cabbage is planted or set out. A paper collar made of stiff

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Tucker entertained 30 of her young friends at a delightful party given in the township hall on Friday afternoon, the occasion being her 13th birthday anniversary. Various games provided amusement until lunch was served.

The table decorations were prettily carried out in a color scheme of pink, yellow and white with a large decorated and candle lighted birthday cake as the center piece. Miss Minnie was the recipient of many lovely gifts from her friends.

Michigan In Washington

By Esther Van Wagoner Tutty
The other night the senior senator from Michigan, Arthur H. Vandenberg sat down to write another relief speech in preparation for the coming deliberations in the Senate on the big relief bill. Just another speech—even he thought—again urging management of federal relief by the states. But he had a bright idea which kept him up until dawn and which he hopes may keep the Democrats up until other dawns to combat.

As he thought about all these "ill-fed, ill-clothed, ill-housed" the relief legislation is designed to aid, he wondered just how grateful they really should be to President Roosevelt.

True, he conceded those five or six million out of the twelve million unemployed should be grateful—and was willing they should express their gratitude in votes—for relief which earns them $52 a month from the Federal Government. But the "unemployables" and the rest of the twelve million employables for whom no work can be found, are cared for by state and local relief at the rate of $22 a month.

So Vandenberg arrives at the conclusion that two-thirds of Roosevelt's "ill-clothed, ill-housed" should not be grateful but furious at such discrimination that sets up a third of them as "economic royalists at $52" while the rest must subsist on $22.

Anticipating that his usual hecklers in the Senate, which include Connally of Texas and Minton of Indiana, will pounce on him for any argument against spending money for the needy, he is arming himself with back-home statistics. Just how many $22 relief people there are on the rolls of Texas and Indiana as compared with those who receive $52, will be hurled at them in response.

"Now, if Vandenberg's idea 'catches on' it will be political dynamite.

One thing may prevent it—and this weakness is foreseen by the Senator—psychologically the adoration to the dole is a very real thing, and any thought of equaling the $22 with the $52 would bring up the unpopular question of a federal dole. Also, it would have the Republicans advocating additional spending.

The Senator has been writing two other speeches not to be given in the Senate: one, at the 75th anniversary celebration at Gettysburg; another, a commencement address at the second oldest college in the United States, Union College, Schenectady, New York.

One of the most distasteful convictions of Senator Vandenberg's is that he must conquer his love for lengthy impressive words without "fireside" appeal. "Lincoln has set him a worthy example," he says, "in the famous Gettysburg speech of 272 words of which only 18 were over two syllables in length."

Senator Vandenberg is fully appreciative of the honor of his selection for Honorary Chancellor at Union College. For years some outstanding man in public life is named for this distinction, including Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, and Bernard Baruch. He also will receive an honorary degree of Doctor of Civil Laws.

RAILROADS WILL HELP
Iron Mountain—Possibility that persons in this district who have tourist rooms, cabins and cottages for rent will receive free advertising in railroad folders was discussed this morning by Don Smith, secretary of the Iron Mountain-Kingsford Chamber of Commerce.

Smith said that Henry Bruemmer, manager of the state highway department tourist information bureau at Menominee, had pointed out that Wisconsin resort owners and other renters are being given much cooperation by the railroads, but little of this nature has been done in Michigan.

Bruemmer, according to Smith, is of the opinion that the railroads will be glad to include advertising from this region in their folders.

ARMING OF MEN IS APPROVED

Conservation Department's Move Given Much Backing

Public reaction to the recent decision of the state conservation commission to arm conservation officers has been most favorable, it was stated here by H. R. Sayre, head of the division of field administration.

Sayre, in company with L. N. Jones, of Marquette, in charge of the upper peninsula division of the conservation department, was here on a routine inspection tour.

Aroused by assaults upon conservation officers, the commission a week ago decided to provide them with sidearms. Special schools will be conducted to give instructions in the use of the weapons and every effort will be made to see that they are handled properly and with judgment.

The arming of the officers is being undertaken only as a measure of self defense. That is the substance of instructions given the officers themselves by their supporters. The commission's action was taken as a means of discouraging such attacks as occurred a short time ago in Mason county when three officers were set upon and beaten by a mob of 15 to 20 men.

Meet Tough Customers

In the resolution, the commission noted that conservation officers frequently are called upon to meet the same type of criminals as the state police deal with, and should therefore be equipped to protect themselves against persons with "murderous inclinations."

Although two officers were shot and killed in the upper peninsula several years ago, another was killed more recently and his body dynamited, and several others have been injured in attacks, few of the officers have made a practice of carrying guns except when anticipating serious trouble.

Fire Protection

Sayre and Jones are paying particular attention on their trip to the fire protection setup. A school to instruct operators in the use of fire equipment is to be conducted May 25 and 26 in Marquette.

Rain may be the wet-blanket on-the-party to Sunday picnickers but it's a bright spot in the life of a forest fire fighter, Sayre said.

Dry, sunny days are ideal for a stroll in the woods, but they may also be encouraging to the break-out of forest fires, especially in the early spring. The fire records show that the kind of weather which gives most people good times has given the forest fire fighters their worst times thus far this spring.

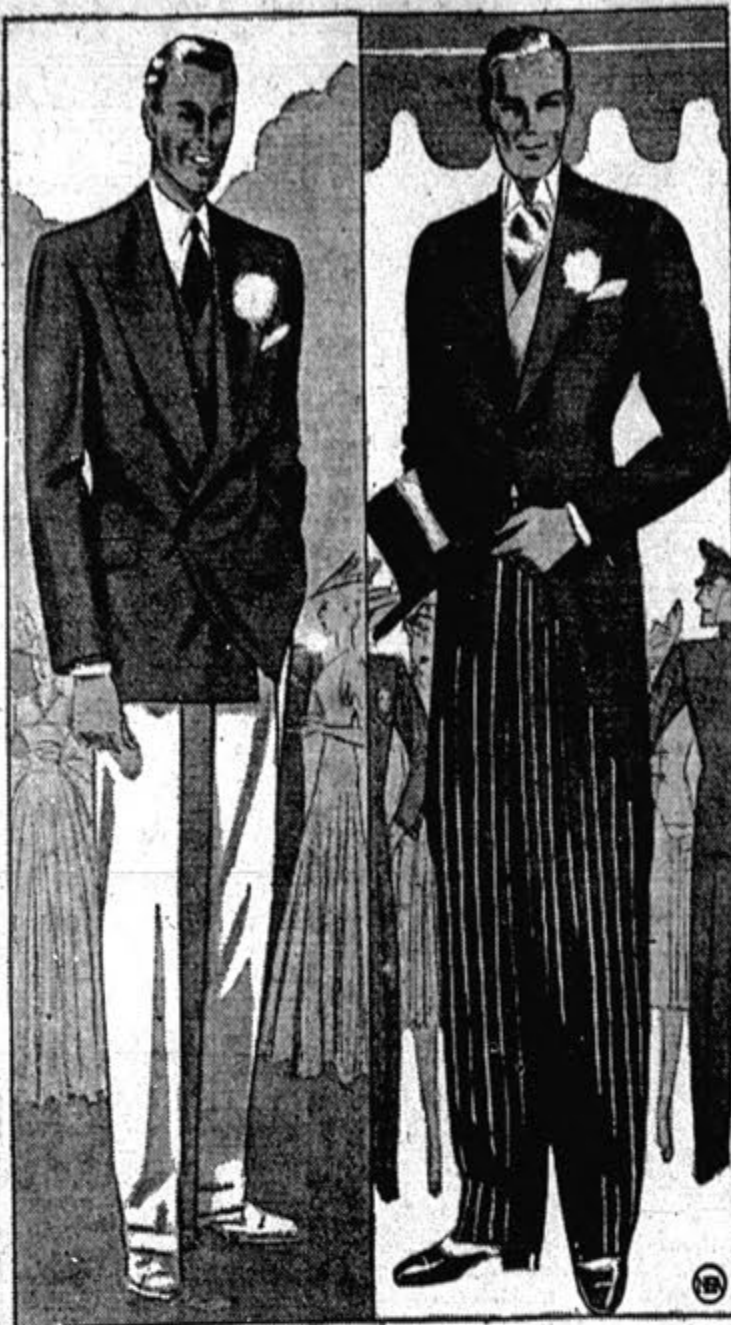

Fires During Pleasant Weather

Following several days of pleasant weather during the first part of April a series of fires occurred, 82 being reported during the second week of the month. Then came rain and the number of fires reported the following week declined to 18. The rains ceased, the wind blew and the fire report for the last week of the month showed an increase to 77. Then more rains and the total for the first week of May dropped to 48.

This direct influence between rainy weather and the forest fire record is pronounced in the early spring before the grassy plains in the fire zones have become green with new growth. The rains during the last two weeks carried most of the fire zone over into that period, thus helping the fire organization through what is frequently one of the most hazardous times of the year.

And because of the rains, what started out with the threat of being a worse fire period than last spring, now shows fewer fires than a year ago at the same time. A total of 225 with a burned acreage of 2,907 was reported up to the second week of this month.

Correct Attire for Bridegroom

Two kinds of June wedding outfits for the masculine half of the affair. Left, a blue-grey flannel jacket in double breasted style, vest of the same material, white flannel trousers and white buck shoes with leather soles. The shirt is starched, the collar turned-down and the four-in-hand dark. This style is reserved for the informal garden wedding. Right, for a formal wedding, an oxford-grey cutaway, striped dark-grey trousers, grey waistcoat, wing-collar and Ascot tie, silk hat, black-calf shoes and spats. (From F. R. Tripler, New York)

BY PAUL ROSS
New York—Any young man approaching marriage who holds quaint ideas about the importance of the male, will quickly learn the truth of the matter when it comes to consider what to wear on the day of days.

Brothers, you can't even choose the kind of necktie you're going to drape around that manly throat until the apple-of-your-eye has first decided what she will wear and the kind of wedding she will have. And when she's made her choice, you absolutely have to don certain things to conform with her selections. There's no alternative, boys.

Should your darling fix on a formal afternoon wedding, you're in for a seige. To accompany her lily-white gown and veil, you have to wear: (1) a silk top hat; (2) a black or an oxford grey cutaway; (3) black or dark grey striped trousers with cuffless bottoms; (4) a waistcoat of the same material as the cutaway to match, or of some grey, buff, tawn or white cloth to provide a note of contrast; (5) starched-front shirt; (6) black calf or patent-leather oxfords.

And there's more to it. Your ushers have to dress the same way but since it's highly desirable that the guests should know you from the other boys, you should wear certain things to show you're the head man. To accompany the starched-front shirt, you might put on a wing-collar and an Ascot tie, while the other lads don turn-down collars and plain neckpieces or striped ones. Since only prime ministers and bridegrooms tend to wear Ascots, everybody will know you're it.

All of you boys should wear gloves. Also spats, if you like the morning and flash into a navy blue, grey or blue-grey flannel jacket with white flannel trousers and white shoes. When the bride wears a suit or street-length dress, you wear a dark business suit. In all cases, the ushers follow your mode of dressing.

When you've assembled the proper clothes for whatever the wife-to-be has determined the occasion shall be, you next consider the matter of gifts for your ushers, a gift for HER and flowers.

A good hunch along the usher-gift line if a box of wedding accessories now being shown in one of the New York stores. It contains gloves, spats, collar and tie. By sending one of these boxes to an usher, you'll be sure he has the kind of accessories you want him to wear. Other gifts could be a tie-clip, a bill fold, key-ring-and-chain, cuff-links, studs or a money-clip.

For the bride's gift, choose something that she can use personally, such as a necklace, travelling-bag, jeweled pin, or some other knick-knack beloved of the famine-line heart.

Send your ushers boutonnières, your mother and her mother their corsage bouquets, and your little lady her bridal bouquet. Keep money on hand to pay the clergyman and tip the sexton.

Beyond that—good luck. A 350-million-year-old monument consisting of a petrified tree stump from the Devonian period, has been erected at Ada, Okla., as a memorial to Dr. David White, noted scientist.

Douglas fir, which stands, botanically, between the pine and spruce, and which often is sold as pine, makes up nearly one-third of the timber stand of the United States.

The largest motor lifeboat in the world was constructed at Cowes, England. It is 61 feet long, has cabin accommodations for 50 to 60 persons, with room for 300 people on deck in calm weather.

On the Galapagos Islands, Darwin found that 75 per cent of the fauna was different from that of the mainland only 600 miles away, and that the species varied from island to island.
